"Celebration of what?" Miss Winslow demanded. "Celebration of that little boy telling her all alone, 'way from Idaho. And we'd celebrate that any other night, wouldn't we? Of course we would. Our paper signing don't call for us to give everybody the cold shoulder as I know of, just because it's Christmas or Christmas eve, either."

"No," Simon owned, "of course it don't. Of course it don't."

As for Abel Ames, he accepted the proposal with an alacrity which he was put to it to conceal.

"So do," he said heartily, "so do. I guess we can go ahead just like it was a plain day of the week, can't we?"

"Hetty," he said to his wife, whom that noon he went through the house to the kitchen expressly to tell, "can you bake up a basket of stuff to take over to Mary Chavah's next Tuesday night?"

She looked up from the loaf she was cutting, the habitual wonder of her childish curved lashes accentuated by her sudden curving of eyebrows.

"Next Tuesday?" she said. "Why, that's Christmas eve!"

Abel explained, saying, "What of that?" and trying to speak indifferently but, in spite of himself, shaming through.

"Well, that's kind of nice to do, ain't it?" she answered.

"My, yes," Abel said emphatically. "It's a thing to do—that's the thing to do."

It was Miss Mortimer Bates, the non-conformist by nature, in whom doubts came nearest to expression.

"I don't know," she said; "it kind of does seem like hogging."

"They ain't anybody for it to seem to," Miss Winslow contended reasonably, "but us. And we understand."

"We was going to do entirely without a Christmas this year. Entirely without," Miss Bates rehearsed.

"Was we going to do entirely without every day, week day, year in and year out milk of human kindness?" Miss Winslow demanded. "Well, then, let's use a little of it, same as we would on a Monday wash day."

No voice was raised in real protest. Nona who had signed the paper and none who had not done so could take exception to this simple way of hospitality to the little stranger with a tag on. And it was the glory of the little town being a little town that they somehow let it be known that every one was expected to look in at Mary's that night. No one was invited. And this was like a part of the midwinter mystery expressing itself unbidden.

Mary alone was not told. She had consistently objected to the Christmas observance for so long that they feared the tyranny of her custom. "She might not let us do it," they said, "but if we all get there she can't help liking it. She would on any other day."

So she alone in Old Trail Town woke that morning before Christmas with so knowledge of this that was afoot. And yet the day was not like any other day, because she lay there dreading it more.

She had cleared out her little sleeping room as she had cleared the lower door. The chamber, with its white plastered walls and boards nearly bare and narrow white bed, had the look of a cell in the first light struggling through the single snow-framed window. Here since her childhood she had lain nightly; here she had brought her thought of Adam Blood and had seen the thought die and had watched with it; here she had lain on the nights after her parents had died; here she had rested, body sick with fatigue, in the years that she had toiled to keep her home. In all that time there had heart throbbed when she saw a light there. Of late when she had waked in the night she had always looked, but always until now the little house had been wrapped in the darkness. Because of that light she could not sleep again, and so presently she rose and in the sharp chill of the room battled and dressed, though what had once been her savage satisfaction in braving the cold had long since become mere undramatic ability to endure it without thinking.

With Mary life and all its constructive riles had won what the sacrificial has never been able to achieve—the soul of the casual of, so to say, second nature, which is last nature and nature triumphant.

While she was at breakfast Miss Abby Winslow came in.

"Mercy!" Miss Winslow said. "Is it breakfast early? I've been up hours, frosting the cakes."

"What cakes?" Mary asked idly.

Miss Winslow flushed dully. "I ain't baked anything much in weeks here," she answered unadvisedly and hurried from the subject.

"The little fellow's coming in on the local, is he?" she said. "You ain't heard anything different?"

"Nothing different," Mary replied. "Yes, of course he's coming. They left there Saturday or I'd have heard. The man he's with is going to get home tonight for Christmas with his folks in the city."

"Going down to meet him, of course, ain't you?" Miss Winslow pursued easily.

"Why, yes," said Mary.

"Well," Miss Winslow mounted her preparation. "I was thinking it would be kind of dark for you to bring him in here all alone. Don't you want I should come over and keep up the lights and be here when you get here?"

She watched Mary in open anxiety. If she were to refuse it would go rather awkwardly. To her delight Mary welcomed with real relief the suggestion.

"I'd be ever so much obliged," she said. "I thought of asking somebody. I'll have a little supper set out for him before I leave."

"Yes, of course," Miss Winslow said, eyes down. "I'll be over about 7," she added. "If the train's on time you will be back here around half past. The children want to go down with you. They can be at Miss Morun's when you go by. You'll walk up from the depot, won't you? You do," she said persuasively. "The little fellow'll be glad to stretch his legs, and I'll give the children a chance to get acquainted."

"I might as well," Mary assented listlessly. "There's no need to hurry home as I know of except keeping you waiting."

"Oh, I don't mind," Miss Winslow told her. "Better come around through town too. It's some farther, but he'll feel as if something was going to happen," she kept saying.

In a little while she leaned toward the window at her head and looked out down the hill toward Jenny's. It was her heart throbbed when she saw a light there. Of late when she had waked in the night she had always looked, but always until now the little house had been wrapped in the darkness. Because of that light she could not sleep again, and so presently she rose and in the sharp chill of the room battled and dressed, though what had once been her savage satisfaction in braving the cold had long since become mere undramatic ability to endure it without thinking.

With Mary life and all its constructive riles had won what the sacrificial has never been able to achieve—the soul of the casual of, so to say, second nature, which is last nature and nature triumphant.

While she was at breakfast Miss Abby Winslow came in.

"Mercy!" Miss Winslow said. "Is it breakfast early? I've been up hours, frosting the cakes."

"What cakes?" Mary asked idly.

Miss Winslow flushed dully. "I ain't baked anything much in weeks here," she answered unadvisedly and hurried from the subject.

"The little fellow's coming in on the local, is he?" she said. "You ain't heard anything different?"

"Nothing different," Mary replied. "Yes, of course he's coming. They left there Saturday or I'd have heard. The man he's with is going to get home tonight for Christmas with his folks in the city."

"Going down to meet him, of course, ain't you?" Miss Winslow pursued easily.

"Why, yes," said Mary.

"Well," Miss Winslow mounted her preparation. "I was thinking it would be kind of dark for you to bring him in here all alone. Don't you want I should come over and keep up the lights and be here when you get here?"

She watched Mary in open anxiety. If she were to refuse it would go rather awkwardly. To her delight Mary welcomed with real relief the suggestion.

"I'd be ever so much obliged," she said. "I thought of asking somebody. I'll have a little supper set out for him before I leave."

"Yes, of course," Miss Winslow said, eyes down. "I'll be over about 7," she added. "If the train's on time you will be back here around half past. The children want to go down with you. They can be at Miss Morun's when you go by. You'll walk up from the depot, won't you? You do," she said persuasively. "The little fellow'll be glad to stretch his legs, and I'll give the children a chance to get acquainted."

NOT TOMORROW---TODAY

RIGHT NOW is the time to begin saving. Today is the day to resolve to pay yourself some amount from your pay envelope each time you receive it.

BY ALL MEANS, have a savings account with this safe, strong bank. Begin with a dollar or any amount you can spare—be determined to save; every week—to add a little more to what you have

THAT is the way to get ahead—to make a start for yourself in life. TODAY—Not Tomorrow.

We Wish You a Happy and Prosperous New Year

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK
John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Batters A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

Watch

BLANCHARD'S BARGAIN COUNTERS

There are many Surprises in store for You

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

A HINT FROM ITALY.

DINNER MENU.
Cream of Celery Soup.
Potato Puff.
String Bean Salad.
Mutton with Macaroni.
Compote of Apples.

THE Italian cook macaroni with meat, an innovation to the average American housewife. One way of thus using it is suggested here.

Potato Puff.—Take boiled potatoes and press through a masher. To each cupful of the potatoes take a tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth of a cupful of milk and the beaten yolk of one egg. Season with salt and pepper, mix well and fold in the beaten white of the egg. Bake in individual dishes.

Served With French Dressing.

String Bean Salad.—Take a quart of a peck of string beans, wash and string them, split the long way and put on in boiling water and boil until tender. Drain and blanch with cold water and put in cold place. Marinate a cupful of finely cut onion with two tablespoonfuls of olive oil. If the family likes raw onion mix with the beans, but if not spread over one-half or three-fourths of the beans. Line the salad bowl with lettuce, place on the beans and sprinkle with a teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper; then spread on the onion over one-half of three-fourths; cover with French dressing.

With Cold Mutton.

Mutton With Macaroni.—Cut some slices of cold mutton about half an inch thick, wrap them each in a piece of white paper well buttered and grill them over a clear fire. Then remove the papers as quickly as possible and place the meat in the center of a hot dish, arranging all round it some macaroni prepared as follows:

Chop up finely half an onion and fry it a golden color in an ounce of butter; then add half a teaspoonful of stock and double that quantity of tomato pulp or conserve, with pepper and salt to taste. Bring to boiling point and add half a pound of small pipe macaroni which has just been cooked to fast boiling salted water and well drained on a sieve. Stir all gently together over the fire.

A Simple Sweet.

Compote of Apples.—Cut in halves as many apples as will be required, remove the cores and in the holes put a little mince-meat or preserve. Sprinkle a clean baking pan with sugar, lay the halves of apples in, sprinkle over a very little powdered cinnamon and grated lemon peel and some more sugar. Then let them stew until they are sufficiently done and serve very hot. The sugar should be brown and turned to caramel.

(Continued on page 6.)

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DAJOIS & USHER, Proprietors
 A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
 Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
 One copy, one year..... $1.50
 One copy, six months..... .75
 One copy, three months..... .40

Advertising Rates.
 For advertising rates apply for schedule.
 Notices of church or lodge socials and
 entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates.
 Obituary poetry, regular rates.
 Card of thanks, 2 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

THERE are two cities in Germany working overtime. One is making guns and the other iron crosses.

A LONDON despatch reports that Petrograd has no water. The dirty bunch!

Now that you have had a Merry Christmas, have a Happy New Year.

THE new year is to be one of prosperity. Push it along.

The Saint Mary's Literary Society wishes to announce that it will hold a public pedro party at St. Mary's school Thursday evening, January 7th. Admission, 25c. per couple. Refreshments. Adv. 6212

DAIRY WISDOM.

Don't allow a cow to skip a milking. The retention of large quantities of milk in the udder until the next milking period is very injurious.

The cow pays for her board every day if she is the right kind. And the up to date dairyman doesn't care to keep any but the right kind.

In drying cows never hurry them when their udders are full of milk or when they are heavy in calf, for they may be seriously injured.

One of the best remedies for scours is raw eggs administered in considerable numbers. Dried blood or blood meal is effective also in many cases.

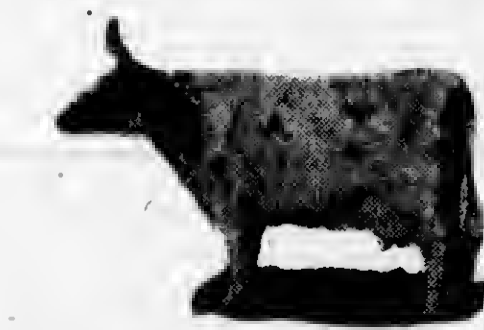

Not the least important by any means of the dairyman's duties is the successful raising of better calves which are to make the future milk cows.

PURE BRED VERSUS SCRUB DAIRY COWS

At a recent farm picnic held on the farm of C. W. Sherburne at Leroy, Ind., two cows were shown around which grouped the principal interest of the occasion, says Hoard's Dairyman. The cows were a pure bred Holstein, Dorothy Grimsby DeKol, and a grade Shorthorn cow, Bridget.

The farmers were called together to take in the lesson given by these two cows in their work for one year in the Leroy Cow Testing association. The difference between them was very great. The Holstein cow had given in the year's record to the association 17,200 pounds of milk containing 480 pounds of butter fat; the Shorthorn cow gave 2,672 pounds of milk containing 118 pounds of fat.

Mr. Sherburne wanted to get his neighbor farmers together so as to consider, as sensible men, the difference in profits to the farm between working a whole year for a good dairy cow of specific dairy breeding or working just as hard and just as faithful for a cow of the mixed dual purpose breeding. When he came to set forth the profits of the two cows, the contrast was still more impressive. Their milk was sent to the Chicago market at wholesale rates. The Holstein cow earned a total of $308.39. Her feed for the year cost $97.50, leaving a profit over feed consumed of $210.89. The

The Ayrshire cow of today is a cow of medium size, weighing from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds; the bulls from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds. The Ayrshire is a rather nervous cow and will use those nerves to support herself. They are always active in walking, eating and chewing their cud, showing a nervous energy that should go well toward making milk. The best record for Ayrshires in this country is 23,022 pounds of milk and 1,080 pounds of butter. The cow shown is Kiloford Bell III, grand champion Ayrshire at Waukegan, Minnesota and Iowa state fairs this year.

Shorthorn cow's milk brought $45.75, her feed cost $12.75, leaving a profit of $13.00

Now, think of the thousands of farmers who are contented—yes, that's the word for it, real contented—to slave away year after year for just such cows as the Shorthorn represents. There is only one thing that will help them out of the deep rut they are in. That is a change of mind—a change of ideas. If they would read; if they would put themselves, like those Indiana farmers, where they could see truth about cows as it is; if they would take hold of a cow testing association—all that would lift them up very soon to where they could see things as they really ought to exist. But there is little hope for a man as long as he sticks to the poor, unprofitable cow. He will drag him down to her level.

A Leading Question.
 Do you know what it costs you to keep your cows? Perhaps you are like one farmer who said he would have to keep cows anyhow, as he had to have something to eat up his feed. He apparently did not care whether the cows which ate the feed returned a profit or not, or, in other words, whether he milked a cow a year for five or for $50—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

The Fall Born Calf.
 Do not fail to give the calf born this fall a good start in life. Almost invariably the fall born calf will be stronger and heavier at the same age than the calf born in the spring. The fall calf needs a little grain just as soon as he will eat it. He will be a much better calf by spring too.

Watch the Silo Hoops.
 The hoops of a wooden silo should be kept drawn snugly around it. After the silo is filled and there are no indications of the silage swelling and making the hoops too tight it is well to loosen them a little.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TOMATO ECONOMY.
 TOMATOES may be put up in many ways for winter use. They make delicious sweets and are equally nice canned for use as vegetables.

Some Delicious Sweets.
 Tomato Butter.—Take ten pounds of skinned tomatoes, four pounds of granulated sugar, three pounds of apples, one quart of vinegar, one-half ounce of stick cinnamon, one-half ounce of ginger, one-fourth ounce of mace, one-fourth ounce of whole cloves. Tie the spices in a bag, put all the ingredients on together and boil three hours, stirring constantly.

Green Tomato Preserve.—Take ten pounds of green tomatoes, add eight pounds of sugar, six lemons and a small box of preserved ginger. Put in the preserving kettle. Have tomatoes and lemons sliced thin. Pick out all the tomato seeds, as they will make it bitter. Do not peel lemons. Add a little water, one cupful or less. Put in ginger. Let this boil a little while; then add sugar. Let it boil slowly on back of range until sirup is thick. If you do not have the preserved ginger handy put in a small handful of dry ginger root. Stir often with a wooden spoon.

Timely Canning Hints.
 Tomatoes Canned Whole.—Use medium sized tomatoes, good solid ones, put them in a wire basket, plunge them into boiling hot water, remove the skins and arrange them in wide mouthed jars. Fill the jars with cold water, adjust the rubbers, lay on the covers, stand the jars in a wash boiler, cover the boiler, bring water to boil and boil for ten minutes. Screw on tops, boil five minutes longer and they will taste like fresh tomatoes when used in the winter.

Canned Tomatoes.—Wash tomatoes, plunge into boiling water for five minutes and the skin will slip off without trouble. Slice into an asbestos mat over the fire. Heat slowly to the boiling point, stirring frequently. Have the jars thoroughly sterilized and with fresh rubbers and close fitting tops. Fill with the scalding tomatoes, which have been allowed to cook steadily half an hour from the time they began to boil; then seal.

Anna Thompson.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY, WEALTHY AND WISE.

Don't fail to think out your expenditures and to keep beside the fruit you fix.

Don't be ashamed to save pennies; otherwise you are "easy prey."

Don't add to delivery expenses by ordering at the last moment. Keep ahead of actual needs.

Don't buy vegetables out of season and expect low prices.

Don't think expenditures need to be capricious. One can be a spendthrift with a dollar as well as with large sums.

Don't let false pride cost you money. There is no happiness in it.

Don't feel too sure you are getting the most possible out of your expenditures. Learn what "hard pan" really is.

Don't forget that peace of mind is better than things you can't afford.

Don't forget, either, that you always can afford courtesy, kindness and a smile.

LEVINSON'S JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE Commencing Saturday, January 2nd, and will Close Saturday, January 9th

Sweeping price reductions have been made in every department. Come prepared for the greatest bargains ever offered—and you will not be disappointed. Below are a few of the many bargains.

Ladies' Coats If prices are any inducement to buy a Ladies' Coat, you cannot afford to pass this opportunity. Any $25 coat $15.00 Any $20 coat 12.00 Any $15 coat 9.00 Any $12 coat 7.00 Ladies' Skirts The newest styles in Ladies' skirts black and navy blue, regular $6.00 values will be sold at..... $3.98 House Dresses Ladies' house dresses $1.50 values. Clearance sale price 98c Children's Coats To close out the balance of Children's coats, sizes 5 to 8, regular $5.00 values. Price: $2.98 Thread We will sell thread at this sale per spool..... 4c Outing Flannel Heavy weight outing flannel 12½c grade in all colors. Clearance sale price..... 8½c Calico During our Clearance sale we will sell the best grade calico, 7c quality at..... 5c Sateen Petticoats Ladies' soft finish petticoats $1.50 values. sale price..... 98c Silkoline 12½c grade Silkoline variety patterns to be sold at..... 8½c Blankets Large size Blankets in white, grey and tan 58c 1½ Blankets in white, tan or grey, extra value, large size..... 98c Wool-nap Blankets, $2.50 grade, price..... $1.80 1½ Blankets, all colors, 72x80..... $1.39	Underwear Men's heavy fleeced underwear, 50c values 39c Men's all-wool underwear, $1.00 values, at 80c Children's heavy fleeced underwear at 10c Ladies' heavy fleeced union suits $1 grade..... 80c Boy's heavy weight union suits, at..... 39c Shirts Men's Wool Flannel Overshirts, $1.50 value 98c Monarch Shirts, $1.00 values, at..... 80c Cluett Shirts, $1.50 values, at..... $1.20 Entire stock of Neckwear, 50c values at..... 39c Silks and Satins $1.25 yard wide Taffeta Silk, during sale, per yard..... 98c Messaline Silks, per yard..... 79c $1.00 Fancy Silk, sale price..... 79c $1.50 Skinner's Satin, yard wide, in all of the best colors, guaranteed two season's wear, or garment will be re-lined without charge, sale price..... $1.20 $1.00 Belding Bros., yard wide Satin, very best grade for the money, procurable in all the best shades, sale price..... 70c $1.50 Crepe Silks at..... $1.10 Furs closed out at One-half price Stockings Heavy weight fleeced stockings 9c for children all sizes..... 9c Ladies' wool stockings 25c grade. Clearance sale price 19c Hand knit all wool stockings for boys and girls, the best 50c stockings made. Clearance sale 39c Corsets $1.00 American Lady Corsets 79c at..... $1.50 R. & G. Corsets $1.19 at..... Men's Suits We offer the well known brand of Hart Schaffner & Marx suits at remarkably low prices. $20 suit at $22 suit at $25 suit at $13.98 $14.98 $16.98	Men's Overcoats Any of our $15 and $16.50 overcoats to be sold at $8.98 Boys' Overcoats To close out what we have on hand regular $5 overcoats, size 4 to 9. Clearance sale price $2.98 at..... Boys' Suits Blue serge Norfolk Suits $6 values, to be sold at $3.98 Sweaters Men's shawl collar sweaters, grey and maroon to close out $5 value at..... $2.98 Children's sweaters in grey, white or red, regular $1 sweaters will be sold at..... 89c Ladies' $5 and $6 sweaters a large assortment of styles, to be closed out at..... $3.98 Men's $1.50 Sweaters, grey, brown and red, good heavy weight shawl collar at..... 98c Men's All-wool Sweaters, $3.00 and $3.50 values, sale price..... $1.98 Men's Spaulding Sweaters, $8.00 value, sale price..... $6.78 Table Linen $1.25 very best grade linen, 2 yards wide. Price per yard 98c Dress Goods $1.25 grade of dress goods in serge, whipcord, panama, voile, broadcloth, novelty goods, to be sold at, per yard..... 98c Ladies' Waists Ladies' Shirt Waists $1.00 grade, new styles. Clearance sale price..... 69c The very latest Silk Waists, just arrived, a bargain at $1.50. Clearance sale price at..... 98c All other waists will be sold at the same reductions.
---	---	---

M. A. Levinson

VanPelt Block Charlevoix

GOOD HUMOR.
 Laughter has sunshine in it. What sunshine is to earth good humor is to man. Take the smile and the laugh away and it would be the end of man. Men can't fight while they enjoy a joke. Death itself recoils from the laugh. The man in a good humor has an enormous advantage over the man who is angry. Good humor, with the smile and the laugh, is sunshine in which objects are plain and distortion disappears and wherein phantoms become nothing.

Lightning and Thunder.
 Don't be alarmed at a terrific thunder clap following a lightning flash after an interval of two seconds or more. The sound, which is caused by heating and sudden expansion of the air by the great electric spark, is comparatively slow, traveling only at the rate of a mile in five seconds, while the flash is instantaneous. Therefore when two seconds or more elapse the storm is still at a safe distance of half a mile or so. But if the interval between the flash and the sound is only a second or less the electrical disturbance is close at hand and any prominent up-standing object in your immediate vicinity is liable to be struck.—New York World

Until January 7th
 We will sell with every $3.00 Cash Purchase in any department, 5 lbs Granulated Sugar for 22c.

Ladies' Coats from $10 to $18.50 sale price $5.00

Children's Coats, size 12 to 15 years $6 to $12, sale price $4.00

Children's Coats, size 8 to 10 years $4 to $10, sale price $3.00

Mason's Dep'tment Store

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

The Courier wishes you one and all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Miss Ida Levinson spent Christmas visiting friends in East Jordan.

Emery Nyman of Detroit spent Saturday in the city, visiting friends.

Miss Schebert of Petoskey was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Miss Ivy Smith has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Nelle Smith of East Jordan.

Borp, to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Brower, Monday, December 28th, a nine-pound boy.

O. Simon of Antrim City was a business visitor in the city Thursday and Friday.

Zona Adams spent Sunday in Petoskey at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Nyman.

Henry Wood was in Chicago last week on an extended business and a pleasure trip.

Mrs. John Mills of Traverse City spent Christmas Day visiting friends in Charlevoix.

Clare and Clyde Coulter spent Christmas in East Jordan, visiting their grandmother.

The Charlevoix life-saving station will close this year at twelve o'clock, December 31st.

Seth Smith of Petoskey spent Christmas Day in the city as the guest of Miss Marion Swartz.

Earl Preston and Don King of Petoskey spent Friday and Saturday visiting friends in Charlevoix.

Miss Mildred Kaufman spent Christmas with friends in East Jordan, returning home Saturday.

Mrs. Kate Walsh of East Jordan is spending the holidays as the guest of S. Orlovski and family.

Went Smith of Detroit arrived in the city Wednesday to spend a few days visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. P. L. Anderson of Petoskey spent Christmas in the city visiting her daughter, Mrs. Leon F. Brower.

Alfred Bergman of East Jordan spent Christmas in the city, visiting his brother, Fred Bergman, and family.

Oluf Nordrum returned home Sunday from Cheboygan, where he had been spending a few days on business.

Miss Margaret Dithfisen of Petoskey is spending a few days visiting at the home of her uncle, Oluf Nordrum.

Earl Young left last Thursday for Detroit, where he will spend the holidays visiting friends and relatives.

Otto Hines, returned Thursday from Port Orange, Florida, where he has been spending the past few months.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Burnett of Harbor Springs spent Christmas in the city visiting Mr. Burnett's father and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jacobs and son, Kenneth, spent Christmas in Petoskey, visiting their daughter, Mrs. Glen Ellis.

Levi Hebert and Viola Williams, both of this city, were quietly married by Justice of Peace Felts Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Geiken of Pellston spent Christmas as the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Geiken.

Lawrence Ackert left Monday morning for Toledo after spending Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ackert, Sr.

Miss Mary O'Leary returned from Traverse City Friday to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O'Leary.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Warren spent Friday in Petoskey attending a Christmas reunion held at the home of Mr. Warren's parents.

Miss Mary Kirchner of Saginaw arrived in the city Saturday to spend a few days as a guest at the home of Henry Cooper.

Mrs. John Ackert, Jr., returned home Saturday after spending a week in Petoskey visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Seeley.

Lafayette Carey arrived home Thursday from West Branch to spend the holidays visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carey.

Mr. and Mrs. John Plank of Traverse City are spending the holidays as the guests of Mrs. Plank's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Francis.

Mrs. Clark Herringshaw returned to her home in Chicago Saturday, after spending Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Felts.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Rice of Elberta, Michigan, formerly of this locality, have returned and are making their home with Mr. and Mrs. Clara Dodd.

Mrs. Harry Nicholls entertained a number of young people at her home Sunday evening. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present.

The Shakespeare Study Club met with Mrs. R. B. Armstrong Monday afternoon. After the regular study lesson, Miss Helen Armstrong entertained the guests with poetic dancing. Light refreshments were served and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by all present.

The Majestic will have a special program for New Year's Day, both matinee and evening. "The Spoilers," by Rex Beach, is the attraction and deserves a full house.

Geoff VonPlaten, the well-known Boyne City lumberman, made Christmas a happy event for the inmates of the county poor farm by presenting them with seven fine easy chairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Rice entertained the following Christmas guests: Mrs. M. A. Phillips, Clara Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Beattie and children, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dodd and children.

Leester Taggart arrived Thursday from Richmond, Indiana, where he is attending Earlham College, and will remain for the holidays, visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Taggart.

Evers A. Nordrum, manager of the Detroit branch of the Booth Fisheries Company, returned to Detroit Tuesday after spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oluf Nordrum.

Alexander Bozulski of East Jordan imbibed too freely of "booziliski" while celebrating Christmas and received a sentence of twenty days in the county bastille. Sheriff Robbins brought him over Tuesday.

Fire partially destroyed the house occupied by the Thorp family on West Upright avenue last Thursday. The blaze started from the stove, in which dry cedar was being burned. The loss, however, will be small.

Mrs. Jane Moore, for over 40 years a resident of Charlevoix county, died last week at the county poor farm. The remains were brought to this city Tuesday, short services held at the Methodist church. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

The Charlevoix Courier last week consisted of 16 pages filled with well-displayed advertising and up-to-date features. The Courier is certainly living up to its motto, "The best paper in the best little town anywhere."

Antrim News.

When women rule.

"Mrs. President wishes her to accept a high place."

"Where?"

"On the board of complexion. But she refuses to accept."

"Why?"

"A number of senators want to ask her a few questions about her own."—Pittsburgh Post.

I will close out my stock of Fur Coats, Sheep-Lined Coats and Mackinaws at cost prices—Benj. Brown.

Adv. 62tf

LIVE STOCK HUSBANDRY

MANAGEMENT OF SWINE.

Individual Hog Houses Excellent For Farrowing Sows.

Success with swine is only attained by good management and good feed.

writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. I keep my herd built up by using and keeping the best old sows and boars. Of course we cannot keep the same sows all the time. Two litters a year are raised from part of the sows, keeping the fall litter or select ing from them the best ones for future brood sows. None are kept except those that have a good head and ear, good heart girth and deep, long body, well arched back and stand up well on the feet.

The boars are kept in pastures away from the sows. They have a range of sixty acres of bluegrass, clover and timothy pasture. I feed them such food as is raised on the farm—ground

OUR FEARS.

It is not what a thing is, but what we think it is, that frightens us. A man walks within an inch of death without knowing it and therefore without trembling, and then his hair stands on end at some empty, harmless noise.

Norwood Taxpayers.

I will be at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank on Saturday, January 2nd, to collect taxes.

52tl Joseph Sprick.

SHELTER FOR COLTS.

Young Animals Need Warm Quarters During the First Winter.

Now that cool, frosty nights are here again a good shelter should be provided for the young colts at night, letting them out again in the morning.

says the American Agriculturist. A colt's first winter is a crucial period, and it should receive proper attention.

The future value of the animal depends largely on how it gets through the winter. No matter how well the colt may be cared for after the first winter, it will never get over it, if not properly cared for during the cold months. Cold weather will cause the colt to lose flesh, if left out of doors, so it is necessary that it should be put in a warm stable every night and much of the time during the days. It is not necessary to have an expensive barn, but the stalls should be light, warm and dry, with plenty of ventilation. The stalls and feed boxes should always be kept clean. Plenty of dry bedding should be provided, as the floors are always cold during the winter. Unless the stalls are an exceptionally warm one, the young colt should be blanketed during the extreme cold weather. A colt that has no better protection from the wind and snow than an open shed or the sheltered side of the straw stack, usually looks pretty shaggy by spring. With the demand for horses going up on account of the European war, it behooves every farmer to take the best possible care of his colts.

Hayes Taxpayers.

I will be at the Charlevoix County Bank on Friday, January 8th, for the collection of taxes.

Oscar S. Tillotson,

Treasurer of Hayes Township.

Adv. 62tl

J. L. CRANE

Commencing Our JANUARY Clearing Sales

The Most Extraordinary Prices we Have Ever Offered on WOMEN'S AND MISSES' COATS

$27.50
$25.00
$22.50
$22.00

COATS
AT $10.00

SEE WINDOW DISPLAY

The best styles the market affords in "Wooltex" and other standard makes--made of the finest of materials, and offered to you at the most extraordinary price ever placed on this class of Garments.

OTHER GRADES AS LOW AS - $2.95

LIVE STOCK HUSBANDRY

MANAGEMENT OF SWINE.

Individual Hog Houses Excellent For Farrowing Sows.

Success with swine is only attained by good management and good feed.

writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. I keep my herd built up by using and keeping the best old sows and boars. Of course we cannot keep the same sows all the time. Two litters a year are raised from part of the sows, keeping the fall litter or select ing from them the best ones for future brood sows. None are kept except those that have a good head and ear, good heart girth and deep, long body, well arched back and stand up well on the feet.

The boars are kept in pastures away from the sows. They have a range of sixty acres of bluegrass, clover and timothy pasture. I feed them such food as is raised on the farm—ground

OUR FEARS.

It is not what a thing is, but what we think it is, that frightens us. A man walks within an inch of death without knowing it and therefore without trembling, and then his hair stands on end at some empty, harmless noise.

Norwood Taxpayers.

I will be at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank on Saturday, January 2nd, to collect taxes.

52tl Joseph Sprick.

SHELTER FOR COLTS.

Young Animals Need Warm Quarters During the First Winter.

Now that cool, frosty nights are here again a good shelter should be provided for the young colts at night, letting them out again in the morning.

says the American Agriculturist. A colt's first winter is a crucial period, and it should receive proper attention.

The future value of the animal depends largely on how it gets through the winter. No matter how well the colt may be cared for after the first winter, it will never get over it, if not properly cared for during the cold months. Cold weather will cause the colt to lose flesh, if left out of doors, so it is necessary that it should be put in a warm stable every night and much of the time during the days. It is not necessary to have an expensive barn, but the stalls should be light, warm and dry, with plenty of ventilation. The stalls and feed boxes should always be kept clean. Plenty of dry bedding should be provided, as the floors are always cold during the winter. Unless the stalls are an exceptionally warm one, the young colt should be blanketed during the extreme cold weather. A colt that has no better protection from the wind and snow than an open shed or the sheltered side of the straw stack, usually looks pretty shaggy by spring. With the demand for horses going up on account of the European war, it behooves every farmer to take the best possible care of his colts.

Hayes Taxpayers.

I will be at the Charlevoix County Bank on Friday, January 8th, for the collection of taxes.

Oscar S. Tillotson,

Treasurer of Hayes Township.

Adv. 62tl

cots, wheat, with tankage and a little oil meal added. I do not feed much corn. This makes them strong and vigorous. At breeding time a record of every sow bred is kept so as to tell when she will farrow. In cold weather I am with her to care for the pigs by putting them in a basket in which is a jug of hot water, which soon dries them off. They will come out fighting for their first dinner.

The individual hog house beats all others in cold weather. This type can easily be warmed by hanging a lamp from a small oil stove in it. After Cottonseed as a Hog Feed.

Hog men in general leave out of consideration cottonseed meal as a concentrated feed for hogs. Meat meal or tankage, which supplies digestible protein in much larger quantities than cottonseed meal, can be used profitably in balancing the ration of the hog, and this concentrate is being almost universally used by hog men who are studying how best to get the largest returns from the grain they feed.—Kansas Farmer.

Piggery Sanitation.

The sanitation of the piggery should be regarded as carefully as the sanitation of a hospital. Damp and ill ventilated sleeping quarters are fatal to pigs, and unless the owner will see to it that hogs always have a dry and well ventilated place to sleep he had much better keep out of the business.

Green Food For Poultry.

Don't forget to lay up a stock of green food for your fowls during the coming winter. Cabbage, beets, mangels, small potatoes, all are good, so also is alfalfa or clover, especially the leaves. These, when sealed, with an addition of corn chop, make an ideal winter feed for the fowls.

How to Make a Cheesecloth Bath Bag.

The bath bag made of cheesecloth is put on with shaved white soap, emulsified in hot water, and then the bath is taken. The bag is like a washcloth, and it will be found most refreshing to the skin.

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

WANTED—Girl for general housework. No washing. Family of two. Inquire at Courier office. 52tl

FOUND—On Bridge street, pair steel-bow spectacles. Owner can have same by identifying same and paying for this notice. Inquire at this office. 52tl farrowing I feed the same kind of feed as the sow has been used to get used to, but not so much or as rich a feed. As soon as the pigs get old enough to eat I make a place for them where they can eat by themselves, giving them some milk at first to get them started, adding a little shorts as they get older. I have been raising big type Polanders for several years and have had very good results.

Cottonseed as a Hog Feed.

Hog men in general leave out of consideration cottonseed meal as a concentrated feed for hogs. Meat meal or tankage, which supplies digestible protein in much larger quantities than cottonseed meal, can be used profitably in balancing the ration of the hog, and this concentrate is being almost universally used by hog men who are studying how best to get the largest returns from the grain they feed.—Kansas Farmer.

Piggery Sanitation.

The sanitation of the piggery should be regarded as carefully as the sanitation of a hospital. Damp and ill ventilated sleeping quarters are fatal to pigs, and unless the owner will see to it that hogs always have a dry and well ventilated place to sleep he had much better keep out of the business.

Green Food For Poultry.

Don't forget to lay up a stock of green food for your fowls during the coming winter. Cabbage, beets, mangels, small potatoes, all are good, so also is alfalfa or clover, especially the leaves. These, when sealed, with an addition of corn chop, make an ideal winter feed for the fowls.

How to Make a Cheesecloth Bath Bag.

The bath bag made of cheesecloth is put on with shaved white soap, emulsified in hot water, and then the bath is taken. The bag is like a washcloth, and it will be found most refreshing to the skin.

The Spoilers Jan. 1st

BY REX BEACH

Majestic Theatre
Matinee and Night

8 REELS OF PICTURES 8
Prices 15 and 25c 8

Magnificent scenic production of world-famous story by the well-known author, Rex Beach.

The Majestic Theatre

Wishes You All

A Happy New Year

Our Baked Goods

Will prove a great help to you during the Holiday season. Let us do your baking. Place your orders with us and see how well we can take care of them for you. It will save you a lot of work. Order anything you want and let us do the rest.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

Christmas

A Story

By Zona Gale

Copyright, 1912, by the McClure Publications, Incorporated.
Copyright, 1912, by the Macmillan Company.

(Continued from page 3.)

Like the lights. What's the little chap's name?" she asked. "I dunno, I've heard you say."

"Mary flushed faintly. "Do you know," she said. "I don't know his name. I can't remember that little fellow told me. They always called him just Yes, because he learned to say that first."

"Yes," repeated Mrs. Winslow blankly. "Why, it don't sound to me real human."

CHAPTER XII

Arrival.

LATER in the day Mrs. Mortimer Bates and Mrs. Moran came in to see Mary. Both were hurried and tired, and occasionally one of them slipped into some mental calculation. "We must remember something for the middle of the table," Mrs. Bates observed to Mrs. Moran under cover of Mary's putting wood in the stove. And when Mary related the breaking of the bracket lamp the two other women telegraphed to each other a glance of memorandum.

"Don't it seem funny to you to have Christmas coming on tomorrow and no hurry about it?" Mary asked.

"No hurry?" Mrs. Bates burst out. "Oh, well," she amended, "of course this Christmas does feel a little funny to all of us. Don't you think so, Mrs. Moran?"

"I dunno," said Mary thoughtfully, "but what, when folks stop chasing after Christmas and driving it before them, Christmas may turn around and come to find them."

"Mebbe so," Mrs. Moran said, with bright eyes. "Mrs. Moran said, Mary, she added, "ain't it nice he's coming?"

Mary looked at them, frowning a little. "It seemed like the thing had to happen," she said. "It'll fit itself in."

Before dark she took a last look about the child's room. The owl paper, the puppy waste basin, the large calendar with its picture of a star, the shelves for whatever things of his own he had, all pleased her. She had laid on his table her grandfather's Bible with pictures of Asiatic places. Below his mirror hung his father's photograph, that young face, with the unspeakable wisdom of youth, looking somewhere outside the picture. It made her think of the passionate expectation in the face of the picture that Jenny had brought.

"Young folks in pictures always look like they was setting store by something that ain't true yet," Mary thought. "It makes you kind of feel you have to pitch in and make whatever it is come true a little."

It was when Mrs. Winslow came back toward 7 o'clock that there was news of Jenny. Mary had been twice to her door in the course of the day and had come away feeling in her curiosity strangely outside the moment and alien to its incidence, as it she were somehow less alive than those in Jenny's house.

"Jenny's got a little girl," Mrs. Winslow said.

Mary stood staring at her. It seemed impossible. It was like seeing the hands of time move, like becoming momentarily conscious of the awe and rush of the earth, like perceiving the sweep of the stream of stars in which our system moves. She was startled and abashed that the news so seized upon her. Little that had ever happened to herself seemed so poignant, so warmed its place in sensation. While Mrs. Winslow's mind marked time on details of time and pounds, as in the way with us immortals when another jolts our ranks, Mary was receiving more consciousness. There are times when this gift is laid on swiftly, as with hands, instead of coming when none knows. Rather than with the child whom she was to meet, her thought was with Jenny as she left Mrs. Winslow in the doorway and went down the street.

"Expect you back in about half an hour if the train's on time," Mrs. Winslow called.

Mary nodded and turned into the great cathedral aisle that was Old Trail street, now arched and whitened, spectral in the dark, silver with starlight.

The night before Christmas! And in not one hour was there any preparation for tomorrow, Mary thought, unless one or two lawless ones had broken bounds and contrived something from a little remembrance for somebody in a sweet pudding. It was strange, she owned. No trees being trimmed no churches lighted for practice and the shops closed as on any other night. Only the postoffice had light—she went in to look in her box. After was there at the telegraph window, and he escorted her.

"Little boy's comin' tonight, is he?" he said, as one of the sponsors for that arrival.

"I'm on my way to the train now," Mary answered, and noted the Christmas notice with its rolled and dog-eared list still hanging on the wall. "It was a good move," she insisted to herself as she went out into the empty street again.

"You got a merry Christmas without an odds of the paper or me either," After called after her, but she did not answer save with her "Thank you, Mr. After."

"Why do they all pretend to think it's so fine for me?" she wondered. "To cheer me up, I guess," she thought grimly.

Tonight they were all sharing the aloofness from the time, an aloofness which she herself had known for years. All save Jenny. To Jenny's house, in defiance of that big carved paper in the postoffice, Christmas had come. Not a Christmas of "present trading," not a Christmas of things at all, but Christmas. Into them a child was born.

Jenny's the only one in this town that's got a real Christmas," thought Mary on her way to meet her own little guest.

The Simeon Book North American Mrs. Woods Exchange was dark, too, and from the cave of window the gray St. Nicholas looked out, bearing his flag—and he thought an idle, mummy thing of no significance. The Abel Ames General Merchandise Emporium was closed, but involuntarily Mary stopped before it. In its great plate glass window a single candle burned. She stood for a moment looking.

"Why, that's what they do some places to let the Christ child in," Mary thought. "I wonder if Abel knows how funny—for a store?"

Some one whom she did not know passed her and looked too.

"Kind of nice," said the other.

"Real nice," Mary returned and went on with a little glow.

At Mrs. Moran's house on the other side of the square the children were waiting for her. Becket and Gussie and Tan and Pep and little Emily. They ran before Mary in the road, all save little Emily, who walked, clasping Mary's hand.

"Aren't you staying up late, Emily?" Mary asked her.

"Yes," assented the child contentedly.

"Won't you be sleepy?" Mary pursued.

"I was going to stay awake anyhow," she said. "I ain't goin' to sleep at night. We said so. We're goin' to stay awake and see Santa Claus go by."

"Go by?" Mary repeated.

"Yes," the child explained. "You don't think that'll hurt, do you?" she asked anxiously. "And then," she pursued, "if we don't see him we'll know he's dead everywhere else too. And then we're goin' to bury him tomorrow morning up to Gussie's house."

At the station no one was yet about. Utter peace was there, not the primeval peace that is negation, but a silence that listened.

"While shepherds watched their flocks by night, all seated on the ground," Mary thought and looked along the horizon hill. The time needed an invocation from some one who watched, as many voices through many centuries had made invocation on Christmas eve. For a moment, looking over the lonely white places where no one watched, as no one—save only Jenny—watched in the town, Mary forgot the children.

The shoving and grating of baggage track wheels recalled her. Just beyond the bay window she saw little Emily lifted to the truck and the four others follow and the ten heels dangle in air.

The Light Shone Out Like a Signal.

Black Silk
Stove Polish
Liquid
Paste
Does Not Rub Off, Lasts 4 Times as Long as Others, Saves Work.

Get a Can Today

"Now," said Pep. And a shout arose:

"'Twas the night before Christmas when all through the house Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.

The stockings were hung by the chimney with care In the hope that St. Nicholas soon would be there."

Upborne, by one, now by another, now by all three voices, the verses went on into the end. And it was as if not only Tan and Pep and Becket and Gussie and little Emily were chanting, but all children who had ever counted the days to Christmas and had found Christmas the new piece of magic that is looked on with kindness by a grownup world. The magic of swimming holes, for example, is largely a forbidden magic; the magic of loud noises, of fast motion, of living things in pockets, of far journeying, of going off alone, of digging eaves, of building fires, of high places, of many closed doors, words, mechanisms, foods, ownerships, manners, costumes, companions and holidays are denied them. But in Christmas their affinity for mystery is recognized, encouraged, gratified, annually provided for. The little group on the baggage truck chanted their words over a dead body of Christmas, but its magic was there, inviolate. The shrouding verses had almost the dignity of lyric expression, of the essence of familiarity with that which is unknown. As if, because humanly had always recognized that the will to Christmas was greater than it knew, these words had some how been made to catch and reproduce, for generations, some faint spirit of the midwinter mystery.

The train rattled up to the platform and little Emily stepped down and clasped her mother's hand, talking to them as was her wont.

So, holly and mistletoe, So, holly and mistletoe, So, holly and mistletoe, Over and over and over, on he was singing as he came round the corner of the station.

"It ain't Christmas yet," he observed defensively to Mary. "It ain't 'till except for Christmas day, is it?"

He went and bent over the children on the truck.

"Look alive as soon as you can do it," Mary heard him say to them and wondered.

She stood looking up the track. Across the still fields, lying empty and ready for some prescience, came flashing the point of flame that streamed from the headlight of the train. The light shone out like a signal flashed back to the star standing above the town.

(To be continued next week.)

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sent for circulars free.

J. C. HENNEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

All Around The Farm

FOR POULTRY BREEDING.

European War Offers Great Opportunity, Says Expert.

That the European war offers great opportunity for American poultry breeders to extend the scope of their business is the opinion of T. E. Quisenberry, director of the Missouri state poultry experiment station, who says: "There is no reason for good poultrymen to be alarmed because of the present situation which we are facing on account of the European war or the high price of feeds. The man who has a good laying strain of pure bred poultry is going to get enough eggs this winter to pay his feed and labor bills and net him a nice profit. Neither will

Black Silk Stove Polish

Liquid Paste

Does Not Rub Off, Lasts 4 Times as Long as Others, Saves Work.

Get a Can Today

Black Silk Stove Polish

Liquid Paste

Does Not Rub Off, Lasts 4 Times as Long as Others, Saves Work.

Get a Can Today

Black Silk Stove Polish

Liquid Paste

Does Not Rub Off, Lasts 4 Times as Long as Others, Saves Work.

Get a Can Today

Black Silk Stove Polish

Liquid Paste

Does Not Rub Off, Lasts 4 Times as Long as Others, Saves Work.

Get a Can Today

dustry, thousands of ship men, clerks, mechanics and laboring men in cities and small towns turn to poultry as a side line to help pay the "high cost of living." It is certain to be so again. However, because of this business, there is great danger of many fine flocks, which it has taken years to breed and perfect, being sacrificed this fall and winter. This war is causing feed to advance in price, but it will also cause eggs, poultry and practically all other food products to advance in proportion. The question with you ought to be how to get the egg. There will be a great demand next season for eggs and stock for breeding purposes. Our advice is not to decrease your flock in size so that your business will be crippled this winter or next season."

Feeding Alfalfa to Horses.

Alfalfa is a splendid horse feed, but must be fed with judgment and care. Because of its palatability mature horses are likely to eat too much alfalfa if permitted to have free access to it.

The average farm horse at hard work is allowed to eat much more alfalfa and other roughage than he really needs to maintain his weight.

One pound of alfalfa or other hay and about one and one-quarter pounds of grain per day for each 100 pounds of the horse's weight make a good ration for the working horse.

Horses like alfalfa stems. Refuse from the cattle racks is very acceptable to horses.

Feed mature horses first and second cutting alfalfa, which is free from mold and dust.

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses. A sudden change of feed changes the horse's digestive system.

Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.—Extension Bulletin 28, Nebraska Experiment Station

AUTOMOBILE AND General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted

Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

FALL GARDEN WORK.

It is usually safe to leave sweet potatoes in the ground until the vines are killed by frost, but they should be dug as soon after that as possible. If they are to be stored the tubers should be in the sun a few hours to dry off before they are packed up. They should be handled carefully at all stages to prevent bruising.

Look at the winter blooming bulbs which are put away in November to root. They may need water, and they should be in the dark and in a cool place. In a cold frame outdoors is an ideal place for them.

The land that was plowed in the fall for next year's garden will work up better than that that must be plowed in the spring.

Time spent in cleaning up an orchard in the fall of the year will be amply rewarded with better and cleaner fruit the next season.

As soon as the leaves fall and a few sharp freezes ripen the new wood we may commence to prune fruit and shade trees.

Use the larger limbs pruned from the orchard for wood, the smaller ones as a plug to stop that wash in the field or meadow.

Have Us Solve

the installation difficulties—have US supply the fixtures, wiring and materials—and the lighting problem will be solved.

Having US do the work means you will eliminate all chance of "problems" arising because of poor quality materials, fixtures and workmanship.

Estimates gratis on request.

F. S. Bettles

214 Bridge street

Phone 134 when you need First-class Electric Work

Don't Pasture Cornstalks.

"As death from cornstalk disease is generally sudden and there is little opportunity for treatment," says a government publication, "animals should not be turned into a field with standing stalks."

There are good reasons aside from loss by this mysterious disease why the stalks should not be fed off in the field, and for this reason, if for no other, we join in the advice. The feeding of standing stalks is usually safe, but every man who practices it runs the risk of finding dead in his yards valuable cattle which were ready to help in making profits the day before.

Nobody seems to know just what there is which occasionally gets into a field of stalks that is deadly poison to cattle. But we do know that if the stalks are cut at the proper time for making fodder, cared and removed from the field the danger is avoided.

Stalks fed in the barnyard are safe and better than stalks fed in the field because they are cut when all the feeding value is in them, or should be. Stalks shredded and fed in the barn or yard are better yet because the stalks themselves will be eaten. Stalks made into silage at the proper time are better still, because they will not deteriorate on the approach of spring. They are juicy and palatable to the stock and will be eaten up clean.

In these days of slow, rather low priced shredders and cutters and efficient engines, every man should try to avoid both waste and cornstalk disease by feeding his corn in the most efficient way.—Farm and Fireside.

THE CABBAGE WORM.

Methods For the Destruction of This Pest.

The cabbage worm is generally the easiest insect pest to find in the garden, writes Clarence M. Weed in the Orange Judd Farmer. It is the thick, green caterpillar that feeds upon cabbages, commonly doing much damage to the forming heads by eating holes in the leaves. These cabbage worms hatch from eggs laid upon the leaves by the common white butterfly. When

THE JUDGE AGREED.

It is recorded that Lord Mansfield, the famous English judge of the second half of the eighteenth century, listened impatiently to an argument of Sir Fletcher Norton upon a case involving certain manorial rights.

"My lord," said Norton, who was notoriously dictatorial, "I can instance the point in person. I have myself two little manors."

"We are well aware of that," responded Lord Mansfield, seizing his opportunity.

Fiction and Fact.

In the novels the husband strolls into the conservatory for a little smoke before dinner.

In real life he strolls into the kitchen and raises blue flames with the light of his life because dinner isn't ready.

Perfectly Equipped.

When the large and healthy looking individual who has asked at the door for "a little something to eat" was told that he might have it if he would work awhile at the wood pile he shook his head mournfully.

"I've got the ague," he explained, "and my hand is that unsteady I couldn't hit more'n one stick in seven."

"All right," exclaimed the mistress of the house, "Go out in the back yard and shake those ashes for me."—Exchange.

THE LIGHTING PROBLEM

A TRAP FOR THE BUTTERFLY.

acut to be about three broods, while farther south there are probably four or five. Many remedies for this pest are known. On a commercial scale arsenicals are used, but in the home garden this does not seem to me a desirable treatment except when the plants are small. A simpler way is to heat water in a teakettle to 140 degrees; then pour a little quickly on the infested plants. This kills the worms with little harm to the plants.

A little insect powder or pyrethrum dusted into the beds at intervals of once a week will keep them in check. The insect powder bought at village drug stores is often old and worthless. It should be fresh and strong to be effective.

When cabbage plants are left standing in the field after the heads are harvested or when a crop that has failed to head is left to neglect the cabbage worms feed on them through the fall, and there are so many more to mature to start next season's crop of butterflies. All such useless leaves and heads should be destroyed by feeding to stock or in some other way, or a few of them may be left and kept dosed with poison so the butterflies will lay eggs on them and the worms that hatch be killed. In this way these plants will act as traps and attract butterflies that might otherwise deposit their eggs on wild mustard and related plants.

Cornstalks and Snow.

It is sometimes a good plan to leave some of the cornstalks standing. Every fourth row left standing will hold a lot of snow on the land. At the North Dakota experiment station it was found that one-fourth of the cornstalks left standing stopped about as much snow as when all were left. This will in many cases mean a good deal to the next crop. The added moisture will make the soil less liable to blow, and the standing stalks will check the wind a good deal, near the surface, and this also reduces the drifting. Better try leaving a few rows and see if it does not pay.—North Dakota Bulletin.

The Judge Agreed.

It is recorded that Lord Mansfield, the famous English judge of the second half of the eighteenth century, listened impatiently to an argument of Sir Fletcher Norton upon a case involving certain manorial rights.

"My lord," said Norton, who was notoriously dictatorial, "I can instance the point in person. I have myself two little manors."

"We are well aware of that," responded Lord Mansfield, seizing his opportunity.

The Bliss of Solitude

A Girl Who Wasn't Lonely and Was Lonely.

By DOROTHY CANFIELD

The last time I came from Europe, although I was supposed to be in charge of my pretty young niece, I did not appear on deck until the last day of the voyage. I was tired, and I knew that Puss had plenty of acquaintances on board. She is the soft-eyed, appealing, helpless sort of girl who is always looked after. When I finally ascended to the upper world I was, therefore, both surprised and remorseful to find her looking troubled and almost distressed.

"Why, Puss, dear," I said, with a pang of compunction for my neglect, "what is the trouble? You haven't been lonely, have you, without me?" My niece looked at me strangely for a moment and then said, with the old est intonation:

"No, Aunt Mary, I haven't been lonely." The last word seemed to have some curious effect on her, for she repeated it. "Lonely? No, not a bit lonely."

And then she frightened me by breaking out in a hysterical laugh which ended in an equally hysterical fit of sobbing. I was so alarmed that I shook her roughly.

"Puss, stop this minute! Tell me what has happened!" I said in my sternest tones.

She only began to laugh again, choking and sobbing as she said through her handkerchief, "Well, then, I just will tell you what's the matter—so there!" She sat up, wiping her eyes and began pouring out a rapid flood of narrative: "You see, Aunt Mary, last May—the 17th of May—Oscar Henderson asked me to marry him. You're the very first person I've told, but I don't care—I had to tell it to some body! Well, it was the most solemn thing you can imagine—so different from just flirting, you know. I felt that I had come to a turning point in my life." She brought out the serious words with a defiant accent, as if she knew how incongruous they sounded from her childlike mouth. "I told him I couldn't decide such a terribly important thing right off, and he said to take all the time I wanted, for it was a life and death matter for him. I wanted to go off by myself, think it all quietly out and make up my mind seriously, you know, the way girls do in novels after days of solitary thought. I never took any stock in that sort of thing when I used to read about it, but then I saw all at once how necessary it is. Why, at home, with father and the boys and little Maggie to look after and the housekeeping to do, and such strings of callers, and all the girls on the block dragging in every minute, and so many engagements for a month ahead, I didn't have a single instant to myself."

"I tried to get a little leisure there at first, but it was no use. If I went for a walk in Central park I was sure to meet somebody I knew or else one of the boys would want to go with me, and at the house the doorbell and the telephone ring all the time. I wasn't even alone in my own room, for ever since mother's death I've had Maggie there with me to keep her from missing mother so much. I kept account, finally, and found that for a whole week I wasn't alone, by actual clock time, quite three-quarters of an hour, and you can't decide the question of your life in that time."

"So I decided I'd go down to our country house ahead of the family and have a week there quite by myself. Father thought it was smart, but finally he gave in on condition that one of the boys should take me down on the train. Our old caretaker met me at the station and drove me out in the house, telling me all the news of the village. I went upstairs to my room took off my things, and for a few minutes—for five minutes at least—I was all alone. But, when I went downstairs, there, in front of the library fire, sat Sallie Prentiss—my best chum, you know—with such a pleased look on her face at the lovely surprise she had given me."

"Now, Aunt Mary, what could it do? Of course she stayed, and we were never out of each other's sight and went back to New York on the same train. That evening I wanted to cry, I felt so discouraged, but I couldn't even do that for fear of scaring Maggie. Then the old life began."

"I got perfectly distracted, with Oscar waiting and with me more confused every time I looked at him. At last, one evening, I thought I saw the way out of it all. Sallie Prentiss came over to ask father if I couldn't join a party of girls who had graduated from our school and were going abroad with one of the teachers. I jumped at the chance! I'd always been crazy to go abroad, but I didn't think of that at all. It only seemed to me a way of getting away from New York, and all the hundred million people who wanted me to talk with them, so I teased father till he said I could go."

"Aunt Mary," she panted with a soft forefinger raised, "if you ever want to be by yourself don't go to Europe with a party of girls. Why, New York was a desert of solitude compared with that party! They're all a little bit older than I, and had been abroad before, and they promised our mother—I overheard them and felt like jumping overboard—that they wouldn't let poor little Puss get lonely and homesick."

"Well, of course I didn't draw a breath during the voyage that wasn't shared by the others, and when we landed in France it was just as bad. Miss Hopper wouldn't let one of us so much as stick our nose out alone, because it wasn't proper, and one of the girls always roomed with me. The only time when I wasn't supposed to be ready to talk and be sociable was when

"I'VE BEEN SO LONELY WITHOUT YOU"

I was writing letters. I tried to use that as a pretext and would sit and just make my pen go without writing anything. But what satisfaction was there in thinking about Oscar and whether I was in love with him or not while I had to keep my pen jiggling up and down? It soon gave that up!

"Finally I gave up trying and put it off until I sailed for the trip home. I knew the girls were going to stay over till a later boat, and I knew you liked to be still and quiet, and I thought I'd have long days of leisure all to myself. When I said good-bye to the girls in Liverpool they asked me to say hello, as if I'd been lonely or homesick, and you should have heard me! I just shouted, 'Well, I should say not!' They looked so pleased—dense things!"

"The passenger list scared me a little—so many names on it of people who live right near us and know me so well—but I thought maybe they'd be sick or something. I never dreamed folks could be so hatefully well! They knew me right away, and they've been laying themselves out to give me a good time. A good time!" She repeated the words with a bitterly ironic accent. "They've just tagged me around every waking minute. I declare, I've been ready to jump over the rail. There isn't anywhere you can go to get away from people on a ship. The Mason girls insisted the first night out that I should move my things into their big stateroom on the promenade deck and take the berth Ella was to have, only she decided to wait over. I begged on my bended knees to be let off, but Mrs. Mason thought it was because I was afraid of being in their way, and she wouldn't listen to me. 'No, indeed, my dear,' she said in that overbearing way she has when she wants to be kind. 'Mary Helston's daughter is like one of my own. You must come and stay with us and be like a member of our family.' Well, I was!" my niece concluded savagely. "This is the first instant I've not had a Mason of some sort hanging around me. 'That eldest Misson boy, the one that's to Princeton, has been trotting after me all the time his sisters left me alone. And then you come up on deck'—she began to laugh wildly again—and ask me if I've been lonely. Why, Aunt Mary, here we are actually coming into New York—we'll be there in a few hours! I promised Oscar I'd give him his answer on the pier, and I don't know any more what to say this 23d of September than I did on the 17th of May. How can I think with such an incessant humming and buzzing in my ears every minute? I'm afraid to see Oscar. I don't feel as if I'd really recognize him when I see him, I'm so rattled."

She paused, and I opened my mouth to speak, when a great change came over her pretty, worried face. She gazed down the deck with beaming, starlike eyes, and her lips parted in an incredulous, happy smile. When she spoke her voice took on an indescribable cadence of amazed delight.

"Why, there he is now!" she exclaimed. "He must have come aboard with the customs officers. Oscar, here I am!"

It must not be supposed that she gave this information to satisfy any curiosity on my part. She was evidently only thinking aloud, for no one could have been more oblivious of my presence than she as the young man came toward her, his hands outstretched in an eager gesture of welcome. She flung herself into his arms in a passion of content, and these were the astonishing words with which she greeted him, uttered with so heartfelt an accent as to leave no possible doubt of her sincerity:

"Oh, Oscar, I've been so lonely with out you!"

Just About Right.

A bachelor down as he pleases and a married man as she pleases.—Louisville Courier-Journal

POULTRY and EGGS

FATTENING POULTRY.

Grain and Milk Mixture Produces the Finest Flesh.

In fattening, only the best birds should be used. There are good feeder fowls just as there are good feeder steers, and likewise there are poor feeder fowls. The earmarks of a good feeder are an appearance of vigor with prominent breast, strong, well shaped legs and bright comb and wattles. Birds with weak constitutions, wabbly

The Buff Cochins come from China, are the foundation color of all the buff breeds and are extremely profuse in feathering equal in softness to that of geese and swans. They are perfectly contented in confinement, fly, scratch and walk but little and are great hatchers, eaters and easy to fatten. They are not extra layers, but for the table they are unsurpassed in the hen kingdom. Standard weights are for the cock eleven pounds, hens eight and a half pounds. The cock pictured is a pure bred Buff Cochins.

legs and pale combs do not make good nor profitable feeders and should be sold without fattening.

The feed given should consist of a grain and milk mixture of a liquid, yet not "runny" consistency. At four due a ration of two pounds cornmeal, one pound shorts, one pound ground oats and eight pounds buttermilk has been found to answer all of the requirements of a fattening ration in addition to being economical. Good results have been obtained with this ration, and where the feeder can obtain the components no better can be suggested.

Nor is the addition of any condiments feed or condition powder economical. Where these have been tried the results have never been such as to warrant the expenditure necessary to furnish such an addition to the ration. Something may be necessary, however, to put the birds "back on feed" if they should get off. For this purpose powdered charcoal answers admirably and is equally good. If not better, than any patent condition powder or appetizer. The best plan, however, is to keep the birds on feed by keeping them hungry and by giving them the proper feeds.

A bird is ready to kill when he is "ripe," as Professor Phillips of Purdue says. This is when the bird has attained a good condition of flesh and his face has lost its color and become a pale pink. Two weeks of careful feeding are usually enough to ripen up a bird; but, as individuals vary, the length of the feeding period may be somewhat shorter than this or possibly a little longer.

Before killing the bird should be starved for twenty-four hours to completely empty the crop of all feed and filth. In this way it makes a much cleaner carcass and one which will keep much better. Killing by the sticking and bleeding method is much preferable to breaking the neck or to removing the head. Breaking the neck does not permit of a thorough bleeding, and removing the head causes a loss of just that much weight and, further, gives an opening for the germs of decay and putrefaction.

The bird should be dry plucked and cooled as soon as possible. This may be done by placing in a refrigerator, but a more recent method which is being quite commonly followed is to cool by placing in a vat of ice cold water and allowing to remain thus overnight. This plumps the birds well and, further, does away with much of the shrinkage due to dressing.

Silage For Poultry.

When removing silage for the cows do not overlook taking out a little for the poultry. The importance of a green food in the poultry ration has long been recognized. Poultrymen have tested out silage as a poultry food and have found it almost invaluable in an economic ration for egg production. Silage, of course, is not a complete food for poultry. Fowls require a condensed food for at least a portion of their ration. This, on most farms, can be picked up by the fowls and is grain which without poultry would be wasted.—Kansas Farmer.

Driven to It.

"I've come to kill a printer," said the little nun.

"Any printer in particular?" asked the foreman.

"Oh, any one will do. I would prefer a small one, but I've got to make some sort of show at a fight or horse home slugs the paper called my wife's tea party a 'swill affair.'"—New York Journal.

Michigan's Greatest Daily for $1.00 Per Year . . .

The most wonderful offer we have been able to make to our readers. Think of it—The Detroit Tribune 6 days a week, for $1.00 a year. We make this offer to you: The Detroit Tribune for $1.00 per year to all new subscribers to the Charlevoix Courier, or to any regular subscriber to the Courier who pays up all arrearages. This rate is good on R. F. D. Routes only. It's a special offer to Farmers to have a daily at an extremely low price. The offer will be given for a short time only, so we advise you to send in your subscription at once.

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer 50c
Poultry Pointers 50c
Woman's World 35c

All for $1.80

(This Offer Will be Given For a Short Time Only)

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Detroit Tribune, daily $4.00

All for $2.50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Detroit Tribune $4.00
Michigan Farmer 50c

All for $2.75

(Above Rates Good Until February 28 and on R. F. D. Routes Only)

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press $2.00

All for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press $2.00
Michigan Farmer 50c

All for $3.25

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
and Country Gentleman or Saturday Evening Post

Both for $2.65

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper and Best Job Office in Charlevoix County

For two weeks we have been prophesying

Higher Flour Prices

They've come, but prices will
be still higher

BUY YOUR FLOUR NOW
and Save Money

Argo Milling Co.
Manufacturers

Additional Locals

The Courier wishes you one and all a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Ford Robbins of Boyne Falls was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

John McCann of Saint James was a business visitor the first of the week.

Mrs. A. L. Vought of Boyne City spent Tuesday in the city with her husband.

Mrs. E. E. Hapner left Monday on an extended business trip to Ypsilanti and Detroit.

Prosecuting Attorney D. H. Fitch was in the city the first of the week on official business.

Jas. Chase of Norwood left Tuesday for the west, where he will make his home in the future.

"The Spoilers," by Rex Beach, will be the attraction New Year's Day, at the Majestic, both matinee and evening.

Charley Hudson and wife of East Jordan are guests at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. S. A. Bush.

Miss May Cornell of Grand Rapids is spending the holidays as a guest at the home of Capt. O. W. Wilbur.

Miss Edith Smatts of East Jordan is spending a few days in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. G. W. Crouter.

Miss Blanch Tooley returned to the city Tuesday after spending Christmas in Boyne City visiting her parents.

Miss Morle Felts spent a few days last week at Potoskey visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James King.

Miss Nettie Correll is home from Belding to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Correll.

The St. Mary's Literary Society will hold a pedro party at the schoolhouse Thursday evening, January 7. Everyone is invited.

The Misses Lela and Myrtle Miller and Mr. King of Detroit are spending the holidays as guests at the home of
R. N. Faulkner.

Bert Wilbur returned to Chicago
Saturday afternoon after spending Christmas with his parents, Capt. and Mrs. O. E. Wilbur.

Charlie Lamphear left Thursday on an extended trip to Flint and Detroit.
He expects to accept a position during the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lewis returned home Monday from Kinsman, Ohio, where they spent a few weeks visiting
Mrs. Lewis's parents.

Miss Nina Warren of Potoskey is spending a few days as a guest at the home of F. J. Meech, visiting her brother, Glen Warren, and wife.

Miss Laura Banner returned home Monday from Traverse City, where she was the guest of her sister, Miss Alice Banner of West Eleventh street.

The Misses Mary, Clara and Irene Finucan entertained a number of friends at their home Monday evening. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all the guests.

Miss Mattie Warner of Potoskey and Vernon Payton, wife and child of Traverse City were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Payton the latter part of the week.

A Nebraska farmer, writing to a friend back here, was trying to give some idea of the productiveness of the soil out there. He said that they had to mow the grass off the sod house floor every day to find the baby. One family near him had twin babies and only one cradle and the kid that had to sleep on the floor grew twice as fast as the other. Where the soil is richest a man dare not stand on one foot any length of time lest that leg become longer and bother his walking.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is
a penny earned.—
Benjamin Franklin.

It is certainly time for the home gardener to think of caring for the surplus from the garden.
Wise home growers have planned on having a sufficient supply of choice vegetables during the winter. These vegetables will have to be stored in order that they may be preserved.
Onions and squash should be placed where there is sufficient heat and dryness to prevent any possible decay.

The root crops—parsnips, carrots, beets, salsify and turnips—are best buried in soil. A good sandy loam is excellent. Place a layer of soil in the bottom of a barrel or box, then a layer of roots, a layer of soil and so on.
If the quantity of root crops is large enough the roots may be stored in a pit outside the house. A good way is to pile the vegetables in a conical form and place straw over them. Soil should be applied to cover this straw and more soil or manure added as the weather becomes colder.

Sometimes a bottled pit is used for storage, particularly if adequate facilties for ventilation are given and if protection from oversupply of water is afforded by covering the tops of the beds with boards and lured paper.
Protection should also be given against excessive cold by applying refuse over the lured paper.

Cabbages may be stored in the hot-bed pit or in the garden by placing a little straw on the ground, removing the cabbages, roots and all from their location and placing them heads downward on this straw. A layer of cabbages four plants wide and of indefinite length, with another layer over it three plants wide, all covered with straw and soil, will cause the cabbages to keep in the best condition, especially if a location is chosen where ample drainage is possible.

The whole aim in the storage of vegetables is to prevent sudden freezing and thawing, to give ventilation enough so that the product may keep well, to give moisture enough to some crops so that shriveling will be done away with and with other crops, squashes and onions in particular, to give heat enough so that they will not suffer from excessive moisture.

RENOVATING HINT.

How to Use Some Stains For Pine Floors.

How can the ordinary pine floor be made presentable without covering it with a carpet? This is a problem which is perplexing many housewives.

A number of stains and varnishes which have proved satisfactory for such floors have been worked out by students in household management in the home economics department at the college of agriculture, university of Wisconsin.

Before applying the stains the floor should be carefully smoothed with sandpaper or steel wool. If the floor is soft or very old fill the pores of the wood and fill cracks with a filler. A good paste for this purpose may be made from whiting or starch mixed with either oil or turpentine. Shellac varnish is often sufficient if the larger cracks are first filled with the pastemixture. The floor should dry for twenty hours and be sandpapered for a second time before the stain is applied.

Here is a good method for giving a pine floor a pleasing finish with a slightly yellow maple color: Apply two coats of a mixture of one-half ounce burnt umber, one quart of raw linseed oil and two and one-half ounces of yellow ochre. Allow the floor to dry well and then wax.

To give a floor a good brown tinge make a stain of one pint boiled linseed oil, one tablespoonful burnt umber, one pint of turpentine, one tablespoonful alums and two table-spoonfuls chrome yellow. This stain will serve as a filler as well as a finish on a smooth floor with no cracks. Apply two coats and then wax.

For a light finish for a pine floor apply ammonia before the filler to penetrate the wood and darken it slightly.
After the filler is dry sandpaper and apply two coats of varnish, rubbing each coat with powdered pumice stone.

How to Make the Delicious Pinecho
For the Kiddies.

This is a delicious candy easily made and wholesome for the children, fast-lag like maple.

Boil two cupfuls of brown sugar,
one-half cupful of milk or cream, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and two lumps of butter the size of a walnut, stirring constantly. Have ready a cupful of ice water. When the sirup begins to darken and thicken try to pull the water. If it will roll into a soft ball under the fingers remove from stove, add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and a cupful of nut meats which have previously been chopped fine.
Walnuts, peanuts or pecans are good.
For variety a cupful of cut-up marshmallows or coconut may be used.

Beat hard until it begins to thicken as the spoon; then turn into buttered tins. It will "set" almost immediately, when it can be cut into squares.
Put into the icebox for ten minutes
if not crisp it has not been well beaten.

SPLENDID TOILET HINT.

How to Preserve the Teeth by Fastidious Care.

Bad teeth are a very severe handicap to a pretty face—or to a plain one, for that matter—and a handicap also to one's health. Unbounded mischief is caused through neglected teeth: neuralgia, indigestion—often leading to serious internal trouble—defective eye sight, and so on.

It is a significant fact that British authorities have declined, on the score of defective teeth, to accept the services of many young men wishing to enlist for the war.

In our grandmothers' days dentistry was practically unknown and the toothbrush a new item among one's toilet articles. A dose of medicine was supposed to cure the face ache. But today, amid all our modern improvements, a visit to the dentist is neither an expensive nor a very terrible affair, and there is really no excuse for neglected teeth.

Decay is, of course, the most dreaded factor in connection with teeth.
But prevention is better than cure, and we can ourselves keep decay at bay if proper precautions are used.

Teeth should be cleaned at least twice a day, and a mouth wash used after meals to remove food secretions will also prove beneficial. An excellent recipe may be prepared as follows:

Oil of peppermint 1 part
Thymol 4 parts
Tincture of myrris 8 parts
Water 100 parts
Alcohol (90 per cent) 50 parts

Shake well and add a few drops to a glass of warm water. Any chemist will make it up cheaply.

One of the most cleansing properties is precipitated chalk mixed with a little cold water. It not only prevents decay, but preserves the enamel and helps to keep the whole mouth in a healthy condition. This preparation should be applied to the teeth and gums night and morning and the toothbrush rubbed up and down into every crevice.

After cleaning the teeth it is a good plan to drop the brush into a half tumbler of soda water. The toothbrush needs its daily wash just as much as anything else, and the soda will cleanse it from any impurities which may lurk between its bristles.

Sweets and acid properties attack the enamel of the teeth. If the mouth is rinsed out with bluewater this will preserve the whiteness.

Don't ever put pins or needles in your mouth. It is one of the easiest means of promoting decay. If necessary fine silk thread or dental floss may be drawn through the crevices.

Dark stains are often due to a deposit of tartar, which is apt to form along the bottom row of teeth. Sen-tling by a reliable dentist should take place at regular intervals, and the trouble will thus be removed.

A sound set of teeth is a great blessing to its owner, but on the slightest signs of decay it is always best to consult a dentist. One decayed tooth may ruin three or four others, however sound they may appear, and, though we may in later years have substitutes, no teeth are ever quite the same as those nature provided us with originally.

How the Needlewoman Can Set Colors
In Wools.

A needlewoman who does a great deal of embroidery in colored wools always takes the precaution of setting the colors before using them.

She soaks the wools for at least an hour in boiling water to which a teaspoonful of vinegar has been added.
At the end of an hour she hangs them up to dry, patting but not wringing out the moisture.

The first finger of the left hand of the woman who does much sewing, embroidering or crocheting becomes much disfigured because of pricking of the needle. In some instances the finger becomes very sore.

To prevent disfigurement and sore-ness put a strip of court plaster on the fingers. Such precaution is especially worth while when working on delicate fabrics.

WE WISH YOU A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Another Year of Eating Is Before You

Start in Right, by Making Two Resolutions

RESOLVED, That I will protect my health, and the health of those dependent upon me during the year 1915 by using only such groceries as are known to be of the greatest purity—that add strength to, instead of weakening, the digestive organs—that stimulate, instead of burdening, the human structure.

RESOLVED, That I will buy my groceries from a house that has an established reputation for the high quality of its foodstuffs—that thinks more of my future patronage than it does of a dollar in hand—that will give me full information regarding any article of diet—that will tell me the truth, that will KEEP FAITH WITH ME.

If you live up to the spirit of those two resolutions for one year you will be a healthier, a better and a happier person. If you think WE are the house, come to us. We will do the rest, and will KEEP THE FAITH.

New Years Specials

Choice large juicy Oranges 25c Choice New Mixed Nuts 25c per dozen 2 pounds for Fruits, Vegetables of all kinds. Book your Orders early

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12

212 Bridge Street

Phone 69

Getting Rid of The Left Overs

The holiday rush is over and as usually the case, we have a number of articles from broken lines, especially in Fur Coats, Sheep-lined Coats and Mackinaws, that we will close out at almost your own price. We have always made an effort not to carry over stock from one year to another.
We would rather sell them at almost any price than to do this.

THEY ARE TO BE SOLD
REGARDLESS OF PRICE

They are all the kind we have always carried in stock—coats that we have sold right along and which have always given the very best of satisfaction. You can buy no better quality in the country, and at the prices we will close them out—they are bargains that do not happen very often. If you will look them over, you will realize the great bargains we are offering.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS—Our business of the past year has been a successful one. This year's holiday trade was far ahead of that of last year. We are thankful for it—and we want you to accept our sincerest thanks for the trade you have given us. We realize that our success in business depends upon our customers, and we are very thankful for your trade. Accept our wish of a "happy and prosperous new year." Your trade has made our business successful—we hope in every instance you received your money's worth, and we will continue to give the same real values during the coming year.

Benj. Brown

Grange Column

Barnard Grange.

Barnard Grange No. 689 will hold its regular installation of officers Wednesday evening, January 6. The session will be an open one and visitors and those interested in grange work are extended to special invitation to be present. After the work of the evening, a rabbit pie supper will be served by the young members of the grange.

When in need of—

FURNITURE
STOVES AND RANGES
CARPETS AND RUGS
BLANKETS AND COMFORTS

Go to— S. M. See & Sons

The Reliable
House Furnishers

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 1

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

PRICE OF LINING TAKES A JUMP

Increase in Cost Mostly Felt by Residents
Hayes Township.

Two Smooth Representatives of Tailoring Establishment Sifted Farmers at Old Game.

Remarks as to the fit, shape, quality of cloth or general appearance of their clothes are liable to be resented by a number of residents in Hayes township.

The reason for it is this: About the first week in October a smooth, oily representative of the Griffin Tailoring Supply Company, 800 South Sibley street, Chicago, made a house to house canvas of the eastern portion of the township taking orders for tailor-made clothes, both for ladies and gentlemen. The price of the suit was to be $12.50 and it was his custom to leave several samples of cloth at each home for inspection, the one the customer decided to have his or her suit made from to be sent in or taken up at a later date. After the customer had agreed to have a suit made the agent handed him a non-interest bearing ninety day note, upon which he requested, him to place his signature. Practically in every case this was acceded to; then all anxiously awaited the arrival of their new suits. But Mr. Agent had not as yet sprung the trap.

About a week later another representative of the firm made his appearance on the field, stating that he had been sent out by the firm to take the measures for the suits ordered the previous week. There being nothing out of the usual order of things with this request, it was granted.

This was the fellow who sprung the trap set by the man who took the original order. In signing the note for the $12.50 nothing was said about linings or trimmings. Samples of these were shown each customer, ranging in price per suit from $2.50 to $5.50. You could take your choice—at the price of material you could afford—but no suit until the lining and trimming was ordered.

"Now they owned it—now they did not." The scheme had the old "a little down and a little now and then" skinned to a frazzle. Who'd want a suit without a lining? Nobody in Hayes township, and then all fell for it. The lining and trimming was selected, ranging in price from $2.50 to $5.50, and the suit was promised to be ready in three weeks.

They actually arrived in six weeks—just a short time before the notes came due. The material was as represented, but the lining? Some claimed they ordered the $5.50 value and it looked the same as that used in the suit for the men who ordered the $2.50 lining. The fellow who ordered the $2.50 lining claims it is as good as that of the man who ordered the higher priced material. There seems to be a lurking idea that all linings used were of the same piece of material. We cannot tell until we have a chance to compare them.

Every order was filled—they came by express C. O. D.—and the total amount of cash required to get possession amounted to $7.00, which included the expense of the lining and the express charges. This in connection with the note given when the suit was first ordered brought the total cost up to $19.50.

It has been said that a similar stunt was pulled off in the eastern part of the township about two years ago. Whether by the same firm is yet to be learned.

Admire the suit as much as you like, but when you mention lining, have a heart. You may get stung some time yourself.

RURAL MAIL MATTER

R. F. D. Carriers Must Tabulate Number, Weight and Postage of Each Class.

Last Saturday the rural mail carriers began upon a month of counting all their incoming and outgoing mail. Each kind will be tabulated by itself, and added to the counting will be the weighing and also keeping track of the postage, with a statement of what the postage was on and its amount.

This count is made as a basis for re-adjusting the salaries of the carriers and those whose mail is the most in amount will get the greatest salary. It is a work which requires much care, and will keep them very busy every morning with the extra work, with proportionately the same amount of work when they come in from their trips.

Cut rate prices on all magazines to Courier readers. See adv. on page 7.

GET THE HABIT

Study the Advertisements in Your Local Paper—
You'll Know Then Where to Buy.

Get the habit of looking before you buy.

Get the habit of knowing when to look and where to look.

It is a habit that will save you many dollars in the run of a year. As a habit it is one of the principal aids to success in life.

Study the advertising pages of your local paper each week.

Study them with a twofold purpose—the determining of what goods to buy and where to find them.

If a local merchant spends money in advertising his wares it is safe to assume that he is able to make good on every statement that he makes.

It is also safe to assume that the home man will do more for you than a stranger will do. It is his way, and it is a way which should appeal to you.

Get the habit of giving the home man the first chance.

It is a habit of which any person should justly feel proud.

It is a GOOD habit.

PRESENTED WITH BEAUTIFUL TOKENS

Daniel S. Payton Rewarded for Efficient
Work in Lodges.

Held Important Offices Both in Knights of Pythias and Masonic Orders.

At the meeting of the Knights of Pythias lodge Thursday evening, certain matters which had been brought to the attention to the members and officers of the order concerning the conduct of D. S. Payton, who for the past seven years had acted in the capacity of master of finance were brought before the lodge.

After the regular order of business transacted, W. E. Hampton, as chairman of the committee on investigation, read the charges which had been preferred and requested the lodge to take them under advisement. While the charges were not serious ones, they were of such importance that immediate action was necessary. Among the many things charged against Mr. Payton was that he intended to leave Charlevoix and make East Jordan his home, thus depriving the order of his services as master of finance.

When confronted with the charges, Mr. Payton pleaded guilty, but stated that in his estimation he had faithfully fulfilled the duties of the office, and had not circumstances been such as they are, would not have decided to leave the city. Chancellor commander A. L. Fitch, in behalf of the lodge, then presented him with a beautiful felt sofa pillow, upon which was worked the words, "Pine Lake Lodge No. 122, Charlevoix, Knights of Pythias," as a token of the good-will and best wishes of the members of the order.

Mr. Payton was so overcome with surprise that the set speech which he always carries about with him for occasions of this kind completely vanished from his mind and he was left stranded, his emotion being such that he was unable to express his thanks or tell how much he appreciated the token of friendship from those with whom he had so long been associated. He finally managed to say, however, that he was sorry to be obliged to leave Charlevoix and stated that if circumstances were ever such that he could, he would return to the city and make it his home.

In response to this promise he was again shown the appreciation of his good work by being presented with an official Michigan K. of P. button. Upon receipt of this token Mr. Payton was unable to say a word, and the boys, realizing his predicament, appreciated his surprise and confusion much more than they would any drawn-out remarks.

Friday evening he was also presented with a fine enlarged photograph of the Masonic building committee, of which he was a member, by the members of that order. Both affairs were very happy ones and demonstrated very forcefully the esteem in which he is held by the members of both orders.

Auction Sale.

On page 2 will be found the auction sale of Austin Newman, which will be held at his farm, two and one-half miles south of Charlevoix, Thursday, January 14th. All stock, farm implements and household goods will be sold. W. E. Ryers will cry the sale.

CHEAP MONEY FOR FARMERS

National Grange Wants to See Rural Credits Bill Adopted.

Government Should Loan Money to the Farmers as Well as the Bankers.

The legislative committee of the National Grange—consisting of Oliver Wilson, T. C. Atkinson and H. J. Patterson—issued a statement designating to aid Representative R. J. Bulkley of Cleveland in his fight for the adoption of the Hollis-Bulkley rural credits bill, which is opposed by the administration because of its government aid feature. The statement is as follows:

"Government money is available for the bankers to loan at a profit. Government money, in part, comes from taxes paid by the farmer, but cheap money to the bankers still means high-cost money to the farmer.

"While the new federal reserve bank act 'impowers' national banks to loan on farm mortgages, the conditions are still such that it is more profitable for the banks not to loan on mortgages and little if any relief will follow from this law.

"To say that the federal reserve bank act constitutes a remedy in lieu of a proper farm credit law is the veriest nonsense and will not fool the farmers. It was not considered a proper remedy by anyone at the time the banking law was made. The advocates of farm credit then were put off with a promise that if they would keep it out of that bill they would be given a real farm credit law last session.

"Many congressmen of all parties and the farmers generally expected this promise to be fulfilled, but farm credit was cut out of the program at the last moment and the committee on banking and currency ceased to work on the bill.

"We have made investigations of the government aid feature of the Bulkley-Hollis bill and it will be taken up this session and pushed to a finish, but the president in his message says:

"It cannot be perfected now."

"We have made investigations of the reasons why this may be true.

"First, the president objects to the government aid feature of the Bulkley-Hollis bill.

"Second, a part of the members of congress seem to desire to have a summer to themselves and want the session to end March 4.

"Third, there is a strong element of influence of various money-lending interests which are fearful that interest rates may be generally lowered and their profits curtailed."

TENDERED RECEPTION

Rev. L. C. Vineyard Made Welcome by Members of Baptist Church.

Last Wednesday evening a large number of the members of the Baptist church and other citizens met at the church parlors to welcome and receive their new pastor, Rev. L. C. Vineyard. After a social hour, during which time greetings were exchanged, Charles Carey, chairman, called the meeting to order, which was opened with prayer, followed by a song by the choir.

Rev. C. E. Taggart of the Congregational church spoke a few words of greeting and was followed by Rev. Quinton Walker of the Methodist church and Judge of Probate S. A. Correll. Rev. Mr. Vineyard responded and in a few words gave a brief outline of the church work he would make an endeavor to accomplish while in the city.

At the close of the reception wafers and ice cream were served. One of the most pleasant features of the occasion was the demonstration of Christian unity that exists between the various churches of the city.

Historical Society.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet with Doctor and Mrs. L. B. Bartlett in the new banquet room on Friday evening, January 8th. Miss Barelett will sing a solo. Mrs. Ada Beaman and Mrs. L. S. See will present some charades. Mr. E. D. Pierce will read.

The Saint Mary's Literary Society wishes to announce that it will hold a public pedn party at St. Mary's school Thursday evening, January 7th. Admission, 25c per couple. Refreshments. Adv. 522

Subscribe for the Courier.

RIGHTS OF THE AUTO DRIVER

Outlined in Opinion Recently Handed Down by Supreme Court.

Burden of Caution is with Driver—His Own Safety
a Secondary Consideration.

The supreme court has made a new automobile law for Michigan.

It has given out rules regulating the driving of automobiles in the state to a minuteness that has never been reached before.

Briefly and practically speaking, the first duty of an automobile driver in Michigan is to look out for the safety of those in the street or road. His own safety, broadly speaking, is a secondary consideration. The opinion written by Justice Steere goes much further than any ever emanating from the court in a civil automobile case. It was partly touched upon in a criminal case decided last summer from Ingham county, but the strictest orders are now imposed upon an automobile driver for the first time.

The new rules as outlined by Judge Steere, who wrote the opinion, originated in a decision of the New York court of appeals. The rights of the auto driver as outlined there are read into Michigan law by the opinion and are as follows:

"No owner or operator of an automobile is exempt from liability for a collision in a public street by simply showing that at the time of the accident he did not run at a speed exceeding the limit allowed by law or ordinance; he still remains bound to anticipate that he may meet persons at any point in a public street and he must keep a proper lookout for them and keep his machine under such control as will enable him to avoid a collision with another person, also, using proper care and caution. If necessary he must slow up and even stop. No blowing of a horn or whistle without an attempt to slow the speed is sufficient if the circumstances demand that the speed should be slackened or the machine be stopped and such a course be practicable to him. Every such operator of an automobile has the right to assume that every person whom he meets will also exercise ordinary care and caution according to the circumstances and will not negligently or recklessly expose himself to danger, but rather make an attempt to avoid it."

SENIOR CLASS REUNION

Seventeen Out of the Original Twenty-Seven Members Present.

The first reunion of the graduating class of 1914 was held in the music room of the high school building last Wednesday evening. The room was decorated in blue and white crepe paper and pennants.

On entering the room each person was given a little blue and white crepe paper badge with the date and name of the place printed on it.

Seventeen out of the original twenty-seven members were present. Every one entered into the spirit of the occasion and made good use of the chance to renew old times.

Refreshments were served in the form of a potluck supper, and before the evening was over a telegram was composed to send to Lois Frazier, who is ill at Hoople, North Dakota.

The party broke up with songs and the placing of the class banner in the high school assembly room.

THE GREGORY SANITARIUM

New Institution Opened at Mount Pleasant by Former Charlevoix Woman.

The many friends of Mrs. Jane Gregory, well and favorably known in this city, will be pleased to learn of the success she has attained since opening up a sanitarium at Mount Pleasant some four years ago.

The Isabella County Courier of a recent issue contains a half column write-up about the "Gregory," which, according to their statements, is now one of the best equipped in the state and enjoying a wonderful business. During the past month new appliances have been installed and other improvements made.

Mrs. Gregory was formerly connected with the celebrated Saville sanitarium at Petokey, and many of the appliances installed in the "Gregory" were originated and patented by Mr. Saville.

JUST TRY IT ONCE

Local Merchants Will Do Better By You Than Mail Order Houses.

If people would read the advertisements of the merchants published in the Courier each week with as much interest and confidence as they do the mail order catalogues there would be mighty few dollars sent out of this community. It is very seldom that the local merchant cannot and does not give you better real value for your money than the mail order merchant does. Furthermore, the home merchant can be made to show up his goods and to prove what he says in his advertisement. You don't believe it? Let us suggest this: Take a $10 bill to any local merchant together with your catalogue marked in plain figures, mark your order and lay them both before your merchant and ask if he can furnish you the order, plus the cost of freight, postage, money order, envelopes and paper, to say nothing about the time you are compelled to wait for your goods and the trouble of returning them if not satisfactory. Just try this and see how it works.

COUNTY BOARD NOW IN SESSION

Special January Session Opened for Business Monday Morning.

Bonds of County Officials Accepted—Contract Let for Operating Ironton Ferry.

The special January session of the board of supervisors opened up for the regular grist of business on Monday afternoon. Practically every member answered to his name as the roll was called. Considerable business has been transacted and the various committees are busy at the work designated to them.

The report of J. A. Dresser, who has completed auditing the books of the county treasurer, was read. The report showed the county's finances in good shape and every item accounted for.

A bid from V. A. Orvis to run the Ironton ferry was read and placed on file. Mr. Orvis's proposition to the board was to operate the ferry during the open season for $65 per month and keep it in repair, the county to furnish the material.

A petition signed by a large number of freeholders of Marion township was presented asking that the state road near the foot of Vosburg's hill be changed, the route being given in the petition. At the same time a remonstrance was read, signed by an equal number of freeholders, praying that the road remain as it is at the present time. Both petitions were referred to the committee on roads, bridges and dams, who later recommended that a survey of same be made.

Wednesday a contract was signed with Sam Alexander to operate the Ironton ferry during the next year. The pay was based practically the same as in past contracts. As the ferry is now operated under the marine laws, 13 hours of labor for the operator is the limit of work.

Mr. Alexander's days work will commence at 6:00 o'clock a. m. and end at 8:00 p. m. Travellers wishing to cross the ferry at a later hour than this, will be charged a small amount for the service of the ferryman.

Another matter of considerable importance was brought to the attention of the board in the auditor's report. In the past it has been the custom of the county road commissioners to present time orders and bills to the county clerk, for payment. No checking system has been used, and a committee of two was named by the board to check over all orders and bills, make a report, have the same published, and file the report made with the judge of probate, who will present the same to the board at the October session.

The bonds of the treasurer, sheriff and other officials requiring bonds were accepted. Other matters of importance will probably occupy the attention of the board the balance of the week.

Give Oyster Supper.

Members of the local order M. W. of A. will entertain their families at the I. O. O. F. hall Thursday evening, January 14th, at 6:30 o'clock. The event will be of the "Get-together" kind and every member is requested to be present. Oysters will be served and the evening spent in dancing and card playing.

NEW OFFICIALS BEGIN DUTIES

New Men Assume Place in County's Official Family.

Sheriff Charles Novak Makes Appointments—Designs at the County Building.

Changes were made Tuesday in the incumbencies of practically all of Charlevoix's county offices, and, while a number of new men stepped into office, there are enough old faces left to keep the wheels of government well greased until the candidates who were successful at the November election get thoroughly broken into harness.

One of the holdovers is County Clerk Richard Lewis. "Dick" is always on the job, and the ceremonies of taking the oath of office made little difference with him in the regular routine work. Miss Hazel Fuller has been named by him as deputy and both are to be found at all times in the county building busily engaged in the duties of the office. Register of Deeds Romeo A. Emrey is another who succeeds himself. It is safe to say that the business of this office will be conducted in the same efficient manner during the coming two years as it has through the many terms he has held this important place.

Sheriff Chas. Novak begins his duties well acquainted with the work of that office. He has made the following appointments: Henry Cook, under-sheriff, East Jordan; Charles Jefferies, deputy sheriff, Charlevoix; George Houghton, deputy sheriff, Boyne City, and Fred J. Coon, deputy sheriff and turnkey, Charlevoix.

Prosecuting Attorney Rollie L. Lewis, who succeeds D. H. Fitch, took the oath of office some three weeks ago, and, acting in the duties of the office, has been the legal advisor for the board of supervisors during the present session. The bonds of Geo. W. Weaver were found O. K. by the board of supervisors and he took possession of the office Wednesday morning. The next month or two will be a busy time for him getting acquainted with the duties of the office.

H. I. McMillan, being his own successor as representative, will be on hand to render good service during the present session of the state legislature.

L. E. Smith, drain commissioner; Dr. Allan M. Wilkinson and Dr. Marshall, coroners, and R. W. Kene, circuit court commissioner, assume the duties of their respective office and will give the county the best of attention.

J. O. FLETCHER MARRIED

Former Head of Science Department of Charlevoix
Public Schools.

In the presence of only the immediate relatives and friends, Prof. John D. Fletcher, formerly head of the Science Department of Charlevoix High School, was quietly married to Miss Marjorie Reiber at high noon December 30. The ceremony occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reiber, Saint Joseph, Michigan. Both Prof. and Mrs. Fletcher are prominent members of the younger set in Saint Joseph, in which city they have spent most of their lives. Prof. Fletcher graduated from Michigan Agricultural College with the class of 1913 and while at his Alma Mater gained distinction not only in the class room but also as a cadet. Mrs. Fletcher is a talented musician and is a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, Oberlin, Ohio.

At present Prof. Fletcher is head of the Scientific and Agricultural Departments of Morris High School, Morris, Ill. His work there has been very successful. Mr. Fletcher expects to enter the drug business at the close of the present school year.

HOLD BASKET DINNER

Bay Shore Gleaners to Take Initiative Towards Building Warehouse.

Members of the Ancient Order of Gleaners of Bay Shore will hold an open meeting, Thursday evening, January 14, at the Bay Shore Mercantile Company's hall.

At this meeting the initial steps will be taken towards organizing a stock company and building a warehouse, in which the products of the farm can be housed and disposed of in quantity lots, thus enabling the producers to get a better price for their products.

Considerable interest has been shown in the project, and Gleaners and other persons interested are urged to be present. Bring along well filled baskets—dinner will be served in the hall.

Correspondence

MARION.

Mrs. Elmer Ingalls is getting along nicely.

The Gleaners held their installation of officers Saturday night, after which an excellent oyster supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Beattie entertained at New Year's dinner Clara Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dodd and children and Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Rice.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, ss.
Lucas County.
Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, Ohio, and State of Ohio, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.
Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 6th day of December, A. D. 1908.
(Seal)
A. W. GLEASON,
Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for this booklet free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by all Druggists; 75 cents.
Take Hall's Catarrh Pills for constipation.

IRONTON

School opened Monday, January 4th.
Miss Florence Barrett spent the holidays in Detroit.

The ladies' aid will meet with Mrs. Alexander Thursday afternoon.

Miss Margaret Munson returned Saturday to her school duties at Jackson.

Miss Lillian Flanders spent part of her vacation visiting friends in Boyne City and Charlevoix.

A reading circle has been organized and will meet with Miss Adams at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

H. L. Barnum, who has been visiting at the home of S. Alexander, returned to M. A. C. Saturday.

Miss Winifred Jardine, who spent the holidays at home, has returned to her school work at Lansing.

The Dorcas Society has been reorganized and will meet with Miss Adams Saturday afternoon at 1:30.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Alexander and family spent New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. George Glados of Charlevoix.

Several friends of Cecil Ogden were entertained at dinner Sunday by Mrs. Ogden in honor of his tenth birthday.

The Gleaners had a dinner Friday, January 1st, and in the afternoon officers were installed for the ensuing year.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

CLARION

Paul Cullen left Monday for Ann Arbor.

J. A. Johnson returned Friday from Florida.

Miss Grace Cullen returned Sunday to Petoskey.

John Hants returned Saturday to his home at Oden.

Miss Andra Gill of LeVering spent Sunday with Clarion friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Stoops of Mackinac City visited their parents here on Friday.

Commencing Monday evening the M. E. church there will observe a week of prayer.

Miss Grace Norton returned Sunday to Albion after a short visit with her parents.

A civil service examination for postmaster at Walloon Lake will be held at Petoskey on January 23rd.

Mrs. W. H. Hough returned Saturday from Kalkaska, where she was called by the serious illness of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hager, who have been living on a farm in Chandler township, have gone to Petoskey to live.

Mrs. Edna Bradford, son and daughter of Eaton Rapids were the guests of

DECIDE YOURSELF

The Opportunity is Here, Backed by Charlevoix Testimony.

Don't take our word for it.
Don't depend on a stranger's statement.
Read Charlevoix endorsement.
Read the statements of Charlevoix citizens.

And decide for yourself.
Here is one case of it:

Mrs. W. L. Cowan, 210 Antrim street, Charlevoix, says: "I don't hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for I have had good results from them. I had severe backache and pains in my kidneys and was also annoyed by the kidney secretions. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Ivy Drug Store, and they brought me great relief."

Mrs. Cowan is only one of many Charlevoix people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches, if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Cowan had the remedy backed by home testimony. See all stores. Foster-McMillan Co. Props., Buffalo, N. Y. "When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name."

CHARLEVOIX DRUGGIST

HAS VALUABLE AGENCY

B. A. Herman has the Charlevoix agency for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-I-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This simple remedy has powerful action and drains such surprising amounts of old matter from the body that JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. The QUICK action of Adler-I-ka is astonishing.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brown a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Madlem and daughter, Mildred, of Petoskey returned home Sunday after a short visit at the home of J. F. Sheatsley.

MARION CENTER

Kathleen Bugbee of Charlevoix was a guest of Lyda Black last week.

Albert Cook left for Big Rapids on Monday to attend the Ferris institute.

Clarence Meggison left Monday morning for Lansing, where he will attend M. A. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Blackwood entertained a number of their friends and neighbors with a party January 1st. An enjoyable day was spent by those present.

Lyda Black was hostess at a New Year's Eve party last Thursday evening, when a number of her friends were pleasantly entertained while watching the Old Year out and the New Year in. Refreshments were served, which added much pleasure to the evening.

HAYES.

Gus Jericho is on the sick list this week.

Hazel Shearer spent the holidays at home.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Baker, a daughter.

Two days last week without seeing our mail carrier.

Mrs. Bessie Hamlin called on Mrs. Neil Baker Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Ostrum called on Mrs. Gus Jericho Sunday.

Dulcie Howe returned to her school at Boyne City Sunday.

Mrs. Oraen Cook visited Mrs. Fay Kane one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris went to Petoskey last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt Webster went to Horton Bay last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Emma Gondor called on Mrs. H. S. Newson one day last week.

Jim O'Brien and wife spent New Year's with George Howe's family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Kane called on Mrs. H. S. Newson Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. O'Brien called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamlin Sunday.

Mrs. Clara Worth spent New Year's with her sister, Mrs. Orton Vandusen.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hamlin spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ferguson.

Mrs. Will Ostrum is sick at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Geo. Tindall.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wightman spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gus Jericho.

Platt Webster's pony had its leg broken and was killed to end its sufferings.

Conrad Snyder of Horton Bay was a caller at the home of Frank Sheathen Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones Lewis and Fred Erfourth were Sunday callers at the home of C. Pant.

Mr. and Mrs. Ostrum, Sr., of Burgess were callers Monday at the home of Mrs. George Tindall.

Bert Newson of Elkhart, Indiana, is spending a few weeks with his mother, Mrs. Anna Newson.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kane and Mrs. D. L. Trafford spent Sunday at the home of Platt Webster.

Mrs. Gilbert Ferris and Violet Lewis called on Mrs. John Brown of Charlevoix one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Mock returned to Grand Rapids Saturday after spending the holidays with Mrs. Gus Jerichow.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt Webster, Mrs. J. Lewis and Mrs. C. Pant and daughter spent last Wednesday at E. E. Stroud's.

D. L. Trafford, who spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kane, returned to his home in Traverse City Wednesday.

Mrs. Bert Gondor and Miss Edna Kane returned to Grand Rapids Friday after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fay Kane.

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Cora B. Driggett)

Etta Thayer has not returned from Boyne City.

Miss Marie Laimman spent the holidays at her home near Ellsworth.

Miss Lillian Akins spent the vacation at her home in Bellaire. She attended a R. H. S. reunion held by the class of 1914.

Bessie Allen, Cora Driggett, Ward Genett and Fred Gregory attended the C. H. S. class reunion held by the 1914 class.

Fred Gregory spent New Year's Day with Ward Genett. They both enjoyed a sleigh ride and an oyster supper at Norwood.

Fred Gregory visited Edith Hale's school in the Nowland district during the holidays. Miss Hale was a member of the class of 1911.

Miss Ruby Hooker spent the Christmas holidays at Ewart. Miss Hooker enjoyed an interesting experience making Christmas candy for her uncle's shop.

Miss Himes met Isabel Knight and June Stafford in Grand Rapids. Both were members of the class of 1910 and have completed the life course at Ypsilanti.

Miss Himes received a letter from Mrs. Vern Houghtaling, formerly Miss Pearl Hurst, a member of the class of 1909. Mrs. Houghtaling resides at Reese, Michigan.

A report was received from Ernest Pearson of the school exhibit and fair held at the Advance school. The picture of the exhibit he sent was appreciated by all the class.

Rosa Groenink spent the holidays at her home near Ellsworth. She attended a program given by Miss Dessie Groenink's pupils. Miss Dessie Groenink was a member of the class of 1913.

Miss Hazel Holliday, a member of the class of 1909, is teaching the third, fourth and fifth grades at Ellsworth. She helped to train the children for the Christmas carolata given at the close of school.

We have made a class resolution for this new year. A box has been placed on the table and every time anyone uses any slang one cent is to be deposited. Miss Himes was the first to make a deposit.

Miss Clare Thorsen and Miss Cleo Thorne spent the holidays at their home in East Jordan. They drove ten miles from East Jordan to Ellsworth to reach a train, so they could return to Charlevoix Saturday.

Subscribe for the Courier.

Sunday in the Churches

Catholic Church

Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.
High Mass at 10:00 a. m.
Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.
Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.
Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church

Bible school at 12 o'clock.
Young people's meeting 6:30 p. m.
Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
Services at Ironton:—
Bible school, 2:00 p. m.
Preaching, 3:00 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church

A. M.—Grant Hudson will speak.
P. M.—Matt. Mullen will have charge.

Church of God

Services at camp ground every Sunday.
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science

Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.

Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject: "Sacrament."

Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 till 5 p. m.

COTTONSEED MEAL A CHEAP BEEF FEED

(Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.)

From present indications it is probable that there will be this year an approximately 500,000 more tons of cottonseed meal on the home market than there were last year. Not only is the cotton crop itself larger, but the exports of cottonseed meal are likely to be much diminished on account of the conditions prevailing abroad.

In the opinion of experts in the United States department of agriculture this abundance of cottonseed meal offers an excellent opportunity to the farmer to feed beef cattle at a greater profit than he has been able to do for some years. The feeding value of cottonseed meal has been recognized by agricultural authorities for some time. It is, in fact, a trifle higher than that of linseed meal and at least twice that of corn. In other words, for feeding cattle one pound of cottonseed meal is equal to two pounds of corn. Where the remainder of the ration is composed entirely of feeds high in carbohydrates, such as corn, corn stover and flaxseed hay, the great live value of cottonseed meal is even higher.

This fact is of especial importance to cattle feeders throughout the corn belt and other states where much corn

Among cattle bred solely for beef some rank higher than the Herefords. The Shorthorn, Angus, Galloway and perhaps the Red Poll breeds are as well thought of in various parts of the country. Admirers of the Herefords maintain that no other breed can equal them as rustlers. They claim no breed of cattle can make so much beef out of grass as the Hereford. As the name indicates, they came originally from Herefordshire, England.

is fed. In Indiana, for example, it was found that the addition of one pound of cottonseed meal to a ration of corn and clover hay resulted in a saving of 1.37 pounds of corn and 1.41 pounds of clover hay. This means that if corn was worth 70 cents a bushel and clover hay $15 a ton, each ton of cottonseed meal fed the cattle saved the farmer $55.40 worth of other feed. With cottonseed meal at $24 a ton this is a net saving of $31.40—a saving well worth while.

Twenty-four dollars a ton may seem low for cottonseed meal, but as a matter of fact the meal can now be bought to the south at prices ranging from $22 to $24 per ton instead of $27 to $31, demanded last year. At these prices cottonseed meal is approximately $15 per ton cheaper than linseed meal. Cottonseed meal has an even greater drop in price and is now selling at from $4.50 to $5.50 a ton.

In addition to its feeding value the fertilizing value of cottonseed meal is very high, so high indeed at present prices the meal could be profitably used for fertilizer alone. When fed to cattle from 80 to 90 per cent of this fertilizing value remains in the manure. In other words, when the enrichment of the land is taken into consideration the cattle are fed at a cost of from only 10 to 20 per cent of the market price of the cottonseed meal. This, say the experts in the department of agriculture, affords an opportunity to the farmer to make profits on the feeding of live stock which he has not enjoyed for many years.

First American Potash.
Secretary of Interior Lane said recently that he had received word from Searles, Cal., that the first American potash will be produced by the Searles lake plant within three months. The initial output will only be five tons a day, but the plant under construction is expected to produce 120 tons per day.

RELIABILITY.

Try to be reliable. Reliability is far more important than genius, so far as the comfort of the people with whom you live is concerned.

In This Age of Reciprocity

the business man prefers the bank which remembers and performs its obligations to the Public from which it draws its support.

Fully appreciative of these obligations, The Charlevoix State Savings Bank, strives in legitimate ways to co-operate with the business interests, large and small, of Charlevoix and Michigan.

Extending all the facilities offered by a conservative and progressive institution.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rochow, Cashier

Archie Livingston, Asst. Cashier

H. S. Harsha, Vice President

Bake Day Troubles

Bring them to us—we'll solve them for you. Baking is our business—good baking. Housewives tell us they can buy their baked goods as cheap as they can make them themselves—and think of the trouble and worry it saves you. Let us do your baking for you for a while, and see if this is not true.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

AUCTION SALE

The undersigned, will sell at Public Auction at his farm two and one-half miles south of Charlevoix, on

Thursday, January 14, 1915

Commencing at one o'clock sharp the following described property to-wit:

Gray horse, wt. 1050 lbs
Durham cow, fresh in two weeks
Holstein cow, fresh next September
2 Jersey heifers, 2 years old, fresh in March
Holstein heifer, 5 months old
3 Chester White pigs, 5 months old
2 Jersey Red sows, 7 months old
New Oliver plow 50 hens
Spring tooth harrow
Spike tooth harrow
Deering mowing machine
Heavy wagon
Heavy single harness
Double work harness
Double driving harness
2 Rubber storm blankets

2 Horse blankets 1 cutter
2 string bells 1 saddle
Fanning mill
2 sets runners and whilletrees
A quantity corn fodder and straw
2 cultivator
Some clover and timothy hay
Oak sideboard
1 ten ft. Oak dining table
6 cane seated Oak chairs 1 Oak stand
Wooden bed with springs 1 mattress
Spring cot with mattress
3 rockers, other chairs 1 couch
Range refrigerator cream separator
Washing machine wringer
Stands, lamps, tables, chairs and other articles too numerous to mention

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 or under cash; all sums over $10.00 ten months time good approved bankable paper payable at the Charlevoix County Bank with interest at 7 per cent. Five per cent off for cash. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

AUSTIN NEWMAN, Prop.

W. E. BYERS, Auctioneer

F. A. BUTLER, Clerk

YOUR AUCTION SALE

One of the most important things to keep in mind when you are contemplating having an Auction Sale is to engage an Auctioneer who is on the job every minute and knows how to conduct a sale.

It is my Business

Experience has taught me how to conduct a sale successfully. Have cried over 500 in the last 10 years and make it a point to always give satisfaction.

When you are ready for that sale, write me at Charlevoix, or book any date you want at the Courier Office.

W. E. BYERS
Charlevoix, Mich.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

PIANOS

FACTORY TUNED

Repairing Action
Regulating
Finishing, etc.

Twenty-four Years Experience as Dealer.

ETHAN JOLLIFFE
R. F. D. 4 Charlevoix, Mich.

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 313. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

ISLE SHANAHAN
Attorney at Law
Beuk Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 104 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON
Law, Real Estate and Investments
Collections Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD
Dentist
Office in VanPelt Building
Over Leynson's Store
Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTELTON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience
Maps and Plans on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

ALLEN M. WILKINSON
Physician and Surgeon
Ryes Tested and Glasses Fitted
Telephone—Office 96 2; residence 96 3
Office in Postoffice Bldg Charlevoix

R. B. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the
EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 255 Charlevoix, Mich.

DR. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 5 Charlevoix, Mich.

Copyright, 1912, by the McClure Publications, Incorporated
Copyright, 1912, by the Macmillan Company

SYNOPSIS

Owing to hard times and the failure of Ebenezer Rule's factory the people of Old Trail Town contemplate buying no presents and having no Christmas.

A town meeting is held, and the decision is reached to have no Christmas, not even for the children.

A notice to this effect is signed by nearly every one. Mary Chavah receives a letter from her sister Lily's boy.

This boy asks her to take his six-year-old brother, son of Adam Blood, a lover who killed Mary for her sister Lily.

Mary prepares to welcome him. Despite their resolutions many people find it difficult to cut out Christmas altogether.

Ebenezer Rule, grieving for his dead son, Malcolm, and his dead wife, finds the boy's hobbyhorse in an unused attic.

Boys and girls are unhappy because there will be no Christmas. Women regret that Mary's boy will find none awaiting him.

Children of the town are rehearsing for a funeral on Christmas. They are planning to bury Santa Claus.

Ellen Bourne plans to have a Christmas tree and urges her husband to adopt a little boy at once.

The good townsfolk secretly prepare to rather at Mary's house on Christmas eve to welcome the little boy.

One after another different people break the anti-Christmas pledge. The spirit of Christmas softens the hard heart of Ebenezer Rule.

He gets the hobbyhorse for Mary's boy, whose trail is delayed. Every one is happy in preparing a Christmas welcome for the orphan.

The boy arrives in safety, and the town that was not to celebrate Christmas happily celebrates it after all.

CHAPTER XIII. Christmasing.

TEN minutes after Mary Chavah had left her house every window was lighted, a fire was kindled in the parlor and neighbors came from the dark and fell to work at the baskets they had brought. It was marvelous what homely cheer arose. The dining room table, stretched at its fullest length and white covered, was various with the yellow and red of fruit and salads, the golden brown of cake and rolls and the mosaic of dishes. The fire roared in the flat topped stove on whose "wings" covered pans waited, and everywhere was that happy stir and touch and lift, that note of preparation which informs a time as sunshine or music will strike its key.

"My land, the oven—the warning oven! Mary ain't got one. However will we keep the stuff hot?" Mrs. Winslow demanded. "What time is it?"

"We'd ought to had my big coffee-pot. We'd ought to set two going. I dunno why I didn't think of it." Mrs. Moran grieved.

"Well," said Mrs. Mortimer Bates, "when the men get here—if they ever do get here—we'll send one of 'em off somewhere for the truck we forgot. What time is it?"

"Here comes a whole cartload of folks," Mrs. Moran announced. "I hope and pray they've got the oysters—they'd ought to be popped in the baking oven a minute. What time did you say it is?"

"It's twenty minutes past 7," Mrs. Winslow said, pushing her hair straight back regardless of its part, "and we ain't ready with 'leven hundred miles."

"Well, if they only all get here," Mrs. Bates said, ringing golden and white stuffed eggs on Mary's blue platter. "It's their all being here when she gets here, that I want. I ain't worried about the supper—much."

"The road's black with folks," Mrs. Moran went on. "I'm so dead afraid I didn't make enough sandwiches. Oh, I dunno why it wasn't given me to make more, I'm sure."

"Who's seeing to them in the parlor? Who's getting their baskets out here? Where they holding a place for their wraps? Who's lighting the rest of the lamps? What time is it?" demanded Mrs. Winslow, cutting her cakes.

"Oh," said Mrs. Bates from a cloud of brown butter about the cooking stove, "I dunno whether we've done right. I dunno but we've broke our word to the Christmas paper. I dunno whether we ain't going to get ourselves criticized for this or that."

Mrs. Winslow straightened up from the table and held out a hand with no gers frosting tipped.

"Well," she said, with a great period. "If we have broke our word to the Christmas paper, I'd rather stand up here with my word broke this way than with it kept so good it hurt me."

her Christmas rose for the table, but come she would not. I wonder if she couldn't come over now if we sent after her last minute?"

Blueson Buck, appearing a few minutes later at the kitchen door to set a basket inside, was dispatched for Ellen Bourne, the warming oven and the coffee pot collectively. He took with him Abel Ames, who was waiting for him without. And it changed that they knocked at the Bourne's door just after Ben Felders had driven away with the little boy, so that the men found the family still in the presence of the little tree.

"Hello!" said Simeon, aghast. "Christmasing away all by yourselves, I'll be bound, like so many thieves! I reflect not seeing your names on the paper."

"No, I didn't sign," Ellen said. "I voted against it that night at the town meeting, but I guess nobody heard me."

"Well," said Simeon, "and so here you've got a Christmas of your own going forward, neat as a kitten's foot."

"Ain't you coming over to Mary Chavah's?" Abel broke in with a kind of gentleness. "All of you?"

Ellen smote her hands together. "I meant to go over later," she said. "and take"—She paused. "I thought we'd all go over later," she said. "I forgot about it. Why, yes, I guess we can go now, can't we? All three of us?"

Abel Ames stood looking at the tree. He had guessed that she might have dressed it for no one who would see it. He looked at Ellen and ventured what he thought.

"Ellen," he said, "if you ain't going to do anything more with that tree to night, why not take some of the things off and have Matthew set it on his shoulder, and bring it over to Mary's for the boy that's coming?"

Ellen hesitated. "Would they like it?" she asked. "I'll take the blame," he said, "and you take the tree." And, seeing Simeon hesitate, "Now let's stop by for Mrs. Moran's coffee-pot," he added. "Hurry up. The local must be in."

So presently the tree, partly divested of its brightness, was carried through the streets to the other house—in more than the music which attends the carrying in the open road of a tree, a statue, a cart filled with flowers, for the tree was like some forbidden thing that still would be expressed.

"He might not come till Christmas is 'way past," Ellen thought, following. "She'll leave it standing a few days. We can go down there and look at it—if he comes."

A little way behind them, Simeon and Abel, with the coffee-pot and the warming oven, were hurrying back to Mary's. They went down the deserted street where Abel's candle burned and Simeon's silent mute.

"When I was a little shaver," Abel said, "they used to have me stand in the open doorway Christmas eve, and hold a candle and say a verse. I forgot the verse. But I've always liked the candle in doors or windows, like tonight. Look at mine over there now—ain't it like somebody saying something?"

"Well," said Simeon, not to be outdone, "when we come by my window just now the light hit down on it, and I could of sworn I see the saint smile."

"Like enough," said Abel placidly; "like enough. You can't put Christmas out. I see that two weeks ago. He looked back at his own window."

"If the little kid that come in the store last Christmas eve tries to come in again tonight," he said, "he won't find it all pitch dark, anyway. I'd like to know who he was."

Near the corner that turned down to the Rule factory they saw Ebenezer Rule coming toward them on the Old Trail road. They called to him.

"Hello, Ebenezer!" said Abel. "Ain't you coming in to Mary Chavah's tonight?"

"I think not," Ebenezer answered. "Come ahead," encouraged Simeon. As they met Abel spoke hesitatingly.

"Ebenezer," he said, "I was just figuring on proposing to Blueson here that we stop in to your house. I was thinking," he broke off, "how would it be for you and him and me, that sort of stand for the merchandise end of this town, to show up at Mary's house tonight. Well, it's the women have done all the work so far, and I was wondering how it would be for three to get there with some little thing for that little kid that's coming to her. We could find something that wouldn't cost much. It didn't ought to cost much count of our set principles. And take it to him." Abel ended doubtfully.

Ebenezer simply laughed his curious succession of gutturals.

"Crazy to Christmas, after all, ain't you?" he said.

But Simeon wheeled and stared at Abel. For definition in their own camp he had never looked.

"I knew you'd miss it—I knew you'd miss it!" Simeon said excitedly. "Cut paper and fancy tassels and

"No such thing," said Abel shortly. "I was thinking of that boy getting here, that's all. And I couldn't see why we shouldn't do our share—which totis' coffee-pots and warming ovens ain't, as I see it."

"Well, but heavens, man," said Simeon. "It's Christmas! You can't go giving anybody anything, can you?"

"I don't mean give it to him for Christmas at all," protested Abel. "I mean give it to him just like you would any other day. We'd likely take him something if it wasn't Christmas, sort of to show our good will, like the women with the supper. Well, why not take him some little thing even if it is Christmas?"

"Oh, well," said Simeon, "that way, if you make it plain it ain't for Christmas. Of course we ain't to blame for what day his train got in on."

"Sure we ain't," said Abel contentedly.

Ebenezer was moving away. "We'll call in for you in half an hour or so," Abel's voice followed him. "We'll slip out after the boy gets there. There won't be time before—what say, Ebenezer?"

"I think so," said Ebenezer. "You don't need me."

"Well, congratulations anyhow!" Abel called.

Ebenezer stopped on the crossing. "What for?" he asked.

"Man alive!" said Abel. "Don't you know Bruce has got a little girl?"

"No," said Ebenezer. "I—didn't know. I'm obliged to you."

He turned from them, but instead of crossing the street to go to his house he faced down the little dark street to the factory. He had walked past Jenny's once that evening, but without being able to force himself to inquire. He knew that Bruce had come a day or two before, but Bruce had sent him no word. Bruce had never sent any word since the conditions of the failure had been made plain to him when he had resigned his position, refused the salary due him and left Old Trail Town. Clearly Ebenezer could make no inquiry under those circumstances, he told himself. They had cut themselves off from him definitely.

How definitely he was cut off from them was evident as he went down the dark street to the factory. He was strangely quickened from head to foot with the news of the birth of Bruce's child. He went down toward the factory simply because that was the place that he knew best, and he wanted to be near it. He walked in the snow of the midroad, facing the wind, steeped in that sense of keener being which a word may pour in the veins until the body flows with it. The third generation; the next of kin—that which stirred in him was a satisfaction almost physical; that his family was promised its future.

Nellie Hatch and her nine sister were watching at the lighted window as if there were something to see. "Must be kind of dreary work for them—living," he thought. "I s'pose Bruce is pretty pleased—pretty pleased."

At the corner some one spoke to him with a note of pleasure in his voice. It was his bookkeeper, with his wife and two partly grown daughters. Ebenezer thought of his last meeting with his bookkeeper and remembered the man's smile of perfect comprehension and sympathy as if they, too, had something in common.

"Family life does cling to a man," he had said.

That was his wife on his arm and their two daughters. On that salary of his! Was it possible, it occurred to Ebenezer, that she was saving up money, earning sewing money, winning prizes for puzzles—as Letty had done?

Outside the factory, the blue air light threw a thousand shadows on the great bulk of the building, but left naked in light the little office. He stood looking at it, as he so rarely saw it, from part way across the road. Seen so, it took on another aspect, as if it had emerged from some continuing gloom lit by the years. The office was painted brown and discolored. He saw it white, with lozenge panes unbroken, flowered curtains at the windows, the light of lamp and wood stove shining out. And as sharply as if it had been painted on the air, he saw some unimportant incident in his life there—a four wheeled carriage drawn up at the door with some Christmas guests just arriving and himself and Letty and Malcolm in the open doorway. He could not remember who the guests were or whether he had been glad to see them, and he had no wish in the world to see those guests again. But the simple, casual, homely incident became to him the sign of all that makes up everyday life, the everyday life of folk—of folks—from which he had so long been absent.

His eye went down the dark little street where were the houses of the men who were his factory "hands." Just for a breath he saw them as they were—the chorus in the thing he was thinking about. They were all thinking about it too. Every one of them knew what he knew. Just for a breath he saw the little street as it was—an entity. Then the sight closed, but through him ran again that sense of keener being, so poignant that now, as his veins flowed with it, something deeper within him almost answered.

CHAPTER XIV.
Waiting.

HE wheeled impatiently from where he stood. He wanted to do something. At the end of the street he could see them crossing under the light on their way to Mary Chavah's. Abel and Simeon might stop for him, but how could he go there among the folk whom he had virtually denied their Christmas? What would they have to say to him? Yet what they should say would, after all, matter nothing to him, and perhaps he would hear them say something about Bruce and Jenny. Still, he had nothing to take there, as Abel had suggested. What had he that a boy would want to have? Unless—

He thought for a moment. Then he crossed the street to what had been his house. He went in, seeing again the hallway and stair, red carpeted, and the door opened into the lamp-lit room beyond. He found and lighted an end of candle that he knew and made his way up the stair. There he set the candle down and lowered the ladder that led to the loft.

In the loft a gust of wind from the skylight blew out the flame of his little wick. In the darkness the broken panes above his head looked down on him like a face and that face the sky, thousand eyed. He mounted a box, pushed up the frame and put out his head. The sky lay near. The little town showed heaped roofs and lifting smoke and here and there a light. Sparkling in their midst was the light before the town hall, like an eye guarding something and answering to the light before his factory and to the other light before the station, where the world went by.

High over all, climbing the east, came Capella and seemed to be standing above—the village.

He looked the need to express what he felt best Ebenezer.

"Quite a little town," he thought "quite a little town."

High over all, climbing the east, came Capella and seemed to be standing above—the village.

He looked the need to express what he felt best Ebenezer.

"Quite a little town," he thought "quite a little town."

High over all, climbing the east, came Capella and seemed to be standing above—the village.

He looked the need to express what he felt best Ebenezer.

NOT TOMORROW---TODAY

RIGHT NOW is the time to begin saving. Today is the day to resolve to pay yourself some amount from your pay envelope each time you receive it.

BY ALL MEANS, have a savings account with this safe, strong bank. Begin with a dollar or any amount you can spare—be determined to save, every week—to add a little more to what you have

THAT is the way to get ahead—to make a start for yourself in life. TODAY—Not Tomorrow.

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK
John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Butters A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

WATCH

Blanchard's Bargain Counters

There are many Surprises in store for you

Hand Sleds at Cost

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

Mr. Merchant

The Holiday rush is over—Now is the time to have your lighting equipment brought up to a MODERN STANDARD—and HERE is where you can obtain it

TUNGSTEN CLUSTERS SHOW WINDOW ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and other illumination equipment at the closest prices and the highest quality.

For DOMESTIC use we have an unrivaled showing of ELECTRIC DEVICES for cooking, heating, etc., small motors and truly handsome portables, electric toasters, etc. Your visit of inspection incurs no obligation and is cordially invited.

F. S. Bettis

214 Bridge street
Phone 134 when you need
First-class Electric Work

"A Shine in Every Drop"
Get a Can TO-DAY From Your Hardware or Grocery Dealer

(Continued on page 6.)

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VauPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year.....$1.50
One copy, six months......75
One copy, three months......40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and
entertainments, where admission is
charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary notices, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 2 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

"Who Pays the War Tax?"

THE war tax measure is now law and an analysis of its provisions shows that it will have a widespread effect. Almost everybody in business will pay the tax under one provision or another and some will pay it under several provisions. They will also pay a tax as consumers. Generally speaking, the tax will be paid by the following:

- Those who buy and sell bonds and shares of stock.
 - Those who give proxies for voting their shares.
 - Those who buy and sell produce and merchandise on the exchanges.
 - Those who borrow money on promisory notes.
 - Those who ship goods by freight or express.
 - Those who do long distance telephoning.
 - Those who sell real estate.
 - Importers of goods through the custom house.
 - Those who insure their buildings or goods.
 - Those who go abroad on ocean steamships.
 - Those who use perfumery or cosmetics.
 - Those who brush their teeth.
 - Those who chew gum.
 - Those who travel in parlor cars and sleeping cars.
 - Those who drink beer, wine or spirits.
 - Those who do business as brokers, including pawnbrokers.
 - Those engaged in banking, except mutual savings banks.
 - Commission merchants.
 - Proprietors of theatres, museums, concert halls and circuses, except the managers of Chautauqua courses.
 - Tobacco dealers and manufacturers.
- The new law, in effect, will affect everybody except a savage owning nothing and living in the woods.
- And while it is truly hard luck that we, neutral and non-combatant, should have to bear this $100,000,000 tax by reason of somebody else's war, still the situation might be worse. It is bad enough to lose money through war, but it is infinitely worse to lose money and life.

WHEN the editor of a country paper starts in on Monday morning to get up something for his paper in the way of interesting local news, and finds, after nosing around, that nothing has happened in the town or community that he can write up, and nobody gives in any personal or local news, and every fellow he talks to says "I don't know a thing," and his liver is not working just right and he feels as though he had just as soon loop, the loop with Lincoln Beachey as go to work—that's the time when he would like to turn the job over to the "Smart Aleck" who thinks he could get up a better paper than the editor and not half try.

A PETOSKEY saloonkeeper ordered eight barrels of wine for the holiday trade and received eight barrels of vinegar. Bet his customers were sufficiently pickled.

ANY turkeys that lived past Christmas and New Year's will look forward to a long and uninterrupted period of peace and prosperity.

SKIRTS are to be six inches above the ground the coming season. Nevertheless, there will be two feet below the hem.

NOT only have we an excellent navy,
but we have Richmond Pearson Hobson in the conning tower of congress.

ALMOST everybody has a neighbor who refuses to keep the snow shoveled off his walk.

WHAT has become of the old-fashioned man who knew what was good for frost-bite?

Ben Hur.

Charlevoix the Beautiful, Court No.
135, met Monday evening, December
28th, at the firemen's hall. The usual program was carried out. Nearly all the members were present. Refreshments were served and a general good time was had. The next meeting will be January 11th. All members are requested to be present.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier?
If not, why not?

A Wonder Of the Sea

It Was Seen Near the Middle of the Last Century

By OSCAR COX

Captain Enoch Nicholson was master of a New Bedford whaling ship when that industry was in its prime. He was accustomed to go forth on to the waters, where he would remain several years, then back to New Bedford to dispose of his product. On one of these outings he decided to take his family with him. It consisted of his wife and daughter, Harriet, aged fifteen. That was the era of sailships. True, steam had been applied as a motive power but only on the land, and the engines used were very crude machines. Fulton had applied steam to a boat on the Hudson river, but no one had thought of a ship driven by steam. It was not till about the year 1840 that the paddle wheel steamer began to ply
the ocean regularly.

Captain Nicholson, always on the water, knew little or nothing about what was going on on land, and his family lived in a little New England village where a newspaper seldom penetrated.
The consequence was that if they had ever heard of steam as a motive power they were not capable of understanding how it could be effected, and it made no impression upon them.

Captain Nicholson's wife and daughter went to New Bedford and at once boarded his ship, the Molly Stark, and sailed with him the same day on a three years' whaling voyage. They brought with them the few books they could gather in that primitive village in New England, including schoolbooks for Harriet. The captain had fitted up a cabin for their special occupancy and they were as well prepared as they could be at that time to make a home upon the ocean.

The three years passed with the usual mixture of storm and sunshine.

THOSE ON THE MOLLY STARK COULD DIS-CERN A DARK MASS.

sunny and smooth waters. Then the captain turned his ship's nose toward home. His wife and daughter naturally were much pleased at the prospect of leaving their cramped quarters.

Off the Maine coast they ran into a heavy fog, and, there being no wind, the Molly Stark rolled on a broad ground swell, and her sails flapped as she leaned to port or starboard.
There was not the fear of collision in those days there is now, and Captain Nicholson, had there been a breeze, would not have hesitated to take advantage of it. As it was, he went to sleep in his cabin and permitted his crew, except a single man, who remained on deck to report any change in the weather, to do the same.

It was just after daylight, when a chorus of snores was rising from the face of the deep, that Nicholson was aroused by Tim Bunsby, the watch turnout, he saw the man bending over him with a face white with fear.

"Captain!" he called in a tremulous voice.

"What is it?" asked the captain, starting up.

"There's a sea monster on the port quarter!"

"A sea monster?"

"Yes, it's a-puffin' and a-snorin' and a-swallin' in the water and a-breathin' smoke!"

"Breathin' smoke?"

"Yes, I can't see it, but I can smell
it. If the thing attacks the ship we'll all go to the bottom!"

The captain leaped from his berth, snuffed into trousers and pea jacket and hurried up the companionway. On reaching the deck a burnt smell of smoke reached his nostrils. But the fog was thicker than ever, and he could see nothing but his ship. Just then there came a succession of snorts from the starboard.

"It's moved," said Bunsby. "When I went down she was on the port side."

The snorts ceased, but there was a disturbance of the water, swirl and foam passing the Molly Stark.

Now, Captain Nicholson was as bold
a man as ever sailed the seven seas.
Moreover, he had an eye for business. We are all prone to think in times in which we are accustomed, and the captain's mind was naturally inclined to be a little more so.

woman, but, whatever it was, it was likely to contain oil. All fish contain more or less of the substance. The smell of smoke led to this idea. If the huge fish breathed fire and smoke there must be fuel in its belly. That fuel was more than likely to be oil or some other fatty substance. While these things were passing through the captain's mind there came a sound which seemed to come from the throat of a huge gander.

Jim muttered a prayer. The captain's cupidly gave way in his fears, and he stood irresolute for awhile; then pulling himself together, he resolved to get a sight of the monster under the fog.

"Call up the crew," he said.

Bunsby, who was glad enough to get something to do to divert his mind went below and came back, followed by the mate and a dozen seamen.

"Mr. Hawkins," said the captain to the mate, "there's some sort of a marine animal near us. I wish to get a view of him from the water surface.
Lower a boat and put in the largest harpoon aboard."

"Aye, aye, sir!" responded the mate.

But just as the men grasped the ropes that held the boats to the davits the snorting recommenced. Every man stood still, and all turned pale. In a few moments swirls of foam came to ward the ship.

"It's swimmin' away from us," said
the mate.

"Hudn't we better let her go?" cried
Tim Bunsby.

"Let her go? We can't help ourselves with no wind. We may be losing a hundred barrels of oil!"

The fog thinned, and through it those on the Molly Stark could discern a dark mass, a protrusion on either side the whole resembling a huge duck with wings partly stretched. But the vision lasted only a moment, for the fog thickened again and shut it off. The snorts grew fainter, as did the striking of the feet of the huge bird on the surface of the water as it paddled.

"It's not a whale," said the mate.

"It's a mammoth duck!"

"Ducks are web footed," suggested one of the men. "This thing doesn't draw back its feet through the water;
it hits the surface every time."

The snorts ceased, the hammering on the water stopped, the foam swirls came less rapidly and soon ceased altogether.

"There's a little breeze, cap'n," said Bunsby. "Don't you think we'd better take advantage of it to get away?"

The captain paid no attention to this timid request. He said that since the thing was of the bird rather than the fish variety there was no hope of getting oil from it, but there might be feathers such as the world had never seen, and a fortune might be reaped by securing them and towing them into port. But the mate was of opinion that feathers were only used in America to decorate women's hats, and, judging from the size of the bird a woman to wear its plumage must be 400 or 500 feet high.

While they were debating this matter the fog was suddenly illuminated and a horrible hissing sound emerged from the monster bird. This noise awakened all who had remained asleep and they came pouring up the com-panionway.

"What is it?" asked the captain's wife in terror.

"We don't know," replied her husband. "There's some strange monster ramblin' out there that's been paddlin' about and snorting and blowing fire and smoke."

"Dear me, will it stink us?"

"It certainly will, mum," Tim Bunsby broke in. "Unless you can persuade the capt'n to get out of its way."

The hissing sound continued. Harriet Nicholson listened to it, but apparently without any terror. She was the only one of the party who had heard the sounds made by a steam engine. Some twenty miles from her home a railroad was being built while she was on a visit there, and she had heard the sound made by the blowing off of steam.

"There's a steam engine out there,"
she said.

"A steam engine?" exclaimed her father. "What's a steam engine doing on the ocean? I've heard they pull stagecoaches on the land, but how can a track be laid on the water?"

"I don't know," persisted the girl.
"But that's a steam engine. I've heard one before."

Suddenly the fog lifted, and there in plain view was the dark hull of one of the first ocean steamers ever built.
Amidships was a stack vomiting smoke;
on either side was an arched box, beneath which the paddles of the huge wheel were visible beating the water.
A stoker was shoveling coal into the open furnace door, and the fire cast a bright light through an open port.

Terror on the part of those on the Molly Stark gave way to wonder as the stern of the steamer grew smaller in the distance, giving it the appearance of a huge bird.

"I'm going to retire, nure enough," exclaimed Captain Nicholson, "as soon as I reach port. I don't care to run any such fire bird as that!"

The Great Western—this was the steamer's name—crossing the ocean had met with a mishap to her machinery and had been obliged to stop for a while. She had started on once or twice, but something proved wrong and she was obliged to stop. Hearing sounds from the Molly Stark, she had blown her whistle.

Captain Nicholson on the completion of his voyage retired with a fortune.
He went to Boston to live and became much interested in steam as a motive power, and, living to be an old man, saw the Great Eastern, the first of the mammoth ocean steamers.

Ships in English Channel.
Between 1840 and 1890 ships go up and down the English channel every day in the year.

Levinson's Clearance Sale

Will End

SATURDAY, JANUARY 9TH

Take advantage of this Bargain Event

ROBINSON-EDWARDS

Charlevoix Girl and Promiscuous Boyne City Man Married Here.

On Thursday, December 31st, 1914,
Miss Ivy F. Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edwards of this city, and Ernest A. Robinson of Boyne City were happily united in marriage in the presence of a few intimate friends at the home of the bride's parents. Rev.
John Redpath of Petoskey, an old and intimate friend of the family, officiated.
The ceremony took place at 11 a. m., after which a sumptuous dinner was served. Shortly after this pleasant repast the happy couple left for Boyne City, where they will make their future home.

SHORT ON SIGNATURES

Tonnage Tax Amendment Will Not Be Voted On This Spring.

Not enough signatures have been obtained to the Grange petitions initiating a tonnage tax amendment to the state constitution to bring it to a vote.
This means that the tonnage tax issue will not come before the legislature via the law that provides for the initiative, in which case there would have been a vote on it in the state at large, whether or not it was defeated in the legislature. It may, however, be presented in the legislature as an ordinary bill and thus may be before the members.
In any event, the Grange members who are interested in securing the tonnage tax for the state assert that they will begin the preparation of new initiative petitions in the hope of forcing the issue to a vote two years hence.

On the last day for filing initiative petitions the number of names available fell far short of the 35,000 required.
N. P. Hull, a leading granger and president of the Grange Insurance Association, blamed red tape for the failure to obtain the names required. "We had lots of trouble over those petitions," he said. "The law requires that all signatures be sworn to by the person or persons who secure them.
In many cases petitions came to us which had been circulated by at least four and sometimes half a dozen persons. When we found we had to have an affidavit from each one of them it was too late to send them back and have the affidavits made. Only last week thousands of signatures came in which could not be certified and returned before next week."

For two weeks we have
been prophesying

Higher Flour Prices

They've come, but prices will
be still higher

BUY YOUR FLOUR NOW

and Save Money

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

CHVATEL-HULL

Young Couple Married at the Home of Bride—
Will Reside Here.

At the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hull on State street occurred the marriage of their daughter, Nellie, to Mr. Frank Chvate Thursday evening, December 31st.

A large company of relatives and friends were present. Rev. Quinton Walker used the beautiful and impressive ring service of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The young couple will reside in the city. Their many friends wish them a long, happy and prosperous life.

Field Day.

The Anti-Saloon League will have a field day in Charlevoix next Sunday.
Speakers will be in all the pulpits of the city. This is your opportunity to get "sparka right off the anvil." Everyone invited. Let us make this a big day.

MOTHERS' MEETING

W. C. T. U. Meet Friday Afternoon at the Congregational Church.

The W. C. T. Union will hold their monthly meeting at the Congregational church January 8th, at 2:30 o'clock.
This is to be a mothers' meeting. Topic,
"The Boy and His Mother." Leader,
Mrs. Campbell. It is expected that Mr.
Ball will be present and give a talk.
Young mothers are especially invited to be present. The following is the program:

- Singing by the society.
- Devotionals by Mrs. H. P. Parmelee.
- Reading of the minutes.
- Business.
- Song, "It's a Long Way to Prohibition."
- Talk by Mr. Ball, Y. M. C. A. secretary.
- Mothers' testimonials.
- Song, "Oh, Where is My Wandering Boy?"
- Music by high school orchestra.

UNTIL JANUARY 14

Ladies' Coats from $10 to $18.50
sale price - - - - $5.00

Children's Coats, size 12 to 15 years
$6 to $12, sale price - - - - $4.00

Children's Coats, size 8 to 10 years
$4 to $10, sale price - - - - $3.00

Mason's Dep'tment Store

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

The winter term of school commenced this week.

Our merchants are taking their annual inventories.

Miss Mildred Kaufman spent New Year's with friends in Petoskey.

Cecil Burns left Monday for Benzonia, where he will enter the academy.

Dwight Wilson of East Jordan was a business visitor in the city Monday.

Merle Felts and Lillian Emrey spent the week end visiting friends in Petoskey.

Mrs. C. Walsh of East Jordan, was a Charlevoix visitor a few days last week.

Louis Zogarski returned Friday from Grand Haven, where he has been employed.

Miss Thomas of Petoskey is spending a few days as a guest at the home of C. M. Hall.

Will Graves and wife of Chicago are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graves.

Harvey Campbell returned home last week after sailing the season on the steamer Sinaloa.

Edward Edwards left Tuesday for Albion, where he will resume his studies at Albion College.

Mrs. E. E. Hapner is home from Ypsilanti and Detroit, where she spent a few days on business.

Miss Ethel Zipp of Bay Shore spent Wednesday and Thursday of last week in the city visiting friends.

Went Smith returned to Detroit Monday after spending a few days visiting friends and relatives in the city.

Homer Fitch of Centerville arrived in the city Friday to spend a few days visiting his brother, A. L. Fitch.

Leland Cram and Marguerite Price spent New Year's Day in Petoskey as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ellis.

Why not send the Courier during 1915 to that absent friend or relative? It would make a much appreciated gift.

Mrs. Ada Shockley returned home Monday from Petoskey, where she spent Saturday and Sunday visiting her brother.

Superintendent H. A. Craig returned to the city Saturday after spending two weeks with his mother at Sault Sainte Marie.

Miss Addie Holly leaves Saturday for Grand Rapids, where she will spend her two week's vacation visiting friends.

Ernest Kibbe is home for the winter from South Chicago, where he has been employed at the government life-saving station.

The teachers who have been spending their vacation out of the city returned Monday morning ready for another term of school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonthron have closed their home on Dixon avenue and will spend the winter months at the Elston hotel.

Jas. Sanford, Jr., returned to Notre Dame, Indiana, Monday after two weeks vacation, which he spent visiting his parents.

Harry Alcox and Clare Conlter returned to Ann Arbor Saturday after spending two weeks in the city visiting their parents.

Mrs. Peter Vandermaede entertained a number of friends Wednesday afternoon in honor of the Misses Myrtle and Lela Miller of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Arba Cameron and son, Donald, returned to their home in Minneapolis Thursday after visiting friends and relatives in the city.

The Misses Jane Mitchell and Clare Fincan returned to their duties in Detroit Saturday after spending the holidays with their parents.

Miss Margaret Dittisen returned to her home in Petoskey Saturday after spending a week visiting at the home of her uncle, Olof Nordrum.

Miss Mary Kirchner returned to her home in Saginaw Monday after spending two weeks as a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vandermaede spent New Year's day as guests at the home of Mr. Vandermaede's mother, Mrs. R. H. Sherman, of Ironston.

The Misses Marion Parsons, Pauline Markham and Edna Ward returned to their studies at Alma Monday after spending the holidays with their parents.

Mrs. Henry Cooper entertained a number of young people with a surprise party given Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Mary Kirchner of Saginaw.

Miss Marion Harris entertained a number of her friends at the home of F. J. Meech, Friday evening. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present.

Lee Barum of Allegan, who has been visiting Miss Florence Alexander of Ironston, spent Friday in the city as a guest at the home of George Gladon, enroute to his home.

Miss Jennie Richards of Bellaire, formerly a milliner of this city and Carl Weissentach of Bellaire, were united in marriage Friday, January 6, at the home of the bride. They left immediately after the ceremony for Toledo, Ohio, where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Henderson and daughter, Isabel, returned Tuesday from Manistee, where they have been visiting friends and relatives.

Charlevoix Encampment, No. 19, will hold a special meeting Saturday night, January 9th. Degree work and other important business. Members are all requested to be present. Refreshments will be served.

While crossing the ice Wednesday morning George Cook, Jr., fell through. His cries for assistance attracted the attention of men fishing near-by, and by throwing a rope out to him they were able to get him to safety.

"As the days begin to lengthen the cold begins to strengthen." This saying or observation has been handed down from generation to generation, so it must be right. Watch your thermometer and lay in more coal and wood.

Will Mitchell, Robert Bridge, Percy Crane, Hugo Hampton, Lynn Thomas, Paul Harsha, Dean Seroggie, Cleland Mayne, Loren Hart and Miss Marion Saunders returned to Ann Arbor Monday after spending two weeks visiting their parents.

Daye Howard returned Friday from Muskegon, where he has been employed during the season just closed at the life saving station. He reports most severe weather, which at times made it impossible to make their regular trips along the shore.

A Charlevoix young man home from college recently on a vacation while talking to his father said: "Dad, I was simply great in the relay events."

"That's fine; we'll make use of these talents, son. Your ma will soon be ready to relay the carpets."

When business begins to get dull for Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward & Co., National Cloak Co. or other mail order concerns they begin putting out more catalogues—spend more money in advertising.

When business begins to get dull for the home merchants they begin to cut down their advertising space or drop it altogether. That is the reason mail order houses supply so many needed articles. Think it over, Mr. Merchant.

The Misses Edna Ward, Caroline Ross, Helen and Dorothy Armstrong, Helen Meech and Marjorie Weaver and Messrs. Loren Hart, Robt. Bridge, Harry Alcox, Lester Taggart and Will Mitchell were delightedly entertained Friday evening at a New Year's party, Lynn Thomas being the host at the Thomas bungalow.

The evening was spent in card playing and dancing, after which light refreshments were served by the chaplains, Messdames Fred Thomas and Art Alcox. At the sound of bus bells approaching the party broke up, each pronouncing it a very jolly time.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE HOME LUNCHEON.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Green Tea Soup
Corn Bread
Cabbage Salad
Calf's Liver en Casserole
Jelly, Omelet.
Tea.

WHEN a substantial luncheon is required for the family the one suggested here might be tried. It is both appetizing and nourishing.

Corn Bread.—Take three eggs, beaten light; two cupfuls sour milk, three cupfuls melted butter or lard, three tablespoonfuls sugar, one small teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful soda. Mix well with cornmeal to make a thin batter. Bake in shallow pan for half an hour in hot oven.

A Simple Salad.

Cabbage Salad.—Chop one-half medium sized cabbage quite fine. Let it stand in ice water one hour, adding a tablespoonful of salt. Beat two eggs in a bowl, add to them one cupful of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of butter, a little pepper and one tablespoonful of mustard. Put the bowl in a pan of boiling water and stir constantly until it begins to thicken. Remove from the fire and add two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Drain cabbage and pour the hot dressing over it. This should be eaten cold.

Cooked With Vegetables.

Calf's Liver en Casserole.—Take a frying pan and in it slowly fry out four or five slices of fat salt pork until the pork is crisp and brown. Add to the hot fat one dozen balls cut out of potatoes, one dozen balls carrots, one stalk celery, sliced; six finely sliced onions. Cook very slowly for ten minutes, by which time they should be a delicate brown. Place in the casserole. Wash and cut a calf's liver in slices, lay on top of the vegetables, sprinkle salt and pepper over all and add a pint of boiling water and one tablespoonful of kitchen bouquet. Cover and cook in a moderate oven about an hour and serve. The cover of the casserole should not be removed after the vegetables are put in until the dish is ready to serve, lest the flavor be lost.

A Delicious Dessert.

Jelly (recipe). Take five eggs, one half-cupful of butter, one-third cupful of milk, one glass of soft jelly, one level teaspoonful of salt. Separate eggs, beat whites stiff, beat yolks thick, fold in whites lightly. Put butter in frying pan in the stove. When hot mix milk and salt into the egg mixture and pour into the frying pan. Cover and cook slowly until omelet is well puffed and browned. Bake one minute in a hot oven to try top. Spread jelly over one half, fold, turn on hot platter and serve immediately.

Anna Thompson

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Richard Castle and Wife Had Both Grown Tired of Life.

A well planned attempt of double suicide was frustrated Tuesday evening by Sheriff Novak and his deputy, assisted by Dr. R. B. Armstrong.

Richard Castle, wanted in Ohio for breaking his parole and who was to be taken to that state Wednesday morning, was granted the request to bid his wife farewell before making the journey and serving out his sentence. He was taken to the home of his father on Mason street, where his wife was stopping. Some time during the period they were together they each took a large dose of aconite. As soon as the poison began to take effect they told what they done. Dr. Armstrong was summoned and soon had them out of danger. Castle fought against relief being given, stating he wanted to die, as did his wife. A letter was found, previously written, asking that they be buried together.

Castle was taken to Ohio Wednesday morning, where he will complete a 15 year sentence.

Moose to Entertain.

The local order of Moose will entertain their wives and invited guests at a card and dancing party at the I.O.O.F. hall Monday evening, January 11. One of those evenings of real enjoyment is anticipated.

SUNS AND THE UNIVERSE.

And the Theory of One Great Central Blazing Orb.

That very high, imposing, mathematically proved science—celestial mechanics—demonstrates that there is no necessity for a colossal, dominating central sun. The idea of a central sun controlling the entire sidereal universe was advanced by what are called meta-physicians, totally opposite in nature from mathematicians. For one guesses; the other either proves or admits that he cannot.

If the universe is finite it has a precise center. Photos of the entire celestial vault reveal at least 100,000,000 giant suns, our sun being one of the smaller. And these or some of them are known to be two quadrillion miles apart. Mechanics know that the entire congeries of suns has a center of gravity. And it knows that this center of gravitation, even if empty and void, dominates all motions of all the millions of suns around it.

But all suns move as bees in a swarm, and no such immense body has been sensed in space. Kapteyn's discovery of drifting of suns in opposite directions may indeed be the beginning of a discovery of rotation around a center, but the rotation would as well be maintained if the center is an absolute vacuum.

If the universe is infinite it has no center, and the above line of argument backed by rigid mathematics cannot apply.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

BABIES IN ASHANTI.

They Go Through a Trying Ordeal in Getting a Name.

When children are born in Ashanti they are at once rubbed all over with a mixture of oil and red ochre, this being repeated every two days. Their mouths are washed with a very coction in which red pepper is the main ingredient, and a cry goes through the town proclaiming the new arrival and claiming for it a name and a place among the living.

Some one else is a distant part of the village acknowledges the fact and promises, on the part of the people, that the newborn babe shall be received into the community. The townspeople then assemble in the streets, and the baby is brought out and exposed to view.

Next a basin of water is provided and the head man, or chief of the town, sprinkles water upon it, leaving it a name and invoking a blessing upon it, such as, for instance, that it may have health, grow up to manhood or womanhood, have a numerous progeny and possess riches.

Most of those present follow the example of the head man, and the poor child is thoroughly drenched before the ceremony is ended. Every one who participates in the ceremony pledges himself to be a friend to the child.—London Standard.

Too Ambiguous.

Thornton.—When Willie Whimpy wanted a new motorcar he thought he would throw out a broad hint to his father, Roseberry.—Did the scheme work? Thornton.—Not exactly. He told his old man he would like some thing he could start and stop, and his father bought him a dollar watch.—Kansas City Star.

J. L. CRANE

CHARLEVOIX

AUTOMATIC SALE FURS
WOMEN'S FUR SETS

Saturday, January 9th, we commence an AUTOMATIC SALE on all our Women's, Misses' and Children's Fur Sets. Continuing

FOUR DAYS ONLY

Saturday, Jan. 9th ANY FUR SET IN STOCK
55c on the $

Monday, Jan. 11th All Fur Sets left over from Saturday's Sale—Automatically priced—
50c on the $

Tuesday, Jan. 12th All Fur Sets left over from Monday's Sale—Automatically priced
45c on the $

Wednesday, Jan. 13th All Fur Sets left over from Tuesday's Sale—Automatically priced
35c on the $

Separate Muffs and Misses' and Children's Sets
At 75c on the $

DEMONSTRATION OF
Ladie's Home Journal Patterns

By Miss Frisbee of the Home Pattern Co.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1915

HUNTERS AGAINST IT

Proposed Change in Game Laws Frowned Upon by Local Hunters.

Charlevoix hunters are strongly opposed to the proposed change in the state game laws which will make it illegal to kill more than one deer per hunter's license each season and limit deer to bucks with horns visible above the head.

Charlevoix hunters are perfectly willing to have the one-deer clause adopted by the legislators, but to be compelled to kill only bucks with horns visible is going a little too far, they think. Some say: "When a man sees a deer in the woods he seldom takes the trouble to measure its horns before killing it, but generally pumps it full of lead and then measures its horns—if it has any." The average hunter when shooting at a deer is not able to tell one time in fifty whether he is firing at a doe or a buck, and if a law of this nature is passed the result will be that hundreds of dead deer will be left in the woods. Hunters should be entitled to meat in camp. Every camp of two or more persons up to four should be entitled to kill one deer for meat. If there are more than four, two deer for the same purpose, and so on up by fours or fives, according to the number of men in camp.

Conservation of the deer is a good thing, all Charlevoix hunters agree, but a majority of them prefer a closed season altogether than to have a law as recommended by the game warden department passed.

Plump Party.—Oh, dear, how dreadful it is to get fat like this. Not long ago I sat to an artist for Diana and now the same man has engaged me for an innkeeper's wife.—Ellegende Blatt.

COURIER
BARGAIN
COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent,
Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

WANTED.—Competent girl for general housework. Phone 114.

FOUND.—On Bridge street, gold signet ring. Owner can have same by proving ownership and paying for this notice. Inquire at J. L. Crane's store.

United States Minerals.

The value of the mineral production of the United States now exceeds $2,500,000,000 a year, according to the United States geological survey. Though this value falls far below that of the country's farm products, the magnitude and scope of our mineral industry may be best measured by comparing our own mineral production with that of other countries, no one of which can compete with us in abundance or variety of mineral resources. The United States mines nearly 40 per cent of the world's output of coal and produced 65 per cent of the petroleum in 1913. Of the more essential metals, 40 per cent of the world's output of iron ore is raised from American mines, and the smelters of the United States furnish the world with 55 per cent of its copper and at least 30 per cent of its lead and zinc.

Hard to Impress.—"Yes," said nonchalant Mr. Wombat, "I was in Egypt."
"I suppose you stood awestruck before the grand and solemn sphinx."
"Well, I gave it the once over."—Pittsburgh Post.

News from Home.

When the evening shade is fallin' at the closing of the day,
An' a feller rests from labor, amokin' at his pipe of clay,
There's nothing does him so much good,
Be fortune up or down,
As the little country paper from his old home town.

It ain't a thing of beauty and its print's not always clean,
But it straightens out his temper when a feller's feeling mean;
It takes the wrinkles off his face an' brushes off the frown,
That little country paper from his old home town.

It tells of all the parties and the balls of Pumpkin Row,
'Bout who spent Sunday with who's girl and how the crops'll grow,
An' how it keeps a feller posted who's up and who is down,
That little country paper from his old home town.

Now, I like to read the dailies and the story papers, too,
And at times the yaller novels and some other trash—don't you?
But when I want some readin' that'll brush away a frown,
I want that little paper from my own home town.

THEATRICAL

The next big feature that will be shown at the Majestic will be Ray, Blas featuring William Gorwood and Francis Bellington. This play is taken from the story by Victor Hugo and is splendidly staged and photographed. Wednesday January 13th.

Christmas

A Story

By Zona Gale

Copyright, 1912, by the McClure Publications, Incorporated.
Copyright, 1912, by the Macmillan Company.

(Continued from page 3.)

He closed the glass and groped in the darkness to where the roof, sloping sharply, met the door. There he touched an edge of something that stayed, and he laid hold of and drew out that for which he had come—Malcolm's hobbyshe.

Downstairs in the hall he set it on the floor, examined it, rocked it with one finger. The horse returned to its ancient office as if it were irrevocably ordained to service. Ebenezer, his head on one side, stood for some time regarding it. Then he slipped some thing in its worn saddle pocket. Last, he lifted and settled the thing under his arm.

"I dunno, but I might as well walk around by Mary Chavah's house," he thought. "I needn't stay long."

At Mary Chavah's house the two big parlors, the hall, the stairs, the dining room, even the tiny bedroom with the owl wall paper, were filled with folk come to welcome the little boy, and on the parlor table, set so that he should see it when first he entered, blazed Ellen Bourne's little tree. The coffee was hot on the stove, good things were ready on the table, and the air was electric with expectation, with the excitement of being together, with the imminent surprise to Mary and with curiosity about the little stranger from Idaho.

"What'll we all say when he first comes in?" somebody asked.

"Might say 'Merry Christmas,'" two or three suggested.

"Merry, no," replied shocked voices; "not to Mary Chavah especially!"

But, however, they should say it, the time was quick with cheer.

At quarter to 8 the gate clicked. The door passed from one to another, and by the time a step sounded on the porch the rooms were still save for the whiplashes and a voice or two that kept unconsciously on in some remote corner. But instead of the door opening to admit Mary and her little boy a hesitating knock sounded.

Those nearest to the door questioned one another with startled looks, and one of them threw the door open. On the threshold stood after the telegraph operator, who thrust in a very dirty hand and a yellow envelope.

"We don't deliver nights," he said, "but I thought she'd ought to have this one. I'm going home to wash up, and then I'll be back," he added and left them staring at one another round the little lighted tree.

Before they could go out to find Mary, as a dozen would have done, she was at the threshold, alone. She seemed to understand without wonder why they were there, and with perfect naturalness she turned to them to share her trouble.

"He hasn't come," she said simply. Her face was quite white, and, because they usually saw her with a scarf or shawl over her head, she looked almost strange to them, for she wore a hat; also she had on an unfamiliar soft colored wrap that had been her mother's and was kept in trunks. She had dressed carefully to go to meet the child. "I might as well dress up a little," she had thought, "and I guess he'll like colors best."

Almost before she spoke they put in her hands the telegram. They were pressing toward her, dreading, speechless, trying to hear what should be read. She stepped nearer to the light of the candles on the little tree, read and reread in the stillness. When she looked up her face was so illumined that she was strange to them once more.

"Oh," she said, "it's his train. It was late for the local. They've put him on the express, and I'll drop him at the 'draw.'"

The tense air crumpled into breathings, and a soft chimor filled the room as they told one another and came to tell her how glad they were. She pulled herself together and tried to slip into her natural manner.

"It did give me a turn," she confessed. "I thought he'd been—he'd got!"

She went into the dining room, still without great wonder that they were all there. But when she saw the women in white aprons and the table arrayed and on it Ellen Bourne's Christmas tree blazing like a broken into a little laugh.

"Oh," she said, "you done this a-purpose for him?"

"I hope," Mary, you won't mind," Mrs. Mortimer Bates said formally. "It being Christmas so. We'd have done just the same on any other day."

"Oh," Mary said, "mild!" They hardly knew her, she moved among them so flushed and laughing and comfortable, praising, admiring, thanking them.

"Honestly, Mary," said Mrs. Mortimer, "we'll have you so you can't tell Christmas from any other day—I'll be sure!"

The express would be due at the "draw" at 8:30-8:33. After told her when he came back "washed up," Mary watched the clock. She had not milked or fed the cows before she went because she had thought that he would like to watch the milking and it would be something for him to do on that first evening. So when she could she took her shawl and slipped out to the shed for the pails and her lantern and went alone to the stable.

Mary opened the door, and her lantern made a golden room of light within the borderless shadow. The hay smell from the loft and the mangers, the even breathing of the cows, the quiet safety of the place, met her. She hung her lantern in its accustomed place and went about her task.

Her mind turned back to the time that had elapsed since the local came in at the Old Trail Town station. She had stood there, with the children about her, hardly breathing while the two Trail Town men and a solitary traveling man had alighted. There had been no one else. In terror lest the child should be carried past the station, she had questioned the conductor, begged him to go in and look again, parleyed with him until he had swung his lantern. Then she had turned away with the children, utterly unable to formulate anything.

There was no other train to stop at Old Trail Town that night. It must mean disaster—indeed, disaster—that had somehow engulfed him and had not pointed the way that he had gone. She recalled now that she had refused Buff Miles' invitation to ride, but had suffered him to take the children. Then she had set out to walk home.

On that walk home she had unlearned her plans. Obscure speculations, stirring in her fear, at first tormented her and then gave place to the conclusion that John had changed his mind, but seen perhaps that he could not after all let the child go so far, had found some one else to take him, and that the morning would bring a letter to tell her so. In any case, she was not to have him. The conclusion swept her with the vigor of certainty. But instead of the relief for which she would have looked, that certainty gave her nothing but desolation. Until the moment when the expectation seemed to die she had not divined how it had grown into her days, as subtly as the growth of little cell and little cell.

And now the weight upon her, instead of lifting, soaring in the possibility of the return of her old freedom, lay the more heavily, and her sense of oppression became abysmal. "Something is going to happen," she had kept saying. "Something has happened."

So she had got on toward her own door. There the swift relief was an upheaving into another air, charged with more intimate largess for life. Now Mary sat in the stable in a sense of happy reality that clothed all her feeling—rather, in a sense of super-reality, which she did not know how to accept. So, slowly singing in her throat as she sat at her task, came that which had waited until she should open the way.

In the stable there was that fusion of shadow and light in which captive spaces reveal all their mystery. Little areas of brightness, of functioning; then dimness, then the deep, bright lines in which surfaces of worn floor, silvered wall, dusty glass, showed values more specific than those of color. Dimness in which gray rafters with wavering edges, rough posts, each with a necessary of shadow; an old harness in grotesque loops, ceased to be background and assumed roles. The background itself, modified by many an unshadowed prominence, was accented in caverns of manger and roof. The place revealed mystery and beauty in the casual business of saying what had to be said.

Mary filled her arms with hay and turned to the manger. The raw smell of the clover smote her, and it was as sweet as spring reprimand. She stood for a moment with the hay in her arms, her breath coming swiftly.

Down on the marsh, not half a hour away, he was coming to her, to be with her, as she had grown used to imagining him. She had thought that he was not coming, and he was almost here. She knew now that she was glad of this, no matter what it brought her—glad as she had never known how to be glad of anything before. He was coming! There was a thrill in the words every time that she thought them. Already she was welcoming him in her heart, already he was here—already he was born into her life.

With a soft, fierce rush of feeling not her own, it seemed to her that her point of perception was something drawn inward, as if she no longer saw from the old places, as if something in her that was not used to looking back.

In the seat where her will had been was no will. But somewhere in there, beyond all control, she felt herself to be. Beyond a thousand misty, volitions, little seekings for comfort, rebellions at toll, the cryings of personality for its physical own, she stood at last, herself within herself.

And that which through the slow process of her life and of life and being immeasurably before her had been seeking its expression, building up its own vehicle of incarnation, quite suddenly and simply flowered. It was as if the weight and the striving which her had been the pang of some birth. She stood, as light of heart as a little child, filled with peace and tender expectation.

These filled her on the road which she took to meet him—and took alone, for she would have no one go with her. ("What's come over Mary?" they asked one another in the kitchen. "She acts like she was somebody else—and herself too.") The night lay about her as any other winter night—white and black a clean white world, on which men set a pattern of highway and shadow, a clean dark sky, on which a story in written in stars, and between—no mystery, but only growth. Out toward the drawbridge the road was not well broken. She went, stumbling in the ruts and hardly conscious of them. And Mary thought:

"Something in me is glad. 'It's as if something in me knew how to be glad more than I ever knew how alone."

"For I'm nothing but me here in Old Trail Town, and yet it's as if something had come, secret, on purpose to make me know why to be glad. 'It's something in the world bigger than I know about."

"It's in me, and I guess it was in folks before me, and it will be in folks always."

"It isn't just for Ebenezer Rule and the city."

"It's for everybody, born in Old Trail Town as much as anywhere."

"It's for folks that's hungry for it, and it's for folks that ain't."

"It's always been in the world, and it always will be in the world, and some day we'll know what to do."

But this was hardly in her feeling or even in her thought; it lay within her thanksgiving that the child was coming and he only a little way down there across the marsh.

CHAPTER XV. Merry Christmas.

It seemed quite credible and even fitting that the mighty, rushing, lightning express, which seldom stopped at Old Trail Town, should that night come thundering across the marsh and slow down at the drawbridge for her sake and the little boy's. Several coaches' length from where she stood she saw a lantern shine where they were lifting him down. She ran ankle deep through the thin crust of snow.

"That's it!" said the conductor. "All the way from Idaho!" And swung his lantern from the step. "Merry Christmas!" he called back.

The little thing clasping Mary's hand suddenly leaped up and down beside her.

"Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas!" he shouted with all his might.

Mary Chavah stood silent, and as the train drew away held out her hand, still in silence, for the boy to take.

As the noise of the train lessened he looked up.

"Are you her?" he asked soberly.

"Yes," she cried joyously. "In her!"

There was joy about the high banks of snow. At the end of the road was the village, looking like something lying on the great white plate of the meadows and being offered to one who needed it. At the far end of the road which was Old Trail road hung the blue light of the town hall, center in the constellation of the home lights and the shop lights and the street lights. There, in her house, were her neighbors gathered to do no violence to that Christmas paper of theirs, since there was to be no "present trading," no "money spending." Nevertheless they had drawn together by common consent, and it was Christmas eve. She knew it now. There is no art in this.

"Are you her?" he asked soberly.

rary shutting out of that for which Christmas stands. As its spirit was in the village, so its spirit is in the world—denied, indeed, but upon, crowned with mockery, dragged in the dirt, bearing alien burdens, but through it all immaculate, waiting for men to cross the threshold at which it never ceases to be known in a common heritage, throne of the world, with a thousand towers shining with uncounted

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of perils have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have at once with art treasures. The entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (500 pages—cloth) telling that just such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1907.

Of vast interest and importance is its promise of better things in store for this earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents in stamps (with this coupon) to cover post and to The Temple, No. 36 W. 43rd St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

lights, lying very near—above the village, at the end of the Old Trail road, upon the earth at the end of a yet unbroken path—where men face the sovereign fact of humanhood.

But all this lay within Mary's dumb thanksgiving that the child was running at her side. And the vision that she saw streamed down from Capella, of the brightness of a hundred of our suns, the star that stood in the east above the village where she lived.

Lanterns glowed through the roadside shrubbery, little kindly lights, like answers, and at a bend in the road voices burst about them, and Buff Miles and the children, Guskie and Benet and Tat and Pop and little Emily, ran, singing, and closed about Mary and the child and went on with them, slipping into the "church choir Christmas carols," and more, that Buff had been told to teach them. The dusk filled the quiet night, rose in the children's voices like an invocation to all time.

One for the way it all began. Two for the way it all has run. What three'll be for I do forget, but what will be has not been yet. So holly and mistletoe. So holly and mistletoe. So holly and mistletoe. Over and over and over, oh!

Between songs the children whistled together in a quartet.

"What's the new little boy's name?" asked Tat.

"Nobody knew. That would be something to find out."

"Well," Tat said, "tomorrow morning, right after breakfast, I'm going to bring Theophilus Thistle-down down and lend him to him."

"Ain't he going to bury Sandy Claus right after breakfast?" demanded Guskie.

And all the children, even little Emily, answered:

"No; let's not."

"They all went on together and entered Mary's gate. Those within, hearing the singing, had opened the door, and they brought them through that deep arch of warmth and light. Afterward no one could remember whether or not the greeting had been "Merry Christmas," but there could have been no mistaking what everybody meant.

At his gate in the street wall lined with snow bowed black and mulberry Ebenezer Rule waited in the dark for his two friends to come back. He had found Kate Kerr in his kitchen methodically making a jar of Christmas cookies. ("You've got to eat it, it is Christmas," she had defended herself in a whisper.) And to her stupefaction he had dispatched her to Mary Chavah's with her entire Christmas baking in a basket.

"I don't believe they've got near enough for all the folks I see going," he explained it.

While he went within doors he had left the hobbyshe in the snow close to the wall, and he came back there to wait. The street had emptied. By now every one had gone to Mary Chavah's. Once he caught the gleam of lanterns down the road and heard children's voices singing. For some time he had heard the singing, and after it had stopped he fancied that he heard it. Started, he looked up into the wide night lying serene above the town and not yet become vexed by the town's shadows and interrupted by their lights. It was as if the singing came from up there. But the night kept its way of looking steadily beyond him.

It came to Ebenezer that the night had not always been so unconscious of his presence. The one long ago, for example, when he had slept beneath this wall and dreamed that he had a kingdom; those other nights when he had wandered abroad with his star glans. Then the night used to be something else. It had seemed to meet him, to admit him. Now he knew, and for a long time had known, that when he was abroad in the night he was there, so to say, without his permission. As for men, he could not tell when relation with them had changed, when he had begun to think of them as among the externals, but he knew that now he ran along the surface of them and let them go. He never met them as "others," as he longed to countless equations of which he was one term, and they playing that wonderful, near role of "other." Thus he had got along, as if his own individuality were the only one that had ever occurred and as if all the mass of mankind—and the night and the day—were undifferentiated from some substance all impartial.

Then this vast egotism had heard itself expressed in the mention of Bruce's baby—the third generation. But by the great sorcery whereof nature has protected herself, this narrow sense of self, when it extends into the next generations, becomes a keeper of the race. Ebenezer had been touched, relaxed, disintegrated. Here was an interest outside himself which was not so external. Vast, level reaches lay about that fact and all long unexplored. But these were people he saw them peopled.

As in the cheer and stir within the house where that night were gathered his townsmen, his neighbors, his "breds." He had thought that their way of meeting him, if he chose to go among them, would matter nothing. Abruptly now he saw that it would matter more than he could bear. They were in there at Mary's, the rooms full of little families, getting along as best they could, taking pride in their children, looking ahead, looking ahead—and they would not know that he was a derelict. He could not have deduced offhand what it was that he understood. But it had, it seemed, something to do with Letty's account book and Bruce's baby.

Gradually he let himself face what it was that he was wanting to do. And when he faced that he left the hobbyshe where it was under the

FLORIDA
TRAVEL ON THE MAGNIFICENT TRAINS OF THE
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R. R.
SOUTH ATLANTIC LIMITED
Solid Through Electric Lighted Train Cincinnati to Jacksonville.
Observation Sleeping Cars from Cincinnati to Jacksonville.
Drawing Room Sleeping Cars from Cincinnati to Jacksonville.
Solid through all-steel train Chicago to Jacksonville, carrying Coaches, Drawing room compartment and observation sleepers.
Long time Winter Tourist Tickets on sale daily. Short time Homeseekers' Tickets on sale first and third Tuesday of each month. Write for further particulars or illustrative folders of Florida or the beautiful Gulf Coast resorts.
F. E. WEISS, T. P. A., 1025 Majestic Building, DETROIT, MICH.

AUTOMOBILE AND
General Repair Shop
At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do
REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS
both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.
We will also handle the
Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories
Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.
Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire
Charlevoix Garage
Mesnard & Jacobs
Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

wall and went into the street.

He took his place among the externals of the winter night, himself unconscious of them. The night, with all its content, a thing of explicable fellowships, lay waiting patiently for those of its children who knew its face. In the dark and under the snow the very elements of earth and life were obscured, as in some clear wash correcting too strong values. He moved about the village, and now his dominant consciousness was the same consciousness in which that little village lived. But he knew it only as the impulse that urged him on toward Jenny's house. If he went to Jenny's, if he signified so that he wished not to be cut off from her and Bruce and the baby, if he asked Bruce to come back to the business, these meant a lifetime of modification to the boy's ideals for that business and modification to the lives of the "hands" back there in Mary Chavah's house—and to something else.

"What else?" he asked himself.

Mechanically he looked up and saw the heavens crowded with bright watchtowers. In that high field one star, brighter than the others, hung over the little town. He found himself trying to see the stars as they had looked to him years ago, when they and the night had seemed to mean something else.

"What else?" he asked himself. The time did not seem momentous. It was only very quiet. Nothing new was there, nothing different. It had always been so. The night lay in a sovereign consciousness of being more than just itself. "Do you think that you are all just you and nothing else?" It was seen to be compassionately asking.

"What else?" Ebenezer asked himself.

He did not face this yet. But in that hour which seemed pure essence, with no attenuating sound or touch, he kept on up the hill toward Jenny's house.

Mary Chavah left ajar the door from the child's room to the room where, in the dark, the tree stood. He had wanted the door to be ajar "so the things I think about can go back and forth," he had explained.

In the dining room she wrapped herself in the gray shawl and threw up the two windows. New air swept in, cleansing, replacing, prevailing. Her guests had left her early, as is the way in Old Trail Town. Then she had had her first moments with the child alone. He had done the things that she had not thought of his doing, but had inevitably recognized—had delayed his best going, had magnified and repeated the offices of his journey, and shown her the contents of his pockets, had repeatedly mentioned by their first names his playmates in Idaho and shown surprise when she asked him who they were. Mary stood now by the window conscious of a wonderful thing—that it seemed as if he had been there always.

In the clean intrusion of the air she was aware of a faint fragrance, coming to her once and again. She looked down at her garden, lying wrapped in white and veiled with black like some secret being. Three elements were slowly fanning it, while the fourth, a soft fire within her, answered them. The fragrance made it seem as if the turn of the year were very near, as if its prophecy, evident once in the October violets in her garden, were come again. But when she moved she knew that the fragrance came from within the room, from Ellen Bourne's Christmas rose, blossoming in the table. Above her eye fell on the picture that Jenny had brought to her on that day when she had all but emptied the house, as if in readiness. Almost she understood now the passionate expectation of those who in her dream had kept saying "You."

There was a movement in her garden and on the walk footsteps. The three men stepped into the rectangle of lamplight—Abel Ames and Simon, who had left the party a little before the others and, hurrying back with the gifts that they planned, had met Ebenezer at his gate, getting home from Jenny's house. In Abel's arms was something globed, like a little world; in Simon's, the tall, gray gown of St. Nicholas taken from the Exchange window, the lettered sign absent, but the little flag still in his hand, and Ebenezer was carrying the hobbyshe.

"Has the boy gone to bed?" Abel asked without preface.

"Yes," Mary answered. "I'm sorry."

"Never mind," Simon whispered. "You can give him these in the morning."

Mary, her shawl half hiding her face, stooped to take what the three lifted.

The Three Men Stopped into the Rectangle of Lamplight.

"They ain't presents, you know," Abel assured her positively. "They're just—well, just to let him know."

Mary set the strange assortment on the floor of the dining room—the things that were to be nothing in themselves, only just "to let him know."

"Thank you for him," she said gently. "And thank you for me," she added.

Ebenezer fumbled for a moment at his beaver hat and took it off. Then the other two did so to their firm fixed caps. And with an impulse that came from no one could tell whom, the three spoke—the first time hesitatingly, the next time together and confidently.

"Merry Christmas, Merry Christmas," they said.

Mary Chavah lifted her hand. "Merry Christmas," she cried.

THE END

Right to the Point.

Dana (standing in aisle, to occupant of pew)—Are you Mrs. Pilkington-Haycock?

"No."

"Well, I am, and this is her pew"—London Punch.

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

REMNANTS of steak or roasts may be made into delicious stews, using savory seasonings such as a little sweet marjoram, thyme, parsley, onion salt, etc. Meat may be put through meat chopper and mixed with enough cream sauce to hold it together, well seasoned, molded into croquettes, dipped in egg and crumbs and fried in deep fat. Hash makes a tasty breakfast or luncheon dish, with the chopped meat browned slightly in butter, nicely seasoned with salt and pepper, moistened with milk and a gravy and served with toast fingers.

Remnants of boiled or fried ham may be used in various ways. For ham timbales put ham through meat grinder and mix with one raw egg to hold meat together. Line gem tins with this mixture, pressing it well against sides and bottoms and bake slightly. Take out of oven and drop in each ham lined tin an egg, returning to oven long enough to cook the eggs. Or with a bit of ham, some cheese, a few slices of stale bread, some hot ham sandwiches can be made. Mince ham, mix with grated cheese, spread on one slice of bread, cover with another, cut in two and brown on each side in hot butter. Serve hot.

Chicken shortcake is a most palatable way to serve remnants of chicken. Free it from skin and bone and cut into small pieces. Put on to heat with enough gravy to make it quite moist. Make a short biscuit dough and roll into a cake an inch thick. Bake in quick oven fifteen or twenty minutes. Then split the cake and spread the hot chicken stew over lower half. Replace upper half and pour over the whole a generous amount of gravy.

Meat loaf is often desirable. There is no waste whatever with the former and practically none with the latter if utilized in the right way, while both are delicious, and when served with a good salad and simple dessert form a very tempting meal. For the meat loaf have the butcher grind one pound of lean beef and one-half pound of pork. Mix together and add salt, pepper, four ground soda crackers, a small onion, one unbaked egg and a half cupful of milk. Stir the ingredients all together and press into a broad pan. Cover the loaf with two cupfuls of hot water and bake two hours in moderately hot oven, adding a little more water from time to time. When it is cold slice and serve on lettuce leaves with ketchup or chili sauce if desired.

Boil the shoulder of pork twenty minutes to the pound after having inserted about a dozen whole cloves in one side of the meat. When done allow it to remain in the water in which it was boiled until cold. The bone which is left with whatever meat cannot be cut from it will give an excellent flavor to string or butter beans if placed in the water with them while they are boiling, and they will then require very little butter if cream dressing is served on them.

LINGERIE KINKS.

How to Make Practical and Beautiful Undergarments.

Although lingerie is as conspicuously negligible as possible, it receives more consideration than ever. It is important not only that each separate article shall incorporate the minimum of weight and bulk, but also that the lines of it shall be quite perfect. There must be no unnecessary fullness in petticoats to interfere with the hang of one's skirt. There is less call for the extremely flimsy lingerie than there was. Nylon, silk, crepe de chine and fine linen are favored, and hand embroidery or val encrusted inations are the popular crummings. If there are any, are made so scant that they add nothing appreciable to the width of a skirt or pantaloons.

One of the most practical of all the various innovations in lingerie is a combination skirt and corset cover that fastens all the way down, rendering it particularly convenient for laundering.

The edges are scalloped and buttoned, and there is a pretty eyelet embroidered design in Madeira handwork. The skirt is everywhere smooth fitting, while the cover has very little fullness, neatly and evenly tucked under a scalloped belt that runs only about the sides and back of the waist.

How to Repair Your Wall Paper Satisfactorily.

In many houses there are often left odd lengths of wall paper, and these should be carefully preserved. Damage may be done when moving in, or later a chair may be pushed roughly against a wall, and there is a bad tear. Get a piece of the paper, scallop the edges quite roughly and paste it over the place. The mending will be unnoticeable. But if the house is not new and the paper faded the contrast is startling. In that case put a piece of the spare wall paper out of doors in the sun for two or three days. Dampen it occasionally. All that is needed is exposure.

MEASURING ALTITUDES.

Difficulties That Beset Scientists in Taking Spirit Level Elevations.

The state of Washington has a greater range of altitudes than any other state in the Union, with the exception of California. Along her western boundary stretches the Pacific ocean, with that important arm of the sea, Puget sound, reaching back into the interior almost to the foot of Mount Rainier, which rises majestically 14,408 feet above its surface. There is a contrast in altitudes within a comparatively few miles that has few if indeed any parallels in the United States. Besides the recently established altitude of Mount Rainier the exact elevations of some 3,000 additional points in the state of Washington are given in a report recently issued by the United States geological survey. These elevations were determined by spirit levels run in connection with topographic surveys. This report is, therefore, a partial but valuable dictionary of altitudes of the state.

The elevations published by the United States geological survey as the results of spirit leveling are exact to a fraction of a foot and are especially valuable to engineers and surveyors.

These spirit level elevations are the result of a class of work in which considerable expense is involved and in doing which great care must be exercised. The procedure is essentially different from other surveying or field engineering work in general in that it cannot be carried on except under favorable conditions. It is human to err, but in executing these spirit levels the human side must be eliminated so far as is practical and the personal factor must be as far as possible become automatic. For instance, work must cease when winds are high, and in the middle of the day the sights must be shortened or work stopped altogether to avoid errors due to the bent waves. Besides taking into consideration these natural obstacles to the attainment of exact results all details in connection with the work must be executed with the utmost refinement.

MACHINERY BELTING.

General Rules That Make For Efficiency in Transmitting Power.

In the average shop very few belts wear out through legitimate wear. They are ruined through accident and improper attention, usually the latter, says the Engineering Magazine. A narrow belt properly maintained and the tension maintained at the right point will transmit more power than a wide belt in poor condition and running as slack as they are usually allowed to run in the average shop. If the belt is too tight it means waste due to friction. If too loose it means loss due to slip. As an entire paper could be written on belt practice it will be impossible to do more than outline briefly a few fundamentals:

Do not run double belts on pulleys less than six inch and triple belts on pulleys less than twenty inch.

A pulley should be 25 per cent wider than the width of the belt.

Never let belts touch shifting devices or lap steps of cone pulleys.

Belts should run with hair side facing the pulley.

Outside point of splice should trail when running to avoid opening by the action of the air.

Belts should sag on to pulleys and not away from them.

Run up and down belts on a slant. Avoid very short drives.

Keep pulleys clean.

Clean belts at regular intervals and apply a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

Use a dressing that will give the grain side a soft and adherent surface.

THE FIRST BATTLE OF ARMAGEDDON

Judges 4:4-34; 5:1-22—Jan. 10.

Sisera and Barak—Mrs. Deborah and Mrs. Jael—Was the Latter a Murderer?—How "the Stars in Their Courses Fought Against Sisera."

"The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth, and delivereth them out of their troubles."—Psalm 34:7.

WE have heretofore pointed out that the great antitypical Battle of Armageddon will quickly follow the present world-war. Today a study relates to the first great battle in the Valley of Megiddo, noted for its many slaughters, and therefore made the basis of the Divine prediction respecting the "Time of Trouble" such as was not since there was a nation, preparing the way for Messiah's Kingdom.

The Israelites, guilty of idolatry, had, according to God's Covenant with them, been chastened by the permitting of their enemies to vanquish them. General Sisera, of the Canaanites, having bumbled the Israelites of North Palestine for years, started southward with a large army, intent upon victories. The strength of his army is shown in that it contained nine hundred iron chariots.

When he had gotten as far southward as the Valley of Megiddo, messengers informed him that Barak, an Israelite, was coming southward with an army of ten thousand Israelites. Under Divine guidance Barak made Mt. Tabor his army base—later known as the Mount of Transfiguration, where Messiah's coming Kingdom was represented in a vision—2 Peter 1:16-21.

The word of Israel's God directed General Barak to advance against the Canaanites. Sisera's army was discomfited and scattered. A great cloud burst swelled the river, making quagmires of the lower valleys, rendering useless Sisera's chariots. His soldiers fleeing for their lives, were cut down by the Israelites, while thousands were swept by the freshets down to the sea.

This Divine interference on behalf of God's people is figuratively styled the fighting of the "stars" against Sisera's army. Similarly, in the great Armageddon near at hand, it will not be human might that will prevail, but the hosts of humanity will effect the complete disruption of the Present Order. (Zechariah 14:13.) It is the cloud burst of Truth and the rising waters of knowledge which are bringing to pass this great human catastrophe—while the Lord will overrule for the world's blessing.

The Power of a Faithful Woman.

The Canaanites had conquered Israel. This conquest, permitted of God, had its insidious start when the Israelites, neglecting the Divine direction, had begun to intermarry with the Canaanites. These had enticed their husbands and their children to worship the heathen gods. Apparently many Israelites who had not gone over to idolatry had nearly lost their knowledge of the true God.

In this dark hour the princes of the tribes seemed to lack patriotism, as well as faith in God. Each tribe was a separate state with no cohesion between them—the Divinely-intended bond of union, the true religion, having relaxed. About this time the Lord, seeking a channel through which to be gracious to His people, found it in a woman—Deborah. She realized the situation more keenly than did others, probably because more deeply consecrated to God.

Deborah removed from her home in the north to the Highlands of Ephraim. From there she sent stimulating messages to the chief men of the tribes. She was respected, her counsel appreciated, her advice sought. In this sense she judged—admonished—guided Israel. She is styled a prophetess. This might mean either a public teacher or one through whom the Lord sent special messages. Some things connected with the story indicate the latter.

When Sisera's army had proceeded southward, Deborah sent word to Barak, a leader in her tribe—Naphtali—to march immediately to battle. Barak refused unless she would co-operate. She agreed to do so, forewarning him, however, that he would miss part of his blessing as a result.

Sisera's army defeated, he fled apart with others, only to be overtaken by the victors. Entering a supposedly hospitable tent, he hid himself and fell asleep. His hostess then drove a tent-pin through his temple. The act has been denounced as a breach of hospitality, but defended by others on the ground that amongst the Arabs of Palestine it is still a custom to consider worthy of death any man who intrudes into a woman's tent. Jael was not a Christian; and whatever may be said of her would have no bearing upon Christ, who is under the Law of Love.

Let us remember that the death of Sisera and his army did not precipitate them into eternal torture, but was merely the way to which they were "gathered to their fathers." They have known nothing since and will know nothing until after the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

Idolatry of Barak's Day

Michigan's Greatest Daily for $1.00 Per Year . . .

The most wonderful offer we have been able to make to our readers. Think of it—The Detroit Tribune 6 days a week, for $1.00 a year. We make this offer to you: The Detroit Tribune for $1.00 per year to all new subscribers to the Charlevoix Courier, or to any regular subscriber to the Courier who pays up all arrearages. This rate is good on R. F. D. Routes only. It's a special offer to Farmers to have a daily at an extremely low price. The offer will be given for a short time only, so we advise you to send in your subscription at once.

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer 50c
Poultry Pointers 50c
Woman's World 35c

All for $1.80

(This Offer Will be Given For a Short Time Only)

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Detroit Tribune, daily $4.00

All for $2.50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Detroit Tribune $4.00
Michigan Farmer 50c

All for $2.75

(Above Rates Good Until February 28 and on R. F. D. Routes Only)

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press $2.00

All for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press $2.00
Michigan Farmer 50c

All for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

THE CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper and Best Job Office in Charlevoix County

Grange Column

Marion Center Grange.

Marion Center Grange, No. 956, held its regular meeting January 1st. After partaking of a good chicken-pie dinner the following officers were duly installed by Brother James Willis, assisted by Brother Walter Black and Sister Jennie Black:

Worthy Master—Frank Smith.
Overseer—Harmon Himebauch.
Lecturer—Helen Pulcifer.
Steward—Lavern McGhan.
Asst. Steward—Elmer Meggison.
Chaplain—Ida Pulcifer.
Treasurer—William Withers.
Secretary—William Poquette.
Gatekeeper—George Satphin.
Ceres—Florence Withers.
Pomona—Katy McGhan.
Flora—Marion Smith.
L. A. Steward—Bernice Pulcifer.
The lecturer then gave the following program:

Instrumental—Sister Florence Meggison.
Recitation—Hazel Burns.
Instrumental—Lyda Black.
Reading—Grace McElroy.
Recitation—Marion Smith.
Tableaux—"The Effects of Riding the K. P. Goat."
Song—Walter Black.
Recitation—Clarence Meggison.
Reading—Jennie Black.
Recitation—Four little girls.
Report of State Grange—Jas. Willis.

Peninsular Grange.

Peninsular Grange met in regular session December 31st. Worthy Master Heller and a full corps of officers were present. Thirty-nine members and nine visiting members from Pine Lake Grange were present. Two candidates were initiated in the first and second degrees. At the previous meeting it was arranged that this meeting should be Children's Day, and during lecture hour some fifty of them were admitted and entertained the grange with songs, recitations and dialogues. The grange treated them to candy, peanuts, apples and popcorn. The Children's Day in connection with the grange made a day long to be remembered. Pine Lake Grange extended an invitation to this grange to hold a joint installation, which will be disposed of at the next meeting, January 14, in the afternoon.

Harmony Grange.

Harmony Grange met at the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse on Saturday night, January 2nd, and in spite of a small attendance on account of bad roads and sickness in the families of some of the members—a very successful meeting was held. Five candidates were initiated and instructed in the 3rd and 4th degrees; an oil stove was purchased for warming the ante-room and the coffee; a fine harvest supper was provided and an interesting program was rendered, the children being among the principal performers. It was decided to hold the installation of officers at the next meeting, January 16, asking the delegate to the State Grange, L. D. Willson, to be the installing officer. The names of two candidates were presented and will be balloted on at the next meeting. The delegate will give his report of the State Grange meeting and all members should be present to hear it.

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange will meet at the home of Brother and Sister Black on Friday evening, January 8th. Brother and Sister E. E. Stroud will be present to install the officers. All members are requested to be present and bring along something for a potluck supper.

Charlevoix Township Taxpayers.

Those wishing to pay taxes may do so at any time the coming week at the office of Dr. F. H. Wilkinson, over the Post Office.

James B. Wilkinson.
Treasurer.

1st—pd

Conway-Ostrander

Theodore Conway and Miss Chloe Ostrander, both of East Jordan, were united in marriage by Rev. Quinton Walker at the home of Mrs. Parrish on Antrim street Tuesday, January 5th. The young people are very popular in their home town and have the best wishes of their friends.

Selecting Steers For Feeding.
In selecting steers that will feed to a profit the Wisconsin station advises: They must have beef characteristics, a wide, strong back and a large heart girth.

They must have strong frame, with plenty of room for vital organs, for a weak constituted animal cannot endure the feeding season.

A wide head and muzzle usually indicates good feeding qualities. Short legs, heavy hind quarters and arched ribs are essential in the feeding animal.

The skin should be reasonably thick, soft and covered by a heavy coat of hair.

The animal should have a straight back and low set appearance, due to the depth of body and short legs.

A New Pen.

To break in a new pen well in for a second before using and it will write as well as an old one.

FOODS THAT MAKE HARD SHELLED EGGS

The feeding of hens for the production of hard shelled eggs not easily breakable in handling is possible and demands attention. Shells vary greatly in strength. A strong, heavy shell is not nearly so likely to be broken by the jars, jolts and rough handling incident to ordinary shipment as a weak one.

Chemical analyses show that the shell of the egg is largely carbonate of lime, but that it also contains carbonate of magnesia, mineral phosphate and some organic matter. If strong shells are to be produced the mineral elements must not be lacking. Grains that are ordinarily fed do not contain these mineral elements in sufficient proportion, and an additional and separate supply is necessary. Fortunately these mineral elements are available in much cheaper forms than in grains.

It pays to dry pick poultry. The fowl looks keener and tastes better. Hang birds as shown in the picture. With head in one hand grasp large wing feathers firmly with the other and withdraw next the tail feathers, then render portions of the body, such as abdomen, breast, back and thighs. Grasp a small handful at a time and pull in direction of least resistance.

Lime is the principal ingredient of oyster shells, which may be procured for $10 to $12 a ton. Iron, magnesia and often phosphorus in many kinds of artificial grit may be procured for about the same price, while these elements in grain would cost at least double these figures.

Bone meal contains phosphorus in appreciable amounts, besides lime, magnesia, etc., and, while expensive, it is effective in giving the shell an evenness and fineness of texture which adds much to its strength. It is therefore often used as an ingredient for dry mash, for laying flocks, usually in amount varying from 2 to 5 per cent.

Fattening Geese.

For early geese the last period should not be more than three weeks. The birds should be penned up in flocks of twenty-five and kept in semiconfinement. The food should be soft in the morning and corn in the afternoon. Clean water in troughs should be kept constantly before the birds, but they must not be allowed to swim. The soft mash may consist of Indian meal and middlings, and the grain, wheat and barley. The grain gives better results if it is steeped in water for a few hours. All food should be fed in troughs, and if any remains it should be cleared away about half an hour afterward.

Regularity Pays With Hens.

Have a regular time for doing all the chores necessary to be done about the poultry yard. A regular time for feeding means that you will be ready and the birds will be ready. They will look for you, and they seem to know when feeding time comes. Regularity along this line is very important, and the man who feeds just as the fever strikes him will find that the birds do not respond as they should.

POULTRY and EGGS

FEEDING THE PULLETS.

Careful Handling Needed to Make Good Egg Layers.

A mash or dry ground grain will hasten the pullet to maturity much faster than an all hard grain diet because in such a mixture it is possible to incorporate the more concentrated high protein products, such as bran, middlings, beef scrap, etc. Meat in some form is absolutely necessary in order to start the pullets to laying and keep them at it all winter. Writes A. E. Vandervoort in the American Cultivator.

Pullets require careful handling to make them good layers, and whether they will be profitable producers for the next six months depends largely upon the way they are treated for a month prior to the time they should begin to lay. We must gradually accustom them to cold weather, feed them a ration that will mature the body and grow a thick coat of feathers. The food should contain a large percentage of what chemists term ash, or mineral matter, as well as protein, carbohydrates and fat. Ash will be found largely in cut bone and most green feeds. Beef scrap contains some bone and meat and hence a still larger percentage. These are excellent feeds for the maturing pullet and should constitute a goodly portion of her ration.

Bumblefoot results where fowls jump down from high perches to hard floors. The ball of foot swells, web puffs up between toes, abscess forms, foot gets hot and, if not treated at once, gangrene sets in. To cure, wash foot, draw sharp knife across ball of foot, cutting deep, and squeeze out pus and blood; then paint with iodine or carbolic acid and bandage, passing the rag across cut between toes, around shank and back again. Paint again if necessary. Place patient on straw away from roots and foot will soon heal.

If the pullets are allowed to crowd on the roosts they will sweat, and the growth of the feathers will be retarded. They should have plenty of fresh air and not be too warmly housed.

In feeding maturing pullets we are very apt to feed them too little. They should consume a large amount of food, and the more they will eat the better. If we find that they do not eat up their feed clean and leave some we conclude that we are feeding them too much and cut down the ration. Above all things, do not overfeed them. I am much in favor of hopper feeding of dry ground grains. My dry grain ration consists of dry ground grain, beef scrap and charcoal. Your hopper should be so constructed as to not allow the pullets to throw the food out and waste it. The filled hopper may be kept before them all the time, but I keep the hopper before them only part of the day, giving them their whole grain in the morning in a litter and give them the use of the hopper about 10 o'clock for the rest of the day.

Egg Eating Fowls.

The egg eating habit is a bad one and not easily cured. The probabilities are that it is first caused by a broken egg in the nest or a soft shelled one found under the roost in the morning. After once getting a taste of their own product the hens want more and will try to break every egg they can find. When one discovers that the hens are eating the eggs, strenuous measures should be taken at once. Scatter chins eggs on the floor in order to let them see that all eggs cannot be broken. You will find that they will pick at these for a time and then desist. Feed plenty of raw meat for a time and keep them busy working for all food they get. If you find a hen persistently breaking eggs you had better have her for dinner. Watch the hens closely till the trouble ceases.—Kansas Farmer.

Clean Up the Poultry House.

If the cleaning of the poultry houses has been neglected now is the time to remedy the matter, for it won't do to let the fowls live in a dirty house for the winter campaign. First of all clean out the loose filth, droppings and scratching material; then spray the whole interior—walls, roosts and nest boxes—with a good disinfecting fluid, and besides all this a thorough fumigation of the whole premises will not be out of order.

Make Hens Exercise.

It is not advisable to have heat in the henhouse. While it may be the means of more eggs, it also has been the starting point of more colds. Warmly built houses and the fowls compelled to exercise will be far better than artificially heated houses.

In a Quinary.

Worn out with a long series of appalling French exercises, wherein the blunders were as the sands of the sea, a hapless high school mistress declared her intention of writing to Florence's mother.

Florence looked her teacher in the face.

"Ma will be awfully angry," quoth Florence.

"I am afraid she will, but it is my duty to write to her, Florence."

"I don't know," said Florence doubtfully. "You see, mother always does my French for me."

The teacher is wondering whether she will write.

A Duke at Church.

There was a certain old duke who used to sit up in the left hand gallery with his duchess, following himself in being. One Sunday a too officious steward, on seeing the old nobleman take a back seat, hurried up to him and said, "Will not your grace have a better seat?"

"Come along, Maria," said the old duke. "Were discovered!" And he immediately walked on with the duchess and never showed his face inside the church again.—London Tatler.

Additional Locals

Miss Ida Levinson spent New Year's Day visiting friends in Petoskey.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Louie Hamlin Monday, January 4, a baby girl.

Ford Robbins of Boyne Falls was a business visitor in the city Monday.

A. E. Cross of East Jordan was a business visitor in the city Wednesday.

Miss Loeta Saville of Petoskey spent Friday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Ada Shockley.

Miss Mildred Shockley returned to Roscommon Saturday after spending two weeks with her parents.

Homer Zipp of Petoskey spent Thursday in the city visiting at the home of his uncle, Will Scroggie, Sr.

Mrs. Glen Ellis of Petoskey spent Tuesday in the city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jacobs.

Earl Young returned home Monday from Detroit, where he has been spending the holidays with his brother.

Miss Mildred Eckinger spent a few days last week visiting friends in Belaire, returning home Thursday.

Miss Florence Alexander spent Friday and Saturday in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. George Gladus.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Myers of Gléve-land, Ohio, are spending a few days in the city visiting Mr. Myers' mother.

Miss Agnes Carey, Cornelius Geiken and Will Driggett returned to Big Rapids Monday after spending two weeks with their parents.

Lester Taggart returned to his duties at Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, Monday after spending the holidays with his parents.

Miss Nettie Correll returned to Belding Monday after spending two weeks in the city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Correll.

Miss Laura Taggart returned to Ypsilanti Saturday after spending two weeks in the city visiting her parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Taggart.

Miss Doris Stevenson returned to Lansing, Monday, to resume her studies at the M. A. C., after spending the holidays with her parents.

The Misses Myrtle and Lela Miller and Mr. King returned to their duties in Detroit last week after spending the holidays as guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Faulkner.

Mrs. L. J. Schwab of Kalamazoo is in the city for a two weeks visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Madill, Sr. Mrs. Schwab was formerly Miss Anna Madill, well known in the city.

THE STORE OF QUALITY

Always a Fair Deal

This grocery store believes in giving the public a square deal. We have proved this many times. Just now when the prices of all commodities are growing more and more each day, we are selling them at figures that are very low considering conditions. We do not believe in jumping the prices of food stuffs under this or that pretext. We don't think it pays to make the public "the goat." This store carries the finest line of groceries and meats in the city. Your patronage is most respectfully solicited.

SPECIAL WHILE THEY LAST

Oranges, the sweet juicy kind 20c per dozen

Fresh Fancy Dressed Chickens Always ON HAND

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

When in need of—

FURNITURE
STOVES AND RANGES
CARPETS AND RUGS
BLANKETS AND COMFORTS

Go to— S. M. See & Sons The Reliable House Furnishers

Getting Rid of
The Left Overs

The holiday rush is over and as usually the case, we have a number of articles from broken lines, especially in Fur Coats, Sheep-lined Coats and Mackinaws, that we will close out at almost your own price. We have always made an effort not to carry over stock from one year to another. We would rather sell them at almost any price than to do this.

THEY ARE TO BE SOLD
REGARDLESS OF PRICE

They are all the kind we have always carried in stock—coats that we have sold right along and which have always given the very best of satisfaction. You can buy no better quality in the country, and at the prices we will close them out—they are bargains that do not happen very often. If you will look them over, you will realize the great bargains we are offering.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS—Our business of the past year has been a successful one. This year's holiday trade was far ahead of that of last year. We are thankful for it—and we want you to accept our sincerest thanks for the trade you have given us. We realize that our success in business depends upon our customers, and we are very thankful for your trade. Accept our wish of a "happy and prosperous new year." Your trade has made our business successful—we hope in every instance you received your money's worth, and we will continue to give the same real values during the coming year.

Benj. Brown

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best-Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 2

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

SECOND NUMBER LECTURE COURSE

Lincoln McConnell Will Give His Famous Lecture, "Dead Lions."

Essay Written by Miss Jennie Carey of Local High School Explains Lecture.

This year the members of the local high school Junior class have been called upon to write topics for publication in the local papers, taking the name of the number of the lecture course and the subject for the theme. This time Miss Jennie Carey holds the honor of writing one of the best essays describing Mr. Lincoln McConnell and his famous lecture "Dead Lions" to be given at Charlevoix theatre Friday, January 16, which follows:

"Dead Lions."

You were all interested in Teddy Roosevelt's live lions, now come and hear about Lincoln McConnell's "Dead Lions." They are not animals, but thoughts of a good inspirational lecture based on a biblical story.

Everyone likes to hear something new whether or not they are in the shape of old truths made fresh by impressing them with new force.

"Dead Lions" is one of Mr. McConnell's oldest lectures and it shows that Mr. McConnell, himself, is no dead lion but a real live man, with remarkable ability as an actor, impersonator and story teller. "Dead Lions" is as much an entertainment as a lecture.

Lincoln McConnell was trained early in the study of law, but became a cowboy when he finished college. After that he became a policeman in Atlanta where he was soon promoted to the position of detective, and still later he acted as assistant to the solicitor in the criminal court, serving in that capacity for two years.

While a member of the police force he was converted and determined that he would spend his time in uplifting men rather than putting them in jail. Since that time he has helped thousands.

His lectures dispel the blues, for he is a natural wit and humorist. Thousands have come to hear him with hearts of lead and have gone away feeling that life was worth the effort and so have been made better.

If you want to feel glad that you are living—then hear Mr. McConnell at the opera house Friday, January 16, at 8:00 p. m. Season tickets at reduced rates can be obtained at the Charlevoix County Bank. You can't afford to let this excellent opportunity to gain inspiration, hope, courage or ambition go by. Keep the date and lecture in mind. Friday evening, January 16th.

Reserved seat sale at Central Drug Store Thursday, January 14, at 7:00 p. m.

WEDDED AT RAVENNA

Well Known Charlevoix Young Lady Tried to Surprise Her Fiancé.

The wedding of Miss Naomi Rogers, daughter of Samuel Beaubien and well known in this city, to Jny Lacey of Aurora, Ohio, took place at Ravenna during the first week of the year.

According to the story, the young couple made an attempt to slip away and marry unknown to their friends and succeeded in doing so up to the minute the ceremony was about to be performed, when about a dozen of their intimate friends burst into the room. From all accounts, the incident was very amusing, especially to those not included in the ceremony.

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses issued by County Clerk Lewis during the past two weeks:

William Fred Von Moll, age 23, of Wyandotte, and Bertha May McDonald, age 18, of Clarion.

Eugene St. Aubin, age 23, of Vandebilt, and Stella Wyant, age 17, of Boyne City.

James Burns, age 25, and Emma Berry, age 13, both of St. James.

Arthur Shepard, age 25, and Minnie Gleason, age 21, both of East Jordan.

Eula Clare Wakeman, age 24, and Gladys Lavina Poole, age 20, both of Charlevoix.

Theodore Conway, age 30, and Chloe Ostrander, age 29, both of East Jordan.

John Hamiger, age 35, and Ida Roak, age 35, both of Charlevoix.

Charles Tatro, age 21, and Lottie Young, age 18, both of Boyne City.

Ernest Robinson, age 44, of Boyne City, and Ivy Florence Edwards, age 25, of Charlevoix.

SUMMER SESSION

To Be Held by Michigan Agricultural College for Rural Leaders.

The most vital institution in the open country is the school. It is not only the educational center for the community, but in many cases is the social and cultural center as well. The school, in many instances, decides whether or not the child becomes dissatisfied with country life; it gives the child those ideals which are to guide his future. Right now many farmers are asking themselves and their neighbors this question: "Is our school really doing its job?"

In other words, the farmers of the future are going to demand higher and better things of this fundamental institution. In fact they are already demanding more efficiency in the school.

This new movement has been recognized by the Michigan Agricultural College in its plan to hold a conference for rural leaders in connection with its summer session next July. Lectures, discussions, etc., will be given along practical lines for all interested in rural problems. A special bulletin gives detailed information and can be had upon application.

Work Completed.

According to the Harbor Springs Republican, the work of remodeling the Maple Grove Inn, conducted by Mrs. Cora Gray of this city, has been completed. The number of rooms in the hotel has been tripled and baths provided for each suite of two rooms. The plumbing was done by Alonzo Powers, our local plumber.

DOUBLE WAGES BEING PAID

Help is Very Scarce in England—Plenty of Provisions on Hand.

News from Peter Ranger of England is Brother
William Ranger of This City.

Word was received from Peter Ranger, brother of William Ranger of this city, telling of some of the details and experiences during the German raid on the coast towns of England December 16. Mr. Ranger sent two papers which give graphic details of the bombardment. The big shells fired by the guns on the German warships literally tore craters into the large buildings, endangering the lives of those within and those on the public thoroughfares.

Many lives were snuffed out by the bursting shrapnel. In one instance a whole family were blown to pieces by an exploding 12-inch shell. In Hartlepool the gas works was riddled by shells and the escaping gas caused a large conflagration.

The same destruction was found in each of the bombarded coast towns, which include Whitby and Scarborough. In these two towns many persons were killed in the streets. Mammoth homes were torn to shreds and razed to the ground.

Mr. Ranger is located in Sussex county, England, near the places of bombardment. He has been appointed chief constable of the county in which he lives and his duties are to destroy all food and provisions that would assist an invading enemy in case of attack. Mr. Ranger states that the war will last for an indefinite period. Wages in that locality are double the ordinary scale and help is very scarce. Plenty of provisions are on hand in England.

WILSON-THOMPSON

Former Charlevoix High School Teacher Married at Cadillac.

Dwight L. Wilson, a former teacher in the Charlevoix public schools and well known in this vicinity, now located at East Jordan, was united in marriage to Miss Genie Thompson of Cadillac, a teacher in the East Jordan school, on Tuesday evening, December 29, at the home of the bride's sister in Cadillac.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home in East Jordan, where Mr. Wilson has an excellent law practice. They have the best wishes of their many Charlevoix friends.

Florida Oranges 15c dozen
Apples 15c peck
Hawaiian Pineapple 12c can
Canned Corn, String Beans,
Peas 3 for 25c
21 Mrs. B. W. Miller.

THE BOY AND HIS MOTHER

Topic Discussed at W. C. T. U. Meeting
Proved Very Interesting.

Congressman Lindquist Sent Letter of Thanks for Stand Taken on Liquor Question.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. held in the Congregational church last Friday afternoon was largely attended and specially interesting.

Slating by union.
Mrs. Parmelee read a lesson from the Book of Samuel, also from the New Testament.

Prayer by Rev. L. C. Vioeyard.

Mrs. Weikel read "Our Washington Letter" from the Union Signal, in which was told the story of the vote in the House on the Hobson amendment by Margaret Dye Ellis, national W. C. T. U. superintendent in Washington. Mrs. Ellis is stationed in Washington for the purpose of giving to the readers of the Union Signal the doings of Congress, and certainly the doings of that eventful day, December 22nd, 1914, made a history-making day.

Extracts from Capt. Hobson's speech made at that time were read, also from the speech made by our congressman, Francis D. Lindquist. At the close of the reading a motion was made and carried that a letter of thanks be sent Mr. Lindquist for the stand he has taken in the matter.

Steps were taken to have the Courier print each week a temperance column of up-to-date temperance truth, which is prepared by the National W. C. T. U. Bureau of Publicity.

Mrs. Alcox read a letter to the union from our district president, Mrs. P. J. Howard, thanking the union for the Christmas remembrance sent her.

Mrs. Campbell then took charge of the program, the topic being "The Boy and His Mother."

Solo by Glen Dolberg, "Where is My Wandering Boy To-Night," accompanied by Mildred Ecklinger on piano. This was finely rendered.

The talk by Mr. Ball proved very interesting. He felt that the care and training of the boy should not be left for the mother alone, as is too often the case, but that the father should have his share. He thought the boy should have certain work to perform every day, that it should be expected of him and was a benefit to him.

The boys' orchestra certainly did themselves proud and all listened to their music and could hardly be content till they had rendered three selections. At the close a rising vote of thanks was given them for their excellent service.

Lincoln McConnell.

Don't miss the best lecture of the season at the Charlevoix Opera House Friday, January 16th. Seat sale at the Central Drug Store, Thursday, 7 p. m. Season tickets are now $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students. Adv. 211

Shepard-Gleason.

Married at the M. E. parsonage by Rev. Quinton Walker, Monday, January 11th, Arthur Shepard and Miss Minnie Gleason, both of East Jordan. They were attended by Miss Caroline Huleman and Frank Shepard. Mr. and Mrs. Shepard are well and favorably known in East Jordan. They will return from their tour and be at home to their friends after January 20.

71ST BIRTHDAY

Home of Mrs. M. A. Phillips, Scene of Pleasant Afternoon Gathering.

The home of Mrs. M. A. Phillips was the scene of a very pleasant affair last Wednesday afternoon, January 6, when a number of her friends, not to mention her 71st birthday.

The afternoon was spent in visiting and relating instances of the years gone by. Before their departure a fine pot-luck supper was served. Mrs. Phillips received a number of tokens of evidence of the esteem in which she is held, and the assembled guests were united in their best wishes to their host.

Roads Were Bad.

Carriers on the R. F. D. routes out of this city say the roads were in a terrible condition practically all of last week and that their horses were about all in from their heavy work before the roads became passable. On several days it was impossible for some of them to cover their entire routes.

WILL BE HELD AT EAST JORDAN

Place of Meeting of Charlevoix Farmers' Institute Changed.

One Day Meetings Also to be Held After Round-Up—Fine Program Prepared.

Charlevoix County Farmers' Institute will be opened this year with a two-day round-up meeting at East Jordan January 26 and 27. Until the recent change in the place of meeting it was generally understood throughout the county that this meeting would be held at Ironton. Later arrangements, however, necessitated making the change, and the opening meeting will be held at East Jordan as stated above.

Usually the one-day meetings have been held prior to the two-day round-up. This has also been changed and the one-day meetings throughout the county will take place after the round-up. C. W. Melick of Rochester, Michigan, will have charge of the institute. The East Jordan meeting will be opened at 9:45, Tuesday, January 26, by introductory remarks by H. L. Olney, president of the county institute. Following will be the discussion of such topics as "Maintenance of Soil Fertility," by E. O. Ladd of Old Mission; "Improving the Quality and Yield of Potatoes," by M. E. Duckles of Elk Rapids; "Alfalfa vs. Clover for Michigan," by C. W. Melick. Those gentlemen are fully capable of handling the topics assigned them and a rare treat is in store for those able to be present.

The program for the following day, January 27, will be equally as good as that of the first, the same speakers handling different topics.

Women's Congress will be held Tuesday, January 26, in charge of Mrs. Josephine Ingalls, county chairman, and Mrs. E. J. Cryts of Lansing as conductor. Topics of great interest to the farmwife will be discussed by the conductor, as well as local speakers. The election of officers will follow.

FOUND LIVE SNAKE

Sam Straw Runs Across One Two Feet Long
Crawling on Snow.

Residents in the southern part of the state who are making it known through the daily papers that they have already seen robins, have nothing on Charlevoix county.

Tuesday afternoon while Sam Straw, who lives near Twin Lakes, was working in the woods with several neighbors, found on his way home a small snake crawling on the snow. It was a garter snake about two feet long and, according to Mr. Straw's story, was as active as if it was in the middle of the summer time.

A story of this kind coming through the ordinary channels would be discredited by the editor of this paper, but in this case, knowing Mr. Straw to be strictly temperate, we are inclined to believe it. His statement is also backed up by several of his neighbors, whom we know are not in the habit of "seeing things." Anyway, a dry county that can produce snakes in the middle of the winter is going some.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier?
If not, why not?

TRI-COUNTY SOCIETY

New Medical Organization Formed Last Week at Potoskey.

The most enthusiastic and largest attended meeting of medical men ever held by a Northern Michigan organization took place Tuesday afternoon and evening at Potoskey.

A tri-county society was formed consisting of Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet counties and dubbed the A. C. E. Medical Society for short. The attendance of doctors from Charlevoix county included practically every physician in active practice in the county. Officers were elected and committees named: Dr. Gardner of Harbor Springs, Dr. Nihart of Potoskey, are president and secretary respectively. A uniform fee list was adopted. The guests of the evening were: Drs. Wernholm of Grand Rapids, who gave a splendid paper and Dr. McMullen of Cadillac, who took part in the lively discussion which followed.

Regular monthly meetings will be held the second Tuesday of each month.

Subscribe for the Courier.

EVERYBODY READS

Successful Business Men Keep in Touch with the World Through Newspapers.

Everybody reads the newspapers these days. We are a nation of readers.

We read the daily papers for the world's news of the day, for the market reports, for the work of our legislators in national and state capitals.

But we read the LOCAL PAPER for the news which comes straight home to us—the news which is necessary to our intelligence—which is an essential part of our being.

We read the LOCAL PAPER because it alone can keep us in close touch with local affairs of moment, with our neighbors and the community, with conditions which are of prime importance to us. We read the LOCAL PAPER because without it we would be practically strangers in our own homes, because we would be living in ignorance of those happenings of which local conditions make it imperative that we be constantly informed.

Present day necessity requires that we read the papers, and ESPECIALLY THE LOCAL PAPER.

Auction Sale Postponed.

On account of conflicting dates, the date of the auction sale of Austin Newman published in last week's Courier to be held the 14th of January has been set for one day later and will be held on the 15th. Remember the date will be the 15th instead of the 14th, as published in the paper. Let your friend who intends to go know of the change of date.

TO BE HELD IN GRAND RAPIDS

Republican State Convention Called for Friday, February 12.

Charlevoix Entitled to Ten Delegates—County Convention Friday, February 5.

A state convention of the Republicans of Michigan is called to meet in the city of Grand Rapids on Friday, February 12, 1915, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of nominating Republican candidates for the following state offices: Two justices of the supreme court, superintendent of public instruction, two regents of the university, one member of the state board of education, two members of the state board of agriculture; and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention.

In accordance with the action of the Republican state central committee, Charlevoix county will be entitled to 10 delegates.

Under the resolution of 1858, no delegate will be entitled to a seat in the state convention who does not reside in the county he proposes to represent.

The delegates from the several counties in each congressional district are requested to meet in district caucus at 9:30 o'clock a. m. on the day of the state convention and select officers as follows, to be presented to said convention for confirmation:

- (1) One vice-president.
- (2) One assistant secretary.
- (3) One member of the committee on credentials.
- (4) One member of the committee on permanent organization and order of business.
- (5) One member of the committee on resolutions.

The Republican county conventions for the election of delegates to the state convention shall be held on Friday, the 5th day of February, throughout the state.

Each township, ward or precinct shall be entitled to such number of delegates to the convention of its county as shall be specified in the call issued by the county committee.

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the condition of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

Respectfully submitted,
Pol. Adv. 217 J. H. Milford.

CHANGES IN PRIMARY LAW

Plan Formulated by Committee to be Presented to Legislature.

Will Eliminate County Conventions and State
Nominating Conventions.

There seems to be an overwhelming sentiment in favor of something being done with the primary law. A subcommittee appointed by the Republican state central committee consisting of A. H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids, John Baird of Saginaw, Lieutenant Governor John Q. Roes of Muskegon, W. E. Brown of Lapeer and John D. MacKay of Detroit have formulated their report and will submit it during the present session of the legislature.

This recommendation is that the primary be held in August, as now; that besides governor, lieutenant governor and U. S. senator among the distinctively state officers it include also secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general and auditor general, all the last four being now nominated by the state convention.

Each party is to have what is known as a pre-primary state convention, to which delegates are to be elected from each township and ward at the regular spring election, if there is one. These delegates elected from the townships and wards direct to the state convention are to get their names before the people on petitions of at least two per cent. and not more than four per cent. of the party voters of the township.

This, it will be noticed, will wholly eliminate county conventions and state nominating conventions.

This pre-primary state convention—whose purpose is to formulate a platform—will meet in June and adopt a platform. This will be done on the theory that a platform should be the organized expression of the party, not the individual opinion of some candidate.

Besides formulating a platform this pre-primary convention has another function which will make it of far more than passing importance. It is to vote on recommending a candidate for U. S. senator, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general and auditor general. If any person receive a MAJORITY of the votes of this convention for any of these offices his name and his alone shall be certified to the secretary of state to go on the primary ballot. If no person receives a majority, then no name shall be certified.

This does not shut off the party primary ballot any person who feels himself aggrieved by the pre-primary convention recommendation or who has reasonable support for a place on the ticket. While the name of the convention nominee will appear in first place, any person who secures a petition of two to four per cent. of the voters from 20 counties of the state, not more than 25 per cent. of the signers being from any one county, shall be entitled to have his name on the ballot.

It is also proposed to do away with the blank ballot plan now in use and return to the separate party ballot plan, each voter's party affiliation to be made a matter of record.

The committee having this matter in charge disclaim any desire to dictate to the party, but simply wish to formulate a tentative program, around which the sentiment of the state might crystallize into workable form.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY

Miss Benona Bartlett Entertains in Honor of Miss Mildred Johnson.

Miss Benona Bartlett gave an announcement party at her home last Wednesday evening in honor of her cousin, Miss Mildred Johnson, announcing her engagement to Chas. Lamphear. The earlier part of the evening was spent in fancy work, each guest having brought her sewing bag.

At 9:30 a four-course dinner was served in the dining room, where covers were laid for twenty-two. The dining room was very beautifully decorated, the tables being arranged in a large square, the center of which was banked in green ferns and vines. From the chandelier, directly above the table, pink ribbons were draped to the four corners of the table. Appropriate place cards were placed before the guests, each bearing the name of one of those present. The dinner was served by Mesdames Elmer Johnson, R. E. Sloan, L. B. Bartlett and Don Stacks.

Correspondence

ATWOOD

(Two late for last week)

1915.

Good sleighing.

Are you ready to swear off?

Ice on the lake is 16 inches thick.

Of course it gets late early in the morning now.

Plenty Gennett will run his sawmill to cut lumber for the farmers.

How many of our boys are saving their money for a time of need?

John Parsons, who spent the holidays at Alba, Michigan, returned home on Tuesday last.

HAYES.

Mrs. Jas. Shearer is on the sick list.

Mrs. Jones Lewis is on the sick list.

Alex. Calder of Charlevoix is visiting at the home of Jones Lewis.

Mrs. Ethel Potter of Charlevoix is at home a few days while her mother is sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bartholomew and son returned home last Thursday from Detroit.

A. B. Ball of Charlevoix met with the Y. M. C. A. boys at Maple Grove last Friday evening.

The mail carrier found the roads bad one day last week and could not make the whole route.

Miss Ivy Lewis of Charlevoix visited at E. E. Strand's last week, returning last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel of Boyne City are visiting their sister, Mrs. G. Ferris, before moving to Georgia.

Fred Erfourth called on his mother at Burgess last Sunday. He was accompanied by Leslie and Walter Howe.

Mrs. Geo. Tindall and her sister, Mrs. Deckerhof of Charlevoix, took Mrs. W. Olstrum to Petoskey hospital last week.

Mrs. E. E. Stroud's mother and niece, who have been visiting her for a few weeks, returned to their homes in Ohio last Tuesday.

E. E. Stroud and wife and Platt Webster and wife went to Charlevoix last Friday evening to install the grange officers of that place.

About twenty neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris gathered at their home Monday evening. A good time enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Jessie Gibbs of Montreal, Canada, is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Gibbs of Bay Shore, for two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miner.

E. E. Stroud and wife installed the officers of Maple Grove Grange last Tuesday evening. Twenty-eight members and one visitor were present. Oysters were served at the close.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, ss.

I, Frank J. Cheney, declare that, he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 11th day of December, A. D. 1914.

A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for free booklet free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio, Sold in all Druggists, Grocers.

Take Hall's Catarrh Pills for constipation.

CLARION

C. H. Miller returned Thursday from Charlevoix.

Miss Pearl Geyer returned Saturday from Ionia.

Dr. Geo. Roycroft of Petoskey was in town Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Rench visited relatives in Petoskey Saturday.

There will be special meetings held at the M. E. church here this week.

QUESTION CLEARED UP

Charlevoix Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Charlevoix's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Charlevoix been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens, whom we know and respect and whose evidence we can so easily follow.

Bert Beaudoin, 328 Bridge street, Charlevoix, says: "I was bothered off and on for several months by my kidneys. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and I suffered from severe backaches and pains in my loins. I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, obtained at the Ivy Drug Store, and they brought fine results. I am now free from the aches and pains and my kidneys are normal."

Price five, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the name that Mr. Beaudoin had. Foster-McBarn Company, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

LOCAL DRUGGIST SAYS:

"TAKE ONLY ONE DOSE."

We want to tell those in Charlevoix suffering from stomach and bowel trouble that we are agents for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler's-Ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This is the most thorough bowel cleanser known and JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. You will be surprised at the QUICK action of Adler's-Ka.—B. A. Herman, druggist.

Mrs. S. A. Correll of Charlevoix visited relatives on Card street this week. There will be a basketball game here Friday, when Clarion will play the Elmira team.

Little Clifford Hawkins was taken to Petoskey hospital on Friday, where he had his leg amputated.

The Clarion Aid Society were guests of the Walloon Lake Aid Society at the home of Mrs. Henry Frank.

While working in the woods felling trees, Robert Regan had the misfortune of breaking his left leg below the knee.

Charles Camburn, an old resident and well-known hotel keeper, died at his home at Walloon Lake on Friday. The funeral services were held Sunday, Rev. J. W. Staaton in charge.

Notice, Marion Taxpayers.

I will be at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank on Saturday, January 30, and Saturday, February 6, for the collection of taxes.—James Cook, Treasurer of Marion Township.—Adv. 212—pd.

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Rose Greenick)

The class finished the work of the charts Wednesday.

Mr. J. H. Milford, county school commissioner, visited the normal room Wednesday.

Hazel Pearl and Ruby Hooker observed the work in third grade reading preparatory to the work in practice teaching.

Miss Edith Hale and her friend Mrs. Harry Gregory visited the normal room Wednesday. Miss Hale was a member of the class of 1911.

Mr. J. E. Chew, one of the supervisors, visited the normal room Wednesday. He gave us a very interesting talk on the country schools.

Lillian Akins observed the work in the chart class reading Wednesday, Thursday and Friday preparatory to the work in practice teaching.

Ethel Sanford observed the work of the fifth grade reading Wednesday, Thursday and Friday preparatory to the work in practice teaching.

HOW TO UTILIZE A WOMAN EVENING GOWN.

Relaxation robes, charming affairs of the dainty woman's wardrobe are called. But what's in a name? It is more helpful to most women to tell of the ways and means of making this useful garment. Many, of course, are to be had in the shops, and varied are the prices asked for these garments. Exquisite are those of the de luxe family, while those for real comfort and utility are beautiful in line if not such exquisite material. The former are in many cases so much like the covers for evening wear it is difficult to distinguish. Baskies lend themselves readily to form attractive negligees, while the two piece idea is thought well of for this purpose. Turkish trousers are also introduced, while the Chinese coat worn over its accompanying straight skirt, is one of the most comfortable of all designs. Type effects are charming. Lace jackets worn over occasion plaited slips or the thinned skirt offer many suggestions to the clever needlewoman. In fact, a half worn evening dress in the hands of this woman has its days doubled, for it is a foundation for saving time and expense. A lace jacket or one of chiffon with a gown of this description would give the ingenious woman ample material with which to display her creative powers.

Crepes de chine, all the soft silks, challis, albatros, quilted silk and the various crepes form the simpler negligees. The same hemstitching, picot edging, ruffles, puffs, net, lace, ribbon and ribbon roses trim the more elaborate ones of lace, chiffon and silk.

All Answered.

"Well, Jean, are you content about your examination?"

"Yes, grandma; I answered all the questions."

"And how did you answer them?"

"I answered them I didn't know," Paris Hirs.

A Hot One.

He girls are queer creatures; they are the best for who asks them as a question. She said to a young man:

GRAIN PRICES ARE HIGHER

Wheat 18c, Rye 32c and Oats 5c Above Last Year's Prices.

General Condition of Crops and Stock Throughout the State, as Reported.

In answer to the question "Has wheat during December suffered injury from any cause?" 22 correspondents in the state answer "yes" and 321 "no," and in answer to the question "Has the ground been well covered with snow during December?" 260 correspondents throughout the state answer "yes" and 79 "no."

The total number of bushels of wheat marketed by farmers in December at 72 flour mills was 142,037 and at 89 elevators and to grain dealers 197,324, a total of 339,361 bushels. Of this amount 228,636 bushels were marketed in the southern four tiers of counties, 94,635 in the central counties and 16,191 in the northern counties and upper peninsula. The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in the five months August-December was 6,500,000.

The average condition of live stock in the state is reported as follows, comparison being made with stock in good, healthy and thrifty condition: Horses and swine 97, cattle 96 and sheep 98.

The average prices for the state on January 1st of some of the principal farm products were as follows:

Wheat per bushel was $1.09; rye, 94 cents; corn, 68 cents; oats, 46 cents; hay per ton was $11.86; fat cattle were $6.46 per cwt.; fat hogs, $6.67 per cwt., and dressed pork $8.79 per cwt.

The price of each class of horses was as follows: Under one year old, $54.24; between one and two years old, $89.44; between two and three years old, $130.16; and three years old and over, $167.60. Milch cows were worth $62.18 per head.

Cattle other than milch cows—Under one year old, $18.59; between one and two years old, $32.24; between two and three years old, $47.42, and three years old and over, $58.90.

Sheep under one year old $4.19 and one year old and over $5.15. Hogs not fattened $6.15 per cwt.

The price of wheat is 18 cents, rye 32 cents and oats 5 cents higher than one year ago and corn one cent lower.

The average prices of horses, etc., one year ago were as follows: Under one year old, $56.69; between one and two years old, $92.96; between two and three years old, $134.37, and three years old and over, $173.18. Milch cows $60.34. Cattle other than milch cows—Under one year old, $17.77; between one and two years old, $30.14, and three years old and over, $45.09, and three years old and over, $58.10. Sheep under one year old $4.07 and one year old and over $4.79. Hogs not fattened $6.74 per cwt.

On January 1st, 1906, the average price of wheat per bushel was $1.09; rye, 72 cents; corn, 52 cents, and oats, 33 cents; hay, $8.86 per ton; fat cattle, $3.17; fat hogs, $4.18; and dressed pork, $6.49 per cwt. Horses under one year old, $33.60; between one and two years old, $51.60; between two and three years old, $80.51, and three years old and over, $112.07.

Milch cows were worth $29.28 per head. Cattle other than milch cows—Under one year old, $9.06; between one and two years old, $15.15; between two and three years old, $23.45, and three years old and over, $30.70. Sheep under one year old, $3.30, and one year old and over, $3.83; hogs not fattened, $3.73 per cwt.

Conscientious Objection.

A house decorator was engaged to repair the walls of a certain office. After a long period the manager ordered to find that the man had finished his work and was sitting down reading a newspaper and enjoying a quiet smoke. When asked why he had missed the part of the wall over the clock, the man replied, "Well, I never reckon to work overtime!"

POULTRY WISDOM.

All the poultry houses should be in shape for winter.

Be sure there is a good supply of litter in every house. The birds need exercise and plenty of food.

Don't wait till the houses are infested with vermin. Keep spraying with some good lice killer and keep the houses clean all the time.

It is well to be preparing at this time for a supply of green feed for your flock during the winter. Hens make a good winter ration, as do turnips or small potatoes. Immature heads of cabbage are an excellent winter feed.

Do not crowd your birds into a small space.

Give them a good feed. Keep only as many as can be comfortably housed.

THE SWINEHERD.

Little roasters weighing about fifteen pounds find a ready market.

Skim milk and middlings make the young pigs grow.

The market is still for the 200 pound pig.

Are you saving roots for the winter? The hogs will appreciate them.

Breed to secure quick growth, early maturity and stock that is easily fattened.

As a general disinfectant for all around the farm, including the swine quarters, there is nothing better than sulphate of copper (bluestone).

DISEASES OF SHEEP.

Contagious Ophthalmia and Sore Mouths Are Dangerous Disorders.

A very dangerous form of sore eyes sometimes makes its appearance among the lambs in summer. The first symptom noticed is the swelling of the eyelids, both the upper and the lower being involved. There is a constant discharge of water from the eyes so severe that the short wool on the sides of the face becomes sticky and matted. Shortly after this is noticed there will be an eruption formed on the ball of the eye that grows and grows till it has spread over the greater part of the eye.

Taken at the beginning, when the eyelids begin to swell, the disease may be checked by the use of a boric acid solution. Take the boric acid crystals and put them in the water, letting the water take up all the crystals that it will dissolve. Use this saturated solution as an eye wash, sponging off the lamb's eyes with it two or three times daily.

Sore mouth in lambs may come from feeding on some irritating substance. In other instances it may be something far more dangerous. There is such a thing as "lip and leg sore" that is highly contagious and should be carefully treated when it makes its appearance. It has no connection whatever with sore eyes in lambs, but is one of the diseases the shepherd should guard his lamb crop from.

This "lip and leg sore" trouble is caused by a disease germ that has been located, identified and named bacillus aerophilus. As a rule, the trouble makes its appearance on the lips, although it may appear first on the legs. In the worst cases it is found in ulcerations on both the lips and the legs and sometimes on other parts of the body.

Shropshires are very popular sheep both in this country and abroad. They were tried at the Wisconsin experiment station among all the different mutton breeds, and they say the Shropshire is the most profitable they ever bred for wool and mutton. They are money makers. The grand champion carload lot at several international shows at Chicago were pretty nearly all pure bred Shropshires. There are more Shropshires in England than of all other mutton breeds together.

When such a disease makes its appearance the sheep that are affected should be isolated at once. If the lambs have been kept in a barn or shed the premises should be given a thorough disinfection, using some very strong germicide. A strong solution of bicarbonate of mercury, of carbolic acid or a 5 per cent solution of sheep dip may be used for this.

There is no internal treatment for the muttons, as they seem to be entirely a local disorder. Where the ulcers are forming they should be treated with iodo-caine, touching the sore spots as you do when removing "proud flesh" in an old sore.

Get a veterinarian to look at the sheep or lambs and have him leave something with which to dress the sores. It will be necessary to have a dressings that is strongly germicidal, as the disease comes from a persistent germ.

Rape For Hogs.

Milk being scarce on many farms, the pig is likely to run short of the food most desirable for rapid growth. In such cases a good substitute for some feed is a rape pasture. After the rape has grown eight to ten inches high small pigs can be turned in. A large growth should be obtained before turning the larger hogs and sheep in so as to prevent pulling of the plants. Do not allow too close pasturing, as this will prevent a second growth. Properly pastured it will supply feed until winter.

Four In One.

The youth had been asked to write examples of the Indicative, subjunctive and potential moods and an exclamatory sentence. This is what he produced:

"I am trying to pass an English examination. If I answer twenty questions I shall pass. If I answer twenty questions I may pass. Heaven help me!"

In This Age of Reciprocity

the business man prefers the bank which remembers and performs its obligations to the Public from which it draws its support.

Fully appreciative of these obligations, The Charlevoix State Savings Bank, strives in legitimate ways to co-operate with the business interests, large and small, of Charlevoix and Michigan.

Extending all the facilities offered by a conservative and progressive institution.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank
Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier
Archie Livingston, Ass't. Cashier
H. S. Barsha, Vice President

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.
Morning service at 10:30 a. m.
Sunday school at 11:45 a. m.
B. Y. P. U. meeting at 6:30 p. m.
Evening service at 7 p. m.
Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m.
Lloyd C. Vineyard, pastor.

Catholic Church
Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.
High Mass at 10:00 a. m.
Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.
Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.
Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church
Bible school at 12 o'clock.
Young people's meeting 6:30 p. m.
Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
Services at Ironton:—
Bible school, 2:00 p. m.
Preaching, 3:00 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church
A. M.—"Elijah's Discovery."
P. M.—"Eternity."

Church of God
Services at camp ground every Sunday.
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science
Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.
Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject: "Life."
Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 till 5 p. m.

Board of Education.
January 5, 1915.

Regular meeting of the board was called to order by President Kane.

Trustees present—Kane, Nordrum, and Hiller.

Absent—Hampton and Glassford.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $1965.11.

The following bills were presented and read:

GENERAL FUND
Charlevoix Courier, printing	$4.35
Mrs. Ida Mushoff, cleaning	13.12
Forrest Fowler, cleaning	9.00
George Heenan, cleaning	3.00
William Skye, cleaning	7.50
P. R. Ross, freight and drayage	19.67
Michigan State Tel. Co., rental	18.00
W. M. Welch Mfg. Co., supplies	15.00
H. E. McHugh, supplies	5.00
A. M. Dolberg, janitor	22.50
Cecil Poole, janitor	17.50
Mrs. A. O. Allison, janitor	7.50
James Perry, fireman	15.00
Alonso Powers, plumbing	36.04
LUMBER FUND
Robert Bonhrum, repairs	1.50
O. S. Washburn & Son, repairs	.60
B. A. Herman, supplies	6.70
A. C. McClug & Co., books	16.58
Mrs. A. M. Dolberg, cleaning	5.25
Mrs. C. Lyngklop, cleaning	5.25
A. M. Dolberg, janitor	5.00
TRACHERS' FUND
Olaf Nordrum, teachers' payroll	$1,022.70

Moved and supported that the bills as read be allowed and the secretary be instructed to draw orders on the various funds for the amount of each respective bill. Motion carried.

Moved and supported that the report of the superintendent with reference to a change in the high school course be accepted. Motion carried.

These minutes were read and approved and on motion the board adjourned.

E. J. Hiller,
Secretary

YOUR AUCTION SALE

One of the most important things to keep in mind when you are contemplating having an Auction Sale is to engage an Auctioneer who is on the job every minute and knows how to conduct a sale.

It is my Business

Experience has taught me how to conduct a sale successfully. Have cried over 500 in the last 10 years and make it a point to always give satisfaction.

When you are ready for that sale, write me at Charlevoix, or book any date you want at the Courier Office.

W. E. BYERS
Charlevoix, Mich.

PATENTS

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or lost. Good models, sketches or photos and descriptions for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Bank references.

D. SWIFT & CO.
PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills. Take one or other every day. They will cure you of all ailments. A box of all CHICHESTER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, 10c. Sold by DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 313. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. ISLAK SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 108 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. M. EATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1878

D. R. J. A. AULD

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building

Over Levinson's Store

Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

of Charlevoix County

Twenty years Experience

Maps and Plats on Short Notice

VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

ALLEN M. WILKINSON

Physician and Surgeon

Eyes Tested and Glasses Fitted

Telephone—Office 66 1/2; residence 66 3/4

Office in Postoffice Bld'g Charlevoix

R. B. ARMSTRONG

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the

EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 255 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE

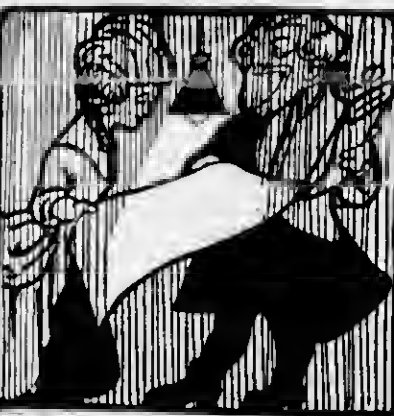

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention

Office in Bank Block

Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

Mr. Merchant

The Holiday rush is over—Now is the time to have your lighting equipment brought up to a MODERN STANDARD—and HERE is where you can obtain the

TUNGSTEN CLUSTERS
SHOW WINDOW ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and other illumination equipment at the closest prices and the highest quality.

For DOMESTIC use we have an unrivaled showing of ELECTRIC DEVICES for cooking, heating, etc., small motors and truly handsome portables, electric fans, etc. Your visit of inspection incurs no obligation and is cordially invited.

F. S. Bettles

214 Bridge street

Phone 134 when you need First-class Electric Work

THE LITTLE GOD

And a Separation and a Reunion.

By AGNES G. BROGAN

Phillips and Richard had been sweethearts for so long that no one could remember when the "little god" first claimed them for his own. When Richard was still a boy in high school it was Phillips who settled upon his future career as a lawyer, and, having no father to aid him in accomplishing this purpose, Richard set about making plans for its fulfillment.

Armed only with his high school diploma, he obtained a position as country schoolteacher in a town which possessed the advantage of nearness to his ladylove. And as time passed the boy managed, with the aid of a friendly old solicitor, to begin a course of night law study. If Richard worked hard for love's sake he was not alone in the sacrifice. Phillips, who was young and good to look upon, might have had happier cavaliers than the one whose head bowed over lawbooks. But she laughed her admirers aside, spending her own evenings drawing lifelike sketches of all the chubby babies in the neighborhood. And at last the faithful ones came into their reward—Richard had successfully passed his final examinations.

"You shall have desk room in my office, boy," the pleased old barrister promised. "Then we'll see what you are made of."

And at just this glorious time a wonderful thing happened to Phillips. With an inclosed check came word that a magazine had accepted one of her sketches. She had sent the drawing never daring to dream that the baby face, with its toothless smile, could win an editor's approval, yet here was the substantial proof. Richard was enthusiastic when she confided her triumph.

"Why, Phil," he said, "you may develop into a great artist. When we are married you shall have those art lessons."

But that long looked for goal seemed to fade farther into distance as Richard fought to gain a foothold in his profession. Strive as he might he could barely earn the necessities of life. And as time passed he awoke painfully to the growing change in Phillips. Where heretofore she had eagerly discussed with him plans for their future she now talked alone of "art," while the little house which they had pictured together was to her no longer a coveted reality, but a possible faraway dream.

"You are selfish," her sister told her angrily, "not to see the suffering in Richard's face."

"Dick suffering?" Phillips exclaimed incredulously.

She joined the family group a few days later waving above her head a bulky document. "Listen to this!" she cried. "Aunt Phillips did remember me in her will, after all. She has left an annuity of $100 a month, to be paid me as long as I live."

Her mother leaned forward excitedly. "Oh, she said, 'now you may take drawing lessons as you have always wished to do!'"

Phillips smiled. "First of all," she said, "I intend to marry Dickie."

"He won't have your money," her sister warned her. "Dick will wait to support his own wife."

Phillips nodded understandingly. "I know," she agreed, "and that is why he must know nothing of this legacy until we are married."

When she came to her lover, freely offering to share his humble lot, Richard could scarcely believe his own good fortune. "You will have to give up much for my sake, dear love," he said. "It will be for your sake," Phillips answered eloquently. "Some things are rare and beautiful beyond the power of description. Such was the joy of Phillips and Richard. It was happiness to sit in the shaded lamplight of evening building air castles for a future as rose colored as its beginning. But Phillips' secret weighed heavily upon her conscience, and on one of those occasions she made full confession, her cheek pressed close against her husband's hair. She was silent for so long that he bent to look into his face, and his expression of sadness shocked her.

"Why, Dickie?" she exclaimed. "Do you care so much about the money?"

Richard gathered his wife in his arms. "Your husband is a selfish brute, dear," he said contritely, "and I am afraid you will not understand why this should hurt so much. It was a wonderful thing, you see, to believe that you had chosen life with me above everything else in the world—even that you were willing to sacrifice for my sake your beloved art." He laughed shortly. "Rather a shock to find that you agreed to marry me only—only Phillips, when you were certain of gaining both."

"The girl drew away from him. 'You are unkind,' she said. This began that 'little rift within the lute which, slowly widening, silences all.' And it did widen.

ly fastened instrument, and as the moon opened she sang a little song, the one he had liked so well. Now, Richard had left his office on that particular evening in a state of mind bordering on despair. The lawsuit in which he had labored so tirelessly, the great suit upon which he had counted so much, had been lost. There were many bills to be paid, and Richard wondered desperately as he hurried along how he was going to pay them. Then across his troubled turmoil of thought burst Phillips' merry song. As she turned on the door to meet his look of pleased surprise her smile in stantly faded.

"I-I bought the piano, Richard," she faltered, "intending to pay for it with my own money."

"Your money?" he burst out contemptuously. "Then in your opinion marriage does not make two people one."

Many cruel things Richard said, led on by his blind passion of disappointment, while Phillips stood silently thinking. She recalled her years of patient waiting, her never failing encouragement, and her heart burned within her now at his injustice.

"You should not have married me," Richard ended bitterly, "if you wished to indulge your whimsy."

Then Phillips closed the piano. "You may have them send for it tomorrow," she said. When her husband had gone Phillips began in a methodical fashion to pack her trunk. When that was accomplished she sat down to pen a little note.

"Of all the wild things you have said this night," she wrote, "one is true. I should never have married you. I go now to remedy that mistake. An I wish to be entirely dependent in future upon my legacy I will need you from the city an address to which my annuity may be forwarded."

So Phillips took up her life in the old home with a brave assumption of cheerfulness. In order to hasten her now determined purpose she rented a small studio in the city to be in touch with the workers, and if the girl's eyes grew wistful as the postman continued to pass on his way her inner grief was not betrayed to a sympathizing family. Steadily, feverishly she worked, and at last a new anxiety presented itself. Without notification her annuity suddenly ceased payment. Disheartened, Phillips found that she had lost the address of the trust company, and wrote to its lawyers demanding an explanation. The response to her letter came promptly.

"We are at a loss to understand your communication," the letter said in part, "as it was our unpleasant duty at the time to inform you of the absolute failure of said trust company, which failure occurred after the second payment of your annuity."

Phillips repeated the typewritten words, "which failure occurred after payment of your second annuity."

Then who had made the successive payments which had reached her through all the past years? Since the "parting of their ways" Richard had placed the forwarding of these checks in the hands of the old solicitor from whom he rented desk room. Presently Phillips jumped up. Her eyes were shining with a new and joyous hope.

Oh, in spite of their blind misunderstanding, it might be that Richard still cared! A moment she smilingly considered, then wrote the solicitor's name.

"Will you," she briefly requested, "kindly forward my annuity as per usual? It has been long overdue."

Phillips' faultily worded check that evening at the secret source of her good spirits. When she was alone she read quickly the old lawyer's reply to her inquiry. Curly he informed her that the annuity would no doubt be attended to when her husband was again able to be about. At present Mr. Harmon was too ill to be troubled with business affairs.

Dickie III! Phillips' light heartedness vanished as she slipped into her coat. She must go at once to her new home. Resolutely she kept her face from that other desk with its vacant chair as she entered the old solicitor's presence. He regarded her sternly as he bowed in greeting.

"I wish to ask a few questions," said Phillips directly. "Will you answer them?"

"I will," he replied.

"Tell me, then, who has been paying my annuity since the trust company failed long ago?"

"It may be a breach of confidence," the lawyer answered, "but it seems only right that you should know. Your husband has been sacrificing himself in order to secretly continue these payments to you might not be disappointed in your career. Laboring unceasingly without hope of happiness in a quick road to nervous prostration. That fact he realizes now."

Phillips buried her face in her hands. "I-I must go to him," she said. Her heart pounded painfully as she entered the little vestibule and climbed the well remembered stairs. Outside the closed door she waited timidly.

"Who is there?" called a hoarse familiar voice, and Richard arose on his couch. For a moment his eyes searched hers with eager and infinite yearning. Then, with a tender cry, Phillips fell straight to his outstretched arms.

In a certain art gallery hangs a finely copied painting, the beautiful "Infant's Cry." Against his number in the catalogue is written, "Richard Harmon, painted by his mother." And when Phillips and her husband came, standing there reverently before the canvas, the true "cry of love" looked back at them both with his happy baby smile.

Light Traffic.
"Was the car crowded you came in?" "Not very. I had a strap all to myself." Boston Transcript

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOKING WILD DUCKS.

Wild ducks are in season. At Thanksgiving they are frequently substituted for turkey when that noble bird is high in price and the sportsman of the family can provide the ducks.

Wild ducks need to be cooked rare. If duty a peeled carrot or an onion placed inside the bird during the cooking will absorb the unpleasant taste. Wild grape or currant jelly goes with the wild duck or turkey.

Prepared Like Goose.

Roast Wild Duck.—Prepare a wild duck the same as a roast goose. Put in the dripping pan and cover breasts with salt pork cut in thin slices, roast in a quick oven about twenty-five minutes, baste every five minutes, remove to a hot platter, take out skewers, cut strings and serve with orange sauce and currant jelly. Ducks sometimes are stuffed with quartered apples peeled or an onion put in the body of the duck.

Clean Ducks Carefully.

Roast Mallard.—Clean the duck carefully, dry picking it, of course. Quickly rinse the inside and wipe well, both inside and out, with a damp cloth. Never wash the inside of duck unless the gall bladder or some part has been broken. Rub inside with salt and pepper and put in a kitchen spoonful of butter. Truss well and rub outside well with butter. Place in a very hot oven and allow to roast from twenty minutes to half an hour, according to size and age. Do not allow it to cook dry. Wild duck must be allowed to reach that point only where the blood will not run when the carving fork pierces the flesh. Serve on a hot platter with their own gravy and the whipped cream apple sauce.

A Delicious Dish.

Broiled Canvasback Duck.—When the duck is nicely cleaned, as for broiling a chicken, wipe well with a damp cloth and split down the middle of the back in the same manner as you would the chicken. Flatten, so it will lay on the broiler and every part of surface be equally exposed to the fire. Brush well with olive oil of finest quality or with butter that is not very salty. Place in broiler and turn at least twice or often enough to prevent burning and allow to cook quickly and evenly. From seven to ten minutes for either side will be about right. Place on a hot, covered dish. Silver plate or aluminum is the best. Season with salt and pepper and pour over it a hot sauce of lemon juice and butter and decorate with tender celery hearts or crisp cream.

Anna Thompson

Let Us Do It Ourselves.

Once the philanthropist set up a drinking fountain. Now there is good city water laid on everywhere. In olden times kind hearted people provided "ragged schools" for the waifs of the alleys. Now there are public schools for all. Once the benevolent created funds to provide meals for indigent prisoners in the jails, but John D. Rockefeller and the state to feed its prisoners. Time was when the defectives were cared for by charitable groups. Now the state provides for these unfortunates. There will always be opportunity for private philanthropy to render signal services, but a democratic society with a proper spirit of independence will not allow itself to form the bad habit of leaning upon the large private donor, but will take as its motto, "Let us do it ourselves."—Atlantic Monthly.

Our Sugar.

The first beet sugar factory in the United States was erected in Philadelphia in 1830. It did not prove a success and was discontinued. The first successful beet sugar factory was built in 1870 at Alvarado, Cal. This factory was in operation until 1913, when it closed down. It is estimated that $100,000,000 is now invested in the sugar beet industry of this country. The sugar supply of the American people is drawn from three main sources. These are: Domestic beet sugar produced in seventeen states from Ohio in the east to California in the west; domestic cane sugar produced in Louisiana, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines; imported cane sugar produced in Cuba.—Argonaut.

Got Rusty All Right.

"See here," complained the man as he walked up to the proprietor of the clothing store. "I have only had this suit two weeks, and it looks rusty already."

"Well," said the proprietor, "did the salesman guarantee the suit?"

"He did," replied the man. "He said it would wear like iron."

"Well," replied the man, "it did, didn't it?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Slicing Bacon.

To slice bacon properly always place it rind down and do not attempt to cut through the rind. When you have the desired number of slices slip the knife under them and cut them free from the rind, keeping as close to it as possible.

Causes of His Death.

ARABIAN like And so Shipper Sam died with his boots on. He? Branchy Bill. No, no died with my boots on. That's how he came to die.—Exchange.

Year Turned.

"What's the deal, Henry?"

Money in the Bank

MAKES LIFE'S CLIMB EASY

Opportunity is always knocking at the door of the man with a bank account.

Why not open a Savings Account at this bank today?

Save persistently. Cut out your extravagances. Live economically. You'll be surprised at the rapid growth of your account.

One dollar opens a Savings Account here and your money will draw 4 per cent interest.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Buttern A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners

Home For Savings

WATCH

Blanchard's Bargain Counters

There are many Surprises in store for you

Hand Sleds at Cost

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted

Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

Bake Day Troubles

Bring them to us—we'll solve them for you.

Baking is our business—good baking. Housewives tell us they can buy their baked goods as cheap as they can make them themselves—and think of the trouble and worry it saves you. Let us do your baking for you for a while, and see if this is not true.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year, $1.50
One copy, six months, .75
One copy, three months, .40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and
entertainments, where admission is
charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary poetry, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 25 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

"Local Politics."

Will someone kindly explain "local politics" and their use? Why should there be "local politics?"

Local welfare is what intelligent people are seeking to-day. James Bryce in his survey of our republic judges us pretty largely by municipalities, hence his keen and adverse strictures, so un- welcome to citizens in the habit of being judged by the Declaration of Inde- pendence of their forefathers.

Politics is a treacherous word. In one sense it means the advancement of political candidates to office, or the science thereof; in another sense it means the administration of political parties. Modern dictionaries tie on the various defini- tions these words:

"Political Intrigue—Chicanery."

Honestly speaking, therefore, politics should be eternally effaced from muni- cipal affairs. It will be a hard thing to do, but an honest and serious attempt to do it—wherever and whenever made—will result in great good.

Here are the drawbacks to what we term "local politics:"

Under this scheme few except minis- ters of the gospel can openly criticize a local evil without being sneered at as tin-horn reformers and having all their personal failings picked out and flung in the faces of their friends.

Under this scheme one is always asked to let well enough alone, remind- ed that things though bad cannot be helped, laughed at if you firmly insist on improvements, and unless you have a star-bright record and can flap your snow-white wings you have no right to tell on or criticize the other fellow if he happens to be in office.

Under "local politics" it is not con- sidered good business policy to demand ordinary business efficiency in public affairs. Furthermore, you have to stand for all the bad men and bad measures found in your party. This is sometimes hard sledding, but you have to do it.

But under the local public welfare plan, through independent thinking and voting, party lines disappear, "local politics" go to the scrap pile, where they belong, and you vote for men and principles. If the men you elect fail to make good you can defend them at the next election by your system of inde- pendent and fearless voting.

This plan, it may be said, does not require the commission form of govern- ment. It would only require about the same amount of organized thought and interest that a man will show in his lodge or church work. But it requires first that "local politics" should be re- legated to the "honeyard."

Municipal affairs pertain to police and fire protection, schools, lights, water, sanitation, streets, alleys, sidewalks, parks, playgrounds, food inspection, etc., or, in other words, to the daily needs and welfare of men, women and children.

They have nothing to do with "local politics," nor has "local politics" any right to have anything to do with them.

Cut rate prices on all magazines to Courier readers. See adv. on page 7.

CHICAGO is trying out a new court that has no lawyers. Dollar to a doub- nut that it will be found to be uncon- stitutional.

THERE is one question we would like to ask. Are you still keeping that com- fortable seat on the water wagon, bro- ther?

CHEER up. In 13 more weeks it will be spring; then you will have to buy only nine more tons of coal.

WILL BUILD NEW VAULTS

Under Offices of Register of Deeds and County Clerk.

Board of Supervisors Adjourns Thursday—3,200 feet of Much Needed Road to Be Built.

After a steady grind of four days in matters pertaining to the business of the county, the board of supervisors adjourned last Thursday afternoon. Important business transacted during the last days is as follows:

The committee appointed at the October session to report on the recom- mendation by the County Board of Poor Commissioners relative to the erection of an additional building for housing stock deemed it inadvisable to put the county to this expense the coming year, and recommended that another year be allowed to pass before any action in the matter was taken.

Supervisors J. E. Chew of South Arm and Charles J. Zeitler of Charlevoix, were appointed as a committee, with the assistance of the county clerk, to check over all bills and time orders of the county road commissioners. The committee are now busy at work.

The claims committee recommended that all bills as presented be paid and the clerk authorized to draw orders for same. Practically every bill presented was honored by the committee.

The court house committee was in- structed to build the vault under the present vaults in the register of deeds and county clerk's offices, as recom- mended by the board during the Octo- ber session.

Six wagons were purchased to be used by the road commissioners in their work of building county roads.

One of the most commendable acts of the board took place Thursday, when they ordered the building of 3200 feet of road, commencing at the west city limits of the city of Charlevoix, on what is known as the Emmet and Grand Traverse state road, running in a south- westerly direction. This has been the worst piece of road running into the city and will be a much-appreciated improvement.

Two hundred dollars was appropriat- ed toward the expense of the upkeep of what is known as the Intermediate Bridge in South Arm township.

After extending the chairman of the board, Charles Hudkins, a rising vote of thanks for the courteous treatment accorded them the board adjourned.

An Object Lesson.

An expressman of Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., moved the household goods of Mrs. Anna Palmer Draper just one hundred and four times and so careful was he in his work that he never damaged a single piece of furniture. So well pleased was Mrs. Draper with the care that he exercised in his work that she left him $5000 in her will. Without criticizing the local expressmen or suggesting that they break anything when moving peo- ple's furniture, we believe the general public would like to have that man start on an evangelizing tour.

MANY ENGAGED IN FISHING

Industry in Michigan is Proving to be a Big Enterprise.

More Than Five Thousand Persons are Employed by Commercial Concerns.

In Michigan more than five thousand men are engaged in the commercial fishing industry, according to data re- cently collected by deputies of the state game wardens' department. Persons engaged in commercial fishing have in- vested in the business nearly a million and a half dollars, and the value of the fish caught annually is estimated to be about equal to the value of the equip- ment of the fishermen.

The question of the best and most effective way to increase this food sup- ply is now interesting the department, which urges laws designed to protect the industry from wasteful methods and to secure the preservation of the fish during the spawn period, and until they have attained maturity. Refer- ring to legislation to govern the com- mercial fishing industry, Warden Oates in his report says:

"Owing to climatic and other condi- tions there is a marked difference in the spawning season in the different lakes. There is also a vast difference in the habits of different kinds of fish, which makes it difficult to create in a general way, laws which will fully and satisfactorily meet the various condi- tions in different parts of our water area.

"Therefore, I would suggest that this condition be overcome by dividing the waters of the state into zones, and a law prepared and enacted which would more justly apply to conditions in each district. This matter was fully discussed in my last report and recom- mendations made covering the subject.

"Some have taken the position that legislation of this kind would be uncon- stitutional owing to the fact that it would tend to localize conditions and take the form of local legislation. I am firmly of the opinion that this posi- tion could not be maintained as the fish are the property of the state and do not belong to the people of any one particular section but to all the people alike in every part of the estate, and fish in such waters should be protected in accordance with their habits and con- ditions of the waters in which they are found.

"I deem this subject of so much im- portance that I again call the matter to the attention of the legislature and urge a law which will protect our fish in accordance with the zone, as herein suggested.

"Under our present law, commercial fishermen contributed a small sum to the state by way of a license upon their boats. I am firmly convinced that this state should do more than it has done in the past toward replenishing our waters by means of artificial propaga- tion. As the commercial fishermen who are operating in this state are the only class of people directly interested in a financial way, it seems only just and proper that they do something to keep up the supply of food fish which they are converting to themselves for profit. I would therefore recommend that a law be enacted requiring commercial fishermen to pay a specific tax on each pound of fish taken by them for sale, to be arranged on some equitable basis, which amount shall be used by the Michigan fish commission for the arti- ficial propagation of all kinds of fish which can profitably be produced in that manner. A system of that kind I believe would make the industry per- manent and at the same time self-sus- taining."

FRIDAY, JANUARY 15 DOUBLE STAMP DAY

On this day we will give Double Stamps. This means that you will get twice the amount in S. & H. Green Stamps that you purchase.

SPECIAL FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
January 15 and 16

Ladies' $6.00 Dress Skirts, the latest styles, in black, navy blue and copen- hagen. $3.98

ASK FOR THE "S. & H." STAMPS

GO TO Levinson's Get the Habit

January Sale

Begins Monday Morning at 9 o'clock
January 18, 1915

This sale is given to turn Merchandise into Cash and also to Close Out Broken Lots Left After Christmas

1 lot of Handkerchiefs worth up to 25c 3c 1 lot Music, vocal and instru- mental 3c

Entire Stock of Embroideries and Lace Insertions 3c yard

Long handled Coal Shovels special price 3c Ladies white Wash Belts 2 for 3c

All Dinnerware---Discount 10%

1 lot Dishes worth up to 25c 10c 1 lot Dishes worth up to 15c 5c

REDUCED PRICES ON FANCY DISHES, CUT GLASS FANCY ARTICLES, ETC.

1 lot Sleds worth $1.25 75c 1 lot Ladies' White Hand Bags, worth $1 10c

Remember in some lines the quantity is limited and a great many bargains will be found inside that are not advertised or displayed in windows, so come at 9 o'clock and get the choice of this big stock.

H. E. McHugh Successor to SHAWLEY'S BAZAAR

UNTIL JANUARY 21

Ladies' Coats from $10 to $18.50 $5.00 sale price

Children's Coats, size 12 to 15 years $6 to $12, sale price $4.00

Children's Coats, size 8 to 10 years $4 to $10, sale price $3.00

Mason's Dep'tment Store

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Surprising Change in Prices Has Occurred During This Period of Time.

One of the daily papers in Appleton, Wisconsin, prints a "Fifty Years Ago" column in which important items of news are reproduced. One of the latest half-century items to appear mentions the prices of paper and meat.

"Print paper has gone up to 25 cents per pound—$25 per hundred. One can buy a pound of beefsteak at our mar- kets for 8 cents and the butcher will throw in a pound of calves' liver to go with it."

What has a half century done for the two commodities mentioned in the above items? Print paper price has come down to about one-twelfth of what it was in those days, while the price of beefsteak has jumped more than three times its price in those days and the butcher who then "threw in" a pound of calves' liver now sells the latter at about 15 cents a pound.

When in need of—

FURNITURE STOVES AND RANGES CARPETS AND RUGS BLANKETS AND COMFORTS

Go to— S. M. See & Sons The Reliable House Furnishers

Do It Now!

See Our Special Clubbing Offers on Page Seven.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Miss Mildred Fanning spent Tuesday in Potoskey.

Miss Merle Felts spent Tuesday in Potoskey visiting friends.

Mrs. L. E. Geer returned home Wednesday from Waukegan.

Mrs. George Pappin is seriously ill at her home on Dixon avenue.

Mrs. Laura Donaldson spent Tuesday in Potoskey as a business visitor.

Mrs. Harrison Berdan spent Tuesday as a business visitor in Potoskey.

W. W. Campfield of Saginaw is visiting at the home of R. N. Faulkner.

J. M. Harris of Boyne City was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Glados spent Tuesday in Potoskey as business visitors.

Miss May Stewart of East Jordan was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

L. C. Madison of East Jordan was in the city Tuesday visiting his son, E. V. Madison.

Mrs. T. Aldrich left for Cadillac Tuesday where she will visit friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Dutcher are the proud parents of a baby girl, born Tuesday, January 12.

Joe Howard returned Friday from Cleveland, where he spent the holidays visiting his parents.

Mrs. Geo. W. Priest went to Potoskey Tuesday, where she will stay the remainder of the week.

Guy Waters of Grand Rapids is spending a few days as a guest at the home of Will Scroggie, Sr.

Mrs. George Glados spent last week in Ironton visiting her sister, Mrs. Sam Alexander, and family.

Stanley Danforth of Messina, New York, is a guest at the home of his cousin, Mrs. D. F. Meech.

Rev. L. C. Vineyard was called to his home in southern Illinois Sunday by the serious illness of his father.

Mrs. John Baker returned home Friday from Grand Rapids, where she spent a few days on business.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCall and baby are spending the week at Norwood, visiting Mrs. McCall's parents.

Robert Craig of Sault Ste. Marie is spending a few days in the city visiting his brother, Supt. H. A. Craig.

Will Finucan left Saturday for various cities in New York and Canada, where he will visit friends and relatives.

John Mitchell is again able to be out after being confined to his home the past seven weeks because of illness.

Manager Clark of the Michigan State Telephone Co. of East Jordan was a business visitor in the city last Thursday.

Charlie McGeagh of Detroit arrived in the city Tuesday to spend two weeks at the home of his father, James McGeagh.

Agent F. E. Alexander resumed his duties at the P. M. depot Monday morning after a week's absence due to illness.

The Misses Gladys and Beatrice Hall are spending a few days in Potoskey as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Thomas.

Homer Fitch returned to his home in Centerville last week after spending a few days in the city visiting his brother, A. L. Fitch.

Owing to the fact that the hall is taken for January 14, the Woodmen's supper will be postponed until the following Thursday, January 21.

Mrs. John Ackert accompanied her mother, Mrs. Seely of Potoskey, to Grand Rapids Friday, where Mrs. Seely will receive medical attention.

Mrs. John Mills returned to her home in Kalamazoo Tuesday after spending two weeks in the city visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Lapeer.

Miss Irene Finucan was unable to be at work at Crane's store Friday and Saturday on account of illness, but resumed her duties Monday morning.

The best musical talent in the city will take part in the calendar concert Tuesday, January 19th, at the M. E. church. There are a few tickets left.

Attorney Griffith of Grand Rapids is spending a few days in the city on a combined business and pleasure trip, visiting at the home of his cousin, F. M. Harris.

Mrs. W. R. Barney and little daughter, Marie, left Saturday for Grand Rapids, where they will visit Mrs. Barney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bedford.

Seth Smith of Potoskey spent Friday in the city as the guest of Miss Marion Swartz. He was en route to Lansing and Grand Rapids, where he will attend the auto show.

Roy Cook, who has been stopping at the home of Geo. Duranier, left Monday morning for Traverse City en route for Sutton's Bay, where he has accepted a position with the Hopkin mill.

L. E. Benton and wife left Tuesday morning on an extended visit to Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo. After spending a few days at these points they will return to Coehocton, Ohio, where they will visit for several weeks among friends and relatives.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Congregational church will meet with Mrs. George Eagleton on Friday, January 15th, at 2:30. Subject of study is "Redmen's Land." The first chapter will be reviewed by Mrs. H. P. Patmalee. Sketch of Marcus Whitman by Mrs. George Eagleton.

William C. Taylor and son, Leon, left the latter part of the week for Detroit, where they will join Mrs. Taylor, who has been in that city for the past month. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will conduct a rooming and boarding house at 2652 Jefferson avenue until June, when they will return to this city.

"I've licked a dozen stamps to-day for telegrams I've sent; I licked and stuck one on a bill with which I paid the rent; I licked a stamp to paste upon a note which I renewed and then I licked another one to make the mortgage good. I've licked these stamps to show that I respect my country's will, and now I'd like to lick the man who introduced the bill."

The second mothers' meeting held under the auspices of the Dickens Club will take place in the high school building Saturday, January 16, at 2 o'clock. The topic for discussion is "The Mother as an Educator." The first meeting was a great success; the second promises to excel it. Every mother and friend of the Charlevoix schools are requested to be present. Plan to attend.

Mayor Ditto of Potoskey has issued a ban on the reckless use of air guns by the young boys of that place. Under the mayor's orders the shooting of sparrows will have to be done outside the city limits. Charlevoix has been meeting with the same trouble, not only by the reckless shooting of air guns, but 22 caliber rifles with shot shells. It is dangerous and should be prohibited within the corporations of the city.

NIGHT AUTO GOGGLES.

Double Lens Device Protects Eyes From Dazzling Headlights.

Goggles for use at night to protect the chauffeur's eyes from the dazzling headlights of an approaching car are a recent invention intended to overcome some of the objectionable features of powerful automobile lights.

The upper part of the lens is supplied with a segment of dark amber, while the lower two-thirds is of a lighter color suitable for daylight use. When a driver is confronted with a brilliant searchlight glaring in his face, by tilting his head downward to bring his vision through the dark segment, the approaching machine and the roadway may be seen clearly and without discomfort, the glare being eliminated and the sources of light sharply defined.

Radium in Pennsylvania.

With the prominence given to the subject of radium some interest attaches to a brief report by Edgar T. Wherry describing a deposit of carnotite near Manch Chunk, Pa., published by the United States geological survey. Carnotite is one of the radium bearing minerals, and this deposit is believed to have been formed by precipitation from the ground water and can now be seen in process of formation where water trickles through cracks in the rocks. The deposit is of significant interest, but the present knowledge regarding it is insufficient to warrant any statement as to its workability. So far as is now known the total area covered by the carnotite-bearing lenses is very small, the observed outcrops being confined to a strip but a few hundred feet in extent.

Tanning a Hide.

To tan a hide spread it out carefully with the flesh side up as soon as possible after skinning and rub or sprinkle on equal parts of saltpeter and powdered alum mixed together; roll up the hide and lay it away for a few days. Horoll and remove the surplus flesh; then stretch it out tightly on a frame to dry. Rub on some neat's foot oil, which is afterward rubbed out by means of a wedged shaped paddle. Some trappers stretch the skin against a building where the sun's rays will strike it, and when warm rub out the grease or oil.

Iron Better Than Steel.

Although cast steel is between two and three times as strong as first class cast iron, the latter metal is far better for some purposes. Cast steel, for instance, is not satisfactory for combustion engine cylinders, and they are invariably made of cast iron. The reason for this is that cast steel expands and contracts with heat twice as much as cast iron. This, of course, is important in anything of that sort—Blacksmith and Wheelwright.

FOR THE BOUDOIR.

How to Keep the Hands From Chapping During the Winter.

The first chilly day is the day to begin to wage a war against chapped hands. If you can keep your hands from becoming chapped in the transitional weather between warm and cold, you will have little difficulty with them later on, for it is in the first cold days that they are especially sensitive to cold.

Chapped hands are almost always caused by inefficient drying after washing or perhaps the water was too cold and very hard, or used too hot. Both extremes are bad for the skin.

To preserve the hands in good condition in cool weather they should, whenever possible, be washed in tepid water, and if this is softened by a teaspoonful of borax so much the better.

Be sure to use a soap of good quality and when drying the hands take the precaution of rubbing each finger separately. If the hands are rubbed over once a day with a slice of lemon and a little cold cream or if mutton tallow is rubbed into them thoroughly before going to bed at night there will be little danger of the skin becoming chapped or rough.

An excellent and delightfully fragrant cold cream for the hands, or the face either, can be made as follows: Take eight ounces of almond oil, one and one-quarter of an ounce of spermaceti, one and one-quarter of an ounce of white wax. Shred the wax and the spermaceti finely and put in a china saucepan will do. Stand it in another saucepan about a third full of boiling water. Keep this simmering until the ingredients are entirely melted and then add a few drops of lavender oil and pour into small china pots. The little pots in which cheese often comes are excellent for the purpose. The preparation can be used as soon as it is cool and will keep for a long time. Another invaluable lotion for hands that are inclined to be red in winter, even though they do not chafe badly, is made of lemon juice, eau de cologne and glycerin, equal parts of each. This can also be used for chapped hands.

TOILET HINTS.

How to Care For the Face and Keep It Youthful.

Here are some suggestions for caring for the face:

Wash the face daily in very hot water. Use plenty of soap, lathering the face and neck with soap jelly and rinsing it off afterward with a bath hose.

Let no soap remain upon the skin, but be sure that it is removed by using many waters until it is as one has patience to apply.

After a thorough washing the skin must have a little cream or a little skin food massaged into it.

Each night, before retiring, take a bowl of warm water, a cake of pure soap, preferably unscented, and a soft complexion brush and wash upward and outward until your face feels fresh and glowing. Then rinse all the soap off and dash with cold water and dry well. Once a week steam the face by applying to it heavy towels wrung out of very hot water to which you have added a pinch of borax.

When the face is very red discontinue the application of hot cloths and with the finger tips work in some good cold cream. Rub always upward and outward. Use plenty of cream. Then take a soft towel and wipe out the cream and dirt which will come with it. Finish the treatment by rinsing with hot water and then with cold.

Ignition Temperature.

Fuel will not burn until it has reached what is known as the ignition temperature. That temperature varies with different kinds of fuel. Coal gas does not burn below a red heat of iron, and carbon, such as charcoal, has a still higher ignition point. A piece of iron heated dim red will not ignite as a gas jet, but if the iron is heated till it approaches orange color it will light the gas. The ignition temperature of coal burned in locomotive fireboxes is about 1,500 degrees F. Firebox temperature is about 3,000 degrees F.

Vegetable Sponges.

What are known as vegetable sponges grow freely in Ecuador during the rainy season. They grow on vines, like pumpkins. The poor people utilize them for washing dishes and when bathing, claiming they are superior to the animal sponge.

Dogs' Pants.

Dogs do not perspire. In hot weather they regulate the temperature of their blood by breathing more quickly, which produces a rapid evaporation of water from the surface of the lungs. That is the reason why a dog pants in hot weather.

Deep Doings.

"What's ailing Mr. Trunt?"
"He suffers from sunstroke."
"Go on: Who ever heard of a dog with a sunstroke?"
"Well, you see, it was a suabian that napped into him."—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

CHANCE.

It is strictly and philosophically true in nature and reason that there is no such thing as chance or accident, it being evident that these words do not signify anything really existing, anything that is truly an agent or the cause of any event, but they signify merely men's ignorance of the real and immediate cause.—Adam Clarke.

J. L. CRANE

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

Saturday, Jan. 16 to Saturday, Jan. 23

The most comprehensive sale we have ever given and the lowest prices

We give you here a few of the hundreds of articles in the sale:

$25.00 Winter Coats	$10.00	Coats' Thread	3c
at		per spool at
$12.50 Winter Coats	$5.00	25c Golf Gloves	10c
at		per pair at
$8.50 Winter Coats	$2.95	$1.00 Messaline Silks	68c
at		at
$9.50 Dress Skirts	$4.50	$1.75 Table Damasks	$1.15
at		at
$7.00 Dress Skirts	$3.95	$6.50 Sweaters	$3.95
at		at
$5.00 Silk Petticoats	$2.95	$1.00 House Dresses	75c
at		at
12 1/2c Silklines	8 1/2c	$1.50 Dress Goods	69c
at		at
50c Brassiers	29c	15c Curtain Mulls	10 1/2c
at		at
25c Curtain Scrims	18c	50c Mufflers	29c
at		at
85c Knee Pants	59c	18c Crash	12 1/2c
at		at
50c Dress Goods	29c	95c Full-Size Batts	78c
at		at
10c Biss Lawn Tape	2c	65c Table Damask	43c
at		at
$1.25 Table Damask	78c	65c Dress Shirts	29c
at		at
$3.00 Corsets	$1.95	$1.50 Corsets	$1.00
at		at

10% Discount on dropped Patterns and broken size assortments of "LINDQUIST CLOTHING"

HOTEL MAN DEAD

Charles H. Camburn, Owner of Famous Walloon Lake Resort Hotel, Died Saturday.

Charles H. Camburn, proprietor of the Lake Side Resort Hotel on Walloon Lake, died at that place Saturday morning from heart disease. He was a resident of that locality for nearly forty years and founded the beautiful summer place sixteen years ago.

Mr. Camburn first went to Walloon Lake from southern Michigan, where he was a railroad engineer for many years. He homesteaded his beautiful home and transported his furniture and effects across the old Traverse City and Mackinaw trail, using a push cart for that purpose. Through persistent work he turned the wild forest region into a most productive farm. He also owned several steamers of small size, which he plied on the lakes, hauling logs from the west end to the sawmill and the village by the same name. He latter operated a passenger line and gained the name of "Captain," which has followed him to the last.

Sixteen years ago he enlarged his farm home and began running a summer hotel, naming it the Lakeside Resort. He was well known among the early fishermen and his hotel soon became very popular. He was active in township and village politics, having held various offices during his lifetime. Deceased is survived by his wife and mother, Mrs. Anna Camburn, who resided at the Camburn home; one daughter, Mrs. Murial Ellis of Walloon Lake, and an adopted son and daughter. Mr. Camburn was highly honored and respected by all who knew him, and his demise is keenly felt by his hundreds of friends and patrons.

Subscribe for the Courier.

FOR

Purity

Quality

Flour

Price

Buy Iron Duke Flour

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

WE ARE PRINTERS OF FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

DAIRY and CREAMERY

FEEDING FOR MILK FAT.

The Well Nourished Cow is the Profitable Producer.

Parturition should be a mere incident in the yearly life of a cow and will be if she is well fed when dry as when in full milk, writes H. E. Cook in the Rural New Yorker. Of course the prospective mother, if full fed, will usually take on fat before freshening, and generally fat is an indication at that time of strength and vigor. It is probably safe to say that it always will be, if put on with the usual milk ration, or probably what is better and safer in use, either bran or oats, to which is added one pound daily of oilmeal. There is very little danger of fever under such feeding if good hay and alfalfa are judiciously fed.

If a cow freshens and is thin and not strong she will not give as rich milk, and usually not as much of it as a cow freshening under full feed. For a few days before freshening the mother should be put on less feed, but not enough to lessen her desire for water, which is the great equalizer or balance wheel for the system. Proof is abundant that a change of ration cannot suddenly improve the fat content. On the contrary, any radical change is likely to disturb the system and reduce the fat.

The Guernseys are a distinct breed of cattle that originated on the island of Guernsey in the English channel and have become popular in the United States. Their distinctive characteristic is the rich color they impart to their milk that makes it particularly desirable as a market milk. Their milk will not, as a rule, average as high in fat per cent as the Jerseys, and they give less pounds of milk than the Holsteins. As dairy breeds these three are equally valuable. The cow shown is May Palma, which made 1,000.55 pounds of butter fat in a year. That is a world's record.

Some day we shall all learn what some have already learned—that a cow has more and must be kept in prime condition every day from birth to death and that the ability to produce both quantity and quality must be first bred with the calf and then fed into her without a skiff. Watch out among our most successful breeders and you will discover with no exceptions whatsoever that they push every animal from birth to get a large, full development of body and digestive capacity. The ability to consume to advantage a large quantity of feed is no accident, but as much a piece of education as to educate a boy or girl to digest big mental problems. They cannot do it if they are in and out of school to suit somebody's fancy. Neither can a calf become a producer of much milk and milk fat if she is fed on the installment plan. I hear it on every hand that it doesn't pay. If my observation is correct those who feed steadily as a whole are the prosperous dairymen, because they will not continue to feed inferior cows.

Success in Dairying.

The successful dairymen is not only a farmer and breeder, but in the true sense of the word he is a business man from the commercial standpoint and a producer from the manufacturer's standpoint, writes Professor Kildee of the Iowa experiment station. He breeds, feeds and selects his cows, each upon its individual merits, for the purpose of converting the raw materials grown on the farm into the forms of grains and grasses into a finished commodity of commerce—milk and butter fat. The profitable cow is one that has the ability and capacity to produce from a minimum food supply a maximum amount of milk rich in fat content.

Get Rid of the Boarders.

The farmer should keep a record of his individual cows in order that he may weed out the poor producers. The value of the time required in the use of the scales, milk sheet, Babcock test and record book, will be more than repaid by the elimination of one unprofitable animal from the herd.

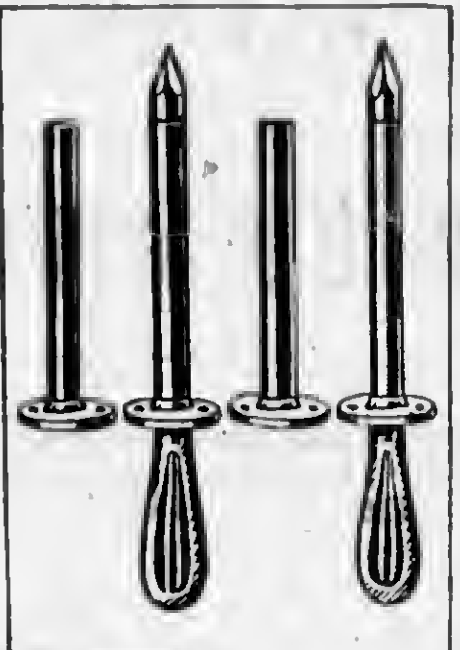

TREATMENT FOR BLOAT IN CATTLE

Bloat in cattle is a common ailment likely to occur in the spring and early summer. Thousands of cows and calves are lost every year because of lack of immediate treatment, writes E. T. Baker in the Country Gentleman.

A cow has four stomachs. The first one, commonly known as the rumen, contains nearly thirty-five gallons. This mass of stomach contents ferments rapidly and soon paralyzes the passage from the stomach to the gullet. This prevents the animal from belching up the gas, and unless relief is given within a few minutes death ensues from general paralysis and suffocation.

All sorts of devices are used to cause the animal to belch. What should be done should be done at once. There is no time to wait for a veterinarian. The cattle owner should be prepared for this emergency above all things. Some men will merely jab the blade of a pocketknife into

The cattle trocar, used for tapping a bloated cow, is a sharp pointed solid steel instrument (the stylet) enclosed in a hollow cylinder called the cannula. This whole thing is about as thick as a lead pencil and four to seven inches long. This instrument should be kept well oiled and frequently sterilized in some good noncorroding antiseptic, like alcohol. The illustration, reprinted from Country Gentleman, shows a long and short cattle trocar.

the distended flank, but that causes a filthy sore that takes months to heal. For a dollar or so one may obtain a "cattle trocar."

In tapping a bloated cow step to the left side of the animal, place the trocar about midway between the last rib and the point of the hip, being careful not to choose a position too high. Pushing the instrument in the general direction of the right shoulder, with one vigorous blow of the hand or a small lever drive the trocar in to the hilt. Do not be afraid it will go in too far. Remember the instrument enters the first stomach, which is larger in diameter than a wash tub. Pull out the stylet, leaving the cannula, through which the gas escapes, in place. In a few minutes the animal shows great relief. Allow the cannula to remain in place for an hour or so and if it comes stopped up with a piece of grass dislodge the obstruction with the stylet. After an hour pull out the cannula with a quick movement and smear a little tar or tincture of iodine over the point of tapping. The next day you will have a hard time to discover the location of the puncture.

After tapping to prevent further fermentation one can give a pound of common baking soda with several heaping tablespoons of ground ginger. Don't be afraid to use a large quantity of medicine for cattle. If the animal is very weak four tablespoons of aromatic spirits of ammonia given in a little water will prove to be a better stimulant than whiskey and will sometimes tide an animal over after it seems nearly dead. But the trocar used promptly will prove a life-saver.

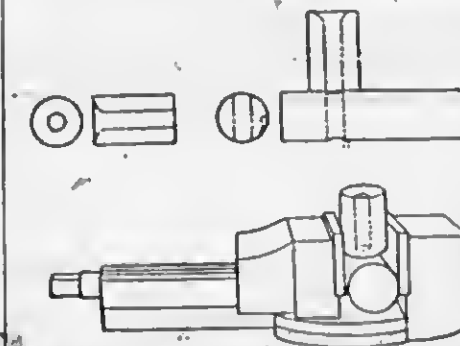

Churning Temperature.

It is hard to churn cream at too low a temperature. Keep it cool after separating it until some time before churning, then expose it to an ordinary room temperature, about 70 degrees, until it sours.

DRILLING ROUND STOCK.

Collet For Guiding Drill So That It Will Not Be Deflected.

It is impossible to drill a hole in a round shaft accurately unless some sort of a jig is used. One of the best and least expensive methods for this work is to make a collet of the same outside diameter as the shaft to be drilled and bore a perfectly central hole through it the size of the drill.

ARRANGEMENT OF COLLET AND SHAFT.

used in drilling the hole through the shaft. The shaft is placed in a vise and the collet set on top of it, as shown in the illustration, and both are clamped together. The drill is then run through the collet hole, which guides it for drilling the hole in the round stock.

A NEW ILLUMINANT.

Nitrogen Filled Lamp Likely to Supercede Older Lighting Methods.

Drawn wire incandescent lamps shattered all preconceived ideas of interior lighting and put the whole question of illumination on a new plane. And hardly has the drawn wire vacuum lamp established its position before the gas filled incandescent lamp is ushered into the lighting world. The fact that at the present stage of its development it does little to us all the position of the vacuum lamp is of no consequence. The essential point is that the nitrogen filled lamp, even as it is today, casts the vacuum efficiency record all to pieces, and it is inevitable that within a very few years it must drive the earlier lamp out of many of its fields.

Apart from that it will, in addition, develop many a new field of its own, and it is probable that one of these fields is going to be the field of interior highway lighting—an entirely new field way, by the way, and one which up to the present has received practically no study. Those who desire to acquire the reputation of a prophet should lose no opportunity of placing themselves on record in this matter.

Here we have one of those revolutions in little which is surely coming and of which the first signs are already visible. In ten years' time municipal and county authorities will be spending vast sums of money in lighting the interior roads, and even the country roads—money which they would never think of appropriating now for any such purpose. —Engineering Magazine.

Naval Range Finder.

Trigonometry, by the use of mirrors of known and varying angles, is used to determine, mechanically, the distance of a ship at sea. The instrument used is called a range finder, and without it the big guns of a modern battleship would be practically useless. In operation the instrument the ship is sighted through a telescope from the reflections on two object mirrors, each located at the end and on the side of a tube about twelve feet long, the axis of the tube being at right angles to the line of sight. The object is refracted and reflected by a system of mirrors so that both images are made to coincide. The right hand object glass reflects only the upper half of the ship, while the object glass on the left of the observer reflects only the image of the lower half of the vessel, or the hull. When sighting a ship the images will appear to be offset one from the other, the masts one way and the hull the other. When they are brought together, by an adjustment screw, an index plate reads the distance the ship is from the observer in yards.

Man Too Heavy For Wings.

Mathematicians have calculated out that man is too heavy ever to be sustained to fly by the power of his own muscles, no matter how large the wings are which he fastens to his body. The weight limit is probably approached by the largest birds, such as the Australian crane, which still flies, although it weighs about twenty pounds. The ostrich long ago gave up all hope of winging its way through the air. An aeroplane can be built, say the experts, which will sustain a man and use but three horsepower, but as the last stiches can exert only a maximum of about two horsepower for fifteen seconds at a time it is improbable that man's dream of flying as do the great birds of the air will ever be realized—he will always be dependent on a machine.

Organized For Fire Panic.

At the top of the back of each seat in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York city is placed the number of the exit which the person sitting directly behind is to use in case of fire or panic. Each exit is prominently marked and can easily be located. This is standardizing a condition with the aim of avoiding confusion and preventing waste. —Engineering Magazine.

Japanning Springs.

In Japanning springs, the last practice is to put them in metal baskets, dip the entire basket into the Japan, withdraw and drain and then bake the springs just as they lie in the basket. This will give a uniform coating of Japan.

MILK AND CREAM.

Cream should be at such a temperature that butter will come in twenty to thirty minutes.

The first requisite for clean milk is a clean cow.

The cream separator increases the value of the dairy products upon the farm.

Cows do not become great producers "just so." They must have the blood of good producers in them.

Are you sure that your common and unprofitable cows are being fed for the most profitable production? Perhaps it's your fault. Maybe you have good cows in your herd and you do not know it.

When a farmer makes and sells butter and feeds the skim milk to poultry, pigs and calves, he is not sending a great deal of his farm's fertility away. Keep the farm's fertility on the farm.

Nebraska is doing something worth while in making a farm census. The statistics will include the number of farm owners, of tenants and of employees, the length of the workday on the farm and the wages paid the hands.

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have awakened with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book, "The Bible Tells the Truth," which contains the prophecy that such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1897.

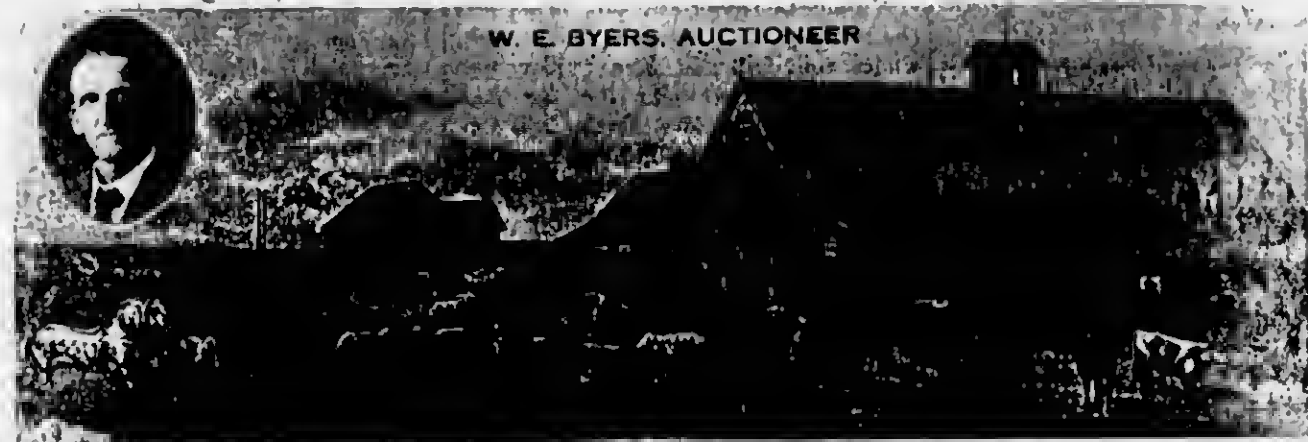

Of vast interest and importance to the promise of better things in store for the earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents in stamps with this coupon to cover postage to The Temple, No. 2, W. 4th St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

AUCTION SALE

The undersigned, will sell at Public Auction at his farm two and one-half miles south of Charlevoix, on

Friday, January 15, 1915

Commencing at one o'clock sharp the following described property to-wit:

Gray horse, wt. 1050 lbs
Durham cow, fresh in two weeks
Holstein cow, fresh next September
2 Jersey heifers, 2 years old, fresh in March
Holstein heifer, 5 months old
3 Chester White pigs, 5 months old
2 Jersey Red sows, 7 months old
New Oliver plow 50 hens
Spring tooth harrow
Spike tooth harrow
Deering mowing machine
Heavy wagon
Heavy single harness
Double work harness
Double driving harness
2 Rubber storm blankets

2 Horse blankets 1 cutter
2 string bells 1 saddle
Fanning mill
2 sets runners and whiffletrees
A quantity corn fodder and straw
2 cultivator
Some clover and timothy hay
Oak sideboard
1 ten ft. Oak dining table
6 cane seated Oak chairs 1 Oak stand
Wooden bed with springs 1 mattress
Spring cot with mattress
3 rockers, other chairs 1 couch
Range refrigerator cream separator
Washing machine wringer
Stands, lamps, tables, chairs and other articles too numerous to mention

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 or under cash; all sums over $10.00 ten months time good approved bankable paper payable at the Charlevoix County Bank with interest at 7 per cent. Five per cent off for cash. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

AUSTIN NEWMAN, Prop.

W. E. BYERS, Auctioneer

F. A. BUTLER, Clerk

Owing to conflicting dates, sale will be held Friday, January 15 instead of Thursday, January 14, as published in last issue of Courier.

WEALTH AND WELCOME.

A Story That Illustrates a Very Common Way of the World.

A young merchant went abroad and after many years, having made a large fortune, returned to his native land. When he reached home he found that his relatives had gone to a feast at a country house a few miles away. He was so eager to see them that he did not take the trouble to change his clothes and was wearing the things he had used on board the ship coming home.

When he entered the large hall where the guests were all assembled his cousins showed very little pleasure at the sight of him. It was plain to them that he had come back a poor man. A young negro who had accompanied him from abroad was quite up set by their coolness to his master and said, "They must all be very hard men to receive you so cruelly."

"Wait a minute," whispered the merchant, "and you will see a change in their looks."

He quietly put a two diamond ring on his finger, and, lo, every face began to smile, and they pressed at once around him and called him "Cousin William."

"Has a simple gold ring the power to charm people like this?" asked the black servant in perplexity.

"It is not that," replied his master, "but the ring is worth a good sum and they guess from it that I am rich and riches are dearer to them than anything."

"What deluded men!" exclaimed the negro. "They think more of yellow metal and a piece of glass than all my master's virtues and loving kindness!" —Baltimore News

THE COLOR OF GOLD.

Its Shade of Yellow Depends Upon the Metal Used in Alloy.

Gold that is used in jewelry and coins is always alloyed with copper or sometimes, as in the former, with silver. Addition of copper makes the color the popular "golden yellow," or orange or reddish gold. Silver turns gold pale yellow. We seldom see pure gold but it has that indescribable yellow that so often fascinates.

The pure metal is so unobtainable that it can be beaten between strips of vellum into sheets two hundred and fifty thousandths of an inch in thickness. In this form it is transparent and translucent greenish.

When very finely divided gold is suspended in a liquid its precipitation from a solution it transmits a yellow light similar to that of the leaf gold. Yet in ordinary well diffused light it seems purple, for this is the color it reflects in other words. If a light is placed behind a jar containing a liquid with gold in fine suspension it looks green, where as if the light is placed in front of or at the side the color is purple. The vapor from boiling molten gold is also purple.

What, then, is the real color of gold? The color of a substance depends on its ability to reflect only light of that color, which in turn is due to the arrangement of the molecules. It seems, then, even the simple mechanical changes which we mentioned before as altering the physical properties are accompanied by radical changes among the molecules as far as their mutual relationships are concerned.—New York World

Nest Eggs For Jam Pots.

When a large glass jar of jam or preserves is opened and it is not the housekeeper's desire to use it all at once she is often in a quandary to know how to dispose of what is left when the first few spoonfuls have been removed. The best method yet suggested is this:

Let the housekeeper have a small stock of china nest eggs, which can be bought for about a cent apiece. When she removes part of the contents of a jar let her drop into it enough of the china eggs to raise the contents to the top again, then replace the cover. Of course the china eggs should be dipped into boiling water first in order that they may not introduce the germs of decay.—New York World.

The Farmer Must Be Trained.

Today the advanced tiller of the soil must come up to his calling an fully equipped for service as the lawyer, the doctor, the captain of industry, for the curious fact has developed that the calling to which the unlettered and untrained man was once supposed to have as good a chance as the educated one is now the calling in which wide and varied knowledge is as imperative as is almost any other known among men.—W. S. Thurwood

Tommy's Share.

"Well, Tommy, what part of the chicken will you have?"

"Why pray you know I always take the back when there's company?" St. Louis Republic

Got Them All.

Gotter having his second round in the drive, had the most lively monkey again, and he said: "This is the only one I missed this morning." London Pictorial

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOUPS FOR THANKSGIVING.

DINNER MENU.
Vegetable Soup.
Roast Lamb, Mint Sauce.
Green Corn, Browned Potatoes.
Pineapple Ice.
Coffee.

A LIGHT soup should form the first course of the Thanksgiving dinner, whose preparation is usually planned by housewives weeks before the event. Some excellent light soups are suggested here.

Bouq With Fish.

Boque of Lobster.—Remove the meat from a two pound lobster. Cut the tender pieces into dice; put shells and tough parts on to boil in one pint cold water; add one quart of milk with one bay leaf, one aprig parsley, one stalk celery, one slice onion and one-half blade of mace. Thicken with one tablespoonful of butter, blend with two tablespoonfuls of flour. Add the water from the shells, one teaspoonful salt and saltspoonful of pepper. Strain, add meat, boil up once and serve.

Soup With a Cereal.

Cream of Rice Soup.—Take four cups of rice stock, one tablespoonful grated onion, one tablespoonful finely chopped parsley, one teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful butter and one tablespoonful flour rubbed together; add to the boiling stock and boil three minutes. A teaspoonful of curry powder adds very much to the flavor of the soup.

Delicious Soups.

Vegetable Soup.—Cook one-half cupful of celery, one-half cupful cabbage and one-third cupful of carrot, each cut in small pieces, and two onions thinly sliced in one-third cupful of butter ten minutes, stirring constantly. Add three-fourths cupful stale bread crumbs and one quart boiling water, and cook until vegetables are soft. Add one pint of hot milk and two tablespoonfuls finely chopped parsley. Season with salt and pepper.

Exceptionally Good.

Bisque of Tomato.—Take one can of tomatoes, one onion cut fine. Bring onions and tomatoes to a boil slowly; then strain and add one-half teaspoonful of soda and add one pint of milk. Be sure you add soda to the tomatoes before you put in the milk. Thicken with one tablespoonful of flour. Stir until boiling; season to taste. It is delicious.

The Strange Case of Winifred Collins

A Combination of Events
Not Likely to Happen
More Than Once

By MARGARET C. DEVEREAUX

The ocean steamer Albert Corwith had passed the strait of Gibraltar coming westward and was standing toward the island of Madeira when the man in the crow's nest informed the third mate on duty at the time that something that looked like wreckage had appeared on the port quarter. The ship was put off her course a few points, and on drawing nearer a ship's boat was found wedged in between a portion of a mast, a spar and some cordage. Meanwhile the captain had come on deck and was looking through his glasses at the floating objects.

"Isn't there some one in that boat Mr. Renshaw?" he asked of the third mate, who was also using his binoculars.

"It looks that way, sir."

"Lower a boat and find out."

The engines were stopped, a boat was lowered, and the mate was pulled to the wreckage. He returned hearing the body of a young woman.

"Dead?" asked the captain as the boat pulled alongside.

"I think not, sir."

The gangway was lowered, and the woman was carried on deck. The mate had taken a flask with him and had given her a swallow of brandy. The ship's surgeon took charge of her and gave her an additional stimulant and soon after taking it she opened her eyes.

"Bring some broth from the galley as soon as it can be prepared," said the doctor.

Fortunately the dinner hour was at hand and the soup was ready. The girl closed her eyes and had apparently relapsed into unconsciousness, but on being given a little of the broth she opened them again and this time seemed to take in the men bending over her. The surgeon directed that she be taken below and turned over to the stewardess to be put into a berth.

It was some time before the cast away was in condition to be questioned. Then the surgeon, Dr. Reeves, undertook the task. The examination was brief, for the girl remembered nothing back of lying on the ship's deck with a number of men looking down upon her.

On the return of the rescue party the captain had sent for the third mate, who had been in charge of it, and asked him if in the wreckage he had seen anything to indicate to what ship it had belonged. To this Renshaw replied that he had not. There was nothing that would have been likely to bear the vessel's name except the boat in which the girl was found, and this had been so battered by the surounding wreckage that most of the paint had been rubbed off. The officer had looked for a name on the boat and had seen only parts of a few remaining letters on the starboard stern. They resembled a G or a C, an A and an N, or an N and were probably the last letters of the name of the ship to which the boat belonged. The captain had reproved the officer for not bringing the boat with him, whereupon the latter excused himself on the ground that it had been so surrounded by the wreckage that to extricate it would have been very difficult.

The stewardess, finding the cast away's hair matted with blood, washed it and found that it had come from a contusion of the scalp. She intended to call the doctor's attention to it, but it did not seem to her to be of much importance and was healing over, so she forgot to mention it. There were other contusions on the body, but none that were serious.

Here was a case of a girl of twenty cut off from relatives, who were also cut off from her. If she had come to earth from another planet she could not have been a greater stranger. The ship on which she had sailed would either be reported missing or would make port, but neither of these happenings would be likely to give a clue to the girl's identity.

The Albert Corwith was bound for Boston and was due there about ten days after picking up the castaway. This did not give much time for a decision as to what to do with the cast away when the ship reached port. In a few days she was suitably restored to go on deck and before the voyage was ended was quite herself with the exception of memory. She was still oblivious to the past. The captain headed a subscription paper with a substantial amount, and it was passed through the ship. The amount raised was given to the poor girl who must go ashore to an unremembered world.

The girl was much moved when the money was given her and accepted it, hoping that some day she might benefit some one to a like amount. She must have a name since her own was lost, and she decided to take that of the ship whose crew had rescued her. She would call herself Alberta Corwith.

Two years before the rescue of the castaway a young man and a girl of eighteen were standing on an eminence near Portland, Me., looking out to sea. On the horizon they were in port for the air was going to Europe to study art.

"I don't like to think Winifred" said the man, "that the great Atlantic will be between us for so long a time."

and scratched on every day till the tender on it passed till I have you with me again."

"It will not be long, Tom," replied the girl. "A year is not so long as it was when we were children. A month isn't much more than a week was then, and it is only eighteen months between now and the time I return."

The next day Winifred Collins went by train to Boston and thence across the Atlantic to Havre. She studied both in France and Italy during a year and a half, as she had intended, then went to Genoa to sail for home. She wrote her lover that she would leave Genoa on a certain date in an ocean steamer the name of which she gave him. When the ship came in Tom Gilbreth was on the deck eagerly scanning the passengers who descended the gangway looking for his Winifred. The line grew thin and she had not appeared. The last person descended, but not the girl he was looking for. Running up the gangway, he sought the purser and asked him if the name of Winifred Collins was on the passenger list. It was not.

The mystery was not solved within a week or two, as Gilbreth supposed it would be. A month passed and there were no tidings of Winifred. Two months passed and her lover was in an agony of fear and suspense. Cablegrams to Genoa brought only the information that her name was on the register of a hotel there the day the steamer on which she was to have sailed left port. She had paid her bill and left the house two days later.

Gilbreth went abroad in search of his betrothed, but finding no trace of her, returned disappointed and in despair. He knew not which way to turn to continue his search. Thinking that she might have sailed by another ship, he searched the records of ships that had within that limit of time sailed from Italian ports and found that a small American owned ship, the Pelican, had sailed from Leghorn two days after the date Winifred was to have sailed from Genoa, but was overdue several months.

Here was a clue to information concerning Winifred, but undesirable information. If Winifred had mislaid the ship on which she was to have sailed and taken the Pelican instead she was probably lost. Tom hoped that the clue he had found was incorrect.

One day a friend of Tom's who knew of his trouble called his attention to an item that had been floating among the newspapers mentioning the rescue of a woman at sea. It included mention of the parts of letters on the boat from which she was taken. He inferred that they were C A N, the last three letters of the word Pelican. Then he knew that he was on the track of his betrothed.

All now depended on his finding Alberta Corwith, who had been merged in the millions of New York's inhabitants. There was but one medium by which she could be found. If that failed the task was impossible. If Alberta Corwith had remained in New York the chances were far better than if she had gone elsewhere. Tom laid out a system of advertising by which the New York field should be first covered. Intending to extend the search through out the United States if the New York field did not produce the desired result. His advertisement read: "Information wanted of Alberta Corwith."

Within a month after the insertion Tom received a note from a dry goods firm in New York city informing him that an Alberta Corwith was employed in one of their departments. Tom took the next train for New York, went to the address mentioned and, on inquiry, learned that Miss Corwith would be found in the cloak department. There he found Winifred Collins.

He sprang forward to clasp her in his arms, but she recoiled. He told her who she was and that he was her fiance. She listened with interest to what he said, but did not remember ever having seen him before.

Winifred being found, the next question was, Could her memory be restored? The case was submitted to physicians, who gave various reports. One medical man suggested that while knocked about in the boat among the wreckage the castaway might have received a blow on the head that had produced the amnesia. He examined Winifred's head and found a slight depression. This was the place from which the stewardess had washed away the clotted blood.

Soon after this discovery Winifred's skull was operated upon. Several persons whom she had known before going abroad, including her betrothed, stood about her when she came out from the effects of the anaesthetic. Though suffering from it, her eye brightened, and on seeing her lover she attempted to hold out her arms to him.

The case of Winifred Collins excited marked attention owing to the strange combination of circumstances which composed it. She had taken a train from Paris which should have landed her in Genoa a couple of hours before the leaving of the steamer on which she had intended to cross the Atlantic. A railroad accident delayed the train four hours. The steamer having sailed on her arrival, hearing that the ship from Leghorn would sail the next day, she went there and boarded it.

The story of the shipwreck was clear in her mind up to a certain point. After that it was a blank. She remembered getting into the ship's boat with several of the crew and a few events after doing so. Then the mental record stopped. The doctors believed that at this point she received the blow which suspended her memory till the moment it was restored by the operation.

When words were used. It is with words as with symbols, the more they are combined the deeper they burn. Robert Southey.

GIDEON, THE MAN OF GOOD COURAGE

Judges 6:11-40—Jan. 17.

A Logical Man—A Strong Character. Too Humble For Self-Confidence. Faith After Proof—Hospitality Rewarded—Daring and Doing For God. Faith Growing Seeker Fresh Proofs.

"Blessed to the man whom Thou choosest."—Psalm 135:4.

ALTHOUGH the Scriptures tell us that not many rich, wise and strong are chosen of the Lord for His work, we may be sure that this is not that they would be unacceptable, but because their wisdom, riches, strength, usually make them too self-confident and not sufficiently reliant on the Lord. To Gideon, a stalwart young Israelite, the angel of the Lord was sent with a message. His salutation was, "The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valor." With excellent logic Gideon replied, "Why, if the Lord be with us, hath all this befallen us? and where be all His miracles, of which our fathers told us?"

The Midianites and other nomadic people of the East, discerning that Gideon was very fertile, repeatedly invaded it, confounding much of the product of the land. On this very occasion Gideon was threshing out a few sheaves of wheat, fearing to have a customary threshing, lest the Midianites should rob them.

The angel was not there to discuss theology, but to inspire Gideon and to make him the Lord's messenger in Israel's deliverance. The man's humility shines out in his protest that his family was one of the poorest of Manasseh, and that he himself was inferior to his brethren. But the angel replied, "Surely I will be with thee and thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man."

Israel's Unfaithfulness.

When we remember the Divine promise to defend Israel and to protect their interests, which were earthly, we should also remember that this protection was dependent upon their maintenance of heart-loyalty and faithfulness to God. The Lord had assured them in advance that if they wandered into idolatry He would bring upon them various adversities, their enemies should reap their crops, etc. Thus we may know the answer to Gideon's question. The Israelites had not been faithful to their Covenant, made with God through their Mediator Moses at Mt. Sinai.

A proof of this unfaithfulness is found in our lesson. Gideon's father was caretaker of the groves of Baal and Ashtaroth. Their images were apparently on his property. These groves were large posts, significant of honor, erected near the image. Here was the secret of Israel's abjection to the Midianites.

Gideon's Great Courage Manifested. The night following, the Lord made a further revelation to Gideon, instructing him to destroy the idols upon the property, to overthrow the altar of Baal and to build an altar to Jeho vah, to kill one of his father's bullocks and to make therewith a burnt offering unto the Lord, using for the purpose the wooden pole, or "groove," which formerly did honor to Baal. The work was accomplished in the night; for his father, his brethren and the villagers would have stoutly resisted, had they known of the work Gideon was very courageous when he knew that he had been called of the Lord.

Conviction that our work is of Divine authority is a power in any heart. This is part of the lack today—lack of faith in God and failure to recognize a mission that is of God. Much of the preaching, praying and good endeavors are, therefore, formalistic. From such we turn away, as Paul directed.—2 Timothy 3:5.

When the villagers traced the matter to Gideon, they called upon his father to deliver him to death; but the father wisely inquired whether a god of mighty power would need to be defended. If Baal could not defend himself, he could not defend Israel. The argument was potent. Meantime Gideon sent messengers to the various tribes, and thirty thousand volunteers responded to give battle to the Midianites.

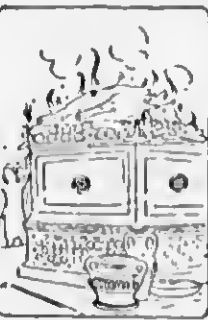

Further Proofs of Divine Favor Asked by Gideon. As fresh evidence that he was doing the Divine will, Gideon requested of the Lord that a wool fleece laid out all night might be thoroughly wet with dew, while the ground about it might be dry. The Lord granted the proof. Then Gideon reversed the test, and asked that the ground might be wet with dew and the fleece be dry. This also was granted.

But it would not be proper for us to make similar tests. We have the Scriptures records of God's favor and of the Lord Jesus. The Lord would have us walk by faith in the lessons already taught, and not by signs and signs of our own doing.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

Gideon's wife threshing wheat as a sacrifice.

The seven years' old bullock as a sacrifice to Jehovah.

MICHIGAN'S GREATEST DAILY $1.00 Per Year

The most wonderful offer we have been able to make to our readers. Think of it—The Detroit Tribune 6 days a week, for $1.00 a year. We make this offer to you: The Detroit Tribune for $1.00 per year to all new subscribers to the Charlevoix Courier, or to any regular subscriber to the Courier who pays up all arrearages. This rate is good on R. F. D. Routes only. It's a special offer to Farmers to have a daily at an extremely low price. The offer will be given for a short time only, so we advise you to send in your subscription at once.

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

EIGHT SPECIAL CLUBBING RATES

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer	1.00
Home Life	.25
	$3.25	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Up-to-Date Farming	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
The Gentlewoman	.20
	$2.70	All 1 yr for $1.65
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Today's Magazine	.50
Woman's World	.35
Home Life	.25
1 May Manton Pattern	$2.60	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
Woman's World	.35
	$2.85	All 1 yr for $1.80
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
	$3.50	All 1 yr for $3.00
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$4.00	All 1 yr for $3.25
GRAB THESE BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Detroit Tribune, daily	4.00
	$5.50	All 1 yr for $2.50
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Detroit Tribune	4.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$6.00	All 1 yr for $2.75

(Above Rates Good Until February 28 and on R. F. D. Routes Only)

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TO WNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R. F. D. routes

Grange Column

Wilson Grange No. 719.

Wilson Grange met Saturday evening, January 10, 1915, with about twenty members present.

After the regular business session Mr. and Mrs. Corpenning were initiated in the 1st and 2nd degrees. After a short program grange was dismissed.

At the next meeting there will be initiation in the 3rd and supper.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

Ironton Grange.

Tuesday evening's regular meeting of Ironton Grange was a hummer, not only in attendance but in the interest shown in the work and general welfare of the grange.

Jas. Willis, master of Barnard Grange and delegate to the State Grange, presided over the installation ceremonies, practically every officer being present. E. E. Stroud of Maple Grove Grange instructed the members and visitors in the secret work from the new code book.

After the installation ceremonies were completed the meeting was turned over to the lecturer, who called upon the various visiting members for short talks. Ironton Grange received many compliments as to the splendid showing it had made in recent years and was urged to continue the good work.

The usual good grange potluck supper was served at the close of the grange, which was greatly enjoyed by those present.

Heroisms.

Here are heroisms fair as chivalry could boast: Self-surrender, consecrated affections, virtues that should extort an angel's praise are all right before you. For you walk the beauty. Over you haunts not the glamour, but the reality. Your home may be the idyl. It all depends on whether you have the eye to see.—A. W. Jackson.

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange met in regular session Friday evening at the home of Henry Black on Upright Avenue. State Grange Delegate E. E. Stroud was present and installed the officers. After the installation Brother Stroud explained in detail the secret work of the grange from the code book. James Willis, master of Barnard Grange was present, and gave some interesting facts concerning the state grange meeting. After routine business had been dispensed with, the members and guests were served a fine pot-luck supper. Among the visitors were E. E. Stroud and wife, Platt Webster and wife and Ivy Lewis of Maple Grove. James Willis of Barnard and Mrs. William Straw, Sr., Marion. The next meeting will be held with Sister L. E. Grassall Friday evening, January 22. Visitors always welcome.

PAYTON BANQUETED

Retiring County Official Guest of the Committee of Twenty-One.

D. S. Payton, retiring county treasurer, was signally honored by the Committee of Twenty-One at the Masonic Temple last Wednesday evening. A four-course banquet was served, after which a fine program of speeches was rendered. Mr. Payton was presented with a fine set of cuff buttons, tie clasp and stick pin, upon which was engraved Masonic emblems.

Another pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a fine signet ring to Retiring Sheriff Ford P. Robbins, and a K. of P. watch fob to Retiring Prosecuting Attorney D. H. Fitch by the members of the board of supervisors.

Lost a Finger.

William Wallace had the misfortune to lose a finger in an accident at his plant last Wednesday. He was working on a circular saw, when in some manner he allowed his left hand to come into contact with the rapidly revolving saw, cutting off one finger and badly cutting several others. The accident will lay him up for some time.

Ben Hur.

Charlevoix the Beautiful, Court No. 135, met Monday evening at the firemen's hall. All officers were present except the guide. Mr. Ingalls of Potoskey was present. The usual business was carried out and a short program followed. A potluck was enjoyed. All members are requested to be present at our next meeting, January 25th, at Merritt Voris of Detroit and Mr. Ingalls of Potoskey will be present.

Will Observe Day.

The W. C. T. U. not only invite but urge all to observe with them Thursday, January 14th, as "National Constitutional Prohibition Amendment Day." Meeting in the Methodist church at 2:30. A good program, special music, addresses and other features will be given. Everybody come.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

A FEW dimes well spent in stocking up your "spot shelf" will save a good many dollars in the course of a year, for spots unremoved will bring destruction to clothes or pots and pans or furniture, as the case may be. Like attracts like in the world of dirt and dirt. Moths swarm to soiled parcels of clothing. Rust left unremoved rapidly eats its way through metal. A grease spot on the wall paper attracts dust. Soon it is too late to repair what was at first a trifling damage. If a "spot shelf" is always well stocked there is no excuse for the long delay that is sometimes otherwise unavoidable.

Powdered pumice stone should always be on hand, in a small wooden or tin box or even in a bottle. Many things that are usually kept in boxes can be kept in bottles, which are more durable, cleaner and take up less room. Pumice stone is the best thing for removing spots from marble.

Vinegar should always be accessible, and a small bottle of it on the spot shelf is a good idea. Mix it with silver polish to remove deep seated tarnish from metal. Use it to get glue spots off from wood and furniture.

Borax, of course, is indispensable. A solution of borax is a very good thing for cleaning the wash basins and bathtubs. Soiled neckwear should be soaked in water to which borax has been added. It is also good for cleaning brushes. Ammonia can be used in many cases in place of borax, but it is harder on the hands, usually, than borax.

Salts of lemon is efficacious in removing rust spots. The spots should be moistened and then covered with the salts and exposed to the sunlight.

Gasoline and naphtha are the easiest cleaning agents to use on fabrics of all kinds. But they should never be kept in the house in large quantities, as they are extremely dangerous. It is safer not to keep any amount of them in the house. It is often possible, if you live in the country, to keep a large casked bottle of gasoline in some sheltered place out of doors. If you live in the city the nearest drug store must be relied on to supply your want in small quantities.

Flavored French chalk should be used to remove grease spots from all sorts of surfaces—wall paper, clothes and carpets. It is not always successful in one application, but should be brushed off and replenished until the spot has disappeared.

FOR KEEPING BLOSSOMS.

How to Use Test Tubes For Flower Holders.

One of the useful ideas gleaned recently from the study of a beautifully arranged florist's window was the possibilities of test tubes as flower holders. These were placed at each side of the handle of a basket of flowers and were tied in place with many twirlings of gauze ribbon and almost concealed by the many looped bows. The ribbon was the palest blue and in each test tube were a single full blown pink rose and a few buds.

The depth of the water allowed by these test tubes makes it possible to keep flowers in them fresh for a long time, while the effect is the same as though the loose flowers were held by the ribbons. Short test tubes can be used in candlesticks with good results provided the socket for the candle is deep enough to hold the tube firmly in place.

For a table decoration test glass candlesticks, each with a test tube holding one or two long stemmed blossoms, the space between the candlesticks fastened with gauze ribbon harmonizing with the general color scheme, make one of the prettiest of arrangements at the minimum cost and trouble. This idea was borrowed from a florist's window and it never fails to be commented on by guests who see it for the first time.

Incidentally these glass test tubes are cheap, costing anywhere from 1 cent to 5 cents apiece, according to their size. The curving rim makes it possible to hang them almost anywhere by means of a heavy thread, and when a plant has ceased blooming it is an easy matter to introduce detached blossoms in these glass tubes, thus prolonging the beauty of the plant.

A HISTORIC TRIANGLE.

Famous Battlefields of the Plains of Hesbaye, in Belgium.

Describing the road from Brussels to Liege, which skirts the plains of Hesbaye, Raedeker quotes the old proverb, "Qui passe dans le Hesbaye est combattu lendemain."—"He who enters the Hesbaye is defeated the next day." Such was the reputation of the Hesbaye for strength and bravery.

The ancient province of Hesbaye is indicated on the maps as a triangle, some fifty miles from its base to its apex, Liege. The river Meuse, from Namur to Liege, forms its southern side; the railways from Liege through Tournai and Leuven to Brussels its northern side. A line from Namur north to Brussels is its base.

This triangle contains many famous battlefields. Besides Waterloo there is Neerwinden where Marshal Loxtonburg defeated the allies under William of England in 1693 and where a century later the Austrians, under the Prince of Coburg, under the late King Leopold of Belgium, defeated the French, led by Dumouriez and Louis Philippe.

Then there is Quatre Bras, where Ney's division fought part of the British army and its German and Belgian allies in 1815. There had been a battle the day before at Mombrefe, and on that June night the Prussians occupied their unparalleled retreat from Ligny. Fleurus, near by, was fought in 1622 and 1800 and again in 1794.—Newark News.

EFFERVESCENT DRINKS.

They Attack Thirst Quickly, but the Effect is Not Lasting.

This reason why we like effervescent drinks is that the slight stinging or prickling of the palate that follows on drinking liquids charged with carbonic acid gas produces immediately an increased flow of saliva and thus diminishes for the moment the sensation of thirst.

But the relief they bring is only temporary and is followed by a reaction in which the thirst is actually increased. The salivary glands are no more susceptible to perpetual stimulation than any other, and after each period of excitement one of depression supervenes. Young soldiers on route marches quickly come to understand this and to discover that the more water they drink the more thirsty they get and that it is best, therefore, to limit the quantity of liquid swallowed. Moreover, the saliva contains "matter of great importance for the digestion of food, particularly of starchy foods, and if it all be washed down the throat into the bowels as soon as it is secreted a great part of its usefulness is lost.

It would therefore seem that a less wasteful way, physiologically, of promoting the flow of saliva might be adopted with profit. The consumption of fruit containing succulent juices is about the most excellent way.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

He Got the Cheapest.

Old Hiram Plumbou was a born trader and a penny pincher besides. He was never willing to pay the price of anything he wanted, and all the shopkeepers at the village dreaded to see him enter their stores.

One day he did a little trading at Nelson's shoe store. He tried on a dozen pairs of boots, but could find nothing that was not too expensive. Then he guessed he would get a pair of rubbers. He rejected a pair that cost a dollar, and another that cost 65 cents. Finally the clerk brought him a pair for 50 cents. They seemed to fit well enough, but Hiram was still dissatisfied.

"Hain't ye got any rubbers that are cheaper?" he asked.

"No, sir," declared the irritated clerk. "We haven't. That pair you've got on is the cheapest, poorest, most no account rubbers there is made!"

So Hiram bought them.—Youth's Companion.

Properly Rebuked.

Emma, queen mother of the Netherlands, is the subject of many stories in her own country. During the time when she acted as regent before the present Queen Wilhelmina came of age it is said that one morning Queen Emma was awakened by a peremptory knocking at her bedroom door.

"Who is there?" she asked.

A precociously dignified voice answered, "The queen of Holland."

The queen mother quietly answered, "I am not dressed and therefore not able to receive her majesty, but if it is my little girl she may come in"—London Mirror.

How to Dress Meats and Poultry Deliciously.

The value of stock in giving body to cheap meat dishes is nowhere better demonstrated than in braising. In many an American family the pot roast dinner is a thing to be dreaded simply because the cook does not know how to prepare a cheap piece of meat. Braising is the correct way of preparing a pot roast, and it is a mixture of boiling and baking accomplished in the oven and not on top of the stove. It can be employed in cooking beef, veal, pork or poultry when the latter is found to be tough and unpalatable. A double roasting pan is used, and the meat almost floats in stock, highly flavored with bay leaves, carrots, onions and herbs. The meat browns while the stock evaporates, but it does not dry out, absorbing in the meanwhile the rich flavoring of the stock.

Snails and Cold.

A French scientist who has been continuously experimenting for eighteen years to ascertain the effects of low temperatures on fish and animals has found that common snails can withstand the greatest amount of cold.

Stomach labor conquers everything.—Virgil.

THE STOCKMAN.

Improved hogs are improving hog profits—that is, the better the breeding stock the better the chances are for larger profit from the business.

If it is necessary to take a smooth horse over icy roads to the shop wrap the feet in moss sacks.

Don't have fat, lazy sows; make them exercise. Keep their appetites well whetted.

Sheep do not need expensive buildings in which to house them.

Shoes with removable soles are best for icy roads, as the soles can be renewed without removing the shoes.

Additional Locals

Miss Marjorie Hall is assisting at the local telephone office in East Jordan.

Frank Kephart of Potoskey was a Charlevoix visitor one day last week.

Mrs. J. H. Cook of Mancelona is visiting friends and relatives in the city.

School Commissioner Milford of East Jordan was a business visitor in the city Friday.

Mrs. Florence Haas of Empire arrived in the city Saturday to visit friends and relatives.

Roy Cook and Will Durance spent last week at Deer Lake visiting friends and relatives.

Miss Addie Holly left Saturday for Grand Rapids, where she will spend her two weeks vacation from the telephone office.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Lapeer left Tuesday for Fish Creek, Wisconsin, where they will visit their son, Clarence, and family.

Don King and Earl Preston of Potoskey spent the week end in the city as the guests of Miss Merle Felts and Miss Lillian Emrey.

Judge of Probate S. A. Correll and Mrs. Correll spent a few days last week to Potoskey as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Thomas.

Albert Edwards reports the loss of one of his horses. The animal was being worked hitched alongside its mate, and without showing any evidence of distress dropped dead.

Rev. C. E. Taggart left Monday for Lansing, where he will attend the meeting of the board of trustees of the Michigan Congregational church. Mr. Taggart will return the last of the week.

Fred Myers left last week on a combined business and pleasure trip to Chicago and Indianapolis. He expects to be away two weeks, during which time his brother, Guy, will have charge of the store.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Copping of Bay Shore have moved to Peoria, Illinois, where they plan to make their future home. Mr. Copping was a "blockman" for the International Harvester Co. and is being transferred to larger and better territory. Mr. and Mrs. Copping are well known and have hosts of friends who wish them success in their new home. Their son, Gale, who has been attending school at Potoskey, will go to Peoria after this semester and will then attend the schools at that place. Mr. Copping is well known here, his work for the International people covering this county thoroughly.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

BIG REDUCTION IN THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

We are going to hit the high cost of living a body blow as a special inducement for our customers on Saturday next. Everyone knows that prices are high, we know it too, but in the face of this, we are going to give you specials in our meat department that will jam our store with customers. Note the following:

SATURDAY SPECIALS MEAT DEPARTMENT

Fancy Rib Roast of Beef, per lb.	-	12 1-2c
Fancy Pot Roast of Beef, per lb.	-	12 1-2c
Fancy Round Steak, per lb.	-	12 1-2c
Fancy Sirloin Steak, per lb.	-	12 1-2c
Fancy Porterhouse Steak, per lb.	-	12 1-2c
Fancy Ribs of Beef, per lb.	-	12 1-2c
Fancy Hamburger Steak, per lb.	-	12 1-2c

Fresh Fancy Dressed Chickens Always ON HAND

Our Grocery Department

This store has the reputation of carrying the finest line of groceries in the county. We not only have this reputation, but do carry the stock. An order placed with us is always filled with the best goods obtainable. We will sell while they last—

Oranges, the sweet juicy kind 20c per dozen

Phone your orders in early—the best of attention will be given them.

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

NOW--HERE IS MY OFFER

I'll Feed your Stock 60 Days at My Risk

I'll Prove My Claims Right on Your Own Farm—on Your Own Stock

A Wonderful Remedy That Saves Your Stock

Your sheep, hogs, cattle, horses and mules are subject to deadly attacks of worms. These ravenous pests multiply by the millions, starve your stock, keep them poor, weak, and out of condition.

SAL-VET

The Great Worm Destroyer and Conditioner

is a medicated stock salt that will rid every animal on your place of worms quickly and keep them worm free and healthy. No pay if it fails. No dosing, no drenching. Just put it where all your stock can run to it freely. They will doctor themselves, thrive faster, and put on money-making flesh. SAL-VET is not expensive. We carry it in 5 lb. sizes from 25c up. Come in and get a package to try. You will be pleased with the results. We guarantee it.

I'll Stop Your Losses from Worms

I'll Show You How to Make Your Stock Grow Faster—Put on More Flesh on no More Feed

I want every responsible farmer to try SAL-VET 60 days at my risk. If your stock are not doing well, if they do not gain as they should, if you are losing sheep or hogs—if your horses lack energy and ambition—no doubt stomach worms or intestinal worms are sapping their life blood and vitality. If you want to have every animal on your place worm-free, if you want to drive out the deadly pests that are robbing you of your stock profits—let me feed your stock SAL-VET 60 days at my risk.

If it fails to do just what I claim—if it don't rid your stock of the blood-sucking, disease-breeding stomach and intestinal worms, I refund you your money in full. Just tell me how many head of stock you have and I'll send you enough to last your stock 60 days without asking a penny of pay in advance. You take no risk. Begin today to feed SAL-VET; improve your stock; get better profits.

How to Estimate Quantity Required for 60 Days' Use

- Allow one pound SAL-VET to each sheep or lamb, for 60 days' use.
- Allow one pound SAL-VET to each head of swine, for 60 days' use.
- Allow four pounds SAL-VET to each head of cattle, for 60 days' use.
- Allow four pounds SAL-VET to each horse, for 60 days' use.

While I give the estimated amount of consumption for a period of sixty days only as a basis of your requirements, this must not be understood as meaning that I recommend the use of SAL-VET for this limited period only. The best and most satisfactory results are obtained by keeping SAL-VET before the stock the year 'round.

BENJ. BROWN

SOLE AGENT FOR CHARLEVOIX

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 3

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

OVER ELEVEN MILES BUILT

Summary of Work of the County Road Commissioners.

As Reported by Committee Named by the Board of Supervisors—Have Done Good Work.

After a week of continuous work the committee named by the board of supervisors to check the highway order book with the time checks and invoices filed by the county road commissioners have completed their task. Supervisors J. E. Chew of South Arm and Chas. J. Zeitler of Charlevoix were the gentlemen named by the board and, with the assistance of the county clerk, filed their report Saturday. No irregularities were found and the committee congratulated the county road commissioners upon the manner in which the work had been conducted.

Below will be found a part of the report, giving in detail the number of miles of road built, by whom built, cost of building and machinery, the amount of money left in the county road fund, and a total of state rewards that have been and will be received when all roads have been completed.

According to the finding of the committee there is a balance of $3,093.46 in the county road fund, and $4,676.00 due from the state reward fund, divided as follows: On the Emmet and Grand Traverse state road, $1,576.00; Boyne City and Charlevoix road, $1,000.00; East Jordan and Boyne Falls road, $1,000.00; Boyne Falls east road (when completed), $1,000.00.

The total cost of county roads built during the years 1913 and 1914 is $50,983.25, divided as follows:

Charlevoix and East Jordan road, 3 1/2 miles, 2 feet in width, crushed stone, built by Commissioner Hammond, $8,374.73.

Boyne City and Charlevoix road, 1 mile of crushed stone and 2 miles of gravel, 9 feet in width, built by Commissioner Lorch, $12,000.37.

Emmet and Grand Traverse state road, 2 miles of gravel, 15 feet in width, built by Commissioner Hammond, $8,948.97.

East Jordan and Charlevoix road, 2 miles (not complete), built by Commissioner Hipp, $1,767.30.

Boyne Falls east road, 2 miles of gravel, 9 feet in width (one-half mile yet to gravel), built under direction of Frank House in Commissioner Lorch's district, $5,096.96.

Boyne City and Deer Lake road, 3 miles, not yet completed, built by Commissioner Lorch, $1,233.87.

East Jordan and Boyne Falls road, 3 miles, 9 feet wide, crushed stone, built by Commissioner Hipp, $13,561.05.

According to the above the number of miles of road built by each commissioner is as follows:

Hammond—A total of 5 1/2 miles, two miles of which is a 15-foot travel track.

Lorch—A total of three miles, one mile of which is macadam and two miles gravel.

Hipp—A total of three miles, all of macadam, 2 miles graded and the bottom course on one mile.

During the years 1913-14 the salaries of the three county road commissioners amounted to $5,257.88.

The total cost of tools and machinery bought out of the general fund during these two years amounted to $4,651.93, and that bought by the commissioners out of the road funds $869.06.

According to the report, each of the three commissioners have on hand tools and machinery amounting to the following: Hammond, $4,210.25; Lorch, $504.30; Hipp, $1,884.10.

A glance at the above figures will show that during these two years 11 1/2 miles of state reward road have been constructed and that each commissioner is well equipped with machinery, tools, etc., to commence road building this spring. An effort will be made to complete the construction of at least nine miles of new road during the year of 1915.

Suffers Fire Loss.

Last week Monday fire nearly destroyed the home of Mrs. Jas. Bogert of Boyne City, where she has lived for more than twelve years. Mrs. Bogert was visiting her sons in this city when the fire occurred. The house was occupied during her absence by her grandson, Will Bogert, who had started a fire in the stove, near which he sat down and went to sleep, awaking some time later to find the upstairs filled with smoke from a blaze around the chimney. The loss will amount to several hundred dollars.

DIED IN HIS ARMS

Robert C. Jarvis Awoke to Find His Son Dead at Helena, Montana.

Word was received at this office Thursday of the death of the four-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Jarvis of the Amick Pennant Winners, now playing at Helena, Montana.

When Mr. Jarvis, leading man of the company, awoke shortly before noon Sunday, January 10, at his room in the Hotel Eddy at Helena he held in his arms the dead body of his son, "Junior." The child had died during the night. Medical assistance was hurriedly summoned and upon examination it was announced that the boy had been dead for several hours. It is thought death was caused by strangulation, due to a cold and the exceptional weight of the child. The mother, who plays in the same company with her husband, was prostrated when she realized she had lost her first child. There was a general desolation among the members of the company when they learned of the child's death, as the babe was a pet with the entire troupe.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis played their respective parts in the play Sunday night, bravely fighting back the sorrow of their own to make the public laugh and enjoy the evening's entertainment. No one in the audience knew of the death. The young man and his girl wife passed through an ordeal as hard as ever befalls a human. Both parents continued to play their parts last week.

The young couple were married in Grand Rapids a little over a year ago. Their child was born last fall and his early demise is keenly felt by all in the company. The child was buried in Helena, but will be removed to Grand Rapids later in the year.

MARRIED AT TRAVERSE CITY

Miss Mildred Fanning Springs Surprise on Her Many Friends.

Leaves on Morning Train Saturday for Traverse City Where Marriage Took Place.

Friends of Miss Mildred Fanning, the well-known and popular young clerk at Bergeon's dry goods store, were greatly surprised Saturday when the fact became known that she had left on the early train for Traverse City, to become the wife of Frank D. Kephart of Petoskey. The approaching wedding had been kept a close secret between the bride, groom and members of their respective families until the announcement came Saturday.

Mr. Kephart left Petoskey Saturday morning and was joined here by his bride to be. The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Peck of Traverse City at 11:15 the same morning.

The groom is a well known and popular young man of Petoskey and the fact that he was about to be married was kept from his many friends there. The bride has a host of friends in this city who extend their most hearty congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Kephart will reside in Detroit this winter, where Mr. Kephart has a position as manager of the Shutter Drug Store Woodward Avenue. It is thought that they will return to Petoskey with the opening of the resort season and Mr. Kephart will be at the Central Drug Store.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE

Death of Mrs. M. C. Liscomb Occurred Last Wednesday Evening.

Mrs. M. C. Liscomb passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Hanshaw, Wednesday evening, January 13, after suffering for some time from chronic myocarditis. She was 75 years of age and had been a resident of this city since 1869, when she moved here from Benton Harbor. She was the mother of three daughters and one son, all of whom remain to mourn her loss. Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Hanshaw Friday morning, interment being made at the Brookside cemetery.

The "Jolly Ten."

The "Jolly Ten" have started out again. They gave Mrs. C. R. Bellinger a surprise last Wednesday afternoon at six o'clock. A bounteous supper was served and the evening spent in visiting. All report a jolly good time. Come again, girls.

ARRESTED FOR ILLEGAL FISHING

Allie Moore Draws $15.00 Fine or Fifteen Days.

Will Serve Out His Sentence—Chief Violators Still Remains Uncaught.

For a number of years there has been a general complaint among the citizens of this city that illegal fishing was being done in Round and Pine Lakes. While not enough evidence was obtainable to convict the parties for these illegal violations, every once in a while it was whispered about that the violations were taking place in one or both of the lakes. Complaints were made to the game wardens, who for one reason or the other, were unable to apprehend the violators.

Rumors of this nature have been in the air for the past week or so, and Saturday night Allie Moore, known the world over as one of the best fancy and trick roller skaters, was caught red-handed placing nets in Round Lake. He was arrested Monday morning by Sheriff Novak upon complaint of Game Warden W. J. Pearson, and placed in the county jail. In the afternoon he was taken before Justice of the Peace H. C. Cooper, and upon pleading guilty, was given the option of a $15.00 fine or fifteen days in the county jail. Moore took the fifteen days and is now serving his sentence.

In answer to questions asked him, it is said Moore claimed that his illegal fishing had netted him practically nothing, few fish of any kind being taken from the nets. Rumor also has it that he has been netting in Pine Lake for some time, with but little results.

Netting fish in either Pine Lake or Round Lake should be stopped. The law should be strictly enforced.

Thousands of people come to Charlevoix each year, and one of their chief sources of amusement is fishing in both lakes. If the lakes are depleted of fish, it will be one of the greatest losses the community can suffer. It is the duty of every citizen to see that violations of this nature is stopped.

However, we are of the opinion that regardless of the arrest and conviction of Moore, these violations will not cease until the parties who have been for years illegally fishing in the two lakes are caught and convicted.

MARRIED JANUARY 9

Fred S. Myers and Miss Alpha Benson Married at Preston, Minnesota.

Fred S. Myers, a well known business man of this city, and Miss Alpha Benson were married January 9th at the home of the bride's mother in Preston, Minnesota.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Myers are well and favorably known in Charlevoix, and are extended the congratulations by their many friends.

They returned to this city last Friday, after a short visit with friends and relatives in Minnesota.

MATCH SAVED LIFE

Kindle Merchant Afloat on Drifting Ice in Little Traverse Bay.

A match saved the life of August Kindo, a merchant of Kindo. He left Port Crescent, near Harbor Springs, late in the afternoon one day last week with a shanty to use while spearing fish through the ice. Shortly after leaving a strong south wind began to move the ice off shore and before he realized the danger there was 200 feet of water between him and the shore.

After drifting three and a half miles into the lake Kindo found a lone match in his pockets, broke up his aleigh and with papers in his pockets managed to light a fire, which gave him location to watchers on shore. His two sons, John and James, put out in a small boat and rescued him.

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses issued by County Clerk Lewis during the past week.

Herbert G. Scott, age 23, of Boyne City; Leona D. Noddox, age 19, of Manacoma.

Earl D. Griffin, age 22, of Evangeline township; Mable Barkley, age 19, of Bay township.

John McCall, age 26, of Onaway; Alvin Vandegrook, age 18, of Boyne City.

CHARLEVOIX HIGH SCHOOL "Y" CLUB

Organized Last Friday Under Leadership of A. B. Ball.

Part of the National Organization—Regular Meeting Every Monday Evening.

Last Friday, twenty-seven young men of the high school organized the C. H. S. "Y" Club, under the leadership of A. B. Ball, James Wilkinson and W. A. Vogt. This is a part of a national organization, and there are branches also in Boyne City and East Jordan.

The purpose of the society is to promote Christian character among the boys of the high school, and to do constructive educational work along this line. The officers of the club are as follows: President, Ralph Coulter; Secretary, Kenneth Widdifield; Treasurer, Myron Corey.

The regular meetings are to be held on Monday from 7:00 to 8:30 p. m. The general program of the meetings is as follows: First, a short business session; then Bible study for 30 minutes; finally a vocational talk by a representative citizen of Charlevoix or of the state. The last meeting of each month is a social meeting, called a "bean supper."

Last Monday was held the first regular meeting, given over entirely to business. Next Monday the second meeting will be held. At this time Rev. Walker will speak on "The Ministry as a Life Work."

This club promises to be a most valuable asset to the lives of the boys of Charlevoix. It meets and deserves the heartiest support of every man, woman and child in town.

WEDDED THIRTY YEARS

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson Help Them Remember Event.

Friends and neighbors to the number of about thirty-five dropped into the cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson Monday evening to help them celebrate their 30th wedding anniversary.

The jolly crowd met at the home of F. A. Butler and when all had arrived proceeded to the Johnson home. Upon their arrival at the house they at once proceeded to take possession, to the great surprise of Mrs. Johnson, who had no inkling of the well-planned event. After the crowd had been playing 500 for a short time, Mr. Johnson, who had been attending lodge, appeared upon the scene and shared in the surprise as well as did his wife a short time before.

Progressive 500 was the amusement of the evening. When the final scores were counted it was found that Mrs. C. L. Gonser and F. V. Alexander had won the largest number of games, and Mrs. A. J. Usher and E. J. Hillier the least. Suitable awards were presented to them for their skill at the game.

After a fine potluck supper was served, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were presented with a complete set of dishes as a token of the esteem in which they are held by their friends. Congratulations were made and the invading mob left for their homes expressing hopes that they would have the opportunity of again taking them by surprise on some other date.

DEATH ENDS SUFFERING

Mrs. Charles Vosburg Had Been Ailing for the Past Two Years.

After suffering for over two years from sugar diabetes, death came as a relief to Mrs. Chas. Vosburg, wife of Charles Vosburg, who lives about one and one-half miles south of this city, last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Vosburg was 42 years of age at the time of her death and had resided in this vicinity for over sixteen years. Besides her husband and father she leaves four sons—Guy, Frank, Walter and William—and one daughter, Mrs. Will Ager, to mourn their loss. Other surviving relatives are two brothers—Frank Wright of Detroit and Calvin Wright of Charlevoix—and three sisters—Mrs. Frank Germaine of Traverse City, Mrs. Eugene Hyde of Traverse City and Mrs. Louis Hyde of Pellston.

Funeral services were held from the home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Interment at Brookside cemetery.

Subscribe for the Courier.

Y. M. C. A. ITEMS

Eighth Grade Club Entertained at Home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bellinger.

On Monday of this week Mr. and Mrs. Will Bellinger entertained at 6 o'clock dinner the members of the Y. M. C. A. Eighth Grade Club, of which Mr. Bellinger is the leader.

After the business meeting, Bible study and games at their regular Monday evening meeting the members of the Junior Y. M. C. A. Groups listened to a helpful talk by Dr. A. M. Wilkinson, chairman of the county committee. Jas. Leenhouts, Ward Genett and Roy Babcock are the leaders of these groups.

A. B. Ball was in Boyne City Tuesday completing the organization of the Boyne City High School Y. M. C. A. Club.

Through the efforts of the County Y. M. C. A., Chas. M. Carson, superintendent of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., has been secured to speak to the boys of the local schools about what big business thinks about the cigarette habit. A later announcement will give the exact date, and the friends of the boys are invited to hear Mr. Carson.

It is not at all out of place to say right here that a good deal of the success of the Y. M. C. A. movement in Charlevoix is due to the co-operative spirit of the public school teachers.

If you know of any men, young men or boys who are leaving the community to locate elsewhere, you would be doing them a favor if you'd put the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. wise to it. The Y. M. C. A. has a correspondence system that is sure to put strangers in a new community in touch with the constructive forces of righteousness within forty-eight hours, or sooner, after their arrival. This service is free to any fellow.

SIX CANDIDATES IN THE FIELD

Contest for School Commissioner Will Be a Warm One.

Four Candidates from East Jordan, One from Boyne Falls and One from Boyne City.

"Who will win out in the primaries for the office of school commissioner" seems to be the leading question before the people of this county at present. East Jordan has four candidates, Boyne City one and Boyne Falls one. Charlevoix will not have a candidate.

J. H. Milford, the present incumbent and also a candidate for re-election, has faithfully filled the position for a number of years. He is well qualified for the position and his splendid work will in a great measure help him in the contest. The other candidates from East Jordan are William Baslaw, who has been county trustee officer for a number of years; Miss May L. Stewart, who has been connected with the East Jordan schools for some time, and Harry Winters.

Boyne City's candidate, Mrs. Amelia Kaden, has taught school in the county for the past twenty-five years. She has a splendid record to place before the people and undoubtedly will receive splendid support.

Mr. Gracey, the candidate from Boyne Falls, is superintendent of the public schools at that place and is well recommended.

The outcome of the race is hard to predict. The Courier will not take sides in the matter, but will use all alike. All are good citizens and, as far as we know, well qualified to fill the office.

The announcements of Mr. Milford, Mrs. Kaden and Miss Stewart appear in another part of this issue.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

To Be Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rachow at Next Meeting.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet Friday evening, January 22, with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rachow. The following is the program:

Musical—Young men's choir of the M. E. church.
Paper, "English Immigration"—Mrs. R. W. Kane.
Social intermission.
Vocal solo—Miss Irene Finucan.
Reading—Miss Helen Cone.

Oranges 15c a dozen
Pineapple 12c a can
Corn, Peas 3 for 25c
3c
Mrs. B. W. Miller.

WANTS MANY CHANGES MADE

State Dairy and Food Commissioner Helme's New Food Legislation.

Specifically Explains Six New Amendments and Reasons for Proposed Changes.

James Helme, state dairy and food commissioner, has a lot of legislation for presentation to the state law making bodies. All of it is consistent with the policy to which the champion of pure food has committed himself for several years and is intended for the protection of the much-harassed ultimate consumer.

The commissioner has six specific pieces of legislation which he is desirous of incorporating in the laws of the State of Michigan. They are:

Passage of a law fixing the size of berry boxes at one pint, one quart and two quarts, thus doing away with the practice of many dealers of selling goods by the box and not by the measure. The average "quart" berry box contains about 15-16 of a quart, according to the commissioner, and, as a box may be of any size, there is no way of protecting the public.

A law compelling manufacturers of milk bottles in Michigan to file a bond with the department guaranteeing all bottles to be of standard measure. Manufacturers would be designated by a number blown in every bottle under Helme's plan. The finding of a number of bottles revealing short measure would offer grounds for the forfeiture of the bond, according to the proposed law.

Amendments of the present seizure law by affixing a penalty for the sale of goods seized by the department. Under the present law goods may be seized by the inspectors of the department, may be marked and left in the dealers' place of business under orders that they may not be distributed or moved under any conditions. The law, however, carries with it no penalty and unscrupulous dealers may sell the goods confiscated by the department without fear of prosecution.

Passage of a law licensing creameries. Creameries now are registered, a nominal fee being paid for this service. The licensing system need not raise the fee, according to Helme, but would give the department a chance to take away the license and stop an unsanitary or dishonest creamery man from doing business from a period of as long as six months.

Substitution of a new law for the present "weights per bushel" statute. This is a measure of immediate importance to farmers, Helme believes, inasmuch as many of the present weights are far from being in just proportions, while some mentioned Michigan products are not mentioned in the statute. For instance, says Helme, the present law places the weight of a bushel of corn on the cob at 79 pounds. As a matter of fact 70 pounds of corn on the cob makes approximately two bushels by measure.

A "pure booze" law. Such a measure was introduced during the latter part of last session, but was lost in the shuffle during the haste incident to closing. Commissioner Helme's idea is to compel each and every manufacturer of liquors to file with the department a sworn copy of the formula under which the product is made. This formula is subject to approval or rejection by the commissioner. On its acceptance a bond must be filed with the department and any variation in the formula may be punished by forfeiture.

Commissioner Helme will also make an effort to have the word "knowingly" stricken out of the present pure food law, as he declares it has proven a loophole through which many offenders have escaped the consequences of violating it.

CENTRAL CLEARING HOUSE

Gleaners at Bay Shore Expect to Organize One in Near Future.

On January 14 North Bay Arbor held an open meeting to discuss the feasibility of organizing a branch of the Central Clearing House. There was quite a large attendance and considerable interest shown in the project. The committee appointed to solicit shares were able to raise between four and five hundred dollars at the meeting. The committee intend canvassing for the balance in the near future. Companion Levi Joslin of the Central Clearing House was present to discuss the subject and answer any questions that were asked.

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

LESLIE SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 106 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO SATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building
Over Levinson's Store
Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

Twenty years Experience
Maps and Platons Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

ALLEN M. WILKINSON

Physician and Surgeon

Eyes Tested and Glasses Fitted
Telephone—Office 627; residence 643r
Office in Postoffice Bld'g Charlevoix

R. B. ARMSTRONG

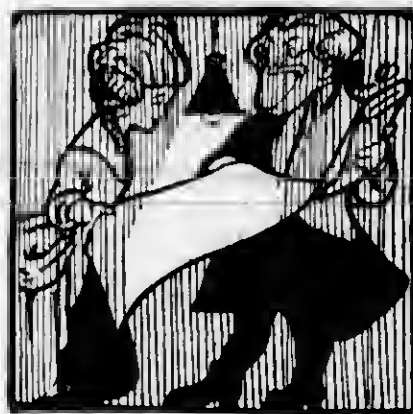

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the
EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in new Priest Building
Telephone No. 255 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention to diseases of women and children.
All calls given prompt attention
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

Mr. Merchant

The Holiday rush is over—Now is the time to have your lighting equipment brought up to a MODERN STANDARD—and HERE is where you can obtain the

TUNGSTEN CLUSTERS
SHOW WINDOW ELECTRIC FIXTURES

and other illumination equipment at the closest prices and the highest quality.

For DOMESTIC use we have an unrivaled showing of ELECTRIC DEVICES for cooking, heating, etc., small motors and truly handsome portables, electric fans, etc. Your visit of inspection incurs no obligation and is cordially invited.

F. S. Beltes

214 Bridge Street

Phone 134 when you need
First-class Electric Work

Black Silk
Stove Polish

Liquid or Paste
Does Not Rub Off, Lasts 4 Times as Long as Others, Saves Work.

Get a Can Today

Philanthropist

How Joe Carpenter Secured a Good Salary.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Joe Carpenter was a clerk in the office of the third vice president of the railroad system. Joe was at his desk one morning sorting papers when he received a call to his chief's private room. When he appeared the vice president said to him:

"I wish you to take this package to Miss Dorothea Penfield, an addressed. Here are twenty $1,000 bonds, the last of the lot we agreed to send her. Be very careful with them, and deliver them to no one except Miss Penfield herself, taking her receipt."

Joe took the package and left the room. He had heard that Miss Penfield was the only daughter of the man who had organized the railroad system in which he was employed and that she had inherited his vast interest in it, making her one of the richest women in America. Joe had also heard that the lady was a philanthropist. Philanthropist is a very big word, and he associated with it a very important woman. His mental picture of her was a middle-aged person, partly gray and with a very benevolent face. But, handling so large a fortune as she possessed, she must have an air of business about her.

He placed the package in his inside coat pocket, put a safety pin over it, buttoned the coat over his breast and walked forth on his errand. He expected to find Miss Penfield's residence a palace, but it was an ordinary stone-front city residence. He was admitted by a maid to the black and white uniform of a servant girl and ushered into a room from which he could look into another room in the rear, where sat a young girl humming on a typewriter.

A lady answering Joe's imaginary description of Miss Penfield came into the room where he was and looked at him quizzically, as much as to ask, "What can I do for you?" "Are you Miss Penfield?" asked Joe. "I am."

"Here are some bonds that I have been instructed to deliver to you." He produced the package. She took it into the back room, where she opened it and after a few words with the typist dictated a receipt. This done, both women left the room. A few minutes later Miss Penfield came into the room where Joe was waiting, handed him the receipt, and he returned with it to the railroad office.

All this is an apparently unimportant part of this story. You must know that Joe Carpenter was very attractive in his appearance, and the typewriter in the back room was a very pretty girl.

While Joseph was sitting in the next room to her she looked up from her work and caught him looking at her admiringly. On several other occasions during his stay at the house she looked up and every time saw that same admiring glance. Indeed, what Joe was thinking was expressed through his eyes, and what he was thinking was this: "You're pretty enough to kiss."

Joe went away thinking of that fair skin, those coral lips, those sparkling eyes (these were his own descriptions of them), and he kept on thinking of them all that day and the next and the next, till one morning the third vice president sent for him again and said to him:

"Carpenter, I have a telephone message from Miss Penfield asking me to send her the numbers of the bonds you delivered to her the other day, and she would like them sent by you. You are sure the delivery was all right, aren't you?"

"I delivered the package as you gave it to me. The receipt tallied with your record, didn't it?"

"Oh, yes. The receipt was all right. You'd better take the numbers to her"—he handed Joe a bit of paper with the numbers on it—"and hear what she has to say."

Joe put the paper in his pocket and repaired to the Penfield residence. This time he was received by the pretty typewriter. She came into the room where he was, with a slightly frightened color.

"Miss Penfield is indisposed this morning. She has asked me to say that in making a list of the bonds you brought her the other day before putting them in the safety deposit vaults a mistake was made, and she thought that one of the bonds was missing. But it's all right. The error has been discovered. She desires me to apologize to you for putting you to the trouble of coming."

"I'm glad you've found it," said Joe, much relieved. "If you hadn't it would have been my fault in the charge of having extracted it from the package and appropriating it."

"I didn't think of that," said the girl, evidently somewhat disturbed. "Joe had risen at her entrance and was moving toward the door."

"I hope," continued the typist, "that you haven't suffered from suspicion even temporarily."

She mentioned Joe in an easy, casual and took another herself. Despite all, Joe could say to relieve her mind she persisted in saying that the note to the vice president should not have been sent. But in this she changed the subject, and the two chatted glibly on other subjects. Presently Joe looked at his watch and started.

"Great heavens!" he exclaimed. "It's two hours since I left the office. I must find some excuse for staying so long away from my work or I'll get fired."

"If you do I think I know another place you can get. When you left the other day Miss Penfield said: 'I wish I could get some young man like that to take these details off my hands. I am nearly swamped with them.' How would you like such a position?"

"I wouldn't like it at all at the same salary. I have a better chance for promotion with the railroad company."

When Joe departed the typewriter asked for his address, and a few days later he received a note from Miss Penfield stating that she was intending to open an office for the transaction of the business of her estate and was looking for a manager. Would he accept the position and if so at what salary? Joe after thinking the matter over decided to accept the position, being influenced solely by the fact that he hoped to see the pretty typewriter occasionally. Indeed, a love affair had been started between him and her which bade fair to be of the galloping kind. So he wrote that he was at Miss Penfield's service and would leave the salary to her.

A reply came asking if $2,500 a year would be sufficient to begin on. Since Joe was receiving but $100 a month, he replied that the amount named would be satisfactory, and he received an order to find a suitable office and procure the necessary furniture.

Joe at once resigned his position in the railroad office, hunted up an office, furnished it, then went to Miss Penfield's house and transferred the books and papers pertaining to the estate. Miss Penfield spent several days with him in the office including him, or rather, trying to initiate him into the business at hand. But it was in such a state of confusion that it soon became evident to Joe that he must straighten them out by his own efforts. Indeed, he found the lady more of a detriment than a help. However, at the end of a couple of weeks he had everything in order.

The manager of the Penfield estate received occasional invitations to dine at the house. Sometimes Miss Penfield was at the table; sometimes she was entertained by the typewriter. He learned from her that she was a connection of Miss Penfield, her name being also Penfield. Joe asked her if she would be likely to lose her position since an office had been opened for the transaction of the business of the estate, and she told him that the private correspondence could not be relegated to the office and it required so much of her time that she was thinking of getting an assistant.

Even if Miss Penfield appeared at the dinner table when Joe dined at the house, she disappeared as soon as the meal was over, leaving Joe and the typewriter together. The affair turned out to be a quick and desperate case of love. Joe proposed to the typewriter, was accepted, and they began to plan for their marriage.

"I hope," said the young lady, "that you are not counting upon my getting any help from Miss Penfield. She will not give me a cent."

"We don't need her assistance," replied Joe. "On my salary we can get along very well."

His fiancée threw her arms around his neck and said that with such a manly husband she had no fear of poverty whatever.

Joe suggested that they be married at once and take a little house. Eighteen hundred a year would be plenty for them to live on and they could put away seven hundred for a nest egg. His fiancée offered to look for the house, to which Joe consented since he was very busy at his office. One day she told him that she had found a cozy little nook, just the home for a young couple starting in life. Joe proposed that they go together to look at it, but being occupied with preparations for the wedding the bride to be put the visit off from day to day. What surprised Joe was that she insisted on a church wedding and the sending out of innumerable cards. To this he protested on the ground that they could not afford the expenditure. They were in Miss Penfield's house at the time.

"Joe," said his fiancée, "there's a secret between us that I can't keep any longer. She whom you have known as Dorothea Penfield is my Aunt Susan Penfield. I am Dorothea Penfield. The first time you called here I was amusing myself with a new typewriter on which I was learning to write. I saw that there was a case of love between us and that you supposed my aunt was the heiress. I have always expected to be married for my money, and here was a chance to be courted for myself. I availed myself of it and have permitted you to continue to be deceived."

"And you are Dorothea Penfield, the philanthropist worth millions?" exclaimed Joe with eyes as big as saucers.

"I am."

A look of disappointment crossed Joe's face.

"What is it?" asked Dorothy anxiously.

The Kitchen Cupboard

CRANBERRY JELLIES.

CRANBERRIES in some form are served with every well regulated Thanksgiving dinner. Some of the excellent ways of making cranberry jellies are the following:

Shaped in Molds.

Hard Cranberry Jelly.—Take the following: Wash thoroughly a quart of sound cranberries, rejecting any that show a soft spot and being careful to remove all stems. Put them in a porcelain or granite saucepan with half a cupful of hot water and a heaping cupful of granulated sugar. Cook them in a double boiler rather than over the direct heat. Then rub them through a sieve and mold in flat pans.

Piquant and Dainty.

Spiced Cranberry Jelly.—Take one quart of cranberries, one cupful of boiling water, two cupfuls of sugar, one-third cupful of cold water, a few grains of salt, two-thirds inch piece of stick cinnamon, twenty-four whole cloves and six allspice berries. Pick over and wash berries. Add boiling water and let boil until cranberries are soft. Rub through a sieve and add remaining ingredients except salt. Again bring to the boiling point and let simmer fifteen minutes. Add salt, turn into a mold and chill.

Unique Combination.

Cranberry Jelly With Celery.—Take four cupfuls of cranberries, one cupful of boiling water, two cupfuls of sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of celery. Pick over and wash berries. Put in stewpan and add sugar and boiling water, bring to boiling point and let boil twenty minutes and force through strainer. When mixture begins to thicken fold in the celery cut crosswise of stalks in one-eighth inch slices. Turn into a mold and chill. Remove and garnish with curled celery.

This Keeps Well.

Winter Cranberry Jelly.—Cover four quarts of carefully washed cranberries with water. Put them in a porcelain kettle and stew them slowly until they are quite soft. Then rub them through a coarse sieve. Measure the cranberries and to each pint allow two cupfuls of granulated sugar. Put the cranberries back over the fire, let them boil and add the sugar. When a little of the mixture will jelly when it is dropped on a cold plate remove it from the fire and pour it into sterilized jelly tumblers. Cover with paraffin.

Anna Thompson.

OVERHEATING CYLINDERS.

Late Ignition and Delayed Exhaust Causes of Trouble.

One of the common causes of special heating, or rather overheating, of the gas or gasoline engine is late ignition, says L. W. Longueuecker in Blacksmith & Wheelwright. This is probably more noticeable in automobiles than in stationary engines. The latter are usually equipped with oiling apparatus that requires a large body of water, while the former depend on a radiating system carrying only a small supply of water.

Late ignition causes the fuel to burn slowly, and it continues to burn throughout the entire power stroke of the piston, thereby imparting a much greater portion of its heat to the cylinder walls than if the ignition occurs at the proper time. Under high compression ignition results in quick combustion of the fuel and exerts a greater heat energy on the piston and thus converts it into power instead of heating up the cylinder walls and cooling fluid. It is very important therefore to see to the spark shifting mechanism so that the spark period may always be early enough to conserve the heat energy and convert it into power early in the stroke by consuming as much of the fuel as possible in the first half of the power stroke.

Another fruitful cause of cylinder overheating is delayed action of the exhaust valve. If the valve does not open at the proper time, or if it does not lift high enough from its seat to insure free egress in the exhaust gases, the heat is retained in the cylinder to such an extent as to boil the cooling water and cause the engine to become so hot as to interfere with cylinder lubrication.

Delayed valve action may be the result of worn cams or cam rollers or from improper timing of the valves by means of the actuating gear. A worn actuating cam may not lift the valve sufficiently high from its seat, which results in the piston becoming a serious obstruction to the very function it is supposed to serve. The valve actuating mechanism is especially important to the economical and otherwise successful operation of the gas engine.

Foot Pools in Cows.

Stand the cow to a wall far up the wall after which apply powdered cupper sulphate made into a paste by adding crude oil. It is highly important that the animal be kept dry—clean ground. Repeat treatment daily until recovery takes place. The disease affects only the feet.

Save the Straw Stack.

It seems impossible that one would need to advise the farmer to save his straw stack, but it is a fact. There are a great many people to different parts of the country who still find this a very valuable product. Straw on the dairy farm is always a necessity.

Money in the Bank

MAKES LIFE'S CLIMB EASY

Opportunity is always knocking at the door of the man with a bank account.

Why not open a Savings Account at this bank today?

Save persistently. Cut out your extravagances. Live economically. You'll be surprised at the rapid growth of your account.

One dollar opens a Savings Account here and your money will draw 4 per cent interest.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. B. B. B. A. F. Bridge

Co-Partners

Home For Savings

WATCH

Blanchard's Bargain Counters

There are many Surprises in store for you

Hand Sleds at Cost

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted

Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 1602

111 Antrim Street

Bake Day Troubles

Bring them to us—we'll solve them for you. Baking is our business—good baking. Housewives tell us they can buy their baked goods as cheap as they can make them themselves—and think of the trouble and worry it saves you. Let us do your baking for you for a while, and see if this is not true.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

Where you can get everything that is to be had in the line of Groceries and Vegetables.

We have just received some choice, large
CALIFORNIA NAVEL ORANGES which we will sell Saturday at 25c dozen

SPECIAL FOR SATURDAY

With a 50c Purchase we will sell
One lb. of Calumet Baking Powder 15c
One Pound to a Customer, for

MEAT DEPARTMENT

Don't forget our Meat Department. We will have plenty of Beef and Pork. Try our home made Pork Sausage, that is all Pork not Flour. We also have plenty of Choice, Fresh Dressed Chickens. Come early or Telephone. Prompt Delivery and Courteous treatment. Call No. 12 or 69.

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

ONE-DAY INSTITUTES

Dates Named for Meetings to be Held Throughout the County.

Following the two-day round-up meeting of the Charlevoix County Farmers' Institute held at East Jordan January 26-27, one-day meetings will be held at the places named below:
Marion Center Grange—Saturday, January 30, Marion township.
Maple Grove Grange—Monday, February 1, Hayes township.
Pine Lake Grange—Tuesday, February 2, at Boyne City.
Deer Lake Grange—Wednesday, February 3, at Deer Lake Hall.
Clarion Grange—Thursday, February 4, at their hall.
Springvale Grange—Friday, February 5, at Springvale.
The work will be under the direction of Prof. L. R. Taft of Lansing; H. L. Olney of East Jordan, county president, and W. C. Howe, East Jordan, secretary of the local branch.
Local chairmen are busily engaged in selecting their speakers, and the programs give promise of being exceptionally good.

Civil Service Examination.

Notices are out for a civil service examination for the position of rural carrier on R. F. D. No. 4, to be held Saturday, February 13, at Charlevoix and Boyne City. Parties wishing to take the examination should apply to Postmaster T. G. Finucan for particulars.

INSTALL OFFICERS

W. R. C. Hold Installation, Which Was Followed by Supper.

The W. R. C. held their meeting in the afternoon as usual and at 6 o'clock served supper to the comrades and their wives. In the evening Mrs. Bellinger installed the officers as follows:
President—May Bugbee.
S. V. Nancy Plum.
J. V.—Lena Wallace.
Chaplain—Amanda Moore.
Treasurer—Rose Kibbe.
Secretary—Adeline Bellinger.
Conductor—Lizzie Olney.
Guard—Eliza Hodge.
A. C.—Amelia Wallace.
A. G.—Mary Blisset.
Color Bearers—Mary Swartz, Emma Graves, Emma Salsburg, Lois Cook.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican county convention will be held this year at Boyne City on Friday, February 5th, at the Wolverine Hotel. At this time ten delegates will be named to attend the state convention at Grand Rapids February 12th. Each township, ward or precinct is entitled to representation at this convention.

List of Jurors.

Following is the list of jurors for the February term of the circuit court:
Matt. Allen, Eveline township.
Andrew Struthers, Jr., Hayes township.
Harry Dutcher, Hudson township.
George Ager, Marion township.
Joseph Shirk, Milrose township.
Thos. Cummings, Norwood township.
Barney McCafferty, Peaine township.
Herman Perkins, St. James township.
Moses Lalonde, South Arm township.
Ira F. Davis, Wilson township.
Ralph Starnier, Bay township.
W. J. Gamble, Boyne Valley township.
Edwin Sayre, Chandle township.
John Martin, Charlevoix township.
Boyne City:
Dell Mitchell, 1st ward.
E. Fountain, 2nd ward.
Wm. J. Thompson, 3rd ward.
Roy Scott, 4th ward.
Charlevoix:
W. Eugene Hedwin, 1st ward.
John Macey, Jr., 2nd ward.
H. Widdfield, 3rd ward.
East Jordan:
Thomas Passenger, 1st ward.
Fred Bissonett, 2nd ward.
A. W. Stewart, 3rd ward.

State Teachers' Institute.

The Department of Public Instruction has appointed an institute to be held in Boyne City on Monday and Tuesday, February 1 and 2, 1915.
Prof. G. Masselin, acting president of the Institute, will have charge of the meeting and will be assisted on Monday by Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, president of the Institute of Mercantile Art, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and on Tuesday by Hon. H. R. Pattengill of Lansing.
Dr. Krebs comes to us very highly recommended and the other instructors need no introduction to the teachers of the state, as both their personality and their ability are well known.
Teachers of the county will attend this institute without loss of time, and all are urged to close their schools and attend.
The meeting will open at ten o'clock and every teacher in the county should be on hand to hear Doctor Krebs in his opening address.
Respectfully submitted,
Adv. 31 J. H. Milford, Com.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our thanks to those who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement.
Charles Vosburg and family

SPECIAL FOR

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23

Ladies' Dress Skirts

Regular $5.00 grade made in the latest styles

$2.98

To close out the balance of our Ladies' Coats we offer them at

1-2 Price 1-2

GO TO — Levinson's — Get the Habit

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year..... $1.50
One copy, six months..... .75
One copy, three months..... .40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Obituary notices, regular rates. Card of thanks, 2 cents.

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

(Political Announcement.)

Through the columns of the Courier I desire to formally announce that I shall be a candidate for the county commission of schools in Charlevoix county on the Republican ticket at the primaries on the 3rd day of March, 1915.

That this is ambitious, I do not deny, but I have postponed making my announcement in order to determine whether a goodly number of citizens in this county considered me worthy and qualified to fill this responsible position, and I now feel that I have somewhat determined that sentiment. My candidacy is receiving support throughout the entire county from laboring men, farmers, merchants, business and professional men who have pledged their confidence and support over their own signatures. I therefore feel justified in submitting to the electors of Charlevoix county my candidacy.

In political announcements it is customary for the candidate to pledge his faithfulness in the performance of his duties in the office to which he aspires. No office should be further removed from all temporary political unrest than the commissionship, and the personality and character of the candidate are of vital importance. To what degree of faithfulness he is pledging himself depends upon his native interest in educational matters, and I believe the voters of the county have a right to inquire with what breadth of view he is interpreting those indefinite provisions of our state law which deal with the possible cutting of our rural schools through ways and means left solely to the ingenuity of the commissioner and designed as food for thought in his leisure moments.

The commissioner holds teachers' examinations, grants certificates, keeps the same on file, makes a list of qualified teachers, receives institute fees and pays the same into the county treasury each quarter—but these duties are required of him by law. He is expected to visit each schoolroom under his jurisdiction at least once in the school year, but the simple performance of these duties should reflect no special credit upon his office, for his reports must show that he has done this, or his salary would be discontinued. Pledging the performance of required duties would mean little indeed, and I wish to call attention to the special powers of the commission which I hope to exercise with ambition and judgment.

Section 7 of Act 188 of the compiled school laws of Michigan instructs the commissioner to council with teachers and school boards concerning improvements in the discipline, instruction and management of the schools.

Section 8 of the same act says it shall be the duty of the commissioner to promote by such means as he or she may devise the improvement of the schools in the county and the elevation of the character and qualifications of teachers and officers thereof. These are the duties which require of every aspirant for this office a heart loyal to the public schools and belief in the strength and grandeur of our public school system. These are the duties which I hope to make a reality, not a misnomer, remembering ever that the centralized school is ideal and that we should work toward this goal, but that in this county our most immediate and most practicable plan is the "standard school" and that we should strive to attain this goal by improving conditions in sanitation and health, in organization, both in discipline and attendance, in library supplies and the use thereof, in the qualifications of the teacher, encouraging an active, not a passive attitude toward her work. We must first of all arouse a desire for a "standard school" plate in every district of the county. Teachers, boards of education and the commissioner must all unite with this one aim. To have our rural schools win public recognition from the state authorities. This will be my aim in the office which I seek.

I have always lived in the public school, am a graduate of East Jordan high school, have attended two of our state normals, receiving a life certificate from the state normal college. I have also studied in the state university at Ann Arbor, where—in classes on method and the science of education—I had the finest opportunity to meet and exchange ideas with various city and county superintendents. I taught two years in the rural schools of this county and have spent three years instructing high school classes. I have had the privilege of real schooling in both theory and experience and both feel and hope that this has fitted me for the position to which I aspire.

I firmly believe that character and executive ability are prime requisites and both welcome and invite investigation of my work and standing in the different schools with which I have been associated for the past eight years.

I wish to assure the voters of this county that should I be favored with the nomination and election I shall make my record as your commissioner of schools truly progressive in its earnestness of purpose.

Adv. 31 May L. Stewart.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our thanks to those who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement.
Charles Vosburg and family

They Would Not Listen to Noah

Will You Heed Our Warning?

While it happened a number of years ago, you are undoubtedly familiar with the story of the flood, hence we shall touch upon it but lightly.

Down through the ages there have been Noahs and Paul Reveres who have shouted warnings into stone deaf ears. It always has been and always will be easier for people to rush blindly forward than to occasionally stop, look and listen.

We are not alarmists, hence we most certainly are not trying to scare you into placing insurance. We do say this however, in truth and soberness, that you cannot afford to not provide yourself with dependable insurance.

Come in and let us talk it over.

Myrtie Young & Son

(Political Announcement.)

To the Electors of Charlevoix County:

I will be a candidate for County Commissioner of Schools in Charlevoix county on the Republican ticket at the primaries the third day of March, 1915.

I have taught in the schools of this county from the smallest district school to the largest city school.

I am too busy helping the pupils and teachers of the Boyne City schools to call on you personally and ask for your vote.

But you know that if I have made the improvement of the schools in which I have worked at my business for 25 years, I am not likely to change.

I hold the degree Bachelor of Pedagogies from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; a state life certificate from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; am a senior at the State University; am a graduate of the Ferris Institute; am master of Pine Lake Grange and am a taxpayer.

For these qualifications I ask you to go to the primaries on Wednesday, March 3 and vote for me and you will not be disappointed.

Adv. 31 Amelia Kaaden.

FOR

Purity

Quality

Flavor

Price

Buy Iron Duke Flour

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Born, January 19, to Mr. and Mrs. George Haas, a fine boy.

Bert Culver of Central Lake was a Charlevoix visitor last week.

W. J. Pearson of Boyne Falls was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Mrs. Sam Beaubien left Monday on a business trip to Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor.

DeForest Wood left Monday on an extended business trip to Indianapolis, Indiana.

Miss Marion Hanson left Wednesday of last week at Ellsworth visiting her parents.

Miss Iola Cook of Petoskey spent the week end in the city as the guest of Miss Hallie Bon.

Chas. See left Monday afternoon for Grand Rapids, where he will attend the furniture show.

Miss Sue Atkinson of Petoskey is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Scroggie, Jr.

Miss Mabel Knight returned to her home in Torch Lake last week, after visiting in the city.

Mrs. Harvey Campbell and Mrs. Emery Baldwin spent Friday as business visitors in Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Herschel Miller are the proud parents of a baby girl, born last week Wednesday.

Charlevoix county has 5,849 children of school age and it is said that over 72 per cent. attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Shaw are the proud parents of a 54 pound baby boy, born Saturday, January 16.

Mrs. John Ackert, Jr., returned home Friday from Petoskey, where she had been visiting her parents.

Miss Madge Allen is suffering from a sprained ankle, due to a fall received while skiing Friday evening.

Richard and William Shapton were called to Stratford, Ontario, Thursday by the death of their sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Scroggie went to Petoskey Monday, where they will spend a few days on business.

Mrs. Sarah Emery left Monday for Los Angeles, California, where she will remain during the winter months.

Dean Scroggie of Walloon Lake, well known in this city, is receiving treatment in the Saville sanitarium at Petoskey.

For the first time in the history of Michigan the senate liquor committee is composed of "dry" men. How public sentiment changes.—Mancelona Herald.

Emmet county local optionites launched their campaign last week and are busily engaged in their attempt to down the liquor traffic in that community.

Mrs. Henry Kaufman returned home on Thursday of last week from New York, where she has been visiting her daughter and sister the past seven weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilkinson and Mrs. Mary Blissett attended the funeral of Mrs. Flannigan of Central Lake last week.

Stanley Danforth returned to his home in Messina, New York, Monday after spending two weeks in the city as a guest at the home of his cousin, F. J. Meech.

Mrs. Margaret Wilson returned to her home in Ellsworth Tuesday after spending three months in the city as the guest of Mrs. N. A. Shores on Dixon avenue.

The members of the Masonic order will hold an oyster supper at their hall Friday evening, January 22, from 5:30 to 7:30. This will be followed by an old time dancing party. Everyone welcome.

Arthur and Gilbert Mesnard of Chicago and Frank Mesnard of Grand Rapids were called to the city Saturday by the serious illness of their father, who was stricken with paralysis at the home of his son, V. L. Mesnard, on Thursday.

GLASSES FITTED
CONSULT
J. LEAHY
Optometrist
Expert on Eye Strain

Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, and all other symptoms of Eye Strain cured.

Crossed Eyes Straightened Without an Operation.

Fitting Children's Eyes a Specialty.

Difficult Cases Solicited.

Glasses Guaranteed to Fit.

Hotel Charlevoix—1 Day Only
Monday, February 1st

NEW KIND OF BRICK.

Mixture of Sand and Cement That Produces Good Results.

A process for making building brick of sand and cement only has been developed, and brick of this kind are being placed on the market, says Popular Mechanics. Any kind of clean sand may be used. The secret of the process lies in the use of a cement which is mixed with the sand and which is made from glass sand by a process of melting, cooling, pulverizing and treatment in a digester. About thirty-five gallons of this cement is sufficient for making a thousand brick when mixed with ordinary river sand, sea sand or bank sand, and the sand may be either wet or dry. After being mixed the material is formed into brick in presses and is then dried under a temperature of 500 degrees F.

One of the advantages of the process is that the brick may be made complete within a period of twelve hours. Various colors may be obtained by adding oxides and mineral coloring to the material when mixing. Tests on brick made by this process show an average compressive strength of 6,000 pounds to the square inch.

Concerning Ichthyol.

The importation of ichthyol, a peculiar asphaltic material found in Austria, which finds application after appropriate chemical treatment as a very important medicinal agent, has been along with many other products, cut off by the war. The raw material comes from a fossiliferous deposit near Seefeld, in the Austrian Tyrol. It is carefully selected and subjected to dry distillation. The distillate thus obtained is then sulfonated and subsequently neutralized with ammonia. The use of this material has greatly increased in the last few years, and it has proved very beneficial. Almost immediately following the beginning of the war its price doubled, going to over 60 cents an ounce. Already, however, a firm in this country has a material on the market which has been favorably recommended as an efficient substitute closely resembling ichthyol itself.

Dynamiting a Fire.

What threatened to be a serious fire in a Pennsylvania coal mine was extinguished quickly when charges of dynamite were exploded in the airway, the resultant concussion blowing out the flames. The dynamite was placed in bags, about fifteen pounds being used in each charge, and the bags lowered to the required level and set off with electric detonators. About fifteen bags of the explosive were used. Previously the fire had been fought with water and with chemical fire extinguishers without success.

To Make Bookbinder's Varnish.

Bookbinder's varnish is made of eight parts gum shellac, three parts gum benzoin and two parts of gum mastic. These are pulverized and placed in fifty parts of denatured alcohol and one-half part of oil of lavender.

The English Language.

The English language contains about 600,000 words, but of this total nearly one-half consists of scientific terminology—that is, seldom met, with outside of text books—and of archaic terms. An examination of 100,000 words shows them to comprise 60,000 words of Teutonic origin, 30,000 of Greek or Latin origin, and 10,000 words derived from miscellaneous sources. Milton wrote his "Paradise Lost" with 8,000 words, and Shakespeare got up his plays with 16,000.—New York American.

Stove Coal in Demand.

Stove and chimney sizes of anthracite coal are in the greatest demand and make up over 10 per cent of the total shipments from the mines, according to the United States geological survey. They are especially domestic sizes, and the relatively large proportion they make of the shipments serves as an index to the conditions governing the anthracite trade. Egg coal finds its way principally to the furnaces of residences, and pea coal is used in the same way to some extent, though it is also used for kitchen ranges and some of it goes with the blackwheat and smaller sizes for use as steam coal. The same sizes come directly into competition with bituminous coal and are sometimes used mixed with bituminous coal for generating steam, chiefly in hotels, apartment houses and office buildings.

New Burglar Protection.

Safe blowers will have a new protective device to combat in the near future in the form of a chemical compound, designed to produce blindness. A glass container holding one pound of the gas producing chemicals is suspended between the outer and the inner doors or walls of the safe. When the casing of the safe is blown or drilled the glass receptacle is broken, and when the door is opened the powerful fumes at once render the burglar sightless, and if he fails to find his way out of the room he becomes unconscious for several hours. The flask is held between a number of felt surfaces to prevent accidental breakage when the safe is being closed.

Imports of Salt.

Common salt continues to be imported in considerable quantities, more than 1,000,000 barrels coming to Atlantic ports last year, according to the United States geological survey. The country is not a net importer, however, to supply the entire home demand, as the capacity of its salt mines and works is in excess of the present output. The imports last year were only 32 per cent of the total consumption, whereas in 1910 the percentage was 17.2.

L. J. McCann is on the sick list this week.

In the house committees of the legislature, Hon. H. I. McMillan, representing this district, has been made chairman of the committee on fish and game and second member on industrial school for girls and municipal corporations committees.

Miss Anna Kenning leaves the latter part of the week for Saginaw, where she will spend a few days with her mother, later going to Chicago, where she has accepted a position in D. B. Fiske's millinery house. She will return to the city to again open her shop in March.

Reynolds and Otto and Will Davey of Petoskey, poultry fanciers and exhibitors, lost several fine full-blood chickens while en route to the Western Michigan poultry show at Grand Rapids by having them smothered on the train. Several Harbor Springs parties lost chickens in the same manner.

Judge Mayne is in Detroit, accompanied by his wife, for the remainder of the winter. The Judge is there holding court to help out the Wayne county judges, who are "snowed under." He will return here, however, for the February term of circuit court, returning later to his Detroit work.

Senator Verdier has introduced a bill in the legislature making it a criminal offense to overdraw your bank account. This would be a good sensible law to pass and would put a stop to the man who makes use of his check book when at the time he writes the check he knows very well that he has no money on deposit.

A man at Atwood writes the Ford automobile company and tells them they should feel very much exalted for the reason that the Ford is the only car mentioned in the Bible, and to prove it cites them a passage in Isaiah which says "He went up into heaven on high" and asks what other card but a Ford could do that.

Miss Minnie Raber was delightfully surprised by a number of her friends Tuesday afternoon, the party being in honor of her eleventh birthday. The afternoon was spent in various games after which a six o'clock dinner was served. A very jolly afternoon was spent and the friends departed wishing her many more happy birthdays.

We refer to the automobile by the female pronoun because she is much like a woman in many respects. When she is slicked up and is attractive we all admire her; when she is silent we are pleased with true astonishment, for few are silent; when she acts properly she is charming, yet we often drive her into improper actions by lack of care; when she gets old and loses her style we try to discard her and hunt up a more pleasing one.—Exchange.

Ava Smith Dead.

Word received from Charleston, Washington, states that Ava Smith, a pioneer resident of Eveline township, died at that place January 12th. Mr. Smith left Charlevoix some five years ago for Washington and had since resided there. He was a member of the board of supervisors for many years and held other township offices. Details regarding his death are meager. His remains have been shipped to Charlevoix, but up to the time we go to press have not arrived.

Are You Insured?

Myrtle Young & Son are calling attention to the necessity of fire insurance in a unique manner by a display in their window. Their advertisement on page 4 of this issue also calls one's attention to this in a very forceful manner. Read the advertisement, stop and look at the window and heed their advice.

Wanton War.

What is most astonishing, according to my way of looking at it, is that men should bring each other into such a state; that men who have seen such a sight should not shut down on their knees and swear a passionate oath to make war on war; that if they are princes they do not fling the sword away or if they are in any position of power they do not from that moment devote their whole action in speech or writing, in thought, teaching or bustle to this one end—lay down your arms.—Baroness von Suttner.

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

DUCKS WANTED: White Pekin preferred. R. C. Keith, Phone 111, Charlevoix.

FOR SALE: Black horse, 10 years old, good for work. Peter Knud, Charlevoix, R. F. D. 2.

J. L. CRANE

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

Now in Progress

By far the most successful Sale we have ever given. Do not forget the Special Bargains for next Three Days

THURSDAY 21st

Men's 65c Laundered Shirts, All Sizes

29 cents

Bias Lawn Tape Binding, Per Bolt

2 cents

FRIDAY 22nd

10 Cent Dark Flannelettes, Per Yard

5 cents

15 Cent Velour Flannels, Per Yard

6 cents

SATURDAY 23rd

40 inch $1.50 and $1.25 Crepe de Chine Silks per yard

88c

Hundreds of Other Special Bargains on Sale Every Day

Saturday 23rd Last Day

NOW--HERE IS MY OFFER

I'll Feed your Stock 60 Days at My Risk

I'll Prove My Claims Right on Your own Farm—on Your own Stock

A Wonderful Remedy That Saves Your Stock

Your sheep, hogs, cattle, horses and mules are subject to deadly attacks of worms. These ravenous pests multiply by the millions, starve your stock, keep them poor, weak, and out of condition.

SAL-VET

The Great Worm Destroyer and Conditioner

is a medicated stock salt that will rid every animal on your place of worms quickly and keep them worm free and healthy. No pay till facts. No dosing, no drenching. Just put it where all your stock can get it. They will do for themselves, faster, easier, and not on money-making basis. SAL-VET is not expensive. We carry it in all sizes from 25c to 100c. Come in and get a package today. You will be pleased with the results. We guarantee it.

I'll Stop Your Losses from Worms

I'll Show You How to Make Your Stock Grow Faster—Put on More Flesh on no More Feed

I want every responsible farmer to try SAL-VET 60 days at my risk. If your stock are not doing well, if they do not gain as they should, if you are losing sheep or hogs—if your horses lack energy and ambition—no doubt stomach worms or intestinal worms are sapping their life blood and vitality. If you want to have every animal on your place worm-free, if you want to drive out the deadly pests that are robbing you of your stock profits—let me feed your stock SAL-VET 60 days at my risk.

If it fails to do just what I claim—if it don't rid your stock of the blood-sucking, disease-breeding stomach and intestinal worms, I refund you your money in full. Just tell me how many head of stock you have and I'll send you enough to last your stock 60 days without asking a penny of pay in advance. You take no risk. Begin today to feed SAL-VET; improve your stock; get better profits.

How to Estimate Quantity Required for 60 Days' Use

- Allow one pound SAL-VET to each sheep or lamb, for 60 days' use.
- Allow one pound SAL-VET to each head of swine, for 60 days' use.
- Allow four pounds SAL-VET to each head of cattle, for 60 days' use.
- Allow four pounds SAL-VET to each horse, for 60 days' use.

While I give the estimated amount of consumption for a period of sixty days only as a basis of your requirements, this must not be understood as meaning that I recommend the use of SAL-VET for this limited period only. The best and most satisfactory results are obtained by keeping SAL-VET before the stock the year 'round.

BENJ. BROWN

SOLE AGENT FOR CHARLEVOIX

POINTS THAT SHOW QUALITY IN CATTLE

In judging fat steers of the beef breeds, either grades or pure breeds, the one selected to head the line should be that animal which is capable of converting a given amount of food into the largest number of pounds of the best quality of beef—in other words, the one which represents the largest profit to the farmer, says the Iowa Homestead.

According to Professor H. B. Smith, this means good size for age, outward indications of thrift and gaining capacity, such as depth of body, fullness of heart girth, etc., early maturing and rapid fattening qualities usually associated with the low set, blocky build and wide, short head, and finally an animal which when slaughtered will yield the highest percentage of dressed beef with fat and lean nicely marbled.

Hereford cattle are unequaled as range cattle. They will go farther for a bite to eat or a drink of water than any other breed. While adverse conditions are not to be invited, yet the best of conditions have off years, and when these off years come we want a breed that can maintain itself through a drought. Herefords will find and consume more waste feed on a farm than any of the thin skinned breeds that have to have their feed served to them in warm barns. Herefords will outlast any other cattle.

and a carcass particularly well developed in those parts which command the highest price.

As these cattle—the prime rib, the alfalfa and porthouse steak—come from the back much emphasis is given to width and fullness behind the shoulder, the well sprung ribs, good width of back and low and thick neck of covering over these parts. Next in importance come the wide, level rump and fullness in the thighs which yield the round or plate steaks. Excessive bone, as indicated by coarseness about the head and prominent hips, is not desired. Neither is it desirable to have with that high condition of flesh so much sought in beef cattle great lumps and rolls of fat just underneath the skin which necessarily mean a loss to the butcher.

Professor Smith says in judging breeding cattle of any of the beef breeds the same inherent faulting tendency and the same meat carrying capacity must be seen, for there is a law in animal breeding called "like begets like." But, while breeding cattle of the beef breeds must show their product and reveal to the touch its character, a condition of flesh so high as to impair reproduction is not to be encouraged. Offspring is expected from them regularly, and there must be indications in both sexes of a capacity to reproduce true to type.

While the same general form as described for the fat steer is sought in breeding cattle of the beef breeds, there must be with that form certain strong indications of breeding ability. This is shown in the sire by the wide, masculine head; the short, thick neck, with the well developed crest and moderately large forequarter. In the dam there is a rounded effeminate neck, retracted by refinement of head, neck, closely knit shoulder and somewhat smaller bone throughout. In judging the different breeds some attention is also given to what is known as breed character.

These, according to this scientist, are some of the principal qualities to be observed in cattle beef cattle as they appear in the show ring.

FARM WORK HORSES:

A Little Care Will Help Greatly in Keeping Them in Condition.

Summer is the hardest season on the farm horse. By July you can see the horses that are tied at the hitch racks around the public square or along the side streets on a Saturday afternoon, writes a correspondent of the Farm Progress. Their hair looks bad; there are marks on their backs and shoulders, and the hair is gone where the tugs have rubbed during the plowing.

Many of them are thin and bony, and their manes and tails look as though they had never known a comb or a brush. At the same time you notice these evidences of hard work and lack of care; you will see other horses that have been worked just as hard that are in good working condition and spirits.

An irritable nervous, high strung man will worry a team that in a few weeks I used to plow across the fence from one of these fine old individuals with a keen, high pitched voice. This condition and setting actually worried his mind from the fact that he would be working but a few rods apart. You could hear him for a mile squalling and beating them. His mind would be thin and weary looking by the time he got

I believe that the general purpose horse is the most satisfactory grade of horse for general use on the farm. For this reason I rate Percherons and have found them a very good all around horse, writes an Iowa farmer. I begin to break my colts when they are three years old or a little more, always putting them alongside of a steady horse. I give my work horses hay, and oats with a little corn and let brood mares and colts run outside all day even during the coldest weather in winter. When the colts are six months old I wean them, giving them a ration of hay and oats. In raising horses I have found that the most profitable returns are received from only the best grades of colts and aim to raise nothing but good horses. The horse pictured is a Percheron grade.

hla crop in, and a mule cares about as little for that sort of a thing as any animal you could name.

Jerking the blue, pulling the animals back suddenly upon their haunches, swinging them sharply around at the end of the row and slapping them constantly with the heavy lines will irritate and worry a team far more than an occasional tap with a whiplash.

Hammering their legs with the back of a currycomb and brush while grooming them, beating them around in the stalls to make them "stand over" and "showing them over in the stall" by "unloading" them with the knee will worry them down. Slapping the harness on as roughly as though you were throwing it on a wooden horse is another trick that will not make a horse comfortable.

Sheep Management.

If the flockowner does not dip his flock to free them from ticks or lice he is wasting time and feed without getting profit. When he does not try to avoid parasites in the flock, does not change them to new pasture occasionally and allows them to drink from old stagnant water pools, he will be forced to learn through loss that he is not doing the right thing. In many cases such loss is attributed to "bad luck," when in reality it is nothing but mismanagement. The proper management of sheep needs to be learned like any other business.

Save the Good Heifers.

One of the greatest mistakes we have made in the past years is not raising our good-bred heifer calves. Now the demand for good cows is greater than the supply. When well bred grade two-year-old heifers sell for $75 to $100 it would seem we could market some of our surplus feed to good advantage through this channel. Instead of sending so many thousand dollars to other states each year and buying something they want to get rid of—J. P. Manson Illinois.

Alkali Sickness a Myth.

Sick cattle in the plains states are often said to be "alkali"—that is, injured by the alkali in the water. The South Dakota Agricultural college kept cows for two years and a half on water from a well so strong in alkali that its owner dared not use it for his stock. It did not affect their milk or condition, and when killed their vital organs were healthy. Some thing else must cause the trouble called "alkali sickness," except where cattle drink from pools made abnormally strong by evaporation.—Farm and Fireside.

Worms in Sheep.

Intestinal worms in sheep come from pasturing grass that has been used by sheep for years and especially such land that lies along a river or pond or that is low and wet. Gasoline is the remedy. The dose is a tablespoonful in four or six ounces of new milk, repeating the dose several times at intervals of two or three days. Lambs take less in proportion. Gross feeding is imperative.

COLD ICE CREAM.

The More Fat in the Cream the Longer the Cold Taste Lasts.

An odd application of a very abstract principle of physics is to control at will the cold taste of ice cream. It is an ice cream manufacturer wishes to have his ice cream taste cold a long time he can do so by unking simple changes in the cream mixture he freezes, the actual temperature of the frozen cream having little to do with it. The scheme has been worked out by chemists of the Iowa State college.

The scientific principle is that of specific heats. The specific heat of an article is the intensity of heat needed to raise its temperature a given number of degrees or, in effect, the rapidity with which the article absorbs heat. Water is taken as the standard and scientists know the specific heat of most substances compared with water. These chemists carefully worked out the specific heat of milk, cream and various other dairy products, discovering that pure cream has a low specific heat and that dairy substances do not take heat so quickly and retain it longer.

This explains why sherbets and other ices taste so cold when they first reach the mouth, but do not give the cold taste long. They have a high specific heat and quickly take up heat from the mouth, then melt.

With ice cream the more fat there is in the formula the lower the specific heat. Accordingly a very fat cream will not taste disagreeably cold at first but a spoonful of ice cream in the mouth will maintain its cold taste longer. Thus the cold taste can be controlled by the amount of fat used.—Saturday Evening Post.

HINDU EGG DANCE.

Curious and Difficult Feat Performed by Girl Jugglers.

Of the many wonderful feats performed by Hindu jugglers one of the most remarkable is the egg dance. Usually it is executed by a girl fan-tastically dressed. She makes use of a willow wheel, around which at equal distances are threads, and at the end of each thread there is a noose held open by a hand.

This wheel the girl places on her head, while she carries a basket of eggs on her arm. When the music strikes up she begins to dance, and the wheel begins to spin around. She then takes an egg from the basket, places it in one of the thread nooses and throws it from her with sufficient force to draw the knot tight. The spinning of the wheel keeps the thread stretched with the egg at the end of it.

She then takes another egg from the basket, places it in another noose and repeats this until there is an egg in every noose. Her fantastic costume, her perfect motion and all the eggs swinging on stretched threads at once present a curious sight.

It requires much art to execute the dance, for one false step would cause the eggs to be dashed together and the dancer to be disgraced.

After dancing for some time with it, the eggs swinging round her head she takes them out of the noose one by one, all the time keeping the wheel balanced and in motion and again places them in the basket on her arm.

After the performance the spectators are allowed to examine the eggs to see that they are real. London Ideas.

Historic Clontarf.

Clontarf is one of the most historic spots in Ireland. It was there that on Good Friday, April 23, 1014, Brian Boru and the men of Munster (Connacht) and Meath fought the battle.

Brian was killed in his tent; Sigurd, earl of Orkney and Cathness, perished, and 1,500 Irishmen and 13,000 Danes are said to have fallen. Victory remained with the Irish, but the Danes resented the result. In modern times O'Connell's monster meetings for repeal were to have culminated at Clontarf, but the meeting was prohibited by the government, and O'Connell was put upon his trial for conspiracy and convicted, though the verdict was eventually reversed by the house of lords.—London Chronicle.

Wouldn't Hear the Game.

An exceptionally rabid golfer was vainly endeavoring to move a ball with his driver. Planning in his efforts, he espied watching him, a small bird holding in the hand a still smaller toy immediately motions of bying golf balls dashed across his mind. "You ought not to trust your little brother here," he cautioned the bird. "Oh, it's all right, sir," came the reply. "He's stone-deaf!" Exchange.

Handy Fire Killer.

A solution of soda water is an excellent fire extinguisher, as the carbonic acid gas in the soda water helps to smother the flames. The solution can be filled and the fluid will carry to a considerable height, such as the top of a blazing curtain.

Safely Over It.

"Yes, I have a nice little home in the suburbs." "Have chickens in your yard?" "No, I passed that stage two years ago."—Pittsburgh Post.

IN THE DAIRY.

During the summer the cows enjoy the cool nights. If a good pasture lot near the barn can be provided for them time will be saved in the morning, and the cows will do better.

Not one cow born in a hundred has enough windows. Sunshine is amply provided by nature, and it's a shame to shut it out of the stable.

The watering tank should be well covered, except where the stock are allowed to drink. It keeps the water cleaner and cooler.

It's a mistake to try to make a profitable animal out of a rusty wrench.

"Skim milk" is such a valuable feed that the separator is a necessity on every dairy farm.

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the souls that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have stocked with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise, because they have not read our book (224 pages—cloth) telling that just such conditions would exist only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1912.

Of water interest and importance is the promise of better things in store for the earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents a stamp with this coupon to cover postage to The Temple, No. 26 W. 2nd St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

HEAT VALUE OF A CORD OF WOOD

According to Calculations of Forest Service Experts.

Hickory Has the Highest Heat Value of All Woods—Oak Next.

The fuel value of two pounds of wood is roughly equivalent to that of one pound of coal. This is given as the result of certain calculations now being made in the forest service laboratory, which show also about how many cords of certain kinds of wood are required to obtain an amount of heat equal to that in a ton of coal.

Certain kinds of wood—such as birch, hickory, oak, beech, hard maple, locust, ash, elm, longleaf pine and cherry—have fairly high heat values and only one cord of seasoned wood of these species is required to equal one ton of good coal.

It takes a cord and a half of shortleaf pine, hemlock, red gum, Douglas fir, sycamore and soft maple to equal a ton of coal, and two cords of cedar, poplar, redwood, catalpa, Norway pine, spruce, cypress, basswood and white pine.

Equal weights of dry, nonresinous woods, however, are said to have practically the same heat value regardless of species, and as a consequence it can be stated as a general proposition that the heavier the wood the more heat to the cord. Weight for weight, however, there is a very little difference between various species. The average heat for all that have been calculated is 4,600 calories, or heat units, per kilogram. A kilogram of resin will develop 9,400 heat units, or about twice the average for wood. As a consequence, resinous woods have a greater heat value per pound than nonresinous woods, and this increased value varies, of course, with the resin content.

The available heat value of a cord of wood depends on many different factors. It has a relation not only to the amount of resin it contains, but to the amount of moisture present. Furthermore, cords vary as to the amount of solid wood they contain, even when they are of the standard dimension and occupy 128 cubic feet of space. A certain proportion of this space is made up of air spaces between the sticks, and this air space may be considerable in a cord

FLORIDA
TRAVEL ON THE MAGNIFICENT TRAINS OF THE
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R. R.
SOUTH ATLANTIC LIMITED
Solid Through Electric Lighted Train Cincinnati to Jacksonville
OBSERVATION SLEEPING CAR from Cincinnati
Drawing Room Sleeping Cars from Cincinnati and Louisville
DIXIE FLYER Solid through electric train Chicago to Jacksonville, carrying Coaches, Drawing room compartment and sleeper with sleepers Long limit Winter Tourist Tickets on sale daily. Short limit (four-seekers) Tickets on sale first and third Tuesday of each month. Write for further particulars of illustrated folders of Florida or the beautiful Gulf Coast to made of twisted, crooked and knotty sticks. Out of the 128 cubic feet a fair average of solid wood is about 80 cubic feet.
F. E. WEISS, T. P. A., 1025 Majestic Building, DETROIT, MICH.

It is pointed out, however, that heat value is not the only test of usefulness in fuel wood and—since 95 per cent. of all wood used for fuel is consumed for domestic purposes, largely in farm houses—such factors as rapidity of burning and ease of lighting are important. Each section of the country has its favored woods and these are said to be, in general, the right ones to use.

Hickory, of the nonresinous woods, has the highest fuel value per unit volume of wood and has other advantages. It burns evenly and, as housewives say, holds the heat. The oaks come next, followed by beech, birch and maple. Pine has a relatively low heat value per unit volume, but has other advantages. It ignites readily and gives out a quick, hot flame, but one that soon dies down. This makes it a favorite with rural housekeepers as a summer wood because it is particularly adapted for hot days in the kitchen.

The fuel qualities of chestnut adapt it particularly to work in brass foundries, where it gives just the required amount of heat, and it is therefore in favor. Coastwise vessels in Florida pay twice as much for Florida buttonwood as for any other, because it burns with an even heat and with a minimum amount of smoke and ash.

The principal disadvantage of the resinous pines is their oily black smoke.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD
FINE FALL SALADS.
DINNER MENU
Cream of Soup
Little Stuffed Steaks
Baked Potatoes
Fried Onions
Beef and Celery Salad
Sweet Pudding
Wafers
Cheese
Coffee

WITH the materials at hand in the fall many appetizers in the way of salads may be devised to give piquancy to the dinner, whether it be the everyday meal or the Thanksgiving feast, for which at this season most housekeepers are planning.

With a Novel Dressing.

Beet and Celery Salad.—Boil, skin and chop fine three bunches of beets with two bunches of celery. Make a dressing of a tablespoonful of oil, a little salt and pepper, butter the size of a hickory nut, yolk of two eggs, a tablespoonful of cream, a teaspoonful of mustard. Beat well in half a pint of vinegar when hot; cook two minutes. When cold add to beets and celery.

With French Dressing.

Mixed Vegetable Salad. First rub the salad bowl with a bit of clove of garlic, then pour in four tablespoonfuls of olive oil to one of vinegar and stir thoroughly with a silver fork. Next put in any vegetables you have in the house. You cannot have too many, but two will do. Sliced cucumbers, tomatoes, onions, asparagus tips, parsley, peppergrass—all these are good and will blend harmoniously with the dressing. When you mix the vegetables sprinkle with pepper and salt and celery salt. Edge the dish with lettuce leaves.

Canned Asparagus Used.

Asparagus Salad. This may be made with cooked canned asparagus drained and chilled. When ready to serve arrange on heart leaves of lettuce, about three or four stalks of asparagus three inches in length for each service. Cover with a French or champagne dressing made to suit the taste of the family. A good proportion for a French dressing that suits most people is half a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of white pepper or paprika, four tablespoonfuls of olive oil and a teaspoonful of vinegar or lemon juice. Mix well and dress the salad. If used for a dinner salad it may be made at the table, the easiest way being to shake it to as combination in a bottle.

Wife—I thought you had more sense than to buy a cornet. You know the man next door worries us nearly to death with his. Husband—Calm yourself, my dear. That's the one I bought. —New York Journal.

'ZUDORA'

BY HAROLD McGRATH

Famous Thanouser Serial Photoplay
WILL BE RUN IN THIS PAPER BEGINNING
Wednesday, February 3

IN CONNECTION WITH MOTION PICTURES AT
MAJESTIC THEATRE
Beginning on Friday, February 5th

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COURIER
Now and read the story each issue

Then See the Motion Pictures Friday of each week. You'll see what you Read

...An Opportunity You Have Never Had Before...

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE COURIER—READ THE STORY
GO TO THE MAJESTIC—SEE THE PICTURES

Greatest Mystery Story Ever Written

STORY WEDNESDAYS—MOTION PICTURES FRIDAYS

IN THE COURIER AT THE MAJESTIC

ALCOHOL AND THE MAN.

Why should the sale and manufacture of alcoholic liquor be prohibited in our own country and in all the countries of the world? The answer, says Dr. Carolyn Gelsel, in her lecture on "Alcohol and the Man Himself," is found in the brain and body of man. She shows a chart containing the photographs of two brain cells—one from the brain of a normal man who had worked all his life for the good of humanity and bequeathed his body after death to the dissecting table; the other from the brain of an alcoholic, a victim of the liquor traffic, who had gone to Paris and died in disgrace, and whose body was taken to the clinic, where the bodies of criminals, paupers and defectives are used for dissection. The picture of the two brain cells shows the normal with its multitude of fine fibers, all elastic for the life vibrations like a beautiful plume of feathers, and the abnormal, a mere skeleton of what it once was, distorted, stunted and thickened, all the finest elements gone and what is left too stiff to feel except dimly eoy call of the living spirit.

Why doesn't a man stop drinking when he knows it is injuring him? This is answered by a chart containing a picture of one of the nerve centers of the brain. It, too, is feathery in general form and all its fronds are in curving or bending lines, as if waving or moving, except one. That is a short little straight line coming direct from the nerve center in a lateral direction. It is the inhibitory nerve—the one that says "no." All the others are nerves of action, of impulse; this alone is the curb, the check, the brake. Alcohol attacks this nerve, softens, weakens and destroys it. In the brain of an alcoholic it is absolutely gone; how can the man say "no"? The will power which he had in his normal state is poisoned and wounded, and it herds him until it dies. He is utterly dependent on outside control for safety.

THE BATTLE IS THE LORD'S.

"The war has given the greatest blow to the drink traffic the world has ever known. While empires are tottering, statesmen and people are beginning to realize the dangers of alcohol, and all nations are recommending total abstinence to their soldiers," says Miss Agnes E. Slack of England, honorary secretary of the World's W. C. T. U. As one magazine writer well puts it: "That some of the cruel consequences of war should be unexpectedly offset by a great social and economic reform is one of the ironies of circumstances."

The stars in their courses are fighting for the destruction of the liquor traffic.

PUT AWAY THE GINNLS.

This is the way the "Line-O-Type" or "Two" column of the Chicago Tribune sizes up the situation:

"If one is charitably disposed—as most of us are—he had better keep away from the poor parts of the city, and meditate at long range on the misery of the submerged fraction. Nothing more quickly dries the springs of sympathy than the sight of a struggle of ginnls doing a thriving business. Here, swarms the heads of families to flag away their wages, and no one asked to commiserate and support their wretched progeny."

TAXPAYERS BEGINNING TO SEE.

The liquor traffic costs more each year than our whole civil service, our army, navy and congress; the river, harbor and pension bills; all we pay for local government; all national, state and county debts; and all the schools in the country. In fact, this government pays more for liquor than for every kind of government.—William M. Mitchell, president Kansas W. C. T. U.

MOST VALUABLE ASSET.

The most valuable asset of any state and nation is its people. The wisest financiering is that which will save the people from drunkenness, poverty and crime and all the natural products of the liquor traffic. A state or nation can make no mistake even from a monetary standpoint in dissociating itself from such a business.—Lillian M. N. Stevens.

TROUBLES EXAGGERATED.

The liquor journals would have us believe that West Virginia's "dry" month's experience with the new temperance law has been a sad and disheartening one because, they say, the state is full of "blind tigers" and "liquor hiders." Well, so is Illinois and Ohio and New York and all the other "wet" states.

RAPS JOHN BARLEYCORN.

Notice has been posted at the Joliet works of the Illinois Steel company, discouraging the use of liquor. Any employee using liquor while on duty will be discharged, and in making promotions only those who do not drink will receive consideration.

CIVILIAN ALSO COULD BENEFIT.

If the soldier must give up alcohol because it interferes with his efficiency, why should not the civilian promote his efficiency by giving it up?—William Jennings Bryan.

Subscribe for the Courier.

SAFETY FROM FIRE.

Salem Conflagration Shows Dangers of Inflammable Roofs.

The Salem conflagration is another striking example of the destruction which so often follows the breaking out of a fire among buildings constructed and roofed with inflammable material, says Safety Engineering.

The fire started in the midst of a factory district where the buildings were of wood. These buildings almost instantly burst into flames, which ate their way within a few hours to the center of the business district. At the same time another section of the city a mile away was set in flames by embers carried by the wind falling upon wooden shingle roofs.

Paterson, N. J., in 1902 had a similar disastrous fire experience. Here again it was the readily ignited material used in the construction of the buildings, and especially the roofs, which aided the rapid spread of the flames. The only barriers to the fire were brick walls laid in portland cement.

After this experience the city of Paterson passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of wooden shingles or inflammable roof coverings within the city limits. Since that time in Paterson and suburbs more than 2,000 roofs have been covered with asbestos shingles and asbestos ready roofing. The efficiency of asbestos roofing as a fire stop is illustrated by the fact that in the Salem fire sparks and burning embers were literally showered upon the roof of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton company's storehouse, yet this building was absolutely unharmed because protected by an asbestos roofing, while other buildings all around it were burned to the ground. It is surprising how few cities realize the ever present danger from fire so long as wood shingles and other inflammable roofings are permitted in thickly settled districts. Fireproof construction, especially fireproof roofing, is a precaution which no city having due regard for the value of life and property should neglect.

SAFETY FIRST IDEA.

Automatic Warning Sign at Entrance to Automobile Garage.

An interesting bit of "safety first" work has been put in practice by the proprietor of a garage in Louisville, Ky., whose example might well be followed in other places.

Motor vehicles leaving this garage are obliged to cross the sidewalk of a busy street along which pedestrians are passing all hours of the day and night, and as a warning a lamp has been installed in front of the exit in a large globe, on each side of which the word "Danger" is painted in large letters.

This lamp is lighted from sunset to sunrise and in itself forms an effective cautionary signal. It is, however, supplemented by a loud ringing gong, which is automatically operated whenever a vehicle approaches the exit door, a steel plate being so placed that it automatically closes the contact with a coiled spring and rings the bell whenever the wheels pass over it. It has been suggested that all city authorities would do well to enforce the installation of such a device at the entrance of every garage located on busy thoroughfares.

Action of Soot on Metals.

The savings possible in large cities through smoke abatement are illustrated by a series of comparisons of the life of metal work in Pittsburgh as against that in smoke free places. Acid chemicals contained in soot eat away metals. Through statistics it is shown that the life of exposed metals in the Steel City is approximately only half what it is in many places elsewhere. Galvanized sheet iron has a life of from three to six years at Pittsburgh, while in Washington it will last from seven to fourteen years. "Pinned" sheet iron will live from thirteen to fifteen years in the Pennsylvania city, and from sixteen to twenty-eight years where it is free from smoke. Copper will last only from ten to twenty years in Pittsburgh smoke, though it is almost imperishable elsewhere. Metals protected by paint are in a somewhat less degree subjected to the same danger.

Cleaning Carbon Commutator Brushes.

A very easy method to clean carbon commutator brushes is to insert a piece of sandpaper between the brush and the commutator with the abrasive side to the brush. Draw the paper back and forth until all the dirt is removed. It is not necessary to remove the brushes from their position, and the paper takes the curve of the commutator. After cleaning the brush be sure to remove all grit from the brush end and the commutator bars to prevent scoring.

Relieving Jar of Hammer Handle.

When using a small hammer on light work it often happens that the handle vibrates and causes a very unpleasant feeling in the hand. To remedy this bore a three-eighths inch hole about two inches deep in the large end of the handle and fill it tightly with beeswax. The long handles in large sledges can be treated in the same manner, but the hole should be larger and deeper and completely filled with the wax.

Tough Luck.

"Awful accident up at Hardbuck's, wasn't it?"
"What was it?"
"A plumber was fixing some tanks when he was splattered by the gas, and he didn't get over consciousness for a long time."
"I should say it was awful. What a old Hardbuck and get!"—New York World.

GIDEON'S BRAVE BAND OF THREE HUNDRED

Judges 7:1-8, 16-23—Jan. 24.

A Little Army Too Large—"Thine Be the Glory"—Cowards Off For Home. Cowards Spring—Still Too Many. Why the Lappers Were Chosen—"Do as I Do"—Pitcher, Lamp, Trumpet. Jehovah and Gideon—The Victory. The Incident a Parable—Its Meaning.

"Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith Jehovah of Hosts."—Zeck. 4:6

OUR last study showed us Gideon, encouraged by the Lord's promise of victory, sending messengers to the various tribes in Israel. Today's study shows us the resultant army of 32,000 men with Gideon at the foot of Mount Gilboa, at Harod, Spring—a little lake draining off to the Jordan. Across the lake were the Midianites, numbering about 135,000. An invading host, they had long been pillaging the Israelites unmercifully; but now, learning that Gideon's army was gathering, they assembled to crush it.

Although Gideon's army numbered but one to four of the enemy, yet the Lord directed him that it was too large, and that there would be danger that the victory might not be appreciated as from the Lord, but be thought to indicate the dexterity of Israel's warriors. Accordingly, by Divine direction, Gideon told his army of 32,000 that whoever was fearful and preferred to return home might do so. The name of the spring, Harod, signifies coward; it has been assumed that it was given because of the 22,000 who went home.

But the Lord said, There are yet too many. Cause the host to go down to the spring to drink; and discern between those who kneel and put their mouths into the water, and those who lap from their hands as a dog.

There were 300 of this latter class, and these the Lord declared to be the proper ones to win the victory. The remaining 9,700, however, would later on join them in the pursuit. This act of lapping water seems to signify alertness and obedience. An ox drinks by putting his mouth into the water, and when thirsty gives his entire attention to the sucking of the water, ignoring his master's commands and even the red on his flank. But the dog, while lapping the water, is all alert, watching in every direction and ready to quit the water at once in obedience to duty.

The Victory at Armageddon.

In olden times armies evidently did not keep so strict a watch as do modern armies. In the darkness of night Gideon and a trusted companion penetrated amongst the tents of the Midianites. Listening, they heard one relate his dream of how a barley loaf rolled down a hill and did havoc. Another offered the interpretation that this was Gideon and his small army, which was likely to be their undoing. The incident shows that the Midianites were apprehensive Gideon's faith was strengthened by this little experience which the Lord permitted.

About midnight was the time appointed for Gideon's attack. The Three Hundred were divided into three companies, and spread out over considerable space near the Midianites. In addition to their usual armor, each man had in his left hand an earthenware pitcher containing a lamp and in his right a man's horn trumpet. Their instructions were that those immediately with Gideon should do as he did; and that the others, hearing, should imitate, breaking their pitchers, shouting "Jehovah and Gideon," and blowing the man's horns.

Waking out of sleep, the Midianites beholding the flashing lights, hearing the clash like the sound of armor, hearing the shouts and the trumpets, imagined themselves surrounded by a great host, and fled. They fought each other, obstructing each other for foes Gideon and his Three Hundred, assisted by the remaining 9,700, pursued and were soon in the light. The victory was a great one. The Lord was recognized as the Deliverer; and Gideon His servant, was honored accordingly.

Gideon's call resembles the Gospel Call for volunteers on the side of right against wrong, truth against error. Many in the world respond, purposing to become soldiers of Christ, but before they are fully accepted, Jesus calls. Sit down and count the cost. The sight of the enemy, the fear of death, cause them to turn back. These cowards will not share in the victory.

Then comes the class of the Lord's people, like the faithful dog, put obedience to the Master's will first. An other class heed less His voice, and even the rod; and being less alert to His service, they are less used of Him. Compared to the world, the most alert ones are very few. These are the ones willing to break the earthen vessel—to use their present earthly lives in the Lord's service; that the Cause of Truth may have a victory.

Boundless are the thrice when the great victory, antitype of Gideon's, will be accomplished when the hosts of sin will fall upon one another for their unbelief in Christ. The present war is the beginning of it.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

The Selecting of Gideon's Band.

MICHIGAN'S GREATEST DAILY $1.00 Per Year

The most wonderful offer we have been able to make to our readers. Think of it—The Detroit Tribune 6 days a week, for $1.00 a year. We make this offer to you: The Detroit Tribune for $1.00 per year to all new subscribers to the Charlevoix Courier, or to any regular subscriber to the Courier who pays up all arrearages. This rate is good on R. F. D. Routes only. It's a special offer to Farmers to have a daily at an extremely low price. The offer will be given for a short time only, so we advise you to send in your subscription at once.

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

EIGHT SPECIAL CLUBBING RATES

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer	1.00
Home Life	.25
	$3.25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Up-to-Date Farming	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
The Gentlewoman	.20
	$2.70

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Today's Magazine	.50
Woman's World	.35
Home Life	.25
1 May Manton Pattern	$2.60

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
Woman's World	.35
	$2.85

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
	$3.50

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$4.00

All 1 yr for $3.25

GRAB THESE BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Detroit Tribune, daily	4.00
	$5.50

All 1-yr for $2.50

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Detroit Tribune	4.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$6.00

All 1 yr for $2.75

(Above Rates Good Until February 28 and on R. F. D. Routes Only)

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 percent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Grange Column

Ironton Grange.

Ironton Grange, No. 707, held its regular meeting January 12 with Brother W. F. Johnston, master, in the chair. The following officers were installed by Brother Jas. Willis of Barnard Grange: Worthy Master—Grant Hammond. Overseer—Ola Lyngklip. Lecturer—W. F. Johnston. Steward—Nels Lyngklip. Asst. Steward—Jerry Saunders. Chaplain—Julia Williams. Treasurer—Frank Hammond. Secretary—Clara Nowland. Gatekeeper—John Nasson. Ceres—Mrs. Lillian Saunders. Pomona—Mrs. W. F. Johnston. Flora—Mrs. Mary Hammond. L. A. Steward—Loise Saunders. Lecturer's hour consisted of talks by Brother Chew, Sister Black, Brother Usher and Brother Smith. A report of the State Grange was given by Brother James Willis.

Instruction in the secret work was given by Brother E. E. Stroud. A rising vote of thanks was given to Bros. Willis and Stroud. Thirty-four members and 29 visitors were present. Receipts of the evening were $6.10. Bills were $2.10. Grange closed in due form.

Pipe Lake Grange.

One of the big meetings in the history of Pipe Lake Grange was held Saturday evening, January 9th, at their hall on Charlevoix street, Boyne City. Four new candidates were admitted into the mysteries of the grange.

There were 35 visitors present from Deer Lake and Harmony granges and this with a regular membership attendance of 36 made the little hall look almost too small to accommodate everyone.

After the transaction of the regular business the grange was turned over to the lecturer, Amelia Kaden, who had prepared a very fine program for the evening, among which was "H. A. Arnold's recitation," which was rendered as only he can.

Among the visitors who took part in the program were Miss Corkendall and Mr. Willson of Harmony Grange in a pretty little sketch. Mr. Newville, also of Harmony Grange, gave a recitation, while Mr. Barber of Deer Lake gave a reading.

During the penny drill Overseer Gardner's watch mysteriously disappeared, but it later turned up in the collection box with the rest of the junk. Worthy Master McNeal tried hard to locate the culprit, but there seemed to be a difference of opinion as to whether the watch was given to help along the cause or whether it was put in the box to get rid of it entirely.

One of the big features of the evening was the harvest feast, which was an unbounded success, or rather it was intended to be, but Harry Arnold again sprang into the limelight and tried to eat all the cake in sight. Be it known here that Harry is not a married man and should any young lady see fit to make a try for him the secret will be in baking many kinds of dainty foods, a capacity for which he has no limit. In fact it was hinted about where he sat that he must have brought along a potato sack to store some for future consumption. Howbeit, any girl who can bake cake can be a candidate on Harry's list of eligibles.

Pine Lake Grange has the distinction of being the only grange in the county which has a full regalia. This was made possible through the good offices of the ladies of the grange, who manufactured the entire outfit themselves.

Cut rate prices on all magazines to Courier readers. See adv. on page 7.

Harmony Grange.

The last meeting of Harmony grange January, 16th, was filled full of business, pleasure and information.

Four candidates were balloted on elected, and given the 1st and 2nd degrees.

The new officers, who were all pre-acted, two, were installed by L. D. Willson assisted by J. A. Newville and O. D. Willson.

A very pleasing program was rendered, among the leading features of which was a very practical talk on the best method of testing seed corn by brother H. J. Wheeler, and the report of the State grange meeting given by L. D. Willson, delegate from Charlevoix County Pomona Grange.

At the next meeting February 6th, a special program will be prepared and candidates initiated in the 3rd and 4th degrees, ending with the Harvest Feast. Visitors from other granges are expected.

Peninsular Grange.

Regular meeting January 14th with Worthy Master Heller in charge and twenty-seven members present. Two brothers received the third and fourth degrees. Lecture hour was duly observed. At the next meeting during lecture hour there will be a debate on the subject "Shall the Bible be Taught in the Public Schools?" It was decided to hold a joint installation with Pine Lake Grange at 1 p. m. January 23rd. Next regular meeting January 28th at 2 p. m. Visitors always welcome.

Additional Locals

E. N. Clink of East Jordan, was a Charlevoix visitor Tuesday.

Mrs. Adolphus Young is seriously ill at her home on Dixon avenue.

Henry Partridge made a business trip to Bellaire, spending the day there.

W. F. Bashow of East Jordan, was a business visitor in the city Monday.

J. E. Converse of Bay City, spent Tuesday in the city as a business visitor.

Thomas Hunt of Kalamazoo, was a business visitor in the city Wednesday.

Will Vandermade of Traverse City, was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Mrs. George Priest returned home Saturday after spending the week in Petoskey.

Miss Merle Felts is spending the week in Petoskey, as a guest of Mrs. James King.

Mrs. Leon Miller of Petoskey, spent Monday in the city as a guest at the home of W. H. Miller.

Clarence Wood made a business trip to Petoskey Monday morning, returning the same afternoon.

The Wood Brothers have been awarded the contract for the new wiring and fixtures for the Beach Hotel.

Miss Nita Mayne returned home last week from Chicago, where she has been employed with a lyceum bureau.

Glenn Dolberg left Thursday for Minneapolis and Chicago to visit his sisters and other relatives in southern Michigan.

Miss Jessie Shapton returned home Tuesday morning, after spending her two week vacation with friends and relatives in Greenville.

Miss Margaret Ryan has accepted a position as clerk in A. Bergeon's store, filling the place recently held by Mrs. Frank Kephart, nee Miss Mildred Fanning.

Mrs. C. L. Harris of Eastport, returned home Saturday, after spending a week in the city as a guest at the home of her brother-in-law, F. M. Harris.

The "Jolly Ten" surprised Mrs. Newberry last Friday afternoon, and they had a jolly good time. A banquet at six o'clock was one of the most pleasing features.

R. W. Kane went to Petoskey Friday for the purpose of meeting his sister, Mrs. Maggie E. Mosher of Dillon, Montana, who will spend a few weeks at his home.

Fifty friends of Lee Scroggie surprised him at the home of his parents, Wednesday evening. The evening was spent in card playing, after which light refreshments were served.

Charles Howard has been appointed deputy sheriff and turnkey by Sheriff Charles Novak, owing to the resignation of Fred Coon. Mr. Howard took possession on Friday of last week.

While waiting at the station for the afternoon train, the horse driven by Miss Sue Atchison of Petoskey, became frightened and ran for some distance until stopped by an approaching drayman. It is thought no one was seriously hurt.

Mrs. William Lynn, who lives near East Jordan, was operated upon for appendicitis last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. M. Clark, on State street, by Dr. R. B. Armstrong, assisted by Dr. Nichols of Bellaire. Mrs. Lynn is reported as doing nicely.

Y. M. C. A.

The Junior Y. M. C. A. class held its weekly meeting at the High School Monday evening. The meeting was called to order by president, Howard Major, and the roll was called by the secretary, Chester See.

This business meeting was followed by Bible study, after which we played various games. Following this the neat and attractive Y. M. C. A. monograms were distributed.

Then we listened to a very interesting talk given by Dr. A. M. Wilkinson on, "A Small White Slaver—The Cigarette." After the talk the boys went to their respective homes.

Reporters, Thomas Nowland and Howard Major.

21st Anniversary.

There will be big doings at the I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening, January 26, the occasion being the 21st anniversary of White Rose Lodge, No. 443, L. O. T. M. M. A fine banquet has been prepared, which will be followed by an appropriate program. Invitations have been sent out and every member is urged to be present.

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the condition of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

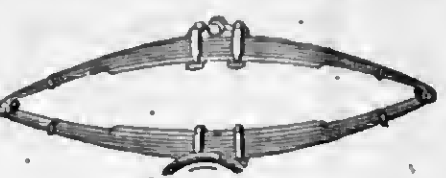

Respectfully submitted,

Pol. Adv. 21f J. H. Midford.

NOVEL SHOCK ABSORBER.

Curved Rigid Bar Prevents Rebound of Spring Beyond Normal.

For preventing the rebound in an automobile, which is always annoying and sometimes results in broken springs when driving over rough roads, a shock absorbing device that is exceedingly simple in its action has recently been brought out, says Popular Mechanics. This device consists of a practically rigid bar shaped to conform to the long leaf of the spring when in its normal position under load and securely clamped in the concave side of the spring by two clamps near the center. When the car passes over an uneven place in the road this bar does not interfere with the resulting flattening of the spring, as the outer portions of the spring simply draw away from the bar, leaving a gradually increasing opening from the center outward. When the rebound begins the spring comes back to a bearing against the bar in a progressive fashion from the center outward, thus preventing any jolt, while any further movement is taken up by a slight bending of the spring beyond the ends of the bar. In this way the rebound is damped and the spring is prevented from bending materially further than is necessary to bring it back to its normal position under the load.

RIGID BAR SHOCK ABSORBER.

A MILE UNDER GROUND.

Result of an Interesting Experiment at a Michigan Mine.

In reference to the deep mine shafts at Calumet some experiments conducted by members of the faculty of the Michigan College of Mines are interesting, says the Engineering Magazine. It had been noticed that in the vertical shafts at the Tamarack mine, if some ore or rock were spilled near the surface, men working in the bottom of the shaft a mile below were not much bothered and sometimes only observed "a little dust." It is stated that a car of broken rock could be dumped into the shaft without injury to a man standing directly underneath a mile down. The reason is that the rock would never reach the bottom but would lodge in the sides of the shaft on the timbers which provide a few inches at intervals; that is, the rock would not fall straight, since these shafts are exactly vertical.

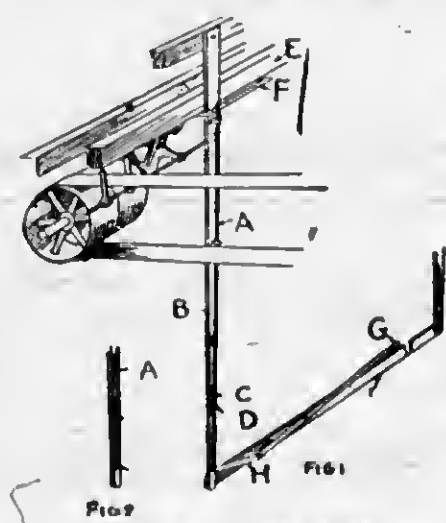

In the experiments conducted two round metal balls were dropped into the center of a shaft by burning threads by which they were suspended, so as to give them no lateral motion. It was tried to catch the balls in a box of clay in the bottom of the shaft; none of them were caught. One ball was never found afterward. The other was found in the east wall of the shaft only a few hundred feet below the surface.

The explanation is that the earth's revolving from west to east, which gave the ball an eastward component in its fall because a particle on the surface of the earth is traveling at a higher rate of speed than one nearer the center, although at the same angular velocity. Thus a ball or rock dropped in the shaft will strike the east wall a few hundred feet from surface, possibly then rebounding several times in its drop until it lodges on a timber or on a level.

SAFETY FOR WORKERS.

Locking Device For Belt Shifter to Prevent Machine Starting.

In the ordinary belt shifter it frequently occurs that the belt will creep from the loose to the tight pulley, thereby endangering the operator, who may be caught and injured in the revolving machinery, says Popular Mechanics. The locking arrangement shown in the sketch effectually prevents any such creeping. It consists of a latch rod, A, Fig. 1, attached to the shifter lever B so as to have a free vertical movement. To this rod is attached a spiral spring, C, which, pressing against the lower-angle bracket D, tends to keep A in one position. To the overhead beam E, F is fastened a U-shaped lock bar, F, with a hole at each end of sufficient size for rod A to pass through freely. Sufficient distance must be allowed between the parallel sides of the U-shaped bar to allow lever B to shift the belt from the loose to the tight pulley.

LOCK FOR SHIFTER LEVER.

The device is operated by pressing down on the lower L-shaped end of the rod A, Fig. 2, thereby disconnecting it from the lock bar F, after which the lever may be shifted as desired and again locked in position by releasing rod A, the spring forcing it to enter the corresponding hole in the lock bar F when hole and rod are in line.

If the device is to be attached to a long lathe or to a machine where the operator could not always stand in reach of the shifter lever B, an arrangement of levers G and H, Fig. 1, can be attached to the horizontal bar I, usually found on long machine belt shifters. By this connection any downward pressure on the long end of lever G will cause a downward pull on rod A, disengaging it from the lock bar F. Releasing G will again cause the latch rod to return to its usual locked position when in line with one of the lock bar holes.

Crossing the Tracks.

People are incredibly careless in regard to crossing railway tracks. A statistical study of accidents states that out of 32,070 cases only 238 persons in vehicles or on foot fully obeyed the "Stop, Look and Listen" sign or waited for the watchmen's signal before crossing the tracks; 8,770 persons looked in one direction, but not the other; 4,480 looked both ways, but neither listened nor stopped. The "safely first" campaign is surely a timely one to the face of such conditions.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

When in need of—

FURNITURE
STOVES AND RANGES
CARPETS AND RUGS
BLANKETS AND COMFORTS

Go to— S. M. See & Sons The Reliable House Furnishers

Do It Now!

See Our Special Clubbing Offers on Page Seven.

EXPLOSION OF PRICES SCATTERS STOCK

Owing to the mild weather and over-crowded shelves our prices have exploded, scattering many of our best seasonable goods on our large Bargain Tables—our present prices being fragments of those formerly offered you. Read the rest.

Beginning Friday, January 22, and Continuing Throughout Month

Exceptional Bargains await your selection—Mail Order Houses can't beat these prices, now, today or any other time. Bargains you won't find everyday nor any where else. Come in and see.

SILKS

Yard wide Silk Poplin, regular $1.00 grade, per yard 50c
Yard wide guaranteed Lining Satins, per yard 75c
Fancy Silks per yard 35c

DRESS GOODS

$1.25, 54-inch Suitings per yard 85c
$2.00, 54-inch Serges per yard $1.25
SPECIAL LOT 50c SERGES per yard 35c

FLANNELETTES

For

Dresses, Kimonos and Dressing Sacques
15c quality Flannelettes per yard 9½c
12½c quality Flannelettes per yard 8c

SILKOLINES—CRETONES

SILKOLINES—plain and fancy colors, per yard 8½c
25c grade Cretones per yard 18c
10c grade Cretones per yard 8c

CURTAIN SCRIMS

25c and 15c Curtain Scrims per yard 10c

SWEATERS

Ladies' $3.50 Sweaters special price $2.00
Children's $2.00 Sweaters special price $1.00

COATS

Ladies' Coats Now is the time to buy at $5.00
Children's Coats Buy now at $3 and $4

UNDERWEAR—Women's

$2.25 all wool Union Suits each $1.65
$1.50 part wool Union Suits $1.19
$1.00 fleeced lined Union Suits Bargains at 75c
50c fleeced lined Union Suits Good value for money 38c
$1.00 all wool Pants and Vests sale price 75c
50c fleeced Pants and Vests sale price 39c
25c fleeced Pants and Vests sale price 19c
Misses' 50c Union Suits sale price 39c

Children's All Wool Garments, 30c Off on each Suit

Children's Outing Flannel Gowns and Sleeping Suits at 35c

BLANKETS

All wool Blankets, $5.00 grade at $3.50
Imperial Blankets, $1.25 grade at 98c
50c and 25c Mufflers Get one at 19c
50c Mittens and Gloves sale price 35c
25c Mittens and Gloves sale price 19c
25c Hoods, the warm kind sale price 19c

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 4

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

HISTORY OF SLEEPING BEAR

Interesting Tale From Pen of John C. Wright of Harbor Springs.

Legend of the Early Days from Which It Derives Its Name—Given Much Publicity.

Within the last few weeks the papers have said considerable about Sleeping Bear Point and the fact that a part of the point consisting of about two acres is some way became undermined by the waves and disappeared in the waters of Lake Michigan. The accident, however, in no way changed the configuration of that part of the point which has given rise to the name "Sleeping Bear."

With most place of interest some story or legend of the early days is given to account for the name, and Sleeping Bear Point is no exception. John C. Wright of Harbor Springs has given much attention to investigating the old legends and bits of early history in this part of the state. A few of these stories appeared recently in the Sunday edition of some of our large city papers.

The following story of Sleeping Bear Point was published in the Grand Rapids Sunday Herald:

From the land of the Illinois word came to the tribes of Michigan that a giant black bear had made its appearance and was killing many people and devastating the country. In vain had the boldest hunters essayed to match their strength and skill with that of the great "muckwah." It was said that he was so large and powerful that he paid no attention whatever to spears or arrows, but knocked over the strongest warriors with a mere slap of his huge paw and devoured men, women and children. All the country was in alarm and fled from their homes to places of safety.

No calamity of equal importance had occurred since the great famine or the days of the flood.

Sogimaw, the most noted hunter of the Ottawas, was prevailed upon to seek the monster and slay him. Sogimaw was gone a fortnight and returned with the word that he had seen Muckwah, but if he were ten times as strong and as big as twenty more men like himself he would still be no match for the bear.

The people all shuddered at his story and were further terror-stricken when the report came that the giant bear was making his way northward, leaving death and desolation in his wake. They huddled together in the wigwams, quaking with fear at every little noise, thinking it might be Muckwah ready to pounce upon them.

Mondapee—an old brave who towered head and shoulders above his companions, a veteran who had been able to overpower all his adversaries—laughed and said: "Do not be alarmed, my children; I will go forth and kill Muckwah."

With his heaviest warclub, arrayed in his famous fighting costume, Mondapee sallied forth amid the plaudits of his people. For six days nothing was heard from him, but horrible stories still reached his tribesmen regarding the depredations of the great bear. So a searching party was sent out for the warrior. Not very far from his home in the forest, near a clump of hemlock trees, they found Mondapee's warclub and a few belongings. He had been torn to pieces and devoured by Muckwah.

A day or two later a little girl ran breathless into her parents' wigwam saying that she had seen Muckwah, that he had killed the two companions with whom she was playing, but by running swiftly through the bushes she had managed to escape. When asked to describe the monster she said he was taller than the highest wigwam and longer than six canoes placed end to end.

Frantically the people hid themselves in caves and in other out of the way places. Any person who had the temerity to stray away to any distance generally disappeared forever and if they were so fortunate as to return it was always with additional tales of rapine and murder.

Wiley and crafty runners were sent out over the country in an effort to band the inhabitants together for a united attack upon Muckwah, but before the plan could be put into execution the ferocious beast, attacked three of the largest wigwams in the proposed federation and destroyed every wigwam. It seemed as though the monster was destined to crush out all human opposition, and the population was in despair.

A few days after this cataclysm, however, it was reported that Muckwah, satiated with his misdeeds and crimes, had curled up on the shore of the lake to take his long winter nap. Now was the time for action! Councils were held and vast bands of warriors assembled. Huge flint-tipped arrows were hastily manufactured and giant spears devised; war dances were the common pastime and soon the signal smoke arose from every hilltop.

In the meantime, while all these vast preparations were going on, Muckwah was overpowered and conquered; not by warriors, but by a gentle maiden, who, to save the people, carried a potion from an old sorceress and, creeping cautiously over the sand dunes, placed it carefully at the nostrils of the bear. Muckwah was soon overcome by the powerful fumes and expired with hardly a struggle.

He lies to this day where his death took place, on the east shore of Lake Michigan, where he may be seen from passing boats at a point called Sleeping Bear.

Had Jolly Sleighride.

A jolly sleigh load from this city drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ostrum of Hayes township last Friday, where they enjoyed a fine dinner. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Crandell and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lenore and children of Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shonts and son of Petoskey and Mrs. Almira Sober and daughter of Macland. All report a good old family visit.

WORK OF THE PROBATE COURT

Summary of Proceedings During the Year of 1914.

Judge Correll Briefly Outlines His Work—Reports Prove Untrue.

Summary of the Probate Court proceedings for the county of Charlevoix for the year 1914:

78 estates have been probated during the year.

12 have been closed and the estates assigned to the persons entitled thereto.

Thirteen children without parents or persons liable for their support have been placed in homes, five of them having been adopted. Others are on trial.

Two children have been sent to Ann Arbor for medical treatment or surgical operations, under Act No. 274 of the Public Acts of 1913.

There have been 13 commitments to Traverse City State Hospital during the year 1914 by the Probate Court of this county. Two of them, however, were not legal residents of Charlevoix county. They were here for temporary purposes, became insane and were sent to that institution for treatment by this court at the expense of the counties of which they were legal residents. Of the persons sent to Traverse City during the year three have recovered and been allowed to return to their homes.

Juvenile Division.

Twenty-four children under 17 years of age and with one exception above 12 years of age have been brought before the court during the year 1914.

Two were sent to the Industrial School at Lansing and one was sent to Adrian, Michigan.

The others were either placed on probation or allowed to return to their homes with the admonition of the court. Those placed on probation have not returned to the court for violation of their probation or on new charges, excepting three cases.

While at Adrian attending the Sunday school convention in October last I took advantage of the opportunity to visit the Industrial School for Girls. I had heard some reflections on the management of that home that were not creditable, and I confess that I was sending girls there very reluctantly. I now say that the charges made against the manner of conducting that home are untrue.

Mrs. Mary C. Johnson, the superintendent of the home, is a lady of culture and refinement. In addition to that she is one of those forceful characters whose influence is felt in every department of the work. A lady of superior mental ability, combining firmness with tenderness and sympathy for the unfortunate under her care. I wish to add to this that I visited the various wards of the home and the manager of each ward, and several of the teachers, and they were all competent, efficient persons. I came away feeling that I had been more than repaid for my effort to make the visit, and I will have no misgivings in sending girls to that home in the future when necessity exists.

S. A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

WHITE ROSE HIVE NO. 443

Celebrate Their 21st Anniversary at I. O. O. F. Hall Tuesday Evening.

Over One Hundred and Fifty Enjoy Banquet and Program—Visitors Present.

White Rose Hive No. 443, L. O. T. M. M., celebrated their 21st anniversary Tuesday evening at the I. O. O. F. Hall, over 150 members and guests being present.

The evening's entertainment began by the officers of 1915 marching to their position, followed by the officers of 1915. The audience joined in giving the Lord's prayer, after which Commander Clara Todd extended a hearty welcome to the members and visitors. Mrs. Ada Wilkinson responded for the ex-members and Mrs. O. D. Hammond for the charter members. At the close of addresses, the orchestra gave a fine selection and the ladies marched to the dining room, where a fine banquet was served.

At the close of the banquet all united in singing the closing ode of the order. Letters of regrets from absent members were read, which was followed by music by King and Margaret Saunders. An address on the history of the order was given by Deputy Great Commander Watson, which was greatly enjoyed. This was followed by a solo by Miss Mildred Eklinger and a recitation, "Ephraim Jones," by Mrs. Shearer, who received a hearty encore.

Following this came an instrumental solo by Miss Addie Holly, and the reading of the names of deceased members by Deputy Great Commander Tillotson. Dr. Isabella Holden, G. M. E., was then introduced, and responded with an address on the order, which was followed by music by King and Margaret Saunders and Glenn Kirby.

The meeting was then given over to the ex-members and visiting members, among whom a great many responded when called upon.

Mrs. L. B. Bartlett, the first commander of the local order, presented Dr. Holden and Deputy Watson with small tokens of esteem.

After cutting and distributing the birthday cake the crowd dispersed, feeling that it was a good thing to belong to White Rose Hive No. 443.

BAD FIRE LOSS

House and Contents Owned by Austin Newman Goes Up in Smoke.

Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock, the house and contents owned by Austin Newman, south of the city, was totally destroyed by fire.

The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George DeVries, who had rented the farm. They had just moved in and their furniture had not all been placed. Mrs. DeVries was at work in the kitchen when she smelled smoke, and upon opening the basement door, found it a mass of flames. She ran some distance to the woods where her husband was working, but by the time they reached the house, the fire had gained such headway, that they were unable to save anything.

Mr. Newman had disposed of everything with the exception of some bedding and their clothing at the auction held last week. These were in the house and were burned up.

Those who are the chief sufferers from the fire are Mr. and Mrs. DeVries, who not only lost all their furniture, but over $50.00 in money and all their clothing except that which they were wearing at the time of the fire. Insurance to the amount of $950.00 was carried on the house and contents by Mr. Newman, while Mr. DeVries carried none.

"If I had only carried insurance," is usually the remark made by losers by fire. Better see Myrtle Young & Son at once and be prepared in case fire destroys your home. Adv. 411

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the condition of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

Respectfully submitted, J. H. Milford.

HILLS ROCKED AND GROANED

Skiing Tournament an Event That Will Long Be Remembered.

High School Students and Members of Faculty Spend Glorious Afternoon Saturday.

If a stranger had been wandering over the sand hills north of the city last Saturday afternoon enjoying the pleasures of a locality free from savages, the noises that re-echoed over old McSaubia might have caused said stranger to stop and consider whether he really was correct in his conclusions and that perhaps there might be a few of the Aborigines still lurking about in the foot hills. His fears would have been quieted considerably after gazing over the crest of the mountain.

Charlevoix High School was having a skiing tournament and there was present every ounce of enthusiasm that accompanies such an affair.

At one o'clock fifty of the high school students equally divided between the stronger and fairer sex and accompanied by their ever ready and watchful instructors, "hiked" for the hills. With a northwester coming across Michigan at "forty per" and a storm well underway that put all other weather out of sight, these half a hundred fought their way. Determination does lots when it is put into operation outside a red brick building.

An hour saw the party on the east slope of McSaubia with fifty pairs of skis and several toboggans. For two hours the hills rocked and groaned with the howls of multitude. Every body fell and limped and groaned. Even the faculty took some long to be remembered drops and slides. There would be very little real sport about the whole affair if a few didn't do a few new stunts. Three hours saw the entire crowd "digging in" to one of the finest suppers that could be put together by human hands. Another hour and the gaping vitals were appeased. The Bank hall was the scene of the next festivities. At a reasonable hour every one made for home satisfied that they had a most pleasant day. Every body said, "exams" come next week so here goes for a "finisher" before the death.

One very glorious fact about the whole afternoon of play was that not one person was injured, however so slightly. Again, not one person went hungry, and again, there wasn't a disagreement during the day. Everything went as had been planned and all were happy.

FACING A CRISIS

"The Country Church and the Rural Problem" a Hard One to Solve.

President Butterfield of Massachusetts Agricultural College opens his volume on "The Country Church and the Rural Problem" with this statement: "The country church faces a crisis." A prominent Michigan lecturer on rural problems said on the public platform recently: "Many country churches are empty and many are worse than empty."

These statements suggest rural conditions which need attention. It is welcome news to learn that Michigan Agricultural College is going to hold a conference of rural social workers with a view of rendering assistance to the rural pastor. This individual needs the help which a conference of this kind can give him. He will come in contact with leaders in his work who out of large experience can give real assistance. The pastor must become a leader in his community, and this can be achieved most readily by co-operation with others in the study of rural problems. Detailed information of this conference is sent out by the college in a special bulletin.

Married at Detroit.

Word has reached this city announcing the marriage of Miss Alice McCull, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCull, Sr., of this city, to Mr. James Tree of Detroit. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's parents in Detroit, on Thursday, January 21. Only immediate friends and relatives were present at the wedding. The young couple are at home to their many friends at 606 Brooklyn Avenue, Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Tree are expecting to be in Charlevoix in April, when they will visit Mrs. Tree's parents and other relatives and friends.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

ENJOYED FINE SUPPER

Ladies of the Congregational Bible Class Entertain Men of Class.

A delightful evening was enjoyed at the home of Judge and Mrs. S. A. Correll, Wednesday, January 20th, the occasion being a supper served by the ladies of the Congregational church, to the men of the class.

A. F. Bridge was chosen as master of ceremonies. To prevent any somberness, either in feeling or appearance, a number of the ladies were served with the gentlemen.

The welcome to the guests was very amusingly given by the hostess, Mrs. Correll, and the toast to the ladies by R. F. Sloan, who was also an adept in that vocation.

Following the supper old time songs added charm to the evening, Miss Correll being the accompanist, and interspersed were short readings. Brief speeches by Rev. Taggart and Judge Correll, of a practical and helpful nature, were very much appreciated.

The character of the evening was not only entertainment, but served to bring the members of Judge Correll's class more in touch with each other, thereby increasing interest in the study of the Bible.

USE SKATING RINK FOR "GYM"

High School and Local Boys Lease Rink on Equal Basis.

Basket Ball and Indoor Base Ball Teams to be Organized—Citizens Should Help Out.

At a meeting of representatives from the city and the High School Athletic Association last Friday, plans to lease the skating rink for a gymnasium during the next two months were completed. Work on putting the building in readiness for basketball and indoor baseball was commenced this week and in all probability the teams will line up for practice the first of next week. No permanent organization was furthered at Friday's meeting, but such steps will be taken in the near future. The high school and local boys will use the rink on an equal basis plan.

The need of such a gymnasium has been keenly felt in the city for many years and the securing of the rink for winter sports can be laid to the enthusiasm of several of the young men of the city. The rink had been thought of as a place for basketball, but no active steps had ever been taken to secure it. The floor is one of the largest in this part of the state and with a few additions will make a basketball and indoor baseball court hard to surpass.

The high school will make a double use of the building. A basketball club will be picked from the best material in the school and a light schedule will be arranged with local teams and a few of the nearby towns. Those who are not able to gain a place on the several teams of the basketball squad will be given an opportunity for light gymnasium work. The entire work will be under the supervision of the faculty athletic director.

The city men are planning on organizing an indoor baseball team, also a basketball team. There are several promising young men in the city who with a little practice would round into a fast team. The indoor baseball proposition seems to have won the applause of most of the business men. A suggestion has been made that the local fraternities form an association and place in the field a basketball or indoor baseball team. This idea has not been considered as yet, but may be in the near future.

In an undertaking of this sort its success will rely on the enthusiasm with which it is received by the public at large. The securing of the rink for gymnasium purposes was done with two views in mind—to encourage winter sports in the city and to give the younger generation of the city some place to use up surplus energy besides the street corners. There is a considerable financial burden taken over by those backing the proposition, which can be lightened by a hearty response from the citizens.

Farmers' Institutes.

One day meetings will be held in connection with the County Farmers' Institute at the Marion Grange hall, Saturday, January 30, and at the Maple Grove Grange hall, Monday, February 2. Good programs have been arranged for both meetings, and it will be well worth your time to attend.

COURT OPENS NEXT MONDAY

Twenty-Seven Cases Appear on Calendar for February Term.

Set Six Cases Listed on Criminal Calendar—Usual Batch of Divorce Applications.

The February term of the circuit court will begin its annual grind next Monday morning. The calendar is an unusually light one, many cases held up from the last term of court appearing on the calendar. Altogether there are 27 cases, which appear below:

Applications for Citizenship.

Application for citizenship of Steven Klin—Petition.

Application for citizenship of Joseph Kozeny—Petition.

Criminal.

The People vs. George Banks—Desertion.

The People vs. Otis Flowere—Carrying concealed weapons.

The People vs. Clark R. Glazier—Desertion.

The People vs. John H. Bancroft—Desertion.

The People vs. Eber DeLong—Gross indecency.

The People vs. John H. Bancroft—Desertion.

Issues of Fact and Law.

John H. Milford, as administrator, vs. East Jordan Coöperage Company and East Jordan Electric Light and Power Company—Trespass on the case. Robt. Russell vs. Alton M. Wilkinson—Trespass on the case.

Anthony Winnick vs. Geo. W. King—Trespass on the case.

George Zimmerman vs. City of Boyne City—Trespass on the case.

Geo. W. King vs. Joseph A. Vought—Trespass on the case.

The Good Roads Machinery Company vs. Lee Howland—Assumpsit.

Dean Beaubien vs. Sam Beaubien—Assumpsit.

U. S. Fidelity Guaranty Company, a corporation, vs. Lee Howland—Replevin.

Michigan Trust Company, receiver for W. H. White Company, a corporation, vs. Wm. E. Parmelee—Assumpsit.

Chancery.

Michigan Trust Company, receiver for W. H. White Company, a corporation, vs. Uriah Wyant and William H. Lanz—Bill to quit title.

Grace Swift vs. The First National Bank of Boyne City and Jennie Maes Abbott—Bill to set aside deed.

J. E. Traverse, trustee, vs. John B. Walsh and Wm. C. Walsh—Bill to set aside deed.

J. E. Converse, trustee, vs. Henry Chaffee, Ida Chaffee and Wm. C. Walsh—Bill to set aside deed.

Hazel Fuller vs. Floyd Fuller—Divorce.

Florence Pearl vs. Reuben Pearl—Divorce.

Merritt W. Swift vs. Clara M. Swift—Divorce.

Auditor General vs. Delinquent Taxpayers—Petition.

William G. Congdon vs. Alice Lorine Congdon—Divorce.

Thomas Hoskins vs. Gertrude Belle Hoskins—Divorce.

Motions.

Ethel Stevens vs. Harrison Hedford—Motion to dismiss.

The B. Y. P. U. will give a ten cent tea, Friday evening, January 23, in the parlors of the Baptist church. All are most cordially invited. Hours 5:30 to 8. Adv. 411

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

While Visiting at the Home of His Son—Death Ends Sufferings Saturday.

George Mesnard, age 76 years, died at the home of his son, V. L. Mesnard Saturday noon. The cause of his death was paralysis.

Mr. Mesnard and his wife came to this city a few weeks ago from his home in Grand Rapids to visit his son. While here he was stricken with paralysis, which resulted in his death Saturday. He is survived by a wife, five sons and a daughter.

The remains were taken to Grand Rapids, Monday, for interment.

"Zudora" the mystic detective story by Harold McGrath, will be run in the Courier each week, beginning Wednesday, February 3. Subscribe for the Courier NOW, and read this great story.

Correspondence

HAYES.

Joe Lewis is at George Howe's for a few days.

Farmers' institute next Monday at the grange hall.

George Howe and his daughter, Lela, went to Boyne City Monday.

Lee Sneathen hauled wood for the Maple Grove School Monday.

Fred Erforth attended the party at Bay Shore last Friday night.

Isaac Webster visited at Orson Cook's several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sneathen went to Boyne City one day last week.

Bert Wightman was a caller last week at the home of Jones Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stroud were callers at Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris Sunday.

Mrs. C. Pant went to Charlevoix to the anniversary of the L. O. T. M. M. Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kane attended the installation of officers at Pine Lake Grange last Saturday.

Several persons from the east part of Hayes, went to the party at Albert O'Brien's last Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stroud installed the officers of two granges at the Pine Lake Grange Hall last Saturday.

Mrs. Jones Lewis and Mrs. Floyd Bartholomew went to Pine Lake Grange last Saturday. They report a good time.

A birthday party was given George O'Brien, Jr., at his parent's home last Tuesday evening. A large crowd and a good time was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt Webster and children attended the installation of officers of the two granges at Pine Lake Grange hall last Saturday.

Two sleigh loads of Sabbath school scholars from Charlevoix met at the Bush home, (on the John Strathens farm) for a pot-luck dinner and a good time last Saturday.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County, Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the city of Toledo, Ohio, and State of Ohio, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every copy of said book that may be printed by the use of the HALL'S CATHARTIC CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY, sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 26th day of December, A. D. 1914.

A. W. GLASSON, Notary Public, Lucas County, Ohio.

Hall's Cathartic Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists; 75 cents. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

IRONTON

The Dorcas Society met with Miss Florence Alexander last Saturday afternoon.

The Ancient Order of Gleaners hold their regular meeting, Friday evening, February 5.

Mrs. Sanderson has returned from Milwaukee, where she took her baby for treatment last fall.

Mrs. George Jardine and Mrs. Loren Duffley were the guests of Miss Florence Barrett, Saturday.

Mrs. Clyde Ogden and Mrs. Jerry Saunders were the guests of Mrs. Hugh King last Thursday.

The Reading Circle welcomes "Polly Anna's Return," Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Adams.

The supper given by the Ladies' Aid Tuesday evening, January 19, was a great success. Proceeds, $11.00.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of Rev. C. E. Taggart, Thursday noon and have a pot-luck dinner.

Clyde Ogden returned Tuesday evening from Wildwood, where he has been visiting his parents for the past few days.

HEARD IN CHARLEVOIX

Now Bad Backs Have Been Made Strong—Kidney Pills Carried.

All over Charlevoix you hear it. Doan's Kidney Pills are keeping up the good work. Charlevoix people are telling about it—telling of bad backs made sound again. You can believe the testimony of your own townspeople. They tell it for the benefit of you who are suffering. If your back aches, if you feel lame, sore and miserable, if the kidneys act too frequently, or passages are painful, scanty and of color, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has helped so many of your friends and neighbors. Follow this Charlevoix citizen's advice and give Doan's a chance to do the same for you.

Mrs. John Cook, 307 Mason street, Charlevoix, says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine medicine. I have used them at different times for kidney complaint and they have always given me relief. I have procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Ivy Drug Store and I don't hesitate to recommend them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cook had. Foster-Milburn Company, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

CHARLEVOIX FOLKS

ASTONISH DRUGGIST

We sell many good medicines, but we are told the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-I-ka, is the best we ever sold. Charlevoix folks astonish us daily by telling how QUICKLY Adler-I-ka relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation. Many report that A SINGLE DOSE relieves those troubles almost IMMEDIATELY. We are glad we are Charlevoix agents for Adler-I-ka.—B. A. Herman, druggist.

There will be no school Monday and Tuesday, February 1 and 2, on account of the Teachers' Institute held in Boyne City at that time.

Mrs. Henry Hammond and Mrs. Grant Hammond spent Friday and Saturday in Petoskey visiting Mrs. Clinton Bowen, who is at the Reycraft Hospital.

ATWOOD

"A little love from day to day and strength encourage to preach. A glimpse of Heaven along the way And faith and hope to reach it."

The sleighing is fine.

Granga was in session on Wednesday last at 2 o'clock p. m.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Pierce, on Saturday, January 23, a baby girl.

Mrs. Ida Blow is very sick, reported today (Monday) a little better.

Ellsworth Board of Trade has 86 members all from Banks township. Look out!

Mrs. Plenny Genett went to Elk Rapids on Wednesday last to see a very sick sister.

Fifteen teams are hauling gravel on the state road west of Ellsworth towards Atwood.

If conditions keep on in Europe the United States will soon have the biggest army without increasing it.

Mr. John Peebles, who is blind and disabled, is now very sick and cannot live long. May his last hours be really his brightest.

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Rose Groenink)

Glenn Kirby visited the normal room Wednesday.

Ward Genett was absent from school Friday morning on account of illness.

The class attended a program in the high school Friday morning. The program was given by the girls' chorus.

Miss Helen Meech visited the normal room Thursday. Miss Meech was a C. D. S. graduate in the class of 1914.

Miss Bessie Allen substituted for Miss Jarvis on Monday and Tuesday. Miss Jarvis was absent on account of illness.

Miss Ruby Hooker was called away to Ewart on account of the death of her grandmother. Miss Hooker returned Saturday.

Fred Gregory suggested to the normal class to organize a house of representatives. The officers are: Ward Genett, speaker of house; Clara Thorsen, speaker pro tem; Cleo Thorne, clerk, and Fred Gregory, sergeant-at-arms.

Board of Education.

January 19, 1915.

Regular meeting of the board was called to order by President Knif.

Trustees present—Kane, Nordrum, and Hiller.

Absent—Harrington and Glassford.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $12,028.38.

The following bills were presented and read:

GENERAL FUND
James Withs, kindling wood	10 00
City treasurer, work on 211 Mason	7 11
Henry C. Gosper, insurance	35 00
Myrtle Young & Son, insurance	35 00
A. T. Burnett, insurance	35 00
Scott, Foreman & Co., readers	9 72
Donnell, Lutz & Co., carpenters	1 00
J. I. Holcomb Mfg. Company, supplies	19 50
Ginn & Co., book ret.	1 00
The University Chicago Press, book ref.	1 00
Hines & Co., ink	5 54
C. B. Henkin & Co., picture frame	2 75
Robt. Henthorn, central school repairs	19 98
J. M. Ackers, boiler repair	7 00
A. E. Nason, janitor supplies	4 02
City treasurer, light	18 50
City treasurer, water	31 50
A. M. Holberg, janitor	22 50
Cecil Frode, janitor	17 50
Mrs. A. G. Allman, janitor	7 50
James Perry, janitor	15 00
Charlevoix County Bank loan	8000 00
Charlevoix County Bank, interest	15 28
	$9,022 02
TEACHERS' FUND
Olaf Nordrum, teachers' pay roll	80 28
A. M. Holberg, janitor	5 00
Anna Hin, salary	80 00
	$165 28

Moved and supported that the bills as read be allowed and the secretary be instructed to draw orders on the various funds for the amount of each respective bill. Motion carried.

Moved and supported that the report of the committee appointed to place the insurance on school buildings be accepted. Motion carried.

To the Honorable School Board of District No. 1, Township and City of Charlevoix:

Gentlemen:—Your committee to whom was referred the matter of the insurance on the school property beg to report as follows:—

The total insurance now in force on the school property is $47,000, distributed as follows:

$12,000 on the McKinley high school building; $2,000 on the contents thereof.

$14,500 on the Central school building; $1,500 on the contents thereof.

$2,500 on the Washington school building; $500 on the contents thereof.

$2,500 on the Lincoln school building; $500 on the contents thereof.

$8,000 on the Carnegie library building; $5,000 on the contents thereof.

The insurance is distributed according to the following schedule:

On the Carnegie library, covering on the general form:

Number 742,420, North British and Mercantile Company; amount, $2,000; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, Henry C. Cooper.

Number 108,063, Michigan Commercial Company; amount, $2,000; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, Henry C. Cooper.

Number 140, Northwestern National Company; amount, $2,000; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, Henry C. Cooper.

Number 1,084, Queen of America Company; amount, $2,500; expiration, November 17, 1915; agents, Butters & Bridge.

Number 1,181, Providence-Washington Company; amount, $2,500; expiration, November 17, 1915; agents, Butters & Bridge.

On schoolhouses and contents as follows:

Number 164, Royal Company; amount, $3,000; expiration, February 1, 1917; agents, Butters & Bridge.

Number 2,525,106, London Assurance Company; amount, $3,000; expiration, October 1, 1917; agents, Butters & Bridge.

Number 6,500,657, Norwich Union Company; amount, $1,000; expiration, October 1, 1917; agents, Butters & Bridge.

Number 419, Pennsylvania Company; amount, $1,000; expiration, October 1, 1917; agents, Butters & Bridge.

Number 2,171, Security of New Haven (Connecticut) Company; amount, $3,500; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, A. T. Burnett.

Number 1,313, Germania of New York Company; amount, $2,500; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, A. T. Burnett.

Number 36, Fireman's of Newark (New Jersey) Company; amount, $3,000; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, A. T. Burnett.

Number 11,072, American of Newark (New Jersey) Company; amount, $5,000; expiration, November 1, 1919; agent, A. T. Burnett.

Number 1,592, Continental of New York Company; amount, $4,000; expiration, October 23, 1919; agents, Myrtle Young & Son.

Number 45,016, National of Hartford Company; amount, $3,000; expiration, November 1, 1919; agents, Myrtle Young & Son.

Number 435, Aetna of Hartford Company; amount, $3,000; expiration, December 9, 1919; agents, Myrtle Young & Son.

There is also a policy on the dwelling owned by the district covered by No. 995, Glen Falls, $1,000, May 1, 1917.

We are also carrying employer's liability policy in Prudential Casualty Co. of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Dated January 19, 1915.

R. W. Kane, Olaf Nordrum, Committee.

These minutes were read and approved and on motion the board adjourned.

E. J. Hiller, Secretary.

After he had taken a rest in Scotland and gone in for golf he believed after a few months on the green that he was making splendid progress. So one morning he asked the caddy old caddy, "Well, Saunders, how am I getting on?"

Saunders answered gruffly, "Yer no makin' a fool of yerself, but yer'll never be a gowfer."—Argonaut.

Watch for "Zudora" our next serial story. Pictures to be at Majestic.

LEGAL NOTICES

Appointment of Administrator.

State of Michigan, the Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said County, on the 25th day of January, A. D. 1915.

Present: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

Attest: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

THE TRAGEDY OF SAMSON THE STRONG

Judges 13:8-16, 24, 25—Jan. 31.

Samson Born a Nazarene—His Birth Foretold—His Mission Foretold—The Value of a Mission—How He Judged Israel—Samson's Weakness—His Loyalty to God—Victory in Death.

"Blessed, I pray thee, and drink not wine nor strong drink."—Judges 13:1.

ALL Israelites who took a certain vow, were styled Nazarenes. No one should confound these people with the residents of Nazareth. Jesus was a resident of Nazareth, but not a Nazarene. The Nazarene vow was that spirituous liquor in every form should be avoided, and that the hair should not be cut. Samson from birth was under this vow, which, by the direction of the angel of the Lord, was adopted for him by his parents. In some sense the vow seems to have signified complete consecration to God and His service.

Twice before Samson's birth, the angel of the Lord communicated with his parents to the intent that the mother should be especially impressed with the importance of abstinence from spirituous liquors, and that her child should be born under a favorable endowment. Undoubtedly his parents realized that what their child would be, would be on the alert to endow their offspring favorably.

According to Divine promise, Samson was to be one of Israel's Judges—Deliverers. The need of deliverance is evident from the context. The Philistines resided to the southwest of Palestine. They were a warlike people, and very intelligent as respects military tactics. Their cunning is shown in that they not only disarmed the Israelites, but prohibited their making any iron implements or doing any kind of blacksmithing work. In this manner they held the Israelites in a species of penance, exacting tribute of them.

Samson's work for his people must not be measured by merely the amount of damage which he did to the Philistines as a warrior and as a strategist, setting fire to their wheat-fields by igniting dogs for the purpose.

Doubtless his chief work was one of reviving the spirit of his people, who had become thoroughly hopeless under the oppression of their enemies. The lesson of what one could do when he devoted his life to delivering his people from their enemies must have been a great stimulus to patriotism and an encouragement to return to the Land.

Points to Be Remembered.

We must not forget that the Jews were not Christians, and that the rules laid down by Jesus and the Apostles for Christians were not applicable to the Jews. According to the Scriptures Moses and the nation of Israel were a House of Servants (Leviticus 25: 46). They were promised Divine blessings in proportion as they served faithfully the Divine Law, which did not call upon them to be saints in the Christian sense of that word.

Another difference between the Jew and the Christian is that the former was promised temporal blessings as a reward for faithfulness, while the latter is promised spiritual blessings with temporal adversities and trials of faith, patience, love and loyalty. Unless this distinction between the two ages and the two laws be borne in mind, we shall continually be in difficulty.

According to the Law, Samson was rated as a very faithful servant of God. His faithfulness consisted in his loyalty to the Divine requirements and to Israel, God's covenant people. His faith was continually manifested in all he did; and his life was used in serving his people. He is rated as an Ancient Worth—Heb. 11:32, 33, 40.

Samson was neither a Christian nor an example to Christians. In many respects he lived after the flesh, not understanding his whole self-sacrifice in the Lord's service.

We should remember, however, that he was never the genuine of the Holy Spirit. Only since Pentecost have any been begotten of the Spirit as "New creatures in Christ."

True, we read that the Spirit of the Lord was upon Samson; but we are to bear in mind the wide distinction between spirit-begotten and the Spirit's mechanical operation upon the Prophets and other Ancient Worthies to move them to accomplish the Divine purposes. But Christians are to receive the Spirit of Adoption.

A woman was Samson's undoing. He confided in her, and she betrayed him. While he slept, his deceitful friend cut off his hair, and then delivered him to his enemies. They gloated over him, put his eyes out, and kept him as a slave, grinding at the mill. But at a great feast, they brought him forth as a trophy. He stood between two immense pillars, which supported the roof of the great building, and with a prayer to God, he crashed those pillars down the entire structure doing more damage to the Philistines in the killing of their great men and more damage to the deliverance of his people in that one act than in all the other exploits of his life.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

The Angel Disappearing in the flame.

FOR BETTER POTATOES.

It is not generally known that best potatoes come from seed obtained from a far distant point. W. A. Orton, a United States department of agriculture pathologist, says that a large part of the territory of southern, south central and western states obtains better results from seed potatoes grown near the northern border of Maine, New York, Minnesota and other northern states.

Replanting diseased seed potatoes in the same locality merely brings poor stock. Fresh potatoes from distant points, minus blemishes, will cure the evil. The fact that newly irrigated or recently deforested portions of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan are being planted to potatoes makes the information more valuable. Seeding these new patches with sick or blemished potatoes spells failure for new growers.

The essential thing here is elsewhere is healthy seed potatoes, preferably obtained from distant points. Thus if a garden has been blighted with bad seed potatoes, it may eventually be purified by better stock, cultivation and fertilization.

TO USE SURPLUS POTASH.

Chemists Report That Crops Are In No Immediate Danger.

Because of the action of the German government in prohibiting the exportation of concentrated potash salts, reports have been made indicating that farmers were becoming alarmed over the consequences of a possible restriction in the supply of commercial fertilizers. Manufacturing chemists say, however, that there is no danger of a failure of a reasonable crop production on this account.

One of these chemists has given his views as follows:

Potash is one of the three elements most essential to plant growth. Practically all soils suitable for farming contain potash in available and also in unavailable form. As plant life takes potash only to the extent of its needs, if there is any excess in the soil it will remain until used, as potash does not leach out of the ground. Fortunately many farmers have been using potash in increased amounts each year, so that the soil is better supplied with available potash than was the case a few years ago, and there probably remains in the soil a supply which has not been

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 215. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. ISLE SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law
Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 109 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO SATON
Law, Real Estate and Investments
Collections Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD
Dentist
Office in VanPelt Building
Over Levinson's Store
Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience
Maps and Plats on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

ALLEN M. WILKINSON
Physician and Surgeon
Eyes Tested and Glasses Fitted
Telephone—Office 662; residence 663r
Office in Postoffice Bld'g Charlevoix

R. B. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the
EYES, EARS, NOSE and THROAT
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 25 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention
Office to Bank Block
Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

Your Attention Please

HAVE US FIGURE

On that contract for Electric fixtures and wiring—we'll quote you figures that cannot be bettered if you take into consideration the splendid quality, materials and fixtures we furnish and the thorough manner in which our expert mechanics do the work.

Don't forget that the BEST is the cheapest in the end and that the BEST saves endless worry and inconvenience.

F. S. Bettles
214 Bridge street
Phone 134 when you need
First-class Electric Work

"A Shine in Every Drop"
Get a Can TO-DAY From Your Hardware or Grocery Dealer

The WIND

What a Hurricane Did For Two Miners In the Desert

By EMERSON GRIFFITH
Copyright by Frank A. Munsey Co.

Than William Lloyd and Harry MacLeod two more steadfast companions never roamed between Butte and Bisbee.

The one was of Welsh and the other of Scotch extraction, but for all their difference in appearance they might have been brothers.

Doubtless no dissonance ever should have entered into the harmony of their friendship had it not been for that disastrous year when the winds blew an never before nor since in the memory of the oldest prospector.

There is a saying in the barren country that more murders and other acts of violence are committed while the winds torment the land than during all the months of calm.

The year that the winds blew with such continual relentlessness Lloyd and MacLeod were working a copper claim on the line where the base of Cliff Mountain meets the desert.

They had built a two room shack, with corrugated iron roof, and something in its shape and location gave it semblance to the hulk of a ship cast against a cliff by the desert sea.

Here they were living, packing their water from a tepid spring three miles up a canyon and laboring sedulously on their shaft, when the memorable windy season set in. This occurred in December.

It did not end until July 13. And during these six months there was not a single drop of precipitation.

Yet this did not outwardly disturb the partners, except to render them a bit fretful at times, until July 5, when came the great sandstorm, which blew for nine days and nights without once so much as a pause.

Surely, so choked was the air with dust and sand, could you see beyond a hundred yards.

For the first four days, in the face of this, Lloyd and MacLeod worked on. Lloyd, usually gregarious, grew silent, while MacLeod said hardly a word.

Each day saw them become more moody and dispirited, and at bedtime they would turn in without the usual "good night."

Dry as parchment grew their skins, lips and hands cracked open, eyes turned blue and bloodshot. Nostrils refused to perform their functions, so they panted asthmatically through parted lips.

When the fourth day came, and no respite, and partners made only a pretense of working.

On the morning of the 5th Lloyd arose stiffly from his cot and lit the cooking stove, while MacLeod remained flat on his back, gazing intently at the rattling roof.

KNEELING DOWN, HE SAW THAT HIS THROAT WAS LAIN WIDE OPEN.

"Come on, get up!" said Lloyd, looking in from the kitchen door.

Mac had swallowed painfully and shook his head.

For a moment the other gazed at him; then, turning away, lifted a hand to his forehead and broke into a torrent of violent oaths against the wind, the world, the universe.

Presently he came back to the door. "I reckon you want me to cook your breakfast," he ventured listlessly.

Something in his tone caused MacLeod to sit up in bed. "I reckon I'm not asking you to," he answered. "I reckon I wouldn't eat it if you did. I'm not asking any favors of you till," he concluded, lying back with an air of resignation.

Convinced that he had been done in business, Lloyd turned away again and to his cot alone.

What was not even suggested, that day when Lloyd and MacLeod, and Everything they now in contact with everywhere and impregnable everywhere.

"This lode ain't going to pan out," Lloyd suddenly declared as he lay down his fork. "What do you say to deserting it?"

MacLeod merely grunted.

"I never had any luck like others. I always was a failure," he pursued plaintively. "What do you say?"

MacLeod ate half a can of cold tomatoes, before replying. Then, leaning back in his chair, he gave vent to his thoughts.

"Most failures work hard enough. I'll admit, but still you can't blame the stars," he began. "The trouble is, they're quitters."

They sat silent for a time, until MacLeod got up, with a groan.

"You're always going against me," he complained. "I never spoke about it before, but you always are. Hit the trail whenever you want, but I stay here."

"You've found signs you ain't told me about!" exclaimed Lloyd suspiciously. "Oh, I see your game. I wondered why you were so silent lately."

Thus, out of sheer querulousness, arose a spirit of ill feeling, and in this humor they went to bed that night.

With the dawn MacLeod arose and left the shack without a word to his partner, who lay watching him. He had no other purpose than to get outside, and once in the open the winds guided him where they willed.

He was circled out in the desert, then blown back toward the mountains and up a wide arroyo, until at last, as if the elements had guided him there, he stumbled, with no shock to his dulled senses, across the gaunt body of a she wolf.

Kneeling down, he saw that her throat was laid wide open, and to her gray mane fresh blood still clung in ruby drops.

After a moment's thought he arose with the carcass on his shoulder and started for the shack.

He burst suddenly into the shack to find Lloyd engaged in whetting a long bladed claspknife.

This latter put away as he came forward to kneel down and examine the body which MacLeod had dumped upon the floor.

"There's some whelps that didn't get their breakfast this morning—and won't," remarked MacLeod grimly.

"Wonder what killed her?" asked Lloyd.

"It's evident," said the other, "her mate did the killing."

"Her mate? By heaven, he must have!" breathed Lloyd, staring at the blood on his fingers. "But why?"

MacLeod turned away with a grunt. "What made you bring this mess here?" pursued Lloyd, still looking at the blood on his fingers.

"You're always going against me," whined MacLeod. "I had no knife to take her scalp, that's why. Lend me the one you were sharpening so fine just now."

"Do I get half the bounty?"

"Look a-here, Bill," ejaculated MacLeod impatiently. "We agreed to split even on mining, but there was nothing said about bounties."

Lloyd returned to his whetstone. "Nothing was said about me lending my knife either," he retorted, resuming the sharpening process.

On the next day, which was the seventh, they did nothing but quarrel.

Toward evening MacLeod accused Lloyd of wasting their nearly exhausted water supply. It being the former's turn to go to the spring, he took exception to his partner throwing half a dipperful away, and accused him of doing so with a motive.

Lloyd, heretofore ready with a sharp reply, made no answer, but sat down on his cot and resumed the whetting of his knife.

His convictions strengthened by Lloyd's silence, his nerves unable to stand the grinding sound any longer, MacLeod suddenly lost all control of himself and called his companion a vile name.

In a flash the whetstone fell to the floor and Lloyd was standing, legs bent and wide apart, body hunched forward with gleaming blade attemple in his hand.

But MacLeod did not rise to meet him. Instead he lay back on his couch and covered his face with both hands.

Gradually the fire died in Lloyd's bloodshot eyes. Slowly, with the palsied effort of an old man, he picked up the whetstone to resume the sharpening.

"You'll live to eat that word," said he quietly and drew the blade across the stone.

In the beginning there was no destructive tendency in any living thing, for to inflict injury is contrary to the divine impetus called life. Only by the pressure from without is a nature warped from its given course.

Came the ninth day, which was to be the last of the winds.

At noon, owing to both using it with perverted wastefulness, their water supply was exhausted. MacLeod himself emptied the keg, drinking the last drop.

During the afternoon the stifled silence between them grew ominous.

The day wore on. As night fell the atmosphere grew unbearably oppressive. On the wings of the dust laden winds was borne a faint rumble of thunder. But this had no significance, for dry electrical storms were common in the Mahout mountains miles to the north.

Leaving the lamp burning on a table in the center of the room, the two fully dressed, finally threw themselves upon their cots, where they rested for enough pure air to soothe their aching eyes.

For hours they lay there, their eyes rolling, arms twitching, nerves flid to the quick and ill and ill at ease.

Shortly after midnight the wind

At times the sturdy little shack would quiver and creak as a ship hanging to some reef in a lashing sea.

Now and then tidal waves of sand would break against its sides and surge across its deck like roof. With a scream the demon of the air would descend and gnaw against the corners of the structure.

Again and again in a mad frenzy it lurled away, only to pounce back with recruited violence.

Occasionally, as some witless monster, unable to destroy the refuge of its prey, it approached with ludicrous stealth and moaned and whimpered until it lost patience and broke into a roar. But the fuel that turns hottest is quickly consumed.

The end was at hand.

However, the men within this battered hulk, which lay half in, half out of the desert sea, did not know that the hurricane was in its death throes.

To them it would blow until eternity. It was just a hour past midnight when Lloyd sprang from his cot, his shirt torn open, hairy breast bared and a wild glare in his bloodshot eyes.

THEN BEGAN THE STRUGGLE—STRENGTH AGAINST STRENGTH.

"Get some water or I'll—I'll!"—and he brandished his knife on high.

MacLeod sat laughing on the edge of his bed.

His bleeding lips were drawn far back, and his teeth shone white and gleaming. Loosely in one hand swung his revolver.

"I've been waiting an age for you and your knife," he gurgled thickly. "You won't need any water, you!"

But he never finished, for Lloyd, with a swing of his arm, knocked the lamp from the table to the floor, where it flickered once and went out.

A moment later the horror of the darkness was broken by a blue flame from MacLeod's revolver. Following the heavy detonation came a breathless silence.

Something fell heavily to the floor. Then all was still again. Presently MacLeod could be heard shuffling across the room. He was going to where he thought his partner lay. Stooping down, he felt around the spot. But nothing was there.

At the same second that he realized he had been tricked he was rushed upon by Lloyd from an unexpected quarter. Turning and grasping wildly, he clutched an upraised wrist.

But as he threw up the revolver his own wrist was caught and the muzzle turned away.

Then began the struggle—strength against strength!

They were as evenly matched as two machines of the same power and perfection. Minute followed minute, while their hot breaths burned each other's cheek in the grapple.

But only the creaking floor and their labored breathing told what was going on.

Back and forth, from one end of the room to the other, swung their bodies in the impenetrable blackness.

A chair fell, the table overturned, a shelf laden with ore went crashing to the floor.

Minute followed minute, and still the result was of issue.

Then, at last, when it seemed the conflict must endure until both fell exhausted, circumstances ordained that a pawn should enter the game at a strategic point to unbalance the evenness of the board.

It happened that MacLeod stepped upon the round body of the lamp, which rolled from under his foot, and down he crashed with Lloyd on top.

A moment's struggle on the floor; a moment's pause.

Then a purple flash of lightning, a silhouette of knife gleams above a prostrate form, a salvo of thunder, the stillness of the tomb, a single, barely audible splash upon the roof, then another, and another all in a second's time!

Something clattered on the floor, as out of a bad dream a voice was flid:

"Harry, it's raining!"

Likewise came the reply:

"Thank heaven, it's raining!"

The pressure had been removed.

Hastily, I sometimes wonder, Mr. Higginson, if there is anything other of the things you write. If you have a model of a

Where's Your Money

"Gone where the woodbine twineth." Gone in little dribs! Pennies and nickels and dimes and dollars that you might have had safe in a SAVINGS ACCOUNT here bearing COMPOUND INTEREST. Stop it! And start an account, which it takes only a dollar to do.

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK
John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Buttner A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

WATCH

Blanchard's Bargain Counters

There are many Surprises in store for you

Hand Sleds at Cost

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted

Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2

111 Antrim Street

Bake Day Troubles

Bring them to us—we'll solve them for you. Baking is our business—good baking. Housewives tell us they can buy their baked goods as cheap as they can make them themselves—and think of the trouble and worry it saves you. Let us do your baking for you for a while, and see if this is not true.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

"The Lure"

A fascinating 5 act feature story of the Underworld—
PRESENTED BY WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Majestic Theatre
Wednesday, Feb. 3

The Lure is one of the big Shubert Features that has created sensations on the screens of all large cities

If you see this Picture you'll have something to remember

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year..... $1.50
One copy, six months..... .75
One copy, three months..... .40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Ordinary poetry, regular rates. Card of thanks, 25 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

Midwinter Advertising.

January and February are a period when the public looks through newspaper advertising with keen attention.

A great many people have formed a regular habit of delaying purchases until this time of year. They know that most merchants will give unusually good bargains in midwinter to save carrying goods over until another year. A merchant who does not get into line and tell the public through the newspapers what he is doing at this time of year will find his trade very slack. But a simple statement of the good values that can now be found in almost any enterprising store will be read with eager interest. The store will find that it is doing an excellent business even at a dull period.

Goods can't be moved unless the public is told about them. A customer may go by the store every day in the week. But if she does not know that inside back on those shelves is just the bargain that would appeal to her the goods might just as well be in Jericho. She goes home, picks up the newspaper, reads about the special value offered in some other store and on her next trip hunts out the place that had the enterprise to seek her patronage.

The merchant who does not advertise pays a high price for the money saved. Goods grow more unseasonable the longer they stay in a store. The owner is getting no profit on them to pay his fixed charges. Rent, interest, taxes, light, heat, and clerk hire expenses are running along every day and must be paid. The only way to pay them is to keep the goods moving.

Goods held over until another season are apt to become so shopworn or out of style that they have to be sold for a song. Goods well advertised and sold during the season for which they are bought go at a fairly good price and help the merchant close his season without loss.

A FEW days ago the president said prosperity is here and a day afterwards he ordered an investigation into the reason why prosperity had not arrived. We can't follow him.

THERE is nothing so good for a town as a good hotel so far as advertising is concerned. But how can that hotel exist without a bit of help from the people of the town?

Mr. Bryan is now a grandfather for the seventh time. Thus he continues to move with stately grape juice toward the ranks of patriarchs and sages.

THE real difference between a porous plaster and a spongy relative is that you can pry the porous plaster loose.

WHAT a help, a little sand would be for the icy sidewalks these days. Why not, Mr. Mayor?

WHEN eggs are so high, killing hens should be classed as murder in the first degree.

WHAT most married men would rejoice to see is a war tax on old bachelors.

MAY we all get what is coming to us in 1915. Or is that too brutal?

HELP OUT THE MAIL CARRIER

Hints to Patrons of Rural Routes That Are Worth While.

Try Them Out and See if They are Not a Benefit to Both Patron and Carrier.

The following valuable and pertinent hints to patrons of rural routes appeared in the news columns of the Manhattan (Kansas) Daily Nationalist of December 11. Read them over. They are worth while:

Patrons can help their carrier and by so doing help improve the service on rural routes.

First—Purchase stamps and envelopes and have all mail ready to dispatch. Stamp your letters and cards before depositing them in your mail box, and especially do this for your carrier in all bad weather. Did ever you think how cold it would be for the rural carrier to take off his wraps and gloves and pick small coins out of your mail box? Have you a little cup in your box to place the coins in? If not your carrier would like to see one in there to-morrow morning. He carries for the patrons a supply of stamps, cards and stamped envelopes, so that the patron may buy in sufficient quantities to enable them to stamp all mail before it is left in the box.

Second—Is your box well located? It should be set away from the fence on a solid post and about four feet above the ground in a position that the carrier may drive very close to it and easily reach same without unwrapping.

Third—Has your box a sign on it? If it has not and there should happen to be no mail for you some day, then your outgoing mail is most likely to be left in the box, as carriers are instructed to look for mail only in boxes where the sign is shown of outgoing mail. Any simple sign that is easily seen when displayed is all that is necessary.

Fourth—If you have any friends visiting you and they want their mail to come to your box you should mention it to the carrier and he will watch for same at the postoffice should he not come addressed in your care. Visitors' mail most often comes without special address.

Fifth—Do you receive any parcel post packages? Some kind of a large box placed at a convenient position, though it sits on the ground, will be better than for your carrier to place packages on the snow or dampened ground. You do not want your package lost, but have you provided for it?

Sixth—Bad road conditions are a great drawback to rural delivery. All patrons should insist on township officers keeping road over which carrier travels in best possible condition. You travel over this same road and, aside from helping your carrier deliver your mail earlier and more promptly, you have the satisfaction of traveling over a smooth, well-kept road.

When the snow drifts around your box see that it is cleared away and the road open to your box by the time your carrier comes. Remember, the postoffice department does not require him to get out of his vehicle to get to a box. The carrier is not supposed to venture into snowdrifts or mud.

These are only a few of the ways you can assist in prompt delivery of your mail. Your carrier will appreciate all courtesies and will do his best to always return good for good.

EDUCATION IN ROAD BUILDING

To Be One of the Features at Annual Good Roads Convention.

State Highway Commissioner Rogers Will Co-operate with Association—Other Features.

The Michigan State Good Roads Association will give the biggest and most profitable program on good roads the state has ever witnessed at the annual convention to be given in Grand Rapids in March. And the committees in charge representing the city will make it possible to make this a school of education on road building that will interest every person in the state who believes in good roads.

President Phil T. Colgrove made this declaration to State Highway Commissioner Frank H. Rogers last week at a gathering for the purpose of completing the official plans for the state good roads convention to be held March 9, 10, 11 and 12.

State Highway Commissioner Rogers said that his department was preparing to co-operate with the association and the Grand Rapids organization to fully meet the views expressed by President Colgrove.

President Colgrove presented a tentative program which will include a number of the most prominent road builders and experts in the country, among them Charles Diehl, chairman of the New York State Good Roads Association; C. F. Hatchelder, director of the American Automobile Association; Jesse Taylor, secretary of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, and a government expert. These have definitely accepted invitations to be present and others equally prominent will also be secured.

One day will be designated as Michigan day and another as Kent county day. On Michigan day Governor Ferris will be one of the speakers, and President Colgrove expects to secure several congressmen, one of the United States senators of the state and other distinguished personages. He will also go before the legislature and extend an invitation to the entire body to attend the convention on Michigan day. On this day President Colgrove will give his annual report and State Highway Commissioner Rogers will deliver an address accompanied by numerous slides illustrating good roads work and its results in Michigan.

The good roads department in Washington will make an exhibit of road work and materials. There will also be an exhibit from the University of Michigan laboratory showing methods of testing materials used in road building and materials that have been tested. These are some of the features definitely assured, but there will be many others, not the least of which will be machinery and materials in the Coliseum.

Feeding the Milk Producer. The dairy cow should be fed according to her requirements, and her requirements can be told only by watching the milk and the feed scales.

(Political Announcement.)

To the Electors of Charlevoix County:

I will be a candidate for County Commissioner of Schools in Charlevoix county on the Republican ticket at the primaries the third day of March, 1915.

I have taught in the schools of this county from the smallest district school to the largest city school.

I am too busy helping the pupils and teachers of the Boyne City schools to call on you personally and ask for your vote.

But you know that if I have made the improvement of the schools in which I have worked, my business for 25 years, I am not likely to change.

I hold the degree Bachelor of Pedagogies from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; a state life certificate from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; am a senior at the State University; am a graduate of the Ferris Institute; am master of Pine Lake Grange and am a taxpayer.

For these qualifications I ask you to go to the primaries on Wednesday, March 3 and vote for me and you will not be disappointed.

Adv. 311f Amelia Kaden

Double J. & N. Stamp Day SATURDAY, JANUARY 30

We will give twice the amount in J. & N. Stamps that you purchase

To close out the balance of our Ladies' Coats we offer them at

1-2 Price 1-2

GO TO -- Levinson's -- Get the Habit

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

There was nothing weak about this son of Erin. An Irishman coming over on the Beaver last summer was sick and bending over the rail in great distress. A passenger stopped near him and remarked: "You seem to have a weak stomach, Pat." Straightening up and throwing out his chest, the Irishman replied: "Wake nawthin'. O'm throwing as fur ns nny wnn on this side the ship, sor."

The solemnity of the meeting was somewhat disturbed when the eloquent young theologian pictured in glowing words the selfishness of men who spend their evenings at the club, leaving their wives in loneliness at home. "Think, my hearers," said he, "of a poor neglected wife all alone in the great, dreary house rocking the cradle of her sleeping babe with one foot and wiping away her tears with the other."

A country parson who lived quite a distance from his church was overtaken on the way over one Sunday by a heavy shower. The rain poured in torrents and by the time he arrived at church he was almost drenched. Shaking the water from his coat and hat, he said: "Really, friends, I am almost too wet to preach." "Oh, never mind," replied one of his congregation: "you'll be dry enough in the pulpit."

Some women want to watch the operator, especially the one we speak of. "And will you have gas, madam?" inquired the dentist as a stout elderly woman entered his office. "Well," she replied with a doubtful glance at the doctor, "you don't suppose I'm going to let you tinker about me in the dark, do you?"

"Bruders and sistahs," said the old colored preacher, "I see gwine to preach a powerful sermon dis mawnin'. I see gwine to define the undefinable, I see gwine to explain de unexplainable, an' I see gwine to uncrewer de uncreutable."

County Convention.

Notice is hereby given that the Republican county convention will be held in the city of Boyne City on the 6th day of February, 1915, at one o'clock p. m., for the purpose of selecting eleven delegates to attend the Republican state convention appointed to be held in the city of Grand Rapids on the 12th day of February, 1915.

Each township and ward is entitled to the following number of delegates: Bay township, 2; Boyne township, 3; Chandler township, 1; Charlevoix township, 1; Evangeline township, 1; Eveline township, 3; Hayes township, 3; Hudson township, 1; Marion township, 2; Melrose township, 3; Norwood township, 1; Peaine township, 1; Saint James township, 2; South Arm township, 3; Wilson township, 2; city of Boyne City—First ward, 3; second ward, 5; third ward, 7; fourth ward, 6; Charlevoix—First ward, 2; second ward, 6; third ward, 4; East Jordan—First ward, 2; second ward, 3; third ward, 5.

Wm. J. Pearson, Chairman; Will H. Griffin, Secretary

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

NOTHING PAYS BETTER DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

It does not cost any more to deal in a first class store where you get courteous treatment and prompt delivery than it does to trade anywhere else.

Our competitors are wondering how we can sell so low. In order to show them that we can, watch our

SPECIALS FOR SATURDAY

IN OUR MEAT DEPARTMENT we will sell

Choice Pot Roast of Beef	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c	Sirloin Steaks at	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c
Rump Roast of Beef	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c	Porter House Steak	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c
Short Ribs of Beef	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c	Hamburg Steak at	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c
Round Steaks at	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c	Pork Spare Ribs at	12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c

Fancy Fresh Dressed Chickens
Choice Young Pig Pork
Young Mutton Fat Veal

Try our Sweet Pickle Pork and Corned Beef, Tomato or Sage Sausage

WE GIVE TRADING STAMPS
Come Early First Come First Served

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 64

Saturday Only Cotton Batting Sale

10c Cotton Batts at	8c
12 1-2c Cotton Batts at	10c
15c Cotton Batts at	12 1/2c
20c Cotton Batts at	15c
2 pound Batts, ready to quilt, at	45c
3 pound Batts, ready to quilt, at	65c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Read "Zudora."

Opening chapters next week.

Story in the Courier, pictures at Majestic.

H. Snider of Detroit spent a few days in the city last week.

Robert Ross of Chicago was a business visitor in the city Monday.

Fred Slight returned home Saturday from Lansing and Grand Rapids.

J. L. Crane is spending a few days as a business visitor in Grand Rapids.

Charlie Emrey spent Sunday and Monday visiting friends in Boyne City.

Stanley Bush spent Wednesday of last week visiting friends in East Jordan.

Charles F. Edgar of Mount Pleasant was a business visitor in the city last week.

Supt. C. C. Gracey of Boyne Falls was a business visitor in the city Saturday.

Miss Freda Fordermann of Chicago is a guest at the home of Mrs. John Kelley.

Richard Shapton left Saturday on a combined business and pleasure trip to Chicago.

J. Jackson of Detroit spent a few days as a business visitor in the city last week.

Mrs. H. E. Alden of Detroit is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Geo. Pappin.

Donald Campbell and Otto Hines made a trip to Boyne City Thursday with their ice-boat.

Charles See returned home Saturday from Grand Rapids, where he spent a week buying furniture.

Merle Felts returned home Monday from Petoskey, where she spent the past week visiting friends.

Earl Preston of Petoskey spent Sunday and Monday in the city as the guest of Miss Lillian Emrey.

R. F. Sloan left Monday for Chattanooga, Tennessee, where he will spend a few weeks visiting his mother.

Ralph Craig of Sault Sainte Marie is spending a few days in the city visiting his brother, Supt. H. A. Craig.

Miss Mamie McManus of Petoskey spent the week end in the city visiting friends, returning to her home Monday.

The Golden Link Club were delightfully entertained at an afternoon tea Friday, Miss Ruth Reid being the hostess.

Rev. L. C. Vineyard arrived in the city Saturday from southern Illinois, where he was called by the death of his father.

Mrs. Herb. Colburn of East Jordan came to Charlevoix last week to spend the remainder of the winter with her mother.

Mrs. C. E. Noble returned home Monday from Chicago, where she spent a week on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Lawrence Dillisen and Clifford Taylor returned home Saturday after spending the past few months in Grand Rapids and Chicago.

Richard Shapton returned to the city Wednesday after spending a week in Stratford, Ontario, where he was called by the death of his sister.

Miss Addie Holly resumed her duties at the telephone office Monday after a two weeks vacation, which she spent with friends in Grand Rapids.

The ladies of the Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge, No. 293, I. O. O. F., will entertain their husbands at supper and social evening Tuesday, February 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davoll of Boyne Falls spent Friday and Saturday in the city. They furnished the music for the Masonic dance Friday evening.

Will Finnean returned home Tuesday after a three week's vacation, which he spent visiting friends and relatives in Herkimer, New York and Utica, Canada.

Homey Brady and wife and two children returned to their home in Leland last week after spending a few weeks in the city visiting Mr. and Mrs. Brady's parents.

The Ladies of the R. N. A. will serve a supper at the home of Mrs. Thomas Nowland, 224 Antrim street, Friday, January 29. An invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. A. S. Sober and Miss Nina Baldwin of Moncelona, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shonta of Petoskey were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Crandell last week.

The ladies' auxiliary of the fronton grange will have a dance January 29. The committee consists of Matthew Saunders, Jerry Saunders and Grant Hammond. All are invited.

Ibson Nordrum entertained a number of his friends Friday afternoon in honor of his fifth birthday. The afternoon was spent in playing games after which refreshments were served.

Last Wednesday afternoon a jolly crowd met at the home of Mrs. Arthur Worden, which meant a good old-fashioned potluck. Everybody reported a fine time and some remained to have their fortunes told.

The "Jolly Ten" visited Mrs. Mary Hilton last Wednesday. At 12 o'clock dinner was served and just before leaving they served cider. A good time is reported by all. That is the place to go for a good time.

Dan Bush's two daughters entertained Mrs. F. Bettes and Mrs. Wm. Black's Sunday school classes with a sleigh ride to their home Saturday. A potluck dinner was served and a very merry afternoon was enjoyed by all.

Mesdames S. and Louis Orlovski entertained a number of friends at a ten cent tea Thursday afternoon. The high school orchestra played the entire afternoon, light refreshments were served and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by all the guests.

Prosecutor Lewis and Sheriff Novak spent Saturday in Boyne City on business. They attempted to save the county livery bills by going across on an ice boat but will doubtless not try it again, as we understand walking and pushing an ice boat is no small job.

Had to Be Amused.

Some time ago a young married man, accompanied by her two children, visited the home of her parents. In just two days the youngest was in full possession of everything around the house except the skirting and the cayenne pepper box.

"Bessie dear," appealingly remonstrated the young married woman one afternoon, addressing her sister, "give your prayer book downstairs?"

"Why, yes," answered Bessie, "delugely. 'What do you want it for?'"

"I want to know if you won't let baby play with it for awhile," was the startling rejoinder of the other. "He has just torn mamma's all to pieces."

Boston Advertiser.

Leisure is time for doing something useful. This leisure the diligent man will obtain, but the lazy man never, for a life of leisure and a life of business are two things - Benjamin Franklin.

GLASSES FITTED

CONSULT

J. LEAHY

Optometrist

Expert on Eye Strain

Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, and all other symptoms of Eye Strain cured.

Crossed Eyes Straightened Without an Operation.

Fitting Children's Eyes a Specialty.

Difficult Cases Solicited

Glasses Guaranteed to Fit.

Hotel Charlevoix—1 Day Only

Monday, February 1st

PLACES BAN ON BLIND PIGS

Boyne City Makes a Determined Stand to Get Rid of Them.

City Officials Offer Reward of $25 for Information Leading to Arrest and Conviction.

The below is a copy of a placard which will be seen posted in every conspicuous place of the city, says the Boyne City Citizen. The same will also be found in the columns of the Citizen and we take this occasion to state to those engaged in the unlawful sale of liquor in this city that they will find themselves in a very tight position unless they abandon their methods of obtaining money immediately.

$25.00 REWARD

Notice is hereby given that the City of Boyne City will pay a reward of $25.00 for satisfactory evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of any and all persons found guilty of violating the Local Option Law in this city. By order of the Common Council.

It is an open secret in the city that there are several who are and have been for months past engaged in the business of bootlegging. The officers have been suspicious of violation of the law by certain parties, but thus far, have not been able to lay their hands on the evidence to convict them. Heretofore this has been considered primarily a county question which should be dealt with by the county officers, but the violation has continued to such an extent that the city officials have determined to take a hand and rigidly enforce the Local Option Law. Previously the papers of the city have but lightly touched upon the cases of prosecution of violators, giving them the benefit of silence rather than a notoriety which would be unpleasant in the extreme. The Citizen, however, is with the council in driving out of business those who will prey upon the weakness of men and poison their lives for a few paltry dollars. Those who are apprehended in the business will be given all the publicity possible through the columns of the Citizen.

The Citizen does not take the stand that a man who drinks is lower than another. If he chooses to use liquor he has the right to secure the same if not violating any law. But when a man deliberately violates the law for personal gain he should have the sympathy of no one. He is not doing a favor for the man who purchases from him, for in return for exorbitant prices he furnishes a grade of stuff which is nothing more nor less than rank poison. Men, if you must drink, send away and get the best you can, it will be none too good, and by doing so save both your body and your purse. As long as the Local Option Law is on the statute books let us see that it is enforced.

Color in Lies.

It's a white lie when mamma tells papa what baby has been saying, but when papa goes and repeats it at the office it's another matter. A lie becomes more or less solid by being repeated around - Exchange.

Handy Section Nests.

The sketch shows a plan for hens nests which I find very easy to clean, says William C. Albright in the Farm and Fireside. Just lift each section off and sweep the top of the section below. There is no bottom to clean. The top of the lower section serves as the bottom of the one above; but is not attached to it.

A is a platform thirty inches wide and is hung by a strap to the top of the nest strip to hold the nest material; CO are boards 1 by 12 by 13 inches which are partitions between nests; D is a 1 by 4 for hens to walk on to get to upper section; E is a 1 by 12 inch board, the top of the first section.

The bottom section is suspended by wires so that it hangs about two feet from the floor, and the platform, A, is placed against the wall. A burlap curtain is hung over the front of the nests to darken them, but can be pushed aside when you wish to gather the eggs.

Roots For Feed.

Roots are excellent feed for dairy cows and are especially desirable for the fall and early winter as they are palatable and easy to digest and stimulate the flow of milk. Less than 200 lbs. is required while roots are being fed. The change from roots to other feed should be made gradually, adding 25 lbs. at the first and 50 lbs. at the second periods at

TRUTH.

Truth is always consistent with itself and needs no aid to help it out. It is always near at hand, sits upon our lips and is ready to drop out before we are aware. A lie is troublesome and sets a man's invention upon the rack, and one despicable trick needs a great many more of the same kind to make it good.

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

DUCKS WANTED. White Pekin preferred. R. C. Korff, Phone 114, Charlevoix.

FOR SALE. Black horse, perfectly gentle. Please write, Peter Kump, Charlevoix, R.F.D. 3.

FOR SALE. Fine high grade Holstein heifers and one bull calf. All 75 Holstein. Call, please or write. Van Winters, R.F.D. No. 1, phone 97, Arango.

J. L. CRANE

We are pleased to announce the placing on exclusive Sale of

SOL SATIN

The Imported English Satin

Guaranteed 5 Year's Wear

54 INCHES WIDE

$1.00 YARD

Permit Me

to call your attention to the fact that this is the time of the year to OIL your HARNESS—before Spring Work begins. It will renew the life and color of your Harness—it keeps the leather soft and pliable, preventing it from cracking and renders it waterproof

The Price of Leather being High, it will pay you to Repair and OIL YOUR HARNESS

Washing and Oiling Single Harness $1—Washing and Oiling Double Harness $1.50

THIS IS A SPECIAL PRICE FOR THE NEXT 60 DAYS

BENJ. BROWN

FROM

September 1885

IRON DUKE FLOUR

—TO—

January 1915

a good record

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

Do It Now!

See Our Special Clubbing Offers on Page Seven.

Wonderful Exhibits From All Lands Show the World's Best Progress

From Beginning to End Magnificent Panama-Pacific International Exposition Will Abound With Superb Educational and Entertainment Features.

By HAMILTON WRIGHT.
THIS construction of the vast Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco was 95 per cent completed three months before the opening day, on Feb. 20, 1915. The early installation of thousands of tons of rare and costly exhibits from all parts of the globe and the participation of forty of the world's great countries have assured a celebration that will be unrivaled in its splendor, magnitude, interest and comprehensiveness.

From its opening until its close, on Dec. 4, 1915, the Exposition will abound with original features collected at an expenditure of many millions of dollars. It will present a cross section of human achievement. The Panama-Pacific International Exposition, which opened on Feb. 20, 1915, is a single day, and, far in advance of its opening, the Exposition had created an unprecedented interest throughout the world, and its opening was eagerly awaited.

In ten competitive exhibits there will be presented more than 80,000 single exhibits and groups of related exhibits portraying the results of the world's best efforts in recent years. This wonderful Exposition, presented at an outlay of more than $200,000,000, celebrates a contemporaneous achievement, the building of the Panama canal, and all exhibits that are entered for competitive award will be those that have been originated or produced since the great Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis two years ago. The possible exception to this rule will be where earlier exhibits are rare work will, for example, see in the Palace of Mines an exhibit three-fourths of an acre in extent, illustrating the manner in which the largest steel corporation in the world is caring for and plans to still further advance the welfare of its employees. In the Palace of Education they will be interested in a great United States government exhibit.

Photograph courtesy San Francisco Examiner.

THE MOTHER OF LINCOLN BEACHEY, FROM THE TOWER OF JEWELS, 435 FEET ABOVE THE EARTH, AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, WATCHES HER SON LOOP HIS ONE THOUSANDTH LOOP.

When Lincoln Beachey, a son of San Francisco, on the occasion of his homecoming after breaking all world records as a daredevil loop of 999 loops, performed two entirely new and death defying stunts over the completed palaces of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition it was his aged mother who for the first time waved him an to fresh achievements. Mrs. Beachey held a place of honor, 435 feet up in the air, on the thip of the wonderful Tower of Jewels. From this herie she was able to watch every erratic move of her daredevil son. She cried out only once. That was when he wrote the figures "1000" against the clouds, high above the two miles of completed exhibit palaces, significant of the looping of his one thousandth loop.

ama canal is today open and doing business on a far vaster scale than was predicted for it, and the Exposition, which celebrates the opening of the canal, is today revealed as the greatest manifestation of national achievement in American history. Here will be a neutral ground where even nations engaged to warfare will display on a scale never before equaled their progress in the arts, industries and sciences of peace.

Within three months before the opening of the Exposition as many as 2,000 tons of consignments had reached San shown to illustrate the evolution of the processes of manufacture—as, for example, a display of a model of the first cotton gin in connection with the various equipment into which it has evolved.

Many of the displays will be especially adapted to study by the delegates to great national and international congresses and conventions, of which more than 300, embracing almost every phase of human activity, have voted to meet in San Francisco in 1915. Delegates to the congresses interested in social progress and well-congress, at which its distinguished chairman, Colonel George W. Goethals, will preside.

The foreign participation will be notable. The nations are not attempting to show everything that they produce, but will lay special emphasis upon those products to which they excel. In the Danish display, for example, will be shown products of the Royal Danish porcelain factory at Copenhagen. Japan in her extensive exhibit will display priceless works of art, loaned by direction of the imperial household and many of which could not be duplicated. From Italy will be shown historic paintings of the old masters, hitherto never exhibited in America in the originals. From China there have reached San Francisco selections of exhibits collected under the supervision of the governors of the Chinese provinces. Rare silks and satins, carvings, luxury work in the precious metals, exhibits of the transportation methods employed in the old China and the modern methods used in the awakening republic will be shown.

New Zealand will make a marvelous exhibit of its rare woods, of its herds, of its superb scenic charms. A large number of rare giant tree ferns from New Zealand will be found growing on the Exposition grounds.

The Argentine Republic early set aside a larger sum than any ever appropriated by a foreign nation for representation in an American exposition. The modern cities of Argentina, the schools, churches, libraries, the great live stock and agricultural interests will be extensively portrayed, and the mutual interests of South America and North America will be emphasized in almost every conceivable manner. From South Africa will be shown diamond exhibits and methods of extraction. The magnificent Canadian displays will review not only the widely known agricultural wealth, but will illustrate the scenic charms of the great Dominion, of snow clad mountain peaks, of far-reaching forest, of inland lakes in chains of silver and rushing mountain streams.

"THE END OF THE TRAIL," PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, 1915.

This photograph shows James Earle Fraser's superb piece of statuary, "The End of the Trail," at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. More than 800 beautiful sculptures are shown at the Exposition, the works of famous sculptors of the day. In addition to the sculptures shown out of doors, thousands of beautiful works of art are presented in the great Palace of Fine Arts.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA" beginning February 3—Pictures of Zudora will be shown at the Majestic Fridays, beginning February 5.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

MICHIGAN'S GREATEST DAILY $1.00 Per Year

The most wonderful offer we have been able to make to our readers. Think of it—The Detroit Tribune 6 days a week, for $1.00 a year. We make this offer to you: The Detroit Tribune for $1.00 per year to all new subscribers to the Charlevoix Courier, or to any regular subscriber to the Courier who pays up all arrearages. This rate is good on R. F. D. Routes only. It's a special offer to Farmers to have a daily at an extremely low price. The offer will be given for a short time only, so we advise you to send in your subscription at once.

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

EIGHT SPECIAL CLUBBING RATES

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

1 May Manton Pattern $2.60
Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.25

GRAB THESE BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Detroit Tribune, daily 4.00

All 1 yr for $2.50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Detroit Tribune 4.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $2.75

(Above Rates Good Until January 31st and on R. F. D. Routes Only)

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Grange Column

Pomona Grange.

Charlevoix Pomona Grange will meet with Pine Lake Grange on Thursday, February 4. The report of the delegate to the State Grange will be given at this time. Members are requested to make the meeting a successful one.

Cut rate prices on all magazines to Courier readers. See adv. on page 7.

Pine Lake Grange.

In response to an invitation from Pine Lake Grange, Peninsular Grange met with them at their hall on Charlevoix street, Boyne City, for a joint installation of officers of both granges. Dinner was served at one o'clock by the ladies and proved to be such a dinner as farmers' wives know how to serve. The table was laid for eighty people.

After dinner the meeting was called to order by the Worthy Master, Mrs. S. L. J. McNeal, and was at once turned over to the installing officer, E. E. Stroud, and his assistants, Mrs. Stroud and Mr. Webster, all of Maple Grove Grange.

The installation of officers in the grange is a beautiful ceremony when only one set of officers is installed, but when installed in pairs as in a double installation it makes a very impressive scene.

Following is a list of the officers installed:

Pine Lake Grange—
Master—Amelia Kaden.
Overseer—Benjamin Gardner.
Lecturer—Sarah L. J. McNeal.
Steward—Harold Arnold.
Asst. Steward—Floyd Snyder.
Chaplain—Mrs. W. S. Abbott.
Treasurer—Hugh Miller.
Secretary—Myrtle Snyder.
Gatekeeper—Bernard Haas.
Ceres—Beulah Caldwell.
Pomona—Armanda McNeal.
Flora—Edith Drake.
L. A. Steward—Lillie Gardner.
Peninsular Grange—
Master—John Heller.
Overseer—John McClain.
Lecturer—Mrs. J. E. Chew.
Steward—Matt Crowell.
Asst. Steward—Carl Heller.
Chaplain—Mrs. Persons.
Treasurer—Will Looze.
Secretary—R. W. Mead.
Gatekeeper—Theodore Lou.
Ceres—Mrs. Gussolus.
Pomona—Mrs. Ruhling.
Flora—Hazel Morrison.
L. A. Steward—Gladys Heller.

After the installation a report of the meeting of the State Grange was given by the installing officer, assisted by the master of Harmony Grange.

Following the report were short talks by Mrs. McNeal, Mr. Newville, Mr. Lanway, Pomona Master Chew and others. Retiring Master McNeal's talk showed how keen an interest is felt in grange affairs in Pine Lake Grange and made every member of that grange regret more deeply, if possible, the circumstances which prevented her from holding this office longer.

Nearly 100 grangers were present and live granges were represented. All voted Brother Stroud the "best ever" installing officer and after an exchange of good wishes and general good fellowship all departed feeling that this was one of the big events of grange life.

You better send in your subscription for the Courier TODAY - Opening chapters of "Zudora" begin Wednesday, February 3.

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange met at the home of Sister Mary Crandall on Antrim street Friday evening, January 22nd. A short business session was held, after which the meeting was turned over to the Worthy Lecturer, Program: Instrumental music Sister Martha Dutton.

Reading—Sister Miladi Volter.
Apple guessing contest—Mrs. Nat Burns won the first prize, and Mrs. Frank Smith the booty prize.

Refreshments were served by Sister Crandall, which were enjoyed by all present.

The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, February 4th, instead of Friday evening, February 5th, at the home of Brother and Sister Dutton on Antrim street. A potluck supper will be served. Visitors were present from Marion Center Grange and are always welcome to Charlevoix Grange. Don't forget the date.

Fine Entertainment.

The following taken from the Pentwater News will be of interest to many Charlevoix residents:

"The musical program, under the auspices of the 'H Sharp' Club last week was a high class entertainment in every respect and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience. Great credit is due Mrs. Clara Bellinger Dennis, musical director, for the efforts in making the event a success." Mrs. Dennis is well known in this city and is instructing a large class in Pentwater.

Subscribe for the Courier

Additional Locals

Read 'Zudora.'

Opening chapters next week. Story in the Courier, pictures at Majestic.

Bert VanAllesburg of Petoskey was in the city Monday.

Leland Cram has accepted a position in McCann's bakery.

J. Netzorg of Detroit spent Monday in the city on business.

Dr. Armstrong made a business trip to Central Lake Monday.

Miss Neta Mayne spent Friday as a business visitor in Petoskey.

Mrs. Rollet Ross is able to be out again after her recent illness.

Harry Bloom of Chicago was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Miss Shebrat of Petoskey, was a business visitor in the city Tuesday.

Charlie Marshall of Traverse City was a business visitor in the city Wednesday.

John Severings of East Jordan spent Monday and Tuesday in the city as a business visitor.

The Women's Relief Corps will have an entertainment the evening of February 12. Watch for further announcement.

Fred Myers has purchased the house owned by the F. S. Blanchard estate on Park avenue now occupied by R. M. A. Johnson.

Mrs. E. S. Small of Traverse City was in the city Tuesday, attending the twenty-first anniversary of White Rose High, No. 443.

Mrs. Harry Weed of Detroit returned home Saturday after spending a few days in the city visiting her mother, Mrs. Geo. Pappin.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker left Friday for Chicago, where they will spend some time selecting fixtures for the new addition to the Beach Hotel.

DeForrest Wood returned home Tuesday from Indianapolis, Indiana, where he spent a week selecting electrical fixtures for the Beach Hotel.

A number of friends of Merritt Miller surprised him at his home Saturday evening, in honor of his birthday. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Guiles Warner and Wm. F. Bridge of Hammond, Indiana, are spending a few days in the city on business. They are guests at the home of R. C. Hammet.

Mrs. James H. Adams and Mrs. Charles Pierce of Marion township left Thursday morning for an extended visit to Detroit and Toledo and Jefferson, Ohio.

There will be a carpet rag social at the Burgess school house Friday evening, January 29, proceeds to go for the benefit of the Sunday school. Everyone is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Healey of Boyne City returned home Friday after visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Wm. Prevost. Mr. and Mrs. Prevost accompanied them to Boyne City, returning the same day.

R. P. Foley, manager of the Belvedere hotel at Charlevoix during the summer season and of the New Seminole Inn, at Winter Park, Fla., in winter, is slowly recovering from a severe illness. He was in a Florida hospital for three weeks suffering from hemorrhages of the nose. He is a brother of John Foley, well known Petoskey photographer. Petoskey Evening News.

THEATRICAL

"The Lure."

"The Lure" is the next big feature to be shown at the Majestic Theatre February 3rd.

In presenting this story the management feels that it is giving the patrons something to take home with them and think about. The Lure if one of the big Schubert features that has created sensations on the screens of all the large cities. It deals with society life, the underworld, the hardships of poverty and throughout all, is a story of love and sacrifice.

This is a story that all should see, and those that do will not forget it.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP.

(Excerpts from an address delivered before the National W. C. T. U. convention, by Mrs. Frances E. Beanchamp of Kentucky.)

Why do we have blind babies? We do not have blind calves, blind colts, blind pigs, and blind lambs. While the problem confronts us the statistician steps up behind us and tells us that 68 per cent of all the children that are born blind come into this world thus hampered because the grimy hand of the liquor traffic, through the drink habit of the parents or grandparents lifted itself out of the past and projected itself into the future, and closed the eyes of the children before they were born. The acclimatists tell us that so far as the blight upon future generations is concerned, a man would better get hilariously drunk now and then and stay sober the rest of the time, than to be a constant, moderate drinker, continually taking into his system small quantities of alcohol.

I ask you to estimate how many blind children we have in the United States, count the cost to the state of maintaining its institutions for the blind, and then put it down as part of the tribute we annually render to King Alcohol that he may go on in his work of putting out the eyes of generations that are to come.

Why should America have deaf children? As you are pondering upon this problem the statistician again steps up behind you and says, as in the case of the blind, that about 68 out of every 100 (taking the average throughout the land) of all these children who are born deaf, are the victims of this same great destroyer, the liquor traffic. If the lower animals were fed on alcohol, as is the higher animal, they would have deaf colts, and deaf calves, and deaf pigs, and deaf lambs. Did you ever think what this means? What it means in economic loss to the nation.

From 25 to 50 per cent of all the insane in this nation are victims of alcohol used sometimes on the prescription of the physician; sometimes constantly to patent nostrums; often in moderate quantities, and frequently to excess.

Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and Kentucky are the six great whisky producing states of this nation. Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Kentucky have the largest percentage of insanity of any of the states of this nation. Do you call that coincidence? I don't. I call it cause and effect. You can't trample God's laws under foot and go unwhipped of justice.

Sometimes I get a good deal mixed up on the question of who the criminals are. Often I am quite convinced that the poor fellow behind the bars is not half so bad as the man who walks down the street, prides himself on his strength, and puts into the box a ballot to elect in office men who he knows will not enforce the law.

I want you to go with me to the prison for a little while at the time the men fall in line to march to their cells at night. If you have such a splendid Christian witness as we have in our Kentucky reformatory and in our state penitentiary, you can say to him, "Won't you call that line to a halt and order every man who came here for offenses committed when he was under the influence of alcoholic liquor, as shown by the evidence adduced in the trial, to step out of that line over here." If you are not up on statistics you will be amazed at the results: If you were in Kentucky 86 out of every 100 of these men, according to the decisions of the courts, would step out and form a new line. If you were in New York, according to the decisions of the courts, 92 out of every 100 would step forward. I ask you, which is more of a criminal, the man who votes to establish an institution to make criminals, or the poor fellow, who with muddled brain commits some offense for which he is sentenced to the penitentiary?

HEAVENLY CONDITIONS.

A country clergyman in Russia, writing of the improved conditions in that country under prohibition, says: "The old women in the villages can hardly believe their own eyes and ears, so changed are their men folk. Not a hard word, not a row, but everywhere peace, kindness and industry. War is said to be hell, but this is like a foretaste of heaven."

SALOONS SUPPLANTED.

On one street in Wheeling, W. Va., for seven squares where formerly were located 23 saloons there are now found shoe stores, drug stores, meat shops and business enterprises of various other kinds.

MUST STUDY TEMPERANCE.

A decree from Peru's president makes temperance education compulsory in the public schools of that country.

POISONERS GENERAL.

All who sell poisonous liquors in the common way to any that will buy are poisoners general—John Wesley.

WHAT THE MERCHANT GETS.

In a license town the merchant gets only what is left after the saloon-keeper gets what he can.

Subscribe for the Courier.

Tom Quinlan Dead.

Thos. Quinlan, well known throughout the entire portion of Northern Michigan, was found dead in the garage in the rear of the home of his son late Monday afternoon. He had been in poor health for some time and under the doctor's care. In 1871 he worked as clerk in a store at Norwood, moving to Petoskey in 1874. At one time he was manager of Fox, Rose & Butters' store, later going into the banking business.

When in need of—

FURNITURE
STOVES AND RANGES
CARPETS AND RUGS
BLANKETS AND COMFORTS

Go to— S. M. See & Sons The Reliable House Furnishers

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

JANUARY CLEARING SALE

To close out Winter Stock and reduce amount of goods, we will sell for CASH from now until FEBRUARY 1st, our entire stock at very low prices. If you are in need of anything in our line it will pay you to buy now. We can not buy now and duplicate prices. We will be pleased to show you goods and quote you prices.

Shoe Department

Two months yet of cold weather—Don't you want something real warm?—Here are prices that are ruinous to us, but will look good to you and they are prices we won't make again this winter. To close out we will sell:

Child's 1-buckle Arctics.....48c
Child's 2-buckle Arctics.....85c
Misses' 1-buckle Arctics.....65c
Misses' 2-buckle Arctics.....98c
Women's 1-buckle Arctics.....78c
Women's 2-buckle Arctics.....$1.10
Youth's 1-buckle Arctics.....75c
Youth's 2-buckle Arctics.....98c
Boys' 1-buckle Arctics.....98c
Boys' 2-buckle Arctics.....$1.25
Men's 1-buckle Arctics.....$1.00
Men's 2-buckle Arctics.....$1.50
Men's 4-buckle Arctics.....$2.19
Men's Alaskas.....98c
Women's Alaskas.....75c
Lot of Women's Rubbers.....48c
Lot of Women's and Men's Felt Slippers.....48c
Youth's 2-lace Rubbers for socks.....88c
Boys' 3-lace Rubbers for socks.....98c
Boys' 7-inch leather-top Rubbers.....$1.38
Youth's leather-top Rubbers.....$1.25
Men's 3-lace Rubbers for over socks.....$1.48
Men's 2-buckle Behring Rubbers.....$1.18
Men's 1-buckle Perfection Rubbers for over felt boots.....$1.48
Women's all-felt Shoes.....98c - $1.19
Women's part felt and part leather Shoe.....$1.19
Women's fleeced-lined Rubbers.....98c
Women's Mackinaws, to pull over socks.....98c
Men's $2.50 felt Shoes.....$1.48
Women's $1.50 felt Slippers fancy colors, red, wine, green, purple, gray.....98c
Men's $1 Lumbermen's Socks.....75c
2 pair 50c Socks and 1 pair 15c Socks.....98c

Mittens

Men's $1.00 Mittens.....75c
Men's Mittens.....10c, 15c, 25c
Men's 50c Mittens.....40c

Men's Underwear

Men's 50c Shirts.....42c
Men's 50c Drawers.....42c
Men's $1.25 and $1.50 Union Suits.....98c

Grocery Department

We will sell for Cash until February 1st

12 large Oranges.....19c
3 large 5c boxes Tooth-picks.....5c
12 boxes 5c Ohio Matches.....35c
3 boxes 5c Ohio Matches.....10c
12 Clothes Pins.....1c
50c Lantern.....38c
$1 No. 2 Cold Blast Lantern.....75c
$1.00 New Style Lantern.....88c
4 pounds 10c Prunes.....25c
4 pounds A. & H. Soda.....25c
4 pounds 8c Rice.....25c
3 lb can White House Coffee.....98c
Japan Cup and Sancer and 1 pound of Coffee.....30c
1 pkg Green Circle Raisins.....8c

We recommend and sell a 15c, 25c, 35c, 40c and 50c Japan Tea

We sell 15c, 20c, 25c, 30c and 40c Coffees

We recommend our Full Value, Spring Hill, Continental, Barrington Hall, White House Coffees

Provisions

Don't you want to buy a barrel of Flour at right prices?

Spring Wheat Flour, to buy now at wholesale, would cost me $7.75 to $8.25 a barrel. We want the money and will sell you for Spot Cash:

Rye Flour, barrel.....$6.50
Producer Flour, barrel.....$7.00
Gold Medal Flour, barrel.....$7.50
Superlative Flour, barrel.....$7.50
90 pounds Oatmeal.....$3.15
100 lbs Oyster Shells.....75c
Crackers by the box, pound.....7c
60 pounds Lard.....$4.50
60 pounds Cottoquet.....$5.50
60 pounds Lard Compound.....$5.40

We carry a large line of National Biscuit Co's. Cookies, Confections and Crackers

3 cans, any assortment, 10c
Corn, Peas, Beans, Tomatoes, Pumpkin, Hominy, Soup, Sauer Kraut or Pork and Beans.....25c

2 cans, any assortment, 15c
Corn, Peas, Beans, Tomatoes, Spinach or Pork and Beans.....25c

We will sell 8 pkgs Fruit Juice, Hoho, Uncle Dan's, Blue Eye or Sun Cured Tobacco.....25c
4 plugs Navy Jack Tobacco.....25c

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 5

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

HISTORY OF H. & M. DISEASE

Disease Existed in Fifteen Counties in This State.

To Prevent Spread of Disease Required Strong and Determined Action by Authorities.

The recent lifting of the foot-and-mouth quarantine from large areas previously closed and the modification of the quarantines in still other sections has been made possible, federal authorities say, by the co-operation not only of the various state officials but of farmers and stockmen themselves. Where this co-operation has been most in evidence progress in the eradication of the disease has been most rapid. The federal authorities have, of course, control over the movement of live stock in interstate commerce only. The local quarantines are established and enforced by the state. Their efficiency depends in great measure upon the willingness of the people to submit to the necessary restrictions.

Indiana and Michigan are cited as instances of the importance in this respect of public opinion. In Michigan the first herd was slaughtered on October 19th. Cases of the disease existed in fifteen Michigan counties and eighteen in Indiana. In all, 330 counties were affected. Sixty days later these herds had all been slaughtered and the infected premises cleaned and freed from disease. In the interval there had been only a few scattering instances, half a dozen possibly, of the plague spreading from these different centers of infection to neighboring farms.

The people not only observed the quarantine regulations but they did all in their power to expedite the work of slaughter. In many cases they had the ditches in which the animals were to be buried dug and waiting for the killing gangs. As a rule, no objection was taken to the appraisers' valuation of the condemned stock, which is the more surprising in view of the fact that so little was generally known of the seriousness of the disease. The farmers did not want to part with their stock. They saw that the sore mouths and feet grew better and they had no experience with the after effects of the pestilence—the constant aborting, the failure to produce milk, the ability to disseminate disease months after the visible symptoms had disappeared. Nevertheless they accepted the situation—helping instead of hindering.

In only a very few cases was there any attempt to conceal the existence of the disease. In fact, public opinion was so strongly against this that it was practically impossible to do so. In one instance a man fed some skin milk from a creamery to a calf which later developed foot-and-mouth disease. It occurred to him to kill the calf and say nothing about the matter. The neighbors, however, obtained some inkling of the facts and notified the authorities. After he had been forced to admit that he had killed the calf the body was dug up and unmistakable marks of the disease found upon it. Within two weeks all the rest of the herd was infected and had to be killed. In addition, the owner was fined $20 or so for breaking the quarantine regulations. The sentiment of the whole community, it should be noted, was against him.

In another case in Michigan an individual with a weakness for dogs, of which he owned five or six, ignored the regulation which required all dogs to be tied up in order to prevent their picking up and spreading the disease. With him, as with the calf owner, it was the neighbors who objected. The sheriff tied up the dogs and their owner paid a fine of $23. A week or ten days afterwards he was punished more severely by the loss of all his cattle, which came down with the disease and had to be slaughtered. There had been no previous outbreak in that neighborhood for three weeks.

Although dogs, as in this case, and chickens unquestionably act as mechanical carriers in spreading the disease, in Indiana and Michigan the creameries were found to be one of the chief sources of contagion. One of the first steps taken by the authorities was to insist upon the creameries sterilizing the skimmed milk and why before these were returned to be fed to stock. At the beginning of the campaign in Berrien county, Michigan, there were at least 170 herds infected in an area approximately eighteen miles long by eight miles wide. Of this infection 10 per cent was traced to skimmed milk returned by the creameries. After the other requiring sterilization went into effect one establishment allowed its apparatus to get out of order and three days went by before it was repaired. Infection in 33 herds was traced to the carelessness of these three days.

In Allegan county, again, there was one small herd affected, the owner of which was one of 60 patrons of a creamery. Though he delivered milk to it for only one or two days this was sufficient to infect 21 herds and it was considered fortunate that all of the 60 patrons did not suffer.

From such experiences as these live-stock authorities are more than ever convinced that skim milk should invariably be sterilized. The danger from the foot-and-mouth disease is, of course, a passing one. Previous epidemics have been stamped out and there is no reason to suppose that this will not be. Tuberculosis, however, is a permanent menace. Its symptoms are not so immediately noticeable and it is therefore more difficult to trace the origin of the infection, but there is no doubt that it is frequently disseminated in skim milk in the same way that the foot-and-mouth disease was in the instances described.

Together with the creameries, public sales of live stock have proved most dangerous agents in spreading foot-and-mouth disease. In Indiana and Michigan the state authorities absolutely prohibited the holding of such sales in or adjacent to areas where the disease existed. The spread of the contagion in other states where this prohibition was not enforced shows the value of the precaution, but it requires strong and determined action on the part of the local authorities.

MANY GOOD ROADS BUILT IN STATE

Is Shown in the Biennial Report Recently Issued.

State Highway Commissioner Makes Known Work Accomplished—Great Benefits Derived.

That the people of Michigan are awakening to the benefits of good roads and are willing to spend their money on improvement is clearly shown by the biennial report of the state highway commissioner just issued, which gives the progress up to and including the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914.

The total of state reward roads of all classes upon which applications had been accepted was 4,119,630 miles. Of this mileage 1,136,589, or over one-third, was accepted during the fiscal year from July 1, 1913, to June 30, 1914. The mileage actually constructed in the state up to the date of the report was 2,436,388, of which 692,316 miles were constructed during the previous year. The total reward paid to counties and townships from the beginning of the state reward system up to the date of the report was $1,628,485, of which $464,093 was paid for the fiscal year 1913-1914.

The report of the commissioner is very comprehensive, including a synopsis of the laws relating to state reward roads, general specifications for the different classes of roads, bridges, etc., rewards paid for the various classes, and a mass of other valuable information relating to the work of road construction. The work is copiously illustrated with half-tones of road building operations and completed work in different parts of the state and is accompanied by a set of comprehensive maps showing completed roads, those on which the applications have been made and the route of the established trunk lines.

A careful perusal of this report will convince the most skeptical that good roads sentiment in Michigan has come to stay and that the state reward system has accomplished a great work in improving the highways of the state, which will continue to increase as the benefits resulting from the work become more apparent.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Meets Friday Evening at Home of Doctor and Mrs. Armstrong.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet Friday evening with Doctor and Mrs. R. B. Armstrong. The following is the program:

Instrumental solo—Miss D. F. O. H. Armstrong.
The Historic Shrine of Santa Rosa—Mrs. W. E. Hampton.
Social intermission.
Vocal solo—Dr. F. H. Wilkinson.
Stereopticon evening, subject, "Stratford on Avon"—Mr. H. A. Crane.

ZUDORA AT THE MAJESTIC

Famous Thanouser Serial Photoplay to Start Friday Night.

Courier Readers to Have Opportunity to Read the Story Before Shown at Theatre.

The first instalment of "Zudora," by Harold McGrath, the famous Thanouser serial photoplay, appears in this issue of the Courier.

In presenting to its readers a story of this character the Courier is about to do an unusual thing for a weekly newspaper. It is seldom that even the large dailies give their readers an opportunity of this kind. Stories as famous as "Zudora" are to be found only in the largest dailies in the world and it has been only for a few months past that these great newspapers have published them. The great success of the "Million Dollar Mystery" plainly demonstrated that the people demand stories of this character and since this time they have grown in popularity every day.

"Zudora" will run for twenty weeks. The instalment run in each issue of the Courier will cover the pictures shown at the Majestic theatre every Friday night, thus giving our readers the opportunity of reading the story before it is thrown upon the curtain at the Majestic.

You all know of the success of the "Million Dollar Mystery." It is said by experts that "Zudora" is a better story and the pictures more thrilling than the great photoplay which has just closed. While it was running many expressed a wish to read the story, which could only be obtained by purchasing the Chicago Tribune each week. With "Zudora" you will have the chance to read it each week in your home paper. It is not published in book form and for this reason you should not miss each instalment as it is published in the Courier.

The selection of serial stories has been one of the greatest problems the Courier management has had to contend with. Those which have been run in the past have been the best we could buy. In the selection of "Zudora" we are not only giving our readers the latest written, but a story that is costing us more than double the amount paid for those published in the past.

Read the opening chapter of "Zudora" in this issue; then go to the Majestic Friday evening and see the pictures. If you like it let us know, as the success of "Zudora" depends largely as to our running serials of a similar nature in the future.

If you are not a subscriber to the Courier you had better send in your name at once. Reading this story will be worth more than the cost of a year's subscription.

DIED IN TEXAS

Mrs. Lurena Holmes Was Well Known in Charlevoix—Burial in Tennessee.

Mrs. Lurena Holmes, formerly Miss Lurena O'Neil of this city, passed away Sunday in a Texas sanitarium, where she had been the past year, tubercular trouble being the cause of her suffering and death. Deceased was twenty-eight years of age. Interment took place at Brookville, Tennessee, that place being her home.

Besides her husband she leaves a son, Robert, age eight, and her grandfather, Captain Harrison Berdan of this city, as well as a host of friends who will mourn their loss.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Junior Y. M. C. A. group held their weekly meeting Monday evening. Rev. Quinton Walker gave several useful hints on the ministry, which all enjoyed.

The business meeting was next held in which the following officers were elected: Pres., James Thompson, Vice Pres., Thomas Nowland re-elected, Sec., Richard Hammett. Following this several games were played, after which Bible study was held. All then went to their respective homes.

The Dance.

At the earnest request of members of every denomination in the city, Rev. Q. Walker will preach next Sunday night on the subject "Why Christians Ought Not to Dance." All should hear a full and fearless treatment of this vital topic. If you don't want the facts set at home. All are most cordially invited, but especially the Christians who dance.

SHOULD BE AN ANNUAL EVENT

Such is the Verdict of Husbands of Rebekahs.

Who Were Entertained and Banqueted at the I. O. O. F. Hall Tuesday Evening.

A more satisfied and contented bunch of husbands never appeared at a public gathering than those who were guests of their Rebekah wives at the I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening. It is not known to the writer whether this is an annual event or not, but if it is not, we think we voice the sentiment of all husbands in emphatically stating that it should be one.

Numerous questions were asked during the early part of the evening regarding the serious and lonely look on the faces of little knots of men gathered in business places in the neighborhood of the hall, silently talking among themselves. The only explanation offered: "My wife's a Rebekah—big doing to-night—they'll let us in after a while." It was a new experience to many of them, but the reward for the waiting more than offset the inconvenience of being left out in the cold.

After the regular session had been held the husbands were invited into the hall and escorted to the dining room, where a splendidly served potluck supper was tendered them. When the inner man had been satisfied they were taken into the lodge room, where a fine program in charge of Mrs. John Burns was given. Space prevents us from enumerating all the features of the evening, but, to sum it up in one word, it was "fine."

Nearly one hundred were present and when the time for departure came the one sentiment expressed was: "We have had a good time—the ladies are royal entertainers."

TWO CANDIDATES

O. D. Hammond and Jos. M. Courrier Seek Office of Road Commissioner.

In another part of this issue will be found the announcements of O. D. Hammond and Joseph M. Courrier as candidates for the office of county road commissioner at the coming primaries.

Mr. Hammond has held the office of the past two years and during this time has given a good account of himself. He has made a record for results in the expenditure of the county's money for road building, and with two years of experience should continue the good record made in the past, if re-elected.

Mr. Courrier is a resident of Eveline township, where he has lived for many years. He has served his township for four years as highway commissioner and has the reputation of being a practical road builder.

Both are good men for the position and the choice of the electors will only be known when the ballots are counted on the close of primary election day.

One dollar and fifty cents will get your double harness washed and oiled. It will pay you to have this done—Benj. Brown. Adv. 511

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses issued by County Clerk Lewis during the past two weeks:

James Woods, age 28, and Margaret Scipio, age 19, both of Boyne City.

William F. Bogart, age 21, of Boyne City, and Susie Bell Bennett, age 20, of Eveline township.

David Winters, age 24, and Leople Oles, age 18, both of Boyne City.

Political Announcement.

To the Republican Electors of the County of Charlevoix:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of County Road Commissioner at the primaries March 3rd.

Pol. Adv. 511 Oakley D. Hammond.

Gaunt-Adams.

Arthur Gaunt and Mrs. Myrtle Adams, both of Eveline township, were married last week at the parsonage of the Church of God by the pastor, James Ruelue. Mr. Gaunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Gaunt, and their many friends unite in wishing them a happy and prosperous married life.

Read "Zudora" our new serial story. Pictures to be shown at Majestic.

HAD ENJOYABLE TIME

Old Soldiers and Their Families Have Potluck Supper Saturday Evening.

On Saturday evening the old soldiers and their families to the number of over thirty made a potluck descent on the home of J. M. Felts and with readings and other diversions had a very enjoyable time.

The old boys, though verging on the octogenarian, with their best girls, on this occasion fully justified the line: "Four score like twenty hath its tasks and joys; In earth's wide schoolhouse all are girls and boys."

FORGING AHEAD

Methodist Sunday School Reaches High Water Mark for Attendance.

Last Sunday the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school of this city reached high water mark for attendance. There were 303 people present. The primary department alone numbered 82. The men's class has a membership of 35. The women's class of nearly 50 is doing unusually good work under the leadership of Miss Himes. Classes are held for young men and young women and next Sunday will begin a new class for young married people. A very capable corps of officers and teachers fully intend to bring the school to the 400 mark. Those not connected with other schools are urged to attend.

BIG BUSINESS VS. CIGARETTES

Charles M. Carson of Detroit to Talk on This Subject.

Will Speak Under Auspices of County Y. M. C. A. Committee—Other Notes.

Big Business has discovered that Efficiency and Cigarette are not synonymous. And it is surprising to note—at least to those unacquainted with the facts—how many concerns are eliminating their cigarette-smoking employees. They are being subjected to the efficiency test and found wanting. At 9:30 a. m. on Monday, February 8th, Charles M. Carson, superintendent of the Cadillac Motor Car Company of Detroit, will be at the high school to address the young people, telling them why Big Business has blacklisted the cigarette. Mr. Carson comes under the auspices of the County Y. M. C. A. Committee, and the committee invites the men and women of the community to listen to the address. Due to the co-operation of the W. C. T. U., it will be possible to distribute one hundred of Henry Ford's booklets, "The Case Against the Little White Slave," among the boys of the school.

Last week Monday evening at their regular meeting the eighth grade Y. M. C. A. club and the junior Y. M. C. A. groups listened to an enjoyable and instructive talk by Frank Metcalf. These features are quite regular parts of the program and add a great deal to the interest of the meetings. If you can give a travel talk tell one of the Y. M. C. A. leaders about it and you will be used.

The high school "Y" club has prepared a program of vocational talks for their regular weekly meetings and on last Monday night Rev. Quinton Walker spoke on "The Ministry as a Life Work." The club also enjoyed a Bible study examination. This week they begin their active Bible study work, using a plan which is intended to give them a good working knowledge of the Old Testament. Abraham is the first character to be studied.

All bills have been paid by the County Y. M. C. A. committee to date. Other bills will be due the last of the month. The second payment is due on all subscriptions to the work of the association. If you have paid the first, kindly arrange to cure for the second on or before the fifteenth. If the matter has escaped your attention and you have made no payment as yet, either of the banks, R. W. Kane the treasurer, or the county secretary will be glad to accept whatever payment you care to make during the month.

Special prices on repairing and oiling harness during the month of February. Benj. Brown. 511

LEAVE YOUR CASH IN HOME TOWN

Good Advice Given by "One Interested in Charlevoix."

Says Lack of Co-Operation is Most Blighting Trouble with Majority of Citizens.

The following communication has been received in answer to the invitation repeatedly extended by the Courier for its readers to express their views regarding conditions in the city. At this time the communication is most timely, advising a spirit of business co-operation, as follows:

The most blighting trouble with Charlevoix is a lack of co-operation among its citizens. Each person appears to be looking too closely to his own personal interests and apparently with no particular thought of the general good of others around him. The farmer, the milkman and the gardener all come to our doors and business houses daily asking and expecting, and many times receiving patronage and support in cash exchange for their commodities. But do we always receive their support?

Many times is not the cash they receive for products of the farm, orchard and garden sent in a cash money order to Chicago or other places and exchanged for such goods as can be found nearby, almost at their own doors? But it is said: "Not as cheap as out of town." Let the home merchant and grocer know to a certainty that an order for goods is to be accompanied with cash as regularly as the foreign orders must be, and rest assured he will fill the order and deliver it as cheaply as do parties more remote from home.

Home co-operation is a great city builder. "A house divided against itself cannot prosper or long stand." Don't spend all your cash out of town and then when you are hard up for money and groceries ask your home merchants for credit. It is very cheeky, to say the least.

Again, suppose you wake up some night and find your home on fire. You call out the fire company to save your house from ruin and they remember your business is mostly transacted in Chicago. What would you think, and how would it work out for you, should the fire company respond by phone and reply: "Call up the Chicago fire company. They can quench your fire cheaper and much quicker than we can." Would that kind of co-operation on the part of the Charlevoix fire company please you and add to the prosperity of your home and the safety and welfare of Charlevoix?

Again, should Charlevoix learn the fact that there are parties looking the town over with a view of possibly landing some business improvements here, would it not be far more wise and tend to add greatly to the prosperity and growth of the city if everyone in it would cheerfully co-operate and if possible help to locate the business here rather than attempt to run them out of the city on the next train?

What is it that is fast building up all our prosperous towns? Is it not what comes into them and not what goes out or what is never permitted to enter. It is always the mince pie we never eat that hurts us the most. It is the numerous smokestacks and shop whistles calling men to honest labor—not to be despised—that adds life and prosperity to any town or city. Capital and labor should be in a position to do so.

Let the building contractor employ his home laborers. But says he: "They are not in the city to be obtained." They would be here as soon as it is known. That is the rule and principle of home co-operation. You need never think nor dream of prosperity while you are all doing much of your cash business in some faraway point, leaving your own business neighbors here to suffer for want of patronage and co-operation while their stock in trade fades and decays because of your non-support and lack of patronage.

One Interested in Charlevoix.

Helped Him Celebrate.

Last Wednesday evening about twenty friends gathered at the home of George Eagleton on Mason street to help him celebrate his birthday. A bounteous turkey dinner was served at six o'clock, after which the evening was spent in playing games. Music was a most enjoyable feature of the evening. All enjoyed the evening and the hospitality shown by the host and hostess.

Read "Zudora."

A Food and Nerve Tonic is frequently required by old age. We always recommend
Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion
containing Hypophosphites
as an ideal combination for this purpose.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Correspondence

MARION.

Joseph Guild was in Petoskey last week on business.
Mr. and Mrs. Herman Himebauch of Phelps visited friends in East Marion Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Gregory are spending a few days in East Jordan this week.
Mr. and Mrs. Austin Newman were guests at the home of James Meggison last Sunday.

A number of neighbors greatly enjoyed a skating party at the home of D. E. Ingalls Monday night. After an evening of entertainment, at which time both the host and hostess were at their best, refreshments were served and the visitors left for their homes wishing that evenings of the same kind could be had more often.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from a reliable physician. The danger they will do is to render the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.
Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Catarrh Cure for constipation.

CLARION.

Miss Jean Calden returned to Petoskey Friday.
Mr. and Mrs. Earl Retch spent Sunday with Petoskey friends.
Miss Spencer of Boyne City visited Mrs. L. H. Herrington Saturday.
There will be a farmers' institute at the K. O. T. M. hall Thursday, February 4th.
Rev. Ernest Wood of Traverse City is assisting in special meetings at the M. E. church.
There was a box social at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bardwell of Walloon Saturday evening.
Geo. Hebling and Miss Mayne Scroggie of Walloon went to Boyne City Monday to attend the institute.
The ladies' aid were the guests at an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Stalger of Petoskey Thursday.
Miss Teresa Phillips and Mr. Whiteford went to East Jordan Saturday and will attend the teachers' institute at Boyne City before returning.

Notice to Norwood Taxpayers.
Joseph Sprink will be at the State Bank February 6 and 20 for the purpose of collecting the Norwood taxes.
Adv. 511

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Ethel Sanford)
Miss Ruby Hooker returned to her school work Monday of last week.
Miss Whiting taught the normal students how to make hectographs last week.
Several milk tests have been made by the members of the normal class. They

TIRED, WORN-OUT AND MISERABLE

Many Charlevoix People in This Condition.

There is little rest for many a kidney sufferer.
The kidneys feel congested, sore and painful.
The urinary passages are often irregular and distressing.
The sufferer tired, worn-out, and depressed.
Weak kidneys need quick help.
They need a special kidney remedy.
Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test.

A remedy especially for kidney ailments.
Can any Charlevoix reader doubt this statement?
Mrs. Ophelia Davey, Ellsworth, Mich., says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for some time. I had pain in the small of my back and twinges when stooping or lifting. My back ached at night and was lame in the morning. I tired easily, was languid and nervous and had headaches. The kidney secretions were unnatural. I finally took Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me at once."
Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy. Get Doan's Kidney Pills. The same that Mrs. Davey fully praises. Write to Doan's Kidney Pills, Buffalo, N. Y.

used the Babcock milk tester and obtained some good results.

Miss Ethel Sanford was absent Wednesday morning on account of taking German 11 examination.

The normal class began the study of "Snow Bound" last week in connection with their work in classics.

Misses Lillian Akina, Ruby Hooker, Hazel Pearl and Ethel Sanford finished their practice teaching last Friday.

Miss Cora Driggett substituted in Miss Todd's room last Thursday morning on account of Miss Todd's illness.

Miss Annie Metcalf and Miss Grace Papineau were visitors at the county normal last Tuesday afternoon. Both were members of previous classes.

The normal class made domino cards last week. These cards are to be used in teaching arithmetic. Some of the members of the class are making number cards also. They are made with numbers of objects to represent the numerals.

My line of Men's Mackinaws, Fur Coats, Pants, Shirts, Sweaters, a D Underwear is nearly sold out. There are a few left that I will close out regardless of cost—Benjamin Brown.
Adv. 511

Scientific Farming

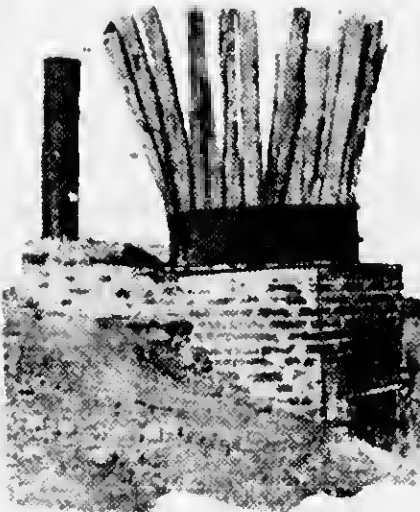

PRESERVATION OF TIMBER.

Some Simple Forms of Treating Plants Moderate in Cost.

(Prepared by United States department of agriculture.)

In many localities the need for the preservative treatment of farm timbers is imperative. Especially is the advisability of using creosoted posts judicious. If it is difficult for a farmer to treat his own material with preservatives, this can be overcome by some individual undertaking the work for the neighborhood. A small wood preserving plant could be profitably operated in connection with a flourishing outfit, a feed mill or a sawmill. An other plan is for several farmers to co-operate in establishing and operating a plant. Every agricultural district should possess the facilities for increasing by preservative treatment the durability of farm timbers locally used. The process best adapted to this purpose is the "open tank" process.

A simple form of treating plant consists of a black iron tank with a five box under it. The firebox and hot air chamber are constructed with brick and a sheet iron collar cups the masonry. The tank is supported by a strong foundation. Such an outfit, with a tank three feet in diameter and four feet high, made of three sixteenth inch black iron, would probably cost from

BLACK IRON HEATING PLANT WITH MASONRY FIREBOX.

$25 to $30. With such a tank and chimney there is little danger from fire.

When running a treating plant in connection with a thrashing engine the heating is done by steam from the engine. The tanks used in such a plant, with the necessary piping, would cost about $50. The cold bath with such an outfit may be a horsehair frame large enough to permit soaking the cut timbers.

In using the open tank treatment the posts are set in the upright tank, in which they are given the hot bath. Crude petroleum or any heavy oil that not tar is used in this tank and a temperature of about 220 degrees F. maintained by either building a fire under it or by steam. The hot bath is run on an average for two hours, and the cold bath lasts about one hour. The time will vary and must be determined by trial for each case. The principle which governs the treatment is that the hot bath expands the air and moisture in the wood; then by placing the posts in the cold bath a contraction takes place, drawing or pressing the preservative into the wood.

The best treatment is that which will give the deepest penetration in the shortest time with a reasonable absorption. An economical treatment for a post five inches in diameter would be an absorption of not over four tenths of a gallon if only the butt is treated and six tenths of a gallon if the whole post is treated. The amount absorbed by a well seasoned post can be determined by weighing the post before and after treatment. It is not necessary to treat one end of a post before it is cut and the other end is cut. The best time to treat is just before the wood is cut. The best time to treat is just before the wood is cut. The best time to treat is just before the wood is cut.

SURPRISES MANY

IN CHARLEVOIX

The QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis, is surprising Charlevoix people. Many have found that this simple remedy drains so much foul matter from the system that A SINGLE DOSE relieves constipation, sour stomach and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY. Adler-i-ka is the most thorough bowel cleanser ever sold—B. A. Herman, druggist.

Posts should be peeled and seasoned before treatment. Under favorable conditions the average period required to season posts is five weeks, although this varies with the species and the season of the year. The tops of the posts should be leveled, so that the moisture will run off and not penetrate the post.

LIVE STOCK AND DAIRY.

Twice a year is not too often to whitewash the stable.

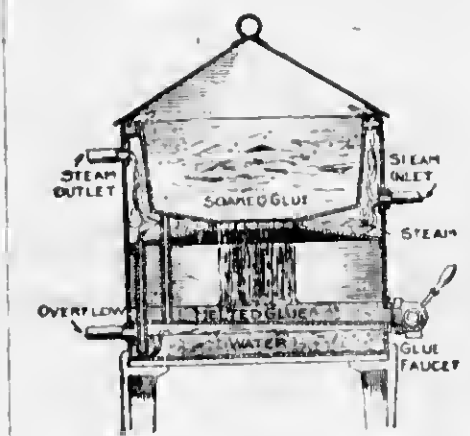

Creant kept too long has a sharp acid taste that works against the making of the best butter. Old buttermakers no longer keep it so long. It is not all worked out, and they know the butter was not made by a careful person.

On every farm there should be at least one good brood mare rearing a good colt a year. A yearling colt can be grown as cheaply as a yearling steer and if a good one will be worth several times more money. Breed up the horses on the farm as you do your cattle. It will pay. It should be your aim to possess a pure bred draft mare and then two and finally enough to do all the farm work. Pure bred brood mares will more than pay their way with their work in the field.

STEAM GLUE DISSOLVER.

Handy Apparatus For Use When Much Gluing Is Done.

Patents have been applied for on a device for quickly dissolving glue without contact with steam and for retaining the liquid in condition for immediate use. A sheet metal cabinet of circular form is provided adapted for connection with a low pressure steam supply. A copper pan with a brass wire sieve at the bottom fits over a copper retaining vessel having a faucet at the lower edge. Soaked glue is put into the removable pan and the cover replaced. Immediately upon turning on the steam which circulates about all sides of the dissolving pan, the glue commences to dissolve, dripping through the wire mesh into the retainer beneath, where it is kept liquid by the heat from the steam.

QUICK GLUE DISSOLVER.

Production of Rutile.

Virgil produced all the American output of rutile in 1913, according to the United States geological survey, the deposits being located at Rosdum, Nelson county. During the year the company which controls and works these deposits produced 305 tons of rutile, valued at about $40,000.

A large part of the rutile produced in 1913 was used in the manufacture of titanium carbide electrodes for arc lamps. A part of the ilmenite found in the deposits and separated by means of a magnetic separator has been sold for use in making electrodes for electric lights, and the experiments with the electric furnace point to the possible use of ilmenite in the direct production of mol steel.

At the end of the first 2,000 miles the average automobile will require slight tightening up to the crank shaft and connecting rod bearings. To allow small knobs to get unseated for this result in great damage to the parts very soon.

The engine of a car that has been run for two or three years will give better delivery of power if you will use heavier oil than was at first intended. When the steering gear rods begin to rattle and the joints show considerable play it is well to remove the pins and put in a bushing of thin tin to take up the slack.

Big Reflector Telescopes.

The seventy-two inch Canadian reflector, which is now about ready to be erected on Little Sanibel hill, 732 feet high near Victoria, in British Columbia, will be the largest and most modern telescope instrument of its kind in America. It is rightly, suitably and conveniently located in a place of high altitude.

Rexall

Dyspepsia Tablets
Will Relieve Your Indigestion

The Ivy Drug Store.

DAIRY and CREAMERY

WINTER IN THE DAIRY.

Careful Feeding and Warm Shelter Needed to Keep Up Milk Flow.

The pinch of winter falls with peculiar force on the dairy. We do not always place due stress upon this, writes E. L. Vincent in the American Cultivator. Stop and think what a change it is from the fresh grass of the pastures or perhaps the still more juicy feed of the meadows to dry hay and grain. No wonder the cows shrink badly for a time in their yield of milk. Besides this, the difference in temperature has a tendency still further to narrow down the productivity of our herds unless we are watchful and take prompt steps to sustain the flow of milk.

One of the best features of the silo is that it provides succulent feed for this critical period. The corn stored in this way in July and goes far toward making up for the loss of sweetness from grass. Still further to overcome this first pinch of cold weather certain grains may be added to the ration. Of these gluten stands high in

The showing of the Brown Swiss at the various shows and fairs has been very conspicuous and noticeable. The breeders are giving a smoothness and finish to their cattle that are compelling the attention of the dairy world. This breed has also won the highest honors at the butter fat contests open to all breeds at the Michigan and Illinois State fairs of 1911. The illustration shows a Brown Swiss cow.

the estimation of the dairyman. Where this is fed in connection with some wheat feed or ground oats it makes a good substitute for pasture grass.

Then, too, we have found that stabling out of the cold storms and the less uncomfortable winds has a good effect in maintaining the yield of milk. Nothing more surely reduces the vitality of a cow and thus lessens the ability to make milk than cold. A cow in a hot best needs to be comfortable, and a skilled cow is never comfortable. It takes a lot of extra feed to sustain the milk producing machinery of a cow where she is compelled to battle with wind and storm. Warmth lessens the demand for food and helps a cow to make more of the feed given her. In other words, good stabling lessens the cost of production of milk.

Still another simple thing helps to bridge over the sharp crisis of early winter, and that is careful grooming. Cleanliness keeps the body in good working order and enables the cow to use the feed given her to better advantage.

THE CREAM SEPARATOR.

Important Dairy Utensil That Is Frequently Misused.

So many users of separators do not seem to know how to care for a machine of such delicate adjustment and consequently do not get the best results, writes L. W. Lighty in the National Stockman. It is roughly handled, abruptly started or stopped, carelessly washed and frequently out of balance. Often a poor grade of oil is used, and sometimes oiling is sadly neglected. Often the machine is pitched over with waste oil, dust, milk and fly specks. This hinders the machine wears and depreciates rapidly and must soon be replaced. But the greater loss is sustained because a machine thus treated or mistreated does poor work and yields a contaminated product that never brings the best price on the market.

A standard cream separator is adjusted nearly as carefully as a watch and must be kept clean, carefully oiled, set level on a firm foundation, firmly fastened so it will run smoothly with the least possible vibration. A little carelessness will not only mean excessive wear on the machine, but entail loss in butter fat and quality of product.

Carrots for Dairy Cattle.

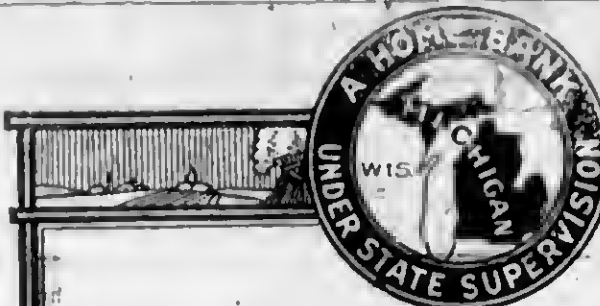

Carrots make a very good, succulent feed for cows. They are relished and can be fed in amounts up to forty or fifty pounds daily, depending upon the size of the cow. They do not contain as much total digestible nutrients, however, as do sugar beets, but are on a par with rutabagas and contain slightly more than mangels.

Save the Dairy Calf.

When just ordinary cows without pedigree to buck them up bring $70 and $80 at public sales selling the young heifer calf to the butcher for a few dollars is like killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

Why He Was Surprised.

"You learn much to travel."
"How now?"
"The streets of Boston surprised me. They are just like the streets of other towns."
"Why not?"
"I thought Boston was a town had Latin names. But I forgot that."

In This Age of Reciprocity

the business man prefers the bank which remembers and performs its obligations to the Public from which it draws its support.

Fully appreciative of these obligations, The Charlevoix State Savings Bank, strives in legitimate ways to co-operate with the business interests, large and small, of Charlevoix and Michigan.

Extending all the facilities offered by a conservative and progressive institution.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier

Archib. Livingston, Asst. Cashier

H. S. Barsha, Vice President

LEGAL NOTICES

Appointment of Administrator.

State of Michigan, The Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said County, on the 28th day of January A. D. 1915.

Present: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate. In the Matter of the Estate of Edward R. Van Loven, deceased. Anna, widow of said deceased, having filed in said court her petition praying that the administration of said estate be granted to petitioner or to some other suitable person.

It is Ordered, That the 28th day of February A. D. 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, once each week for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix Courier, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

A true copy, Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate.

114

Translating by Ear.

Two schoolgirls were busily occupied with their lessons, when the younger asked abruptly:

"What does 'unintelligible' mean?"

"Well, I couldn't say just what it means in English," replied her friend, doubtfully. "But in French it means 'Have some sense'."—Youth's Companion.

The Keeley Treatment

More Testimony from Unimpeachable Sources

Habit is Cured at the Grand Rapids Keeley Institute.

Read What a Harbor Springs Man Has to Say in Praise of That Institution.

Harbor Springs, Mich., Feb. 28, 1915.

Guy A. Beckwith.

Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dear Sir—I would like to say a few words in testimony of the benefit I received as a result of the treatment at the Keeley Institute at Grand Rapids, and wish to tell you that I shall ever feel grateful that I was permitted to take the treatment for the liquor habit, and consider it the greatest boon that has ever been offered to the poor mortal who is "down and out" as I was. As you will remember, I entered the Institute during 1907 and took a full course of treatment; was using from twenty-five to forty drinks of whiskey every day, and was seldom in a condition for work, but now am making good with a business that gives every promise of success, and am working every day, and I never enter my head to take a drink. My friends have confidence in me, and am in a fair way to become a "man among men" once more. It has added many years to my life and added a thousandfold to my usefulness, to my own satisfaction and to the satisfaction of my family and friends, which alone is worth twice the price of the treatment.

When a man asks me if I have been to the Keeley Institute, I promptly answer "Yes." I know that I am cured to stay and also know that YOU CAN CURE ANY CASE if a person will only take the treatment honestly, as for any other form of disease, and then be a man and let "booze" alone afterward. He knows what it has done for him, so what is the use of tampering a second time with his own worst enemy.

I was never treated finer in my life. A good reason; everything to eat that the market afforded; plenty of good reading of the best authors; every possible pains taken to make things pleasant and homelike, and was tendered every courtesy. Everything about the Institute is clean and sanitary, and every effort is made by the management to make a perfect cure, for every patient. I found every man in connection with the Institute to be a gentle man and was expected to be the same, and was always treated as such.

My dear Beckwith, you will always find me ready to testify to the merits of the Keeley Cure, and hope this may be the cause of leading some poor fellow to your aid.

Sincerely your friend,

GUY A. BECKWITH.

For further information and literature in regard to the Keeley Institute, address: The Keeley Institute, 718 W. Grand Ave., S. W. Grand Rapids, Mich., or "Phone Gar. 576 or Bell Main 806.

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

PATENTS

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or secured. Send model, picture or photo and description for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Book references. PATENTS BUILD FORTUNES for you. Our free booklet tells how, what to invent and save money. Write today.
D. SWIFT & CO.
PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

YOUR AUCTION SALE

One of the most important things to keep in mind when you are contemplating having an Auction Sale is to engage an Auctioneer who is on the job every minute and knows how to conduct a sale.

It is my Business

Experience has taught me how to conduct a sale successfully. Have cried over 500 in the last 10 years and make it a point to always give satisfaction.

When you are ready for that sale, write me at Charlevoix, or book any date you want at the Courier Office.

W. E. BYERS

Charlevoix, Mich.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND. The Best Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Gold and Silver Metal. Take 3 or 4 after each meal. Buy of your Druggist. Price 25c per box. Sold by Druggists Everywhere.

WARNING

You have less than ninety days to which to purchase fruit trees, berry plants, roses and other nursery stock for spring planting. Order at once before the best varieties are sold out. Be sure that what you plant is hardy, healthy and true in name. The safest way is to buy direct from an old established nursery. We have been growing trees and plants at Charlevoix since 1899, sixty-six years. Lowest Prices. Largest Stock. Highest Quality.

The Michigan Nursery Company
Winkworth & Son
Agricultural Building
410 Michigan

Your Attention Please

HAVE US FIGURE

On that contract for Electric fixtures and wiring—we'll quote you figures that cannot be bettered if you take into consideration the splendid quality, materials and fixtures we furnish and the thoro A-1 manner in which our expert mechanics do the work.

Don't forget that the BEST is the cheapest in the end and that the BEST saves endless worry and inconvenience.

F. S. Bettles
214 Bridge street

Phone 134 when you need
First-class Electric Work

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. ISLE SHANAHAN
Attorney at Law
Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 108 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON
Law, Real Estate and
Investments
Collection Established 1875

DR. J. A. AULD
Dentist
Office in VanPelt Building
Over Levison's Store
Phone 133 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years' Experience
Maps and Plans on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

ALLEN M. WILKINSON
Physician and Surgeon
Eyes Tested and Glasses Fitted
Telephone Office 662; residence 66 3r
Office to Postoffice Bldg Charlevoix

R. H. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the
EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 25 Charlevoix, Mich.

DR. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention.
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

CHAPTER I.

The Mystery of the Spotted Collar.

On the side of a rugged mountain a black velvet hole yawned. Rubble lay strewn all about the ledges. To a layman this rubble would have explained nothing, to a miner it would instantly have explained the nature of the hole. First only a hurly man emerged from the hole, squinting. He eyed the lump of quartz in his hand—always a little, but never quite enough gold to make it worth while. The prospector dug the quartz savagely upon the accumulating rubble and leaned disheartenedly against the log support to the entrance of the mine. His grubstake was fast dwindling, and in another four days he would have to hike some thirty-two miles to the nearest town for supplies.

Done! He had paid $500, every one of them earned at the risk of his neck, for this damnable hole in the ground.

He filled and lit his pipe and felt to dreaming what he would do when he struck it rich.

By and by the dreams faded and the bitter realities returned. He rose lamely and carefully picked his way down to the Irishman's shanty. The two of them shared their noon meals on pleasant days.

"How's she coming?"

"Same old story," answered Trainor, erstwhile strong man of the Eclipse circus.

"Well, well, it's peggins' away that brings it. I got a lump today that don't look so bad. I should say that she'll run fifteen to' tons. I guess them wildcaters are the chaps that make the real spoils—riders and clerks and children."

In Trainor's life there had been but trifling misadventures. He had been a sailor in the south seas, a lumberjack in the north, a cowpuncher, a fireman on a north Atlantic liner. He had come from a poor but respectable Ohio family. His father nor his grandfather had ever stepped over the state boundary lines. But in him there was a reversion to the type of pioneer who had established the Trainor family when Ohio was a wilderness.

He could not settle down; he must be on the move continually, and when at length he joined the circus he found that roaming, uncertain life much to his fancy. There he had met Mimi Keene, known on the handbills for lithographs were far beyond the reach of this circus as Mimi La France, world renowned tight rope walker. Remarkable as it might seem, these two loved each other fondly, and one day the last to wander died in the man's heart, and he wanted a roof over his head, children about his knee and money in his purse. When the opportunity to go hunting for gold came he hesitated not an instant.

He had been hammering away at the grim, unyielding rocks for eight months, making only such trips to town as were necessary for food. Perhaps the rubble extracted represented a thousand dollars, perhaps less. He was discouraged.

One day he staggered out into the brilliant sunshine. A lump of quartz was clutched tightly in his hand. When he grew accustomed to the dazzling light he turned the stone over and over, his heart beating as it had never beaten before. There were veins in it—broad, flakes of it—gold, gold, gold!

"Donovan! Donovan!" he cried.

The old Irish prospector came out of his hole, blinking.

"I've got it! I've got it!"

Donovan snatched the quartz from the hand of his friend.

"Holy Virgin! You've struck it! It's all like that you're a rich man, Min, man, there's a hundred dollars in that lump alone!"

Trainor collapsed on a pile of worthless rubble and laid his head on his arms. He had done it all in these few minutes. The old Irish prospector's dreams were going to come true! The Irishman gazed down at him ruefully, but philosophically.

"An' me that's been prospectin' twenty years an' ain't hit my pile yet! Well, God bless ye, man. I'm glad ye got it. An' now let's go take a look."

Like all men who suddenly stumble upon a virgin fortune, Trainor instantly began to plan how to protect it. He had some bank attorneys draw up papers leaving the mine to his wife, in case of her death to his child, to her husband. It was subtly understood that the brother in law, Keene, should never be able to touch it. These western bank attorneys were simple and honest men.

"Suppose you walk on again?"

"Keep yer hair on, lunk. I'm here on business. I'm lookin' for Mimi La France. 's they call her outside. She walks tight rope."

"Well, I'm her brother. What do you want with her?"

"So yer Trainor's brother-in-law?"

"Trainor?" said the young man, a fire lighting his eyes. "Do you come from him?"

"Yes. An' my message is to his wife."

"Oh! That's his kid there."

"I don't say so! Well, kind o' looks like him."

"Here's my sister now."

Donovan saw a slight woman of pretty figure and comely features. She

A Huge Crystal Globe in Which Has Seen All Saw the Past and the Future

came through the flap which separated the women's dressing tent from the men's. She looked a bit tired and worn. The old miner, having had but little to do with women folk, was not able to discern under the richly yellow glare of the lamps the air of distinction which marked Mimi Trainor as different from her kind. The Keene family had come from good stock, but had fallen in evil days. She ran in stantly to the baby.

"Here's a man from John, Mimi, said the brother carelessly."

The young woman rushed over to Donovan and began shaking his hands.

"How's her man? Had he struck it rich? Did he want her to quit and go to him?"

Donovan began to sweat with difficulty. How was he going to tell her? He wanted to run away. He could now readily understand why Trainor had always talked of Mimi, Mimi, Mimi, until his Celtic ears had tired of the name. She was a good wife and a good mother for all that she was a circus performer. And here he was aiming to break her heart! Still, there was a bit of cynicism in his makeup. The new fortune might console her.

But it did not. On the contrary when, half an hour after learning of the death of the man she loved, she mounted the wire, a vertigo seized her she lost her balance and fell, and by the time the men had laid away the big top she was dead.

For the first time in his wandering, futile life Frank Keene felt his throat contract and unbidden moisture fill his eyes. After a fashion he had loved his clean minded, loyal little sister, and now she was gone, leaving him with a baby on his hands, more adept in dealing from the bottom of the deck than from the top.

"How much is the mine worth?" he asked when the simple funeral was over.

"Lord knows," said Donovan. "But it's the biggest strike in twenty years. But it's got to be tied up till this little chick's eighteen. Don't you worry though. The lawyers'll see to it that ye get enough to take care o' the child eddicate it, an' all that."

"What's the name of the mine?"

"Same as the kiddie's—Zudora."

"The two separated, never to meet again."

The years passed. Keene dabbled in all manner of shady trades and finally set up as a Hindu mystic, a swami. He told fortunes, did crystal gazing, resurrected souls and as a byproduct played detective with more or less success. He rarely practiced this latter game except among his favored gulls. It was a simple matter to instruct some of his confederates to rob certain of his clients. It was equally a simple matter to recover the stolen objects. Keene eventually became known to the elite as Hassam Ali, and under that name his fame grew. The checks from the Zudora were now applied wholly to the well being of his niece.

The child grew. Her education began. She gave promise of great beauty, even to the link and gawky age. Hassam Ali had begun to love gold, the bright, shining metal—not in the distant, but in the concrete. To touch it with his fingers was transport. No symphony of Hübner's was half so nice as the clink-clink of the coins, the eagle and the double eagle as they fell upon each other, slipping from his hands.

From her fifteenth birthday up to her eighteenth Zudora noted a subtle change in the manner of her uncle. He became coldly aloof, rarely touched her affectionately, was moody and taciturn. Fugilliar as she was with all the paraphernalia of the mystic, she still retained unbounded faith in her uncle's powers. Indeed, he was a hypnotist of unusual power and was roughly skilled in the science of medicine. Zudora had practiced the former art until she was almost as proficient as her master. It never occurred to her that her uncle's means of existence were unethical and generally those of a cheat. Famous actresses and society women visited him, and not a few notable bankers and financiers came to him for advice. But the general public held Hassam Ali in total contempt and the police with no little suspicion.

The inner shrine of this equivocal temple was draped with black velvet, and there were secret doors about which even Zudora knew nothing. There was the lustrous globe in which Hassam Ali saw the past and the future as revealed by his victim. It was easy to draw the past, and it was not difficult to draw the future. The future in this globe was nearly always what the victim wished; hence the popularity of Hassam Ali, late of the Eclipse circus, faked and card sharp, chief of a band of most clever and in genuous criminals. And Zudora wondered in and out of this labyrinthine maze as a wild dove might have flown over pestiferous swamps, untouched and unknown.

As the miser grew stronger in Hassam Ali the evil thought previously referred to became more and more insistent. Zudora must die. When he faced this inevitability for the first time he was genuinely horrified. He was her uncle; her mother had been his sister; the girl was his flesh and blood. But the constant recurrence of an evil desire gradually lessens the abhorrence of it. Truly in Hassam Ali's mind there remained no shred of compunction, only a desire to accomplish the deed without in any manner directing suspicion toward him. So to this one object he now turned the brilliant powers of his abnormally evil mind. Zudora must die, but how?

In a few days she would be eighteen. On that day she would become enormously rich. He must rid himself of her before she had time to appreciate what the power of money meant. But how? In what subtle, cunning way?

Striking the German Across the Face.

ner that would make it impossible for the law to trace the deed to him? And there was another obstacle rising slowly, but surely and firmly, over the horizon—love. Youth and the necessity of love, these menaced the plans of Hassam Ali. He had tolerated this keen eyed, clean lived young lawyer, John Storm, because he had in a way relieved him of the trial of finding an entertainment for Zudora. The time had come for Storm to be sent about his business.

One night while he was dreaming over the past, marveling over the strange cross of cynicism which over lay his sense of moral obligation, Hassam saw his way. Zudora was interested in detective work and had often begged to be allowed to use her powers of logical deduction. Zudora should play the detective to her heart's content, and if she met with some terrible accident who would be the wiser?

Twenty millions in gold! His hands opened and shut spasmodically. Indistinctly he heard a rustle of petticoats. He opened his eyes to find his niece at his feet.

"Uncle, don't you know what day this is?" she asked.

"Why, it is Wednesday."

(Continued on page 6.)

"When all Our Bills are Paid

Then we'll start a Savings Account," that is the promise that many a young couple make themselves. But the Bills are never "all cleaned up." Before one batch is paid the next one arrives.

The only way to do is to start your savings account anyway and put something into it every week, rain or shine. In time, interest on your savings, and on investments springing from them, will add to your income. Then your monthly bills will lose much of their terror.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Buttars A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

WATCH

Blanchard's Bargain Counters

There are many Surprises in store for you

Hand Sleds at Cost

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories.

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

OUR BREAD

Aunt Manda says: "The Bread of Health is the Bread of Wealth." TRUE.

because with health we can make wealth, and wealth itself is merely nine-tenths health. Now, then, don't hesitate, get right after it—that store below you sells it.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

Friday and Saturday SPECIAL COATS

Ladies' Coats at $3.00
Children's Coats at $2.00

Flannelettes 25c and 15c Flannel-ettes, per yard - 9c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

"Zudora" starts this week. Read the opening chapters. Henry Kaufman made a business trip to Bellaire, Saturday. Sheriff Novak spent Friday as a business visitor in East Jordan. J. Leahy of Petoskey was a business visitor in the city Monday. William Ewing spent the week end visiting friends in Standish. Miss Ida Levinson spent Thursday visiting friends in Petoskey. R. C. Hammett spent Friday as a business visitor in Petoskey. Emrey Pierce spent the week end in East Jordan, visiting friends. L. C. Wells of Petoskey, was a business visitor in the city Monday. H. C. Stevens of Central Lake, spent Monday in the city on business. Mrs. W. L. French of East Jordan was a Charlevoix visitor Monday. Mrs. G. W. Priest spent a few days last week visiting friends in Petoskey. W. L. Darling was up from Central Lake a few days last week on business. Mrs. James Gaskin is confined to her home with a severe attack of tonsillitis. Will Vandermade of Traverse City, was a business visitor in the city Tuesday. Miss Florence Alexander of Ironton, spent Thursday visiting Charlevoix friends. A. L. Coulter spent Wednesday of last week, as a business visitor in Traverse City. Com. J. H. Milford of East Jordan was a business visitor in the city Thursday. Mrs. Frank Sears left Monday for Port Huron, where she will visit friends and relatives. Mrs. Sam Beaubien returned home Monday after spending a few weeks in Grand Rapids. Miss Sue Atchison of Petoskey spent the week end as a guest at the home of Will Scroggie, Jr. Earl Miller returned home Friday from Grand Rapids, where he spent a few days on business. Stanley Bush spent Friday in East Jordan, as the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. Hudson and family. Robert Sloan, Jr. is suffering from a broken thumb received while boxing at the gymnasium Friday. Miss Agnes Carey returned Friday, after completing her course at the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vandermade entertained a few of their friends at a six o'clock dinner Friday evening. There will be an equal suffrage meeting Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the music room of high school building. Richard Shapton returned home Monday from Chicago, where he spent the past week on a combined business and pleasure trip. Mrs. Chas. Danto returned home Friday after an extended visit to Columbus, Toledo and Youngstown, Ohio, and Jackson. Mr. and Mrs. George Butters of Northport, spent Thursday in the city as guests at the home of the former's brother, A. Butters. Miss Helen Meech returned to her home in East Jordan Saturday, after spending a month at the home of her grandfather, F. J. Meech. Ralph Craig returned to his home at Sault Ste. Marie, last Wednesday after spending a few days in the city visiting his brother, Supt. H. A. Craig. Robert Bridge arrived home Monday to spend a week with his parents. Owing to the arrangements of his examinations he has a week's vacation. Lee Gilbert and wife, returned home Monday from Traverse City, where they have been visiting Mr. Gilbert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gilbert. All should hear the sermon on the dance at the M. E. church Sunday night. If the Elder is true on the subject send him an invitation to the next dance.

R. J. Mercer, A. J. Ostrander, L. M. Whitmore, and W. F. Langworthy of Traverse City arrived in the city Monday to commence working on the Beach Hotel. There will be a special meeting of the Women's Relief Corps, at the home of Mrs. C. R. Bellinger, Saturday evening, February 6. A good attendance is desired. Miss Peterson, former seventh grade teacher, left last week for Grand Rapids, where she has accepted a position as manual training teacher in one of the schools. Mrs. C. E. Tsggett entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of Ironton at her home Thursday. Dinner was served at noon, after which a regular meeting was held. Geo. Finucan entertained a number of his friends at a stag party Wednesday. A seven o'clock dinner was served, after which the evening was spent in card playing. A number of young people surprised Franklin Weaver at the home Thursday evening. The evening was spent in card playing and dancing, after which light refreshments were served. Word from Milltown, New Jersey announces that a baby boy has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Evans. Mrs. Evans was formerly Mrs. Lillian Krulik Betts of this city. Miss Helen Parsons entertained a number of her friends at a pot-luck supper Monday evening. The evening was spent in singing and dancing. A mock wedding ceremony also added a great deal of merriment to the evening and the party broke up, each guest having spent a very jolly evening. What is Electro Metallurgy? There are very few who know. Briefly, it is the art of depositing one metal upon another by the aid of electricity. There are very few electro metallurgists or, to be more concise, electro plating works except in the larger cities, especially in the Eastern States, where nearly all the plated ware, in gold, silver and nickel, is manufactured. I have had twelve years' experience as an electro plater and have established a complete works in Charlevoix at 108 Clinton street and am now prepared to deposit gold, silver, nickel, copper or brass on any article composed of any metal from lead to steel. Watch cases and jewelry in gold, 18 to 24 karat fine, a specialty. Flat (or tableware) silver plated in single, double or triple plate. Large table pieces plated and hand-burnished and every article warranted as represented. Contrary to the rule in all large works, the public is invited to call and will be shown the modus operandi of the beautiful art of electro metallurgy. Ladies especially welcome from 1 to 4 o'clock p. m. O. W. Smith, Adv. 511 Electro Metallurgist. Finest Choir in the World. Russian possesses the world's finest choir. This is in the Cathedral of Alexander Nevski in Petrograd and is attached to a convent erected in honor of the patron saint of Russia. It consists of about thirty members, all monks, chosen from the best singers in all the Russian monasteries. Their voices are amazingly sweet and strong, and every member of the choir can, it is said, shatter an ordinary glass into fragments merely by singing into it, so powerful are the vibrations of each voice. These monks are trained as rigorously as any opera singer, and their whole duty at the monastery is to assist at the music at mass in the morning and vespers in the afternoon. People Ask Us. What is the best laxative? Years of experience in selling all kinds leads us to always recommend Rexall's Orderlies as the safest, surest and most satisfactory. Sold only by us, 10 cents. The Ivy-Drug Store.

HOW TO PRESERVE POISE AND BEAUTY.

When the eyes are tired and dulled, as after motoring, use either an eye lotion bath or one made of water to which a little boracic powder or witch hazel has been added. Keep the eyes open in the water. This both strengthens and brightens them. Kneading the brows when reading or working is a habit certain to produce disfiguring lines on the face. A good authority says that boxing and fencing are not good exercises for brain workers. They should select long walks, swimming, or something of a similar nature where, after the movements are once learned, the direction is governed by the spinal nervous system. The following astringent lotion is one of the best that can be had: One and one-half ounces of witch hazel, one-half ounce of tincture of benzoin, one ounce spirits of wine and five ounces of orange flower water. Many women allow their faces to become tense and set and then wonder why lines develop. Relax the muscles, cultivate a pleasant expression and remember that lips which curve upward and smile are much more attractive than the drooping sort. Only hands may be made comfortable and touchable by wetting them once or twice a day while clean with cologne alcohol or toilet vinegar.

FOOD VALUES.

How to Get the Best Results by Balancing One's Diet. "Ham and eggs, a glass of milk, a piece of custard pie with cheese." This order goes forth not only once, but hundreds of times daily in our restaurants from business men. In the tea rooms another order goes forth frequently. "I'll have some waffles and honey, a cup of chocolate and a French pastry." These meals are all wrong, and a further glance at them will show why. Here we have the business man ordering eggs, meat, milk, custard and cheese—the five most important foods of the same class—protein. In other words, he is taking the same kind of food in five different forms, and this meal therefore is really only one kind of food taken ad libitum. His wife in the tea room eats waffles, sirup, chocolate and pastry. Again four different forms of the same kind of food, so that her meal is all starch, sugar and fat. Now, no meals so one-sided can be healthful. A hasty glance would perhaps lead us to believe that the man's lunch was more wholesome than the woman's, but both are dietetically bad. The ideal meal is composed of four different elements—the protoid or muscle forming, the sugar, starch or fat forming, the fat or heat forming, and the mineral elements which add flavor, refinement and tonic qualities. The "balanced" meal must have some of each of the four qualities represented in the foods which compose it. In this way all the needs of the body are supplied by every meal, and no one need be oversupplied. If we had taken the eggs from the first lunch and added them to the waffles of the second, and put in a vegetable or fruit salad we would have had a nearly perfect meal. From the eggs there are protein, the waffles give starch and fat, and the vegetable or fruit would give the necessary watery and flavorful qualities to make the meal satisfying, energy producing and refreshing. It is exceedingly simple to plan home meals or to choose meals from a bill of fare after the balanced plan. Select one food from each of the four groups or food combinations that will give the four different food qualities: Eggs are some wrong combinations: Eggs, meat, cheese, milk (too much protein); rice, spaghetti, bread (too much starch); fried potatoes, doughnuts, croquettes (too much starch and fat); waffles, chocolate, cake, pastry (too much sugar and fat); vegetable salad, baked apple, vegetable soup (too much water and mineral). Here are the same foods in correct combination: Vegetable soup, eggs, pastry; meat, vegetable salad, doughnuts; cheese, rice, cake; milk, spaghetti, baked apple.

How to Make the Marble Table Top Useful.

Lucky is the housewife who has sent her marble top table to the attic in place of the secondhand store, for she can find good use for it. No better molding boarding was ever invented than this marble slab. Place it near the baking materials, where no need less steps may be taken, and the baking will be a source of comfort. It will also be a saving and a convenience for setting hot things when taken from the stove. In keeping the marble clean there is no scrubbing with a brush, for a washing of hot water and soap will thoroughly cleanse it.

How to Make a Useful Knife and Scissors Sharpener.

There is nothing more useful in the kitchen than a board covered with emery paper. It is splendid for sharpening knives and scissors and useful in removing rust from steel knives and forks. Get a board six inches long, two inches wide and one thick. Cover with emery cloth. This puts a smooth edge on cutting knives the same as a stone.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

J. L. CRANE

Final Clearing

Women's and Misses' Coats and Skirts

We have divided our entire stock into three lots, making the lowest prices ever offered here for new garments

Lot 1.---Our $5.00, $8.00, and $10.00 Coats at $2.95

Lot 2.---Our $12.00, $15.00, and $20.00 Coats at $5.00

Lot 3.---Our $27.00, $25.00, and $22.00 Coats at $10.00

These will be on Sale Today and until Sold

Lot 4.---$7.50, $6.50, $6.00 $2.95 $5.00 Skirts at

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the condition of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

Respectfully submitted, J. H. Milford.

Her Base Ingratitude.

When Duchesnois, the great French actress, died some one met an old man who had been her intimate friend and who was apparently crushed with sorrow. Kindly meant professions of sympathy and consolation failed to cheer him. "For," said he, "it is not so much her loss which troubles me as her base ingratitude. Can you credit it? She left me nothing in her will, and yet I dined with her at her own house three times a week regularly for thirty years!"

Generosity.

Mr. Longear—By the way, did you ever know that large ears are a sign of generosity? Miss Heuti—Of course, Mr. Longear. They are a sign that nature has been generous.—New York Weekly.

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

DUCKS WANTED—White Pekin preferred. R. C. Korth, Phone 14, Charlevoix. 31

FOR SALE—Black horse, perfectly gentle. Phone or write Peter Kane, Charlevoix. R.F. 11-3 42

FOR SALE—Fine high grade Holstein bull, one bull calf. All 78 Holstein. Call phone or write—Wm. Withers, R.F. D. No. 1, phone 97-3 rings. 42-141

TRAINED NURSES—Young women who wish to make an nursing as a profession are invited to send application for entry into the spring class of the Grace Hospital Training School. A large class is being formed on account of an increase in capacity of the hospital. Large and well equipped hospital in new, home surroundings. Graduate prepared for state examination in Michigan and other states. Address: Principal, The Grace Hospital Training School for Nurses, Detroit, Michigan. 34

FROM

September 1885

IRON DUKE FLOUR

—TO—

January 1915

a good record

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

H. O. CARLZEN

Ladies Tailor

will show Spring Styles at

Hotel Elston Saturday Afternoon and Monday Forenoon

Ladies unable to call at hotel may leave telephone call and Samples will be shown at their homes

READ "ZUDORA"

"ZUDORA"

Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

(Continued from page 3.)

"Have you forgotten that this is my eighteenth birthday? Good heavens, so it is, so it is!"

He laid his hand upon her dark head but he did not look down into the youthful and beautiful face rubred to ward his own. His fingers unconsciously crept into the girl's hair, a little too strongly for an affectionate gesture.

"What is it?" she asked, drawing her head away quickly.

"A touch of rheumatism in my arm," he said hurriedly. "You know it gives me a twinge once in so often. So you are eighteen years old?"

"And you said that on this day I was to come into a fortune?"

"That is true. How much do you think it is?"

"Oh, perhaps $50,000."

"Is it lost?" she asked.

"No, my child. It is the terrible responsibility which is about to rest upon your young shoulders that makes me end. Tomorrow morning your lawyers will inform you that you are one of the richest heiresses in America."

"Uncle, don't make fun of me!"

"I am telling you the truth. To date Zudora has turned out something like $20,000,000. It was the express will of your father to have this kept quiet, so that you would not be bothered with fortune hunters. Girl, you will marry a duke or a prince. You will become a famous beauty. Not my advice is this: That until my guardianship ceases—you will be twenty-one then—you will say nothing to any one about this fortune. It would make life no bearable for us both."

"I'll gladly agree to that," she said eagerly.

"Whenever you require a large sum of money you will write the attorneys and they will send it. Think of the money, the busy reporters, the broken down nobles, indignant society folk!"

She laughed at the picture. He was right. If she desired peace and comfort she must keep this fortune away from the public eye.

"Zudora, there is one pleasant fancy you must leave forth put entirely out of your mind."

"And what is that?"

"This fancy for John Storm. For all that you have inherited this vast sum of money, you are still under my guardianship for three years."

What Zudora would have replied to this half veiled demand will never be known. The bell rang, and shortly after that John Storm himself was ushered into the room. Hassam All nodded coldly, but the girl spring to greet her lover.

"How's the case going?" she asked.

"Pretty well. I think I shall win out against Blenreth."

"He hates you."

"No doubt of it. He'd like nothing better than to stick a knife in my back."

Hassam All's eyes narrowed. An idea had come to him.

"Mr. Keene," said Storm suddenly. "I know I have my way to make, but I can assure you that I can give Zudora all the material comforts she has known. I want Zudora for my wife."

"It is impossible," replied Hassam All.

"Impossible!" echoed the two young people.

"Absolutely," with growing coldness. "In the first place I am Zudora's guardian, until she is twenty-one. Therefore I do not propose that she shall throw herself away on an ordinary lawyer."

"Sir," said Storm, "I do not quite like the tone you use."

"Indeed? Young man, I am not only her guardian, but I am also her flesh and blood uncle, and I do not propose that she shall bungle her future by a marriage to you."

Not a word about the millions. Zudora thought hard for a moment and concluded it might be wise to say nothing to her lover until she had this fortune under her hand.

"What if I promise never to marry any one else?" she said.

Hassam All shrugged. "Come, come, be sensible. Until you both get over the foolish idea of a secret marriage, Mr. Storm cease calling here."

"Very well, sir," said Storm angrily. "But I warn you that I shall see Zudora outside as often as she is kind enough to permit me. Good evening," Storm said Zudora a reassuring smile as he left the room.

"What in the world have you against John?" cried Zudora bewilderedly.

"I do not propose to see you support a fortune hunter," rather lamely.

"That's nonsense," she declared with spirit. "John tells the truth when he says he is able to take care of me."

"Still I forbid it, and legally it is my right."

"But I love him. I would not trade him for the greatest prince in Christendom, and if I cannot marry him I'll marry no one."

"Well, well," said Hassam All, apparently relenting. "If you take such a stand I'll compromise."

She eyed him keenly.

"Solve one next twenty cases and you can marry him, but in any single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora agreed instantly, even joyously. For a long time she had been seized with the desire to play the detective, and her uncle had often admitted that her powers of logical deduction were remarkable in a woman who, philosophers claimed, was with out the faculty of sustained reasoning.

There was little love lost between Storm and Blenreth. They had clash ed a dozen times during the past year, and more or twice they had almost come to blows. On the last day they came together in the courtroom just before the noon recess. Blenreth threw discretion to the winds and hurled a low epithet at his rival, who swiftly retaliated by striking the German across the face with the brief he held in his hand.

A tremendous confusion ensued, and from her seat in the gallery Zudora viewed the scene with alarm. This man Blenreth was an athletic bully. He had been to America but a few years, and he still held to the German view regarding a blow in the face. He hastily scribbled a note, which he idly she indicated the marks with the stub of pencil. . . . And then, as if the whole world had suddenly lighted up, Zudora at last understood how Blenreth had come to his death.

When the trial began it looked very bad for John Storm. The altercation with the defendant in court was reviewed, the dueling challenge, their previous enmity, the twelve unaccountable hours. In the balcony Hassam All and the man Burns watched the proceedings with something more than normal interest. When the jury duly received the judge's instructions every one conceded that John Storm was a lost man; nothing could save him from the chair.

Suddenly up the aisle toward the judge's desk came a veiled woman.

"Stop!" she cried. "It was I!"

Then she faltered. The judge, the attorneys, the reporters, the spectators all rose to their amazement. A woman! After the tedious crime, confusion and chaos. The judge signed to the jury to return to their chairs.

Storm, despite the deputy sheriff's pushed his way to the woman's side and swiftly raised the veil.

"Zudora!" He turned resolutely to the judge. "Your honor, there is some mistake. This young woman has had nothing to do with the death of Blenreth. It is utterly impossible."

"That remains to be seen, Mr. Storm. Return to the docket if you please!"

"But she is innocent!"

"Deputies!" called the judge sternly. He was sorry for Storm, but duty was duty none the less.

The court was eventually cleared. Storm was taken back to his cell. Hassam All and Burns went away together. Immediately Zudora sought the office of the district attorney, whom she found hurrying with the counsel for the defense.

"If I can convince you two gentlemen, will that be sufficient?" she asked.

"It will," affirmed the district attorney. "But why can't you give us the man's name now?" he asked.

"To tell his name now would spoil everything," declared Zudora. "I have no evidence at this moment that would hold in law, but I'll guarantee to place it in your hands before midnight. You two will come secretly to my house and I will secrete you behind some curtains, and there you will hear the evidence from the man's own lips."

"Very well," said the district attorney. "But I warn you that any kind of oriental anatomy will not pass as evidence."

"Do you see this pencil?" she asked, exhibiting a stub.

"Yes."

"It is the one. It is green, indelible, not a common, everyday pencil. The criminal held this stub in his hand while strangling Blenreth. Why none of us shall know unless he can be made to tell."

At 9 o'clock a man entered the mystic room. He looked puzzled.

"You wished to see me?" he said to Zudora.

"Yes, please sit down, Mr. Burns."

Above, unbeknown to either, the deep lined face of Hassam All appeared. In his hand he held a revolver with a Maxim slinger. As has been said, the mystic room possessed a dozen secret exits. From this upper one it was Hassam All's habit to take stock of his victims before meeting them personally. He waited.

Zudora began to ask aimless questions. Burns eyed her restlessly. Suddenly she sprang the trap. She held up the pencil.

"This is yours. I saw you writing with it. It fell to the floor, where I found it. It is the same pencil that marked the collar of Blenreth in his death struggles."

Burns jumped to his feet. Zudora did likewise, throwing on the power.

"Yes, I killed him, but another!"

which set the god Hyman in motion turns tried to look away, but could not. Suddenly he screamed and began to grovel.

"Yes, I killed him! But another!"

He stopped, choked, made a spring for the violet light and received the full charge of electricity. There was a terrible dash, and Burns stumbled and fell at Zudora's feet. The attorney rushed to him behind the curtains. But Burns was dead.

Hassam All withdrew his head like a cobra that had concluded not to strike. He had lost a tool who, perhaps, had known too much. But the significant fact remained that John Storm was still in his way.

And Zudora had won her first case. (To be continued.)

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Original.

"Links declares his witty stories are original. Do you believe he tells the truth?"

"Oh, yes. They must certainly have been original with somebody," Baltimore American.

Zudora Ran Over to the Dead Man.

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.

A. M.—"Giving."

P. M.—"The Value of an Ideal."

B. Y. P. U.—Topic, "What Will Improve Our Prayer Meetings." Leaders, Mrs. Grace Johnson.

Bible Study—Tuesday evening 7 o'clock. "The Doctrine of the Trinity."

Prayer Meeting—Exposition Gal. 5:1-4.

Catholic Church.

Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.

High Mass at 10:00 a. m.

Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.

Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.

Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church.

Public worship at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m.

Young people's meeting 6:30 p. m.

Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Services at Ironton:—

Bible school, 1:30 p. m.

Preaching, 2:30 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church.

A. M.—"God in Nature."

P. M.—"Why Christians Ought Not to Dance."

Church of God.

Services at camp ground every Sunday.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching at 11 a. m.

Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science.

Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.

Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject: "Spirit."

Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 till 5 p. m.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier?

If not, why not?

"I Don't Fool Good"

That is what a lot of people tell us. Usually their boys only need cleaning.

Reall Orderlies

will do the trick and make you feel fine. We know this positively. Take one tonight. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

No "Rooms For Rent."

In London the good woman who has furnished lodgings to let never puts out that sign, "Room For Rent," so familiar to the eyes of the United States," said a traveler. "Instead she displays the single word 'Residence.' That sounds queer to us, and until the Yankee visitor becomes wise as to its meaning he wonders what its purpose might be. Any native will tell him that such a legend means the occupant of the house will rent a part thereof to one who is seeking a place to reside in. So, if you are in England and wish to rent a furnished apartment or room, wherever you see the word 'Residence' go boldly in and state your mission."—Baltimore American.

Cold Proposition.

"My bank is mean, I think."

"How so, sir?"

"I have taken hundreds of checks to that bank, and they always count me out the exact amount, just so much and no more. AM the other business men with whom I deal throw in a little occasionally for good will."—Pittsburgh Post.

Subscribe for the Courier.

THE EUROPEAN WAR

IN BIBLE PROPHECY

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have stocked with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (600 pages—cloth) telling that just such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1897.

Of easier interest and importance is its promise of better things in store for the earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents in stamps (with this coupon) to cover postage to The Temple, No. 26 W. 3rd St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Mattresses Renovated.

Fine line of Furniture coverings in all the latest patterns. Price Reasonable. Drop us a card and we will call with samples and give estimate.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Mattresses Renovated.

Fine line of Furniture coverings in all the latest patterns. Price Reasonable. Drop us a card and we will call with samples and give estimate.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Mattresses Renovated.

Fine line of Furniture coverings in all the latest patterns. Price Reasonable. Drop us a card and we will call with samples and give estimate.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Mattresses Renovated.

Fine line of Furniture coverings in all the latest patterns. Price Reasonable. Drop us a card and we will call with samples and give estimate.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Mattresses Renovated.

Fine line of Furniture coverings in all the latest patterns. Price Reasonable. Drop us a card and we will call with samples and give estimate.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Mattresses Renovated.

Fine line of Furniture coverings in all the latest patterns. Price Reasonable. Drop us a card and we will call with samples and give estimate.

SCATTERGOOD BROS.

Potoskey Michigan

Upholstering

Furniture Repairing

and Refinishing

Panama-Pacific International Exposition, Greatest and Most Marvelous of All Celebrations, Opens Completed In Every Detail on Feb. 20, 1915

Forty of the World's Great Nations to Join With America In Celebrating the Opening of the Panama Canal In a Conclave Unsurpassed In History.

Big International Exposition's Amusements Novel and Wonderful

President Wilson Will Visit Panama-Pacific Display of Nations via Panama Canal—Vanderbilt Cup Race and Grand Prix Will Be Held In San Francisco.

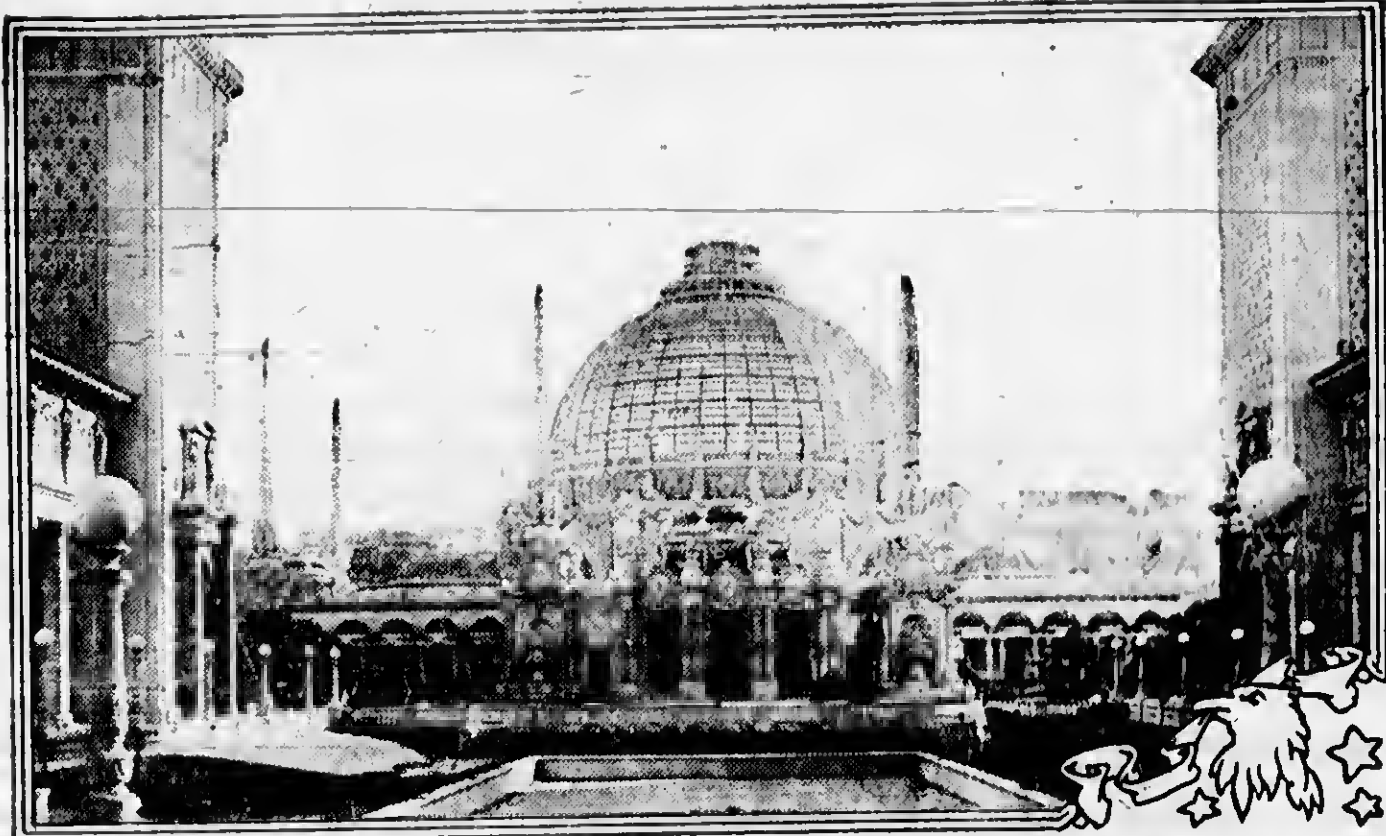

By HAMILTON WRIGHT.

WONDERFUL and novel amusements, parades and pageants of the oriental countries, auto and yacht races and athletic contests will be observed upon a scale of unexampled magnitude and grandeur at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The extensive participation of China, Japan, Siam and Indo and Cochinchina, when taken in connection with the plans already made and with the interesting oriental population of San Francisco, assures such spectacles as have never before been seen in the occident. Pageants of miles in length set off by wonderful floats and marvelous pyrotechnics will wind through the streets of San Francisco. There will be held throughout the this event. The famous Salt Lake Mormon choir, the deep toned plaintive singers of Hawaii and even a chorus of fifty Maorian singers will take part in the choral events. At an expenditure of $1,250,000 the Exposition has constructed a great Auditorium in the civic center of San Francisco, which will be used by the great conventions and song festivals. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Crane will present their latest terpsichorean novelty, the "Exposition Tango." Mr. Harry Lauder will sing the Exposition ballad.

The amusement section of the Exposition, the "Zone," corresponding to the famous "Midway" at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, will carry out the purpose of the Exposition to give every feature a high educational value.

quential railways. The Grand Canyon concession is built upon so prodigious a scale that visitors will view the canyons from a standard gauge railway coach running on a standard gauge track. A huge working model of the Panama canal is so extensive that visitors seated in comfortable theater chairs will be carried along the route of the canal upon a movable platform, and a disphonograph at the arm of each chair will describe each scene as it comes into view. A novel amusement feature will be provided by working submersible boats of sixty-five tons displacement, which will operate in an artificial lagoon. The Aeroscope, a huge inverted pendulum, operating like a giant seesaw, with a great balancing weight on the short end and a car for passengers at the extremity of its long

WONDERFUL GLASS-DOME OF THE PALACE OF HORTICULTURE, PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, 1915.

Palace of Horticulture, looking through the Court of Palms. This beautiful structure has a glass dome 185 feet high and 152 feet in diameter. Crowning the dome is a huge basket. The general style of the architecture is the French renaissance, with Stravinsky modification. The extreme length of the palace is 672 feet and breadth 320 feet.

entire period of the Exposition, which opens Feb. 20, 1915, a series of great events, including sports and athletic contests of many kinds conducted upon a scale of great magnitude.

The Vanderbilt Automobile Cup Race and the Grand Prix, the two supreme events of the automobile year, will be held upon a four mile course, embracing a circuit of the Exposition palaces, a spectacular background far exceeding in beauty and grandeur any which ancient Rome beheld during its historic chariot races. The Vanderbilt Cup Race will take place on Feb. 22 and the Grand Prix on Feb. 27, 1915. Great motorboats of the deep sea cruiser type will race for a $10,000 prize from New York through the Panama canal to the Golden Gate. A series of international yacht races in the twenty-one meter class will be held in San Francisco bay. President Woodrow Wilson, Emperor William of Germany and King George of England have each offered trophies in these events. Swimming, water polo, fly fishing, football, basketball and long distance foot racing are included in a series of more than 200 different kinds of contests. President Wilson himself will attend the Exposition, and it is probable the members of congress will attend in an especially chartered steamer.

Of international interest will be the greatest live stock show in the world's history. More than $500,000 will be awarded in prizes in a continuous live stock exhibit. Rare and valuable breeds of all kinds of live stock from distant countries of the globe will be shown. Specimens of the famous Chillingham wild white cattle will be exhibited for the first time. With the exception of two specimens at the London zoo, this breed has never been shown outside of Chillingham park, England. These cattle are pure white, with black horns, black tips to the ears and black hoofs. An international sheep shearing contest will be one of the unique exhibitions.

For the musical events there has been built by the Exposition the magnificent Festival Palace upon the grounds. This is equipped with a wonderful pipe organ, upon which Mr. Ed will perform world famous organists among other celebrities will give a series of recitals. The International Eisteddfod will at San Francisco compete for $25,000 in cash prizes. More than 20,000 singers will participate in

VAST TRIUMPHANT ARCH AT THE WORLD'S GREATEST EXPOSITION, THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, 1915

Arch of the Setting Sun in the west entrance to the Court of the Universe at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Surmounting the arch is a group of statues representing "The Nations of the West." In the middle of the group is an elegant woman shown by nature. Rising in this is the figure of a woman "The Mother of Tomorrow" and by her side are two children, "The Hopes of Tomorrow." Other figures represent an American Indian, a Mexican, an Alaskan and other American types.

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer	1.00
Home Life	.25
	$3.25	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Up-to-Date Farming	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
The Gentlewoman	.20
	$2.70	All 1 yr for $1.65
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Today's Magazine	.50
Woman's World	.35
Home Life	.25
1 May Manton Pattern	$2.60	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
Woman's World	.35
	$2.85	All 1 yr for $1.80
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
	$3.50	All 1 yr for $3.00
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$4.00	All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Grange Column

Peninsular Grange.

Regular meeting January 28th with Worthy Master Heller presiding. All the principal officers were present and twenty-three members. The finance committee reported the grange books all satisfactory and a balance of $30.50 on hand.

Lecture hour was fully observed by readings, discussions, etc. The debate scheduled for this meeting was postponed to a future date. Bro. Wangerman gave a very lengthy report of grange fire insurance. The grange will meet at 10 a. m. February 11th, an all-day session. The brothers will serve the dinner. Nineteen members attended the installation of officers at Pine Lake Grange January 23rd and report a very good time. It was a day long to be remembered.

Cut rate prices on all magazines to Courier readers. See adv. on page 7.

Marion Center Grange.

Marion Center Grange, No. 359, met January 29, the W. M. presiding. Two candidates were instructed in the first and second degrees and two applications for membership received.

It was decided to have the next regular meeting on Saturday night, February 13, instead of Friday night. The lecture hour was taken up with the following programs: Singing Hymn 176, Grange Melodies, Story by Elmer Meggison, The Old Pioneer by Wm. Withers, Story, H. Himsbauch; Reading, Lavern McGhan; Reading, Jennie Burns; Story, Geo. Sutphin. Attendance, 31 members. Visitors always welcome.

Now is the time to have your harness repaired and oiled. Special prices during the month of February—Benj. Brown. Adv. 5t1

Ironton Grange.

The regular meeting of Ironton Grange, No. 707, was held January 26th with Bro. Grant Hammond, master, in the chair. On roll call the following officers were found absent: Chaplain, lecturer and gatekeeper. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. It was suggested by Sister Cora Hammond that each member have something for the program next meeting. Under new business these committees were appointed:

Executive—Brothers Ole Lyngklip and Frank Hammond and Sister Alice Lewis.

Finance—Brothers John Nasson and Jean Lewis and Sister Jennie Westfall. Lecture hour consisted of readings, songs and stories.

Fourteen members and one visitor present.

Grange closed in fourth degree. Visitors always welcome.

South Arm Grange.

The regular meeting of South Arm Grange, No. 815, was held January 30th with Worthy Master Nathan Liskum in the chair. After the vacancies were filled the usual routine of business was transacted. Eunice Liskum, Dessie Groenink and Irwin Murphy were appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our beloved sister, Iva Pearl Burbank. Motion was made, supported and carried to drape the charter for thirty days. It was decided to hold a special meeting on Saturday, February 6th, to install officers. It was voted to serve an oyster supper.

The following officers were elected at the first meeting in December:

Master—Irwin Murphy.
Overseer—James Keat.
Lecturer—Wm. Murphy.
Steward—R. V. Liskum.
Asst. Steward—Claude Johnson.
Chaplain—Mrs. Clara Liskum.
Treasurer—James Keat.
Secretary—Dessie Groenink.
Gatekeeper—Roy Bradshaw.
Ceres—Viva Olney.
Pomona—Mrs. Ruth Vire.
Flora—Eldred Liskum.
L. A. S.—Eunice Liskum.
Insurance Director—Nathan Liskum.
Members of Executive Board—H. L. Olney and Nathan Liskum.

All members are invited to attend the special meeting next Saturday night.

Following is the resolution drawn by the committee:

Whereas, It has pleased the Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our beloved sister, Iva Pearl Burbank, therefore be it

Resolved, That the officers and members of South Arm Grange, No. 815, extend to her bereaved family their heartfelt sympathy in the loss of their beloved wife and mother, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the local papers for publication and a copy be sent to the bereaved family; that they be spread upon the minutes of the next meeting. Be it further

Resolved, That our charter be draped for thirty days.
Eunice Liskum,
Dessie Groenink, Committee
Irwin Murphy.

Get on on the new Building Office. Read adv. on page 7.

Additional Locals

"Zudora" starts this week.

Read the opening chapters.

L. E. Crandell was a business visitor in Petoskey Tuesday.

Miss May Stewart of East Jordan, was a business visitor in the city Wednesday.

Miss Alba Nowland went to Mackinaw City Saturday to visit her sister, Mrs. Ray Dorrance.

A. L. Coulter of Charlevoix left Wednesday for Chicago where he will spend a few days on business.

R. F. Sloan returned Wednesday from Chattanooga, Tennessee, where he spent a few days visiting his mother.

A message from Washington states that the name of the United States Life Saving Station will be changed to the United States Coast Guard.

A card received by Charlevoix friends gives the information that Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Porter of East Jordan are spending the winter in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Oluf Nordrum, Miss Annette Nordrum and Mrs. Etta Siminaw spent Wednesday in Petoskey on a combined business and pleasure trip.

A party of ten friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Durance of Boyne City drove to that city Sunday and enjoyed a several hours visit with them.

Mrs. H. A. Carr left Wednesday for East Jordan, where she will spend a few days visiting her son before leaving for Detroit and Grand Rapids, where she will select her spring millinery stock.

The stork left an eight pound twelve ounce baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh C. McCartney, formerly of this city, but now living in Flint, Mich. The youngster will be called Hugh C., Junior.

Deputy-United States Marshal Robinson of Grand Rapids made a business trip to the city Wednesday and condemned the fishboat "Duck" owned by H. Portman and Raymond Pearl on account of poor equipment.

A small blaze on the roof of Saint Mary's school, caused by the burning out of the chimney, was the reason for the alarm turned in Tuesday morning. Quick work on the part of the fire department stopped what might have been a disastrous fire.

Closing out Men's Mackinaws, Heavy Pants, Fur Coats, Sweaters, Shirts and Underwear at cost—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 5t1

REVERSIBLE SENTENCES.

Read Backward or Forward They Tell Same Story.

Scandalous society and life make gossiping fruitful. This reads backward. Frantic gossipers make life and society scandalous. Apply the same rule to the others given below.

Solomon had vast treasures silver and gold, things precious. Happy and rich and wise was he. Faithful service to God.

She sits lamenting sadly, often as much alone.

Dear Harry, devotedly yours, repeat.

I have you forgotten twenty dollars, check? Reply immediately, please, and hand to yours, Grace Darling.

Man is noble and generous often but sometimes vain and cowardly.

Carefully boiled eggs are good and palatable.

Love is heaven, and heaven is love, youth says. All heaven, says age. Lying is poverty and death is love.

Exercise takes; excess bores.

Rise early and breathe the free air.

Eat slowly, trouble drive away.

Feet wrinkle keep, hand work with play.

Adieu, darling! Fine flies fast; sun are set, boats are ready. Farewell!

Matter and mind are mysteries. Never mind. What is matter? Matter is never mind. What is mind? Mind is never matter.

Honesty and truth are good and admirable qualities, as sympathy and love are endearing traits.

Politeness and religion are good and admirable traits. Here is good and sound advice.—Philadelphian.

Wherein They Were Alike.

A country minister in Scotland who was notoriously defective and hesitating in his style of delivery in the pulpit was still having a cup of tea with one of the old spinners connected with his congregation when he observed that the spirit of the sermon was either checked or too narrow.

"Your text, Miss Kennedy," he remarked, "is a fine one."

"Yes, just like yourself, Mr. Brown," retorted the nettled lady. "It has an unequal delivery."

Sound to Occur.

"And on no has ever been found for the Sahara desert?"

"No, but I am confident it is only a question of time when some enthusiast will come along and try it out in golf links."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

If You are troubled with heartburn, gases and a distressed feeling after eating take

Rexall Dyspepsia

Tablet

before and after each meal. It is a stimulant and relaxant. Sold by

The Ivy Drug Store.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

IN WEST VIRGINIA.

A passenger conductor of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad writes to Hon. Fred D. Blue, state tax commissioner of West Virginia, as follows: "I was doubtful, as was everybody else, as to the effect such a law would have. I must confess that the immediate effect has been almost beyond belief. We have now passed several pay days and Saturdays, and there has been absolutely no drinking worth mentioning, and where I had to endure personal risk in flat encounters almost every week to secure order from some drunks, I now handle even larger crowds with comparative ease. The women and children are now traveling, partly on the money that was spent for booze and partly because they are not afraid to travel. The results seem too good to last, but if all the officers of the law keep after it, I see no reason why things shall not be even better as time goes on. This is a pretty unqualified endorsement for a railroad conductor who has been up against the world and a rough part of the world for 30 years, but I feel that the changed conditions warrant it."

The following was received from a large coal operator of the state: "I never in my life saw such a great improvement in the way of behavior and manly conduct as on the passenger train of the Cabin Creek branch of the Chesapeake and Ohio since whiskey ceased to be a merchandising proposition in our state. Further, I notice with great pleasure that a large portion of our men who used to go out to get whiskey are now spending this time with their families or at the Y. M. C. A., and a portion of the money which originally went for whiskey is now going toward the entertainment of their families, which means untold pleasures for the children."

Mr. Blue concludes his report with this statement: "Such letters from men in touch with the practical, everyday life speak with more convincing power than anything I can say."

ACCIDENTS DUE TO LIQUOR.

"It will not be long before the saloon will be as much separated from the industrial plant as it is now from the church. As a matter of business we will have to furnish workmen better entertainment than saloons do. We also will have to pay a cash to prevent men from going to saloons to convert their checks into currency. Sixty per cent of industrial accidents in the United States are due to liquor."

L. R. Palmer, chief inspector of the Pennsylvania department of labor and industry, in an address before the national congress of industrial safety.

A BLESSING TO LABOR.

An authority on the labor question makes this statement:

"The wiping out of the liquor traffic will throw two thousand millions of dollars annually into the legitimate channels of trade and industry. This would take the entire output of every factory now in existence and necessitate the building of new factories. It would give employment to every idle person at increased wages. The benefits thus accruing to labor would far exceed the demands that labor is making of capital. If all these demands were granted today."

BLOT IT OUT.

The manufacture and sale of liquor is responsible for:

Seventy-five per cent of our criminals.

Fifty per cent of the inmates of our insane asylums.

Eighty per cent of the inmates of our poorhouses.

Ninety per cent of our tramps.

The destruction of homes.

The corruption of voters.

Who is responsible for the saloon?

BUSINESS SIOE OF QUESTION.

"The work of the sawmill," said Rev. Charles Scanlan in a recent address, "increases the value of the raw lumber; the product of the flour mill is more valuable than raw wheat; butter is worth more than cream, but the drunkard, who is the finished product of the saloon, is of less value than he was before liquor touched him. The saloon destroys, but does not create values."

BURIES THE DEVIL.

Abolishing the liquor traffic does not kill the devil; but it puts him underground; it drives him into highways, cellars and hidden pipes. When you bury the devil, a boy has to hunt for him; when you license the devil, he hunts for the boy.—Clinton N. Howard.

EFFECTS OF BEER.

Beer makes people stupid, lazy and incapable. — Bismarck (see Busch's "Graf Bismarck and Seine Leute").

EASIER TO KEEP STRAIGHT.

It is easier to keep 50 lives straight than to straighten one at fifty.

BEGINNING OF DRUNKARD.

Few drunkards was once a moderate drinker.

UNIONS UNKNOWN.

There is no union made whisky.

Submits to the Courier

Ladies' Aid Meets.

The ladies' aid of the Epworth church held their regular meeting Wednesday, the 27th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Howe. It was well attended and a fine supper was served.

(Political Announcement.)

Republican Candidate for County School Commissioner.

I wish to make it known to the voters and citizens of Charlevoix county that I shall be a candidate for school commissioner of Charlevoix county at the March primaries.

I am twenty-four years old and was raised on a farm in Southern Michigan. I am a graduate of Cass City high school, also of the Michigan State Normal College. I have taken work in our state university leading to my master's degree. For the past three years I have been superintendent at Boyne Falls. For the past eight years I have spent my entire time and energy in school work and solving school problems.

Having had boys and girls from the rural districts come into my school, I have had the opportunity to judge the kind and grade of work done in some of our rural schools. I feel that there are conditions in some of the schools of this county that ought not to exist. Voters and parents will need a man as commissioner who will go into our schools, take hold of the work, hear the classes recite and see what progress is being made. I believe that each school should be visited twice each year and the commissioner should devote his entire time to the work of school supervision. I also think that a commissioner should live up to a high standard of morals, in order that he might set the right kind of a standard before our boys and girls.

If on March the third I receive your support I will not back down from any of these principles that I now hold as ideal. I wish to assure each voter that for your support I shall try and repay you by giving you four years of honest service.

Adv. 5t1 Supt. C. C. Gracey.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

Farmers

We Want Your

Chickens
Beef Pork
Veal Mutton

We will pay you the highest Spot Cash Prices

Phone us if you have any for Sale

We also want you to make this store your trading place. It makes no difference to us how little or how much your purchases will amount to, everyone will receive the same courteous treatment at all times. And we believe you will find no better place in the city to do your trading.

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

When in need of—

FURNITURE
STOVES AND RANGES
CARPETS AND RUGS
BLANKETS AND COMFORTS

Go to— S. M. See & Sons The Reliable House Furnishers

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

WE WILL SELL FOR CASH

February 4th, 5th, and 6th

Shoe Department

Two months yet of cold weather—Don't you want something real warm?—Here are prices that are ruinous to us, but will look good to you and they are prices we won't make again this winter. To close out we will sell:

Child's 1-buckle Arctics... 48c
Child's 2-buckle Arctics... 55c
Misses' 1-buckle Arctics... 65c
Misses' 2-buckle Arctics... 98c
Women's 1-buckle Arctics... 78c
Women's 2-buckle Arctics... $1.10
Youth's 1-buckle Arctics... 75c
Youth's 2-buckle Arctics... 98c
Boys' 1-buckle Arctics... 98c
Boys' 2-buckle Arctics... $1.25
Men's 1-buckle Arctics... $1.00
Men's 2-buckle Arctics... $1.50
Men's 4-buckle Arctics... $2.19
Men's Alaskas... 98c
Women's Alaskas... 75c
Lot of Women's Rubbers... 48c
Lot of Women's and Men's Felt Slippers... 48c
Youth's 2-lace Rubbers for socks... 88c
Boys' 3-lace Rubbers for socks... 98c
Boys' 7-inch leather-top Rubbers... $1.38

Youth's leather-top Rubbers... $1.25
Men's 3-lace Rubbers for over socks... $1.48
Men's 2-buckle Behring Rubbers... $1.48
Men's 1-buckle Perfection Rubbers for over felt boots... $1.48
Women's all-felt Shoes... 98c - $1.19
Women's part felt and part leather Shoe... $1.19
Women's fleeced-lined Rubbers... 60c
Women's Mackinaws, to pull over socks... 98c
Men's $2.50 felt Shoes... $1.48
Women's $1.50 felt Slippers fancy colors, red, wine, green, purple, gray... 98c
Men's $1 Lumbermen's Socks... 75c
2 pair 50c Socks and 1 pair 15c Socks... 98c

Mittens

Men's $1.00 Mittens... 75c
Men's Mittens... 10c, 15c, 25c
Men's 50c Mittens... 40c

Men's Underwear

Men's 50c Shirts... 42c
Men's 50c Drawers... 42c
Men's $1.25 and $1.50 Union Suits... 98c

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 6

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

LOCALS WON BOTH GAMES

Independent and High School Basketball Teams Winners.

Play Mancelona Team Thursday Night—Boys Deserve Hearty Support from Citizens.

Charlevoix Independents defeated the Petoskey Independents 28-8 last Saturday at the local rink in the opening game of the season. Petoskey at no time was dangerous, although at intervals the visitors displayed a good quality of ball. The Charlevoix crew had been together on the night previous to round into shape and were not in the best of condition even though the score would indicate such.

During the first half Charlevoix made a substantial score on field baskets which was hard to overcome by the visitors the rest of the game. Petoskey was unable to ring a basket during the first period and all her points were made from the foul mark. The second half was a repetition of the first and when the "smoke had blown away" the locals with one night of practice to their credit had completely swamped what was supposed to be one of the finest teams in Northern Michigan.

The local quintet was composed of Kirby, center; Powers, Durand and Cram, guards; Vogt and Ewing, forwards.

The biggest surprise of the evening was the handy method the high school team used in trimming. The Norwood aggregation, touted before their appearance on the local floor as a formidable foe for high school teams. The score stood 34-4 on the ledger for Charlevoix after only twenty-five minutes of play. The local high men are fast rounding into shape and give promise of being "comers" in this winter sport. Kirby at center, Sanford, Kruklik and Hamlin were in the fray from the first and were the big factors in point-making and guarding. In the second half Coach Vogt sent in a new squad. Norwood, like Petoskey, made one field basket.

The big attraction of the week will be Mancelona on the local court Thursday evening. Arrangements were completed Tuesday with the management of the down-state people. Even at this early date this game will probably be the fastest contest of the season. Mancelona has been in the basketball world for many seasons and has gained considerable reputation, not only in this part of the state but on southern courts.

During the Christmas vacation a local quintet made a trip to Mancelona and were defeated by a decisive score. Mancelona expects to repeat the dose in Thursday's game. The practice the locals have been indulging in lately has rounded the squad into far better shape than when they appeared in uniform last December. The contest should draw a large crowd.

Considerable enthusiasm was shown at the games last week on the part of the townspeople, who turned out in such numbers that all expenses of both teams were met and the treasury was swelled slightly. The local boys with a victory to their credit expect some real good basketball "pep" from the side lines.

A "curtain raiser" will be arranged with teams from the high school squad.

WENT TO PETOSKEY

Twenty-Six Local Odd Fellows Visited Petoskey Last Wednesday.

Last Wednesday night Wequetonsing encampment of the I. O. O. F. of Petoskey entertained members from various lodges with a chicken banquet. The event is slated as one of the biggest celebrations in the organization's history.

Over 125 men were present and represented contingents from Boyne City, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs as guests of honor. Grand Patriarch Lindsay of Detroit and Grand Scribe John Renfield of Vicksburg were also present. Both of these men gave interesting and instructive talks before the lodge.

The feature of the evening was the royal purple degree, which was conferred on ten candidates—two of them being from Charlevoix, seven from Petoskey and one from Harbor Springs.

At the close of the banquet a game of baseball was played, in which the visitors took a lively interest.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

ALL RECEIVED ENCORES

Young People Assist on Program at Historical Society Meeting.

On the delightful program given by the Charlevoix Historical Society at Dr. Armstrong's last Friday evening, were contributions from several of the young people. Miss Dorothy Armstrong, whose musical responses are always anticipated, opened the entertainment with a beautiful piano solo, "Butterfly" by Edward Greig, responding to encore with a second selection. Robert Bridge, at home from Ann Arbor on a few day's vacation, surprised and delighted the society with his finely rendered selection, "Adoration" by Felix Borowski, encore "Souvenir" Franz Dida. The trio was complete when Miss Nita Mynne responded with a musical monolog, "Not Understood." One of life's sad experiences, most inspiringly given, and very much appreciated. Encore, "A little humorous story."

Will Continue the Business.

Benjamin Yettaw purchased the stock and fixtures of the business formerly conducted by Bert Beaudoin, which was disposed of at a sheriff's sale on Monday. Mr. Yettaw expects to put in a complete stock of candies, etc., and in a short time open up the store to the public.

BILL SHOULD BE MODIFIED

Question as to Whether Baby Carriages are Vehicles.

Must They All Carry Lights Fore and Aft if the Proposed Bill Passes?

A bill introduced in the state senate to require all vehicles to carry lights both fore and aft calls out a facetious article by the Saginaw Courier Herald, which says:

"We trust that the senate will at least make some exceptions before it passes its law to make all vehicles—horse drawn or others—carry lights. A baby carriage is a vehicle. So is a go-cart. Shall we some time be compelled to put lights on these things at night in order to escape arrest for violating the laws?"

"And if they have to carry lights why not compel them to carry licenses like automobiles, peddlers' wagons and drays? Otherwise it would be difficult, perhaps, to enforce the laws. A policeman could hardly be expected to stand out in front of a store beside a baby cab, waiting for the owner to purchase her spool of thread and inspect the entire stock of a large department store. On the other hand he could hardly be expected to trundle the thing off to the police station and lock the infant up in the bull pen for violating vehicle laws. It is the parents who must be reached. Neither could he go into the store and arrest the first woman who looked as if she might in her spare moments push a baby carriage, for he might make a mistake. But if every baby cab carried a number that would be sufficient. He could take it down and go around the corner and get out of the way before anybody tried to steal the baby blankets from the sleeping child. And then, too, why not compel our baby carriages to carry horns and fenders."

"The question as to whether or not roller skates could be construed as a vehicle would be a nice one for the courts. If so we might be treated to the very attractive sight of many young people darting about the streets in the early spring evenings wearing lights front and back. The front lights should, of course be dimmed."

"While there is probably no possibility of the bill passing, yet if discreetly limited it would be a distinct advantage and greatly increase safety if all horse-drawn vehicles as well as all autos were to carry some sort of light."

Novak Sells Out.

Last week Charles Novak sold his interests in the Charlevoix Cigar company to James Bracken and Jesse Puelless. Both Messrs. Bracken and Puelless have worked in the factory for some time, and are well acquainted with the business and wants of the lovers of the weed in this vicinity. The young men are both hustlers and deserve a liberal patronage.

Special for Friday and Saturday—Raisin Pound Cake and Plain Pound Cake; Raisin Loaf—McConn's Bakery, Adv. 611

FIND WORK FOR COUNTRY'S JOBLESS

Charlevoix Postoffice is Now a Free Employment Bureau.

Blanks and Instructions Relative to System Received by Postmaster for Distribution.

Charlevoix postoffice, in connection with every other postoffice in the country, has been made a branch of the government free employment bureau which has been established by the United States department of labor in an effort to secure employment for the thousands of jobless men in all parts of the United States. Postmaster T. G. Finucan has received the necessary blanks and instructions relative thereto. Although no applications for labor have yet been received by the Charlevoix postmaster, there will undoubtedly be seekers of work who will fill out the necessary blanks to be forwarded in an effort to secure jobs.

"Forms of application for the use of employers desiring help and for persons seeking employment may be had on request from the postmaster or to the officer in charge of any branch postoffice during office hours or to a rural mail carrier."

"These officers are required to fill out such blanks."

"All applications when filled out and signed should be folded and returned to the postmaster, or transmitted through the rural mail carrier, or through the officer in charge of any branch postoffice, whereupon they will be forwarded to the proper officer of the department of labor. When thus returned or transmitted no postage is necessary. This service is free to employer and employee."

The above is a copy of the order received by Postmaster Finucan and it is self-explanatory. The blanks supplied are both for those who seek employment and those who want to hire labor. The questions asked in the applications are very complete and cover every department of farm work. The blanks after being filled out may be transmitted through the postoffice or through the rural mail service free. Should any other way be selected regular postage must be affixed.

It is thought by this method there will be many men given work and many farmers supplied with help, thus bringing employer and employee together in a manner not heretofore attempted by the national government.

The system is in a manner patterned after the Michigan Free Employment Bureau, which has during the past few years secured places for thousands of laboring men and women.

CENSUS 100,000,000

United States Will Exceed This Number by April 2nd, 1915.

At four p. m. April 2 the population of the United States will have reached and passed the 100,000,000 mark, according to C. D. Sloane, geographer of the census bureau, who estimates the population at that hour will be 100,000,059. J. S. McCoy, actuary of the treasury department, however calculates the population will be 100,016,000 by February 1 and that the 100,000,000 mark was reached on January 27 or 28.

The disagreement in the estimates arises from the different systems of computation employed by the two men. In the census bureau the direct increase as shown by the difference in population in 1900 and 1910 is taken. By that system the country would contain 100,399,318 persons on July 1, 1915, and more than 108,000,000 on July 1, 1920. The 1900 census showed the population to be 75,994,575, while the 1910 figures were 91,972,266. By the census estimates the population of the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, would be 110,750,000 on July 1, 1915.

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the condition of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

Respectfully submitted,
Pol. Adv. 21f J. H. Milford

WOULD PENSION ALL TEACHERS

Text of New Bill as Submitted by Senator Verdier.

Alien Land Bill Excludes Japanese—New "Blue Sky Law"—Other Capital News.

Below will be found the text of some of the new measures as presented to the state law-makers at Lansing, which will be of interest to the readers of the Courier.

Senator Verdier has a teachers' pension law similar to that of two years ago. It provides:

"All teachers except those under contract, and they may come under the provisions of the bill if they so desire, are required to contribute to the fund. Any teacher who has taught five years or less in the public schools is required to pay into the fund one-half of one per cent. of the yearly salary, but not more than $5 during one year. Teachers who have taught from five to fifteen years shall pay one per cent., or not more than $10, and one who has taught fifteen years or more shall contribute two per cent., but not more than $20."

"A teacher who has taught for a period of twenty years, of which period at least fifteen years—including the last five years of service preceding the application for retirement if retiring after December 1, 1915—shall have been spent in the public schools of the state will be entitled to an annuity of an amount equal to one-half the average annual salary received during the last five years. However, the annuity shall not exceed $500 or be less than $300. Provision is almost made for the payment of annuities by teachers having served 15 and 25 years."

"No teacher shall be entitled to an annuity who has not contributed to the retired fund an amount equal to least 100 per cent. of his or her annuity for one year."

The provision which caused the defeat of the measure two years ago and may prove a stumbling block this time reads as follows: "In case the amount of said fund, not including the principal of the permanent fund, is at any time insufficient to carry out the provision of the act there is hereby appropriated out of the general fund of the state treasury such additional sum or sums as may be necessary to pay the retirement annuities and expenses herein provided for. The auditor general shall add to and incorporate in the state tax for the year 1915 and every year thereafter a sufficient amount to reimburse the general fund for the amount appropriated by this act."

Representative Marshall Oakley of Bay City introduced an alien land bill patterned after the California measure which prevents Japanese and Chinese from owning land in Michigan. They are permitted to lease land for a period not to exceed three years, but are prohibited from becoming property owners. In case an estate is left to a Chinaman or a Jap it shall be escheated in the form prescribed under the present law and the alien shall receive the money from the sale of the property, while the land will revert back to the state.

Rep. Chas. D. Symonds of Menominee presented a bill which requires that all school teachers must have at least six weeks normal school training. This applies to district as well as city and village teachers.

A bill providing an appropriation of $165,000 for the Newberry state hospital was introduced by Rep. S. J. DeLoach for the construction of new buildings and general repairs.

Rep. Chas. Foote of Kent put in a bill to permit teachers to handle the eighth, ninth and tenth grades in schools where there are but ten grades. In some of the smaller schools of but ten grades the high school classes are small, but under the present law the teachers are not permitted to instruct the pupils in the eighth grade.

In Flood District.

A card received last week from L. E. Benton, who with his wife is visiting relatives at Stobenville, Ohio, states that the water in the river at that place had raised to the height of 42 feet above normal, and that the railroad tracks were under water and things in a serious condition. He also sent papers containing accounts of the big flood, which at this time, had not reached the highest point expected this year.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlsen, Ladies Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it. Adv. 21f

DEATH OF MRS. YETTAW

Pioneer Resident Passes Away at Home of Her Son Sunday Morning.

Death came during the early hours of Sunday to Mrs. Matilda Yettaw at the home of her son, Benjamin, on the north side. Mrs. Yettaw had been in poor health for some time, but was not confined entirely to her bed until during three or four days prior to her death.

Mrs. Yettaw was 77 years of age. After her marriage in New York state she moved to Michigan and settled on a farm in Antrim county. She had lived here but a short time when the family moved to Atwood, where she resided until the death of her husband, about ten years ago. From that time she made her home with her son, a short time in Atwood, before moving to this city.

She is survived by two sons—Tytus of Chelsea and Benjamin, at whose home she died—and five daughters—Mrs. Helen Greenland of Bellaire; Mrs. Madeline Cook of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Mary Glascoe of Harbor Springs; Mrs. Emma Lind of St. Louis, Missouri; and Mrs. Eva Pearl of Norwood. All of the children were at the funeral with the exception of Mrs. Cook of Portland. Funeral services were held Tuesday forenoon from Saint Mary's church and the remains taken to Atwood for interment.

DOINGS IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

Many Cases Disposed of During the First Three Days' Session.

Case of Robert Russell vs. Allan M. Wilkinson Dismissed on Account of Lack of Evidence.

The adjourned session of the February term of court opened Monday morning. The first three days of the term have been busy ones and many cases were disposed of.

Steven Klin and Joseph Kozony were granted naturalization papers. George Banks—up for desertion and who at a previous trial had pleaded guilty on the same charge—was given the option of furnishing $200 bonds to support his family or go to Iowa. He is now hustling to obtain bondsmen.

In the case of The People vs. Clark Glazier, permission was asked of the court to have the case nolle prossed.

In the case of The People vs. John H. Bancroft for desertion, Bancroft will serve time under a previous sentence.

Eber DeLong, who has been confined in the county jail for some time on the charge of gross indecency, will be sent to Chicago and placed on probation. DeLong has influential friends there who have promised the court to take of him.

Just as we went to press Judge Mayne dismissed the jury in the case of Robert Russell vs. Allan M. Wilkinson, trespass on the case. Wilkinson was charged with neglect in giving proper medical assistance, and on motion of plaintiff the case was dismissed, each party to settle their own expenses incurred during the trial.

LINCOLN BANQUET

Held Under Auspices of Historical Society at the M. E. Church February 19th.

The Lincoln banquet, entertainment given by the Historical Society will be at the dining hall of the M. E. church Friday evening, February 19th.

Tickets are now on sale for the members of the society at the Central Drug Store and the Ivy Drug Store. Tickets will be sold only to members of the society this week. After this week those remaining unsold will be disposed of to friends of the society who desire to attend the banquet and enjoy the evening with them.

The committee in charge are preparing pantomime exercises portraying the life of Lincoln from the cradle to his old age, and this, together with appropriate music and other entertainment, promises a very delightful evening. All members should secure their tickets at once, so the committee may be guided as to the sale of tickets, which are limited.

Card of Thanks.

We wish through the press to express our sincerest gratitude and thanks to our neighbors and friends who so kindly rendered assistance during our recent bereavement.
Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Yettaw and family.

INSTITUTE A GREAT SUCCESS

Charlevoix Teachers Repaid for Their Long Cold Drive.

Prof. G. Masselink of Ferris Institute and Doctor Krebs of Pennsylvania Conductors.

The county institute held at Boyne City was a great success. Charlevoix teachers felt repaid for the long cold drive to the city at the other end of the lake.

Prof. G. Masselink of Ferris Institute and Dr. Stanley Krebs, president of the Institute of Mercantile Art, Pennsylvania, were the conductors.

Masselink did noble work the first day in the absence of Dr. Krebs on account of the train's service. His talk on "Teachers and the Community" was a strong address, urging the teachers to take an active interest in the affairs of the communities in which they live. This interest would give them a better insight into the conditions under which many of their pupils are compelled to live.

The address of the institute was the one on "Discipline" by Dr. Krebs, who is a lecturer of no mean ability. He held the teachers' attention for more than two hours on a subject that is not very interesting to most teachers—discipline.

Discipline may be divided into two parts—constructive and negative. Under the latter, which is by far the most common method, although the poorest, we have fear. After an extended experiment in the eastern schools by able men in which they worked with 5,000 children they found that they had 25,000 fears. 1. Fear of the end of the world. 2. Fear of being buried alive. 3. Fear that they would not grow tall. 4. Fear of ghosts and hobgoblins. 5. Fear of unjust punishment. Every teacher must reckon with these fears, which are very general with the human race. By proper home and school training many of these may be greatly lessened if not eliminated.

Constructive discipline demands a greater power and more ability and therefore is not so prevalent as the negative, for teachers are not exceptions to the rule and all persons are averse to hard thinking. Constructive discipline demands that we seldom display our power; that we refrain from force, which always breeds resistance; that we use tact, which is saying the right thing to the right person at the right time in the right way; that we have a sense of humor and are not too strict; that we say remember, and not don't forget. Constructive discipline demands that we have the confidence of the pupil, which may be gained by always keeping our promise, even in small things, which to the child mind may be very great.

There is no way that confidence can be gained easier than by just punishment. Discipline is never lost by inflicting just punishment and the teacher who hopes to succeed will be a success not through easy methods but through just punishment. Always make your punishment suggest the crime and be commensurate with the crime.

Lastly, to be a successful disciplinarian you must be polite, be pleasant, be often on the playground, be praiseful of the work of the students.

If people would look at the requirements for a person as set forth by Dr. Krebs they will see that it takes ability of no mean order to make a success in the best and poorest paid of all professions—teaching.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Junior Y. M. C. A. Club held their weekly meeting at the high school Monday evening.

The meeting was called to order by President James Thompson. Secretary Richard Hammett being sick, the roll was read by Chester See, the former secretary.

The business meeting was then held. A motion was made, seconded, and carried, that we have a first and second basketball team. No more business came before the club. Bible Study was next held. After Bible Study all listened to a very interesting talk on teeth given by Dr. Franklin Wilkinson which we all enjoyed. The boys then went to their respective homes.

Reporters—Howard Major, Thomas Nowland.

Special for Friday and Saturday—Raisin Pound Cake and Plain Pound Cake; Raisin Loaf—McConn's Bakery, Adv. 611

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager

Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year, $1.50
One copy, six months, .75
One copy, three months, .40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and
entertainments, where admission is
charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary poetry, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 5 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

Fine, Doctor, But It Won't Go.

Compulsory physical examination for all people has found a champion and a prophet in Doctor H. B. Darling, who in the course of a medical lecture in the University of Michigan summer course quipped after this wise: "Why should not the health service in operation here be extended so as to include a physical examination of every citizen in Michigan?"

There is one vital reason: The people of Michigan wouldn't permit any such drastic and impertinent interference with their private affairs. They would probably kick the would-be examiners down their front doorsteps. The good doctor doubtless means well, as other physicians who advocate similar measures mean well, but one feels on reading utterances like that credited to Doctor Darling that the speaker should undergo a compulsory examination to find out whether he is radically deficient in common sense. Those who advocate compulsory examination and consequent compulsory medication—for the one is the logical consequence of the other—reckon without the fact that the people of the United States, despite a good many encroachments on their rights, still retain some residue of their ancient impulse to manage their own affairs.
Health is a very good thing, some people say it is the most valuable possession a man can have, but there are a good many persons who feel themselves able to take care of this possession without the supervision of the state.

It may be granted that a general physical examination of the people of Michigan would prevent considerable disease, but on the other hand it is a question whether life would be really worth living if one must spend it under a doctor's orders. A scientific despotism might easily become as intolerable as any other sort of despotism.
Detroit Free Press.

THE haggard faces one often sees in Lent may not be due so much to fasting as to the fact that the people attended four dances the week before.

It is no wonder there are so many unemployed in the cities when it is such hard work farming and no picture shows in the country either.

From what we hear we are inclined to believe that this city needs to adopt the "safety first" plan in running its public affairs.

TOASTSTOOLS are often mistaken for mushrooms, just as often as gall is frequently mistaken for genius.

EVERYONE does too much bluffing.
But some are luckier than others and do not get called as often.

ELIMINATE politics, religion and the weather and there wouldn't be much left to talk about.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments made. Adv. 61f

Unobserved and unannounced the president of a church society entered a composing room just in time to hear these words issue from the mouth of the boss printer:

"Billy, go to the devil and tell him to finish that murder he began this morning. Then kill 'Wm. J. Bryan's Youngest Grandchild' and dump 'The Sweet Angel of Mercy' into the hellbox. Then make up that 'Naughty Parisian Actress' and lock up 'The Lady in Her Boudoir.'"

Horrified, the good woman fled from that place of sin and now her children wonder why they're not allowed to play with the printer's youngster.

Use the Newspapers.

Don't advertise on trees or rocks.
Afar from haunts of men.
You cannot sell the woodchuck clocks
Or pictures of his den.

The squirrel may observe your sign
About your cure for chills
And on it he may try to dine,
But that won't pay your bills.

The "coon" buys no breakfast foods.
We may as well confess,
So if you want to sell your goods
You'd better use the press.

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

A little girl's father had been very ill with appendicitis and had lain many days in a darkened room after the doctors had removed his appendix. The little girl had been told to be very quiet and very good, with the promise that she should go in to see her papa at the earliest possible moment. At last she was permitted a brief visit. She stood perfectly still, gazing at her father with loving eyes, but when the nurse came to take her away she held back a moment. "Haven't I been very quiet, papa?" "Yes," whispered the fond parent. "And haven't I been very good?" Her father admitted it. "Then won't you do me a favor, papa?"
"Certainly. What is it, my child?"
"Let me see the baby."

A charming well-preserved widow had been courted and won by a physician.
She had children. The wedding day was approaching and it was time the children should know they were to have a new father. Calling one of them to her, she said: "Georgie, I am going to do something before long that I would like to talk about with you." "What is it, ma?" asked the boy. "I am intending to marry Dr. Jones in a few days and—" "Bully for you, ma.
Does he know it?"

A man who had been out of town for a spell stepped into a city newspaper office and said to the clerk: "Will you please give me copies of your paper for a week back?" "You are in the wrong place, my man," said the clerk. "Go across the street and get a porous plaster."

Mrs. Newbird called at the meat market the other day and asked the butcher if he had any nice slumps.
"Slumps? What are they?" asked the butcher. "Indeed, I don't know, but my husband is always talking about a slump in the market, so I thought I'd try one."

A country editor once got a dollar a word for what he wrote. Yep; he wrote
"Please remit" and a fellow paid him
$2 that he owed him.

THE MUSIC MAKERS

Famous Quartette to be Heard at the Opera House
Friday Night.

Yes! I think so, O yes I have a date, at the opera house Friday night. The Music Makers Quartette is a number that you want to hear. They have been on the road six years and are to-day recognized as one of the greatest male quartettes on the lyceum platform.

The four young men, Messrs. Gar-ret, Platz, Huff, Shaw, constituting the personnel of the Music Makers Quartette each possesses the marks of noble mind and music ability.

The program is varied and should meet the approval of the most critical.
Remember the date, February 12, at the opera house. Tickets on sale at the Central Drug Store Thursday night at seven o'clock.

MORE ACREAGE NEEDED

Not Enough Secured So Far to Get New Station
Built at Charlevoix.

It is quite urgent at this time that every farmer who desires to secure his contract for cucumber acreage, to do so at once. A number of acres have already been contracted, but not enough to guarantee the placing of a pickling station in Charlevoix.

The Johnson Pickle Company have signified their willingness to erect a station here, providing a certain amount of acreage is guaranteed, and it will be a wise thing if the farmers take hold and give the proposition all the encouragement they can. It may be the one step toward bringing other industries to this community.

Notice.

Friday, February 12th, being Lincoln
Day, and Monday, February 22d, Washington's Birthday, both legal holidays, the banks will be closed all-day. Customers desiring change, currency or other conveniences, will kindly arrange for same before those dates.
Charlevoix State Savings Bank,
by W. J. Rychow, Cashier.
Charlevoix County Bank,
by A. F. Bridge, Cashier.

Nearing Completion.

Smoke issued from the huge stack of the boiler plant of the Jackson & Tindle mills at Pellston Wednesday of last week for the first time since the fire last August which destroyed the plant. The new plant is nearly completed and the fire under the new boilers was built for the purpose of testing them. It is expected the mill will be completed and running about the 20th of this month.

Read "Zudora" our new serial story.
Pictures to be shown at Majestic.

GOVERNMENT AID FOR GOOD ROADS

Object Lesson Highways Are Being Constructed.

ENGINEERS ARE PROVIDED.

The Director of the Government Office of Public Roads Shows in His Annual Report How the Government is Co-operating With the States in Building and Maintenance.

A project that should result in a continuous series of model roads from Washington, D. C., to Atlanta, Ga., has been undertaken during the past year, according to the recently issued annual report of the director of the office of public roads. The plan as finally adopted involves the payment of sums for the upkeep of these roads by the counties through which they pass on condition that the federal government will provide engineers who shall supervise the project so that it may be an object lesson in the maintenance of good roads on a sufficient scale to attract general attention. So far the plan has met with an unexpected degree of success. Over half the counties covered by the road system have already engaged to co-operate in keeping up this model road and such wide interest has been aroused that civic organizations in Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and elsewhere have requested that the work be extended to their districts.

Many other object lesson roads are being constructed for the purpose of giving instructions in proper methods to local road officials. Assistance is granted upon application of the local officials. All materials, labor and tools are supplied locally, while the federal government, through the office of public roads, furnishes only the services of the engineer.

During the year thirty-two of these object lesson roads were completed, as follows: One cement concrete, three bituminous macadam, one bituminous surface treatment, two plain macadam and gravel, eleven sand clay, three top soil and two earth. These roads are located as follows: Arizona, 1;
Florida, 3; Massachusetts, 1; Mississippi,
1; Missouri, 1; North Carolina, 10;
South Carolina, 1; Texas, 3; Virginia,
3. One earth road was begun in Tennessee, but was not completed, and it will be described in the annual report
for 1915.

The office has also cooperated with states and interested localities in the improvement of its post roads. Each state or county provides double the amount expended by the federal government. The area of post roads, object lesson and experimental roads constructed during the year aggregated 631,735 square yards, nearly 10 per cent more than the total for 1913.

The office is concerned particularly with bridge work and prepares typical designs which are furnished to localities where they might be suitable. Occasional designs prepared by bridge companies have been checked and reviewed for the benefit of local officials.

Systems of roads were devised for a number of counties. Engineers have been assigned to make special inspections and advise with local officials in twenty-five different states.

A new division in the office has been created during the past year, called the "division of national park and forest roads," which is to co-operate with the department of the interior in improving the roads in some of the national parks and with the forest service in road and trail construction in national forest reserves. Congress has provided that 10 per cent of the receipts of the forest service shall be expended in constructing roads and trails within the national forests.

Motorist's Dream Comes True.

The motorist's dream, a high gear dirt highway 1,200 miles long, now is nearly completed, and ere long it will be extended until the driver can "blit'er up" for 2,000 miles without changing gears for a grade. The road is so marked that even a route book is not necessary for the guidance of the driver.

This model dirt highway is the Meridian road, which will run from Winnipeg, Canada, to Galveston when completed. It is the longest "high gear" road in the country. If not in the world.
It is also probably the longest straight road in the country, for in the entire 2,000 miles there are only seven turns or jogs from the actual meridian from which the road takes its name—the sixth principal meridian.

Kansas built the first section of the road in 1911, when the motorist and the good roads fever struck the state together. Over $100,000 was spent on the road within the state.

There is not a foot of rock road on the entire 2,000 miles. The road is now complete from Winnipeg to the Oklahoma-Texas line and is being rebuilt in Texas.

FORCE OF TRUTH.

We are backed by numbers. We are backed by power. We are backed by the force of truth. We are backed by the force of truth.
We are backed by the force of truth.
We are backed by the force of truth.
We are backed by the force of truth.

It All Depends On You---

If you say you want your new Spring Suit tailored to individual order from your own selection of exclusive styles and fabric, we'll send your measure to our famous Chicago tailors

ED. V. PRICE & CO.

and guarantee to deliver the cream of custom-tailoring at a price far less than you've been paying local tailors. Give us a chance to prove it?

GO TO -- Levinson's -- Get the Habit.

CADILLAC MAN INSANE

Carl A. Carlson Taken from an Ann Arbor Train
Minus Clothing.

An insane man whose name is Carl A.
Carlson of Cadillac recently ran from his home to Huynes street, where he boarded an Ann Arbor passenger train and rode to the railroad station. He was clad only in a suit of underwear and his feet were bare.

Trainmen took charge of Carlson at the station, where he was running about in the snow and on the ice-covered platform. Later the police placed him in jail. He was out in the cold from ten to fifteen minutes. When taken in custody the thermometer registered five below zero. He told the officers he was on his way to heaven.

Carlson continually broods over the death of his sweetheart and believes his life is being sought. Last week he refused to eat some of his food until the sheriff ate some of it to prove it was not poisoned. The man was taken to the Traverse City asylum, where it is said he has an excellent chance to recover.

Political Announcement.

To the Republican Electors of the County of Charlevoix:
I wish to announce that I will be a candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of County Road Commissioner at the primaries March 3rd.
Pol. Adv. 51f Oakley D. Hammond.

Read "Zudora."

Mason's Dep'tment Store

Dress Goods

1 yard with embroidered Crepe 75c
$1 grade, sale price per yard
One special lot 50c serges, sale
price per yard 35c

Flannelettes

15c quality Flannelettes, sale
price per yard 9c
12½c quality Flannelettes, sale
price per yard 8c

Coats

Ladies' Coats $3.00
sale price
Children's Coats $2.00
sale price

---Many Other Big Bargains---

Underwear

Women's
$2.25 all wool Union Suits, $1.65
sale price
$1.50 part wool Union Suits $1.19
sale price
$1.00 fleeced lined Union Suits 75c
sale price
50c fleeced lined Union Suits 39c
sale price
$1.00 all wool Pants and Vests 75c
sale price
50c fleeced Pants and Vests 39c
sale price
25c fleeced Pants and Vests 19c
sale price
Misses 50c Union Suits, sale price 39c
Children's all wool Garments, a reduction on each suit of 30c
Children's Sleeping Suits and Outing Flannel Gowns 35c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Circuit court is now in session. Are you reading the new serial story, "Zudora?"

Dr. A. M. Wilkinson was in Bellaire last Wednesday on business.

Henry Cooper made a business trip to East Jordan last Wednesday.

Charles Novak spent Wednesday and Thursday in Petoskey on business.

A. J. Davoll of Boyne Falls was a business visitor in the city Friday.

Mail carriers are now crossing on the ice from Cross Village to St. James.

Richard Lewis spent Wednesday of last week in Petoskey as a business visitor.

J. B. Parsons is spending a few days on business in Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago.

E. A. Burnett of Harbor Springs spent the week end in the city visiting his father.

Robert Bridge returned to his duties at the U. of M. Monday after spending a week with his parents.

A. A. Swinton and son, Donald, left Friday for a week's visit among friends and relatives at Southampton, Canada.

Mrs. Amelia Kaden, of Boyne City, candidate for the office of county school commissioner, was in the city Tuesday.

Miss Lucille Hunderman left Thursday for Grand Rapids, where she expects to remain the balance of the winter.

Iva Bogart of Buckley arrived in the city last week for a visit with her mother, who is reported to be in poor health.

B. A. Herman left Thursday for Chicago, where he will spend the next two weeks on a combined business and pleasure trip.

S. M. Rose has greatly improved the looks of the interior of his barber shop during the last week by papering and painting.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Miller of Petoskey spent Thursday in the city as guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller.

Miss Marion Harris left Tuesday for Minneapolis, Minnesota, where she will spend her three weeks vacation visiting friends.

Guy Myers and wife left Saturday for their home at Loraine, Ohio, after a month's visit at the home of his mother, Mrs. S. J. Myers.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. George Brown, Friday, February 15. Topic, "Temperance and Missions."

Miss Edith Lamereaux, who has been spending the winter in Boyne City, left last place Wednesday for Detroit, where she has accepted a position.

James Sanford left Monday for Notre Dame, Indiana, where he will visit his son, James Jr., and will also spend a few days in Chicago before returning.

W. J. Pearson of Boyne Falls is at the St. James sanitarium in Petoskey, taking treatments. He has been suffering for some time with a severe cold.

There will be services in the Episcopal Church on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p. m. Rev. H. Harris of Petoskey will officiate.

The state game warden department reports one hundred and eighty-five prosecutions for the month of January, which indicates the department has not been idle.

According to the Petoskey Evening News, the B. P. O. E. lodge of that place has purchased the building known as the Huh, which will be used as their meeting place at home.

Frances Milner entertained a number of her little friends Saturday afternoon in honor of her sixth birthday. Games were played and the little guests were served with refreshments.

Elmer L. Johnson left Monday for Fairgrove, where he will visit among friends and relatives. Mr. Johnson will also take in the big poultry exhibition at Saginaw and exhibit several of his Rhode Island Reds.

Men and Women Singers will give a Greate Concert at the Congregational Meeting House, February 24, 1915. A Lyte of the Tunes will appear on another day. Ye doors will open at 7:30 by ye clock. Remember the Bigge Singe.

The annual mid-winter meeting of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society will be held at the Hackley Art Gallery, Muskegon, on Wednesday and Thursday, February 17 and 18. Many prominent speakers have been booked for the occasion and special music prepared.

E. S. Stacks, who has been traveling for the past six weeks for the Armour Fertilizer Works of Chicago, Illinois, was in the city over Sunday. Mr. Stacks has been very successful in sales made since he has been working for the company, and stands in third place among the busy Michigan salesmen for the month of January. He has 22 counties in his territory and has been working during this period of time in Leelanau, Benzie, Marquette and Mason, at once.

Henry Clark sustained severe bruises in an accident at the Paddock farm the latter part of the week. He was driving his team into the barn, when the wind blew a heavy door against him, knocking him off the sleighs onto the barn floor.

The boys of the city are becoming enthusiastic over the basket ball games and from reports it is learned that several more teams will be organized and a series of matched games held. The gymnasium at the skating rink is proving to be a good thing for the boys, and after school hours is well attended.

Lent will begin this year on February 17 and Easter Sunday will fall on April 4, which is one week earlier than last year, while next year Lent will not begin until three weeks later. Superstitious people who believe Friday the 13th carries along a bushel of evils will rejoice that only once during the year of 1915 does Friday fall on that date.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcements of the date. Adv. 61f

TAKEN TO IONIA

Must Serve from Three to Ten Years for Shooting Mrs. Hahn.

Clinton Case, who shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Rudolph Hahn of West-questing several months ago while under the influence of liquor, was taken to Ionia last Friday. Case will serve out a sentence of from three to ten years for his crime.

His mother, who resides in Chicago, was in Petoskey Friday to bid her son good bye just as he was boarding the train. The heart-broken mother asked her son to be a man and said that he would be out in a few years. Case had a good reputation in Chicago, his home, and blames liquor for his downfall. The parting of mother and son was witnessed by many bystanders, whose eyes were filled with tears.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it. Adv. 61f

COUNT AND WEIGHT

Charlevoix Rural Carriers Conclude a Month's Business Efficient Men.

Charlevoix rural carriers have just completed another count and weighing of the mail matter and parcels carried in and out on the various routes. The number of pieces and weights for the month of January is as follows:

Total number of pieces out and in—37,016.
Total weight out and in—5,572 pounds.

This makes a total average of 3,254 pieces and 1,333 pounds out and in for each carrier, or 371 pieces and 56 pounds a day for each carrier.

It might be in order to say that no town in this or any other county has a more faithful or efficient lot of carriers than has Charlevoix. If anybody can make the routes they make them, in spite of cold, storm, drifts or rain. They earn every cent they get and deserve more.

Try our Pullman Style Cream Bread, 33 oz. for 12c. Once tried always used. McAnn's Bakery. Adv. 61f

Auld Tyme Consort. Ye auld tyme consort to be held in ye Congregational meetin' house in Charlevoix on ye 24th day of February is on ye way.

The following named artists—Araminta Bush, Prudence Rachow, Patience Taggart, Jehosaphat Wilkinson, Obadiah and William Ralston will be supported by other singers and speakers of renown. Admission 25c. Worth 50c, but on account of so many dinners and suppers taking place about that time will sing this night only for 25c. apiece. Adv. 61f

Rexall Orderlies

Sick headache, biliousness, piles and bad breath are usually caused by inactive bowels. Get a box of Rexall Orderlies. They act gently and effectively. Sold only by us at 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

Livery Barn Fire.

Fire was discovered last Saturday morning about five o'clock in the livery barn owned and operated by Henry O'Leary on south bridge street. Quick work on the part of the fire department stopped what might have resulted in a heavy loss. The fire is thought to be the work of a firebug, as it was burning in two different places considerable distance apart.

A policy against fire loss is the protection every property owner should have. Better see Myrie Young & Son at once. Adv. 61f and Fleets of European Nations the Development of Years.

MOTORS IN WARFARE.

The motorizing of the military machinery of the great powers has been a development of years, not of a day. It is an experimental expedient of the modern age. It has been as grim and serious in some phases as the great light that has been waged between the projectile and the armor plate, for just as the present kinds of projectiles and armor plates are the results of a process of evolution, of selective elimination, so likewise the motorized land fleets of the war departments of France, Germany, England, Russia and Austria are the results of some years of exacting, scientific tests in long drawn out maneuvers, with the reward of generous subsidies as the stimulant to the inventor, manufacturer and private owner. Motorizing their armies has been in a large degree just as important a part of the terrible preparations which these great powers have made for the present conflict as the making of howitzers and super-Dreadnoughts. It is a part of the two and a half billions which they have saddled on their subjects each year for ten years as a tribute to Mars.

Many factors have tended to bring about the motorizing of European war machinery in practically every department of their armies.

The cost of maintaining in idleness thousands of horses and mules for army service in densely populated countries are these, where the agricultural acreage is intensely cultivated to produce human food, is economically prohibitive. Again, both Germany and France have the finest permanent roads in Europe, and conditions for the practical utilization of motor trucks are more favorable than in any other countries in the world. But the premier reason for motorizing has been the greater mobility of the self-propelled vehicle, a realization that the victorious army will be the one supplied with the most modern transportation units. Engineering Magazine.

SPEECH AND THE CHIN.

Maybe at One Time the Tongue Proved Mightier Than the Teeth.

In man the chin seems to project more and more as he progresses toward his modern civilized condition. This must imply that immediately the huge lower canines degenerated the part took on some other function of vital importance to the race and that the need has increased with its intellectual and social advancement.

My theory, then, is that the chin is essentially a part of the mechanism of articulate speech.

It is tempting to theorize a little further and to suggest that the human chin perhaps bears testimony to a prehistoric change from carnal weapons to others which, if not exactly spirit, were such as appealed to the part of its wider spiritual forces work for apparently long ago before the proved mightier than the sword tongue proved mightier than the tooth.

If one could only prove this one much show that even before the great speech parliamentary institutions, using the term in its widest sense, began to take the place of blunt weapons in settling disagreements, and that the substitution of articulation for it is not merely a doctrine of later day theorists, but is a part of the ancient, unbroken progress of mankind, as the other evolutionary changes which have brought us up from among the brutes. Dr. Louis Robinson in North American Review.

AROUND THE DAIRY.

A warm, fresh, light stable is the proper place for the cows at this time of year. Wallowing through snow bogs deep is not the best way to get the cows to water; chills them and stops the milk making business too long.

Too much cannot be said about the way in which cows are treated in the stable. Kindness must prevail.

Calves starting life in late fall make fine animals by grass this next spring because and annoyed by flies; also it is easy to give calves good care and feeding in winter.

The calf should be taken from the cow very soon after birth. It learns to drink much more easily than if left several days with the cow.

Only a trifling Delay. Flieg Did you succeed in persuading your wife when she gets angry to count ten before she speaks? Fogg Yes, but she's a very rapid counter. Boston Transcript.

Dairymen's Convention.

The 31st annual meeting of the Michigan State Dairymen's Association will be held in Flint four days starting with Tuesday, February 16th. A fine program has been prepared and everything done to make the meeting an interesting one. Prizes will be given in the milk contest, also for the best butter makers.

Himebaugh-Campbell.

Married, at the Methodist parsonage February 3rd by Rev. Quinton Walker, Lloyd Himebaugh of Charlevoix and Miss Anna Campbell of Phelps. These young people have many friends in the city who are interested in their future happiness.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

MICHIGAN APPLES LEAD

Such is Verdict of a Man Who Has Visited all Sections of the Country.

Every season additional testimonials regarding the merits of the Michigan apple are secured. One of the latest of these is from J. W. Fisher, Jr., who has recently made an exhaustive study of the apple industry as regards this state. He has expressed himself as follows:

"In the past three years the writer has visited nearly every important apple-producing section in the country in search of the one perfect orchard section in the United States. He is frank to confess that he has not found the section which meets every requirement, but his travels have convinced him firmly of one fact: Taking every phase of the commercial orcharding question into consideration, Michigan offers as many, if not more, opportunities to the young man with a certain amount of capital than any other district in the United States. Do not misunderstand this statement. This is made after taking into consideration every phase of the commercial apple orcharding question. Some districts may surpass Michigan in one point, some in another, but when every phase is considered and the final judgment given, Michigan will hold her own with any state."

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcement of the date. Adv. 61f

William F. Bashaw

For Commissioner of Schools, Charlevoix County.

Republican Primaries, March 3rd.

Resident of Charlevoix county since 1879. Graduate of East Jordan High School. Hold an engrossed first grade certificate. Have had 14 years actual teaching experience. County Trust Office for 7 years. Supervisor of 1st Ward, East Jordan, four consecutive terms. Taxpayer and patron of the Public Schools. The "School of Experience" is an essential as graduation from any other school, and I believe that my experience in connection with the schools of Charlevoix county for the past 21 years has amply qualified me for the position of County Commissioner of Schools. If nominated and elected, I promise to show no partiality, and to give my entire time to the duties of the office. Pol. Adv. - 61f

COURIER
BARGAIN
COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

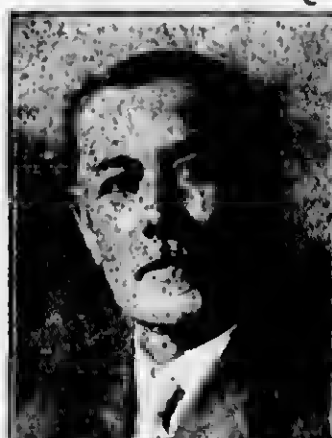

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion; half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

WANTED—Chambermaid. Apply at Hotel Charlevoix.

TRAINED NURSES—Young women who wish to take up nursing as a profession are invited to send application for entry into the spring class of the Grace Hospital Training School. A large class is being formed on account of an increase in capacity of the hospital. Large and well equipped nursing home. Home influence excellent. Graduates prepared for entry registration in Michigan and other states. Address: Principal, The Grace Hospital Training School for Nurses, Detroit, Michigan.

JOSEPH M. COURIER

OF CHARLEVOIX

Candidate for nomination for office of County Road Commissioner on the Republican Ticket, subject to the March Primaries. Pol. Adv. 61f

J. L. Crane

Special Value in Seamless Tapestry Rugs

Extra Heavy—Closely Woven Surface. Choice Patterns and Coloring of Very Expensive Rugs

The Best we have ever offered at the price

SIZE 9 X 12

$16.00

New Patterns of the small, all-over designs

Special for Saturday February 13

Women's Heavy Plush Back Underwear—Grey Vests and Pants—all sizes, 34 to 42. 50c quality

29 cents

$20,000,000.00 Given Away

IS SOME OF IT YOURS?

A notice from Chicago dated January 20, states that Sears, Roebuck & Co. are to give this amount away, not to their customers, but to the shareholders. The moneyed men of Chicago who have invested in the stock will receive half the amount invested as profit. Another next year would return to them their total amount invested and leave them their stock as a gift from the people. It is the same as you renting your farm at one-half of the cost of the farm. In two years you would have your money back and the farm also. It means their customers have paid them a profit of fifty per cent and also the cost of operating.

This profit is so big that we can hardly realize it. Fifty per cent clear of all expenses. How do the people stand it? Why are we satisfied if they pay us a little ten per cent. Wonder how they get all this. Still look at the prices they get and then what we sell for and we can see how it is. We have always claimed that, quality considered, we sell at lower prices and here is the proof. Why should you pay them $20,000,000.00 to give away to themselves, when you could build up your own community for much less and leave the balance in your pocket?

They have a clever writer, one able to separate people from their money unless they investigate, and then they use some special at a low price and talk hard on that. Investigate this and in doing so, remember they are talking hard for your trade on a fifty per cent profit basis and you pay the freight, while we not only pay your freight for you, but are glad if we get ten per cent.

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Furniture Dealers

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

NOTHING PAYS BETTER

DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

While in Charlevoix EAT AT

Moore's Restaurant

317 Bridge Street

THE PLACE FOR GOOD COOKING AND COURTEOUS TREATMENT

WARREN B. MOORE, Prop.

The princess looked at him bewilderingly, shaking her head. Presently "Ferlight!" he shouted. Which means a foreigner.

finds that he fled from Hells America with the bulk of his treasury and the portolano priceless. The house to bird and naturally read the message. She scribbled on the back of the envelope and returned her in a few moments that he had left the money for her.

press down to them. The woman there struck her forehead to the ground. He had never thought of such a thing.
It was one thing to ask to force Satoko into leaving the house and then to seize each week to us.

Story will be

Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 till 5 p. m.

Story will be placed on sale—It may be a year.

his aunt told him that she would return home.

"They wanted you," he said glibly. "They kidnapped me again and sent me about my business. What did you

"Enough to determine me to see what I can do. Of course it is a colossal trick of some sort, but it would not be

"My child, this is altogether a strange business. These orientals are quick to distrust. If they find you com-

"I've rattled up my mind."
Then she ran upstairs. She was very ons to send a message to Storm by the carrier pigeon. She wrote a short and explaining the situation and liberated the bird. Storm's housekeeper received the link and sent it to Storm.

the bird had naturally read the message. She scribbled on the back of this message and informed her mister's sweetheart that he had left the house in haste, the reason being that did not go to the octagonal room, but proceeded directly to the secret chamber. For one brief moment death stared her in the eyes, but she spoke bravely. In return for the direction of her lover she declared that while the aid of one man she would bring the princess down to them. The young Prince Sienek his forehead to rage. He had never thought of such a thing. His one aim had been to force Satoko Shim from the house and then to seize his betrothed.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

PEOPLE TO BE TRUSTED.

The reason why governments have not done and are not doing their duty toward the suppression of alcohol is, in the last analysis, says Congressman Hobson, "based on the absence of public opinion on the part of the masses as to the true nature of alcohol and the appalling results that come from its use." And Dr. T. D. Crothers, the noted expert on alcoholism, declares that "if the actual effects of alcohol were known by the people, prohibiting its use would follow as a natural and reasonable demand." To bring to the people knowledge concerning the nature of alcohol and its effects upon the individual, the family, the state, is the purpose of the organized campaign of education now being carried on throughout the land from remote countryside to halls of congress. Given the facts, the intelligent people of this nation will soon settle the liquor question and settle it right. Bring the truth to the masses!

JAILS ARE EMPTY.

The Telegram (Wheeling, W. Va.), speaking enthusiastically of the changed conditions in Wheeling, tells us that "On the 5th of July the prisoners were so thoroughly cleaned out of the workhouse that when the jail officials sent for some men to clean in prison to do it, and the jail officials had to do the work themselves."

One instance is related of a former leader of the wets who is in the grocery business. A man who had owed him a grocery bill for four years came in the first pay day after the saloons were closed and gave him $10 on his account. He explained that now that he could not spend his money for booze, he would have to pay his honest bills. Similar incidents are related by the hundreds from all over the state.

"INFERNAL REVENUE."

"We are told that we must have the liquor traffic for the revenue it yields, for the vast sum that flows annually into the coffers of the nation through infernal internal revenue," said Michael Fanning, in a masterly address in Salt Lake City. "Who pays this revenue? Not the liquor dealer. The average liquor dealer in the United States last year took in $8,700 and paid out an average of $520, the difference being the liquor dealer's toll. This, in the last analysis, is paid by starving wives, besotted husbands, helpless orphans, betrayed maidenhood, blasted careers, wreck, ruin, despair and death."

WHAT DOES HE GET?

A New York business man puts it this way: "Suppose two workmen, quitting on Saturday, each with, say, $12 in his pay envelope. One goes to the corner saloon and spends $4 for drink—going home to his family drunk, and with $8 in his pocket, while the other goes to the corner and deliberately throws $4 out of his pay envelope into the sewer—going home sober, and with $8 in his pocket. Which is the better husband and father? What did the first man purchase with his money?"

ENORMOUS WASTE.

The man of this world is no longer indifferent to the mountainous waste represented by the saloon and its attendant vices. The statesman more than the preacher, the ballot box more than the pulpit, is called upon to confront this awful waste of human energy, this dissipation of earth's resources, misdirection of man's toil. It is by the decree of the economist, of the good statesman, the boasted practical man of business, the manager of railroads and the directors of banks, that the saloon has got to go.—Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

NO JUVENILE CASES.

Recently a superintendent of the department of juvenile courts of the Kansas W. C. T. U. wrote to the juvenile court judges of the different counties of the state in an endeavor to learn the status of the work in each community. One judge reported, "We have no probation officers because we have needed none. During the past three years we have had no juvenile cases." Another judge wrote, "No children have ever been sent to institutions from this county."

GOOD BUSINESS.

The London Daily Chronicle, recording the fact that a large employer of labor has decided to pay the total abstinence among his men 10 per cent higher wages than the drinkers, states that he does this as a purely business proposition and in the interests of efficiency; he has no special ambition as a guardian of morality.

REVENUE FOR COUNTRY.

Ask your anti-saloon and prohibition friend what he would do to raise proper revenue for the country in case of national prohibition?—Liquor Journal. Anyway, we'd stop making drunkards' wives take in washing and drunkards' babies go without milk to raise them.—Prohibition Paper.

LIQUOR INTERESTS DOMINATE? Do you want to let the liquor interests dominate your parties, your public life, and your government?—Theodore Roosevelt.

Subscribe for the Courier.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

will relieve your indigestion. Many people in this town have used them and we have yet to hear of a case where they have failed. We know the formula. Sold only by us—25c a box. The Ivy Drug Store.

NEARER TO TOWN

The part that better roads play is most strikingly shown in the experience of a middle west farmer who lives ten miles from a city of the third class. In 1880 a trip to town over muddy roads took three hours behind a team of two strong horses. In 1900 on stone roads with steep grades on the hills the trip could be made in two hours. This past summer over a good pike with newly graded hills the farmer made the trip in thirty minutes in an automobile at the cost of half a gallon of gasoline.

From mud to hard roads, from steep grades to easy slopes, from the horse to the motor are the changes that have brought the old home place five-sixths nearer town in time required for the trip.

Nothing stimulates the improvement of the grades in hilly countries and the smoothing of turnpikes so much as the use of automobiles by farmers. The minute a farmer begins to judge the roads by the requirements of rubber tires he becomes a vigorous advocate for smooth, hard roads and easy grades.—Country Gentleman

ROAD COMMISSION WANTED.

Governor Hodges of Kansas Deplores Money Wasted on Roads.

Because Kansas wastes as much money each year on her roads as it costs the state to maintain its charitable, penal, educational and other institutions, Governor Hodges is asking for a commission to standardize road building and educate the road builders of Kansas. "A lack of knowledge and practical experience in road building is the cause of this tremendous waste of money that the governor is hoping to be able to stop by an act from the next legislature. In a recent speech the governor said:

"Our state engineer, Mr. Gerhart, advises that 90 per cent of the money invested in roads in Kansas is wasted. We are painfully conscious of the fact that the road work one season is but the continuation of the same piece of road work of a preceding season. In other words, we have formed the habit of merely irritating the surface, as it were, of our dirt roads, when we could construct a dirt road in such a manner that it would be a permanent highway by a little careful attention. We need educated road builders and a good roads department as an addition to the other departments of state. We now have no fixed plan of road building, and even the road districts of the various townships of the counties operate along different plans and do their work according to the ideas of the men who happens to be the road builder.

Governor George H. Hodges of Kansas.

"What we need and must have in this state is a big independent commission—men who will act without pay and who will give their best endeavors to the work of road building because they realize the importance of constructive road work. Road building is a business that stands all by itself. The road question is a farm question, and primarily the solution of this problem must be started by the farmer."

Prizes For Good Roads. To stimulate interest in good roads work, the five commissioners of as many districts in North Dakota have been offered prizes for the best stretches of road in their respective districts. The total amount of prizes named is $1,000, this amount to be split into smaller prizes.

When People Ask Us what is good for nerves and lost weight, we always recommend Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion—a food tonic and tissue builder. The Ivy Drug Store.

VOICE OF THE LORD TO LITTLE SAMUEL

1 Samuel 3:1-13, 19, 30—Feb. 11

Samuel Devoted to God Before His Birth—An Opening For Service. Faithfulness In Service—Called to Higher Service—Samuel the First of Israel's Prophets.

"Speak, Lord; for Thy servant heareth."—1 Samuel 3:9

TODAY'S Study gives a little in sight into the family conditions of the Israelites shortly after the days of Samson and of Ruth. It shows the deep religious sentiment prevailing amongst many of the people. The Tabernacle of the Lord, in this study styled the Temple, was located at Shiloh, a few miles north of Jerusalem. The priest in charge was Eli. The people by Divine direction went annually to worship the Lord, to offer sacrifice, etc., at the Passover.

The father and the mother of Samuel were of these annual worshippers. When he was young he was present at the Lord through Eli, to be his servant in the Tabernacle service and in his home. The word weaned we may understand to signify the time when the child was able to do without his mother's care—probably ten years old.

Samuel consecrated.

God's Reproof of Eli.

Our lesson opens with the declaration that the child Samuel "ministered unto the Lord before Eli"; that is, he was a servant of the Lord by virtue of his being a servant to Eli, the Lord's representative and priest. "The word of Jehovah was precious in those days"—it was seldom that God sent special messages at that time. "There was no open vision"—visions and revelations were not then being given. The Divine Plan was hidden. The Lord and His answers of the Lord to the people's inquiries had ceased.

It is supposed that Eli at this time was about seventy years old and some think never getting any younger. His vision was dim. He was sleeping in one apartment, and little Samuel at another. The latter heard a voice calling him and three times went to Eli to ask what service he could render, only to be told that he had not been called. But by the third time Eli realized that it was God who had called Samuel; and he instructed the lad that if the voice should again be heard, he should say "Speak, Lord; for Thy servant heareth."

The voice came again, and apparently the angel of the Lord appeared to Samuel at the same time. Then the Lord gave a message to Samuel, foretelling the sad death of Eli's two sons and Eli's own death, and that Eli's family should "nevermore serve the Lord as priests." The inference is given that Eli's sons misused their position as under priests, taking more of the sacrifices than they were allowed in the Divine arrangement, and practicing immorality, thus misleading the people into unrighteousness.

Divine Disapproval of Weak Character.

In the morning Eli inquired of Samuel whether the Lord had spoken any further, and what He said. It was a trial to Samuel to tell his friend and benefactor the Lord's judgment against himself and his family; but Eli demanded to know the full particulars, and "Samuel told him every whit." Thus it is often with the Lord's faithful servants; their tenderness of heart might prompt them to hide matters which their sense of duty may require them to speak boldly. In every case the individual's conscience must be followed, but conscience must be educated through the Word of God.

When Eli heard what the Lord had declared respecting his family, he answered most loyally, "It is the Lord."

Let him do what seemeth him good." But how ever, faithful and submissive he may thus appear to have been, we know that his character was not satisfactory to God. He would have been more pleasing to the Lord had he had more firmness of character—a clearer appreciation of his duty toward the Lord as his servant, and toward his own children as their father. We may be sure that strong characters are most pleasing to everybody. They may in some respects be the more difficult to deal with, but, nevertheless, firmness of character is a jewel, highly esteemed by all wise people, as well as by the Lord.

Samuel grew in favor with God and with Eli, and with all Israel, as they came to know him. They perceived that the Lord's Spirit was with him, and that he would be a representative of God amongst them. Samuel is styled the first of the Prophets of Israel, and our Lord informs that John the Baptist was the last (Matthew 11:13). Father, to develop the coming from the Jewish to the Christian dispensation, which began at Pentecost leaves many Christians in confusion.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—second installment this week—Pictures of Zudora will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer	1.00
Home Life	.25
	$3.25	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Up-to-Date Farming	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
The Gentlewoman	.20
	$2.70	All 1 yr for $1.65
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Today's Magazine	.50
Woman's World	.35
Home Life	.25
1 May Manton Pattern	$2.60	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
Woman's World	.35
	$2.85	All 1 yr for $1.80
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
	$3.50	All 1 yr for $3.00
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$4.00	All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33, NUMBER 7

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

FASTEST GAME EVER PLAYED

Such is Verdict of Basketball Game
Thursday Night.

Much-Touted Mancelona Team Crashed to the Tune of 44 to 32—Other Games.

Mancelona fell before the onslaught of the Charlevoix quintet last Thursday evening to the tune of 44-32. The result of the game was a surprise to the visitors, who were touted to be one of the fastest aggregations in this part of the commonwealth, that is before their appearance on the local court. The Mancelona basketball stock fell perceptibly before the first half was well under way.

From the first blast of the whistle the local five looked upon the situation seriously and began making the best of the time. Baskets rained speedily for twenty minutes, until Charlevoix was well on the way to safety. The first half finished with 23 chalked up on the credit side for the locals, with Mancelona nine points in the rear. The second half opened with renewed spirit on the part of the visitors and a little lack of endurance for Charlevoix. It took a few minutes for the local boys to round into the speed of the first half, which gave Mancelona a chance to make good, a chance which she readily grasped and got away with. With the spectators giving the local men some real enthusiasm and support, they renewed the former attack and before the time limit was reached were far from the danger zone. It was by far the fastest game ever played on the local court, at least that's what the old timers say.

The high school team made a trip to Norwood Saturday and succeeded in taking the second scheduled game with the country lads. The final count was 55-17. The score speaks for itself. The fellows had a real old-fashioned supper and a good, clean game, although a closer match would have been appreciated.

Bellaire Independents come here on Thursday to battle with the locals for the same honor that Mancelona was unable to grasp last week. The Bellaire team is considered one of the fastest teams of the surrounding counties and should give the local men a nice speedy run for the big end of the score. The game will be called at 8 o'clock sharp and a curtain raiser by the high school teams will start at 7:45. The success of the local team depends on the supporters. Don't forget that part of the program. They want a full house.

A GOOD OLD TIMER

Ex-Soldiers and Wives Have Good Time at Bush
Home Saturday Evening.

A large number of ex-soldiers and their wives went to the home of Capt. Bush, Park avenue, on last Saturday evening. After a fine supper that was prepared by the women for the occasion, all joined in some of the simple games that they played in the long ago.

But the climax came on the reading by Mrs. Hattie Bush on the subject "Backbone." Then Mrs. D. C. Nettleton gave sketches of the history of the American flag, as to how and by whom it was made, giving some of the difficulties between it and the Union Jack, and gave a short but interesting talk on "The Star Spangled Banner." While a prisoner on a British man-of-war and looking through the great clouds of smoke during the battle of Fort Mifflin he could at times see the Stars and Stripes wave back and forth, filling his heart with patriotism and love of his country.

The entertainment was excellent and much enjoyed by all present and Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Nettleton were highly complimented, and the old vets seemed to look as though they were back in the days of early manhood.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

Ye men and ye women singers will sing songs sung a hundred years ago, at the Congregational meeting house Wednesday, February 24, 1915. Ye doors will open at 7 1/2 by ye clock and the music will begin at 8 by ye clock. There will be Hymns and Tunes and Worldie Songs likewise some spoken pieces. Publick are cordially invited. Miss Priscilla Primrose Mullen will play on ye pianoforte. Adv. 711

Get in on the new Publishing Office. Read adv. on page 7.

FARM HOME BURNS

House of Marlow Sweet on the Boyne City Road a Total Loss.

Last Wednesday, shortly after one o'clock, the farm home of Marlow Sweet, who lives on the Boyne City road about three miles east from the Ironton ferry, was discovered to be on fire and in a short time was totally destroyed.

Mr. Sweet and his son were on the south arm cutting ice when the fire occurred and did not reach home until after the house had burned to the ground.

The fire started from a tin stovepipe in the attic and had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by two young daughters of Mr. Sweet who had been left at home.

Both the dwelling and the household goods were destroyed. No insurance was carried and the loss is a severe one for Mr. Sweet.

Keep your house and furniture insured. If you do not carry a policy, see Myrtle Young & Son at once. Adv. 711

State Timber Reserve.

Reaching to the corporation limits of the village of Fife Lake and the shores of Fife Lake is the big "State Timber Reserve" of 7,200 acres which was set aside by the state about a year ago for forest experimental purposes. The reserve stretches down to Walton Junction. One hundred and twenty acres of this reserve have been set out with white pine. Forty acres were set out last spring and eighty acres last fall. The rest of the reserve is largely covered with oak trees. The region of this reserve is one of the prettiest in Northern Michigan. In the reserve are five lakes.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcement of the date. Adv. 611

NO CHANGE IS NECESSARY

Proposed Amendment to Game Laws
Not Favored in Charlevoix.

A Better Plan Would Be to Prohibit the Killing of Fawns.

"An amendment to the game laws permitting a hunter to kill only one buck during a season has been introduced in the state senate by Senator Roberts of Marquette. Sentiment in favor of a buck law is more pronounced than it was two years ago, when a similar measure failed to pass the legislature. The proposed law has the approval of the state game warden's department. It is designed as a safeguard to hunters as well as to prevent to some extent the wholesale slaughter of deer. The bill makes it unlawful to kill a buck whose horns are not three inches long. The buck law has practically eliminated hunting accidents in other states where it has been in force. The hunters will not fire until they sight the horns of a deer."

We have no doubt that the bill mentioned above fully covers the intentions of the man who presented it and also backs up the sentiment existing in the deer penning. When the law was passed, would rather see a law passed prohibiting the killing of deer for a period of years.

In the opinion of a great majority of Charlevoix hunters there is no need of a change in the present law, but if one must be made it would be far better to prohibit the killing of fawns, and, if necessary, include in the law that one of the deer must have horns. Confining it to one deer with horns three inches in length will only result in hundreds of deer being killed and left in the woods.

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the condition of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

Respectfully submitted,
J. H. Miltord

WILL STOP THE OVERDRAFT EVIL

Cashiers of Local Banks to Present
Resolutions Against It.

Proposed New Law Will Make an Overdraft a Criminal Offense.

Cashiers of local banks will probably present to their respective boards of directors at their next meetings a request that resolutions be adopted against permitting overdrafts in the future.

This action will be asked as a result of requests coming from the United States comptroller of currency and the state banking department. It is part of a nation-wide campaign being made by the government and various state banking departments, whose co-operation has been solicited to do away with the evil of checks issued against an empty bank account.

Local banks, as well as banks in every part of the country, have to face the overdraft evil. An overdraft is nothing more or less than borrowing money from the bank without paying interest on it, and almost every bank in the country has money in circulation in just that way almost every day in the year.

In Georgia the legislature has adopted recently a statute designed to protect banks from this careless practice. Anyone issuing a check against an empty bank account or for an amount in excess of his account is given thirty days in which to deposit a sufficient sum in the bank to meet the check. On his failure to do this he can be prosecuted under the criminal laws. Such a law, it is declared, not only works for the benefit of the banks but for merchants as well. Senator Verrier of Grand Rapids is planning to introduce a bill in the state legislature embodying some of the features of the Georgia law.

Oranges 15c dozen
Sliced Pineapple 15c can
Large Grape Fruit 50c dozen
Adv. 711 Mrs. B. W. Miller.

To Our Subscribers.

All subscribers should examine the label on their paper and if in arrears endeavor to adjust their account. All those, however, who find it difficult to spare the money at the present time we will gladly extend their time upon request. There are a number who are in arrears and can afford to renew their subscription at the present time. Their renewal will be most acceptable to us.

K. OF C. BANQUET

About Thirty Make the Trip to Petoskey From
This City in Busses.

Over two hundred members of the Knights of Columbus council met in Petoskey last Sunday for the banquet and initiation held in that city. The occasion was an annual one for the members of this order and was one of the largest ever held. Among the two hundred present were about thirty from Charlevoix, who made the trip over in busses and other conveyances, besides a large number from East Jordan and Boyne City.

Seventy candidates were initiated, after which the banquet was held. From all reports, the program was an exceptionally good one. The address of the evening was made by Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight, of Grand Rapids, who spoke at length on "Our Order." Other prominent leaders were present and took part in the program.

Purchases Barber Shop.

A deal was closed last week whereby Ted Pearl becomes the owner of the barber shop formerly conducted by Ben Yettaw. Mr. Pearl has been employed in the shop for several years, in fact since he began to learn the trade, and will continue to conduct the business at the old stand. Old as well as new customers will be given the same care in the future as in the past.

Herrington-Lauderville.

Mrs. Frances Lauderville, formerly Frances O'Brien of this city, and Geo. Herrington of Flint were united in marriage on the 6th of February at Flint, Rev. C. W. Tuppen of that city officiating. Mr. Herrington is well known to Charlevoix residents, being the son of Charles Herrington. They have the best wishes of their many Charlevoix friends.

MEETING WAS WELL ATTENDED

W. C. T. U. Met at the Home of Mrs.
George Brown.

Will Hold Potluck Supper at a Future Date—
Other Notes of the Meeting.

The W. C. T. U. meeting at the home of Mrs. George Brown last Friday was a very interesting one and was well attended, taking the seating capacity of the house. The president, Miss Agnes Rodger, presided. The meeting opened with singing a variety of the familiar hymn "Nearer My God to Thee." Those present responded with scriptural verses. The five dollars expended for anti-cigarette literature distributed among the boys recently will be raised by the union having a potluck supper at the annual meeting in March. Any one wishing to help out in a good cause will be made welcome to this supper, which will probably be served in the dining room of the Congregational church, for a small sum. Attention will be called to this later, but please keep the item in mind.

The union are planning to hold a medal contest in the near future. Four gave their names as members to the union at Friday's meeting. The program was in charge of Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Edwards and was a very good one, the topic being "Temperance and Missions." Miss Rodger had a paper on the subject which was very good. The following numbers were also given: Instrumental solo by Miss Eunice Provost; reading by Mrs. Burns, "Dangerous Soft Drinks;" reading by Mrs. Taggart; reading by Mrs. Campbell, "Beer Drinking Gang Could Not Keep Up;" reading by Mrs. Parmelee, "What Can Nurses Do for Temperance?" recitation by Margaret Milner; recitation by Beulah Switzer, "Temperance and Missions."

The dialogue by four girls was fine. Edith Sanford represented Christianity. India, China and Africa were represented by Anna Switzer, Beulah Switzer and Mrs. Worden.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 711

BIROS WERE WINNERS

E. L. Johnson Wins Prizes on Every Bird He Exhibits at Saginaw.

In a class of over 80 Rhode Island Reds exhibited at the Saginaw poultry show last week, E. L. Johnson took prizes on each of the three birds he exhibited.

The show is one of the largest held in the state, there being over 1,200 birds placed on exhibition, brought from all parts of the state. Mr. Johnson exhibited but three birds and took the following prizes: 1st cock, 2nd and 3rd cockerel.

The show was conducted by comparison, but after the prizes had been awarded, Mr. Johnson had his birds scored by the judge. The scoring revealed that the cockerel winning first place scored less than that exhibited by Mr. Johnson, whose birds scored 934 and 933.

Notice.

Mr. wife, please, I am not responsible for any debts contracted by her after February 15th. Adv. 713 pl Johnnie Banniger.

ZUDORA A WINNER

Full House Witnesses Last Reel of Pictures
Shown at the Majestic.

The first reel of pictures of Zudora, the great photoplay which is now being run weekly in the Courier, were seen at the Majestic Friday evening by a full house. The verdict expressed was that no finer pictures were ever shown in the city, and those who have read the story are more than pleased.

The first instalment of pictures was a week late, the shipment in some manner being delayed. On account of this the story run in the Courier each week will be a little in advance of the pictures as shown. If you are not reading the story, our advice is to begin at once. If you have not copies of the Courier, call at this office and they will be given you. Read the story in the Courier and then see the pictures at the Majestic.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The Money Spent for Teachers' Institutes is Well Invested.

During January and February there is held in every county in Michigan a teachers' institute. A dozen prominent men of other states have been brought here to speak to Michigan teachers. Besides leading educators of our own state have taken part in every program. The teachers of Michigan raise an institute fund each year amounting to $12,000, which in the main pays for this educational campaign. The state provides a fund of $3,000 a year that may be used wherever necessary. The law directs that a teacher absent from work to attend an institute shall be paid as if she were teaching. This provision is of course on the presumption that her school will profit by her attendance. And it is doubtful if any other money is spent with so large returns. From now until the close of the year there is one solid period of work. Even the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington are no longer legal holidays for schools, but the law states they shall be observed with suitable exercises. What better way can boys and girls honor these great Americans than by attending to their duties at school? Let every teacher aim to develop in her pupils a wholesome appetite for good, hard work. Don't let this and that side issue interrupt the real work of the school.

Mackinaw, $2.50 to $5.00 while they last—Benj. Brown. Adv. 711

Wire Pleasantly Surprised.

Mrs. Frank Bearss, Grant street, gave a miscellaneous shower Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. George Herrington, who was married in Flint recently. She was the recipient of many very pretty and useful gifts. The rooms were very prettily decorated in red and green. A very elaborate lunch was served, after which the guests departed wishing the bride a long, happy and prosperous life.

MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED

Failure of the Music Makers to Appear a Great Disappointment.

Another Number Will Be Substituted, Date to Be Announced Later.

The failure of the Music Makers to appear at the Opera House on February 12th was undoubtedly a disappointment to a great number of people. The fact that word was not received until after 6 p. m. made it impossible for the committee to notify the people in time to prevent their coming to the theater.

As neither the Redpath Bureau nor the Charlevoix Lecture Committee operate the railroads of the country, we will leave it to your own judgment who's to blame in this matter.

All money taken in, both for reserved seats and single admissions, will be refunded. We ask you to attend to this matter not later than Thursday, February 18th. The stubs will not be good for the next number, which comes on February 26th. An entirely new drawing will be made for the Rogers & Griley number, which we expect will be a star attraction.

Remember to get the refund on your stubs at the Central Drug Store.

We will substitute a number for the Music Makers, the date and the attraction to be announced later. The Lecture Committee was sorry to disappoint the people, but it was unavoidable and we ask your indulgence and future patronage.

Lecture Committee.

Broke His Arm.

Tuesday while James Perry, fireman at the Central School building, was making his way along the walk at the north side of the school buildings, he slipped on the icy walk, breaking his left arm just above the elbow. The break is a serious one and will lay Mr. Perry up for some time, especially on account of his advanced age.

Lecture

At the Baptist church next Sunday evening at seven o'clock by the pastor, Thorne, "The Battle with the Beast, or, the Fight for Character." All are most cordially invited, but a special invitation is extended to the teachers in all the schools of the city and their students above eight years of age.

ONE TICKET IN THE FIELD

Candidates on Republican Ticket Only Ones to File Petitions.

Little Interest Shown So Far in City Politics—
Primary to Be Held March 3.

The present outlook is that Charlevoix will have but one ticket, the Republican, in the field for the coming primary, which takes place on Wednesday, March 3. At least, this is all that is shown by names that were filed up to the closing hour on Wednesday of last week.

Two well known citizens will make the run for the office of mayor, as will also the same number of men for the offices of clerk and treasurer. The third ward has the largest number of candidates for the offices of supervisor and alderman of the three wards in the city.

Following are the names as have been filed for the different offices to be filled:

Mayor—Harry Nicholls, Oscar E. Wilbur.

Clerk—Peter E. Vandermonde, Charles H. Emrey.

Treasurer—John Cook, Wm. H. Cooper.

Justice of the Peace—Henry C. Cooper.

First Ward.

Supervisor—F. J. Meach.

Alderman—L. S. Sech.

Second Ward.

Supervisor—Charles Zeitler.

Alderman—Fred E. Cartier, H. S. Harshu.

Third Ward.

Supervisor—Wm. F. Graham, Harrison Berdan, Geik C. Geiken.

Alderman—Richard S. Shapton, Leonard P. Adams, James Bogart.

For offices to be elected in the county, which are those of commissioner of school and road commissioners, the following persons have filed their petitions: Commissioner of Schools—J. H. Milford, William F. Bashaw, and May L. Stewart of East Jordan; Amelia Kaden, of Boyne City, and C. C. Gracey of Boyne Falls.

County Road Commissioner—Oakley D. Hammond of Charlevoix and Joseph M. Courier of Eveline township.

IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

Robert I. Sloan Named as Receiver of Charlevoix
Rock Product Company.

For some time it has been rumored that the Charlevoix Rock Product Co. was about to go in the hands of a receiver, but the climax did not happen until Monday, when some of the stockholders made application for the appointment of a receiver.

Since the organization of the company some years ago it has not proved a very paying venture, due largely to the promotion end of the business. From what we have been told, the manufacturing end has always produced a profit, which was more than offset by the heavy running expenses of the promotion end.

Robert I. Sloan, the present general manager, has been named by the court as receiver. In an interview with Mr. Sloan he stated that the plant will continue its operations indefinitely and an effort made to fully protect all the stockholders and creditors. Mr. Sloan stated also that the company is under heavy bonds to furnish rock to the city of Grand Rapids for filtering purposes, and this with other contracts would take all material the plant could produce.

Notice.

To the Electors of the City of Charlevoix:

My name will appear on the primary ballot, March 3, for the office of city treasurer. I believe my work during the terms I have held this office will bear the closest scrutiny, and I invite inspection. As a candidate, I desire your support, which will be greatly appreciated. Adv. 711 John Cook.

Prices Took a Drop.

The first break in the prevailing price of flour and wheat for some time took place in the local market Saturday, when flour dropped 35 cents per barrel and wheat 7 cents per bushel. Prior to this both were advancing by leaps and bounds, until apparently there seemed to be no relief in sight. At the close of the day, Saturday, it again advanced a little, but not as much as the decline.

WARNING
You have less than ninety days in which to purchase from trees, berry plants, roses and other nursery stock for spring planting. Only at once before the best varieties are sold out. Be sure that what you plant is hardy, healthy and true to name. The safest way is to buy direct from reliable established nursery. We have been at work for over thirty years. Largest stock. Highest quality. Largest stock. Highest quality. Largest stock. Highest quality.

The Michigan Nurseries Company
Winkworth & Son
Agents Wanted.
410
Ann Arbor, Michigan

Your Attention Please

HAVE US FIGURE

On that contract for Electric fixtures and wiring—we'll quote you figures that cannot be bettered if you take into consideration the splendid quality, materials and fixtures we furnish and the thoro A-1 manner in which our expert mechanics do the work.

Don't forget that the BEST is the cheapest in the end and that the BEST saves endless worry and inconvenience.

F. S. Bettles
214 Bridge street

Phone 134 when you need First-class Electric Work

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. ISLE SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building

J. MILO EATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building

Over Levison's Store

Phone 131 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

of Charlevoix County

Twenty years Experience

Maps and Platons Short Notice

VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

A. L. N. WILKINSON

Physician and Surgeon

Eyes Tested and Glasses Fitted

Telephone office 25; residence 943r

Office in Postoffice Bldg Charlevoix

R. B. ARMSTRONG

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the

RYE, FARM, & SEED PRODUCE

Office in New Priest Bldg

Telephone No. 25 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. C. A. MONTAGUE

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the

RYE, FARM, & SEED PRODUCE

Office in Postoffice Bldg

Telephone No. 25 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $250,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself. Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora tells Nabok Shan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

CHAPTER III.

The Mystery of the Chessmaker.

In a kind of cellar, under a window in a man sat, bent over a peculiarly constructed machine of small wheels, that spun with lightning rapidity. Every now and then he paused and scrutinized the minute dials he held in his fingers. At length he seemed satisfied, rose, stopped the machine and shuffled over to a cupboard. Then he sat down on a cot and began to figure in a small notebook. The result of his mathematics evidently pleased him.

In a corner behind curtains stood a furnace, a crucible, with powerful bellows and chimney. It looked adaptable to tremendous heat pressure. The machine previously referred to was an unfamiliar one to any but the eyes of those who have watched similar machines in Amsterdam and Rotterdam in Holland. It was a diamond cutting and polishing machine. What the unusual crucible brought forth remained to be seen.

The diamond cutter rose again and once more approached the cupboard

The Diamond Cutter

and glided over his treasure, which consisted of half a dozen perfect gems perfectly cut and polished, but small.

"I shall be rich some day,"

Then came sudden transition from gladness to gloom. The man's face opened to a look of fear, for he feared that he would be looked upon as a thief. The fact that these diamonds were not registered would act against him. The least they would do would be to hate him before the customs officers as a smuggler. And if he told the truth his wonderful discovery would become public property, and he would be ruined.

"I am unlucky," he groaned. "I see how it is. I must divide with some one in order to get anything. I will sound Hassam Ali."

He had disposed of several gems

among pawnbrokers who were known and to ask questions, but in these transactions he had received but a fourth of what the gems were worth. These things contributed to his sudden rise and fall of spirits. He was also sometimes troubled by his lined and ecstasic countenance.

When night came he went again to his treasure and gave a cry of anguish. A gem was gone! He searched thor- oughly, but could not find it. It could not be possible that he had made a mistake in the original counting. He would go and have his friend Hassam Ali look into his crystal. There were wonderful revelations made there, and Hassam Ali reassured him that the gem would be found.

The next day, after Zudora had gone forth to meet her lover, Hassam Ali was assured—Hassam Ali retired to the mystic room. He was curious to see how long his sister's face would keep forming in the heart of the crystal. He was intensely superstitious without realizing the fact. Yet again he saw the face, the same appeal in it. His heart swelled with fury and hate. He was beginning to hate his niece, for he invariably hate those who have wronged or intend to wrong. Whenever he saw her slender white throat a horrible, almost irresistible desire laid hold of him to take that white throat within his fingers, and crush the life out of it. At the same time he became vaguely alarmed lest at some time or other he should surrender to this mad desire. No, no

Hassam Ali Was an Adept at Disguising Himself.

A thousand times no! He must fol- low without deviation the plans he had mapped out. Sooner or later he would gain his ends without inhereit making himself. She suspected nothing. One side of her was all kindness and insight, but the other side of her was as guileless as a child, and to this side he always played. He must wait, he must wait, he must wait. Gold, gold, yellow gold, the most beautiful thing in the world; millions of shining disks, all his. He suddenly shook him- self. He must smother these thoughts; this rampant desire, or he might ever step. Misers are full of strange con- ceits.

Zudora had given her word to say nothing about her great inheritance, and her loyalty to her word was as strong as hoops of steel.

Hassam Ali was an adept at dis- guising himself, making himself un- recognizable. A half dozen touches of the brush, a muller about his chin and even Zudora would fail to recog- nize him at first glance. He smiled forth. He was eager to learn what Storm was doing. For the present Storm was the main obstacle in his way. If he became Zudora's husband, goodly to the trainer millions, whether Zudora lived or not. If Zudora married Storm clandestinely he was deterred upon that knowledge to kill them both. Once a week he made inquiries at the bureau of licenses.

Zudora met Storm in the park, and they lived away an hour or two build- ing castles in Spain. The will of John Olds having been probated, Storm was the recipient of a hundred thou- sand, which he immediately divided be- tween several hospitals. He wanted to know that, aside from his business relations, he wanted nothing of Olds living or dead. His elfi reacted fa- vorably.

Storm became suddenly serious.

"My dear," he said, "I want to ask you some really vital questions."

"Go ahead."

"The one I have in mind is—"

She did not answer at once because she was sure that he was not by impec- c- cable means to think.

"Why, then, did you ask me that?"

"I know it but I just simply had to know it," she said, "for I have a feeling of extreme vital attraction."

"You mean you are in love?"

"I am in love with you," she said.

"I am in love with you," she said.

an extraordinary note that I ask you if you have that."

"Love is a strange thing," she re- plied evasively. She felt strangely stirred over the trend of conversation. "You don't answer me directly. He was an attorney and not something of the bulldog's grip. There were many unhappy criticisms who would testify to that."

Zudora Met Storm in the Park.

"Well, no; I can't say honestly that I love him," frowning.

"But you say honestly that he loves you. My dear girl, I might as well admit to you that some one is in- terested in putting an end to the way I've been shot at in the dark on three different occasions. I have received anonymous letters purporting to come from some disgruntled politician. I think the best thing you can do is to marry me."

"Not until every letter of my accu- sation is complete."

"I suppose you've made up your mind?"

"Yes. Just as firmly as I have made up my mind that you're my man and that I wouldn't exchange you for the greatest kingdom on earth."

He laughed and pressed her hand. He had been on the point of telling her his innermost suspicions. He saw now that she was going to have trouble enough without his adding to it. Brave little girl! Because she loved him she had assumed almost three times the tasks of Hercules. He became more and more determined to follow her and stand guard over her in every case she had—that is, if they left him alone. From the bottom of his soul, he dis- trusted Keene, Hassam Ali, so called. It did not require an unusually sharp intuition to feel the sense of hatred di- rected against him whenever he came into the presence of the mystic. But he possessed no defined theory as to what had caused this activity of pas- sion. It was born of no tender senti- ment for the three. Nor could it be due to the fact that he, Storm, looked with contempt upon Keene's work. He knew Keene to be absolutely indiffer- ent to what the public thought of his affairs. In this Storm was completely right. He was a secret admirer of the man. Think deeply and constantly as he might, however, he could not bring to the surface any legitimate cause for Keene's bitter antagonism.

Storm's mistake was that he did not reveal to Zudora what his real suspi- cions were—that it was Hassam Ali who wanted him out of the way. They both in that event would have escaped a good deal of trouble, being mutually prepared for it.

When they at last separated Storm went downtown, quite aware of the fact that he was being shadowed. But he did not recognize his shadower.

Storm usually worked late at night in his study, and he generally felt the need of a bite before retiring. In this midnight lunch consisted of cheese and crackers and a pint of ale. He was seldom troubled with insomnia. Every other day he would drop into Ali's famous cheese shop, chat awhile with the chessmaker, his wife and daugh- ter, and then leave with his regular purchase.

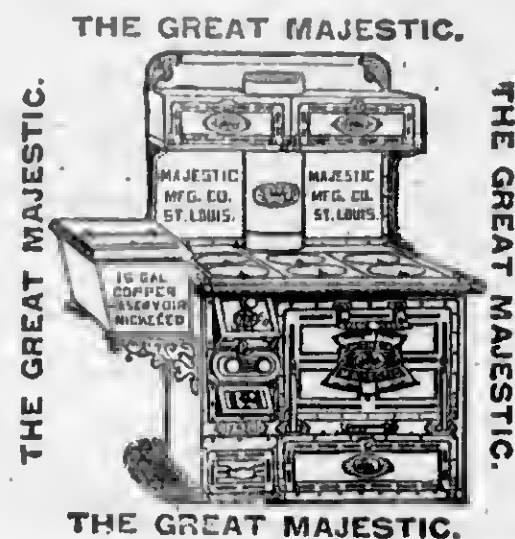

Now it happened that Hassam Ali's midnight appetite was similar to that of Storm's, except that Hassam Ali never touched alcoholic beverages of any sort. Moreover, he was friendly to both chessmaker and diamond cut- ter. There was more to the latter than most people suspected. When the mystic saw Storm enter the chess- maker's his first inspiration was to catch what sort of cheese he generally purchased and eventually substitute a poisoned one. It was imperative to him whether Ali took paid for the deed or not.

As Storm entered one door the other door opened and out of the other Hassam Ali made a sign which the other understood. Together they re- entered the building. Hassam Ali had made up his mind to catch Storm. He did not recognize you master, said the other, and other.

"And you are a man of things you are not to be trusted. Well, have you made up your mind?"

(Continued on page 5.)

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the 'The Great Majestic'

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this won- derful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its the range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.
Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

Keeping Up Appearances

Is a good thing to do; living within your income is better; and SAVING part of your earnings is BEST. Have a savings account here—bearing compound interest—and which you may start with one dollar—and you may keep up appearances with something to back it.

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK
John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Bullins A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work. We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160F2

111 Antrim Street

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year.....$1.50
One copy, six months......75
One copy, three months......40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and
entertainments, where admission is
charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary poetry, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 2 cents.

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

Ordering by Mail.

The largest mail order house in the United States has just cut a melon amounting to $20,000,000. These accumulated profits, which are not by any means all the profits, were distributed in stock to the stockholders. Representative Stevens of New Hampshire, author of the "fair trade" bill, calls attention to this fact as an argument in favor of standardizing trade articles.

It is claimed that many articles sold by mail order houses are not what they are represented to be, and that their competition is not fair competition because there are no standards to which their advertising must conform. Does not this strike you as being a pretty good argument for patronizing your home merchant?

A MICHIGAN legislator intends to introduce a bill "permitting" land owners to plant fruit and nut trees along the highways on which their land fronts.
There would be some sense in the bill
if, instead of "permitting," it compelled land owners to set out the trees.

The postoffice department announces that hereafter it will cost five cents to send a letter to Germany. Well, is this war goes on to the inevitable conclusion it will cost more than five cents to send a letter to Germany, for there won't be any Germany to send a letter to.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments
made. Adv. 6tf

Board of Education.

February 16, 1915.

Regular meeting of the board was called to order by President Kane.

Trustees present - Kane, Nordrum, Glassford, Hampton and Hiller.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $1,014.37.

The following bills were presented and read:

GENERAL FUND
Thomas Charles Co., industrial supplies	$ 50
Charlevoix Lumber Co., lumber, lath	40.35
McKusky Publishing Co., books	11
Alonso Powers, repairs	15.50
Out Nordrum, interest on Bol- ger bonds	200.50
Out Nordrum, interest on Wal- ter bonds	120.00
Eberbach & Sons Co., industrial supplies	1.70
Charlevoix Courier, printing and supplies	60.81
Y. M. C. A., House Hall, lecture fund	5.00
C. H. Benika & Co., miscellane- ous supplies	3.00
W. A. Sordford, repairs	1.20
H. A. Craig, misc.	0.45
A. M. Bollberg, janitor	22.50
Mrs. A. O. Allison, janitor	7.50
Jesse Stanton, stenographer	3.20
Cecil Poole, janitor	17.50
James Perry, janitor	15.00
City treasurer, light	13.50
LIBRARY FUND
H. W. Wilson Co., reference	1.00
H. W. Wilson Co., borrowed books	2.00
Annie Bon, salary	60.00
A. M. Bollberg, janitor	2.00
TEACHERS' FUND
Out Nordrum, teachers' pay roll	$50.98
	$1,445.01

Moved and supported that the bills be read and the secretary be instructed to draw orders on the various funds for the amount of each respective bill. Motion carried.

Moved and supported that the matter of the accident to Mr. Perry and the notification of the Prudential Casualty Company be referred to Trustee Kane.
Motion carried.

These minutes were read and approved and on motion the board adjourned.
E. J. Hiller,
Secretary.

DRUDGERY.

We may set it down as a great truth that the sense of monotony and drudgery in our work generally shows that we have come to put our emphasis in the wrong place, that we have become concerned more in getting our work done and off our hands than in the way we are doing it. Change the emphasis to the latter and the situation will be altered. The sense of drudgery will vanish, and the life and the work will have another aspect. —Simons.

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

Here is a timely parody by one of our esteemed fellow citizens who personally furnished the illustration to accompany it:

"It's a short way to Slippery.
It's a short way to Slippery.
Where th' bumps and bruises grow.
Good bye, gravitation;
Good bye, head and feet;
It's a short, short way to Slippery
When man and pavement meet."

As a Sunday school teacher entered her classroom she saw a little girl and her still smaller brother leaving in great haste. "Why, Mary, you aren't going away?" she exclaimed in surprise.
"Pleath, Mith Annie, we've got to go," was the distressed reply. "Jimmy thwallowed hith collection."

It was the opening of the winter term and the young lady teacher was making up her list of pupils. "Well, my boy," she said to one youth, "what is your name?" "Tom, ma'am," said the boy promptly. "That does not sound well," she said; "you should always give your full name. You should have said Thomas." "And what is your name?"
she asked, turned to the next scholar.
Flushed with the consciousness of having learned something new, the young man arose and said proudly "My name is Jackas."

A farmer who was suffering with dyspepsia one day consulted a doctor and took his prescription to a druggist to be made up. "Well, how much?"
said the farmer when the prescription was finished. "Let's see," said the druggist. "It's a dollar ten for the medicine, and fifteen cents for the bottle. That makes —" He hesitated, fearing he might have forgotten something, and the farmer said impatiently:
"Well, hurry up, boss. Put a price on the cork and let us know the worst."

One day a college youth went west and got work on a farm. He wasn't very well informed about farm life, but, as he was willing to work, the farmer hired him. That night the farmer said: "How are you a pretty good runner, boy?" The collegian swelled with pride. "I took the prize at college for being the fastest runner."
"Well, then," said the farmer, "you can bring in the sheep." Two hours later the young man entered exhausted, his breath coming in short gasps. "Did you have any trouble?" asked the farmer, grinning to himself. "I got the sheep in easy enough," said the youth,
"but I had an awful time catching the lambs." "Why, I haven't any lambs," said the farmer in surprise. Together they walked to the pen. There were all the sheep—and also live jack-rabbits.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcements of the date.
Adv. 6tf

CONCRETE ROADS DURABLE.

Advantages of This Form of Highway
Set Forth.

In a bulletin published by the Mis-sour state board of agriculture appears a short discussion on the value of the concrete road by J. B. Macmillan. Attention is first called to the durability of this type of road and one instance is cited where a concrete road at Bellefontaine, O., has withstood the wear and tear of traffic and weather for twenty years with a cost of maintenance less than $25 per mile annually.
Briefly described, Mr. Macmillan points out that the concrete road is a massive, wet mass of cement, sand and stone put down in the middle of a thoroughfare between tightly staked side forms, where it hardens into indestructible rock. These roads have a flat crown, are never slippery and are always pressed down so as to only retain a good foothold. But, owing to low tractive resistance, can draw two or three times their accustomed load.
The average cost of sixteen foot concrete roads has been $12,000 a mile.
Some farmers advocate a ten foot concrete road with dirt road at the side, which could be built for about $7,500 a mile. A macadam road costing $6,000 a mile and $200 per mile per year for upkeep really means an investment of $12,000 a mile.

The concrete road prevents the closing of thoroughfares for repairs as well as washouts, mud and dust, all of which is explained, not upon theory, but by actual tests, showing that the material composing the road cannot escape from the grip of that most terrifying of all modern battling materials, Portland cement. In addition to the economy of the concrete road as to minimum outlay for repairs, it means a great saving in time and the wear and tear on horses and wagons.

What Is the Best Remedy For Constipation?

This is a question asked us many times each day. The answer is

Rexall Orderlies
We guarantee them to be satisfactory to you. Sold only by us, 10 cents.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is
a penny earned.—
Benjamin Franklin.

THE housewife should be very careful from whom she buys her bedding, especially her mattresses. According to many reliable authorities and statistics, she has been much imposed upon in this respect.

When she comes to consider that there are thousands of men of the lowest type, many of them having neurotic diseases, who are engaged nearly all the year round collecting material for making mattresses from the city dumps and garbage heaps, she will then recognize that it pays to be very careful from whom she makes her purchase.

This is not so applicable to the higher priced mattresses, although some of those are found to have been made of old hair mattresses that have been re-packed and treated with layers of shoddy and objectionable animal hairs, the manes and tails of defunct diseased horses being employed in many cases.

The heaps and piles of old clothing found on these refuse dumps are bought by the small local manufacturers and made in their factories into shoddy fillings for such mattresses and couch upholstery as may be sold at popular prices. These manufactured articles find their way into many department stores of a certain kind.
Stores of the higher type have, as a rule, their own factories.

As much of the old clothing found in these dumps have been infected with contagious disease germs, which are only prevented from coming into contact with the face of the user by a layer of ticking, it is safe to say that many kinds of disease have their origin in such abominable bedding.

Every housekeeper has seen what a few germs of fermentation will do when they find their way into a jar of her preserves. She will find this a good illustration of what the germs in such a dirty kind of mattress will do should they find entrance to the body.

The safest plan, then, is to buy bedding from a very reliable firm having the mark of their own manufacturing.
It she cannot afford high priced bedding it is an easier matter to make it herself than run the risk of buying the cheaper kind. There are many very good grades of cheap mattress and pillow fillings on the market, including
"clean" hygienic vegetable moss, as well as felt. It is not a difficult matter to construct good bedding from these, especially for the beds and cribs of young children, who are so susceptible to infections.

A very good sanitary pillow for a young infant is made by taking the ordinary kind of nonabsorbent cotton in the even until it is brown and fluffy.
This makes a delightful pillow for a little head to rest upon and a cheap one also.

It is also timely to remark that before having any old bedding made over be sure to have it thoroughly washed and renovated by washing or steaming or otherwise disinfecting it.
The mangle over process sets free many germs otherwise inactive.

REPAIR OF A FELT ROOF.

An Interesting Experiment With Cement Proves Successful.

During the winter months snow and ice on the roofs present some most troublesome problems, writes a correspondent of Popular Mechanics. One factory roof, with none too much pitch, was covered with a felt composition roofing. Usually the snow was removed with shovels, but conditions after one snowfall of about a foot were such that this was not cleared off, and a few days later a troublesome leak developed on the lower side. The warmth from within heated the roof so that part of the snow melted and the water ran slowly down and froze near the eaves, thus forming a dam. To chop off this terrible dam to cut some holes in the roofing and let it drip off, was not only a disagreeable job, but it only led to the way to let it leak until the entire roof had melted and run away.

One of the carpenters asked permission to make an experiment, which was granted. Some cement was taken to the roof and a spot found where a lot of water was standing somewhat higher than the point of the leak. A quantity of the cement was poured into the water, which carried it under the ice and snow to where it was escaping through the hole causing the leak.
Enough cement was deposited in the hole to close it in two hours, and the leak was entirely stopped in a short time afterward.

Tungsten in United States.

The tungsten resources of the United States are probably considerably larger than have been generally realized.
Many new deposits have been discovered in various parts of the western states, according to the United States geological survey, and should prove valuable. It is probable that the output could soon be increased much above
the present level. Most of the tungsten in the United States is not sufficiently deep to be mined, but it is probable that the output could be increased much above the present level.
The tungsten resources of the United States are probably considerably larger
than have been generally realized.
Many new deposits have been discovered in various parts of the western states, according to the United States
geological survey, and should prove valuable. It is probable that the output could soon be increased much above
the present level. Most of the tungsten in the United States is not sufficiently deep to be mined, but it is probable that the output could be increased much above the present level.

Who's Your Tailor?

THE neatest assortment of Spring and Summer fabrics ever shown by Ed. V. Price & Co. is now ready for your inspection at our store.

Select the Pattern for Your Spring Clothes Today and have them delivered to suit your own convenience. This gets your order ahead of the rush season before EASTER and insures more satisfactory results.

GO TO — Levinson's — Get the Habit

Majestic Theatre Wednesday Evening, February 24

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Presents
Robert Warick in

The Man of the Hour

By Gen. Broadhurst

A William A. Brady Feature in Five Acts

Special Corset Sale

WE ARE CLEARING OUT
THE FOLLOWING

Just-Rite Models

to Make Way for the

NEW SPRING STYLES

$1.00 and $1.50 Corsets 79c
$3.00 and $3.50 Corsets $2.00

NOT ALL SIZES—BUT FOR LADIES WHO CAN WEAR NOS. 25 TO 29

These Are Exceptional Values

Mason's Dep'tment Store

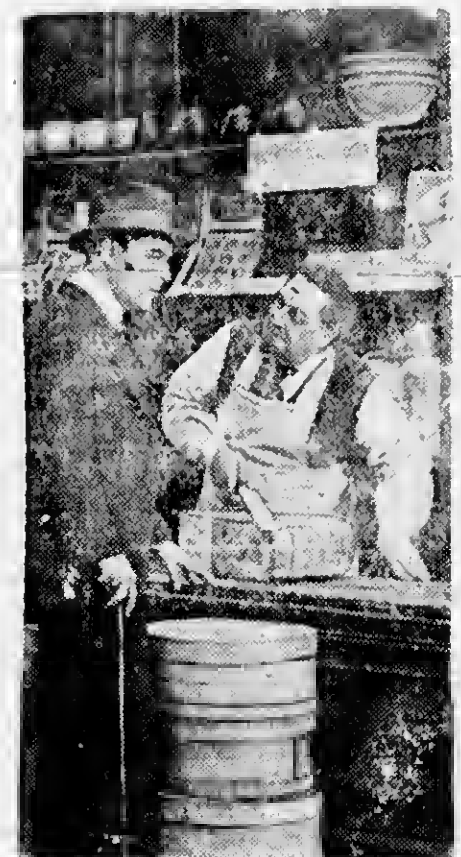

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
For Biliousness, Headache, Indigestion,
Constipation, etc. Sold by Druggists Everywhere.
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

(Continued from page 3.)

"I am going to trust you."
"Why not? I may be able to help you a great deal," said Hassam All secretly pleased that he had won his point. "I am like a physician or a priest. Whatever you only tell me will be buried in my breast," his strong magnetic eyes boring into the other's. The diamond cutter was always in such a mental state as to lend himself readily to hypnotism, and without being aware of it he fell under the spell. Immediately Hassam All spoke to him "Lead on."

The diamond cutter led the way to his cell like shop and threw back the curtains revealing the furnace and crucible. He placed a piece of carbon in the receptacle and turned a switch. There came a blinding flash.

He would drop into Altmann's cheese shop, and the heat of it drove Hassam All backward toward the wall.

"We must wait a few moments. Sometimes the heat is too small, sometimes too hot. The secret is the medium heat."

The speaker threw off the power, stood immovable for the space of four minutes, then delicately picked out a black lump. This he skillfully broke with a small hammer. Presently he held out his palm. A crystal a little larger than a plum had lay upon it.

"What is it?" asked Hassam All.

"A diamond of the poorest water," was the exultant answer. "The main obstacle in producing diamonds and difficulty has been the great expense. To each experiment. It was not practical diamond making. There was no compensation in the result. It came up just a man of science striving to wrest from nature one of her great secrets. It costs me about one fourth of what each diamond is worth. But I must have a larger furnace, more power. I have figured out the relative degrees of heat."

"Will you let me take this crystal to a jeweler?" asked Hassam All, tremendously interested.

"Certainly. I have sold many to pawnbrokers, but I have been afraid to come out into the open."

"Trust me," said Hassam All.

So he took the diamond away. It was still a bit skeptical. It might be that this diamond cutter was not such a fool as he looked. In some scientific manner the crystal might have been previously confined in the carbon. If the man offered to sell his invention Hassam All would feel assured that there was tampering somewhere.

A diamond of the poorest water.

in the background. He was himself too old a bird to be caught at such a game. But if this was honestly done! He was informed at the jeweler's that the crystal was an uncut diamond perfectly white, and worth about $30. So far so good. Hassam All returned to the inventor.

"It's a white diamond, worth about $30. Now before we go any further let me see a piece of carbon."

The inventor exhibited his stock and invited Hassam All to make his selection. To Hassam's mind, had each piece contained a diamond the inventor already possessed a small fortune. He was beginning to feel reassured.

Soon another diamond came to life as it were. Hassam All was convinced there was no charlatanism in this. The man had discovered one of the greatest secrets in the world.

"Oh, I have failures. Sometimes the carbon is not right. Again, the power is not strong enough. But I will show you some of the gems I have already made."

He went to the cupboard and produced his little hoard. He poured them into Hassam All's hands. The gems were all exquisitely cut and polished. The largest was about the size of an ordinary parlor match head.

"How many here?" inquired the visitor, now genuinely astonished.

"Ten."

Hassam All counted them. He shook his head.

"Only eight."

"Impossible!"

"Count them yourself."

The inventor did so. He ran to the cupboard and searched every nook.

"I have been robbed!"

"Sh; not so loud!" warned Hassam All.

"You say you cut ten stones in

The Crystal Was an Uncut Diamond.

there. Here are but eight. In other words, some one has been rifling the cupboard. My advice is to catch the thief without drawing the police. I put seals on the door and the lock. I notice that the wall is very thin."

"Bah! Altmann is an old fool. He thinks I am a locksmith," contemptuously.

"You never can tell. I will come tomorrow, and together we'll examine the seals."

"But what do you think?"

"About what?"

"The stones."

"Oh, I am quite certain that in the event of your being able to make the stones in carat sizes you will not only be famous, but rich. Still, you know what a sensitive thing a diamond is. It would be wise to keep your secret until you have made your fortune."

"I'm no fool. If it got about that I made diamonds at a profit, however small, the diamond market would go to smash."

Seals were applied to the cupboard, and Hassam All went away.

The moment he was gone the diamond cutter berated himself furiously.

What had possessed him to take this gem into his confidence?

And there was a thief about. How could any one have known that he had diamonds? And more puzzling than all else, why hadn't the thief taken them all? He did not sleep with much peace.

When he and Hassam All next met in the morning there were no diamonds.

Altmann called the diamond cutter to him. He was just in the act of going to bed. He pointed to the cupboard and said: "The diamonds are gone."

The diamond cutter looked at him and said: "What do you mean?"

"The diamonds are gone," he said.

"Gone? Gone where?"

"Gone where I don't know."

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

"Gone where I don't know?"

setting the man and shaking him gently. "If he is guilty and hears you goodnight to your gems. We'll put a photograph in and find out what the cheesemonger and his family talk about. You needn't worry about the expense. I'll see to that. And we'll go to work at once. A photograph down the wall and a bear trap in front of the cupboard, and we'll soon know who the culprit is."

The Cry Had Been a Practical Joke.

The photograph was promptly installed, and the trap was neatly arranged and laid. But the conversation revealed was useless, and nobody stepped into the bear trap. Two more diamonds were gone!

"Listen," said Hassam All. "I'll run out yelling 'Fire! Fire!' That will clear the cheese shop and give me a chance to make an investigation."

"I leave everything to you," said the half-demented inventor. He was pointing and holding his hand over his heart. "It is making me ill. My heart is bad."

Things fell out as Hassam All predicted. Only he had not expected John Storm in the cheese shop. At the cry of fire Storm ran out with the others and accidentally dropped his purchase.

Hassam All saw the package fall, and instead of entering the shop he ran to the package and picked it up, on the principle that anything belonging to John Storm might eventually prove useful. He thrust it into his pocket and started back to make his investigation, but it was not too late. The cheesemonger, seeing no signs of fire anywhere, had returned to his shop. So Hassam All made his way back to the diamond cutter's. When he opened the package and found some cheese he swore and flung it from him saying

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

"It's a practical joke!"

to defend herself. The manner was nothing to the maidman. He reached out to clutch her when he gave a wretched cry and fell headlong into the furnace mouth. His heart had given out.

And so Hassam All would never be able to add diamonds to his pyramid of shining gold.

But the death of the diamond cutter complicated matters, and, despite the protestations of innocence on the part of the victims, they were held.

When the truth did come out doubly the whole city laughed quietly. Zudora discovered the thieves—a pair of bright-eyed mice who had decided to go house building with diamonds as a cornerstone.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

In the Presence of Death.

Some years ago a Swansea vessel was caught in a terrible gale. The captain had his wife on board, and when the wind was still rising he told her to go down below and sleep, for all was well. He remained on the bridge till the mate came up and said: "We've done all we can. Hadn't you better tell the clumps to get out the boats?"

"Yes, yes, my lad. If you think so," said the captain, who knew the only choice left was whether to go down with the ship or in a small boat, which couldn't keep her seconds to that sea.

The engineers came up with the news that the fires were all out.

"Very well, my lads," said the captain quietly. "Save yourselves if you can."

"Won't you fetch the wife on deck?" asked one of the men.

"No," was the calm reply. "Let her sleep, poor girl. I am going down to have a smoke." And, standing by the bedside at his sleeping wife, he went down with the ship.

No Overhead Charges.

"So you wish to marry my daughter, do you, Mr. Squiggles?" said Colonel Hinkshy.

"Yes," said Squiggles. "I do."

"Can you meet the obligations of married life?" demanded the cautious parent.

"Why, yes—I think so, colonel," said Squiggles. "Maude tells me she hasn't any relatives anywhere."—Judge.

Sunday in the Churches

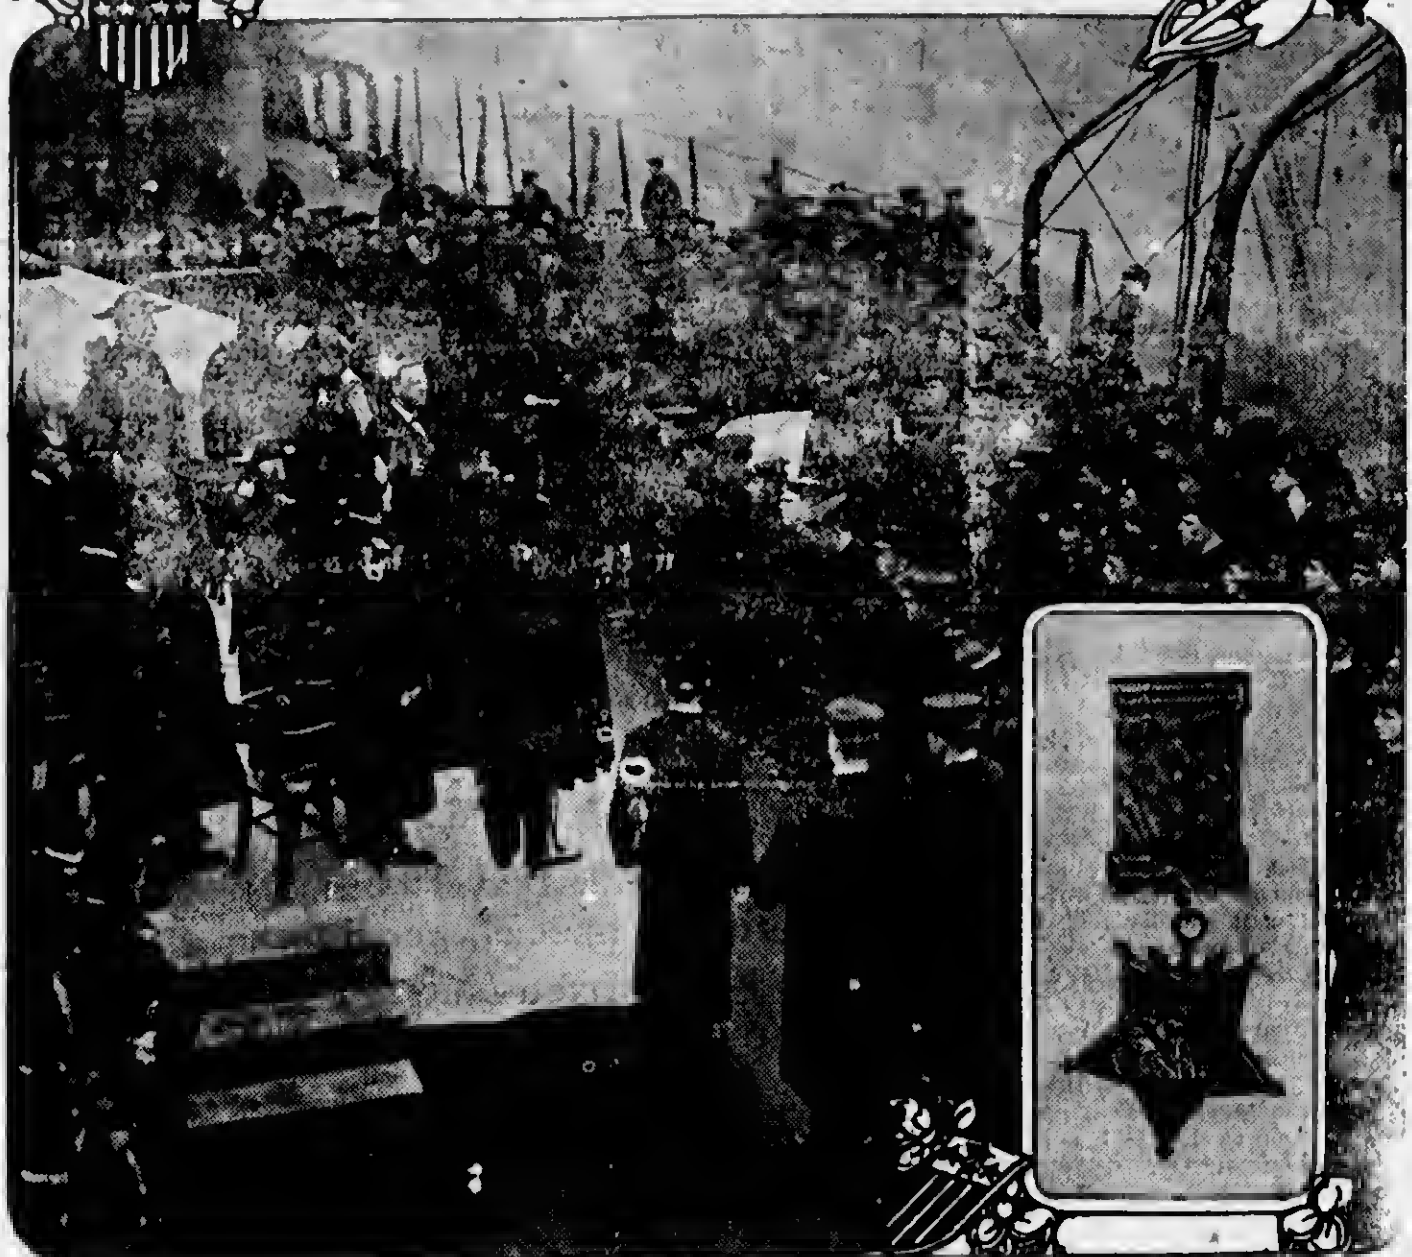

Baptist Church.

A. M.—"World Peace as Taught by the Bible."

P. M.—Lecture: "The Battle with the Beast, or, the Fight for Character."

B. Y. P. U.—Topic, "Favorite Chapters of the Bible and Why." Leader, Cecil Po

REWARDS FOR CONSPICUOUS AND EVERY DAY SERVICE IN THE NAVY

Secretary of the Navy Daniels presenting honor medals to thirteen sailors for bravery at Vera Cruz, Mexico. Presentation took place on board the battleship Florida at the Brooklyn navy yard. View of medal also shown.

ON the afternoon of Jan. 11, 1914, there were assembled on the quarterdeck of the United States ship Florida in the presence of the secretary of the navy, the commander in chief of the United States Atlantic fleet, his staff, the captains and officers of vessels then in port and hundreds of their comrades of the ranks, who had shared their dangers and borne with patience months of tedious duty in a tropical climate, thirteen of the fourteen enlisted men of the navy who distinguished themselves under fire at Vera Cruz that they were to receive the much prized medal of honor. It was the tribute of the country, voted by that branch of the service in which they served, for their meritorious conduct when put to the severest test. In addressing our newest heroes at the presentation exercises Secretary Daniels said:

"The medals presented today are tokens of a grateful country's appreciation of work nobly done, of duty well performed, of readiness to face grave danger. They are given to men who by their conduct under fire have won renown not only for themselves, but for their companions in arms, their comrades who, while hoping for opportunities for themselves, yet rejoice in the good fortune of their shipmates in being where the fight was thickest, the field of service greatest, for that is the ambition of men bearing arms. And that is one of the most pleasing elements in the gratification we feel today—this readiness to extend the merit and the honor to all who wear the uniform."

"You know that the signal most prized in the fleet is the one flying from the flagship telling, with its letters of many colors, that something has been 'well done' and that, while some part of our people has won it, yet the honor is for the ship and all its crew of officers and men whose teamwork has made the winning possible."

"The bluejacket! Let us take off our hats to him in the street, for his uniform is the blue badge of courage, take him by the hand, for his hand protects our homes; treat him with respect, for he risks true, and his heart is of the finest gold."

The medal of honor is the highest recognition any American can receive from his government. All fourteen who received the medal of honor received also a gratuity of $100. Thirteen of them were advanced six months ago to the next higher rating. The fourteenth man was given permission to participate in the next examinations for warrant officer.

All fifty-two of the other enlisted men who distinguished themselves less only than those awarded the medal of honor received letters of commendation from the navy department. Six were allowed to participate in the next examination for warrant officer, and forty-six were immediately advanced to the next higher rating than they then held.

Such are the substantial rewards the navy accords her heroes. These are, however, symbols of recognition for services that are unusual, caused generally by circumstances we strive our best to avoid. Through the dispensation of a protecting Providence, we seldom have had to brave the dangers of the sword and in the annals of our history the peace has been the distinction with the horn sounded by the bugle.

But before we begin how Uncle Sam rewards the peace hero let us see what happens to the enlisted man who is called upon to serve his country in the navy.

For every month of service in the navy, in addition to the pay of his rating, and for each enlistment after the second he receives an additional bonus of $3.30 a month.

The sick in active service receive medical care without charge. Any disabled person who has served as an enlisted man in the navy for ten years and has not been discharged for misconduct may apply for aid from the surplus income of the naval pension fund, even though he may be out of the service at the time, and after twenty years of service any enlisted man disabled from sea service by reason of age or infirmity and who has not been discharged for misconduct shall be entitled to a pension equal to half of his pay or be admitted to the Naval home, Philadelphia, Pa.

After thirty years of service any enlisted man may be placed on the retired list if he desires with an income of three-quarters of his pay and allowances for rations, quarters, fuel and forced absence from home. The presence of a postoffice on every large vessel not only makes possible frequent and prompt communication between ship and shore, but places at the disposal of men at sea the wonderful facilities of the postoffice department, including money orders. The navy also employs an allotment office at Washington, and any sailor may allot a certain portion of his monthly pay to his family, deducting it from his salary, and it will be sent each month promptly. In this way the families of men on distant stations receive a monthly income as soon as if the relative were at home. Each month the navy disburses about $403,000 by this method of payment.

On board each vessel, accessible to all men in the service, the navy maintains a savings bank, conducted in all respects like a savings bank ashore. Deposits are received, and withdrawals may be made, and interest is paid at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. The light, amounting to $15.75 a month. For retirement in the navy, the army or marine corps is credited.

Photo copyright by Mead

Prize winning gun crews of the United States battleship Arkansas received trophies from Captain Roy C. Smith while on the high seas. In addition to a cash prize, each man may wear the coveted letter "E" (for excellence) until his gun crew is defeated in a future competition.

In case of loss of life in active service the dependent relative designated as beneficiary receives such pension as are prescribed by the law, and when disabilities are incurred in the line of duty disqualifying a man for further naval service he receives a pension allowance, regulated according to the seriousness of the injury.

Good conduct is, of course, essential to success in every walk, and, although bad conduct (non-compliance with the regulations, tardiness and slovenly deportment) can be tolerated least of all in military professions, the men who comport themselves well during two enlistments of four years each may, upon the recommendation of their respective captains, wear the good conduct medal, which carries with it $2 cents a month additional pay.

Good conduct is rewarded also with more frequent and extended leave than that allowed to men of less merit. In the navy, as in the army, with good record, a man may, under certain conditions, and during Christmas holidays, have extended leave.

For every month of service in the navy, in addition to the pay of his rating, and for each enlistment after the second he receives an additional bonus of $3.30 a month.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—third installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25
1 May Manton Pattern

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Grange Column

Charlevoix Pomona Grange.

Charlevoix Pomona Grange met with Pine Lake Grange at their hall Thursday, February 4th, with an attendance of about 100 members and visitors. The granges represented were as follows: Pine Lake, 18; Harmony, 18; Ironton, 5; Peninsular, 13; Maple Grove, 12; Deer Lake, 9; Wilson, 3; South Arm, 1; and Boyne River, 1.

The main discussion of the afternoon, "Is My Farm Paying Five Per Centum and Wages?" was ably discussed by Brothers B. K. Gardner, H. A. Arnold, John Heller, W. F. Tindall, E. E. Stroud, E. H. Clark and L. D. Willson. The general opinion seemed to be that the farmers of Charlevoix county were making that and some of them more. After the discussion those assembled were favored with several songs by Miss Leffer's scholars of the North Boyne school.

In the evening the following program was carried out: Song by an impromptu chorus; paper, "Care and Feeding of a Dairy Cow," E. E. Stroud, master of Maple Grove Grange; song by a chorus from Harmony Grange; paper on domestic science, Miss Agnes Callow, domestic science teacher of the Boyne City schools; talk, "The Farmer's Garden," by J. J. Wheeler, agriculture teacher of Boyne City high school; talk on co-operation and other things by E. W. Abbott, land commissioner; vocal solo, L. D. Willson, Harmony Grange; recitation, Miss May Stewart; tableaux, "Tom Thumb Junior," Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Clark, Ironton Grange.

After the program the report of the membership committee showed that they had been busy during the day, having secured nineteen applications for membership in the fifth degree. The candidates were obligated and instructed in the secret work by Hon. William Means of Boyne River Grange. The subordinate grange committee reported Pine Lake Grange the banner grange for the last quarter of 1914.

The next meeting will be held with Maple Grove Grange some time in April. It is expected State Master J. C. Ketchum or some other good speaker will be present at that time.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments made. Adv. 61f

Marion Center Grange.

Marion Center Grange met in regular session February 12th, Worthy Master Smith presiding. All officers present except the L. A. S. Two candidates were instructed in the third and fourth degrees by the degree team and one application was halted on. Lecture hour was taken up with the following program:

Quotations from Lincoln by various members.
Song—Four children.
Recitation—Linda Meggison.
Recitation—Dorothy Black.
Recitation—Ethel Ingalls.
Song—Three little girls.
Recitation—Mervie Meggison.
Gettysburg Address—Floyd Black.
Reading—Nellie Ingalls.
Singing—"The Star Spangled Banner" Grange.
Story—Miss Hazel Gilmer.
Remarks—Miss May Stewart.
Good of the order—Remarks—Samuel Straw.

Attendance, 40 members and 25 visitors. Grange closed in form to meet again in two weeks. Visitors always welcome.

Remember that we save you money on mackinaws, sweaters, pants, jackets, overalls, gloves, mittens—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Ironton Grange.

Ironton Grange, No. 707, met at their hall Tuesday evening, February 9, with Worthy Master Grant Hammond in the chair. On roll call the following officers were found absent: Steward, chaplain and secretary.

It was voted to have a masquerade Friday evening, February 19th. The dues secretary reported $26.10 receipts for the past year.

The lodge gave a rising vote of thanks to the ladies of the auxiliary.

The grange voted to pay fifty dollars on the lecture.

The lecture hour was taken up with readings and stories and talks by Sisters Amelia Kaden and May L. Stewart. The attendance was 21 members and three visitors. After grange closed the ladies served supper.

Sat Vel is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

Wilson Grange, No. 719.

Wilson Grange met in regular session Saturday evening, February 13th. There were twenty-five members present and fifteen visitors from Harmony Grange.

After the usual order of business the officers for the following year were installed. Past Master Robert Shepard acted as installing officer and was assisted by Brother L. Wilson, Harmony Grange.

During lecturer's hour Bro Wilson gave an interesting report of the State Grange. Adv. 12

(Political Announcement.)

To the Electors of Charlevoix County:

I will be a candidate for County Commissioner of Schools in Charlevoix county on the Republican ticket at the primaries the third day of March, 1915.

I have taught in the schools of this county from the smallest district school to the largest city school.

I am too busy helping the pupils and teachers of the Boyne City schools to call on you personally and ask for your vote.

But you know that if I have made the improvement of the schools in which I have worked, my business for 25 years, I am not likely to change.

I hold the degree Bachelor of Pedagogies from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; a state life certificate from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; am a senior at the State University; am a graduate of the Ferris Institute; am master of Pine Lake Grange and am a taxpayer.

For these qualifications I ask you to go to the primaries on Wednesday, March 3 and vote for me and you will not be disappointed.

Adv. 31f Amelia Kaden

Peninsula Grange.

February 11th was a "red letter" day at Peninsula Grange. The grange met at 10 a.m. and the gentlemen served an oyster supper to 50 guests. A sleighload from Rock Elm and another from Pine Lake Grange added to the home party. At 2 p.m. grange was called to order by Worthy Master Heller. Roll call showed nearly every officer present, also 30 members and 11 visitors. Lecture hour was observed by recitations, readings, etc. Next meeting February 25th at 2 p.m.

Political Announcement.

To the Republican Electors of the County of Charlevoix:

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate on the Republican ticket for the office of County Road Commissioner at the primaries March 3rd.

Pol. Adv. 31f Oakley D. Hammond.

MICHIGAN CROP REPORT

For January as Reported by Secretary of State C. C. Vaughan.

In reply to the question "Has wheat during January suffered injury from any cause?" 42 correspondents in the southern counties answer "yes" and 236 "no"; in the central counties 13 answer "yes" and 108 "no"; in the northern counties 26 answer "yes" and 91 "no," and in the upper peninsula 26 answer "no."

Snow protected wheat in the state, southern, central and northern counties 27 days, and in the upper peninsula 30 days.

The average depth of snow January 15th in the state was 3.38 inches, in the southern counties 5.01, in the central counties 3.67, in the northern counties 7.13, and in the upper peninsula 10.27 inches.

On January 22nd the average depth of snow in the state was 6.64 inches, in the southern counties 5.69, in the central counties 4.70, in the northern counties 7.70, and in the upper peninsula 11.80 inches.

The total number of bushels of wheat marketed by farmers in January at 73 flouring mills was 143,770 and at six elevators and to grain dealers 193,769, or a total of 337,539 bushels. Of this amount 241,002 bushels were marketed in the southern four tiers of counties, 91,191 in the central counties, and 10,333 in the northern counties and upper peninsula.

The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in the six months August-January is 7,500,000. Fifty-five mills, elevators and grain dealers report no wheat marketed in January. The average condition of live stock in the state is reported as follows, comparison being with stock in good, healthy and thrifty condition: Horses and sheep, 97; cattle and swine, 96.

Yes—Many People— have told us the same story—distress after eating Rexall's Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal will relieve you. Sold only by us—25c. The Toy Drug Store.

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

WHAT LIQUOR MONEY WOULD DO.
The American Grocer enumerates some of the benefits which might accrue to the citizens of this country if the annual drink bill, $1,724,907,519, were turned into legitimate channels, namely:

"It would pay interest and sinking fund on the amount necessary to buy comfortable houses for nearly nine million families.

"It would buy a suit of clothes for every man and boy and a dress for every woman and girl in the United States, with enough left over to buy a pair of shoes for everybody.

"If the money spent for drink were spent for homes tenancy would disappear in the United States within one generation.

"If it were spent for education every child in the country would receive a college education.

"If it were spent for automobiles, every family in the country would own a car before 1924.

"If it were spent for religion, it would within less than a decade carry the Gospel to every living creature.

"If it were spent for railroads, it would buy every mile of railroad in the United States in ten years.

"If it were spent for government, it would pay all the expenses of the United States, with enough left over to pay the bonded debt of all the states of the Union."

A BIT OF HISTORY.

Experience has shown that the closing up of the saloons and the outlawing of the liquor traffic has always proved a great benefit to every legitimate industry. A chapter in the history of Ireland furnishes a graphic illustration. During the years 1809-10 and 1813-14 the distilleries of Ireland were stopped on account of the famine, on the ground that these distilleries "wasted the grain that might otherwise be used by the people as food. The results were surprising. The consumption of spirits fell off nearly one-half. On the other hand, there was a tremendous increase in the demand for dry goods, blankets, cotton goods, sugar, hardware, crockery, groceries and other necessities, thus showing that a year of sobriety with prohibition is better than a year of plenty without it.

INSURANCE OFFICIALS TESTIFY.

The medical directors of three great life insurance companies estimated that from 7 to 43 per cent of accidents are due, directly or indirectly, to alcohol. Seven per cent of the railroad accidents, 8 per cent of the street car accidents, 10 per cent of those caused by automobiles, 8 per cent of those due to vehicles and horses, 43 per cent of heat prostration and sunstroke, 7 per cent of the machinery accidents, 8 per cent of the accidents in mines and quarries, 13 per cent of the drowning, and 10 per cent of the gunshot wounds are brought about, entirely or partially, by alcohol.

NO BEER FOR HER CHAUFFEUR.

A certain St. Louis brewer has a number of miles, one of which is set apart for the exclusive use of his wife, Mrs. Brewer, being a reading and an observing woman, knows something of the nature and effects of the stuff her husband manufactures and will not employ a chauffeur who drinks that, or any other kind of alcoholic liquor. "Safety first" is her policy—that is, personal safety. We venture to say that neither husband nor wife feel happy when they permit themselves to think of the destruction which follows in the wake of the brewing business.

MONEY FOR GOVERNMENT.

Liquor Man—Where will you get the money to run the government if you cut out the sale of liquor?

Temperance Man—The best answer I know of is the action of the four great nations, which, at a time when every cent that can be got is urgently needed for the conduct of the war, finds it more profitable to reduce this revenue than to run the risks incident upon the general use of alcoholic drinks. The general public.

SALOON HER GREATEST FOE.

What can the Catholic church do if she is loyal to her professed principles, but raise her hand in opposition to the American saloon, and put herself clearly on record as its unwavering antagonist? The Catholic church renounces her own life and principles when she ceases to combat with all her might intemperance in its causes and alliances. The American saloon is her mortal foe; between the church and the saloon there can be no truce. —Archbishop Ireland.

AN ANTIQUATED MEDICINE.

One of the best known men in the medical world is Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore. Doctor Kelly says: "For about fifteen years I have never prescribed or recommended it for any cause whatever. Tell your surgeon who prescribes alcohol and says it does good that he is just ten years behind the age in which he is living."

BOON COMPANIONS

"Wild cats and old men often grow side by side."

Subscribe for the Courier

GOOD ROADS AND LAND VALUE

Entire Community Reaps Benefit of Better Highways.

IMPROVED WAYS TO MARKET

A Well Constructed Highway is a Benefit to Property Owners Whose Land is Not Directly on the Route to Be Improved—All Adjacent Real Estate Rises in Price.

The road building specialists of the department of agriculture have the following to say about the benefit of a well constructed highway to property owners whose property is not directly on the road to be improved:

In planning the highway system, or the main market roads it will be found necessary to build many roads, the improvement of which is greatly desired by shuttling landowners. The fact that such property holders must pay a tax for the bond issue is only an apparent injustice, for if the highway system is well planned the entire county will feel the benefits of the improvement. As a rule, main market roads reach the majority of producing areas, and when they are improved all land values tend to increase.

The fact that cities and larger towns are frequently taxed for bond issues to build highways outside of their own limits is sometimes made a point of debate in bond elections. It is argued that because a large part of the county wealth is within the corporate limits of such cities and towns, highway bond money should also be used to construct their streets. It is even urged that the expenditure should be made proportionate to the assessed valuation within the city limits. If the proceeds of highway bond issues were distributed in this way their purpose in many cases would be defeated.

The primary object of the county highway bond issue is to build county market roads and not to improve city streets, although a high percentage of the assessed valuation may be city property. It is now known that the expenditure of city taxes on county roads is a sound principle and that it is one of the best features of state aid for highways. In Massachusetts the city of Boston pays possibly 40 per cent of the total state highway fund, but not a mile of state aid highway has been built within its limits. New York city also pays about 60 per cent of the cost of the state highway bonds. Some state laws prohibit the expenditure of proceeds of state highway bonds within corporate limits of cities or towns.

The improvement of market roads results in improved marketing conditions which benefit the city. Most cities are essentially dependent upon the surrounding country for their prosperity and development. The development of suburban property for residential purposes is also dependent upon highway conditions, and it is becoming evident yearly that whatever makes for an increase in rural population must be encouraged. Since the introduction of motor traffic country highways are used to an increasing extent by city residents. In fact, the cost of maintaining many country highways has been greatly increased by the presence of city owned motor vehicles. The general advantage in facilities for doing country business from town headquarters when roads are improved is an inconsiderable factor in the commercial life of the community.

BAHAMA SEASHELLS.

Many Varieties Used For Jewelry and Ornamental Work.

More than fifty varieties of the shells available in the Bahamas in quantities sufficient for commercial use are of economic value, as evidenced by the large orders received recently from Europe and the United States. Among these are rice shells, so they in size as to make one marvel how a sufficient number could be picked up to fill a sack; gold shells, mud shells, cockles, and many others. In the Bahamas, shells, including shells, which are exported to the United States, are used as ornaments; Panama or fan shells, which resemble miniature, precious stones, and sell at $200 per barrel; black shells, which take a high polish; conch shells, king, queen, ivory, pink, blue and trochus or Turk's cap—locally termed "whisks." These are but a few of the assortment kept in stock at the leading warehouse at Nassau.

The queen conch, which is especially adapted for carving on account of having a layer of brown with a white top, and the pink lip conch which has layers of white and pink are much sought for. Only the tip of these two varieties are exported, the demand coming from New York and from Turin, Italy, near Naples. Truly ordinary conch shells sell at 1 cent per lb. while shells, from 5 to 25 cents, and queens at 25 cents United States currency in Nassau.

The work of Turk's cap, among other shells, is particularly valuable. It is a portion resembling the head of another pearl from which pearls stand, for instance, could be made. Consult Report.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

The High Cost of Living At War With Us

War is a bad thing—it effects the whole world. Charlevoix residents feel the effect of the present war. Here is a store that is having WAR with the HIGH COST of Living. When you visit this store you will find Prices Shot to Pieces on the most staple and necessary edibles. Our stock is unexcelled in quality, purity, freshness and cleanliness. Our specials are the best bargains offered in our line.

SPECIALS

Large California Naval Oranges 25c
Saturday Special, per dozen
Fancy New Mixed Nuts 10c
Saturday Special, per pound

Don't Forget Our Meat Department

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

Additional Locals

Read "Zudora."

Mrs. Charles Paxton of Petoskey is visiting friends in the city.

Otto Powers of Traverse City was in the city Thursday and Friday.

C. R. Winters drew the half barrel of flour at the Majestic last Saturday evening.

Mrs. George Miller of East Jordan was the guest of Charlevoix friends last week.

Capt. E. N. Emory of Traverse City was in the city Tuesday and Wednesday on business.

W. H. Houghton of Good Harbor was in the city the first of the week on business.

W. B. Scattergood of Petoskey was in the city Monday greeting old friends and acquaintances.

Morris Goldstein left the first of last week for New York city, where he has secured employment.

Walter Smith left Monday for Managela, where he will spend the week among relatives and friends.

A. T. Jefferys of Marquette is spending a few days visiting at the homes of A. J. Usher and Geo. M. DuBois.

A box social will be held at McLaughlin schoolhouse Friday evening, February 19th. Everyone is cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coulter were in East Jordan Thursday and Friday of last week visiting friends and relatives.

Miss Florence Henshaw arrived home Monday after an extended visit among friends in Cleveland, Ohio; Glen Haven and Traverse City.

Oluf Nordrum returned Saturday from Kalamazoo, where he attended the Republican state convention as one of the delegates from Charlevoix county.

Merchants are warned by the post-office department to be on the lookout for counterfeit money. It is being passed throughout the country.

H. L. Winters of East Jordan, who at one time announced himself as a candidate for county school commissioner, has withdrawn from the race.

There were thirty-eight births and sixteen deaths reported in Charlevoix county during the month of January, making the birth rate 21.3 and death rate 9.0.

Earl Shapton left Tuesday for Flint to attend the State Dairymen's Association in session there from February 16 to 19. He will also visit an uncle while there.

Reports from Petoskey state that Mrs. Geo. Taylor is improving rapidly. It will be remembered that she underwent an operation at the Petoskey hospital last week.

Clarence Withers left Saturday for

A Convalescent requires a food tonic that will rapidly build up wasted tissue.
Rexall's Olive Oil Emulsion is a most reliable prescription which we always recommend for that purpose.
The Toy Drug Store.

POULTRY Raisers

READ A PAPER ALL YOUR OWN

Send 10c today, stamps or coin, and get Big 4 Successful Poultry Journal for three full months. Big 4 is a practical poultry paper for practical poultry raisers. Edited by a practical poultryman, Judge D. E. Hale, for Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan poultry people. Crammed full of sound, sensible, articles written to meet special conditions in these states. Each issue contains articles worth more than a full year's subscription. Price for year's issue—12 numbers—only 50c. Sample copy for 25c to pay postage.
Big 4 Successful Poultry Journal
445 Plymouth Ct. Chicago, Ill.

Flint, where he will attend the State Dairymen's Association annual meeting. He will also visit at Greenville before returning.

The Misses Helen Parsons and Ruth Mitchell entertained the senior class and faculty at the Parsons' home Saturday evening. After the amusements of the evening refreshments were served.

Are you reading the new serial story, "Zudora?"

THEATRICAL

K. of P. Minstrels.

Local theatregoers enjoy good live music, singing and dancing interspersed with up-to-the-minute jokes and funny sayings. Pine Lake Lodge, No. 122, K. of P., have arranged to produce one of the biggest and funniest minstrel shows ever attempted by local talent. Every energy is being put forth to give the classiest two part ballface entertainment in the history of local amateur plays.

Thirty-one of Charlevoix's popular musicians and artists will make up the program. Otto Powers of Traverse City will assist in the musical numbers. Rehearsals are now under way and at no time during the entire performance will be found one dull moment. A large number of the latest and most popular songs will be used, giving a complete repertoire of ballads and comedy songs. Reserve Thursday evening, March 18, for no other event except the big K. of P. minstrel.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few sets—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

East Jordan Won First Match.

A spelling league has been organized among the three leading high schools of Charlevoix county, having for its purpose the promotion of good spelling in the schools. East Jordan received the highest percentage in the first lesson last Wednesday, Boyne City second and Charlevoix third. The contest will be held every week for three months.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it. Adv. 61f

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 8

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

BANQUET WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Over a Hundred People Enjoy Event at M. F. Church.

Eighth Annual Banquet of Charlevoix Historical Society Will Long Be Remembered.

Over one hundred people celebrated the eighth annual banquet of the Charlevoix Historical Society served by the Methodist ladies in their new dining hall Friday evening, February 19th.

The Stars and Stripes, significant of all that is highest and best, bespoke a perfect greeting, while portraits of George and Martha Washington hung from opposite walls, a bust of Lincoln adorning the piano.

The tables presented a beautiful sight with their decorations of smilax and winsome tarrations of various hues, while pretty little folders, original in style, with the menu in the center and the program on either side, were found at each place, impelling recognition from each coming guest. With the handsome silver and other embellishments the tables were worthy of the festive occasion.

W. J. Rachow, toastmaster of the evening, called upon the Rev. Quinton Walker for the invocation, and then with merriment and all good cheer the feast was ushered in.

About nine o'clock a quartette composed of Dr. F. H. Wilkinson, Mrs. A. Livingston, Mrs. A. M. Wilkinson and Dr. A. M. Wilkinson announced the entertainment with the singing of an old-time melody, "Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River," and others.

Reminiscences.

Dennis Hanks, chum of Lincoln, and his niece.

Dennis Hanks telling in a most realistic and absorbing way the story of Lincoln's life to his niece, who had taken her knitting and run in for a visit.

First Tableau.

BABY LINCOLN.

Mother Nancy Hanks, Lincoln, Neighbors' Children.

CABIN SCENE.

An old-fashioned fireplace; a fire hanging on the walls and in the center of the room Nancy Hanks singing and rocking an old wooden cradle; looking into the cradle, the neighbors' children, who have run in to see Baby Lincoln.

Second Tableau.

BOY LINCOLN.

Sitting before the fireplace, book in hand, doing his sums on a shovel; with a sigh of great weariness he drops them aside and throws himself down on the floor.

Recitation—"The Gallant Old Splitter of Rails."

Third Tableau.

"THE RAIL SPLITTER."

A forest scene, with the Rail Splitter in the foreground, standing, axe in hand, ready to attack the long log at his feet; with each murderous blow the screech of his victim is heard through the forest.

Music, "Tenting To-Night on the Old Camp Ground"—Quartette.

Fourth Tableau.

THE LAWYER.

Lincoln in his office ready for business; a young man appears presenting a case dishonestly favoring himself, which he wishes Lincoln to take looking it over, "Honest Abe" refuses to take it.

Solo, "The Hills o' Skye" (Harris)—Mrs. W. J. Rachow.

Fifth Tableau.

TAKING OATH OF OFFICE BEFORE CHIEF JUSTICE TANEY.

Lincoln, with hand upraised, taking oath of office before the black-gowned chief justice.

Reading—Gettysburg Speech.

Scene portraying the emancipation proclamation.

A fine engraving—Lincoln signing the emancipation proclamation surrounded by his cabinet.

Music by the society—"Star Spangled Banner."

Tableau Vivant.

Slavery, War, Peace. Goddess of Liberty—Piano accompaniment, "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean."

The Great Emancipator—A little slave kneeling at his feet with wrists chained and hands upraised.

An Olden Warrior—"Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Peace.

Mackinawa, $2.50 to $5.00 while they last—Benj. Brown. Adv. 7tf

OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

Second Annual Event to Be Held in East Jordan April 23 and 24.

At the invitation of the representatives of the schools, churches, local Y. M. C. A. Committeemen and business men of East Jordan, the County Y. M. C. A. Committee has decided to hold their Second Annual Older Boys' Conference in that city. This, the biggest Y. M. C. A. Indoor Event of the year, will occur on the 23rd and 24th of April and all boys of the county who are fourteen years of age or over are eligible to attend. In this conference it is planned to bring about a harmonious blending of everything that will help boys to see the value of a well rounded and symmetrically developed Christian character. The expense will be limited to transportation and a registration fee of twenty-five cents. From week to week our columns will contain further information concerning this event.

Remember that we save you money on mackinaws, sweaters, pants, jackets, overalls, gloves, mittens—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

Many Have Responded.

A number have responded to our request in last week's issue for the renewal of their subscription. There are a number of others who are in arrears whom we believe can afford to adjust their subscriptions at the present time. Look at the date on your paper and if it shows you to be in arrears, please renew or at least advise us whether you desire the paper continued. We do not like to continually dun our subscribers, but are compelled to in some cases. And further, we need every cent that is due us to meet our current bills.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few sets—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

PEOPLE TO BE CONSULTED

In the Matter of Proposed Increase in Mileage on Railroads.

State Senator J. Lee Morford Wants to Hear Both Sides of the Question.

State Senator J. Lee Morford of the twenty-ninth district writes the Courier that he has received many petitions from Charlevoix county requesting the legislature to grant the railroad companies an increase in rates. The senator wishes to hear both sides of the question from the voters of his district, and will also be glad to hear as early as possible from all people having objections to the proposed increase. If you have objections, write the senator at once, informing him of your stand on the matter.

Following is the letter received at this office:

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 19, 1915.

Editor Courier, Charlevoix, Michigan:

Dear Sir,—Many petitions are coming each day from your county requesting that the legislature grant railroad companies an increase in rates. So far little, if any, objection has been presented me on this question. Before deciding what attitude I will take I am desirous of facts from the people objecting to this proposition and would thank you to make mention, in your first issue, of this letter.

Very truly yours,
J. Lee Morford.

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvas gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 8tl

Will Attend in a Body.

Members of Charlevoix the Beautiful Court of Ben Hur have accepted an invitation to attend services at the Baptist church next Sunday evening in a body. The services will be conducted by Rev. L. C. Vineyard, pastor of the church. The public is also cordially invited.

Fortune Awaits Him.

Don Watkins, a former Bellaire boy, is missing and a statewide search is being made for him, as he is one of nine heirs to an estate of $200,000 left by a relative, Mrs. Sarah M. Ellis, who died in New York a month ago. Don has not been heard from by his sisters and other relatives since he attended the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Juliet Watkins, which occurred at East Jordan in November, 1912.

FOUR SCHOOLS IN THE COUNTY

That Will Be Classed By Department as Standard Schools.

Commissioner of Schools Milford Outlines Conditions as Set by Dept. of Public Instruction.

The Department of Public Instruction has outlined certain conditions which, in their judgment, should be met and maintained in every rural school in the state in order that the pupils of the rural communities might enjoy school advantages on a par with those offered in the city schools.

Some of the requirements of the standard school are as follows:

A roomy playground, properly graded and provided with some apparatus for the children to use.

Some trees set out. Separate toilets, same to be sanitary. School grounds not too close to public highway and centrally located relative to the population of the district.

School gardens are advised though not made a requirement.

Open wells are condemned. A drinking fountain is required.

The building must be in good repair inside and out. Must be of such dimensions as will give ample floor space for the pupils of the school. Exits should open out.

Lighting should be ample. Glass area should be 20 per cent of floor area. Light should come from one direction.

Room should be evenly heated in all portions and should have proper ventilation.

Seats should be adjustable as an adjustable seat can be made to fit the pupil. A seat that fits the child means more to his health and comfort than any other one thing in the school room.

Blackboards, maps and other equipment of the school must be ample and up to date.

The Department has been working on this proposition for some time but could not, of course, cover the entire state in a short time.

Last September they sent to a number of counties, Charlevoix being one of said counties, a score book covering every detail of the existing conditions of the schools of the county.

I have made a very careful record of every school in the county and a copy of same has been sent to the department.

There are in the county four schools that will very easily meet the requirements of the department in every particular and they are now awaiting the arrival of the member of the department who passes on the fitness of things and confers the honor. About ten other schools in the county could, by the expenditure of a very small amount of money, be placed on the standard list.

Very few buildings in the county are too small for the standard and it is the matter of seating and light that brings the score of a majority of the districts below that required by the department.

The Advance School, No. 191, Eveline township, will be the first standard school in the county. They have put in new boards, new seats, re-arranged the lighting and put in new windows, graded the grounds and made several other improvements in order to meet the requirements.

Every patron of the school who is there someday in April when the photo is given will be proud of the fact that he had something to do with it.

It is certain that the example of this district will be followed by many others in the county.

Helped Celebrate Birthday.

Ren Compton of this city took a sleigh load of people to the home of Ben Nowland, southeast of town, last Saturday night, the occasion being Mr. Nowland's 54th birthday. The evening was spent playing various games, after which a fine pot luck supper was served. Mr. Nowland received many congratulations and wishes for his future, and all hoped that they might have the opportunity to again make the event a merry one.

Notice.

To the Voters of the City of Charlevoix: I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the office of City Treasurer on the Republican ticket. I have been a voter in this city for over 30 years and have never sought office before and would not now, if I had fully recovered from my accident of over a year ago. Your support at the primaries next Wednesday will be greatly appreciated. Pol. Adv. 8tl Wm. H. Cooper.

LAST FAIR A GREAT SUCCESS

Secretary Brintnall Outlines Work Accomplished During Year 1914.

Thirty-First Annual Fair to Be Held September 7-8-9-10—Farmers Urged to Make Exhibits.

Every citizen, taxpayer and patron of our county fair should be pleased to note that the last fair was a decided success in that—despite the cost of extra-special free attractions, the improvement made in buildings, the increased amount of premiums offered and paid, and the upward trend of expense incident to the management of fairs and business in general—the management of our county fair is still able to show a neat cash balance with which to commence operations for the season of 1915. If searching criticism and original suggestion for farm management and its improvement have any virtues, it is certain that the last board of directors' meeting, held Thursday, February 18, augurs well for the success of our thirty-first annual, which will be held September 7-8-9-10, 1915.

All of the official board were present except two, also Supervisors Fred J. Meech of Charlevoix and F. M. House of Boyne Falls as a committee from the board of supervisors to investigate and act in an advisory capacity. What ever warmth some of the discussions developed, it was plainly evident that all present were determined to cooperate with each other and with the public by putting forth every effort to make our next fair larger and better. The finance committee reported cash receipts for the year $4,155.43 and disbursements $3,973.30, leaving a cash balance of $182.13.

The following appointments were made: Horace B. Hipp, vice-president; R. A. Brintnall, secretary. The president, vice-president and secretary were empowered and instructed to appoint the remaining officers and superintendents. The officers to be thus appointed are the general superintendent and the superintendents of each division. Before making these appointments the officers entrusted with this duty would be pleased to receive suggestions with reference to these appointments from anyone interested in the success of the fair.

It was decided to give one pass to each exhibitor in the cattle, horses, swine, sheep and poultry divisions for the use of helpers needed to care for exhibits. A rule to guard against racehorses entering for premiums was adopted.

Steps were taken to secure an exhibition of products by the Western Michigan Development Bureau, also a demonstration in fruit packing; also to secure the exhibition of our county farm stock at the next fair. Such exhibits, of course, will not be in competition for regular premiums. One of the county banks also offers to inaugurate a corn contest and give at least $50 in gold for the best three bushels of corn. The public will be fully notified as soon as the details of the plan can be worked out.

The same liberal premiums offered last season will remain, with perhaps the exception of a few changes that the executive committee may see fit to make. A careful comparison of premiums offered by other fairs indicates that the size of premiums offered has little to do with any winning lack of co-operation if it may exist in the county as compared with the interest shown by the citizens of other counties in their exhibitions. If every criticism was prompted by a generous impulse to "boost," the highest success of every laudable undertaking would be promoted. The thirty-first annual should be in full keeping with our county's progress, and every citizen should remember that its success will be largely determined, as in the past, by the friendly interest shown by each and every one. Our next fair will be exactly what you and the management make it—the best county fair in Northern Michigan.

Notice.

Persons will be prosecuted if they are caught driving rigs or automobiles on the golf links. These violations must be stopped—James Gaskin, Warden. Adv. 8tl

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 8tl

Notice.

My wife, having left my bed and board without just cause, I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by her after February 15th. Adv. 7tl—Jd Johnnie Banniger.

CRUSHED TO DEATH

Archie Smith of Horton Bay Killed in Accident at Boyne City.

Archie Smith of Horton Bay met almost instant death on Tuesday of last week while engaged in hauling logs for the VonPlaten mill at Boyne City. He was bringing in his last load for the day and was coming down a street which the present thaw had made partially bare. As it was necessary to keep the team going at good speed on the incline without getting stuck, the load was traveling quite rapidly when the accident happened.

At the bottom of the incline the road turned and the sleigh alined several feet, capsizing the load. Smith fell to the ground and a log of considerable dimension passed over him, crushing five ribs and pressing them into his vitals. He was taken to a physician's office, where he died about an hour later.

Smith was 38 years of age and single. He had lived near Horton Bay all his life, being born in this county. For the past year he had made his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith of Horton Bay.

Do Not Miss It

Prof. and Mrs. Hewett Milton Marsh, entertainers, impersonators and bell ringers, will give a concert in the M. E. church, Saturday evening, March 6, at 8:15 o'clock.

Prof. and Mrs. Marsh are artists of exceptional ability. Originality is their motto, to please their goal. Prof. and Mrs. Marsh entertained every night for a week on the Oakland City Chautauqua program. The church is to be congratulated for securing such talent. Tickets while they last will be 15 and 25 cents.—Adv. 8tl.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 8tl

WILL VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION

Twelve Wet and Four Dry Counties in State of Michigan.

In the Wet Counties are Located 406 Saloons and Three Breweries.

In the twelve wet counties where the local option question will be voted on are located 406 saloons and three breweries. In the four dry counties in which the question is to be submitted there were in the last license year 175 saloons and one brewery.

The anti-saloon league has organized through the local forces every one of the counties placing men in charge of the campaign who are experienced campaigners.

The wet counties in the fight this spring are:

Grand Traverse county, with 23 saloons; Iron, 62; Alger, 15; Chippewa, 40; Emmet, 16; Mason, 21; Berrien, 67; Kalamazoo, 47; Calhoun, 33; Lapeer, 20; Tuscola, 23; Oakland, 35.

The dry counties contesting are Eaton, Genesee, Lenawee and Sanilac.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it. Adv. 6tf

DIED SUDDENLY

Word Received Monday from Chicago That Charles Nettleton Was Dead.

D. C. Nettleton received a telegram Monday morning that his eldest son, Charles, who had lived in Chicago for some years, had died that morning at 5:30. Prior to receiving the sad message Mr. Nettleton had not been informed that his son was sick.

Charles Nettleton left Charlevoix for Chicago in 1887, where he was engaged in the restaurant business. He was born in this city in 1872, being 42 years of age at the time of his death. He was the eldest son of D. C. Nettleton, one of Charlevoix's pioneer residents. He is survived by a wife and one daughter, besides his father and other relatives here. Up to the time we go to press, no further information had been received of his sudden demise other than the telegram received Monday. His father left Tuesday morning for Chicago to attend the funeral.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

NO BREAK IN WINNING STREAK

Defeat of Bellaire Third Consecutive Victory This Season.

Local Fraternities are Organizing Basketball Teams—East Jordan Here Thursday.

Superiority in basket throwing and a better caliber of team work was the cause of Bellaire losing a fast basketball game last Thursday night on the local court to Charlevoix by the score 34-19. The Bellaire contest was the third consecutive victory that the local independent quintet have chalked up for themselves in the past three weeks.

The Bellaire contingent presented an entirely different class of basketball than either of the two teams that fell before the attack of the Charlevoix men. Mancelona and Petoskey played more of an offensive game, while, on the contrary, from the start the Bellaire team showed by their methods that they were here to play a defensive game and hold the locals to as low a count as possible. In the first half Charlevoix spurted ahead with four field baskets to their credit before the visitors were really on their feet. As soon as Bellaire found themselves the game took on a different color and before the close of the twenty minutes of play Charlevoix was in the lead only by three points.

The second half was a repetition of the first, with the locals outwitting the Bellaire men in all stages of the game. In the basket-throwing phase of the game Kirby excelled anything that has yet been produced on the local court, making the majority of the counts and playing his opponent to a standstill. Charlevoix threw nine field baskets during this half to Bellaire's four.

The quality of the game as displayed by the visitors is undoubtedly the best that has been seen on the local floor this season.

The outcome of the game was in doubt until the last three minutes of play, when by a sudden spurt of passing and basket throwing the locals were able to creep away for a satisfactory margin.

The high school quintet will couple up with East Jordan Thursday night at the rink and have hopes of humbling their fast basketball friends from the other end of the lake. East Jordan claims she is a formidable foe for any high school in this section of the state, and a right smart contest is looked for. The high school boys were disappointed in their game with Harbor Springs last Friday, but for all that are rounding into good shape.

Considerable interest is being manifested by the members of the different local fraternities in organizing basketball teams and holding a fraternal league during the next few weeks. The Masonic fraternity and the Odd Fellows have already stated their intentions and have gone so far as to have teams on the floor practicing. The first of these real games will be heard and seen at the rink this week. Other organizations are asked to fall in line. Petoskey has an indoor baseball league. Why can't Charlevoix have a fraternal basketball league?

Best values in canvas gloves 10c pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 8tl

SHOULD NOT DISCRIMINATE

All Public Events Where Admission is Charged Should Pay Advertising Rates.

"In the past The Enterprise has freely given its space for advertising 'Bake Sales,' 'Suppers,' etc., for church and other societies, but in view of the fact that we have bakeries and restaurants in the same line of trade, all of whom have to pay for advertising their trade, it is hardly fair to them to give to others free the service that they are compelled to pay for. Also, by strict ruling, a publisher has no right to discriminate with his patrons. This being the case, we have decided that from now and after March 1st, 1915, all such notices must be paid for if ordered to be published."—East Jordan Enterprise.

This has been our contention for some time past, Brother Editor. Every newspaper in the state has had the same proposition to deal with and all have assumed the same stand. The management of a newspaper stands ready at all times to contribute his share toward charitable projects, but should not publish notices free, where admission is charged.

LOCAL DRUGGIST SAYS:

"TAKE ONLY ONE DOSE"

We want to tell those in Charlevoix suffering from stomach or bowel trouble that we are agents for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This is the most thorough bowel cleanser known and JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. You will be surprised at the QUICK action of Adler-ika. E. A. Herman, druggist.

Correspondence

CLARION

Mrs. O. V. Holly returned last week from Mackinaw City.

The ladies' aid will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clyde Kent.

John Elder of Leetaville spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. E. J. Elder.

Miss Lucille Tubbs of Resort was the guest of Mrs. H. E. Bardwell Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush, who have been visiting at Geo. Brown's, left Saturday for the south.

Samuel Younce and Mrs. Latimer were on the sick list last week. Both are improving.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Holding returned last week from the west, where they have been visiting relatives.

About eighteen pupils of the Clarion school and ten pupils from Card street school were guests of Miss Elizabeth Hufford on Friday evening. A fine time was reported by all.

Orlando Johnson had the thumb and forefinger of his left hand badly hurt last week while working at Gill's mill. Both thumb and finger will have to be amputated at the first joint.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reliable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold in the case you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.

ATWOOD

Robins.

Just a little snow.

Delay often means too late.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Patterson, on Thursday of last week, a baby boy.

John DeYoung has purchased the Henry Vanniman farm. Consideration $2800.00.

Mr. Sneller of southern Michigan will be here soon to build the latter factory. A nice lot of ice has been put up for the business.

Miss Erma Cowan of Charlevoix is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John Empey, also John Ferris and family of Bay View.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness, work clothing, trunks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 71f

HAYES.

Mrs. E. E. Stroud is on the sick list. Adolph Allard is working for Earl Sneathen.

Fred Erfforth went to Boyne City Saturday evening.

David Smith took his brother, Walter, over to his farm Monday.

Gilbert Ferris and Earl Sneathen went to Boyne City last week.

Mrs. Gilbert Ferris was a caller at Mrs. Pant last Saturday afternoon.

WOMEN'S WOES.

Charlevoix Women are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys, only that is endorsed by people in this locality.

Mrs. J. Sheridan, 513 Emmet street, Petoskey, Michigan, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for distressing backache and other kidney troubles and have been greatly benefited. I was subject to spells of nervousness, accompanied by headaches. Doan's Kidney Pills have given me splendid results. Other members of my family have used this medicine with good results."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Sheridan had. Foster-McIlburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Lane of Charlevoix were callers at C. Pant's Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Kase spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Olatrum's.

Mrs. Gilbert Ferris and Lela Howe visited the school last week Wednesday.

Ivy Lewis returned to Charlevoix Saturday, she had been staying at E. E. Stroud's.

Mrs. Jones Lewis, Mrs. C. Pant and son were callers at Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stroud's Monday.

George Howe and Gilbert Ferris went to Boyne City Friday. Dulele Howe returned with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaden, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner and Miss McNeil of Boyne City visited Maple Grove Grange last week.

We have a few harness at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

IRONTON

Mrs. Sam Alexander [sic], the sick list at present writing.

Mrs. Will Tumath, has been ill the last week with a severe cold.

Florence Alexander spent the past week visiting friends in Charlevoix.

Laura and Cecil Berry have been absent from school on account of illness.

The Gleaners have changed their meeting night from Friday to the first and third Thursday nights of each month.

The Reading Circle has been postponed until Thursday evening this week. It will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson.

We save you $8.00 on each pair of team harness. Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Hazel Pearl)

J. H. Milford, county school commissioner, visited the normal room Thursday afternoon.

A letter was received from Miss Zoe Burnett, a member of the class of '10. Miss Burnett is teaching near East Jordan.

A letter was received from Miss Merle Brecheisen of the class of 1913. Miss Brecheisen is teaching near Bay Shore.

A bill was introduced in the "house of representatives" to provide for the establishment of a state normal school at Petoskey. The bill was lost by a vote of six to seven.

Miss Whiting has been giving some very interesting lectures on our national capital and the city of Washington. Some very beautiful pictures of the buildings, rooms and statues were exhibited.

Olivo Oil—Flesh Builder. One of the best known and most reliable flesh builders.

Rexall Olivo Oil Emulsion. It is both a flesh builder and nerve tonic. Pleasant to take. Easy to digest. The Ivy Drug Store.

THE AMERICAN FARMER.

There are certain public speakers who delight in telling us that the American farmer is a soil robber, that he does not try to conserve the fertility of the soil, but after all has been said there is no class of people on the face of the earth who are interested in tilting the soil that are the superior of the den right here in this United States, says Klumb's Dairy Farmer. Now the American farmer is facing a new situation because of the tremendous demand that is to be made upon him in the next few months of years. He will be called upon to feed the nations of the old world, and while this represents a very handsome profit, it represents a moral obligation as well that he will be slow to overlook.

Few people are working for their health, yet there are few people who are so depraved that they will not see the significance of this wonderful demand that will be made. The hands that are reaching out from across the sea begging for food, begging for those things that will keep life to the body and will protect from the cold and the ravages of hunger, will appeal to the best principles of American rural citizenship. The whole tilting centers around the great brotherhood of man, and while strife may be known, while the fight for wealth may occupy much of our time, still underlying it all there is this higher and nobler impulse which invariably comes to light when there is a special call made upon it.

The optimism of the American farmer is supreme. It is his optimism that makes the American farm home the greatest of its kind. It makes the American farmer the most beautiful of men.

People Say To Us

"I cannot eat this or that food, it does not agree with me." Our advice to all of them is to take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal. 25c a box. The Ivy Drug Store.

THE MOST FAMOUS SONG.

An Air Familiar to Almost Every Country in the World.

A London paper recently asked the question, "Which is the world's most famous song?" and then proceeded to make an unexpected answer—namely, that it is not "Auld Lang Syne," "Annie Laurie," "Home, Sweet Home," "God Save the King," "America," "The Watch on the Rhine," "The Mat Sell," or "The Last Rose of Summer," all of which would seem to be probable candidates for the honor. What is it, then? The answer is "Maiden Song," whose refrain, "We won't go home till morning" and "For he's a jolly good fellow," are equally familiar in Europe and in America.

The air of the song has been sung in Europe since the time of the crusades when it was carried to the east and so became familiar to Turks and Arabs. The modernization of the song dates from some time after the battle of Marston, when it was first sung by a French nurse at Versailles, whence it spread to Paris and throughout France, and as has been said, gave the great theme of Martineau more celebrity than all his victories. The words were printed on fans and screens and were sung in palaces and on the streets.

The still further modernization for the exigencies of roistering melody was the last touch which insured the song universal popularity. Incorporated in opera bouffe by Huet, sung by Marie Antoinette in the Tuileries, in French by Beaumarchais in "The Marriage of Figaro" and by Beethoven in his symphony and thence by the great Napoleon wherever he entered a battle, the air of "Maiden Song" has since sung itself into the heart of the world.

And Du Maurier understood its infinite possibilities, when he had truthfully transform it into a great lyric tragedy.

A Lucky Imitation.

Marshal Gorko, the famous Russian general, was a terrible snorer. On one occasion an impersonator of the great man was performing at a theater in Odessa. One evening he recited a mysterious message, which read "Study Gorko's snore." In Russia a letter not to imitate into matters that one does not understand and so the artist spent an hour of privately repeating the authentic Russian snore.

Just as the evening performance was about to commence an order of arrest signed by Gorko was presented to the impersonator, and without explanation he was led through the streets to the marshal's palace and into an apartment where the terrible man was seated. "They tell me that you impersonate celebrated men," he roared. "Impersonate me!" Giving a nasty look at Gorko, the performer turned to the mirror to "make up." It was no anxious thing, for if the marshal should take exception to the representation he had unlimited power to inflict punishment. The impersonator dragged himself together and turned to the marshal a copy of his own face and overbearing manner. Gorko burst into a roar of laughter, and the dangerous moment was over.

When Paderewski Was Poor.

Paderewski's first really important engagement as a pianist was in Paris. He was engaged to play in the drawing room of a lady famous for her musical tastes, and his fee, which seemed to him enormous, was $20. He managed to persuade the humane agent to pay him in advance, and when Paderewski had rehearsed his dress suit from pawn and paid for shoes, gloves, do and other essentials he had no money left for rub rub, so he was forced to walk to the scene of his engagement. The music loving audience inspired him. He played with feeling, passion and mastery of his instrument as never before. His success was so great and unmistakable. The poor player had suddenly become the lion of the hour, and fame and fortune were assured him. At last, after disengaging himself from his obligations by threat to leave, when his hostess, remembering with regret the smallness of the fee for so marvelous a performance, offered him her carriage for his return home. But Paderewski's pride came to the rescue. In his courteous yet reserved way he made a formal bow, and saying, "No, thank you, madame, my own is waiting," he stepped out on his long walk homeward.—Pearl Weekly.

Standing Up For Him.

"Miriam, isn't that young Fergus coming to our house pretty often these days?"

"I suppose he is, mamma."

"Do you know anything about him? What is he worth for instance?"

"Well, he's worth any dozen of the ordinary young men of my acquaintance."

"Yes, but"

"And he's worth $100 a week in the firm he works for, even if he does get only $500 a year."

Take a

Rexall Underlie

Tonight

It will act as a laxative in the morning

The Ivy Drug Store.

CONFESSION OF SIN, FORGIVENESS, VICTORY

1 Samuel 7:3-7—Feb. 25.

Samuel, Prophet and Judge—His Influence For Good—Israel Was Penitent—Convention at Mount Mizpah. The Watch Tower—Fasting and Prayer—God's Favor Returned—Philistines Rebuked—Israel Blessed.

"Utherto hath the Lord helped us"—1 Samuel 7:12

SAMUEL, the Prophet might serve all the Priest, but could not become his successor because not of the priestly family. It is probable therefore that, as he reached maturity, he found other services, but there is a blank in the record of twenty years at least. Quite possibly he engaged himself in instructing the people respecting their wrong conditions—the permission of idolatry amongst them, neglect of God, etc.

Our lesson introduces him as the leader of the hour, when the people had become thoroughly aroused to a sense of their unholiness and their need of help back into relationship with God. Having brought them to this position of mind, the Prophet Samuel appointed a general meeting at a small mountain called Mizpah. Watch Tower. They came in considerable numbers, seeking God.

Samuel the Prophet

A Great Reformation Effected.

The Prophet Samuel put the matter before the people distinctly, saying, "If ye do return to the Lord with all your hearts, then put away the strange gods and Ashtaroth from among you, and prepare your hearts unto the Lord, and serve him only; and He will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines." He was warranted in telling them this; for God's Covenant with them was that if they would obey His Laws, and be loyal to Him, He would guide their interests to their highest welfare, but that if they were disobedient and disloyal, He would deliver them into the hands of their enemies and punish them seven times.

Idolatry is the plural of that—curiosity. The Israelites had been forewarned to keep themselves from idols to such an extent that they might not even make an image of Jehovah. But all around were the Canaanites, whom they had not driven out of the land. These Canaanites had their idols in all their towns, and even in their homes, as protective genii. Ashtaroth is the plural of Ashtoreth, a female deity, known also as Ishtar and Astarte. Connected with her worship were many licentious services supposed to promote fertility—propagation of the human species. If Samuel's work influenced all Israel to put away their gods and to worship and serve Jehovah only, he accomplished much. Such reformation is not done by change, nor are they miraculous.

Samuel prayed for the people of Israel, who poured out water before the Lord, fasted, and confessed that they had sinned against the Lord. This confession was appropriate when asking the God whom they had offended to receive them back into covenant relationship with Himself. The humility necessary to such confession would be profitable in their character-building.

Israel Blessed by Samuel's Judgments.

"Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpah"; he gave advice in respect to their affairs, disputes, proper course of conduct, etc. Thus the nation was making a new start. Meanwhile the Philistines, having heard of the gathering, came against them with an army. The Israelites had come together for prayer; nevertheless they were probably more or less aroused. But they felt quite unprepared to meet the Philistines, and asked Samuel to cry to God, that He save them from the Philistines. They were learning to look for help in the right direction. This cry, coming after they had vowed to be loyal to Jehovah, put them into a very different attitude toward Him from that of twenty years previous, when they called for the Ark to lead them against the Philistines.

In response, the Prophet Samuel of olden times said: "A voice of the Lord." He knew not, but it was a type of "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." Then he cried to the Lord on behalf of the people, and the Lord heard him. While the offering was yet upon the altar, the voice of the approaching hosts was heard.

Deliverance came in the shape of a violent storm, which swept down the hill Mizpah into the faces of the approaching hosts. They turned their backs against the storm; and the Philistines, perceiving the opportunity, rushed onward with the storm, driving the Israelites before them, and gaining a great victory on the very spot where, twenty years before, the Ark had been captured by the Philistines. Samuel then set a stone as a monument and called it Ebenezer, saying that just such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition copy from the press in 1877.

Of water interest and importance is the promise of better things in store for the earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents in stamps with this coupon to cover postage to The Temple, No. 24 W. 42d St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

It's the Saver of Dimes

who has dollars to spend, who never has to borrow, but always can lend. Ten dimes will open a savings account with this bank, and every dime you put into it will bear INTEREST COMPOUNDED TWICE A YEAR.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Nachow, Cashier

Archib. Livingston, Asst. Cashier

H. S. Harsho, Vice President

COME LET'S PLAY QUILTS

You toss your money and we'll toss you the finest doughnuts you ever tasted. They're ringers every time. If you have not given our bread a chance to speak for itself you have missed a rare opportunity of making your daily meals a delight. Everything in the first class bakery will be found here. We can supply you with staple groceries as well. Come in and look over our lines over.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith Phone 44

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND. Laxative. Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold Metal Case, sealed with Blue Ribbon. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for CHICHESTER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25 years the best. Sold everywhere.

Keeps Your Stove Shining Bright

Gives a brilliant glossy shine that does not rub off or dust off—that remains to the iron—that lasts four times as long as any other.

Black Silk Stove Polish

Is in a class by itself. It's more carefully made and made from better materials. Try it on your parlor stove, your coal stove or your gas range. If you don't find it the best polish you ever used, your money is refunded. There's a "A Shine in Every Drop."

Get a Can TODAY

Coming Events. Mother (upstairs, calling)—Are you engaged, Annie? Mother (from darkened parlor)—I will be in a minute, mother. Philadel. L. Lister.

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building Van'tell Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year..... $1.50
One copy, six months..... .75
One copy, three months..... .40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and
entertainments, where admission is
charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary poetry, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 25 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

The Law.

Isn't about time for the state legislature to pass a law regulating lawyers?
Every session we have laws passed regulating barbers and corn doctors and newspaper editors and most of the other working people of the state. But who ever heard of a law to regulate the practice of law, to insist on reasonable fees, to insist that the client shall get a little of the blood money that is secured when the jury soaks the corporation and thinks it is giving the poor widow a substantial sum of money after the job stuff is heard in court? Nobody.
Once in a while some timorous member of the legislature will arise in his seat at Lansing and suggest some such thing, but he is jumped on so suddenly that he never gets very far with it. Most of our laws are made by lawyers and sometimes we suspect that they are made to provide employment and happiness to other lawyers occupying positions on benches as judges. We remember the case of the bill to establish a court of domestic relations for Detroit.
It was introduced by a lawyer, who drew it, himself. His committee—the judiciary, composed entirely of lawyers—unanimously said it was just right.
Then the house of representatives passed it. In the senate, with 14 members on the job at that time, the entire judiciary committee, consisting of lawyers, said it was correct in every detail and it became law, unanimously. At least a couple of dozen of the best lawyers in the state had looked at the bill and approved it. Yet the supreme court knocked it out in less than five minutes.
It was unconstitutional. And the supreme court is composed of five lawyers.
—Houghton Mining Gazette.

SEVEN hundred men in Flint have pledged themselves to carry on a cru-ade against profane speech. And house cleaning less than sixty days off.

BATTLESHIP hats for women are the latest style. Submarine types would have been handy during the past few days.

SPAIN wants us to free Mexico from anarchy. She has confidence in us; she remembers how we helped Cuba.

WHAT's the use of crawling because February is a short month? The March bills come all the sooner.

WASHINGTON never lied. The weather bureau was established long after he was president.

FROM all accounts the nations at war are equally neutral in knocking the United States.

SOME people are born to happiness and then spurn it, just to run for office.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlzen, Ladies'
Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it.
Adv. 6tf

In Response to Inquiry:

I have had experience in both rural school work and in the grades, having at one time conducted a school for delinquent and backward children. My most recent work has been instructing high school classes in Latin and German, from which position I resigned at the opening of this campaign. Very fortunately I had a dear friend, an Ann Arbor graduate, whom I could recommend in my place.

I have fully regained my strength
since my drawback of two years ago.
I had worked my way through school and was tired out. Since that time I have taken subscriptions for the Charlevoix County Herald, incidentally demonstrating kitchen lifters; found piano prospects and located tuning orders for Grinnell Bros.; have taken training as a crew manager; sold medical books, and entered the schoolroom again as a teacher. Now I am campaigning and my opponents will tell you how hard a race I am giving them.
Pol. Adv. 8tl May-L. Stewart.

Growing Children

frequently need a food tonic and tissue
builder for their good health.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion
containing Hypophosphite
is the prescription for this.

The Ivy Drug Store.

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

A young girl from a country town went to a city boarding school much against the wishes of her father, who thought she would be spoiled by city ways. Soon she wrote in one of her letters: "I am in love with ping-pong."
The mother read the letter aloud to her father, who turned angrily upon her, saying: "Well, you see I was right. I knew no good would come of her going to the city. Now, you see she has got in with one of those danged Chinamen."

Mrs. Betty was milking the cow, when the mad bull tore over the meadow in her direction. Betty never stirred, but kept right on with her milking.
Observers who had scampered out of the danger zone saw, to their astonishment, that the bull suddenly stopped within a few feet of the girl and then turned tail and slyly walked away.
"Weren't you afraid, Betty?" they asked. "No," said Betty. "He got scared because this cow is his mother-in-law."

While preaching the minister had been rather long-winded, when the young bride remembered she had left the Sunday dinner in the gas range without regulating the flame. She hastily wrote a note and slipped it to her husband, who was an usher. He, thinking it was intended for the minister, calmly walked up and laid it on the pulpit. The minister paused in the middle of the sermon and took the note with a smile, which changed into a terrific frown as he read: "Please hurry home and shut off the gas."

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments
made. Adv. 6tf

D. D. HAMMOND

Republican Candidate for Nomination for Office of County Road Commissioner.

To the Voters of Charlevoix County:
As a candidate for re-election to this important office, I would like to call your attention to the work I have done during the past two years.

During the year 1913 I built three and one-fourth miles of 9-foot macadam road on what is known as the Charlevoix and East Jordan Road, for which this county received a check for $3253.00 as a state reward. I was apportioned $7,727.79 for the building of this road, and after the work was done, had $2,595.87 left over.

During the year 1914 I built two miles of 15-foot screened gravel road, for which the county has already received $1,600 as state reward and has the same amount now due from the state.
This was built on what is known as the Emmet and Grand Traverse State Road.
I was apportioned $5,635.94 for the building of this road, and after the road was completed, had $1,395.41 left over.

During the year 1913 I built one-fourth of a mile of road more than was given me to build that year, and in 1914 I completed the two miles given me. Whether this is due to "good luck" or my ability as a road builder,
I leave to the voters of the county to decide for themselves. When the question is asked of me, how I accomplished this, there is but one answer and that is that I am on the job when the men start to work in the morning and also there when they quit at night. There is but one boss on the job, and that is the man whom the people pay as county road commissioner.

In asking for re-election to this office
I believe I am better qualified to fill it than I was two years ago. One fact that I desire to call your attention to is that the knowledge of road building I have attained during the past two years will be of great value not only to me, but to the taxpayers of Charlevoix county.

It has been impossible for me to see every voter in the county during the present campaign. If the office of county road commissioner paid a salary the year round, possibly I might be in a position to devote more time and money to my campaign. As it does not,
I ask you to carefully look over my record while in office. If in your opinion
I deserve to be re-elected, your support at the primary March 3 will be greatly appreciated.
Pol. Adv. 8tl Oakley D. Hammond.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments
made. Adv. 6tf

Giddy Amusement.

A young working class mother is one of the parks the other day was overheard proposing fresh entertainment to a family party consisting of three or four little children and a grown up sister. "Come on," she said, "and I'll take you to see your grandma's grave."
"I don't see much in that," dissented her sister. "Well," replied the mother thoughtfully, "I'd rather see a grave than a wedding. You do know the grave's end of it." — Manchester
Chronicle

Will Be a Candidate.

To the Republican Electors of Charlevoix County:
I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Schools.

I believe that my experience in the office and my knowledge of the candidation of the schools of the county will make it possible for me to render efficient service.

If elected to the office I will do my best for the boys and girls of the county.

Respectfully submitted,
Pol. Adv. 2tf J. H. Milford.

MORE COLD WEATHER

Such is the Prediction of Many Who Claim to "Know the Signs."

Papers from all over the state are telling of persons seeing robins, bluebirds and meadowlarks, also that many flocks of wild geese have been seen making their way to their northern breeding grounds. But in the face of this those who claim they are able to "read the signs" claim that there will be plenty of cold weather before spring opens up.

That we are to have winter weather at a time when spring is supposed to be here is the prediction of a Dowagiac lady, who bases this statement on the color of a caterpillar, which she found at her home in that city frozen stiff and apparently dead. On bringing the caterpillar into the house it soon revived under the influence of the heat from the kitchen stove and showed its ability to stand freezing and thawing with impunity.

The insect is coal black in color from end to end. Had its head been black and its tail white, as sometimes is the case, the winter would have been over, she says. Being black its entire length dispels all hope of any let-up in the weather. In other words, winter will linger in the lap of spring and the songbirds which have come as heralds of early warmth do not understand their business.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin
Brown. Adv. 7tf

To the Voters of Charlevoix County:

As I travel through the county I occasionally meet a man who feels that women should not seek public office.
To these few I wish to say that in regard to some offices I would entirely agree with you, but a school commissioner deals with your children and,
like a mother, supervises the care of your boys and girls. This is a school teacher's job and woman's adaptability to this profession is too obvious to need proof. Eighty six per cent. of the teachers in this county are women, and each, as a true woman, understands the children under her care. There are now fourteen women school commissioners in the different counties of this state and the voters who have been or are personally acquainted with any of them need no arguments to prove that women can do and does do good work in the office.

I need no driver; I harness, hitch and drive my own horse. I have now driven alone every township and through nearly every school district of the county.
I enjoy these drives and those who know me know that I love the schoolroom. My best recommendation to you is that at the very opening of my campaign, four hundred earnest voters in different parts of the county pledged me their confidence and support over their own signature. I earnestly pledge to you a term of faithful, persistent labor.
Pol. Adv. 8tl May L. Stewart.

How Masks Are Made.

Paper masks are made by doubling one sheet of a specially prepared paper, wetting it and molding it by hand over a face form. It is then dried by artificial heat. Openings are cut for eyes, nose and mouth, and the mask is painted and decorated by hand.

Wire masks are made by stamping a piece of wire netting about a foot square over a face mold in a large machine, enclosing the rough wire edges in a narrow strip of lead. Then it is painted. The painting is done by hand in all colors.—Exchange.

Asking Too Much.

Out of Work—Yes, sir, I once had a good situation at a sales hotel. I was the only one that answered when people shouted. But I got the sack.

Gentleman: How was that?
Out of Work—Why, a Russian fellow came one day and shouted out something and I couldn't answer back —Stray Stories.

DOUBLE STAMP DAY Saturday, February 27th

On all purchases made on Saturday, February 27, we will give Double ~~25¢~~ Green Stamps.
This means you will get twice the amount in ~~25¢~~ Stamps that you purchase. No matter if you buy a Ladies' Coat at Half Price you will get Double Stamps.

GO TO — Levinson's — Get the Habit

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop
at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

NOTHING PAYS BETTER

DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

Wednesday is Primary Day
Get Out and Vote

For Saturday Only

25 pounds Producer Flour	95c
1 barrel Producer Flour	$7.25
40c, 45c, 50c, Brooms	33c
3 packages 10c Jellycon	10c
12 25c Oranges	19c
12 Clothes Pins	1c
3 large Boxes Toothpicks	5c
3 boxes Ohio Matches	10c
10 yards 6c Calico	50c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

GLASSES FITTED

CONSULT

J. LEAHY

Optometrist

Expert on Eye Strain

Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, and all other symptoms of Eye
Strain cured.

Crossed Eyes Straightened Without An Operation.

Fitting Children's Eyes a Specialty.

Difficult Cases Solicited.

Glasses Guaranteed to Fit.

Hotel Charlevoix—1 Day Only

Monday, March 1, '15

JOSEPH M. COURIER
OF EVELINE TOWNSHIP

Candidate for nomination for office of County

Road Commissioner

on the Republican Ticket, subject to the March Primaries
Pol. Adv. 6tf

FOR SATURDAY ONLY

6c Calico 5c a yard

Limit—10 yards to one Customer

Mason's Dep'tment Store

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

A. Butters made a short business trip to Traverse City the first of the week. Miss Bessie Ball of Mason, Michigan, is visiting at the home of her brother, A. B. Bull.

F. A. Kenyon of Mackinac Island was in the city a few days the latter part of the week.

Miss Florence Alexander of Ironton spent the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Glados.

Mrs. A. E. Mason, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, is reported to be some better.

There will be a dance at the Maple Grove Grange hall Friday evening, March 5. Everyone welcome.

Henry Aldrich returned to his home in Cadillac Tuesday, after a visit at the home of his father, A. G. Aldrich.

D. S. Payton of East Jordan was in the city the first of the week, correcting the assessment rolls of the city of East Jordan.

Geo. A. Crouter has taken the agency for the Buick car in this county. He received a shipment of three cars—the latter part of the week.

Will Driggett, who is attending the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, spent Sunday in the city with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Driggett.

The $10,000 prize for the solving of the "Million Dollar Mystery" was won by Miss Ida Damon, a young stenographer of St. Louis, Missouri.

Mrs. Ava Smith of Eveline township received a check last week amounting to $1500 from the Macabees, of which lodge her husband was a member.

The Junior Y. M. C. A. group held their weekly meeting at the high school Monday evening. Rev. L. C. Vineyard and Rev. Quinton Walker were the speakers.

Dr. W. R. Barney's name has been added to the list of automobile drivers in the city, having purchased an Overland car while attending the auto show at Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Benton, who have been visiting at various points in Ohio and Pennsylvania for the past month, are expected home sometime during the next week.

Knights of Pythias are urged to attend the regular meeting at the hall Thursday night. Members of the East Jordan lodge to the number of twenty or more will be present. Smoker and refreshments.

A. T. Jeffreys of Marquette, Michigan, has purchased the property owned by Empire Stores on South State street and will occupy the same about the first week in March. Mr. Stites will locate on Mason street.

Mrs. Grace Wood, who has been spending the winter in Chicago, arrived in the city Friday for a short visit among friends. She will also visit at the home of her parents in Atwood before returning.

There will be no full moon in February this year, which is a phenomenal occurrence. We have been informed that this is the first time in 65 years that a full moon has not appeared in every month of the year.

Ben Vetter, who has been in the Beaudoin Ice Cream and Confectionery store, opened up for business Wednesday. Mr. Vetter has completely restocked the store and is now able to meet the wants of his customers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rachow spent Sunday and Washington's Birthday in Grand Rapids. Mrs. Rachow went from there to Detroit, where she will visit friends for several weeks, and Mr. Rachow returned home on Tuesday.

Dr. W. R. Barney left the latter part of the week for Charlotte, where he will visit a few days. He will be accompanied home by Mrs. Barney and little daughter, who have been there for some time. He also visited the auto show in Grand Rapids while on the trip.

Wm. E. Hampton, G. K. R. & S.; F. M. Glassford, C. C. of Pine Lake

Many People In This Town never really enjoyed a meal until we advised them to take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal. Sold only by us—25c a box. The Ivy Drug Store.

NEW SPRING WHEEL

Curved Spokes Claimed to Give Resiliency to Solid Tires.

One of the latest of resilient automobile wheels has curved spring spokes with fellys made in sections and arranged to move in and out radially to adjust the tire to irregularities in the road, and it is claimed that by using a solid tire with this wheel the same effect is produced as with a pneumatic tire on a rigid wheel. Two spring spokes are provided for each section of the felly, and each spoke has roughly the form of an "S."

The special feature about this wheel is the arrangement by which the sections of the felly are prevented from moving laterally while free to move toward or away from the hub. The ends of the sections are provided with metal brackets. One bracket has a tenon which fits into a slot in the bracket of the adjacent section. The slot is just the width of the tenon laterally, but is elongated sufficiently to permit the amount of play required for obtaining a resilient effect. Adjacent sections are held together by a nut placed on the threaded end of the tenon.—Popular Mechanics.

SPRING WHEEL FOR AUTOMOBILES.

THREE CLASSES OF HIGHWAYS.

"It will be necessary, in my judgment, to classify all existing highways into at least three classifications," says Congressman W. L. Burland. "The first is the great cross-state or interstate highways reaching into every county in the state and opening up every section to the benefits of the improved land values, freer social intercourse and higher intellectual life. The second is the main feeders or great country roads and third, the by-roads, local roads or lanes. These various classes of roads should be built, improved and maintained with a view to the amount of traffic that they can bear and must bear. The first class should be of the most permanent and scientific construction. The second class could be of a less expensive nature and would need less maintenance. The third class could be improved only to the extent that the community required."

DRAGGING ROADS IN WINTER.

This is the Season When Highways Give Most Trouble.

Winter is the season when the roads give the most trouble, writes a contributor to Farm Progress. Highways worked over late in the fall are likely to become quagmires when the deep freezes and sudden thaws of winter and late spring come. It may seem impossible to work the roads in winter, but there are days in nearly every week when the drag or some similar device can be used.

A split log drag or some similar device is very useful in maintaining the surface of a road after suitable ditches and cross section have once been secured. This drag can also be used to advantage on a gravel road as well as on an earth road. The principle involved in dragging is that clays and most heavy soils will puddle when wet and set very hard when dry. The little attention that the earth road needs must be given promptly and at the proper time if the best results are to be obtained.

ROAD DRAGGING IN WINTER.

In dragging roads only a small amount of earth is moved, just enough to fill the ruts and depressions with a thin layer of plastic clay or earth which packs very hard, so that the next rain, instead of finding ruts, depressions and holes in which to collect runs off, leaves the road but little affected.

The drag should be light and should be drawn over the road at an angle of about 25 degrees. The driver should ride on the drag and should not drive faster than a walk. One round trip, each trip straddling a wheel track, is usually sufficient to fill the ruts and smooth the surface. If necessary the road should be dragged after every bad spell of weather, when the soil is in proper condition to puddle well and still not adhere to the drag. If the road is very bad it may be dragged when very wet and again when it begins to dry out. A few trips over the road will give the operator an idea as to the best time to drag. Drag at all seasons, but do not drag a dry road.

Cost of Road Maintenance.

The department of agriculture estimates the cost of maintenance and repair of a mile of brick road at $300 a year, exclusive of interest. Something depends on the location of the road and the traffic it must bear, but a properly constructed brick road under ordinary usage should not require that much for upkeep. There is as yet no telling what any road will require for maintenance under the heaviest of modern traffic. One thing experience has made reasonably sure is that water bound macadam roads are simply a means of wasting money. The roads of the future should be built to stand hard usage, for that is what they are going to set with the increasing use of mechanical power.

Three Road Rules.

Macadam, one of the most famous road builders, laid down three rules for making a good road—first, good drainage; second, better drainage; and, third, still better drainage, or, in other words, "a good road has a tight roof and a dry cellar."

Was Hanged Over Again.

A man who traveled extensively in India told the following interesting story: A Pathan was being hanged when the rope broke. The warder made him go up on to the scaffold again, but he objected. "No," he said, "I was sentenced to be hanged, and hanged I've been."

"Not so, friend," argued the warden. "You were sentenced to be hanged until dead, and you're not dead."

It was a new view to the Pathan, and he turned to the superintendent: "Is that right, sahib?"

"Yes, that's right."

"Very well, I didn't understand." And he went composedly up the step and was hanged again like a man.

When Buying a Motorcar.

When a man goes to buy a car, says the Auto Dealer, there is an excellent chance for him to exercise a nice judgment as to what he ought to have. It used to be that a man would buy as big and powerful a car as he could afford to buy, but it might be bigger and more powerful than he could well afford to maintain for the purposes for which he used it.

The suspicion is growing that it is rather bad taste to buy a car that is disproportionately powerful and heavy for the service that is to be asked of it. The cost account also indicates that it is very bad business, and both influences are working to prevent foolish extravagance in weight and gasoline eating.

Increase in Borax Production.

In 1913 the production of crude borate materials in the United States was 58,051 short tons, valued at $1,491,530, compared with 42,315 tons in 1912, valued at $1,127,813, according to an advance chapter from "Mineral Resources, 1913, on the Production of Borax," now in press by the United States geological survey.

Wax Saving Candles.

French candle makers have been detected saving wax and defrauding customers by leaving three small holes around the wick lengthwise of the candles. Thin portions of wax at top and bottom cover the holes. Melted wax fills the holes as the candle burns.

The Idle Automobile.

When the car is to be laid up for any length of time it is best to empty the radiator, then rinse it out well, then pour one quart of wood alcohol through it. The alcohol takes up the remaining moisture left in the cylinder cavities and prevents rust.

Paw Knows Everything.

Willie—Paw, what is a man of let face?—Paw: A man, a cat, a dog, a Cincinnati Enquirer.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mrs. Amelia Kaden, who for the past five and one-half years has very satisfactorily taught in the Boyne City schools—first as principal of our first ward school and later as instructor in our junior high school and supervisor of penmanship.

Mrs. Kaden is always indefatigable in behalf of the pupils under her guidance. She uses excellent devices and is very thorough, as is attested by the excellent records made by her pupils. She experiences very few disciplinary troubles, being usually successful in keeping her pupils interested, in inspiring them and in keeping their confidence.

Her preparation, both academic and professional, is very good. Her character is unimpeachable. I commend her to the favorable consideration of any school authority in quest of a strong teacher.

Very truly,

L. A. Butler
Superintendent of Schools, Boyne City, Michigan. Pol. Adv. 811

J. L. Crane

Special February Clearing

—OF—

Nemo and W. B.

CORSETS

Nearly every size represented in the various grades

$3.00 Nemo and W. B. Corsets - $1.95

$2.00 W. B. and R. W. Corsets - $1.25

$1.50 W. B. and J. C. C. Corsets - $1.00

$1.00 W. B. and R. W. Corsets - 69c

Are You Going to Raise Chicks???

If you will just give them the right start they will give you a profitable finish. Bowel trouble cannot exist with Your Chicks if you use our

CHICK MASH

MILK MASH

CHICK FEED AND

SCRATCH FEED

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

Majestic Theatre

Wednesday Evening, March 3rd

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Presents

Wm. A. Brady Feature

MOTHER

in 4 Acts with Emma Dunn in the Leading Role

Patience, Kindness, Tenderness, Love and Forgiveness are all Combined in the Noble Word Mother.

Extravagance and its effect on the life of the Young Cleverly Told

PAY AND PROMOTIONS IN OUR NAVY

Top (left), Annapolis midshipmen who rose from the ranks. Left to right, John W. Rowe, Horace S. Corbett, William W. Warlick, Harold H. Hungate, William Busk. They won their appointments in competitive examinations. Top (right), Class work, Artificers' School, Norfolk, preparing men for promotion and increased pay. Bottom, seaman gunners' class in navy yard at Washington. Section under instruction overhauling seven inch gun.

THE United States navy is the best paid navy in the world, and it presents opportunities for advancement equal to those of almost any profession. A man of war's man never loses his job, even temporarily, for lack of work. He is always sure of his pay, of three substantial meals each day, of clean, beautiful surroundings. His health is the primary concern of a skillful staff of physicians. In time of injury or illness he receives without cost the best medical and hospital attendance, and after thirty years of service he may retire on three-quarters of his pay, assured of a never-failing income so long as he lives.

Excepting the cost of his clothing, after the first month, which is furnished gratis, and a deduction of 20 cents a month for the hospital fund, a man-of-war's man's pay is all "yelled." He has no board to pay, no rent and no doctor's bills. Considering his steady work and perquisites, he is much better off than the average mechanic or clerk contending with losses through ill health, strikes, weather and business depressions.

A recruit can readily see the position and salary he may earn by earnest and intelligent effort. From the time he enters the training station he receives useful instruction and encouragement. His advance can be measured only by his diligence, behavior and ability, for opportunities extend over a field offered by no other service. Seamen are required to steer, man the boats, the guns and barrels and do the general work of the ship outside of the engine room; clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers to handle records and accounts; nurses, stewards and cooks; electricians, machinists, plumbers, painters, ship fitters, coppersmiths and blacksmiths and boiler-makers to keep ships in repair; radio operators, firemen, torpedo men to handle torpedoes.

The special service branches embrace yeomen clerks, nurses, musicians and cooks. In the seaman branch we find the men most intimately identified with the navigation and fighting of the ship as seamen, gunners, torpedo men, quartermasters and boatswains, and in the artificer branch the tradesmen of the navy, machinists, electricians, carpenters, coppersmiths, painters, etc. The following table gives their various ratings of each branch and the respective rates of pay.

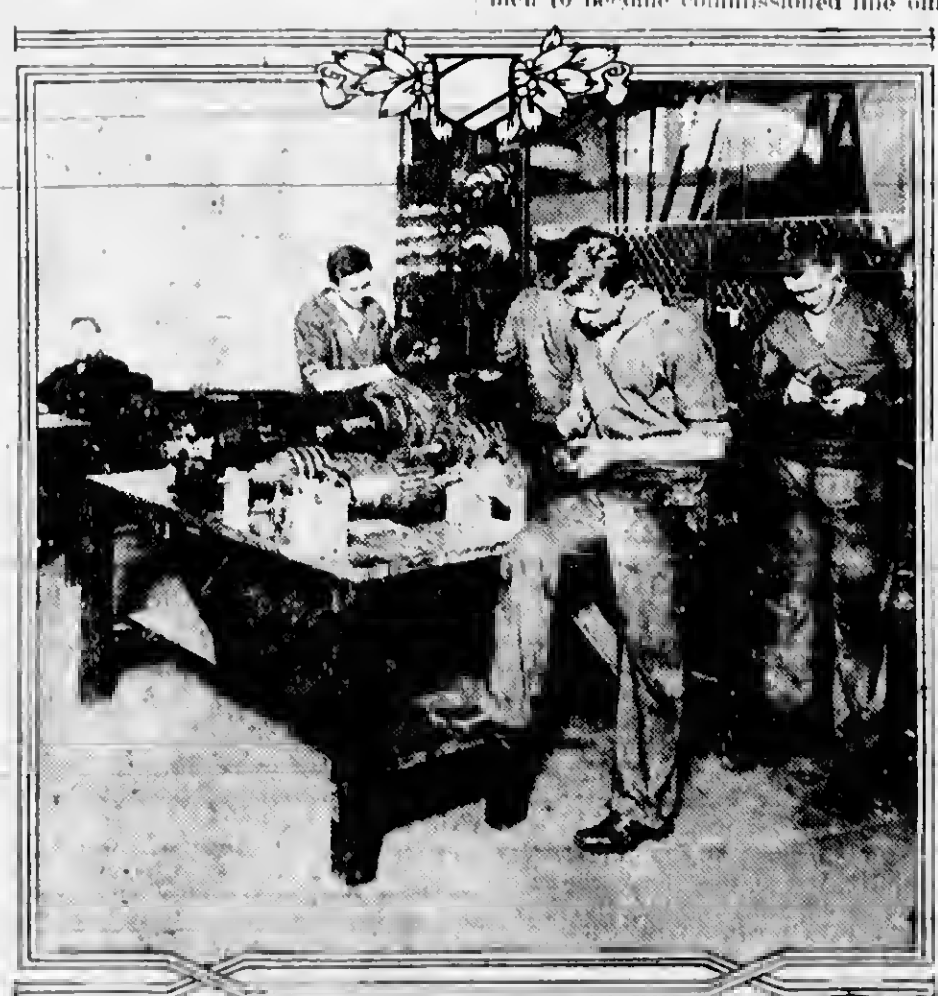

SEAMAN BRANCH
Apprentice seaman.....	$12.00
Ordinary seaman.....	20.00
Seaman.....	26.00
Petty officers, third class.....	33.00
Petty officers, second class.....	35.00
Petty officers, first class.....	44.00 and 54.00
Chief petty officers.....	53.00 to 77.00
ARTIFICER BRANCH
Coalpassers.....	$24.00
Shipwrights.....	27.50
Seaman, first class.....	26.50
Petty officers, third class.....	33.00
Petty officers, second class.....	36.00 to 44.00
Petty officers, first class.....	44.00 to 54.00
Chief petty officers.....	53.00 to 77.00
SPECIAL BRANCH
Landmen.....	$17.00
Seamen, second class.....	22.00 and 25.00
Seamen, first class.....	26.00
Petty officers, third class.....	33.00
Petty officers, second class.....	36.00
Petty officers, first class.....	44.00 and 54.00
Chief petty officers.....	53.00 to 77.00

Attractive as these inducements are they by no means limit the advancement offered by the navy. One who knows the value of experienced men, so who is an honorably discharged man who is a United States citizen enters the service and his pay is increased $5.00 a month and $2.00 a month more for each subsequent enlistment. In addition he will get four months' pay and 21 a month if he re-enlists within four months. Seamen receive more than an opportunity to attend the provisions of the navy.

and increased pay. Men of exceptional skill in handling the guns receive extra compensation of from $2 to $10 a month, depending on the size of the gun. Divers and men in the submarine service are rewarded for the risks they assume with additional pay, and those detailed for other duties, such as ship's tailors, certain coxswains and mail clerks, have an income additional to the pay of their ratings.

Any disabled person who has served as an enlisted man in the navy for ten years and has not been discharged for misconduct may apply for aid from the surplus income of the naval pension fund, which may be granted upon the recommendation of a board of not less than three naval officers, in "suitable amount," to be approved by the secretary of the navy.

After twenty years of service any enlisted man disabled from sea service by reason of age or infirmity and who has not been discharged for misconduct shall, if he so elects, be entitled to a pension equal to half pay and be admitted into the Naval Home, if he so elects.

CLASS AT WORK IN NAVY ELECTRICAL SCHOOL

Any enlisted person in the navy who has served thirty years may be placed on the retired list if he so desires. All service, whether in the navy, marine corps or army, is credited. On retirement he is allowed three-quarters of the pay he was receiving when retired, and in addition thereto allowances amounting to $15.75 a month for quarters, fuel and light.

Promotion to the highest ranks is open to the enlisted man. As an American citizen he may be nominated for admission to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis by his congressman or senators, who have certain nominations to their giving. Last year at the earliest suggestion of Secretary Daniels congress authorized the secretary of the navy to appoint fifteen enlisted men to Annapolis each year. They must win the nomination in a competitive examination and must have completed one year's service with honor and be under twenty years of age. Enlisted men with solid records, who are under twenty years of age, may also participate in a competition for the pay corps. President Taft, which are now limited to those who upon qualifying the war is commencing as a first lieutenant.

Another door is open to those who have achieved the ability and who have been in the navy for a long time. They may be promoted to the pay corps, which is a position of honor and responsibility, and they may be promoted to the pay corps, which is a position of honor and responsibility, and they may be promoted to the pay corps, which is a position of honor and responsibility.

the channels mentioned. They may go up through the ranks. Men who have served continuously and reach the grade of chief or first class petty officer are eligible for appointment as warrant officers, with pay of from $1,500 to $2,100 a year. Warrant officers are boatswains, gunners, carpenters, machinists and pharmacists. To be eligible for this appointment seven years' service at sea, with average efficiency of not less than 85 per cent, is necessary, and candidates must be under thirty-five. Warrant officers after serving four years in this grade are promoted to chief warrant officers, and at the age of sixty-two they are retired on three-quarters pay.

Every year twelve warrant officers—boatswains, gunners and machinists—who are under thirty-five and have completed four years' service to the grade may become ensigns upon qualifying in a competitive examination. It will be seen it is possible for enlisted men to become commissioned line officers.

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—third installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50	All 1 yr for $1.75
Michigan Farmer	.50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer	1.00
Home Life	.25
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50	All 1 yr for $1.65
Up-to-Date Farming	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
The Gentlewoman	.20
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50	All 1 yr for $1.75
Today's Magazine	.50
Woman's World	.35
Home Life	.25
1 May Manton Pattern	$2.60	All 1 yr for $1.80
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
Woman's World	.35	All 1 yr for $3.00
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50	All 1 yr for $3.25
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$4.00

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 percent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Grange Column

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange met in regular session Friday evening, February 19, at the home of Sister Miladi Volter. Grange opened in due form with W. M. G. E. Dutton in the chair. There was a good attendance, and after a short program, the evening was spent in visiting. The usual pot luck supper was greatly enjoyed by all. Visitors were present from Marion and Norwood granges.

The next meeting will be held Friday evening, March 5, at the home of Brother and Sister Bugbee. The following program will be carried out:

Quotations from the Grange manual.
Song by Grange from the Grange melodies.
"The Housekeeper's Prayer," Miss Jennie Black.
"Practical Food Problem," Sister Martha Dutton.
Reading, "Ability," Sister Bugbee.
Song, "Home, Sweet Home," by the Grange.

Sal-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 711

Harmony Grange.

Harmony Grange, No. 1451, met in regular session on Saturday evening, with a good attendance, also two visitors from Wilson Grange. One candidate was elected to membership and was application received for membership. The Woman's Work Committee reported a successful meeting held with Sister Ann Newville and that the next meeting will be held with Sister A. J. Coykendall on Thursday, February 25.

The program, after opening with a song by the grange, consisted of anecdotes and quotations relating to Lincoln in response to roll call.

"Some incidents of pioneer life," by W. C. Burdick.

Recitation, by Miss Rena Brooks.

Songs by Mrs. Fred Woodson.

Discussion of the relative value of a 50 cent chicken and a 50 cent roast of beef for the farmer's table, by H. L. Willson, C. J. Coykendall, S. R. Nowland and others.

Instrumental music by Miss Laura Woodson.

The lecturer announced a very interesting program for next meeting. Candy and pop corn were passed at the close as a surprise feature. Brother Edward Erber gave a few lessons in the German language to a few of the young lady members during the discussion of the refreshments. Altogether all had a very interesting and profitable meeting.

Buy Overalls and Jacket at Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

Ben Hur.

Charlevoix the Beautiful Court No. 135, met at the Firemen's hall Monday, February 22. All officers were present except Past Chief and Captain. Deputy Ingalls from Petoskey was present.

The contest running in the court ended February 22. Sister Clara Dodd won the prize of a beautiful gold Ben Hur pin, which was given to her by State Manager Merritt Vorhees of Detroit.

The next meeting will be March 5, 1915, at the I. O. O. F. hall. All members are requested to be present. Pot luck supper will be one of the features of the night. A very pressing invitation is extended to all members of Ben Hur, by Rev. Lloyd C. Vineyard to be present at the Baptist church, February 28, at 7 o'clock p. m.

William F. Bashaw

For Commissioner of Schools, Charlevoix County

Republican Primaries, March 3rd

Resident of Charlevoix county since 1879. Graduate of East Jordan High School. Hold an endorsed first grade certificate. Have had 14 years actual teaching experience. County Trustee Office for 7 years. Supervisor of 1st Ward, East Jordan, four consecutive terms. Taxpayer and patron of the Public Schools. The "School of Experience" is as essential as graduation from any other school, and I believe that my experience in connection with the schools of Charlevoix county for the past 21 years has amply qualified me for the position of County Commissioner of Schools. If nominated and elected, I promise to show impartiality, and to give my entire time to the duties of the office. Pol. Adv. -443.

(Political Announcement.)

To the Electors of Charlevoix County:

I will be a candidate for County Commissioner of Schools in Charlevoix county on the Republican ticket at the primaries the third day of March, 1915.

I have taught in the schools of this county from the smallest district school to the largest city school.

I am too busy helping the pupils and teachers of the Boyne City schools to call on you personally and ask for your vote.

But you know that if I have made the improvement of the schools in which I have worked, my business for 25 years, I am not likely to change.

I hold the degree Bachelor of Pedagogics from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; a state life certificate from the Ypsilanti State Normal School; am a senior at the State University; am a graduate of the Ferris Institute; am master of the Pine Lake Grange and am a taxpayer.

For these qualifications I ask you to go to the primaries on Wednesday, March 3 and vote for me and you will not be disappointed.

Adv. 311 Amelia Kaden

THEATRICAL

K. of P. Minstrels.

Thursday, March 18, will be the time when you will be able to laugh to your heart's content. The funny blackface will furnish merriment galore, interspersed with singing and music. Two big minstrel parts united in one big evening of hilarity for young and old. A strong cast of characters has been picked, including Charlevoix's best musical talent as well as singers.

You should not fail to hear those funny men tell you their experiences here and there. We will vouch that you'll see and hear things never before brought to your attention. Solos, duets, dancing, monologues and such go to make up three hours of solid pleasure for a small price.

W. F. Johnson will tell you some facts that you will remember. (Bill's some comedian.) You want to hear him sing.

Harry Dodge as Bones and Leo Carey as Tambo are the famous endmen and will be ably supported by Merritt and Milo Miller, Bert Creney, Frank Poole, Lee Smith, Jay Adams and about twenty others, with Leon F. Brower as interlocutor.

The minstrel show will be staged in the best possible manner, using the Charlevoix Theatre stage to bring out every detail of arrangement at its best. Programs and bills will soon proclaim the announcement of the particulars. Remember the date and let no other engagement keep you from seeing the biggest blackface show ever played in Charlevoix by local talent.

"Mother."

The Majestic will show the famous four-act feature photoplay, "Mother," Wednesday evening, March 3, with Miss Emma Dunn in the role of "Mother." The heroine, "Mother," is the head of a family of six. At her husband's death she finds herself with money enough to rear her offspring in comfort. Four years before the opening of the play, the eldest son has run away and married a chorus girl. He spends his share in the estate, and stolen from his employer to meet his wife's extravagant desires. He forges his mother's name to a $10,000. A second son falls in the same manner. "Mother" comes to the rescue, forgives and restores her wayward sons to their old home, and in that characterization Miss Dunn brings out all that is true of Motherly sacrifice and devotion for her children. Remember the date, Wednesday, March 3.

Old Fashioned Spelling Bee.

An old fashioned spelling bee will be held at the Baptist church, Wednesday evening, March 3, at 7:30 o'clock. You are invited to attend, dressed in old fashioned costume. Prizes will be voted to the lady and gentleman who are dressed in the most old fashioned style. Judge S. A. Correll will be school master, using spelling books of fifty years ago. The spellers will spell and pronounce by syllables. As the event occurs on election night, the results will be announced at various times during the evening. Price of admission 10c. Tickets on sale by the committee. Better buy early as the number is limited. Adv. 811

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

WE CAN AND WE WILL.

"A few years ago I was up in the interior of China," says Bishop Samuel P. Spreng of the Evangelical church. "It was about three years after they had determined to do away with the opium traffic. The opium traffic is as great a curse, or was as great a curse in China, as the liquor traffic has ever been here, and the government determined to put that traffic away within ten years. That was in 1906. Three years later in the interior cities you could not find an opium den except hidden away in the back alleys, in the little places, just where they have to look for the blind tigers and places of that kind here. By the time the ten years are up that traffic will be blotted out among those four hundred millions of people, and they did that, they undertook that, in spite of the fact, or in view of the fact, that nearly 33 per cent of their revenues came from the opium traffic. They let the revenue go and looked for other sources of revenue that are honorable and honest and clean, to carry on their government and let the opium traffic go. And I say if the most conservative, the bulkiest, the biggest people on the face of the earth can put away the opium traffic in ten years, we Americans ought to be ashamed of ourselves if we cannot put down the liquor traffic. And we are going to do it, we are able to do it, we are not going to say that we cannot if we will. We can and we will, God helping us."

POOR ADVERTISEMENT.

"Our town offers especially strong inducements to men with growing families who want to raise their children in the atmosphere of the enlivened town. We offer better opportunities for educating the youth in the habit of drinking; we boast of ten saloons, one almost every corner."

"No one ever saw an advertisement like that and never will," says the Kansas City Star. "There is not a town in the world that bases its prosperity on the number of its rum shops. Villages, towns and cities advertise their good points, and cities advertise their good points, and cities advertise their good points. They have this and that opportunity for employment. The climate is more or less wonderful. The transportation facilities are told of. Good neighbors are a valuable asset. The town has so many churches and so many schools. If it is without saloons, that good point is made much of as an appeal to men and women with families to come there. But if it has saloons there is never a word about it! That is hidden, covered up."

MUST BE TRANSFORMED.

"Our trade cannot afford to longer oppose an aroused public sentiment," says Bonfort's Wine and Spirit Circular. "It would be like Belgium standing alone against the German empire." And the editor says that in order to defend the trade successfully liquor leaders "must make war on those things that breed opposition—must demand whatever changes are necessary to adapt our affairs to the demands of public sentiment." The W. C. T. U. through its mouthpiece, the Union Signal, informs "the trade" that it is a change in nature, not in method, which public sentiment is demanding, and reminds the liquor interests of the declaration of Mr. McDonough, former president of the National Liquor League, to wit: "This talk of reforming the saloon sounds well in the form of a resolution, but it is all rot. The change necessary to adapt the wine and spirit trade to the demands of public sentiment is nothing less than a transmutation."

CHALLENGE OF PATRIOTISM.

This is the challenge of patriotism—America needs every man at his best, and it is written in the plan of God for the ages that America shall not fail. Are the progress armies of the great republic less patriotic than the armies of Europe? The armies of Europe have banished intoxicants. Is America less patriotic than China? China has banished opium. Is America less patriotic than Russia? Russia has banished vodka. Is America less patriotic than France? France has banished absinthe.—Daniel A. Palling.

BETTER USE FOR LIQUOR MONEY.

"The liquor bill would pay for 50,000,000 bales of cotton at 10c a bale—about equivalent to four years' production for the entire South," asserted Senator Morris Sheppard in a speech delivered at Little Rock, Ark. "It would pay for 125,000,000 tons of cotton seed at $20. It would pay for all the corn the entire nation raises in two years, at the rate of a dollar a bushel. It would pay for all the cattle and hogs Arkansas can raise in two decades."

WHAT LABOR RECEIVES.

Let the man who toils with his hands remember this: That in all the industries of the United States outside the liquor traffic labor receives 54.4 per cent of the capital invested; while in the brewery industry labor receives only 20.2 per cent of the invested capital.

A COMPARISON.

The Titanic carried down 1,503 people. The drink traffic carries to death 1,503 men and women every night days in the year.

Subscribe for the Courier.

EFFICIENCY IN FARMING.

South Dakota Agriculturist Makes Plea Before Convention.

A plea for the application of huskiness efficiency measures to farming was made in an address before the International dry farming congress held at Wichita, Kan., by Thomas, Cooper director of the South Dakota experiment station.

"The difference between the successful and unsuccessful farm is largely a question of applied efficiency in production and organization of the farm business," he said.

Mr. Cooper pointed out that it was necessary to develop systems of distribution of farm products that involved less loss and waste and assert that this is a problem of organization and operation.

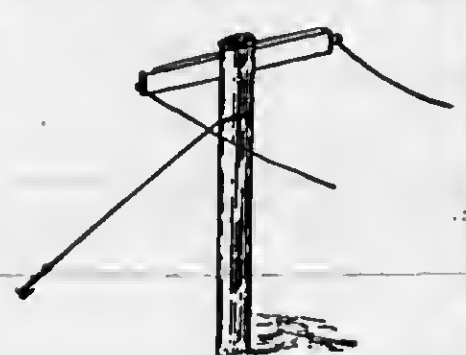

"Estimates indicate that the average farmer in this country receives 45 to 55 cents from each dollar expended by the consumer," he continued. "While farmers in most European countries receive 60 to 65 cents."

"In an investigation of groups of farms located in townships in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa it was found that one farmer out of every twenty-two received a labor income of more than $2,000 a year, one of every three paid for the privilege of working—that is after deducting 5 per cent interest on their investment they lost money by farming."

He said similar investigation in New York indicated that one-third of the farmers made less than hired men and one-third about the same as hired men and the rest more.

Clothesline Post.

A clothesline is a nuisance unless kept properly stretched at all times. The post illustrated is perhaps an efficient for a line as any other. The crossbar is about four feet long and is made strong enough to prevent bending.

If the posts are set in concrete and the "dead man" brace wire is also embedded in concrete the outfit is practically everlasting. For intermediate supports the same system is followed, but all posts can be made much lighter. By extending the crossbar three, four or more lines can be run between the same set of posts. It is advisable to use the brace wire as indicated, as a wooden brace in the inner side of the posts will be in the way of the clothes when they are placed on the line near the posts.

Grounding Wires For Stock.

Grounding fence wires affords considerable protection from lightning and is a worth-while investment for farmers, according to Frank M. White of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin.

To secure the best results ground wires ought to be placed about 100 feet apart and closely applied to the post, so as to form a contact with every one of the fence wires. The ground wires should also extend slightly above the fencepost, and like a lightning rod, should penetrate the soil far enough to reach moist earth. No 8 or 9 wire has been found most satisfactory for this purpose.

WHEN DISKS STICK.

Suggestions For Overcoming the Difficulties of Starting.

With regard to multiple disk clutches running in oil, it will usually be found difficult when starting from cold in the morning to engage a gear unless the clutch is held out an abnormally long time, says the Automobile Dealer and Repairer. A quick way is to press out the clutch and at the same time race the engine once or twice quickly. This will generally throw off the congealed oil and permit the clutch shaft to stop. On the pattern that runs dry (with no lubricant), with steel and bronze alternate plates, occasionally the plates refuse to separate, and the clutch will not stop spinning when the pedal is pressed out. The remedy is to prop the clutch out of action, squirt kerosene between the plates, run the engine for a few minutes, wash out the clutch with gasoline, kerosene having a tendency to rust steel. As soon as the clutch becomes dirty it will refuse to stop; hence the noise when engaging the gears.

Valuable Arsenic Spring.

Arsenic in quantities surpassing the percentage of the only other spring of its kind in the world have been discovered in the waters of the springs at Arrowhead, north of San Bernardino, Cal.

According to the analysis made, the water at Arrowhead was found to contain one-twentieth of a grain of arsenic to the gallon, while that of the only other known spring in the world at Bourboulle, France, contains one-sixty-seventh of a grain to the gallon. This latter percentage of arsenic is found in steam caves in Waterman canyon.

The springs at Bourboulle, France, are considered to be of such value that the government has erected a sanatorium costing $3,000,000 for the benefit of the French people.

Social Tact.

Social tact is making your company feel thoroughly at home, even though you thoroughly wish they were.—Puck

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

You, like every other good Housekeeper, probably try to plan your work unless something happens to disarrange your plans, and you have to do some quick thinking, some quick acting, and probably some quick ordering.

That's Where we Come in

You can step to the Phone any hour of the day, tell us what you want, and we will have it there in a hurry. Our business is to supply your table wants, just when you want them.

Does That Kind of Service Appeal to You

Try it, and we are sure it will. About quality—yes we are just as particular as you and and everything we sell is the BEST that can be obtained for the price.

Service and goods all guaranteed whether you come or phone, and your money back if you want it.

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

Quality Service Honest Prices
WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

Additional Locals

Read "Zudora."

F. J. Meech visited at the home of his son in East Jordan last week.

Philip Howe left Saturday for a short visit to Traverse City and Wexford.

Capt. O. E. Wilbur was in Traverse City on a short business trip last week.

R. A. Emrey, wife and little son, Winfield, returned, Friday from Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Ella Aldrich Ball of Traverse City is in the city visiting at the home of her parents.

A. T. Jefferys left Saturday for Gaylord, where he will spend a few days visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. John Campbell of Minneapolis, Minnesota, is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Eagleton.

Miss Marguerite Saunders visited at the home of Mrs. Glen Ellis in Petoskey Thursday and Friday of last week.

J. H. Milford of East Jordan, candidate for re-election as county school commissioner, was in the city Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wooley and Mrs. Helen Bixby spent Sunday at Lakeside Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nowland.

Mrs. Thad Bailey of Grand Rapids was a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. E. Bedwin, a few days last week.

Mrs. Geo. Papin and daughter, Carrie, left on Wednesday of last week for a visit among friends and relatives in Detroit.

Mason Roe and wife left Thursday for Saginaw, where they will visit among friends and relatives. They will also visit at Detroit and Grand Rapids before returning.

Friends of Mrs. C. S. Dodge, who was hurt by a fall recently, will be pleased to learn that she is able to be out again.

Judge F. K. Mayne arrived in the city Saturday from Traverse City, where he has been attending to his official duties.

Hon. A. Butters and wife expect to leave next week for Santiago, California, where they will remain the balance of the winter.

S. B. Smith stopped over Sunday in Charlevoix while on his way home to Petoskey from Grand Rapids, where he attended the auto show.

Douglas Nettleton, who has been employed in the Central Drug Store at Cadillac for the past five months, returned to his home in this city Friday.

The funeral of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hartwell was held from the home of Jas. O'Brien Friday afternoon, Rev. L. C. Vineyard conducting the services.

George Papin has been engaged by members of the school board to fill the position as fireman held by Jas. Perry, who broke his arm, by falling on the slippery sidewalks last week.

An old-fashioned spelling bee will be held at the Baptist church Wednesday evening, March 3. Prizes will be awarded to the lady and gentleman who are dressed in the most old-fashioned costume. The public is cordially invited.

POULTRY Raisers

READ A PAPER ALL YOUR OWN

Send 10c today, stamps or coin, and get Big 4 Successful Poultry Journal for three full months. Big 4 is a practical poultry paper for practical poultry raisers. Edited by a practical poultryman, Judge D. E. Hale, for Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan poultry people. Cramped full of sound, sensible, articles written to meet special conditions in these states. Each issue contains articles worth more than a full year's subscription. Price for year's issue—12 numbers—only 50c. Sample copy for 25c to pay postage. Big 4 Successful Poultry Journal 445 Plymouth Ct. Chicago, Ill.

To the Voters of Charlevoix County:

Among the officials to be nominated at the next primaries there is none of more importance and none requires more careful selection than the county commissioner of schools. That official will have for his especial and immediate task the raising of our rural schools to the standard set by our state authorities. "A standard school in every district" should be not only his aim, but in his efficient hands an aim sure to be accomplished.

It seems to me that the voters are fortunate in having among the candidates one so well fitted as Miss May L. Stewart of East Jordan. A life time devoted to educational work in this state, and more especially to the preparation of teachers, has perhaps given me some power in judging of a teacher's ability. Knowing Miss Stewart as well as I do—and taking into account not only her natural gifts, but particularly her long training in normal school and college and her long and successful experience in rural and city schools—I feel convinced that she should be nominated and elected to this office.

The question of who shall be school commissioner of Charlevoix county is to me of more than ordinary importance. My interest is not merely that of an outsider, but I have large property interests in the county and am anxious that its school matters should be placed in safe and competent hands. For that reason I urge all to vote for Miss Stewart.

"Benjamin S. D'Ooge, Ypsilanti, Michigan."

Pol. Adv. 811

Stimson-Hammond.

William S. Stimson of Hayes township and Miss Beulah G. Hammond of this city were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hammond on west Antrim street, Monday evening, Rev. L. C. Vineyard officiating. Only the immediate relatives were present at the ceremony. At the close of the wedding, refreshments were served. The happy young couple will reside on Mr. Stimson's farm in Hayes township.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcement of the date. Adv. 611

Subscribe for the Courier.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 9

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

THINK THE LAST ALWAYS BEST

Ninth Annual Banquet of Shakespeare Club a Great Success.

Tribute Paid to Both Shakespeare and Washington By Members of Local Society.

The ninth annual banquet of the ladies' Shakespeare Club of Charlevoix was given at the Bartlett House Tuesday evening, February 23, at 7 o'clock. To soft music played by Miss Dorothy Armstrong, the ladies with their husbands gathered around the festive board. The table was beautifully decorated in honor of Washington as well as Shakespeare. In the center of the table was a cherry tree, with cherries and birds, and miniature American flags were at each place. The menu and program cards were decorated with busts of Washington and Shakespeare, and a tiny red hatchet fastened to each served as place cards. With the usual care of Dr. and Mrs. Bartlett, it is needless to say that the menu was fine. The service was in the hands of Miss Dorothy Armstrong, Miss Neta Mayne and Miss Irene Harsha, assisted by Miss Benona Bartlett, under the supervision of the refreshment committee, Mesdames Priest, Bridge and Harsha, and it was not necessary to have a vivid imagination to think you were being served by expert waitresses. The young ladies were very attractive in their pretty white dresses with red sashes and tiny American flags as decorations.

After a bountiful repast the president of the club, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong, in a few well chosen words of welcome to the husbands and the few friends who were present, introduced the toast-mistress of the evening, Mrs. J. A. Auld, who was more than pleasing in this role and left nothing to be desired, unless it was a desire for more.

Mrs. F. W. Mayne responded to the toast "Shakespeare Banquets" in an interesting and clever manner and then gave a most realistic scene of Macbeth when Banquo's ghost appeared. She was ably assisted by Mrs. J. L. Crane as Lady Macbeth.

Mrs. John S. Baker rendered a piano solo, "Valse Caprice," by Newland.

Mrs. A. A. Swinton, in "Castles in Spain," was very original and, drawing on her imagination, showed possibly what all had planned on years ago and what she planned on for each couple present for the years to come.

Mrs. A. F. Bridge in her description of Washington, brought up numerous good points concerning his standing during the rebellious days of his lifetime and also the high appreciation in which he is held by all in the twentieth century.

Mrs. R. W. Paddock, whose topic was the life of Shakespeare, endeavored to convince the audience that he was a greater man than Washington. The climax of the discussion between the two ladies was a conflict of words, poetically given, showing the superior qualities of these two great men. The effect left upon the audience was that both were heroes in their special work.

"To Our Husbands," given by Mesdames Crane, Harsha and Fitch, was the event of the evening, revealing musical talent never dreamed of in the Shakespeare Club.

"Did Shakespeare Like Women?" was capably handled and it took A. F. Bridge but a few minutes to convince all that Shakespeare, like all great men, did like women.

The last of the night's entertainment of the Charlevoix Shakespeare Club, and its membership feel that it is an occasion to be looked forward to with great pleasure, and as one year succeeds another all think that the last banquet was the best ever.

SICK BUT THREE DAYS

Charles Nettleton Unable to Recover from Attack of Pneumonia and Pleurisy.

D. C. Nettleton returned Saturday from Chicago, where he was called by the sudden death of his eldest son, Charles.

Mr. Nettleton states that his son was taken suddenly ill with pneumonia and pleurisy and was confined to his bed but three days before his demise. The funeral services were held from the house Wednesday and the remains taken to Rose Hill chapel in charge of the Masonic order, where ritualistic services were also held. Interment in Rose Hill cemetery.

Best values in canvas gloves 10c pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

OWNER HAS RIGHTS

Telephone Companies Cannot Mutilate Shade Trees Along Highways.

A recent Michigan supreme court decision that will be of interest to many people in Michigan was recently handed down by the court in a case brought by Wm. F. Bolender against the Southern Michigan Telephone Company, an appeal taken from the circuit court of Saint Joseph county. In this case the supreme court held that telephone and telegraph companies are liable for damages for the needless and unnecessary mutilation of shade trees by linemen erecting pole lines through the county. In many instances linemen have put through pole lines and wires, cutting out limbs of shade trees wherever they obstructed the progress of the work.

A portion of the opinion of the court in this case reads: "An abutting owner to a highway, owning in fee to the middle of the highway, may recover damages for the unauthorized and unwarranted cutting and mutilation of shade trees in the highway by the telephone company in constructing its lines." The judgment of the lower court, in which the plaintiff had obtained a verdict, was affirmed. Bolender is a farmer living near Centerville in St. Joseph county. He brought suit because the Southern Michigan Telephone Company had cut the tops out of a number of fine maple trees which extended along the highway bordering his property. The question of whether the property owner owned the trees in the highway was brought up and the defendants took the position that he did not own the trees. The higher court, however, holds that a man's property extends to the middle of the road.

GAME WAS A FAST ONE

C. H. S. Basketball Team Adds Another Scalp to String.

Was Hotly Contested from Start to the Finish—Score 19-15.

Charlevoix high school basketball team defeated East Jordan high Saturday on the local court, 19-15. The game from the start was spirited and undecided till the final blast of the referee's whistle after forty minutes of play. East Jordan displayed a different class of basketball than the local schoolboys had encountered in their two previous engagements with the Norwood lads. The Jordan boys were fast in every line of the game and especially clever in passing. Their only weak point was in field baskets. Most of their counts were made from the foul line. Charlevoix showed marked improvement, especially during the last half of the game in passing and field basket throwing. Hamlin and Durand starred for the locals, while Milford at forward was the noticeable man for the South Arm aggregation.

The Masonic-Odd Fellows battle, to the spectators as well as to the players themselves, was a revelation. For 30 minutes the brothers fought for supremacy and when the smoke had rolled away, the scoreboard displayed two prominent figure eights. It was a tie, but some game. To-night they are playing the tie-off. Results will be announced next week.

ENJOYABLE EVENING

Old Soldiers and Wives Met at Himebauch Home Wednesday Evening.

On a cordial invitation given, a large number of old soldiers and their wives met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Himebauch on Upright avenue February 24th, filling the house to overflowing and a good time for all, especially while sitting at a well-filled table of the best to be had.

After cleaning the platters, readings by Captain Beattie, Miss Neta Felt, Captain Bush and Mrs. Himebauch. Two hours were spent in simple games and a good old-fashioned talk by Capt. Berdan on presenting many beautiful birthday cards to J. M. Felt on the passing of his 70th milestone. After business for the next meeting was arranged, all went to their homes in a happy mood.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlen, Ladies' Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it. Adv. 611

OPPOSES RY RATE INCREASE

Attorney General Fellows Takes a Fall Out of Railroads.

Says Bookkeeping Methods are Bad and Discrepancies Do Not Exist in Figures Shown.

The combined railroad committees of the house and senate discussed the proposed rate bill with the governor, the attorney general and two members of the railroad commission last week at Lansing. All four of them said they were not in a position to give the legislature any concrete idea of what should be done.

Governor Ferris and Commissioner Glasgow rather inclined to the opinion that some help should be given the railroads in their present financial straits. Attorney General Fellows, however, came out openly for delay. He arraigned the railroads of Michigan for some of the things they do and the way they keep their books.

"We found in the South Shore case many discrepancies in the cost of operation," said Mr. Fellows. He recounted the difficulties the experts had in determining what basis should be used in computing costs of passenger department operations. "It was impossible," he said, for the layman to find out whether there was a loss in the passenger service and whether or not the two-cent law was to blame for any deficit. Mr. Fellows counseled moderation and investigation.

"It may be," said he, "that from some of these appraisals and investigations which are going on we shall find that the present two-cent rate is compensatory, based on the actual cost of operation in the passenger department."

"In the South Shore case our experts found the sum of $224,000 charged to cost of passenger department operation that belonged to addition and betterment. Our experts charged to the railroads the sum of $112,000 a year as an allowance to the dining and Pullman car expenses. The state took the position in that case that the man who sat in the smoker with his lunch in his pocket and slept on the seat should not be charged for the deficit in the dining and Pullman car service.

"For years the people of the state asked the legislature for a reduction in railroad fares. Without scientific investigation, it granted the reduction. We are told now by the railroads that the legislature made a mistake. Why, then, should we make a raise without some scientific investigation? In my humble judgment the matter should be most carefully looked over before any action is taken."

CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Elizabeth Leisner Was Well Known in This County—Funeral Held Sunday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leisner, the aged mother of Henry Leisner, a well-known Petoskey business man, died at the Leisner home in that city Thursday night after being ill for a number of years.

She was born in Hamburg, Germany, February 18, 1829, and came to Canada when about nineteen years of age and came to Michigan about 42 years ago. A year later she was married to Lawrence Leisner and to them were born seven children.

Her husband died in and about Petoskey, Emmet and Charlevoix counties, and her large circle of friends will be grieved to learn of her demise. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Sunday from the church at North Bay, and the body interred beside that of her husband in North Bay cemetery.

WILL LOCATE HERE.

Dr. A. F. McGreevy, veterinary physician and surgeon, whose home is in Burlington, Vermont, was in the city last week, the guest of J. R. Cooper. Dr. McGreevy, who has been attending a veterinary school in Grand Rapids, will graduate next month, and, after looking over Charlevoix and surrounding territory, has decided to locate here, making Charlevoix his home. Mr. McGreevy is a very agreeable young man and no doubt will soon enjoy a large acquaintance and lucrative practice in this vicinity.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments made. Adv. 611

Muckinaws, $2.50 to $5.00 while they last—Benj. Brown. Adv. 711

PLAYED WITH DYNAMITE CAP

"Sonny" Edwards Wanted to Know What Was Inside of It.

Explosion Follows Which Results in Both Hands Being Badly Mangled.

The natural instinct of a boy wanting to know what an object is made of was the cause of Albert "Sonny" Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Edwards, having both of his hands badly mangled by an explosion of a dynamite cap last Friday forenoon.

While rummaging around in the barn at his home in the western part of town "Sonny" found a box containing several dynamite caps. He placed the box in his pocket and on several occasions picked one of them to pieces.

When the accident occurred he was sitting in the house near the stove picking one of the caps to pieces with a safety pin. Repeated warnings failed to make him realize the great danger and he continued to pick the cap to pieces, throwing the small pieces into the stove, until the cap exploded. Both hands were badly mangled and pieces of the cap struck him in several places about the face. On his left hand each finger with the exception of the third had to be amputated just above the second joint and the thumb was also badly torn, but may be saved.

The fingers and palm of his right hand were also badly torn, but may not have to be taken off.

He was taken to the office of Dr. A. M. Wilkinson and given the necessary medical assistance. The accident will cripple him for life and should be a lesson to all, both young and old, to keep clear of the deadly dynamite cap.

BODY PLACED IN VAULT

Remains of Ava Smith, Pioneer Resident, Brought from Charleston, Washington.

The remains of Ava Smith, a former well known resident of Eveline township, who died at Charleston, Washington, January, 12, reached this city Monday afternoon on the 4:25 train, where it was met by numerous friends, and escorted to Brookside cemetery by members of the I. O. O. F. lodge, of which he was a member. After short services by Rev. L. C. Vineyard, the body was placed in the vault, where it will remain until a later date.

The remains were accompanied from Charleston to Chicago by his son, Ava Jr. and wife. From this place to Charlevoix it was placed in charge of Mrs. Ella Green Smith and Mrs. Blackman, a sister of the deceased wife.

Mr. Smith was one of the pioneer residents of Charlevoix and will be greatly missed by his large circle of friends.

SHAPTON-BEHAN

Alderman Richards S. Shapton Announces His Marriage to Chicago Lady.

The many friends of Alderman Richard S. Shapton will be surprised to learn of his marriage, which occurred at Wheaton, Illinois, January 28, to Mrs. R. S. Behan of Chicago, Illinois. Mr. Shapton states that the announcement of the wedding was kept from his Charlevoix friends owing to the fact that his wife, who was engaged in business in Chicago, was unable to leave that city until the present time. They will live at 1214 State street. Congratulations are extended by their many Charlevoix friends.

PAYTON NAMED RECEIVER

Charlevoix Rock Product Company Will Continue to Do Business.

D. S. Payton, ex-treasurer of Charlevoix county, was named as receiver for the Charlevoix Rock Product Company by Judge Mayne last Friday.

Mrs. Payton is well qualified to assume the responsibilities and will undoubtedly put the business on a paying basis within a short time. R. F. Sloan will continue his position as general manager, and the plant will be operated in the future to its fullest capacity. Steps have been taken to cancel all labor and other claims, and the future of the company will be taken care of in the best manner possible.

Ruy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

GOES TO NEW YORK

Allie Moore Will Skate in the Big Fifty-Hour Contest at Madison Square Garden.

Allie Moore, the world-famous roller skater, is now training for the big 50-hour race to be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, March 16-17-18. Moore will team with Willie Blackburn, another famous skater, who is in the same class of speeders as he is.

The training which Moore is taking consists of a 12-mile run daily from now until March 10, when he leaves for New York. The course of the run Moore is taking daily is out to Big Rock Point, over Mount McSaba and around the country roads. Four days of training will be spent in skating after his arrival in New York.

The purses offered in this big race will reach $2,000. Moore's share, if he should win, will be about $800. Charlevoix may well be proud of having one of the speediest skaters in the world as a representative in this big race.

HIGHEST PERCENTAGE

Charlevoix High School Has Highest Received So Far in Spelling Contest.

Charlevoix high school received the highest percentage yet reached by any of the county schools in the spelling contest which is now going on. The local percentage was 93.58. Only eleven words were misspelled. Boyne City received second honors for last week with an average of 98.87, and East Jordan third with 97.45. The local students are determined to be the winners in the contest, which closes some time in April.

THEORY IS LAUGHED AT

M. A. C. Professor Says "First Robin" Theory is All Bosh.

Methods of Forecasting Season Declared Without Foundation by Bird Expert.

Charlevoix weather prophets who predict early spring on sight of the first robin are discredited by Professor W. B. Barrows, head of the zoology department at the M. A. C. and Michigan's foremost authority on birds.

"The 'first robin' idea may be classed with the groundhog superstitions," said Prof. Barrows. "A certain number of robins remain in Michigan all through the winter, but they do not scatter much unless the weather happens to become mild, as it has during the past two or three weeks. Then we see them, but their presence doesn't mean that we are to have an early spring. Birds don't know anything about the weather and robins really won't begin coming from the south until the first or second week in March."

In the swamps and thickets around this city robins are known to remain throughout the entire winter, emerging on bright warm days to be seen and declared one of the signs of approaching spring.

Along with the early spring robin and woodchuck superstition there is the lion and lamb story regarding March weather. Although this method of forecasting is laughed at by Professor Barrows, the ladies nevertheless placed great confidence in the "signs" and usually were about as accurate as the meteorological bureau.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Meets Friday Evening at Home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Paddock.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet Friday evening, March 5th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Paddock.

The following is the program: Piano solo—Master Willie Hampton. Paper, "Irish Immigration"—Mrs. H. P. Parmelee. Social intermission. Vocal solo—Miss Audrey Correll. Current events—Miss Jessie Himes.

The indices of the W. R. C. will give a ten-cent tea at the Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday evening, March the eleventh, from five o'clock to seven. Adv. 911

Sunday Specials—Chocolate Ice Cream 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv. 911.

MOST UNIQUE OF ITS KIND

Was Old Fashioned Concert at the Congregational Church.

Many Historic Characters Portrayed—Tones and Choruses Were Fine.

The most unique entertainment of its kind for many years was the old-fashioned concert at the Congregational church last Wednesday night. About eight o'clock a goodly number of men and women attired in costumes of years gone by marched down the centre aisle, passing each other at the platform, where, ascending the steps, they took with great solemnity their appointed places. Those of mature years were wisely seated among the younger members to guard them against temptation of levity. In the center of the singers sat Sister Isabelle Shockley, looking the picture of satisfaction and peacefulness in her elaborate gown and effective bonnet. Back of her Mrs. Patience Taggart, an excellent one to preserve sobriety. Peaceful Correll looked distinguished and anticipative; while her daughter Charity with others of youth, full of doubtfulness regarding decorum, presented a comely appearance. Mesdames Araminta and Prudence Bush, Naomi Livingston and Experience Crandall, all so trustworthy, elicited the respect of all. Mesdames Armstrong and Culliope Vandermade spake wondrous worldie pieces, and Aunt Jane of Kentucky told a startlingly impressive story, while Charity Correll sang like an angel. Jonathan Joliffe played a cello piece. Priscilla Primrose Mullen was seated at the pianoforte, smiling a somewhat worldie. Parson Taggart preserved the dignity of the men in that side of the house. Winthrop Saltonstall, great in voice and sincerity, graced a position in front of the musical instrument. Jehoshaphat Wilkinson, Abithophel Stevenson, Shaphan Beers and Obed Harris did and looked wondrous well. Shaphan Beers led a worldie song, with Jehoshaphat Wilkinson and Abinidiah Fowler tuning in between. Amariah Azuriah Armstrong, a great but worldie-spirited doctor of the village, sang two times, worldie songs so taking like some were reduced to tears. That wondrous leader, Consolation Coulter, started all the tunes with her tuning fork and the choruses were grand. The Singing School from Hardscrabble was there with their teacher, Peaceful Correll. She took steps with her violin and then how they did sing. Paying one dollar you can join the school at Hardscrabble if you apply at once.

THE MILITARY GIRLS

Last Number of Citizens' Lecture Course Booked for Thursday Evening.

The last number of the scheduled course of the Citizens' Lecture Course, "The Military Girls," will be held at the opera house Thursday night, March 5.

This company has the reputation of being one of the best on the road and deserves a packed house. The distinct newness of the work of this company is in its revival of old things. Six refined, attractive girls who know the Lyceum perfectly well, and are thoroughly well and tuned to it, in a life and drum corps! That would appeal to anyone. And yet it is new to the Lyceum.

They appear in one act as a life and drum corps in military drills. The orchestra is a feature that is played up big, because everything else is built around it. They sing songs that are typically American—native songs—and native songs—and even the musical mutterings of the Indians that played so conspicuous a part in this frontier life. You will be amply repaid if you attend.

Reserved seat sale commences Wednesday night, March 3, at 7:00 o'clock.

Helped Her Celebrate.

A party of about thirty of Mrs. Wm. Provost's friends gathered at her home last evening to remind her that she had passed another milestone on life's way. A very enjoyable evening was spent in music and recitations. The principal feature of the evening was the elaborate lunch which was so excellently prepared and served by Mehtable Ann Jingletown and her attache, Stepladder Jack.

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 811

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Some People We Know, and We Will Profit by Hearing About Them.

This is a purely local event: It took place in Charlevoix. Not in some faraway place. You are asked to investigate it. Asked to believe a citizen's word; To confirm a citizen's statement. Any article that is endorsed at home is more worthy of confidence. Than one you know nothing about. Endorsed by unknown people.

J. B. Lancaster, 203 May street, Charlevoix, says: "I suffered for seven years from weak kidneys. My back ached at night and when I got up in the morning, I was stiff and lame. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and my rest was broken. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Ivy Drug Store and they did me a world of good. I can rest better at night, my back is stronger and the aches and pains are gone."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Lancaster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Correspondence

HAYES.

E. E. Stroud's family are reported better.

Fine weather and good roads at this writing.

Orson Cook is recovering from his sprained ankle.

Mrs. Henry Ostrum spent Sunday with Lela Howe.

Nelson and Joe Lewis were callers at Leslie Howe's Sunday evening.

We are informed that Fred and Frank Sneathen's mother is very low.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bartholomew spent Sunday at Platt Webster's.

George and Leslie Howe and George Pant were callers at Burgess Sunday.

Robert Miner is recovering from his operation as well as could be expected.

Don't forget the dance at Maple Grove grange hall Friday night, March 5th.

Mrs. George Tindall, daughter and grandson were callers at the home of Mrs. Platt Webster one day last week.

Louis Roenfelt was shaking hands with his former neighbors and friends last week. He is planning on going west in the near future.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by him.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 50c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

BAY SHORE.

Mrs. Allen is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. Copping.

A number of new farm homes are to be built this year.

Paul Brainer had a telephone installed in his house recently.

Mrs. J. Granel of Petoskey has been visiting her sister, Mrs. H. Bathka.

D. Seroggie has been spending the week with his daughter, Mrs. F. Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Stumby spent Sunday visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Ford's.

Mrs. Voelker and daughter, Ida, visited at Conrad Voelker's for a few days.

Bert Stickney returned Saturday to Grand Rapids, where he has a position.

There was an attendance of 114 at the Presbyterian Sunday school Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Perone of Petoskey has been holding meetings at North Bay church the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters, who have been spending the winter at Long View Farm, left Saturday for Traverse City.

Mrs. J. Voelker and daughter, Ida, of Owosso, were called here by the death of Mrs. Voelker's mother, Mrs. Lelsmer. The funeral service was held at North Bay church Sunday afternoon and interment in North Bay cemetery beside her husband, who died several years ago.

We save you $3.00 on each pair of team harness—Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

GOOD SUGGESTION TO

CHARLEVOIX PEOPLE

It is surprising the amount of old, foul matter the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-Lika, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowel so thoroughly that ONE DOSE relieves our stomach, cleans the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Charlevoix agents for Adler-Lika—R. A. Herman, druggist.

WILSON

Lovely weather for this time of year. Albert Todd, whose illness we spoke of, is slowly improving.

J. M. Worden and family are moving to East Jordan, where they will reside the coming year.

Messrs. Albert and Ralph and Miss Emma Lenowsky visited at the E. S. Brintnall home last Sunday.

Arthur Brintnall has gone to Samuel Richardson's, where he will work this coming summer, this being his fifth year there.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness, work clothing, trunks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 71f

CLARION

Rev. J. W. Stanton and wife will spend the week at Resort.

Miss Jean Colden of Petoskey spent Sunday with her parents.

Mrs. Chas. Johnson is confined to her bed by a bad attack of erysipelas.

Mrs. Orville Young and little son returned from Petoskey hospital Friday.

There will be a hard time social at the Clarion House on Friday evening. Benefit of the Epworth League.

We have a few harness at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Marie Lamiman)

Bessie Allen was absent Tuesday on account of illness.

Fred Gregory was absent one day last week on account of illness.

J. H. Milford, county school commissioner, visited the normal Thursday.

The class has chosen as a temporary motto: "Out of School Life into Life's School."

W. F. Bashaw, county truant officer, visited the normal room last Thursday afternoon.

The class has begun the Palmer method of business writing, using the muscular movement.

The anti-cigarette bill, prohibiting the use and sale of cigarettes, was discussed and voted upon by the "house of representatives," the result being unanimous in favor of the bill.

POULTRY GOSSIP.

The lousy hen is the one that always catches cold and finally comes down with the roup.

Have will produce nearly twice as many eggs if fed upon milk than if otherwise fed.

January is the month in which most poultrymen mate up their flocks for the coming breeding season.

During cold weather the eggs should be gathered several times a day, as they very readily chill and crack. Eggs for hatching should be kept in a temperature of not less than 50 degrees.

Separate all the maling birds from the well ones, keeping the former in warm and dry quarters while undergoing treatment.

Increase the quantity of corn in the night ration, especially during very cold weather.

BRIEF STUDY OF THE POULTRY BREEDS

We have breeds for all purposes—summer eggs, winter eggs, broilers, roasters and general purposes, writes M. K. Boyer in the American Cultivator. We have heavy egg records with the non-sitting breeds, but the bulk of their production is in spring, summer and early fall. Unless under very favorable circumstances, they are but ordinary layers during the winter. Our winter laying breeds are of the broody class, and they give comparatively few eggs during the winter season of the year. Much of their time is taken in incubating. Then we have a class that are better adapted for broiler raising than for roasting purposes. On the other hand, we have breeds that make better roasters than broilers. Again, we have general purpose fowls.

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of miseries have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have spoken with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (60 pages—cloth) telling that such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1897.

Of water, food and importance is a promise of better things in store for the earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-five cents (stamp with this coupon) to order post age to The Temple, No. 2 W 4th St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

"I Don't Feel Good!" That is what a lot of people tell us. Usually their bowels only need cleaning. Rexall Orderlies will do the trick and make you feel fine. We know this positively. Take one tonight. Sold only by us, 10 cents. The Ivy Drug Store.

—reasonably well adapted for all that one could wish for in poultry.

To become more plain, the summer layers are the Leghorns, Minorcas, Andalusians, Spanish, Hamburgs, Polish and Oldenches. The winter layers are the Asiatics (Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans) and the Americans (Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds). The best for broilers—the Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks or the Rhode Island Reds. The best for roasters—the Langshans or Langshans. We admit that in this choice we may have the opposition by champions of other breeds. But we are honest in our devotion, as we speak only from the experience we have had with the breeds. It is a mistake to keep more than three varieties; two would be better.

The fowl is one of the most useful of all domesticated breeds of fowls. It is a large and striking looking bird, the duck weighing from eight to nine pounds. In addition to being a best table food it is a free layer of good sized white eggs. The fowl can be advantageously used where chickens are in request.

and one would be better still. Of course, circumstances alter cases. If it is intended to run a general poultry farm, taking in all the branches—eggs, broilers and roasters—then it would be best to have not less than two breeds, probably better to have three. Leghorns, Minorcas or any of the moultless breeds for eggs in summer, when the broilers would be broody; the Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks or Rhode Island Reds for broilers and winter eggs. The Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks or Rhode Island Reds should also be utilized for small sized moulting fowls. It is always best to have two sizes of roasters, as some people prefer a small size to a large one. This makes a profitable all the year round combination.

Egg Laying Tendencies.

An important fact that should be borne in mind is that the tendency to ward laying is more often inherited through the son of a heavy layer than through her daughters, and while the daughters of a great egg producer are valuable, the sons are more valuable. This is especially true in that a cockerel can influence the offspring of a dozen females, thus increasing his influence in the flock.

Dangerous Grit.

Ground glass is dangerous as a grit. A number of cases being known where the glass pierced the crop and lacerated the intestines. China ware is more or less dangerous on account of the glazing. Commercial grit is so cheap that it is a loss of time to break up any material for that purpose.

Scientific Farming

CROWN GALL AND HAIRY ROOT

Rules by Which These Diseases May Be Reduced to a Minimum.

(Prepared by M. T. Cook, plant pathologist, New Jersey experiment station.)

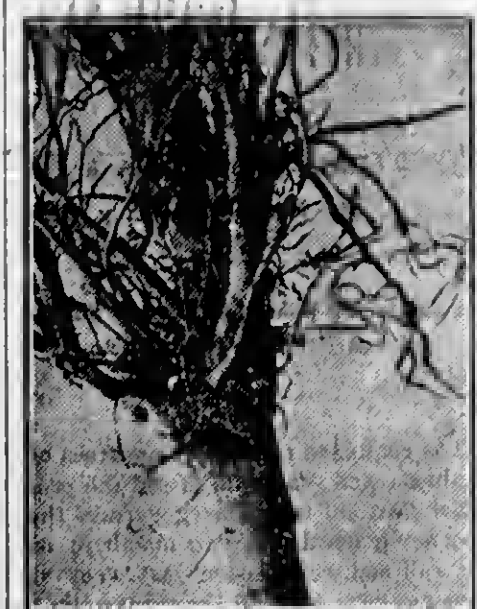

That crown gall and hairy root are serious diseases cannot be doubted. That they may be much more serious in some localities than others and upon some plants than on others is equally true. Heavy applications of fertilizer tend to reduce the injurious effects on many varieties, but it would be more profitable for the grower to feed healthy plants than diseased plants.

The great difference of opinion concerning these diseases expressed by various workers in the past can be readily explained by our increasing knowledge of the subject. It is very generally conceded that the distribution of these diseases is largely due to nursery stock, that crown fruits, espe-

Rexall
Dyspepsia Tablets
Will Relieve Your Indigestion
The Ivy Drug Store.

cially red raspberries, are notorious carriers of these diseases, and that certain varieties of apple, such as Wealthy, Yellow Transparent, Wolf River, Ben Davis and Northern Spy, are especially susceptible. Certain varieties of grapes and berries are also more susceptible than others.

These diseases are so widely distributed that their eradication is practically impossible, but they can be very greatly reduced. The grower of a tree is entitled to a healthy tree, and no fruit grower can afford to set in ferior or diseased plants. The inspection laws in the different states are becoming more and more strict every year with stock likely to carry these diseases. By observing the following rules these diseases can be reduced to a minimum:

APPLE STOCK AFFECTED WITH CROWN GALL

Nurserymen should—

First.—Grow their stock on ground as nearly free from these diseases as possible. Never use ground which has recently been set with cane fruits.

Second.—Avoid injuring the young trees by cultivation.

Third.—Use the best grade, healthy seedlings for budding and grafting.

Fourth.—Use scions and buds from trees known to be absolutely healthy. The roots, trunk and branches of trees from which the scions are cut should be free from all forms of the disease.

Fifth.—When root graft is prevalent budding is much to be preferred to root grafting, especially with susceptible varieties such as Wealthy.

Sixth.—If root grafting is practiced the following precautions should be taken:

Make close fitting grafts, leaving no exposed cut surfaces.

Wrap each graft well with soft waxed cloth.

Avoid wrapping with waxed string or raffia.

Store root grafts in clean moist sand at temperatures above 32 degrees, but not to exceed 55 to 60 degrees.

Plant as early in spring as soil conditions permit.

Handle grafts carefully in planting so as not to make any wounds upon the roots or disturb the callus formation upon the cut surfaces of scion and stock.

Avoid injury to plants in subsequent cultivation.

Seventh.—Propagate by budding so far as possible the few varieties most susceptible to crown gall and hairy root.

Eighth.—Avoid heavy, wet soils.

Ninth.—Burn all diseased plants. Do not prune the evidently diseased parts and market the stock. The disease may have penetrated farther than you can determine.

The fruit grower should—

First.—Refuse all diseased stock. His time, land and fertilizer are too valuable for him to gamble with diseased plants of any kind.

Second.—Set the plants on land as free as possible from the disease. Avoid land that has been used for cane fruits.

Third.—Never use cane fruits as an inter-row crop.

Fourth.—Avoid injuring the trees by cultivation so far as is possible.

Fifth.—Keep trees as free from borers and similar pests as possible and paint the wounds made in removing borers with white lead paint or coal tar.

Sixth.—Rotate old orchard and berry lands to grains, potatoes or similar crops if possible.

He Was Very Dumb.

He was a very shy young gentleman, and although Emory had had presented him with innumerable opportunities for displaying his powers in that fashion, he could never summon up sufficient courage to take advantage of them.

They were sitting as usual one evening—she on the sofa, he on a chair—with the usual half hour intervals in between remarks, when the climax was reached.

"Isn't it funny," she said, "that the length of a man's arm is the same as the circumference of a lady's waist?"

"Is that so?" said he, mildly interested. "What do you say if we get a piece of string and see if it's right?"

Sheridan's Spelling.

The author of "The School for Scoundrel" had highly original views on the rules of spelling. In his "Critic" days, for instance, a "thing" to Sheridan was always a "think" and over by any chance did he remember that a "which" or a "what" to be really respectable must needs possess an "ally" after. This rule of unshaken has also followed, step by step, in "with" for "whether". Moreover, he scorned the use of a double "nd" or a double "ss". For example, "blessedness" was with a "nessness".

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

It's the Saver of Dimes

who has dollars to spend, who never has to borrow, but always can lend. Ten dimes will open a savings account with this bank, and every dime you put into it will bear INTEREST COMPOUNDED TWICE A YEAR.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank
Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier
Archibald Livingston, Ass't. Cashier
H. S. Barsha, Vice President

Will You Help Save the Pere Marquette?

The Pere Marquette is being operated at a loss for one reason—because the state law has fixed its passenger rates at an amount less than the cost of operation.

The road is now in our hands as Receivers appointed by the United States Court. We have cut down expenses to the limit of safety, but economies, helpful as they are, will not save the situation. It has been necessary to borrow money to operate the road, even without paying interest on bonds. The Court, without assuming to make a recommendation, but following the suggestion of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has directed us to lay the matter before the Legislature for such relief as it may find to be merited, and we have done so.

Why You Should Help Save This Railroad—

You need its freight service in your business. You require its passenger service when you travel.

You know that this railroad is necessary to the prosperity of this community.

You know that this railroad is one of the greatest assets of the state.

You know that the Pere Marquette is an important factor in your life, directly or indirectly, every day in the year.

It serves this county, this town—it serves you. It cannot longer continue to do business at a loss and furnish the service you need and require. It has reached a crisis in its affairs. Foreclosure and dismemberment are staring the road in the face.

On the Average, We Lose—

A quarter of a cent every mile we carry a passenger.

Ten cents on every passenger we carry.

Twenty-two cents every mile a passenger train runs.

This does not mean that we do not want your patronage. We do, we appreciate it. Our loss is greater if you do not give it to us, because we have to run the trains anyway.

The Interstate Commerce Commission decided after an investigation of these conditions that 2 1-2c is a fair rate, and therefore fixed it on interstate business. This does not help us greatly because we have but little passenger service outside Michigan. The Pere Marquette is a local railroad. The most of its passenger business is local. Isn't it worth as much to carry you inside the state as it is to points outside, or from points outside to points within? Yes, and in some cases more, when you consider the sparsely settled sections served by the Pere Marquette.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Take this matter up right away with your Legislator. See him personally, if possible; if not, write him at once. He is entitled to your views and it is necessary to get action at this session. The matter has been presented to the Legislature and we are now laying the conditions before you with a view of getting your assistance. The railroad is as much entitled to living rates as an individual is to living wages. Urge your Legislator to act favorably at this session, and

Help Us Preserve the System Intact to Michigan

PAUL H. KING,
DUDLEY E. WATERS,
Receivers.

PATENTS

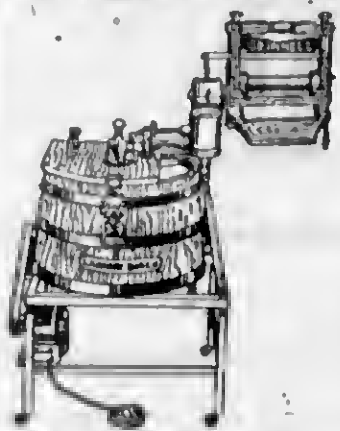

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or secured. Send model, sketches or photos and description for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Rush references.

PATENTS BUILD FORTUNES

For you, our free book tells how, what to invent, and how to make money. Write today.

D. SWIFT & CO.
PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

Do You Dread Wash Day?

LET US INSTALL AN
Electric Washer and Wringer.
Will not cost you a cent if the machine fails to wash and wring perfectly without hand rubbing and wringing. We guarantee our machine for five years. See our line

$45.00 and up
You take no risk in buying one of our machines

F. S. Bettes
214 Bridge Street

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand
Pills in Red and Gold Metallic Boxes. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. Ask for the DIAMOND
BRAND DIAMOND PILLS. For 25 years known as Best, Safe, Always Reliable.
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 313. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333. CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block. Charlevoix, Mich.

L. S. SHANAHAN
Attorney at Law
Book Block. Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building

J. NILO EATON
Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections. Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD
Dentist

Office in Van'telt Building
Over Levinson's Store
Phone 139. CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience
Maps and Plats on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE. Charlevoix, Mich.

R. B. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the
EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in new Priest Building
Telephone No. 35. Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 6. Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $20,000,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself.

Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shai's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora fails Nabok Shai, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A maker of diamonds tells Hassam Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassam Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond maker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of nicks.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are fleeing because a great skeleton hand appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's interests. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by Bolton. Storm opportunely appears and saves her from Bolton.

CHAPTER V.

The Case of the Perpetual Glare.

HASSAM ALI played with his gold, digging his hands into the cold, shimmering metals and letting them stay submerged for a moment or two. No coin ever went into this chest. He had a simple little preparation with which he washed each coin until it shone like a fresh minted one. Bankers did not particularly love Hassam Ali. He was always bringing gold certificates and buying them exchanged for the coin. Whenever he had bills to pay immediately from his pocket (proudful thought invariably the paper money was redeemable only in silver. His big satisfied his craving to play with his hoard, he closed and locked the chest, secreted it and went into the mystic room.

Tonight he saw in his crystal globe only those things that he desired to see. Suddenly he struck his hands together gleefully. That was it, he murmured, that was it. Why hadn't he thought of it before? Absolutely sure and with less evidence than could be found in the path of the lightest wind. Simple as sunshine. He summoned Amed.

"I wish to write and send a note. Arrange the desk. I will be in in a moment."

"Yes, sahib."

When Hassam Ali finished his note he destroyed the blotter and the sheets of paper which had underlaid that upon which he had written. This note he gave to the servant. He felt no worry about this note. The man who received it would immediately destroy it. To keep it and use it in the aim of blackmail would only tighten the rope about his neck. As has doubtless been surmised by this time, Hassam Ali was a master criminal. They say that every man who commits a crime leaves something behind. Hassam Ali had winnowed down his risks until they were almost negligible. Every man who worked for him did so under the unwritten contract of life or death. Nearly every tool Hassam Ali had used made the shadow of nothing ever led the trail to his house. There was among the various clichés over which he held sway no ordinary creak. The porch creaker, the yeck man, the forger, the pickpocket, had no standing among these men. They were all more or less men of scientific attainments in whom the criminal instincts had been born, not created by environment.

At 9 o'clock Amed came into the mystic room and announced that two gentlemen wished to see him. Amed was hidden to bring them in forthwith. They were old men, hawk featured, with high foreheads and brilliant eyes despite their apparent antiquity. They greeted Hassam Ali respectfully, but there was nothing servile in their attitude. They needed Hassam Ali, who in turn needed them. Thus they were equals.

"You have it still?" inquired Hassam Ali.

"Yes; we have over dared to patent it. We are holding it until some great war breaks forth."

"Listen."

For half an hour conversation was carried on in a monotone. At the end Hassam Ali sighed, drew out his wallet and gave each man a roll of bank notes, careful to observe that there were no gold certificates. As the visitors stood up, about to make their departure, Hassam Ali bade them wait a moment. He summoned Amed and ordered him to bring Zudora down.

The expressions of the two old men changed surprisingly. The Zudora colored she beheld two old men, benevolent patriarchs, who bowed profoundly and smiled upon her benignly.

"A case for you, Zudora."

She smiled expectantly.

"These two gentlemen are curio collectors. They have lost a remarkable brilliant, one of the most unobtainable. Find it and your fifth problem may be relegated to the past."

"Was it stolen?"

"They can't quite figure out. It is gone. Yesterday it reposed in a little Florentine casket. The casket remains but the gem is gone."

"I can make an effort," said the girl. "Where do you two gentlemen live?"

"They named a small suburban town. They lived in a house on the North road, which was a continuation of the village main street. When the two old men had departed—and Zudora was struck by their extraordinary likeness to one another—Hassam Ali rubbed his hands.

"A curious case, my dear. These two old chaps live very moderately. Every penny they can scrape together goes to purchase some curiosity. This gem has the time-wondering of the months. It has been stolen several times, and always they have managed to recover it. But this time they are at sea. It was really in hellum, the nucleus of their collection. In some way they have heard of your success and believe a clever woman will succeed where a man would fail. Besides, they can't offer much in the way of reward. I don't think the smallness of the reward will stand in your way. You have a trifling income of your own."

lightly.

"And heaven only knows how I'll ever be able to get rid of a tenth part of this income. Some day I'm going to far real clarity."

"Charity makes the recipient only the poorer," he commented.

"I don't mean that kind," she replied. She was thinking of establishing some day a community. But until her tongue was free and until she could confide utterly in her lover she must perform bold stunts on the level.

When she returned to her bedroom she found a note from Storm via the pigeon. John stated happily that he was free for a week or ten days and wanted to know if she would not go out and make a visit with him to the old folks. She hated to disappoint him, but she was compelled to wry back that she was going to be very busy and that it would be impossible to join him, and as she would have liked to. The next morning a pigeon delivered a note to Hassam Ali. Zudora already having gone upon her new quest. Hassam Ali destroyed the message. So Storm was given leave to infer that Zudora had ignored his note.

Zudora went out to the village. The house occupied by these two old curio collectors was a ramshackle affair. It looked to Zudora as though some violent hurricane had taken it up miles away and set it down upon the hill haphazardly and loddily.

The sight of it did not create any distrust in her mind. Most collectors were mad persons, who cared little or nothing for the roof over their heads or the clothes on their backs so long as they possessed the where-withal to pursue their idiosyncrasies. She learned that the two old fellows were twins. One of them met her at the station, and the other greeted her at the door of the house. A quick glance at the interior of the house convinced her that what curies they had were securely locked away. The first thing she did was to ask the complete history of the missing stone. It had come from India originally, a part of some lost long years before the mutiny. Its real value lay in its eternal fire. There were times when this gem was discernible even to a dark room. They wanted it back very badly and would be willing to pay as much as $500 for its return. Zudora inquired if the brothers had seen any strangers recently. No. Did the village people know anything about their collection? The old men laughed and shook their tumbled heads.

"They know nothing. They think that we are a couple of foolish old misers. No; in no way can we account for the disappearance."

"Can you describe the diamond?"

"We have something better than a description. Here is a photograph of the stone."

The producing of this photograph quieted any doubts Zudora might have had. Collectors were generally slipshod and careless to all respects except to the matter of their hobby. A true collector always wants a photograph of each of his treasures, partly to identify it and partly to exhibit in testimony of his possession.

"There is always fire in the stone," said one of the old men. "In a room that to you may look dark there will be a speck of light. This stone would always catch it and you could see it flash. Oh, it was a very interesting stone."

"Very interesting," repeated the brother.

"I think," said Zudora, "that I will return to the city. A jewel like this will be found in some pawnshop. No one would dare to go to a jeweler of repute. There would be too many imitations."

"You see, we have said nothing to the police because we do not want any newspaper notoriety. We have other tricks," with a singular smile.

"I may take this photograph along?"

"Certainly. We have duplicates."

Zudora left the old house, and the two old men watched her until she disappeared around a turn in the road. Then they laughed quietly and went back into the house.

Zudora began to go over the brief facts. There was no lead anywhere as yet. The metropolitan pawnshops were the only things she could think of. All the while she was thinking she was aimlessly picking late flowers. It was by she took out the photograph and eyed it curiously. Suddenly her hand became warm. To her utter dismay the photograph burst into flames. She dropped it in terror and stood as if paralyzed while she watched the cardboard shrivel into dull brown ashes. How in the world had this happened?

When she reached home that night she asked Hassam Ali a good many questions about these two brothers. Each and every one of his answers left nothing to be desired.

"But in heaven's name how could this thing have happened like that when there wasn't a match within a mile?"

(Continued on page 6.)

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the
'The Great Majestic'

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this wonderful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its the range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

Keeping Up
Appearances

Is a good thing to do; living within your income is better; and SAVING part of your earnings is BEST. Have a savings account here—bearing compound interest—and which you may start with one dollar—and you may keep up appearances with something to back it.

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nichols Harry Nichols A. Butters A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

Hassam Ali Dreaming of Gold.

death. That was principally why

WHAT THE PEOPLE THINK OF THE Round Oak Range

ONE TESTIMONIAL—More to Follow

Charlevoix, Mich., Feb'y 27, 1915.
S. M. See & Sons,
City.
Gentlemen:—
In response to your inquiry as to how I like my Round Oak Range, I will say that I consider it the best range made for all purposes. The oven is all that one can ask. It is the best baker I have ever used. We are using a 52 gallon range boiler and we always have lots of hot water when we have a fire. The cooking top cannot be excelled. We can boil water in 15 and 20 minutes after the fire is started, and the beauty of it, is that it uses as little fuel as any stove I have ever used. And last, but not least, it is so plain and smooth that it is no work to keep it clean.
Yours truly,
MRS. J. J. HALLETT.

If the Round Oak Pleases this Lady, it will please You—
TRY ONE

S. M. SEE & SONS
The Reliable Housefurnishers

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year, $1.50
One copy, six months, .75
One copy, three months, .40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and
entertainments, where admission is
charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary notice, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 2 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

"Pay-Up Week."

Waukon, a little town in Wisconsin, recently put forth an idea which seems to have been fruitful in its results. It established what is known as "Pay-Up Week," during which time the people of the town made an effort to square up their financial difficulties. The merchants sent out 8,000 statements and over 2,000 persons came in and settled their accounts, the aggregate sum amounting to $40,000. Thus it can be seen that the idea is a good one, and if kept up annually the people will get in the habit of preparing for it, and thus make the whole town help in adding to its prosperity. This would not only give the town a general boost but would get money circulating which would add to the town's value. The writer noticed an incident one day when nine dollars of indebtedness was settled between three men and not a cent was paid out. Jones owed Smith three dollars, Smith owed Brown three dollars, and Brown owed Jones three dollars. They simply passed receipts and the whole matter was settled in a jiffy. Of course such primitive method is not possible in this day, but a similar object would be obtained in the Waukon plan.

While the kaiser and the czar are at the front watching the Warsaw campaign it might simplify matters if they would settle the little dispute between themselves with bayonets while their armies took turn at watching the fun.

"Be Americans first" ought to be good advice for those earnest souls who are permitting their sympathies with some European nation or other to overrule their American patriotism.

THEY say there are 142,000 physicians in this country. With all that competition, no wonder they have to discover new diseases once and a while.

It is easy to own an automobile these days. All you have to do is find a few bushels of beans and make the exchange.

MONEY is said to be scarce in South America. Here is another bond of sympathy with North America.

WHAT the world needs is more laughter.

Feed the Birds.

The Michigan Audubon Society urges you to feed your bird neighbors. They find cold and deep snow bad, but sleet still worse, as it locks up their food supply. Nail FRESH beef or pork bones on trees or posts; tie suet, cheese or FRESH pork rinds on bushes and trees; clear away snow and scatter all kinds of crumbs, nuts, seeds and grains on the ground.

The society is organized to protect our birds, which are worth untold millions to our farms, forests and orchards. Help them by sending your dollar membership fee to Gertrude Reading, Secretary-Treasurer, Hart, Michigan.

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

One day a seedy-looking individual in a railway coach got into conversation with a fellow traveler. He had a good tale to tell. "Ah, sir," he said sadly, "I've seen changes. I was once a doctor with a large practice, but owing to one little slip my patients began to leave me, and now I'm just living from hand to mouth." "What was the slip?" was the natural question. "Well, sir," replied the other, "in filling in a death certificate for a patient who had died I absent-mindedly signed my name in the space headed 'Cause of Death.'"

When the Sunday dinner was over the family and the guests adjourned to the big sitting room, where they were joined by several of the neighbors. Consequently there was a scarcity of chairs and a young gentleman friend of the family who had taken dinner with them took little Willie up on his lap. Then, during a pause in the conversation, little Willie looked up at the young gentleman and piped: "Am I as heavy as Sister Mable?"

A quack doctor was holding forth about his "medicines" to a rural audience one day. "Yes, gentlemen," he said, "I have sold these pills for over twenty-five years and never heard a word of complaint. Now what does that prove?" Then a voice from the crowd sang out: "That dead men tell no tales."

As a group of visitors was going through the county jail a burly negro trusty was called to open doors for the party. He was asked by one of the ladies: "How do you like it in here?" "Like it, ma'am? If evah Ah gets ut o' heah Ah'll go so fer from here it'll take nine dollars ter sen' me a postal card."

EDUCATIONAL BILLS

Bills of Great Importance to Schools Have Been Introduced in the Legislature.

Two bills of far reaching importance to the schools of the state have been introduced in the present legislature. It is proposed to enact a law providing that persons who have not had experience in teaching must have six weeks of normal training before they can receive certificates to teach. Even now cities and towns employ only persons who have had a year or so of training. There is no teaching position so difficult as the country school, and the country child is entitled to as good care as the city child. The proposed law will help to bring about better teachers for the public schools by insisting on a normal training before they begin to teach.

The other bill relates to school buildings. Before a new building can be erected the board must submit to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and to the Secretary of the State Board of Health the plans of the proposed building. Not until the plans have been indorsed by these officers can the building be erected. Also, if any building now in use is on inspection found unsafe it may be condemned by the same officers, who shall also have authority to see that the building is put in a safe and sanitary condition before it can be used for school purposes.

Delicate Children
usually only need a food tonic to make them strong and healthy.
Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion
is not only the best food tonic but is pleasant to take. Sold only by us.
The Ivy Drug Store.

FOR BIOLOGIC STUDY.

Scientists interested in New Marine Laboratory in Massachusetts.

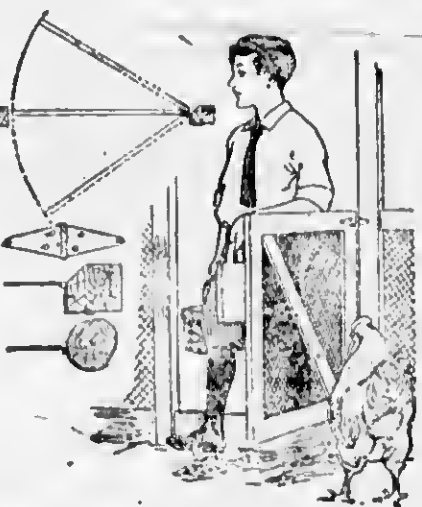

The new buildings of the marine biological laboratory, the gift of the president of its board of trustees, C. R. Cruise, at Wood's Hole, Mass., deserve more than incidental notice. Louis Agassiz in America and Antea Dobro in Europe were among the first to organize seaside laboratories, offering opportunities for biologic investigations that are unique. Dobro's station at Naples has become a mecca for students from all parts of the world, and the institution at Wood's Hole, which is in a sense a direct descendant of Agassiz's original plant, at the island of Pulkose, founded in 1872, promises to have a usefulness scarcely inferior to that of the European seaside laboratory.

The relations of biology and medicine have become clearly established in recent years. A biologic training has become recognized as one of the indispensable fundamentals on which the study of medicine is based. Biology is related not only to the affairs of everyday life, but also to medicine, for which it furnishes the indispensable foundation. Hygiene and public health rest on biologic factors. The marine biological laboratory has furnished opportunities for investigation that shall be unrestricted by the dictates of conventional prejudices or the un-reconciled demands of local interest and sectional factions.

DOUBLE SWING GATE.

Easily Constructed by Bending a Pair of Common Hinges.

Ordinary hinges can be easily bent and so placed on posts that a gate can be swung in either direction. As shown in the illustration, hinges can be made to fit either round or square posts. The gate half of the hinge is fastened in the usual way. The post half is bent and so placed that the hinge pin will approximately be on a line between the centers of the posts. The gate and post should be leveled off to permit a full open gateway.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81

Voting in Spain.

Vatag la Spulu is held to be a duty to the community, not merely a privilege of the individual, and neglect of civic obligations carries its own penalty. Male adults of legal age and under seventy, with the exception of priests, notaries and judges, are required to vote in municipal elections. Failure to cast a ballot is punishable by having one's name published as evidence for neglect, by having taxes increased 2 per cent, by suffering a deduction of 1 per cent in salary if employed in the public service and for the second offense the loss of right to hold elective or appointive office. — Exchange.

Everything in tailored goods, women's wear, will be shown by Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, at a future date. Watch for it. Adv. 6tf

Curing Auto Squeaks.

A squeak in the body or a squeak between the body and frame is very annoying, and it is customary to try to eliminate this noise by running oil between the two pieces. This sometimes does the work, but once the oil is dried, out the squeak again commences. There is, however, a better and permanent way of curing these annoying noises, to make a thin paste of graphite and gasoline and apply this mixture with a squirt gun or feather to the affected parts. The gasoline will evaporate and leave the natural lubricant, graphite between the two surfaces, and this will permanently eliminate this nuisance.

Driving the Automobile.

The most dangerous time for the novice in automobile handling is just when he first feels that he has mastered the machine and that he has nothing to fear from it; that, after all, it's an easy thing to manage and that he is equal to any emergency. Shortly after that, if his confidence overcomes his caution, he will have his first real fright or his first accident.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey. Special appointments made. Adv. 6tf

The Dry Salt.

"I should think you would have preferred the army in the navy?" "No, no, no. I'd rather do my fighting on water and keep dry than on land and have to stand knee deep in water in the trenches all the time." — Detroit Free Press

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

BOYS' NORFOLK SUITS

We have just received a new line of Boys' Norfolk Suits from 10 to 17 years. Exceptional values at $5.00

New Spring Goods Arriving Daily

GO TO — Levinson's — Get the Habit

FEDERATION TO CONVENE

Great Plans for Press and Printer at Grand Rapids March 11-13, 1915.

The Michigan Press and Printers Federation, comprising all the printing and newspaper interests of the state, will hold the annual convention at Grand Rapids Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 11-12-13.

It is planned to hold federation sessions each afternoon of the three days and sectional meetings will be held forenoon including the Weekly Newspaper Men's Section, the Daily Newspaper Publishers' Section, the Michigan Cost Commission Section for the job printers and the Michigan Women's Press Association Section for the ladies. The evenings will be given up exclusively to entertainment features.

It is expected that the main address of Thursday afternoon on "The Benefits of Organization and Co-operation" will be given by Hon. Arthur Hendrick Vandenberg, publisher of the Grand Rapids Herald. An effort is being made to secure Arthur Brisbane of New York, the highest salaried editorial writer in the world, to address the federation on Friday afternoon. The leading cost systems experts of the land will address the meeting. Such subjects as "Workmen's Compensation Mutual Insurance," "Credits," "Printers' Fire Protection," etc., will be thoroughly treated. Fred W. Gage of Battle Creek will conduct the question box at each session.

The Michigan Women's Press will have a very interesting program.

Between 700 and 800 newspaper people and members of the printing craft are expected to attend. Grand Rapids printers, newspaper and supply houses have raised a large fund and will generously entertain all who come.

It is expected that Ray K. Moulton, the leading humorist of the middle west, will officiate as toastmaster at the annual banquet.

Grant Goodrich of the Jas. Bayne Co. is chairman of the Grand Rapids entertainment committee.

Carlzen, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcements of the date. Adv. 6tf

IRON TON.

Mrs. Swain Smith is visiting Mrs. Grant Hammond this week. Watch for further announcements of the church supper to be served by the men.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ogden and family visited at the Flanders' home Sunday.

The fine weather last Sunday brought out an unusually large attendance at church.

Mrs. Lou Sheldon, of East Jordan, visited her mother, Mrs. G. MacDonald, Saturday and Sunday.

Jack Jardine has a badly swollen hand caused by a lead pencil being accidentally run into it.

There will be no session of the Mountain school the latter part of the week, on account of the primaries.

Mrs. Clinton Bowen and daughter, Miss Ruth, returned Saturday from the Petoskey hospital. At present they are with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hammond.

A. B. Ball, has organized a Y. M. C. A. society in Ironton with a charter membership of fifteen.

The following officers were elected: President, Ross Alexander. Vice-president, Oral Coblentz. Secretary, Lester Coblentz. Treasurer, Clarence Coblentz. The club meets every Wednesday night for bible study.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

Majestic Theatre

Wednesday Evening, March 10

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Presents

Wm. A. Brady Feature

"A Gentleman From Mississippi"

IN FIVE ACTS

Featuring Tom Wise as the Senator

This famous plays deals with Washington's Social and Political life, as well as love, adventure and lobbyism

Mason's Dep'tment Store

JUST ARRIVED

New Spring Petticoats 75c to $1.50
All Colors

Jersey Silk Top Petticoats $5.00

Organdie Collars 25c, 50c, $1.00

25c and 50c Buffing Collar and Cuff Sets

Tipperary Veils, each 50c

Special Saturday Only

6c Calico at 5c

JUST RITE CORSETS

$3.50 and $3.00 Corsets $2.00
$2.00 Corsets $1.50
$1.50 and $1.00 Corsets 79c

GROCERY DEPARTMENT

40c, 45c, 50c, Brooms 33c

24 pounds Producer Flour 95c

1 barrel Producer Flour $7.25

12 25c Oranges 19c

25c Brooms 19c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

Make Your Home Attractive

ALABASTINE will make your home beautiful. Its rich, soft, velvety tints set off your pictures and furnishings to the best possible advantages.

ALABASTINE is an artistic, sanitary, lasting and economical wall coating. Easily applied to any interior surface, whether plaster, wall-board, wood, brick or canvass.

In White and 16 Beautiful Tints

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Mesdames Geo. and Edward Eagleton were visitors in Petoskey Monday.

Mrs. L. L. Dica left Friday for South Bend, Indiana, on a short business trip.

Mrs. Olaf Nordrum and Miss Annette spent Saturday with friends in Petoskey.

Mrs. A. B. Meech of East Jordan visited at the home of F. J. Meech over Sunday.

Jas. McGeagh left last Thursday for Chattanooga, Tennessee, on a two weeks business trip.

March came in like a lamb. If matters are governed by the old adage, she will go out like a lion.

Mrs. Joe Choon suffered a severe fall last week which resulted in cracking a bone in her left wrist.

Chas. Bush returned Friday from the eastern part of the state, where he had been for the past six weeks.

Rev. L. C. Vineyard, T. W. Milner and E. J. Smith were in Petoskey last week on short business trips.

Paul Heise broke a small bone in his wrist last week while scuffling, which will lay him up for a short time.

Mrs. Wm. E. Hampton is confined to her home on North Michigan avenue suffering from nervous prostration.

Mrs. B. P. Wilkinson visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Morrow of Central Lake, last week.

Mrs. Fred L. Slight returned Friday from Lansing, where she has been visiting at the home of her parents for some time.

F. E. Frazier, wife and daughter returned Friday from Whipple, North Dakota, where they have been for some time.

Supervisor J. E. Chew and wife of South Arm township was in the city Sunday visiting among friends and relatives.

Ernest Kibbe left Monday afternoon for Chicago, where he will resume his work at the South Chicago Coastguard Station.

Mrs. Benj. Brown and little daughter, Edna, left Tuesday for a short visit at the home of her sister and other relatives at Mancelona.

The W. C. T. U. will serve supper at the Congregational church dining hall Friday evening, March 12th. Watch for further announcements.

Jos. Salomon of Kalamazoo, representative of the firm of Hiling Bros. Everard Co., was in the city the latter part of the week on business.

Geo. Bero and wife returned to their home in Saginaw on Monday of last week after a short visit with Mr. Bero's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Choon.

A. T. Jeffery, wife and son, Floyd, arrived Friday from Gaylord, where they have been visiting for the past week, and have settled in their new home on State street.

There will be a mothers' meeting at the high school building Saturday afternoon at 2:30. An interesting program has been arranged and all interested are urged to be present.

Born, Sunday, February 21st, a son, Edwin Earl, to Mr. and Mrs. John McCann of this city, at the home of Mrs. McCann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Babcock of Petoskey.

A large number of the Tribe of Ben Hur were in attendance at the Baptist church Sunday evening, where they listened to an excellent address by the pastor, Rev. L. C. Vineyard.

Dr. R. B. Armstrong left last Thursday for Chicago, where he will do special surgical work in a hospital there. His daughter, Phela, accompanied him there and will visit her sister, Helen.

Mrs. J. F. Reed of Grand Rapids arrived in the city Monday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. E. Hampton, who has been confined to the house for a month past with nervous prostration.

The work of placing the new vaults under the offices of the county clerk and the register of deeds was completed Monday by Contractor W. F. Graham. The vault is a fine one, double walls and built of concrete throughout.

About fifteen Knights of Pythias drove over Thursday evening from East Jordan and attended the regular meeting of Pine Lake Lodge, No. 122. After degree work in both the first and second degrees, a fine lunch was served.

M. W. LaPeer and wife returned Friday from Fish Creek, Wisconsin, where they have been visiting at the home of their son, Clarence, for the past two months. They were accompanied home by their little granddaughter, Florence. Mr. LaPeer reports that his son is nicely located and doing a fine business in his new store.

O. W. Smith has a fine assortment of gold and silver plated work in the windows of the Ivy Drug Store. The work was all done by Mr. Smith at his place of business on Clinton street. He states that he is doing a lot of plating for the people of Charlevoix, but will be able to fill any orders that may be left with him. People wishing gold or silver plating work done will do well to see him about it.

Sheriff Chas. Novak made a hurry-up trip to Cross Village Friday. On account of the supervisors being unable to cross the ice from Beaver Island to the mainland the fore part of the week after their primary ballots and election supplies, Novak was compelled to take them to Cross Village, where he was met by the mail team from the island, which successfully made the trip across the ice on the following day.

Sunday Specials—Chocolate Ice Cream 25c, per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 91

Subscribe for the Courier.

NECESSITY OF GOOD ROADS.

With the incoming of motor vehicles our public highways assume a larger importance. Ten miles with a horse was a fair journey a few years ago. One hundred miles in five hours is a respectable average even with a moderately powered car today. With cheap machines both for pleasure and business, good roads are a social and economic necessity. The farmer can reduce the cost of living to the city by direct delivery if the roadway is properly built and repaired. Suburban life, however wide the circumference, no longer means isolation if rapid and easy transportation is possible. To look upon highway construction and maintenance as a fad is to have an entire misconception of modern requirements.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Notice.

My wife having left my bed and board without just cause, I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by her after February 15th.
Adv. 713—pd Johnnie Banniger.

People Ask Us
What is the best laxative? Years of experience in selling all kinds leads us to always recommend
Rexall Orderlies
as the safest, sweetest and most satisfactory. Sold only by us, 10 cents.
The Ivy Drug Store.

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

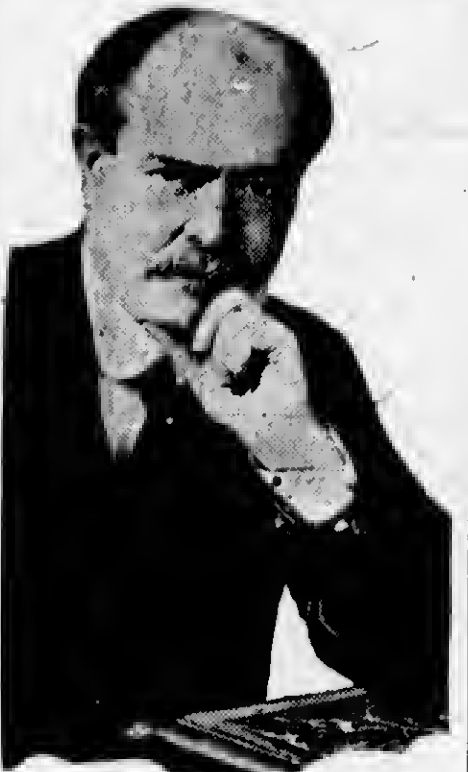

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

At across all improved 3 1/2 miles south of Charlevoix, good soil, building, and all orchard. For sale or rent. Terms cash. Shas. C. C. Pulchier, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan.

ILLINOIS ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

Plan of New Highway Statute Outlined by Governor Dunne.

The comprehensive system of roads in Illinois which the state highway department has planned was interestingly outlined recently by Governor Dunne in an address before the Association of Commerce. When the state roads plan is worked out, Governor Dunne said, there will not be a mile of road in Illinois which is more than four and one-half miles from a state aid road.

GOVERNOR EDWARD F. DUNNE.

"The question of good roads touches vitally the agricultural, commercial, educational, social, religious and economic welfare of Illinois and involves the conservation of natural resources," Governor Dunne said.

"In the improvement of its roads Illinois has much recently been indeed backward. Reports of the federal department of agriculture up to 1913 show that about 10 per cent of the 55,000 miles of Illinois road are improved in a permanent manner as against 35 per cent in the neighboring state of Indiana, 20 per cent in Kentucky, 28 per cent in Ohio and 50 per cent in Massachusetts.

"The loss to farmers because of the inaccessible primary markets and the abnormal expense of transportation due to bad roads must be considered as a contributing cause of the high cost of living. Bad roads keep pupils from the schools and voters from political gatherings and from participation in elections. They impair the efficiency of churches and social, fraternal and other organizations.

"The last general assembly placed upon the statute books a law which affords for co-operation between the state and counties in such a way as to encourage and develop road building. This law created the present state highway department.

"This department has been thoroughly reorganized. It has laid out the roads that will constitute the proposed state aid road system of the entire state, and maps have been made for about 11,000 miles of improved roads.

"The entire system of concrete and brick roads will cost the state, as the department estimates, $180,000,000, but the farmer's part of this will be only 8 cents an acre each year for twenty years to construct the entire system. He paying under the new road law 40 per cent of the cost of the system, the railroads, the villages and the cities paying the balance of the cost of construction."

Road Management Wasteful.
"Road management in the United States is wasteful and inefficient," said L. W. Page, director of the United States bureau of public works in a recent address. "Of the amount expended last year about $200,000,000 might have been saved by judicious management. The question of good roads is not local. It is a matter in which all should join, that the best thought and best talent should be turned to it."

Mr. Page quoted federal statistics showing that in 1914 the hard surface roads in the United States were increased by 18,000 miles, or three-fourths of the increase of national roads in all of France. Last year, he said, $205,000,000 was appropriated for public road building and that probably $225,000,000 would be set aside for that purpose this year, or more than $100 for every mile of public road in the United States.

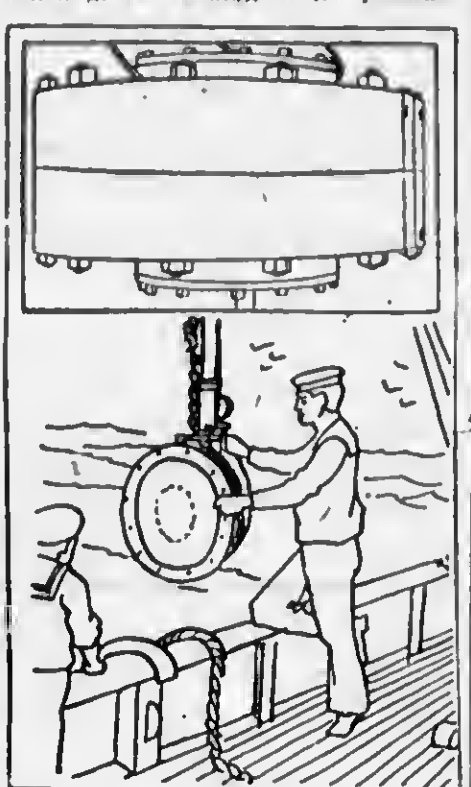

FOR SAFETY AT SEA.

Signaling Device That Gives Warning of Ships and Icebergs.

Through the application of a marine signaling apparatus, which during recent tests has demonstrated material possibilities it is believed the dangers of great sea disasters will soon be manifestly diminished, says Popular Mechanics. An electric oscillator, which announces the presence of an other vessel, locates icebergs, indicates sea depths and provides for the transmission of submarine telephone and telegraph messages, is an invention which is now being watched with great interest by navigators.

The device consists principally of a twenty-four inch metal diaphragm attached to a cylindrical case, within which is an electromagnet actuating a reed-sounder. The oscillators when in permanent position are placed in each of a ship's skin, beneath the water line, on both the port and starboard sides. Vibrations of the diaphragm communicating to a medium of water through sandh part of an inch and repeated will great rapidly throw out sound waves under the water, which may be caught by the receiving apparatus on another vessel. Signals of this kind have been heard at a distance of thirty miles, while at shorter ranges numerous telegraphic conversations have been carried on successfully. In one instance the experimenters actually talked between two ships.

ABOVE, DIAPHRAGM OF OSCILLATOR; BELOW, LOWERING APPARATUS AT RECENT TEST.

of danger. With a stop watch it is possible to estimate quite accurately the distance of these barriers, this being accomplished in one instance after the steam whistle on a revenue cutter had failed to obtain an echo when within 150 yards of a berg. While the foghorn has been of certain assistance to the mariner, it has also been an instrument which has terrified him. It told him that he was near danger, but rarely whether he was headed for it or running from it, because the air currents made it impossible to determine absolutely whether the sound was coming from one direction or from another.

The oscillator sending its vibrations through the water eliminates this. By listening from both sides of a ship it is easy to determine from what direction the strongest sound is coming, and it then is possible to turn immediately away from, for instance, the course of an approaching steamer. To illustrate the strength of the device, as already demonstrated, an oscillator, hung over the side of a tugboat, in a test made at the Boston lighthouse, received signals from a collier rounding Cape Cod, the message being transmitted in code under the water across Massachusetts bay.

Motor Trucks Versus Horses.

The Italian war department in its operations in Tripoli during the Turkish war of 1911 used 120 odd motor trucks, mainly for providing its armies and its transporting machine guns and light artillery. Operating as it did in a near barren country and unable to live off the land, it is asserted by officers who participated in this war—absolutely the first in which motor trucks had been used on any scale—that the speed and dependability of the trucks hastened the early termination of the war. Each one of the three ton "lorries" did the work of three to eight mule teams. Five thousand horses, it is estimated, could not have accomplished the same work under such conditions.—Engineering Magazine.

Throttling the Engine.

In starting a car do not open the throttle too wide. Two or three turns with the spark off and single turn with spark on will give the best start. Spinning the motor should never be done with the spark on. The object of "spinning" is to fill the combustion chambers with an explosive mixture, and this can be done with safety only when the spark is off. After the cylinders are filled a single pull upward will secure all the results of the spinning and eliminate danger from back kicking.

Coke Made in New York.

All the coke made in New York is made in retort ovens from coal mined in Pennsylvania. There are four establishments in the state, with a total of 555 ovens. Although New York lies entirely outside of the coal producing area, it was the first state in which were built by-product ovens, which save the gas, tar, ammonia, etc.

Proved.

A man had just picked up a half dollar when he was tapped on the shoulder by a shifty looking individual, who laid claim to the money. "How are you going to prove it belongs to you?" the latter asked. "Why, colonel," replied the tramp, "you can see for yourself; I've got a hole in me pocket."—New York Post.

The Moor and His Horse.

The horsemanship of the Moors is primitive and entirely successful. A Moor never walks when he can ride and never by any chance gets off to ease his beast. The Moorish horse always stands his night in the open. He is never groomed or clipped. His youth is passed wandering untended over the vast fields. When in work he gets all the barley he wants at night and a drink before his feed in the evening. From 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. he expects to work and to work hard without bite or sap. His saddle is a wooden tree superimposed on at least half a dozen balled blankets, the thickness of which often reaches six inches, and he never exps a sore back.

J. L. Crane

Special Purchase of

"ELITE" BLACK SATEEN

PETTICOATS

Elite Glove Fitting Adjustable Band. Never before offered on on any skirt at less than $1.00. We have a quantity of these just from the factory. All Lengths

65 cents

OTHER GRADES AT

$1 - $1.25 - $1.50

My friend came, and I did trust him
I lost my friend, also his custom,
To loose my friends, it grieved me sore,
So I have resolved to trust no more.

However I will sell all firstclass groceries as low as possible.
I have Flour at less than wholesale cost, for cash only,
and Granulated Sugar for

6 1-4 cents a pound, for two weeks only

White Lily Flour for 90 cents a sack

J. D. PARRISH

204 Antrim Street

Charlevoix, Mich.

Another Break in Flour Prices:

This will possibly be the last break before the new crop. If you are not supplied for a couple months, GET IT NOW.

Your home flours are the cheapest and BEST. Iron Duke can not be beaten by any flour on the market. Get one of the new sanitary sacks of DUKE and try it.

For Sale by All Dealers

If your dealer is out call up either mill.
The one nearest to you.

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

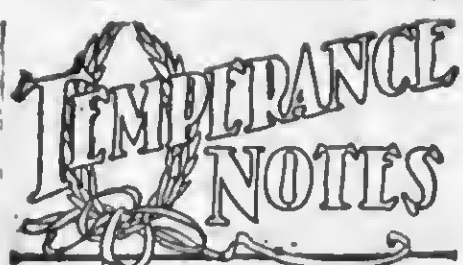

COME LET'S PLAY QUOITS

You toss your money and we'll toss you the finest doughnuts you ever tasted. They're ringers every time. If you have not given our bread a chance to speak for itself you have missed a rare opportunity of making your daily meals a delight. Everything in the first class bakery will be found here. We can supply you with staple groceries as well. Come in and look our lines over.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

WATCH IT GROW.

In Phoenix, Ariz., before the November election, all the liquor places put up a sign to this effect: "This building will be for rent if the 'dry' amendment carries." After election the saloon men refused to give up their leases, some of them opening drug stores, some soft drink stands, some restaurants. The law went into effect January 1. The day afterwards every baker and grocer in the city for the first time sold out his stock of bread, and the meat markets sold out their meats. Last year the arrests for drunkenness in Phoenix averaged 12 per day; on the day after the saloons closed, for the first time in its history the police court had no drunks.

Phoenix bankers also have a tale to tell. The day Arizona went "dry" the Valley bank, which suspended early in November, reorganized and opened up for business stronger than ever. The Citizens' bank, established by local capitalists, opened after the saloons were voted out. The Central bank, organized by eastern men after the election, filed articles of incorporation three days after the law went into effect and now occupies one of the "empty buildings." A branch of the Anchor Trust company of Wichita, Kan., was established after the state voted "dry." "Watch Arizona grow," say Arizonians.

"TOMMY ATKINS' PLEDGE."

The following "tetotal" pledge is being circulated among the British troops on the Arizona battle fields:

"Don't ask me

To take drink;

I've decided to be tetotal while

On service for my country.

"(Carry this with you and show it whenever asked to take liquor.)"

On the reverse side of the card is printed:

"Temperance Battle Card for the Great War.

"Recognizing that as army, navy and medical tenders have stated,

"Alcohol or drink is detrimental to health and efficiency,

"I promise, God helping me, to be tetotal while on service for my country.

—(Signed with witness).

—(Get a mate or the chaplain, or an officer to witness this.)"

DEMAND IS FOR SOBER WORKERS.

In a recent number of the Technical World is a contributed article entitled, "The Worker Who Drinks Must Go."

The editor, in an introductory note thus comments:

"Emperors, business men, social reformers are all agreed upon one thing—alcoholic drinks work positive harm.

A single glass of beer lowers a man's efficiency 7 per cent. Imagine what strong wine, gin, or whisky will do.

The up-to-date employer will not keep men who drink even 'in moderation';

the secretary of the navy will not allow them on our warships; every commander in the field today is leading a sober army.

Everywhere the brains of the world recognize that alcoholic liquors weaken both muscle and mind power."

PROSPERITY IN ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Georgia, is the largest dry city in the country, and the capital of a state in which the sale of liquor has been prohibited since 1907. In that year the realty transactions of the city were $91,840,350; in 1913 the amount was almost double—$172,292,

004. Building permits for 1907 aggregated

$4,554,771; in 1912 they reached the sum of $9,987,444. Corresponding increase in all lines of business is recorded.

The tax rate shows significant reduction.

NEAR THE TOP OF THE WORLD.

The "farthest north" local Woman's

Christian Temperance union is in Dawson,

Yukon territory, only about one hundred miles from the Arctic circle. It was organized in 1913 by one of the national organizers of the society and is doing active work for temperance—"living, working, gaining new members," writes the president, "and corresponding with the Ottawa office in regard to the observance of Sunday closing of saloons." Plucky!

CHURCHES AND BREWERIES.

Did you know that over ten times as much money is spent in building churches as in building breweries? This,

at least, is the record for the first four months of last year. According to no less an authority than the American Contractor, a building trade journal, in that period the brewers spent $429,000 in building operations and the church people spent $4,

380,986.

PERTINENT QUERY.

What is the difference, asks an exchange, in moral quality between keeping a saloon and running advertisements of whisky and beer?

A Great Service

It Was Rendered by a Typist

By F. A. MITCHEL

Harry Beale and Jennie MacArthur had the same advantage as to education—that is, they both went to the same public school. Harry was a poor scholar, and Jennie was a good one. Harry would be out with the boys, playing marbles for keeps or plugging tops, while Jennie was getting her lessons and Harry's too. She wrote his compositions for him, made his grammar diagrams—indeed filled the cup of his deficiencies so far as those deficiencies could be filled by another.

In this way she dragged her way through the grammar school. He was considered by his teachers weak in spots, they not knowing that the spots were parts of his school work in which Jennie could not do for him. The two children went to the high school together, and there it was the same, only the work being more difficult, Jennie failed to get him on as before, and he had a harder time of it every year till the fourth and last, when his record was so bad that it was decided by his parents to take him out of school.

By this time both he and his sweetheart had outgrown childhood, and something of formality had come between them. On dropping out of school Harry considered that it behooved him to thank his cousin for the assistance she had given him, but how to do this was a question. He was neither apt as a speaker nor as a writer. He chose the latter course, however, because he shrinked from the ordeal. Many a letter makes a breach wider because the writer lacks the courage to stand up and face the enemy in the open, but fights behind pen and paper. This is the letter Harry wrote:

"WHAT AM I TO DO?"

Dear Jennie—Permit me to express my heart felt thanks for the valuable assistance you have so long given me in my studies. I am confident that had all the work been written exercises you could have pulled me through. It was the orals that downed me. I am going to work if you could have got me a diploma I might have been a lawyer or a doctor or something of that sort. As it is I can only grub in the dirt. Any way I shall try to make money so I may some day be of benefit to you. Yours sincerely,

HENRY BEALE

Jennie's eyes moistened on reading this letter. She had hoped for Harry's sake that she might pull him along far enough to get him into college and that there he might serve through by himself. Now, as he had put it, he must grub in the dirt. She put his letter in a little Japanese box some one had given her for Christmas and went about her own work with her usual steadiness of purpose.

Having graduated at the high school, Jennie, being expected to make her own living, entered upon a course of teaching. She could not afford to go to college, but while she taught, the lower grades prepared herself by home study for the higher ones. Being naturally bright, she made good progress and, being gifted in imparting knowledge, advanced steadily. Nevertheless the pay of most teachers is not great, and $300 is as high a salary as Jennie ever received.

Harry obtained a position in a feed store, with the prospect of lifting bags, thereby getting his clothes covered with a white dust instead of wearing the neat apparel of a doctor or a lawyer. One day Jennie went just the store where he was employed, and seeing him roll a barrel across the floor, sighed at the failure of her efforts to lift him to something better. But Harry, if not gifted to learn from books, had a natural faculty for making a bargain. As a boy he had a faculty, as has been mentioned, for gathering up himself all the tops and marbles of the other boys, and as a youth he continued to show the same trait in making a profit out of every thing he touched. He soon left the feed store and bought out with a handful of cash and a touch of credit business for his self. But before he had got settled down to it he sold it at a profit, thus bought something else. Every one said: "Harry Beale will never get on in the world. He is a rolling stone and will gather no moss." At one time he would be a contractor, at another a farmer, though he never kept a farm long enough to prove that he knew anything about farming.

He did not forget the sweetheart of his school days, but it seemed to him that one of such inferior intellectual capacity as himself should not aspire to a woman so far above him in brain power. Or rather it occurred to him that, he and Jennie having passed out of childhood, this difference in them would separate them further and farther as they grew older. A woman, he argued, must look up to her husband; the moment she looks down upon him she ceases to love him.

But Henry Beale is not the first person who has attempted to analyze the female human heart to find that it is not to be analyzed. At any rate, there is a multitude of exceptions to all rules that can be laid down concerning it.

Miss MacArthur continued to teach on a salary that was no more than she required to live on. She had no especial faculty for making a dollar serve for two—indeed, it was all she could do to make it serve for one. Though she possessed high intellectual capacity, the demand for it was not great. She lived in a small place where only mediocrity was required. What use therefore were her attainments?

Meanwhile Henry Beale, engaged in groveling pursuits, was extending them. His bank account was all the while growing and his operations all the while enlarging. He was not quite thirty years old when he had a small army of employees about him. He did not need to send out misspelled letters, for he had a dozen typists in his command, any one of whom could put in excellent English whatever he chose to say, and, being systematic, he had made Webster's Dictionary the rule of his office. He had no occasion to regret not having learned to spell, for he could hire spellers for a song. When he wrote his communications, instead of dictating them he felt sure that "business" would not be spelled "bizness" or "excellent" "exsellent."

One day Beale met a friend of his old sweetheart, who told him that Jennie was wearing herself out teaching. Harry wondered if she would not in her poverty consider such a stupid man as himself for a husband. Unfortunately his old distaste for facing a superior intellect being again stood in his way. He could not write the English language or spell any better than he had done a dozen years before. If he proposed to his old sweetheart he must either do so verbally or by means of a dictated letter, for he had never had time to learn to use a typewriter himself, and if he had had time it would not have helped his spelling. Since he could not master courage to propose to one he considered so far above him he was forced to use the latter plan. He wrote out his proposal—it seemed altogether too sacred to dictate—and gave it to a typist to put in proper shape on paper.

Miss MacArthur received a beautifully printed document from her school-boy lover declaring that his love was as strong as ever; that he was aware he was her inferior and if she married him she would look down upon him; that he wished to serve her, and the only condition under which he could do so was as her husband. Would she marry him? Not a word was spelled incorrectly; not a sentence was larded.

The day after this letter was sent Mr. Beale called his typist into his office. She carried her implements with her, supposing she was to take down a dictation. On entering she saw at once that her chief had received a setback of some sort. He handed her a letter from Jennie MacArthur addressed to him stating that she had no reply to make to a typewritten letter on such a subject as a proposition of marriage.

"What do you think of that?" he said, wearily.

"I think that it is a very proper statement of the case."

"What am I to do?"

"If I were you, Mr. Beale, I would send the letter you gave me to put in type."

"Corrected by you?"

"Corrected by no one."

Mr. Beale groaned. "And that is your advice?" he said.

"It is. If this lady will accept you she will accept you as you are and not as what you are not."

"But her reply shows how she regards me. She will decline my proposition."

"She will not."

"Why do you say that so confidently?"

"Because her reply indicates that what is between you and her is too sacred to be transmitted by a third person. Had she intended to decline your proposition she would doubtless have not been particular about who wrote it."

"Very well, Miss Morton; please send her the original letter."

The letter was sent and a reply was received written on the back of the letter Beale had written his sweetheart when he left school. Miss MacArthur began by saying that she had treasure his letter for a dozen years as the nearest to her heart of anything she possessed. His proposition was accepted, and it was evident from the tone of the reply that the lady believed was becoming more so by the hour.

On the receipt of this message Mr. Beale called his reader into his office and handed her a check for $1000. He told her the lady asked what it was for.

"For the greatest check you have ever done me," was the reply.

The Old School.

"It's an advertising writer of the old school."

"You mean a liar?"—Judge.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—fifth installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

1 May Manton Pattern $2.60

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 percent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Grange Column

Ironton Grange.

Ironton Grange, No. 707, held their meeting February 23rd with Worthy Master Grant Hammond in the chair. The following officers were absent: Gatekeeper, steward, chaplain and L. A. steward. One application for membership was presented. The special committee reported $15.73 from the dance. Motion made and carried that the grange hold a masquerade dance March 17th. Lecture hour consisted of songs, stories, readings and recitations. Grange closed in due form. Visitors always welcome.

Carizea, Ladies' Tailor, 214 Park avenue, Petoskey, will show spring styles and samples in Charlevoix. Watch for further announcement of the date. Adv. 6tf

Marion Center Grange.

Marion Center Grange, No. 956, met February 26th with Worthy Master Smith presiding. The grange adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this grange nominate J. C. Ketchum for president of the M. A. C., to succeed President Snyder, resigned.

Resolved, further, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the board of control of the M. A. C. and one to the Michigan Patron.

Lecture hour consisted of recitations, songs and readings. One candidate was instructed in the first and second degrees, after which grange closed in form to meet again in two weeks. Attendance, 15. Visitors always welcome.

Remember that we save you money on sweaters, sweaters, pants, jackets, overalls, gloves, mittens—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

Wilson Grange, No. 719.

The regular meeting of Wilson Grange was held Saturday evening, February 27th, with twenty-eight members present and one visitor from Peninsula Grange.

The meeting was called to order by W. M. Frank Smith and the office of assistant steward filled.

During the business part of the meeting several bills were presented and a communication read in regard to grass seed prices.

The lecturer's program consisted of a few songs, readings and recitations, followed by a discussion of the question "Which is Best, the Money System of Building Roads or the Old Pathmaster System?"

Grange closed in form.

Will Deliver Special Sermon.

Next Sunday morning at the Baptist church the pastor will deliver a special sermon to home-makers, to which all are most cordially invited, but a special invitation is extended to the fathers and mothers or other home-makers of our city. The home is the most important institution in this world and should be made the first of all our studies.

If You are troubled with heartburn, gases and a distressed feeling after eating take Rexall's Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal and you will obtain prompt relief. Sold only by us.

The Ivy Drug Store.

MICHIGAN FRATERNAL CONGRESS

At the regular meeting of the Michigan Fraternal Congress, held recently in the Tuller Hotel, Detroit, officers were elected for the ensuing year. E. H. BROWN.

MARK T. MCKEE, President; E. H. BROWN, Vice-President; T. McKee, Secretary; Albert V. Droeble, Treasurer. In addition to the officers, the members of the executive committee are: Grant Stacey, Ancient Order of Clergymen; Jules W. Hearn, American Insurance Union; A. H. Gansser, Loyal American of the Republic; Paul Tice, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; A. B. Mackachon, United Commercial Travelers.

Since the recent campaign against the so-called fraternal constitutional amendment, in which all the societies operating in the state took part, there has been a remarkable feeling of mutual co-operation between the various fraternal organizations.

Resolutions of thanks to the press of the state were adopted for the manner in which they took up the fraternal cause during the campaign. A program of progressive action for the extension and conservation of fraternal interests was mapped out and a banner year is predicted.

THEATRICAL

K. of P. Minstrels.

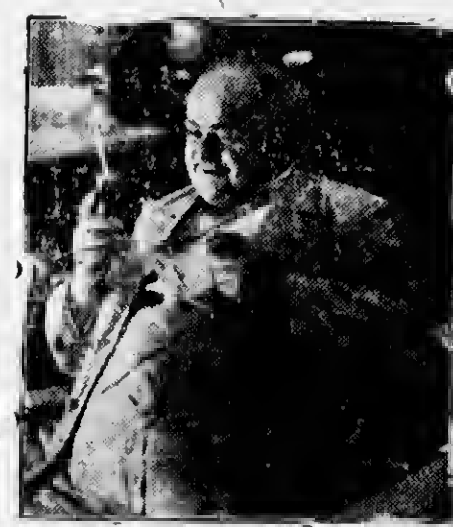

The cast of characters for the minstrel show are rapidly being whipped into shape for one grand entertainment. Many of the best popular songs will be rendered by a cast of singers picked from the best in Charlevoix's amateur world. Not one dull moment will be allowed in the whole entertainment. The curtain will rise on the minute advertised and you want to be there right at the start.

Jokes of unparalleled superiority will make the show a certain "scream." Every blackface will help drive the blues away. Persons wishing to purchase tickets early can do so from the members of the K. of P. lodge.

Programs are being arranged and bills will announce the particulars next week. Secure your tickets early and be a booster for the only amateur play produced this past winter. The prices are in reach of all and the entertainment will be worth double the admission. Fourteen popular and the latest songs are listed, with monologues, speeches and dancing. Remember the date, Thursday, March 18th.

"A Gentleman from Mississippi."

The story of "A Gentleman from Mississippi" revolves around the adventures in Washington of a newly-elected senator from Mississippi—fat, jovial Bill Langdon, who is sent to the capitol by the "trust" interests as an easy mark. The old gentleman, a cavalier of the old school, has a high sense of honor and, seeing through their schemes, defeats them and comes off victorious in a fight that threatens to destroy him financially, politically, and, what was even more vital to him, to smirch the honor of his family. His daughters become infatuated with social life in Washington and the elder becomes engaged to a congressman, Norton, who has persuaded his fiancée and her brother to invest their money. Old Langdon discovers Norton's treachery and breaks the engagement.

"Bud" Haines, a bright young newspaper correspondent in Washington, has become acquainted with Langdon and becomes his private secretary. Knowing the perils of Washington political life, he steers the old man safely past the reefs and captures his younger daughter.

The old man falls a victim to the charms of a dashing widow, while the pert young stenographer, who furnishes quite a bit of the comedy, surrenders to a persistent young reporter.

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvass gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 8tf

WILL BE UP TO THE PEOPLE

Whether or Not the City of Charlevoix Will Have a Hospital.

Question Will Be Submitted to Voters at the April Election—Our Body Needed.

Shall Charlevoix have a hospital? That it needs one is apparent to everybody. Other cities of less population than Charlevoix have one and why not Charlevoix? The question has been discussed pro and con. Last summer a number of our summer visitors, all property owners, met with the council and urged them to take some action regarding the matter. Every man present that evening was ready to make a liberal donation towards its yearly running expenses, and others consented not only to do this but to share in the expense of furnishing one in a modern manner.

The council has had the matter under advisement for some time, and at their last meeting decided to let the voters settle the matter, rather than to take the initiative in their hands.

At the coming April election a ballot will be prepared upon which will be printed the question, and the voters will have an opportunity to say whether or not one will be erected. If a majority vote yes, immediate steps will be taken toward the building of a modern hospital.

Additional Locals

Read "Zudora."

R. L. Lewis left Monday for Grand Rapids on a short business trip.

J. S. Baker attended a banquet given by the Elks at Petoskey Tuesday evening.

B. A. Herman returned Saturday from an extended visit in Chicago and other points.

Mrs. Elmer Mayne of Bellaire was a guest at the home of R. C. Squires the latter part of the week.

F. V. Alexander and wife returned last week from an extended visit to points in Canada and lower Michigan.

Hon. A. Butters and wife left Monday for San Diego, California, where they will spend the remainder of the winter.

Are you looking for the best? You can find it at the Methodist church Saturday night. The Marshes always please.

The Steamer Beaver is undergoing minor repairs preparatory to the coming season's run between this port and Beaver Island.

Captain O. E. Wilbur will leave the latter part of the week for a short visit at the homes of his son and daughter in Chicago.

The Gregory & Benton Real Estate Agency reports the sale of the Jerome Cole 120 acre farm, south of town, to Wm. N. Lewis of Boyne City.

Will B. Scroggie, who has been visiting at Mackinac Island for the past week, was in the city Tuesday, returning to the island Wednesday, to rejoin his family.

The Masons will give another one of their old time dancing parties at their Temple, Friday evening, March 5. All Masons, Stars and their families are specially urged to attend.

On Tuesday Mr. Mathews, the head orchard man at the Waller farm, served an oyster dinner at the Waller Inn for the employees on the farm. The dinner was cooked and served by Mr. Mathews and was highly appreciated by all of the boys who partook of it and they are unanimous in voting three and a tiger for Mr. Mathews.

Cottage Renters.

People having cottages or rooms for rent in any part of the city, to be used either for rooming purposes or light housekeeping, can undoubtedly secure a tenant if they list their property with me. I am getting many inquiries daily. —Mrs. J. S. Baker. Adv. 9tf

Sul-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 7tf

KILLS A WILD CAT

Fred Reinhardt, a Deer Lake farmer, seeks Bounty Offered by State.

Fred Reinhardt, a farmer living near Deer Lake, brought to the court house Tuesday a good sized wild cat, which he had killed in the woods near his home.

This is the first wild cat that has been killed and brought to the county clerk for the bounty of $3.00 which is offered by the state for over nine years.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few sets—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

WHAT IS IT?

A Feeling Based on the Instinct of Self Preservation.

That well known investigator of psychological abstractions, M. Fernande Muzade, has attracted much attention by a discussion of the query, "What is fear?" The famous psychological playwright, Alfred Capus, who has dealt with the human emotion with such fidelity in his masterpieces, writes:

"In general, I think that when there is an accident or an illness one has not a sufficient perception of the peril to have the feeling of fear. Fear implies a consciousness of danger and the refusal or moral impossibility to face it. Fear consists in capitulating to the instinct of self preservation."

M. Victor Marguerite says: "Fear is a physical trouble much more than a feeling" and can ultimately be overcome by force of will. M. Alfred Meziere of the French academy considers that fear is caused by some unexpected danger. M. Pouchet of the Academy of Medicine doubts whether any man has ever been quite free of fear for himself or for others.

M. Sicard, who is a professor at the Faculty of Medicine, considers fear or courage to be the result of temperament, training and thought. Fear can be partially eradicated by reasoning and education, but it will never be overcome in its most acute form—namely, the instinct of self preservation. The conclusion is that it is far from being unanimously admitted that fear is a ridiculous malady.—Philadelphia North American.

OUR FIRST NEWSPAPER.

It Was Published in 1690 and Lasted Just One Issue.

The first newspaper printed in North America was Publick Occurrences, which issued its first and only number in 1689 in Boston. The publisher, Benjamin Harris, proposed to get it out monthly, but the authorities came down on the project "like a ton of brick," and Harris had to abandon the scheme.

Publick Occurrences was printed on three pages of a folded sheet, the pages being 7 by 11 inches in size. It was "Printed by B. Harris for Benjamin Harris at the London Coffee House" in Boston. The authorities alleged that it contained "reflections of a very high nature," and within twenty-four hours of the appearance of the first number the editor and publisher was solemnly warned that a repetition of the offense would merit severe punishment.

"That Memorable Occurrence of Divine Providence not to be neglected or forgotten, as they too often are," and "That people everywhere may better understand the Circumstances of Publick Affairs, both abroad and at home," Harris founded his journal, and it was a pity that he should have been thwarted in his design "that the Country shall be furnished once a month or if any Glint of Occurrences hapned oftener, with an Account of such considerable things as have arrived unto our Notice."—New York World.

Woman's Logic.

You sometimes wonder about the logic of the feminist mind.

A man was to meet his wife at her office at 1 o'clock to take luncheon with her. He was twenty minutes late. She had gone out.

He sat down and waited. At 1:30 she arrived.

"What are you doing here?" she asked.

"I'm waiting for you."

"Didn't you know I wouldn't come back after I'd given you up and gone out?"

"But you did come back, didn't you? You are back now, aren't you?"

"Yes, but you might have known that when I did come back I would have had my lunch and there would be no use in waiting to have it with me."

"Well, have you had it?"

"No"—Denver News.

Reasonable.

Lord Esher, who when president of the English court of appeal used to keep up a running fire of chaff on learned counsel, sometimes got a Roland for his Oliver, as when a young barrister in the course of argument stated that no reasonable person could doubt one particular proposition.

"But I doubt it very much," said the judge.

The youthful advocate, not one whit abashed, replied, "I said no reasonable person could doubt it."

The master of the rolls could only gasp, "Proceed, sir, proceed."—London Express.

All He Wanted to Know.

"Maria, I'm going to have Dr. Squill treat me for my heart trouble."

"What do you know about Dr. Squill, John?"

"All I know about him is that Mr. Gotsum recommends him to me."

"Who is Mr. Gotsum?"

"Mr. Gotsum is one of the stockholders of the life insurance company that is carrying a $20,000 risk on my life."—Chicago Tribune.

Making an Acquaintance.

In illustration of the ways of the east side of London the following true story is told: A certain club for working girls in the east end of London had recently elected a new member, and one day the secretary happened to look out of the window and was surprised to see the new member rush up to a strange lad in the street, punch him violently on the head and then run away.

The secretary remonstrated with her sharply to which the new member made reply: "I'm very sorry I won't do it no more if it's within the rules, but perhaps you would mind telling me, then, how and I ever to get engaged?"

FOR SATURDAY ONLY

6c Calico 5c a yard.

Limit—10 yards to one Customer

Mason's Dep'tment Store

"THE STORE OF QUALITY" AND GOOD SERVICE

Everything in the line of Groceries is fresh in Our Store

Special for Saturday

IN OUR MEAT DEPARTMENT

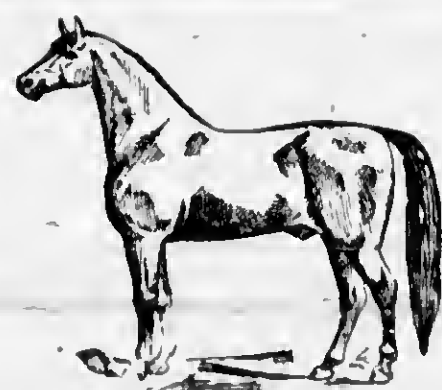

Pickled Pigs Feet, per pound . . . 8c
Choice Pork Liver, per pound . . . 5c
Choice Pork Spare Ribs, per pound . . . 11c
Swift's Shoulder Hams, per pound . . . 11-12c
Swift's Skinned Hams, half or whole . . . 15c
Swift's Bacon . . . 18c
Pure Lard in 10 lb. pails, per lb. . . 12-12c
Choice Saff Pork, per pound . . . 12-12c

We have choice

ORANGES BANANAS
FANCY GRAPE FRUIT
APPLES CELERY LETTUCE

C. DANTO SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69
Quality Service Honest Prices
WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

HORSE SALE

AT

O'LEARY'S BARN
SATURDAY, MAR. 20

Commencing at 10:00 o'clock

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

NOTHING PAYS BETTER

DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 10

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

CITY IN NEED OF A HOSPITAL

Cost of Building Would Not Be a Burden Upon Anybody.

Proposition to Raise Money in Build One Will be Voted Upon at April Election.

Charlevoix needs a good modern hospital and needs it badly. It will cost something, to be sure, but why should any red-blooded citizen quibble over a seventy-five hundred dollar venture of this kind when the lives of many good people would be saved through the investment?

To get such an institution as this it will be necessary to raise the money by taxation, as Charlevoix does not possess a single philanthropist to donate a building and equipment, as have Petoskey, Cadillac, Grayling and some places of less size and poorer prospects.

With this condition confronting the people the only means left to them to raise the money is by taxation. The books of the city treasurer show that the assessed valuation of the city of Charlevoix is $2,364,640. Now, according to the resolution passed by the common council to raise not more than $7,500.00, the amount per thousand assessed valuation would be $3.18. In order to get down to the point where it will be understood by everybody, the citizen who owns a home that is assessed at $1,000.00 would have to pay $3.18, which would not be a burden upon anybody.

The question now arises, can the people of the city of Charlevoix afford to deprive themselves of the services of a good hospital for the paltry sum of $3.18? When a sickness or accident comes there is nobody who would think of courting death for a $3.18 saving. Human life is too valuable to even stop to count the cost under any condition.

At the present time the nearest hospital is at Petoskey and as a result from two to four hundred dollars go out of the city and county every month for hospital fees from our citizens. There have also been instances where lives could have been saved had there been adequate hospital facilities at hand when the accident occurred.

A hospital is always ready for emergencies, while a home never is. Then why take the risk with yourselves the certain loss when the hour of need really comes? The county has built and equipped a county infirmary for the care of the aged and indigent poor and it is a safe guess that there is not a single taxpayer in the county who has ever begrudged a cent that they have put into that institution. The infirmary is a credit and honor to the county and stands as a monument to the humanity of the people. If it is so easy to provide the means for taking care of the indigent and aged, why should it not be equally easy to provide the means for properly caring for the producers of the county when sickness or accident falls to their lot?

It is certainly in harmony with progress and humanity to do everything possible to conserve the lives and health of the citizens of Charlevoix and vicinity. Not only have we the health of our citizens to carefully guard, but also that of the thousands of summer visitors who make Charlevoix their home during the summer season. One of the first questions asked by prospective summer visitors is in regard to the city's ability to take care of them in case of sickness or accident. Many who own most property here have volunteered to donate liberally each year toward the running expenses of a hospital, besides helping out in equipping one in a modern manner. Almost to a man they have agreed to do all in their power to assist in the building of a hospital. They realize its need far more than do our citizens, and if Charlevoix expects to have them spend their summers here they must provide a place where they can be given the proper care in case of sickness or accident.

Every citizen of Charlevoix should vote "Yes" when the proposition to build is presented to them at the coming April election. Such an act will not be a burden, but a privilege which every one should be prompt to avail themselves of when the opportunity is presented.

As a protection to yourself, your family and friends, cast your vote in favor of the building of a modern hospital.

Grape Fruit..... 10c. dozen
Oranges..... 17c. dozen
Ginger Snaps..... 1 lb. for 25c.
Adv. 1011 Mrs. R. W. Miller.

Read "Zudora."

DEATH OF MRS. FERGUSON

Had Been a Resident of Charlevoix County for a Great Many Years.

The long and useful life of Mrs. Amelia Ferguson, wife of William Ferguson, passed out Tuesday morning of last week at her farm home on the Petoskey road after suffering from dropsy for some months.

Mrs. Ferguson was 69 years of age, and since 1879 her life had been passed in this vicinity. She was born in Ontario, and ever since her marriage to Wm. Ferguson in 1879 she has resided in Charlevoix county. For over twenty-three years Mrs. Ferguson and her husband conducted the Ferguson House in this city, moving to the farm where she died some five years ago.

She is survived by her husband, one son, William Ruffe of Chicago, three brothers and two sisters. The funeral services were held from the farm home Friday at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. E. Taggart officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

Had Fine Meeting.

The mothers' meeting held at the high school Saturday afternoon was well attended and many excellent papers were listed in the program. It is planned to have an evening meeting in the near future, at which time the husbands, as well as all others interested in the welfare of the schools, will be extended a special invitation to attend. An excellent paper by Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, which was read at Saturday's meeting, will be published in the columns of this paper in its next issue.

PAPER MUST BE PAID FOR

If Subscriber Accepts a and Reads It Each Week.

Ohio Judge Renders Decision That Sets Clear Much Misunderstood Point.

Judge George Thomas of Columbus, Ohio, recently decided that if a man accepts a paper that is sent him he must pay for it. The decision was rendered in a case brought by the Columbus Telegram against a man for $2.35. The Telegram had been sent to the man's home and he had accepted the paper. When called upon to pay for it he refused and suit was brought. When Judge Thomas heard the evidence he instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the Telegram.

Judge Thomas rules that the old common law principle that what a man received and used was bound to pay for applied in this instance.

We can cite hundreds of such cases in every state. Supreme courts have also passed on such contentions and it certainly seems that only the most ignorant would attempt to evade payment when the only defence they have is that of not having ordered the paper or of not agreeing to take same after subscription had expired.

Also, going still further into the law, we wish to state that the subscriber must pay all back subscription due before he can legally refuse to take the paper from the postoffice. The courts have also held that removing and not notifying publisher to change the address and then refusing to pay for the papers not received is prima facie evidence of intent to defraud.

We have heard complaints of subscribers who state that it is impossible under the present laws to stop a publication. There is absolutely no ground for such complaints, because if a subscriber will only pay up and then refuse to take the paper from the postoffice or the postman, the postmaster must notify the publisher that the paper has been refused, and the publisher must cease to send the same.

Auction Sale.

Jerome Cole will have an auction sale at his farm, one mile southeast of Barnard church, on Wednesday, March 24, commencing at one o'clock. His entire stock of farm implements, horses, cattle, etc., will be sold to the highest bidder. Remember the date and attend. The regular list will be published in this paper next week.

There will be a ten-cent tea at the home of Mrs. Harry Nicholls on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 for the benefit of the Charlevoix equal suffrage association. Adv. 1011

Buy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

MAY L. STEWART WINNER IN RACE FOR SCHOOL COMMISSIONER

Has One of the Largest Majorities Ever Given a Candidate in Charlevoix County--O. D. Hammond Winner in Contest For Road Commissioner--Result of Primaries in the City of Charlevoix.

If the race set by May L. Stewart, the first woman in Charlevoix county to enter the political arena in county politics, is to be followed in the future by other women who may have aspirations along this line, they will have to go some. That she is some politician, too, is quite evident judging from the big vote she received in practically every precinct in the county.

Prior to primary day Stewart supporters claimed that they had the other candidates pushed off the map, but did not think that their candidate would win by the avalanche of votes that were given her. When the votes were finally counted, the result was as follows: Stewart 1458, Milford 369, Bashaw 353, Kaden 283, Gracey 27.

In the race for county road commissioner, O. D. Hammond was the winner, although his opponent showed that he had been busy gathering in the votes. The count was Hammond 1279, Courler 1012.

In another column will be found a tabulated statement of all votes cast in the 25 precincts in the county.

One of the chief features both in the county and city primary was the large vote cast. In the first ward of the city, 106 votes were cast, in the second 321, and in the third 192, a larger percentage than has been cast in years.

In the city primary many of the political forecasters fell down on their predictions. It was generally conceded that Mayor Nicholls would again be re-nominated, but when the ballots were counted it was found that he was 37 short from being a winner. Up to almost the last minute there was little open work done by either candidate, but a political campaign in Charlevoix without the side attractions seems to be an utter possibility. The first shot was fired by those opposing, the present administration, and the answer to it did not materially improve matters, other than to keep the political pot red hot.

Mayor Nicholls has worked faithfully in the interest of Charlevoix during his two years as mayor, and when he turns the office over to Capt. O. E. Wilbur, he can rest assured that his efforts have been appreciated. However, the position of mayor is not a new one to Capt. Wilbur, he having served in the same capacity during the year 1909-10. Other offices in which there were contests were those of clerk and treasurer. All candidates rallied their friends to their support, with the result that John Cook was nominated to succeed himself as treasurer, as was also Peter E. Vandermaede as clerk.

A real live scrap was on in the third ward between William Graham, Geik C. Geiken and Capt. Harrison Berdan for supervisor. The result was that Capt. Berdan won out by a majority of 26. Below is given in tabulated form the vote of all candidates in the three wards:

First Ward
Mayor--
Nicholls.....	49
Wilbur.....	56-6
Clerk--
Vandermaede.....	61-21
Emrey.....	40
Treasurer--
Cook.....	70-35
Cooper.....	35
Justice of the Peace--
Cooper.....	92
Supervisor
Meech.....	87
Alderman--
Sec.....	76

Second Ward
Mayor--
Nicholls.....	99
Wilbur.....	126-27
Clerk--
Vandermaede.....	121-11
Emrey.....	110
Treasurer--
Cook.....	130-39
Cooper.....	91
Justice of the Peace--
Cooper.....	203
Supervisor--
Zeitler.....	203
Alderman--
Cartier.....	104-3
Harsha.....	101

Third Ward
Mayor--
Nicholls.....	88
Wilbur.....	104-16
Higman, S.....	2
Clerk--
Vandermaede.....	107-34
Emrey.....	73
Richardson, S.....	2
Treasurer--
Cook.....	106-22
Cooper.....	84
Sanford, S.....	2
Justice of the Peace--
Cooper.....	150
Ashdon, S.....	1
Supervisor--
Graham.....	41
Geiken.....	33
Berdan.....	110-36
Francis, S.....	3
Alderman--
Adams.....	71
Shapton.....	106-35
Bogart, S.....	1

Precincts	County School Commissioner					County Road Commissioner
	Milford	Stewart	Bashaw	Kaden	Gracey	Hammond	Courier
Bay.....	2	49	6	5	1	48	5
Boyer Valley.....	15	46	10	15	3	27	13
Chandler.....	6	41	0	0	0	29	13
Charlevoix.....	0	23	1	1	0	12	13
Evangelino.....	1	17	0	4	1	11	11
Eveline.....	12	109	2	21	1	52	91
Hayes.....	11	69	1	4	0	48	22
Hudson.....	3	67	6	9	2	42	41
Marion.....	11	56	3	8	2	24	42
Melrose.....	6	37	3	2	0	12	36
Norwood.....	5	0	47	1	0	50	3
Peaine.....	35	12	35	1	2	69	4
St. James.....	16	74	34	6	1	48	71
South Arm.....	15	47	5	4	1	31	25
Wilson.....	7	33	4	17	0	23	23
Boyer City, 1st Ward.....	11	65	9	39	1	58	57
Boyer City, 2nd Ward.....	12	75	10	58	4	58	79
Boyer City, 3rd Ward.....	10	100	20	62	1	79	88
Charlevoix, 1st Ward.....	22	61	12	3	0	68	24
Charlevoix, 2nd Ward.....	42	119	35	13	2	131	62
Charlevoix, 3rd Ward.....	32	94	39	6	0	116	62
East Jordan, 1st Ward.....	16	47	21	2	0	49	30
East Jordan, 2nd Ward.....	19	78	1	1	1	58	38
East Jordan, 3rd Ward.....	56	119	34	4	1	103	94
Total.....	369	1458	353	283	27	1279	1012
Majority.....		426				267

Will Handle Baked Goods.

Ilen Yettaw has put in a full line of baked goods from the McCann bakery for the convenience of the general public. This, in connection with the full line of confectionery goods, will make a store where the people of Charlevoix can obtain practically everything they need in this line.

Sunday Special--Ice Cream, Strawberry flavor, 25c per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv. 101f.

Forming Good Spelling Habit.

The county spelling contest between Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix is developing into one of the best contests ever participated in by these schools. Last week Boyne City received first honors with an average of 99.21, Charlevoix was second with 99.15 and East Jordan third with 99.03. Some very beneficial results are also being noticed in the general ability of the local students to master the good spelling habit.

VICTIM OF CARBOLIC ACID

Harley Ochs Buried Severely By Breaking of Bottle Containing Liquid.

Harley Ochs, pharmacist at the Central Drug Store, was the victim of a peculiar accident Sunday, in which he came near losing his eyesight.

He had filled a small vial with carbolic acid and was putting in the cork, when the bottle either broke or there was a hole in it, and portion of the acid flew into both eyes, blinding him in an instant. In spite of the great pain he was in, he reached for a bottle of alcohol and applied some of it to his eyes, partially counteracting the effect of the acid.

Although he suffered a great deal from the burns, they will not prove serious and he will be able to resume his work in a few days.

TAXES SLOW COMING IN

Percentage That Are Being Returned Unpaid Will Run High.

County Treasurer George W. Weaver reports that Jas. Cook of Marion township was the first treasurer to reach his office with the taxes of his township. Many are coming daily, and his office is one of the busiest places in the city.

More taxes have been returned this year than for a long time. Many farmers and business men who have always paid their taxes when due in previous years, have allowed them to be returned this year. In the township of Evangeline over 24 per cent. of the taxes have been returned unpaid, and in many other townships the percentage will run high.

ICEBOAT HITS CRACK IN ICE

While Going at Least Fifty Miles an Hour on Pine Lake.

Sam Hamilton, Wife and Mrs. Charles Raber Have Bad Accident Friday.

A party of Charlevoix's lovers of ice-boating had an experience last Friday afternoon that will keep down their desire for the sport for a time at least. Samuel Hamilton and wife and Mrs. Charles Raber had made the run to Boyne City and were on their return when the accident happened. Off shore from Sequenote there is a large crack and a place where the ice has piled up. On their way over they crossed in safety, but on the way back conditions were changed. The high wind had apparently moved the ice until the crack had enlarged considerably. The iceboat was going at least 50 miles an hour and when this place was reached they did not discover that the ice had moved until they struck it.

One runner went into the crack and brought the boat to a sudden stop. Mrs. Raber and Mrs. Hamilton were sitting on the "lazy back" and Sam was at the tiller. The sudden stop threw Sam from his position onto the lazy back, striking on his head. Mrs. Raber was thrown some distance, but Mrs. Hamilton escaped unharmed. Sam struck the corner of the seat or the corner of the seat struck Sam, with the result that he is carrying around a badly bruised forehead and a pair of black eyes that would put a hospital to shame. The boat was smashed to smithereens and the entire party had a miraculous escape from serious injury.

BURIED AT IONIA

Remains of Andrew J. Timmer, Who Died Wednesday, Taken to Old Home.

Andrew J. Timmer died at his home on Antrim street last Wednesday night about 10 o'clock after a short illness, a hemorrhage of the brain being the direct cause.

Mr. Timmer and family moved to Charlevoix from Grand Rapids about a year ago, and during last season was employed in the Miller meat market. Later he was engaged by Martin Block, where he was working at the time he was taken sick. He was about forty years of age and leaves a wife and two small children.

Short funeral services were held from the house Friday and the remains taken to his old home at Ionia for burial.

Mackinaws, $2.50 to $5.00 while they last--Benj. Brown. Adv. 7tf

FOUND DEAD IN HORSE STALL

John Race, Pioneer Resident, Stricken by Heart Trouble.

Death Had Occurred Some Time Before Body Was Discovered by Visiting Neighbor.

The dead body of John Race, a pioneer resident of Eveline township, who lived a mile south of Ironton, was found in the stall in which his horse stood last Sunday morning by Charles Skey, a neighbor, who had gone to his home to visit with him.

Skey and Race had made arrangements to go to an auction sale the early part of the week and were to drive Skey's horses. During the latter part of the week one of the horses to be driven was kicked, injuring it to the extent that it could not be used, and Skey made the trip to the home of Race to notify him of the accident. When he reached the house he found that no one had been there during the night and, as it had snowed shortly before, no tracks around the house were discernable. He knew that Race had a horse and went to the barn, where he found the dead body of his friend lying in the stall.

From the condition the body was in, it was evident that he had died either on Friday or Saturday, as during this time no one had seen Mr. Race, nor had anyone visited at his home.

Sheriff Novak and Coroner Wilkinson were immediately notified and, upon examining the premises, found no trace of anything other than that Race had died from natural causes. They brought the remains to this city, where they were placed in S. M. See & Sons' undertaking rooms. Later examination showed that Race had died from valvular heart trouble.

John Race was a pioneer resident of Charlevoix county, having come here from Wisconsin over thirty years ago. He was about sixty years of age and had lived alone on his farm for the past eighteen or twenty years. He is survived by a son and daughter. The daughter, Mrs. John Glaza, arrived on the 4:25 train Monday evening from Hastings and took charge of her father's remains.

Funeral services were held from the Baptist church Wednesday forenoon at ten o'clock, Rev. Lloyd C. Vineyard officiating. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

HELD ON APRIL 23

Second Annual Older Boys Conference at East Jordan This Year.

Those interested in the matter can be sure that navigation on Pine Lake will be open by April 23rd. The second annual older boys conference opens at East Jordan on that date and, as the transportation facilities afforded by Pine Lake are necessary for the gathering of the older boys of the county, the committee has promised to open navigation with a blow torch if nature has not done her duty by that time. At the last meeting of the East Jordan conference committee, sub-committees were appointed to have charge of matters locally and keep things right up to date. Any boy who is 14 years of age or over can register as a delegate to this big event. Registration cards and further information will be mailed to all eligible boys.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Friends Help Mrs. Alson Wood Celebrate Her 72d Birthday.

A very pleasant surprise party was tendered Mrs. Alson Wood at her home Saturday by her old time friends, the occasion being her 72d birthday.

One of the features of the afternoon was a guessing contest of ages, which was enjoyed very much, the oldest lady present being 81 and the youngest 50. A dainty repast was served which all enjoyed, and all joined in wishing Mrs. Wood many more happy birthdays.

Better Go

to Ironton next Friday evening and take supper at the Grange hall at 7 o'clock, to be served by the men of the Ironton church. A good time and a good supper. Adv. 10t1p.

The motion pictures of the "Man Who Came Back," at the Majestic, March 17, will be the talk of the town. Better see them. Adv. 10t1.

COME LET'S PLAY QUILTS

You toss your money and we'll toss you the finest doughnuts you ever tasted. They're ringers every time. If you have not given our bread a chance to speak for itself you have missed a rare opportunity of making your daily meals a delight. Everything in the first class bakery will be found here. We can supply you with staple groceries as well. Come in and look our lines over.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

Correspondence

CLARION

Miss Gladys Stoops was quite sick last week.

Mrs. Scott of Potoskey visited at D. H. Geyer's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. August Johnson drove to Boyne Falls Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Johnson, who was very sick last week, is much improved.

Clinton Young has rented the Gruellier farm and will move there soon.

Rev. J. W. Stanton was unable to fill his appointments Sunday owing to sickness.

Walter Masters of Walloon returned Sunday from a business trip to Grand Rapids.

The ladies' aid will give a ten-cent supper at the home of Mrs. Hough on Friday evening.

Mrs. Mary Williams of Resort visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Holly, last week.

John Older, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Kate Older, has returned to his home at Leesville.

Frank Miller has secured the contract for carrying mail on the Star route between here and Walloon Lake for the four years beginning July 1, 1915.

A large crowd attended the Hard Times social given Friday night at the Clarion House by the Epworth League. J. Whiteford secured the prize for the worst-dressed person.

In the basketball game, Elmira vs. Walloon, at Walloon on Saturday night the score was 11 to 6 in Elmira's favor. Walloon will play Boyne Falls at Walloon on Saturday, March 13.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 50c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

HAYES.

Mr. and Mrs. D'Ooge returned home Sunday.

Henry Ostrum had a paralytic stroke last Saturday morning.

Mrs. Oron Cook and children visited at her mother's Sunday.

Mrs. Jones Lewis visited Mrs. John Brown of Charlevoix last Saturday.

Fred Erfourth was called home last Saturday on account of sickness there.

Mr. and Mrs. Platt Webster visited at Mr. and Mrs. Jones Lewis' Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris called on Mr. and Mrs. Jones Lewis last Sunday.

HEED THE WARNING

Many Charlevoix People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are weak they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder many days of suffering may be saved. Weak kidneys usually expel a dark, ill-smelling urine full of "brickdust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys often cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Donn's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. There is no better recommended remedy.

Charlevoix people endorse Donn's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. R. M. McKeel, 214 Mason street, Charlevoix, says: "I had been troubled for several months by kidney disease. My body bloated quite badly and I had weak back and severe pains in my kidneys. My rest was broken at night. I finally got Donn's Kidney Pills at the Ivy Drug Store and they gave me relief in every way."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Donn's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McKeel had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

A few friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Nason spent a very pleasant Saturday evening, at their home, playing cards.

Mrs. J. Saunders left for St. Charles, Illinois, last Friday. She was called there by the illness of her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. Johnson.

About thirty attended the Reading club at the home of Miss Adams last week. Mr. Ezra gave a very interesting talk on "Hunting in the Jungles of Panama."

Chas. Skye found John Race dead in his barn Sunday a. m. Sheriff Novak, Dr. A. M. Wilkinson and M. A. MacDonald were summoned. The body was taken to Charlevoix where an inquest will be made.

Remember that we save you money on mackinaws, awateers, pants, jackets, overalls, gloves, mittens—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

Township Caucus

Notice is hereby given that a caucus will be held at the Hayes township hall Thursday, March 25th, 1915, from 2 till 5 p. m. for the purpose of nominating township officers and the transaction of any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

Adv. 1022 By Order of Committee.

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Ruby Hooker)

Miss Kathleen Bugbee and Miss Edna Srigley visited the normal room Thursday afternoon. Miss Srigley was a member of the 1914 class.

The training room children are studying "Daffodils."

Miss Hazel Pearl entertained the normal class Monday afternoon with an ice-cream party. It was a new experience to many of the class.

Ward Genett was absent Wednesday on account of a bad cold.

Miss Ruby Meeker was elected assistant clerk of the "house of representatives," which the class organized some time ago.

Miss Cora Driggett entertained the normal class with a supper at her home Saturday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated in the class colors, green and white.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness, work clothing, trunks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 7tf

Board of Education.

February 23, 1915.

Special meeting of the board was called to order by President Kane for the purpose of hiring a fireman to take the place of Mr. Perry, who had the misfortune to fall and break his arm.

Trustees present—Kane, Nordrum, Glassford, Hampton and Hillier.

Moved and second supported that George Pappin be hired as fireman and repairman for the balance of the season at $40 per month. Motion carried.

These minutes were read and approved and on motion the board adjourned.

E. J. Hillier, Secretary.

March 2, 1915.

Regular meeting of the board was called to order by President Kane.

Trustees present—Kane, Nordrum, and Hillier.

Absent—Hampton and Glassford.

The treasurer's report shows a balance on hand of $4,394.45.

The following bills were presented and read:

GENERAL FUND
S. Y. Gilman & Co., book	1 50
John W. Kirtley, repairs	50
Baker Paper Co., paper	46 08
School Board Journal, subscrip-	2 00
tion
Metropolitan Fire Extinguisher	2 02
Co., supplies, insurance	17 50
Cecil Fiedler, janitor	22 50
A. M. Dutton, janitor	7 50
Mrs. A. O. Allison, janitor	20 00
George Pappin, janitor	15 00
Joseph M. Hillier, janitor	1 00
J. R. Ross, janitor	10 11
LIBRARY FUND
A. M. Dutton, janitor	5 00
TEACHERS' FUND
Otal Nordrum, teachers' pay roll	790 98
	$ 944 59

Moved and supported that the bills as read be allowed and the secretary be instructed to draw orders on the various funds for the amount of each respective bill. Motion carried.

These minutes were read and approved and on motion the board adjourned.

E. J. Hillier, Secretary.

CHARLEVOIX FOLKS

ASTONISH DRUGGIST

We sell many good medicines, but we are told the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-I-Ka, is the best we ever sold. Charlevoix folks astonish us daily by telling how QUICKLY Adler-I-Ka relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation. Many report that a SINGLE DOSE relieves their troubles almost IMMEDIATELY. We are glad we are Charlevoix agents for Adler-I-Ka—B. A. Heriman, druggist.

When People Ask Us
what is good for nerves and lost weight, we always recommend

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion
containing Hypophosphites
a food tonic and tissue builder.
The Ivy Drug Store.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TURKEY DRESSING.

DINNER MENU.

Clam Bouillon
Olives
Roast Turkey With Chestnut Dressing
Cranberry Jelly Baked Potatoes
Brussels Sprouts
Tomato Jelly Lettuce Salad
Apple Pie Cheese
Coffee

ALMOST every family has its preference as to the dressing to be used with the turkey. Several of the most popular are suggested here. Sage Dressing.—Place in saucepan three ounces of butter, one onion chopped very fine and a little browned and half a loaf of bread soaked in milk; when well soaked take out, squeeze and add one-half teaspoonful each of sage and thyme; work together, then add four eggs, salt, pepper, autumn and chopped parsley.

Shellfish With Turkey.

Oyster Dressing.—Take one loaf of bread, scald it with boiling water; take the liver of the turkey, one pint of oysters, two stalks celery, one raw egg, two-thirds cupful of butter; mix and chop very fine; season to taste.

Chestnut Dressing.—Shell and blanch three cupfuls of French chestnuts and cook until soft in salted boiling water. When soft, drain them and wash with a potato ricer. Add to them one-quarter of a cupful of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a teaspoonful of pepper and one-quarter of a cupful of cream. Moisten another quarter cupful of butter and mix with one cupful of cracker crumbs, then combine all.

Too Rich For Dyspeptics?

Sausage Dressing.—Take twelve large roasted chestnuts, two links of pork sausage, three cupfuls of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one tablespoonful of butter, two eggs and milk as needed. Hold the sausage links under cold running water, then split the skin and the meat will come out clear. Fry this in a splendor until lightly browned. Shell and pound the chestnuts or run through food chopper. Add to sausage after draining off fat. Crumble the inside of bread to make the required amount. Moisten with just enough milk to soften. Beat the eggs well, then combine sausage and bread.

Select Ingredients Carefully.

Celery and Nut Dressing.—For a twelve pound turkey take one-quarter pound of chestnuts, three apples, two sticks of celery, one onion. All should be minced fine and put on fire, smoothed until onion becomes of a yellow color. While this is being prepared a loaf of bread from which the crust is removed is placed in cold water for five minutes and then the water pressed out thoroughly. This mix this with the other preparation, to which is added three eggs, pepper and salt, pinch of nutmeg, tablespoonful of poultry seasoning and all mixed thoroughly.

Anna Thompson

Oil Leakage.

Some people think there is little wrong with a motorcar provided it keeps going, and the fact that it throws oil at the bottom of the garage drive or at the ends of the gear box is considered a point of small moment, while tappet leakages are also ignored. In the early days motorists put up with a good deal, but nowadays most people like all the mechanism of the car to be clean, and oil leakage, therefore, is by no means desirable. Gear boxes can be made to hold oil properly, but some people think that it is essential to use thick grease in the gear box and thereby waste an appreciable amount of power. Good oil retaining gear boxes, however, are far superior and should be fitted to every car.—Auto Dealer.

Cornered the Market.

A long hulled chip who walked into the general store at Quinsaid: "Do you sell state eggs?" "No," said the grocer, with a smile. "But I've got some."

"Well, give me all you've got," said the stranger.

The grocer as he bundled up the eggs laughed and said: "I guess you're going to see 'Hamlet' tonight at the Opera House?"

"No," said the stranger grimly. "I'm going to play 'Hamlet' tonight at the Opera House."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Laughter.

The men and women who can laugh together can take over almost any disillusionment, almost any bitterness. Not a chuckle, not a ripple of merriment, but a great, soul-drenching laugh that leaves them limp, wet-eyed and helpless, will turn any a domestic tragedy into wholesome farce.—De Auditor.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

will relieve your indigestion. Many people in this town have used them and we have yet to hear of a case where they have failed. We know the formula. Sold only by us—25c a box.

The Ivy Drug Store.

SAFETY FIRST

YOUR pocket is not a very good depository for your money. It does not pay interest and it allows your money to be constantly subject to loss by theft or accident.

We will not only protect your money against loss but will pay you 4 per cent interest, so that the money you save will be constantly increasing.

With the Opening of the Springtime, open an account with this bank.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President

W. J. Rachow, Cashier

Archie Livingston, Asst. Cashier

H. S. Harsha, Vice President

We Take Pleasure

in announcing that we have been selected by The County Derry Linen Co., of New York and County Derry, Ireland, as their sole representative for their celebrated make of Pure Irish Linens.

This Trade Mark appears on every piece of genuine Derryvale Linen, and is your guarantee of good wearing Pure Irish Linen.

DERRYVALE Pure Irish Linens

come in the following variety of weaves, in a wide range of designs and qualities, each quality the standard of value:

Damask Table Cloths	from	to	per cloth
Damask Table Napkins	"	"	per dozen
Scalloped Table Cloths	"	"	per cloth
Bleached Table Damask	"	"	per yard
Bleached Huckaback Toweling	"	"	per yard
Crash Toweling	"	"	per yard
White Linens	"	"	per yard
Checked Glass Toweling	"	"	per yard
Hemmed Glass and Tea Towels	"	"	per dozen
Brown Dress Linens	"	"	per yard

We want you to come in and inspect the Derryvale Linens. Compare the qualities, the designs, the prices with ordinary unbranded, unguaranteed kinds, and you will be convinced of Derryvale superiority.

Ask in person or send for the Booklet "The Linen Closet," which tells how the best Irish Flax is spun into Derryvale Linens, and how by proper care you can make your Linen Closet a thing of beauty and joy forever.

J. L. Crane

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

NOTHING PAYS BETTER

DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

LIVE STOCK AND DAIRY.

Be sure you are not keeping two head of stock where you have grain and roughage to winter only one. It is better to keep one animal well than to half keep two.

Would it not add to the health of yourself and family if you would select some of the choicest, smoothest and healthiest hogs from your herd and feed them those rations which are clean, pure and wholesome, then kill these animals for your winter's meat supply?

The business farmer likes the type of stock that brings the quickest and most sure returns. That's the reason the dairy cow is so popular with men of this kind.

The cow that is allowed to fall off in her milk flow is seldom made to regain it at a profit.

The abused cow is always the ugly cow. Likewise the ugly cow has nearly always been made that way by abuse.

PATENTS

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or not free. Send model, sketches or photos and description for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Look references.

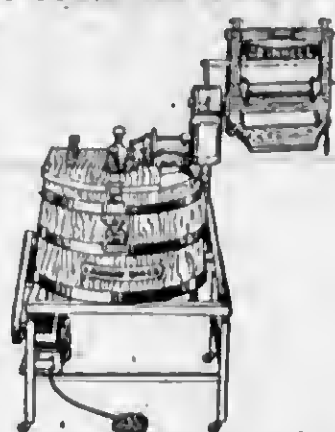

PATENTS BUILD FORTUNES for you. Our free booklets tell how, what to invent and save you money. Write today.

D. SWIFT & CO.
PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

WARNING

You have less than ninety days in which to purchase fruit trees, berry plants, roses and other nursery stock for spring planting. Order at once before the best varieties are sold out. Be sure that what you plant is healthy, healthy and true to name. The safest way to buy direct from an established nursery. We have been growing trees and plants at Monroe since 1899, sixty-six years. Lowest Prices. Largest Stock. Highest Quality. The Michigan Nursery Company, Winkworth & Son, Agents, Winkworth & Son, Monroe, Michigan.

Do You Dread Wash Day?

LET US INSTALL AN
Electric Washer and Wringer
Will not cost you a cent if the machine fails to wash and wring perfectly without hand rubbing and wringing. We guarantee our machine for five years. See our line

$45.00 and up

You take no risk in buying one of our machines

F. S. Bettles

214 Bridge Street

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND
Largest Ask Your Druggists for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold wrapper. Take no other. Day of your cure. CHICHESTER'S PILLS, for 25 years known as Best, Safest, Always Reliable. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. S. K. SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 108 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building

Over Levinson's Store

Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

of Charlevoix County

Twenty years Experience

Maps and Plats on Short Notice

VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

R. B. ARMSTRONG

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 253 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention

Office in Bank Block

Telephone No. 5 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $20,000,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his advance in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he conspires to get rid of him. Zudora, however, is saved from being convicted of a murder by the intervention of Hassam Ali himself. Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shai's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora tells Nabok Shai, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A maker of diamonds tells Hassam Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassam Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond maker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mice.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are fleeing because a skeleton head appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's parents. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by Bolton. Storm opportunely appears and saves her from Bolton.

Hassam Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns in her hand. An old house is mined by Hassam Ali and the old men. Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up.

CHAPTER VI.

The Case of the McWinter Family.
In a room in an ordinary dwelling a woman sat before a sewing machine. The low hum of it filled the room with a murmur like that of many bees.

The woman's husband, seated at a table near by, was reading and smoking, and he looked up absently each time the humming ceased temporarily. He frowned, shifted and resettled his pipe.

"Are you crying again?" he growled, laying down the pipe. "I'm getting tired of your constant snivel-snivel." He rose and walked over toward her threateningly. He shook a finger under her nose.

"That man has got to get out of this house or I'll know the reason why. He bothers me every time I look at him. I tell you he's got to seek another boarding house. I don't want his hangdog face around any longer."

"Hangdog?" she protested.

"That's what I said. There'll be a rumour if he doesn't bke."

"You are wrong—you are wickedly wrong," said the wife. She wiped her eyes on her apron. "Just because he speaks kindly to me and pets the child you act like an insane man. I've lived for you. I've done everything a woman could. What do you do? You sit and read all day."

"That's a lie!" the man roared. "I'm not an ordinary workman, and there's very little demand for my work."

"So I've noticed," dryly.

"I don't want any back talk. All I say is that man Smith has got to get out. I won't have him on the premises after his week is up."

The tears began to run down the woman's cheeks again. "You were a different sort of man before you took to drink."

"Your whining'd send any man to drink. Now you two are always wailing, and when I show up you break up and begin to talk of the weather. Maybe you think I'm a fool?"

"John McWinter!" she cried with passionate indignation.

"That's right, work up the injured look. But the martyr stuff doesn't go with me, Sally. I've got eyes, and I've been using them. He goes at the end of his week, and that's all there is."

"You're going to bring you that stick of candy tonight."

"Goodly, goodly! Can I eat it, can I?"

"Yes, dear. To the man she said."

"How long? How long?"

"Keep a stiff upper lip, Sally. We'll stretch out this middle in time. It looks to me like McWinter isn't quite right in his upper story. If we could get him away from his whiskey there might be a chance. But he's an innu who has been too long. They say at the laboratory that they'd be glad to give him steady work if they could trust him."

"Don't, don't!" pleaded the wife.

is to it. He's got the child running around after him as if he and not I was the father."

"That's because he is always kind to her and never strikes her unjustly, as you do."

"Hush! a man got a right to correct his own offspring. I'd like to know?"

"It she gets in your way you box her ears. If she does not come instantly when you call her you use the whip. Can you blame the child for not loving you as you expect?"

For herself she did not care; she had no illusions left, but where her child was concerned she was something of a housewife. She did not want the fairy tale beliefs knocked out of the little one's head before her time.

"Stop snivelling. The man's coming. I'd be just like you to play the beaten wife when he comes in. Perhaps it wouldn't be a bad idea to give you a whack once in a while. Then maybe you'd have something to snivel about."

The man who was the innocent cause of this conjugal arrangement came in his laboring man's lunch basket under his arm. His expression was that of a man who had done his work that day faithfully and welcomed the coming of evening.

He nodded pleasantly. He saw the red eyes of the woman, squinted his shoulders for a moment and passed on.

"Humph! I notice that you don't snivel while he's looking at you."

"How can you talk to me like that?"

"I'll talk to you as I please."

"You are always in the house. You are watching every move I make as if I wasn't a good woman. When I married you I loved you. You were an analytical chemist who every one said would make a mark in the world, but drink has thrown you on the reefs. And sometimes I hate you!"

He caught her by the shoulder and swung her out of the chair and raised his arm.

"Here, here, McWinter!" cried a voice from the doorway. "None of that while I am in the house. You ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

"This is my woman. I'll strike her if I want to."

"Oh, will you?"

The boarder sprang forward and caught the upraised arm, giving it no gentle wrench as he bore down upon it. That was enough for McWinter. With a snarl like a wolf he closed in. Almost instantly his back met the door with a resounding thump.

"Don't! Don't!" pleaded the wife. "It will only make matters worse. You can't help me, Mr. Smith. Please go!"

"All right, Mrs. McWinter, but I haven't any use for a wife heater."

"You'll leave this house Saturday," said McWinter, picking himself up slowly. "Saturday night, and then you and your truck for the sidewalk. I've stood all I'm going to stand. Maybe you think I'm a fool, but I know what I know."

The beaten man slunk out of the house, cursing under his breath.

He realized that he would never get any satisfaction out of Smith in a game of stickfast; the latter was too strong for him. He'd get him where he wanted him some day, and that day wasn't going to be far off either.

He did not come home until midnight. He grunted drunkenly in the mirror as he yanked up his tie and cut his hair.

He wasn't a chemist for nothing; Smith would see. McWinter was a madman, and nobody suspected this fact.

The next morning he remained in bed with a splitting headache.

As Smith started out for his day's work he caught on the child and swung her aloft. She gurgled with happiness. Then he kissed her and set her down.

"I'm going to bring you that stick of candy tonight."

"Goodly, goodly! Can I eat it, can I?"

"Yes, dear. To the man she said."

"How long? How long?"

"Keep a stiff upper lip, Sally. We'll stretch out this middle in time. It looks to me like McWinter isn't quite right in his upper story. If we could get him away from his whiskey there might be a chance. But he's an innu who has been too long. They say at the laboratory that they'd be glad to give him steady work if they could trust him."

"Don't, don't!" pleaded the wife.

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"Sometimes I've been wicked enough to wish that he was dead!"

"None of that kind of talk, little woman."

"You've been so good to me!"

"Who wouldn't be? Remember, now, mmm's the word. Keep him in a good humor as much as you can, and when the time comes we'll fight out and let the fool shift for himself."

McWinter crawled out of bed about 10 o'clock, ugly and tattered. When his wife spoke to him he did not answer. She sighed and returned to her sewing machine.

But for the child she knew that she must have given up the struggle long ago. She did not want any shadow to fall upon that pretty childhood.

Her own had been unhappy enough and she was determined that the little one should not be disillusioned before her time.

Sometimes the machine stopped, and the woman gazed into the blue arch of heaven. To wish any one dead, no matter how cruel he might be, was a sin.

Clickety-clickety, clickety-clickety, sang the machine. From another part of the house came the happy laughter of the child.

McWinter left the house after drinking a cupful of strong coffee and stole along the road toward the woods, where he finally came upon a shack. It was rather peculiarly constructed.

There were no windows, and the door was abnormally thick.

The man went inside and remained there for half an hour. When he came out he appeared to be in good humor. An alienist might have been disturbed by the expression in the man's eyes. McWinter raised his hat toward town, shaking it and muttering:

"Spoon about my house, will you? Interfere in my affairs, huh? You wait, Mr. Smith. You just wait. Maybe you won't have to leave Saturday night. You'll go before."

Then he trudged back home. His wife was greatly surprised to find him in an amiable mood. It was so unlike him after a debauch. But she was glad enough to accept it at face value, being an honest and simple minded woman.

McWinter did odd jobs at the chemical laboratory in the village. He was an expert in certain departments, and occasionally the chief chemist risked the chance of sending for him.

It was noticeable that the derelict worked faithfully on these days, with the hope of continuous employment.

When afternoon came a telephone call arrived with it, and McWinter hurried off to the laboratory, rather pleased, too, to find himself temporarily placed over the man he hated so heartily.

The same amiability he had shown to his wife he now exhibited in a lesser degree toward Smith, who was rather astonished at the sudden turn of affairs.

"I'm sorry I lost my temper, Smith," said McWinter, rather solemnly. "But my nerves have gone to smash, and I'm imagining all sorts of things."

"Don't let that worry you," replied Smith, only too glad to bury the hatchet.

"We all lose our tempers once in a while. But you ought to be a little more careful of that wife of yours."

"I know it," humbly, all the while black murder in his heart. "We'll let bygones be bygones and go out some day for a hunt like we used to. There's nothing better than a good rabbit stew, and Sally knows how to cook it."

"I'd like nothing better," said the other man, believing in his heart that this new friendly attitude would aid in making one poor woman a little happier.

"I said something about you going on Saturday night. You just forget it."

"All right," said Smith.

At 5 o'clock McWinter left the laboratory—and went his way to the mysterious shack in the woods. For an hour he experimented with a new method of stickfast.

He was not a chemist for nothing; Smith would see. McWinter was a madman, and nobody suspected this fact.

The next morning he remained in bed with a splitting headache.

As Smith started out for his day's work he caught on the child and swung her aloft. She gurgled with happiness. Then he kissed her and set her down.

"I'm going to bring you that stick of candy tonight."

"Goodly, goodly! Can I eat it, can I?"

"Yes, dear. To the man she said."

"How long? How long?"

"Keep a stiff upper lip, Sally. We'll stretch out this middle in time. It looks to me like McWinter isn't quite right in his upper story. If we could get him away from his whiskey there might be a chance. But he's an innu who has been too long. They say at the laboratory that they'd be glad to give him steady work if they could trust him."

"Don't, don't!" pleaded the wife.

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

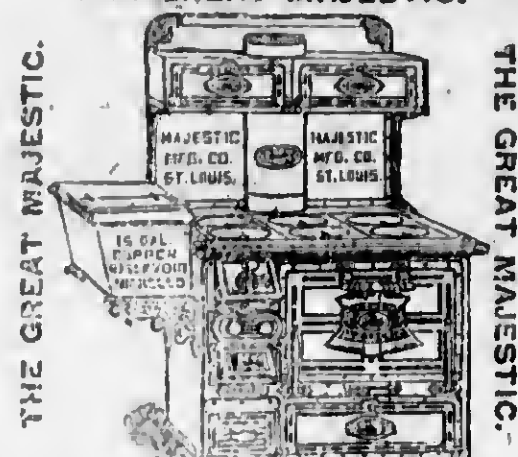

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

"I guess that'll fix you."

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the 'The Great Majestic'

THE GREAT MAJESTIC.

THE GREAT MAJESTIC.

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this wonderful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

Grit Your Teeth

AND SAY "I WILL"

IT takes Determination to make a start in the saving habit; it takes determination to keep it up, but the habit grows and becomes easier as ultimate success and competence become more and more apparent.

DETERMINE TO BE SOMEBODY

Start today to set aside your thrift fund. We welcome small or large accounts.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Butters A. F. Bridge

Co-Partners

Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted

Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2

111 Antrim Street

(Continued on page 6.)

Two Carloads of American Woven WIRE FENCE

just received. If you need FENCING this spring—get our Prices and special terms—they will interest you.

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Additional Locals on Page 8.

County Clerk Richard Lewis was in Boyne City Monday.

R. O. Williams of East Jordan was in the city the first of the week on legal business.

Ava Smith and wife of Chicago are in the city for a visit among friends and relatives.

County School Commissioner J. H. Milford was in the city Monday on official duties.

Olof Nordrum spent the week end in Cheboygan, Alpena and Mackinaw City on business.

Henry Sparling of Traverse City was in the city the latter part of the week on business.

Mrs. M. J. McCarthy left Sunday for Flint, where she will visit at the home of her mother.

Mrs. L. E. Johnson has purchased the Bell property on Mison street and will take possession in a short time.

Mrs. Henry Hilton left last week for Cleveland, Ohio, where she will visit at the home of her sister for the next four weeks.

Miss Marion Harris returned the latter part of the week from a two weeks visit in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and Chicago.

The offices of Myrtle Young & Son are being newly painted and decorated, and when completed will present a fine appearance.

Miss Anna McHugh leaves Friday on a two weeks visit among relatives and old acquaintances at Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids.

John A. Timmer and wife returned last week from Muskegon, where they have been spending the past two weeks visiting relatives.

David Howard and family will leave Thursday for Muskegon, where Mr. Howard will resume his work in the coast guard service.

W. H. Henley of Omaha, Nebraska, has purchased what is known as the Peacock farm, near Phelps, and took possession last week.

Mrs. I. Z. Merriam and Fred Slaght and wife have moved back to their Dixon avenue home from the Bartlett, where they stayed during the winter months.

H. P. Hansen of Marion township left last Wednesday for Grand Rapids to have his left eye operated on. It was found necessary to remove the whole eye.

Charlevoix life-saving station will open the season of 1915 Monday morning, March 15, at 12 o'clock. This is about 16 days earlier than the station usually opens.

Mason Rose and wife returned Monday from Saginaw, where they have

HINTS FOR PRESENTS.

How the Crochet Hook May Serve You Well.

If you crochet there are ever so many cozy and acceptable things you can make for the gift season. These articles include gifts for man, woman and child and really afford a larger selection in this respect than embroidered articles.

For the man who attends evening affairs there is the fine knitted scarf of silk to wear with his evening clothes and the silk or wool sweater for outing purposes. If the young man wants in cold weather there is the pair of heavy woolen socks to be knitted for him, the like of whose warmth he cannot find outside of the home knitting needle. Men, too, will wear knitted bedroom slippers, particularly the elderly men. They should be made without frills or ribbons and in a very close, plain, fine silken, so as not to look like "fancy work." These slippers should be knitted in dark colors, for a man will shy at pinks and blues.

Bed slippers are welcomed by all ages and both sexes, but particularly are they welcomed by the old people when the circulation becomes sluggish, the nights become cold and the sheets seem to be in sympathy with the outside temperature. These slippers should be knitted so as to come well up about the ankles. If they are rather light on the ankles they will be all the more snug. They are made without soles and are consequently not for use when walking about the floor, as are the usual soled knitted slippers.

Knitted gloves, too, are welcomed by the men and boys of the house, particularly if they are future lovers. The men will not, of course, wish to wear them along the city streets unless they be sufficiently elderly to disregard the fashions, but for outing wear these knitted gloves will be found to surpass the kid glove, no matter how warmly lined. For the school boy and girl they are excellent and can be made very attractive to the children by bright yarns.

Knitted hats that are quite new and made in the shape of the soft little turndown mushroom hats of felt can be crocheted in dark colors. These hats are ornamented with bands of grosgrain ribbon tied in regular hat-band fashion at the side. They are excellent school hats and well liked by the average boy. They are comparatively new. The silken is very close and fine. One frequently finds duplicates of the cut in the little fabric hats affected by schoolboys.

If crocheted in very fine stitches smart outing scarfs for girls, which they have recently been wearing in place of furs, can be made in dark woods. These are used as wide throw scarfs and are worn outside the coat. They are worn in dark blues, grays and browns usually.

There are socks, caps, socks, afghans, shawls, etc., that can be made for the baby. The baby will also welcome mitts.

Women, old and young, welcome sweaters, small knitted jackets to wear under the coat, bed and bedroom slippers, etc., to say nothing of the innumerable things which can be made of cotton and linen thread for the infants and the men's closet, etc. The woman who crochets need not look beyond her own skillful fingers and her glistering needle for a solution of the gift season problem.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THANKSGIVING PUDDINGS.

If no pumpkin pies are served a pumpkin pudding makes a timely Thanksgiving dessert. So, too, does any kind of fruit pudding. Some simple desserts are the following:

Served With Hard Sauce.

Pumpkin Pudding.—Into a pint of stewed pumpkin beat the whipped yolks of five eggs, two pints of milk, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and half a teaspoonful each of powdered mace, nutmeg and cinnamon. Last of all stir in lightly the stiffly beaten whites of five eggs, turn the mixture into a buttered pudding dish and bake until set. Serve hot with a hard sauce.

New England Pudding.

Baked Indian Pudding.—Put two cupfuls of milk in the double boiler. Rub one-third of a cupful of yellow cornmeal in one and one-third of a cupful of cold water. When the milk over the fire boils add the cornmeal and one-half of a teaspoonful of salt. Let it cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Then remove it from the fire and add three-quarters of a cupful of milk, mixed with one-half of a cupful of molasses. Then add one tablespoonful of butter, one well beaten egg, a little nutmeg or ginger. Turn this into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a very slow oven for three hours. Serve with cream or butter.

With Delicious Sauces.

Caramel Pudding.—Cook, stirring, three-quarters of a cupful of sugar until it melts and caramelizes. Add three-quarters of a cupful of water and cook until the caramel melts. Add one-quarter of a cupful of sugar and stir this occasionally until it also has melted. Soften one tablespoonful of gelatin in one cupful of cold water, and when the sugar has melted turn the gelatin into the softened caramel combination. Cool the mixture by setting it in a dish of cold water and add the strained juice of one lemon. Beat the whites of two eggs and gradually beat them into the gelatin combination. Beat occasionally until the mixture will hold its shape; then turn into mold. Serve with boiled custard.

Anna Thompson.

THEATRICAL

K. of P. Minstrels.

The biggest event of the season will be the Pythian minstrel show given at the Charlevoix Theatre Thursday night, March 18th, under the direction of Leon F. Brower. A cast of 31 will entertain with blackface jokes, singing, dancing and speeches. Every possible effort has been exerted to make the coming minstrel unequalled in its gaiety, galaxy, and splendor.

A beautiful setting has been arranged and, with the eccentric endmen, make-ups and costumes, a pleasing as well as fascinating scene will greet the eyes of those present. Harry Dodge as Mister Bones and Leo Carey as Mister Tambo will produce new features in their roles as endmen, being strongly supported by Merritt Miller, Milo Miller, Jay Adams, Frank Poole, Bert Carey and Lee R. Smith as the other comedians. The role of interlocutor will be handled by Leon F. Brower.

Otto Powers of Traverse City will add greatly to the cast of soloists. The latest song hits will please the hearers, and the chorus of 31 voices will be a winner. The blackface quartette will introduce popular medleys.

The reserved seat sale opens March 16 at 7 p. m. Curtain at 8:15 sharp, no sooner or no later. Secure your tickets from the members, and your patronage will be greatly appreciated. You will get double your money's worth in this entertainment. Remember the date—Thursday, March 18, at the Charlevoix Theatre. See programs for particulars.

At The Majestic.

Wednesday March 17, the Majestic will present "When Broadway was a Trail," a Shubert feature picture in five acts. The early days of New York are graphically told, bringing out the lives of our Puritan fathers and their ancient laws and superstitions of witchcraft. A thrilling love story mingled with privation, adventure and escapades add to the plot of the story. The leading roles are in the hands of Barbara Tennant and O. A. C. Lund.

"The Man Who Came Back," or the story of a tubercular victim's sojourn at the Modern Woodmen of America Sanitarium, in motion pictures, at the Majestic, Wednesday evening, March 17. It will be a treat.—Adv. 101

Notice.

To the Qualified Electors of Marion Township:

A caucus will be held at Marion township hall Thursday, March, 18th, 1915, at one o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating township officers and such other business as may come before the meeting.

William Withers,
Township Clerk.

101

EIGHTH GRADE TUITION.

All Boys and Girls of Michigan Should Have the Benefit of a High School Education.

Fifty thousand boys and girls are attending the high schools of Michigan. One-third of these live in the rural districts. The law provides that when a pupil has completed the eighth grade in the rural school his district must pay his tuition, not to exceed $20, to some high school in Michigan selected by the pupil. Application for this tuition must be made by the parents or guardian on or before the fourth Monday in June. The Department of Public Instruction calls attention to these facts in order that parents may plan for their children for next year. Send your boys and girls to high school. Michigan has good high schools in every part of the state.

But, first of all, keep your child in school now regularly, so that he will get thoroughly the work of the elementary grades. Success later in life is based upon a thorough mastery of the common branches.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

ANY person wishing to employ a competent stenographer who will be in a position to accept employment April 1, please call on Mr. J. H. Milford, 101 N. 1st St., Charlevoix, Mich.

FOR SALE—Light horse, buggy, harness and light sleighs. If taken at once $1000. See Joe Chubb at Charlevoix Rock Product company's plant. 101 N. 1st St.

WANTED TO RENT for summer season—comfortable cottage, well located, with 3 bedrooms, 1 or 2 bath, 2 porches, swimming pool, and good kitchen accommodations. Communicate with Mrs. L. H. Hershberg, 425 Drexel Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois. 102

J. L. Crane
Buy It Now

36 Inch All Wool Dress Goods

Next Shipment Will Be Higher Priced

DIAGANOLS

FINE SERGES

STORM SERGES

CREPES

50c yd.

Splendid Qualities and Colorings

Lt. and Dk. Grey Mixed

MAROONS

CARDINALS

NAVY BLUES

Copenhagen Blues

PURPLES

GREENS

50c yd.

Another Break in Flour Prices:

This will possibly be the last break before the new crop. If you are not supplied for a couple months, GET IT NOW.

Your home flours are the cheapest and BEST. Iron Duke can not be beaten by any flour on the market. Get one of the new sanitary sacks of DUKE and try it.

For Sale by All Dealers

If your dealer is out call up either mill. The one nearest to you.

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

Majestic Theatre
Wednesday Evening, March 17

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Presents

A Shubert Feature

"When Broadway Was a Trail"

IN FIVE ACTS

Featuring Barbara Tennant and O. Lund

The story deals with the early days of New York and depicts the Old Puritan Laws and superstitions of Witchcraft.

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

I will show

Samples and Styles

At the Hotel Elston

Saturday afternoon Mar. 13, and Monday forenoon, Mar. 15

Ladies unable to call at the hotel may leave telephone call and Samples will be shown at their homes

H. O. Carlzen

Ladies' Tailor

(Continued from page 3.)

cular sort of contrivance and from time to time gave vent to a disabbling chuckle. The man may have been a monomaniac, but that was never to be proved.

The thick door seemed to please his fancy immensely. An enormous spring was adroitly hidden by the hinges, such as would close the door violently and make it difficult to open without physical exertion.

His Enemy Sinking Helplessly to the Floor.

The contrivance was bound to shake everything in the shack. Near the ceiling was a small platform about six inches square. He propped open the door, took an empty bottle from his pocket and placed it upon this platform.

When he liberated the door the slant of it toppled the bottle from its perch, and it broke into a thousand pieces on the stone slab below.

"I guess that'll fix you. I guess that'll show you whose house you're bounding in your snare."

McWinter loosened the spring so as to open the door and passed out.

The following morning the clerk in the laboratory whose business it was to account for all the deadlier concoctions in making his daily inventory found a bottle missing, and this bottle contained one of the deadliest fumes in existence. He was greatly perturbed.

He asked Smith, but Smith denied that he had touched the bottle. That seemed to be the end of the affair.

On Sunday Mrs. McWinter's face was brighter than it had been in weeks. Her husband seemed to be an entirely different man.

He had softened so far as to tell a comic story and you may be sure that Smith and Mrs. McWinter laughed heartily over it.

The two men shouldered their guns, whistled for the dog and set off on their hunting trip. And only one of them returned alive.

Smith came back alone and was rather surprised to find neither McWinter nor the dog. They had separated in the woods near the shack, of which Smith apparently knew nothing.

McWinter was missing all the next day. Tuesday morning they found him in the shack strangely dead.

A very peculiar case confronted the local authorities. There was one thing quite plain to them, however, and that was McWinter had been murdered in a most cunning and diabolical manner.

Naturally the coroner's inquest drew the net of Smith's feet. He had gone out hunting with McWinter and was the last man to see him alive.

Then came the clerk, who swore that the bottle found in the shack was identical with that stolen from the laboratory where both men worked.

Smith, despite all protests, was held for the grand jury on the charge of murder in the first degree.

Other facts began to circulate. Some one had heard McWinter accuse his wife of being too friendly with Smith, and out of this calumny raised its ugly head.

Here and there men began to mutter about Judge Lynch, and Mrs. McWinter was shunned by all those who had posed as her friends.

A few days before the trial began Hassam All was poring over his crystal. Near by sat Zudora, reading and reflecting.

The two had been talking about Mesmer and Cagliostro, and Zudora was gathering her arguments from the book she held. The bell was heard to ring.

A few moments later a visitor was ushered in by the Hindu servant. Hassam All's cold eye this client did not suggest any future profit, but Mrs. McWinter's tale caught the sympathy of Zudora.

"I will take this case, uncle," she volunteered. "It interests me. It is purely circumstantial evidence, and that is usually the most puzzling to solve. If I succeed it will add another step toward my twenty cases."

"What a Thick Door!"

"Sult yourself," curiously. "But remember, if it turns out to be an ordinary case it will not count."

"I accept that risk."

Zudora, in accordance with her agreement with her lover, John Storm, wrote him explaining about the case and asked him to meet her at the McWinter house the following afternoon.

When the two arrived in the village they found the suburbs in turmoil. There had been, they found, a punitive expedition against the jail that held Smith, but it had been frustrated.

"This is going to be interesting," John, said Zudora.

"I've an idea I'd like to plead for the poor devil. I never realized how many kinks there were in life until you entered this detective business."

"The unexpected is always happening. On the face of it this man Smith looks guilty. The very fact that the woman is eager to save him has a suspicious angle. But, for all that, we may find him innocent as a child."

Meantime Hassam All had not been idle. He was going to use no chance to further his schemes. To be sure, he had scuttled his utter lack of interest in the case, but that had been to hood wink his niece.

So quietly and unobserved he made a secret investigation of the shack. It did not take his remarkably keen eyes long to discover what had taken place. Clever, absolutely clever!

Here was a criminal who had fancies, ideas. If this infernal contrivance had served one man's purpose it might readily serve another's.

So he contrived to separate Zudora and Storm and bring the latter to the shack. He wrote frankly, signing his own name and declaring that it would not be safe for Zudora to go deeply into this case, as there was more to it than could be seen on the surface.

So Storm concluded to meet Hassam All at the shack and find out what he had to say. He promised himself that he would be cautious and watch every move of his enemy.

Everything was ready for him, but again Hassam All was overcautious. He set one of the bottles he had found in a cabinet on the little platform near the ceiling.

Welcome, Mr. Storm, welcome! He laughed and his laughter might well have been an echo to that made by the man who had built this windowless shack.

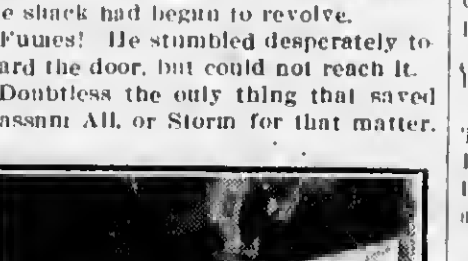

By and by he heard hurrying footsteps. Silently he looked out and observed the unsuspecting attorney. Good!

But something slipped. The spring moved too soon or Hassam All had not pulled it back far enough. The door slammed violently.

There came a tinkle of breaking glass, and Hassam All struggled desperately to pull the door open. He was already too weak.

Storm heard the door. He concluded his journey at a run. It took all his strength to force the door, which he immediately closed again when he was inside. He saw dimly his enemy slinking helplessly to the floor, and almost instantly it seemed that the walls of the shack had begun to revolve.

Fumes! He stumbled desperately toward the door, but could not reach it. Doubtless the only thing that saved Hassam All, or Storm for that matter, was the second opening of the door which let in a gust of pure air and carried out a certain volume of the poison.

The Eager Girl Pointed to the Little Platform.

Fortunately for both of them Zudora and Mrs. McWinter were both sitting out for the snack at the very moment the door closed upon Hassam All.

Mrs. McWinter dreaded to see the fatal shack again, but Zudora insisted she must see the shack and everything in it if she was to aid Smith in the slightest degree.

After Mrs. McWinter had fully explained the conditions Zudora was quite confident that the man Smith was innocent, no matter how deeply circumstantial evidence had involved him.

She also felt instinctively that the widow was holding something back. "There it is," announced Mrs. McWinter, with a shudder.

"Why, there are no windows in it!" "I know it. My husband built it. For what purpose I cannot say, unless it was to experiment in."

Mrs. McWinter began to cry. "There, there," said Zudora. "From what you have told me I don't think that husband at yours was worth tears."

"But I have not told you all." "Well, what more is there to tell?" "The man accused of my husband's death was never my lover. He was my brother."

"Good heavens! Why didn't you tell that in the coroner?" "I dared not. I dared not tell even my husband that."

"Why?" "My brother is an escaped convict. Again it was circumstantial evidence. He suffered in another man's place. For two years he has lived quietly here, and the police have lost all track of him. He was sentenced for five years and escaped during the first year of his term. If I had taken my husband into my confidence he would have enjoyed nothing greater than exposing George."

"You can trust me with your secret. He would be totally lost if the people knew this. Well, there's the shack. What a thick door!"

Reaching it, she tried to open it. It refused to budge. She called to Mrs. McWinter, and the two of them succeeded in pressing it back.

"Hold it!" cried Zudora, reaching for a log near at hand. With this she was able to hold the door.

Then she saw Storm and Hassam All lying senseless on the floor. She snatched up a bottle and for a moment felt dizzy.

The fresh air, however, came to strongly, and after a few moments the two men gradually opened their eyes.

Zudora helped them both outside, shaking them gently. It took a quarter of an hour in bringing them around to anything like normality. Whatever Storm thought of the affair he kept to himself.

Zudora, believing it wise to close the door again, was about to exit aside the log when her eye was attracted by a tuft of coarse hair caught in a splinter.

"Did your husband have a dog?" she asked the frightened woman at her side.

"Yes. But he ran away the day my husband died, and no one has seen him since."

Zudora again studied the log thoughtfully. The earth about was soft, and presently she discovered the footprints of a dog. The imprint of hair and the tracks set her thinking deeply.

"Was your man quite right?" she asked, reaching her forehead.

"How do you mean?" "I mean did he not queerly at times?"

"Why, now you come to speak of it, yes. I thought he was just erratic."

"Here's a bit of good luck," said Zudora suddenly. She pointed down the road a bit where a wagon was visibly approaching. "He'll be able to give us a lift back to the village. I want to see the authorities at once. I've an idea how your husband came to die."

"How?" "All in good time." Zudora halted the farmer. He would gladly give them a lift. "These two men," said Zudora, indicating John and Hassam All, "have met with an accident. Help me get them into the wagon."

"In a jiffy, miss!" The exhausted men were bundled into the wagon, and the farmer touched his team with his whip.

At the outskirts of the town they came upon a mob. It was very disorderly. In the midst of this mob was a pale man securely bound.

"My brother! They are going to lynch him!" cried the widow wildly.

It looked that way to Zudora too. There was one thing for her to do. Into this mob she resolutely pushed her way. The excited men stepped aside grumblingly.

"Men, even if this poor man was guilty you are acting like a pack of wolves. He is innocent. I can tell you how John McWinter came to his death. He died in a trap he had set for this very man you would hang. His own dog was the cause of his death."

"His dog?" "Come, come, this is no time for fairy stories. Sling him up, boys, before the police nose in!"

Smith was backed against a tree. "I warn you that you will be committing murder. Give me one hour, and if I cannot reasonably prove that Smith is guiltless, why, I engage to stand aside and watch you hang him!"

This declaration made the more sober men pause. "And I'll help you pull the rope!" shouted the sheriff, quick to recognize the value of a respite.

"Choose six among you to follow me," said Zudora "or as many as you wish."

"We'll all go, Smith too!" That settled it. The mob began to surge along the road at a dog trot. If this girl could prove what she said, why, Smith could go; if not there'd be enough trees near the shack to serve their purpose.

When the eager girl exhibited the bottles and explained what was in them, pointed to the little platform and then to the door with its spring, a calm began to settle upon the excited throng.

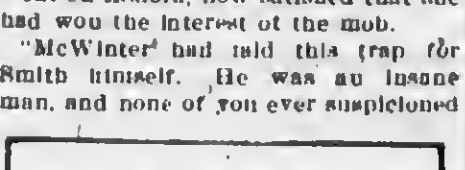

"To hold the door open against the pressure of the spring it was necessary to prop this log against it. McWinter and Smith had gone out hunting. Said denly Smith missed McWinter, who was, in fact, arranging the details of the trap. McWinter's dog evidently got in his way, and he kicked it. The dog in its endeavor to escape a second kick jumped against the log, shutting McWinter in the shack and causing the poisonous fumes to be threatened. My niece has already proved this fact to his satisfaction."

Hassam All nodded gravely. There was nothing else for him to do. Storm stared at him ironically for a moment.

"But there is something else to add," went on Zudora, now satisfied that she had won the interest of the mob.

"McWinter had told this trap for Smith himself. He was an insane man, and none of you ever suspected

"He is innocent."

this fact. He laughed at his trouble. Smith had absolutely nothing to do with them. Now hang him if you can!"

The mob quietly took itself off, vastly shamed and chastened, and Smith soothed his sobbing sister, his eyes full of gratitude.

"You're a wonderful little person, Zudora," whispered Storm.

"Am I? Take me back to town. I am tired. And there's more to do. I've got to free Smith again—from prison."

But the death of the real culprit did that, and Smith walked the earth again a free citizen.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Ruse That Failed. Comedian—While Rosenzweig was travelling in Italy he thought it would be a great press agent stunt to get himself captured by bandits and held for ransom.

Soubrette—How did the scheme work? Comedian—Hobbers captured him all right, but when they found he was an actor they made him work for his board.—Judge.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Bad conduct soils the finest ornament more than filth.—Plautus.

Everyone Is Talking ABOUT

THE MAJESTIC

PUBLISHED EACH WEEK IN

This big feature Story is proving a winner, both as a serial story and a Motion Picture.

Read the Story and see the Pictures

"Zudora"

Is a Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Specially Illustrated by Photographs from the Motion Picture Scenes

Subscribe FOR COURIER

READ THE STORY

THEN SEE THE PICTURES AT

MAJESTIC

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

WILL GET THEIR EYES OPENED.

"When liquor is put out of America I believe it will be by the men who drink," says Hon. Seeborn Wright of Georgia. "If they could realize how they are being deceived there would be ten thousand Boston tea parties today."

"Do you know," he continued, "that it costs less than twenty cents to make one gallon of whisky? Then why is it that the men who drink pay two or three dollars for an article which costs less than twenty cents to produce? I wonder how many men who drink stop to ask, 'Why do I pay twelve hundred per cent above the cost to produce it, twelve hundred per cent more than my father paid before the Civil war?' The answer is simple. The federal government has placed a revenue of one dollar and ten cents on each gallon of liquor. If it ended there then a revenue of two billion dollars would be paid. But the manufacturer turns to his clerk and says, 'Add the cost of production to the price.' Never on earth has the liquor trust paid one dollar to the federal government and it never will."

NORTH CAROLINA CONDITIONS.

Speaking of the conditions in North Carolina, Mr. M. L. Shipman, state commissioner of labor, says:

"Whisky distilleries have been displaced with industrial plants and over the remains of the saloons have been erected splendid school buildings and magnificent church edifices. In Gaston county alone 26 distilleries were in operation under former conditions. It now boasts of 47 textile plants, employing more than 7,000 people, and makes the further claim of having one of the finest systems of public schools in the state. This condition prevails generally throughout the commonwealth. Instead of spending their weekly earnings in saloons, and frequently in police stations, the wage-earners of North Carolina are now providing an abundance of wholesome food and adequate clothing for their families."

EFFECT OF A GLASS OF BEER.

It has been scientifically demonstrated by experiments made in the Swedish army that even a small quantity of alcohol decreases the marksmanship of the man behind the gun. Under Lieutenant Bengt Boy a squad of soldiers were put through a test after having gone without beer for a certain period of time. Out of a total of 30 targets their average was 23 shots.

Later these same soldiers were allowed a glass of beer apiece one evening and another glass the following morning, and the average number of hits that afternoon was three. To check up this result which seemed out of reason, another test without beer was made some days later, when these same soldiers averaged 26 hits.

BREWERIES REPLACED.

From Spokane, Wash., comes word that the Dollar Brewery building, located on the fort grounds, is being torn down to make way for a paper mill. The North Yakima brewery is to be connected with a fruit preserving and fruit canning factory, and will also make grape juice, vinegar and other fruit extracts. The manager of this brewery is not only reconciled to but is enthusiastic over the change. Thousands of tons of fruit go to waste every year in Washington and Oregon, and, he says, a great industry can be built up in the packing and canning business which will bring great prosperity to these states.

BENTIMENT AGAINST LIQUOR.

In England, as in other warring countries, there is a very rapidly growing sentiment against the drink traffic. Mrs. Parker, sister of Earl Kitchener, declares that between 30 and 40 per cent of the new soldiers are being rendered inefficient through drink and attendant evils, and she states that the prime minister admits the percentage to be from 10 to 15. Mrs. Parker says, "Russia has done away with intoxicants. Why not Britain?"

PANAMA CANAL DRY.

Under an order signed by the governor of the Panama Canal zone, Col. George W. Goethals, all canal transportation employees are forbidden to use liquor. This includes pilots taking ships through the canal, captains of tugboats, mates and others.

THE SAME IN EVERY CITY.

The Associated Charities of Columbus, O., says the organization gave aid to one in every forty people in the city last year. It gives fifteen cents for the necessity of such assistance, and temperance heads the list.

LIQUOR IS BARRED.

The board of the American Automobile association now prohibits not only the use of liquors by drivers, mechanics and officials of races, but refuses to sanction any race at which liquor is sold on the grounds.

PAY TAXES WITH MONEY.

Pay your taxes with money and not with boys.

ONLY THING TO DO.

If a drunken man can't get liquor, what will he get? He'll get sober.

Subscribe for the Courier.

CORNSTALKS AND SNOW.

It is sometimes a good plan to leave some of the cornstalks standing. Every fourth row left standing will hold a lot of snow on the land. At the North Dakota experiment station it was found that one-fourth of the cornstalks left standing stopped about as much snow as when all were left. This will in many cases mean a good deal to the next crop. The added moisture will make the soil less liable to blow, and the standing stalks will check the wind a good deal, near the surface, and this also reduces the drifting. Better try leaving a few rows and see if it does not pay.

SOIL EROSION IN THE SOUTH.

Large Areas Are Lost to Agriculture Through This Cause.

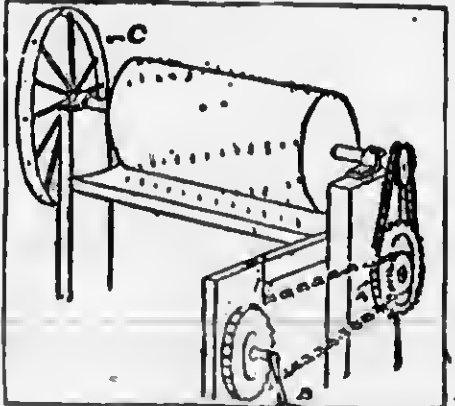

The following statement regarding soil erosion in the south is taken from the last annual report of the bureau of soils of the United States department of agriculture:

In a study of soil erosion in the south it has been found that large areas are lost to agriculture annually through erosion. In some states vast areas, amounting to as much as 50 per cent of the arable land of these sections have been abandoned. The character of the erosion varies with the type of soil. Usually on the heavy clay soils "sheet" or surface erosion is found. With increasing proportion of sand in the soil the erosion changes to the "showering" type, then to the gully type, with rounded edges, and finally to the gullies with cutting edges.

All methods for prevention and control are based either on increasing the capacity for absorbing the water as it falls or on decreasing the velocity of the run-off. A new method in use in one locality is the construction of what are known as "christophers," the distinctive feature of this plan lying in the manner of disposing of storm waters. Across an inclined gully is built a dam, through which is passed a sewer pipe connected with an upright pipe on the upper side of the dam. Water fills the valley until it reaches the top of the upright pipe and then flows down this pipe into the next field. The water left standing below the mouth of the upright pipe is gradually removed by a tile drain.

Huller For Peas and Beans.

We are using a homemade machine to thrash beans and cowpeas that does good work without cracking the beans and peas. They can be separated from the straw very easily by using a plow fork and are clean enough to sell after being dropped twice through a steady breeze. The only material we had to buy in making this machine was the nails, writes C. L. Brown of Colorado in Farmers' Mail and Breeze. "The cylinder may be a piece of hard wood 12. Ours is ten inches in diameter and fourteen inches long. The concave is made of a piece of oak. For teeth we used No. 18 nails with the heads cut off. The nails were driven in far enough to leave about one and one-half inches protruding. In putting in the cylinder teeth we stretched a string diagonally across to mark the row of teeth. This makes the machine run steadily, as a whole row of teeth will strike the concave all at once. The teeth are set about an inch apart and spaced so those of the cylinder will mesh between the teeth in the concave without striking. The machine is mounted on two posts set firmly in the ground. Gearing was obtained from an old blinder. The double sprocket A is from the reel gear, B is the crank and C the flywheel. Our cylinder makes five revolutions to one of the roller.

THE ROLLER.

Care of the Automobile.
At least once a year, or every 5,000 miles, the engine lubrication system should be cleaned out, and this is best done when the cylinders are taken off for the removal of carbon deposit. With the cylinders off the crank chamber can be well washed out with kerosene. Many drivers omit this annual cleaning, but if they could see the amount of solid matter contained in the oil they would be surprised. Not only is this largely composed of burning metal and dust, but also of carbon deposit which forms on the inside of the pistons, peels off in flakes and falls into the crank chamber. This solid material is not only detrimental to the bearings, but it is liable to choke up an oil way, especially in engines having drilled crank shafts.—Automobile Dealer and Repairer.

Time's Changes.
Time makes many changes. When you were eighteen if somebody had told you that at forty you'd be taking dancing lessons you'd have laughed in his face.—Detroit Free Press.

If a man empties his purse into his head no one can take it from him.—Franklin.

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT

1 Samuel 11:1-15—March 11.

King Saul, Although Anointed of God, Waited For the Voice of the People. His Opportune Moment and How He Utilized It—His Acceptance by the People—Opportunities Open For All. Special Lessons to the Church, Also Called to Kingly Office.

"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that paceth his spirit than he that taketh a city."—Proverbs 16:32.

ISRAEL had asked for a king. God, through the Prophet Samuel, had caused the anointing of Saul to be king. The people of Israel had assembled, and God's Prophet Samuel had indicated God's choice. Some had gladly accepted it, but the rougher element had refused, sneeringly saying, "Who is he, that we should hope for anything great in his hand? It looked as though the Lord's choice had been unsatisfactory and had come to naught. Saul made no attempt to exercise authority, having such half-hearted support from the people. He returned home, re-examining his life as a farmer; but we may be sure he was patiently waiting for the opportune, or psychological, moment when with God's blessing he would enter upon his duties and responsibilities as king.

Saul's farm life. A farmer called to continued only a month until the opportunity offered. The Ammonites, residing in the east of Israel's possessions, had for some time besieged Jabesh-gilead. When the city asked terms for surrender, the Ammonite general's trust was that on one condition he would save their lives—they should each submit to having an eye put out, as a shame on Israel.

Time was asked—seven days—for decision. Meantime messengers were dispatched, possibly to all the tribes. Some came to Saul's residence, evidently hoping that he would take steps for their deliverance.

Saul was appointed leader; the psychological moment had come. He killed the oxen he had been driving and sent pieces to all the tribes, saying that whoever did not respond, to become a defender of the general interests, would have his oxen hewed to pieces. This was a peculiar command for a king; but it touched the right spot, for three hundred and thirty thousand men responded. The messengers returned to Jabesh-gilead with assurances of success the next day; and Israel gave answer to the besiegers that by the time appointed, they would march out for them to do as they wished.

Saul divided his army into three sections, and from three different quarters came suddenly upon the besiegers, routing them and delivering the Israelites. Thereupon they realized that God had indeed given them a wise king, whom they had been slow to recognize; and they inquired for those who had spoken against Saul, saying, "Let them now be slain. However, the king wisely and generously said, 'There shall not a man be put to death; for today the Lord hath wrought salvation in Israel.'

The Olive Character Vindicated.
Although the slaughtering of those Ammonites had Divine approval, it did not signify that they went to the theological hell, there to suffer eternal torments. On the contrary, they merely went to the tomb, to sleep until in God's arrangement Christ would die as the world's Redeemer, and at His Second Advent would begin His work of calling back from death all that are in their graves.

To grasp the situation we must remember that all men are under a death sentence; and it matters little whether they die from starvation, sickness, pestilence or the sword. The penalty reads, "Dying, thou shalt die"—not live, anyhow or anywhere. This fact has a distinct bearing on everything appertaining to the Lord's authorization of wars, permission of families, etc. While God has enforced the penalty, "The wages of sin is death," thus manifesting His justice, He in another way has been preparing for the manifestation of His Love. His first step was in the sending of His Son to die for Adam's sin, under which the race is condemned to death. Soon He will establish a Kingdom which will bind Satan, release humanity from the results of the curse, and restore all the willing and obedient to full perfection.

Special Lessons For the Church.
God's consecrated people may especially learn lessons from Saul's experience. They, like Saul, have been nominated of God, not only to be kings, but also to be priests—"a Royal Priesthood." As Saul was anointed with oil, so the Royal Priesthood are anointed with the Holy Spirit. As the people rejected Saul and he waited patiently for the Lord's time, so mankind are not yet ready for the Return of the Royal Priesthood, of which Jesus is the Head; and God's time has not yet come for the establishment of the Kingdom. Lessons of patience, humility and confidence in God are requisite that, after centuries, they might inherit the promises.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—sixth installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE.

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

HANDS ANOTHER TO KALKASKA

Fast Aggregation of Basketball Players
Go Down to Defeat.

Charlevoix Independents Clean Up on Aspirants for Northern Michigan Championship.

In whirl wind fashion Charlevoix Independents administered the usual trimming to Kalkaska last Wednesday night that they have been dealing out to the other independent teams in this section during the past four weeks. The final count was 62-18.

Kalkaska came here with a clean run of victories in the southern realm and was confident of whipping the local quintet from the championship race. From the opening of the game to the side lines there was doubt as to the outcome of the affair as Charlevoix started in for blood and the way the baskets rained in from the foul line and also from the floor was a pity to behold. Kalkaska soon changed her tactics and undertook to play merely a defensive game. In this phase of the game she was as weak against the clean and fast passing of the locals as in any other. The second half witnessed a marked improvement in the team work of the local men and resulted in most of the points of the second half coming through field baskets. Kalkaska scored six field baskets and six counts from the foul line.

Hampered by the small floor and the determination to lay the Charlevoix team out cold, Bellaire held the locals 33-19 at Bellaire last Friday night. At times the game was fast, but at no time was there a demonstration of the real game as has been seen on the local floor this winter. Bellaire saw there was no chance to defeat Charlevoix playing real basket ball, and undertook tactics that were far from the right sort.

Boyer City high school basketball team were given a good hard run for the game on Boyne's last Saturday night, when Charlevoix high made good her threat and held the North Arm lads 40-32. The game was fast and clean throughout. The local boys were somewhat at a disadvantage, owing to the crowded quarters, although they are offering no alibi to offset the defeat.

After the game the team and faculty members were feasted at the Wolverine Hotel at a luncheon given by the Boyne City team. Toasts were heard and a general good get-together time was had by everybody who attended. Charlevoix had the best time ever in Boyne City and are planning on giving a like reception when March 20th sees Boyne City lined up on the local court. Several townspeople and high school fans accompanied the team to Boyne City and assisted in the old-time way.

The management of the local independent team has just completed arrangements with the management of the Traverse City team for a game to be played on the local court some time this month. The date will be announced later. Traverse City has one of the fastest teams in this part of the state and will give the locals the most interesting game of the season.

Boyer City will send a team this week to couple up with the Charlevoix men at the rink Thursday. While Boyne City has not been playing independent ball this season, the team that will represent her this week will be composed of some of the best individual players in this section. The locals anticipate a hard proposition and are making preparations for the same.

The 8-8 tie between the Masons and Odd Fellows was played off and resulted in favor of the former by a score of 13 to 7.

The story of a tuberculosis victim who recovered his health at the Majestic March 17. Adv. 101

Cement Machinery for Sale.

Having taken over a complete outfit, under mortgage foreclosure, I will sell at private sale:

Two Twentieth Century Mixers, one small Mixer for sidewalk work, Cement Block Machine and complete outfit with various forms and pellets. One new "Novo Gas Engine," Three Lumber Wagons, various small tools, etc., tamps, shovels, etc. See

W. J. Rachow,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers.
Read adv. on page 7.

Rexall Orderlies

Sick headache, biliousness, piles and bad breath are usually caused by inactive bowels. Get a box of Rexall Orderlies. They act gently and effectively. Sold only by drs at 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

A FLASH OF LIGHTNING.

Enormous Force Required to Break Down Air Pressure.

Charles P. Stelmets, the electrical genius, once took a pad and pencil and figured out the horsepower of a lightning flash. This is itself is no small task, but it is as nothing to the electrical wizard, who is rated as the foremost mathematician in the world. Once upon a time Stelmets was in camp, and his active mind began working on an important problem which called for a table of logarithms. The nearest textbook was many miles away, but Stelmets did not worry. He sat down and made a new table, figuring it out himself with so apparent great effort.

The amount of light given by a single lightning flash is sufficient to illuminate an area two miles square with an average illumination of one candle. To produce such an illumination, figured Stelmets, would require the expenditure of 13,000 horsepower for one second. These figures are large, but the time is very short.

Lightning flashes usually occur within thunderclouds, explained Stelmets, and only rarely come from the clouds to the ground. They seem to follow the rapid condensation of vapor in the air. It requires nearly 75,000 volts of electricity to break down one inch of air space, or a million volts per foot. Even if the clouds are only a thousand feet above the ground, it will take more than a thousand million volts to break down the air resistance ahead of the thunderbolt. It is this enormous voltage, or electrical pressure, which makes the lightning flash so destructive.

MAKING A CHIMNEY DRAW.

Faulty Draft May Be Corrected by Use of Stovepipe.

It is almost impossible at times to get a good draft in a chimney having a square or rectangular hole. The smoke and burned gases pass up in a circular form, and a dowel pull is created in the corners, and it takes a large fire to make an upward draft for the entire area.

To remedy this faulty condition obtain a number of common stovepipes of a size sufficient to carry the gases from the stove or furnace and, after joining them up, introduce them into the chimney and connect the lower end to the smoke pipe leading from the stove or furnace. There will then be a circular opening inside of the chimney, out of sight and safe from risk of fire, which will give a better draft than before. It is not difficult to make the connection.

For a similar connection to a grate it would be necessary to have a fire brick-like piece to fit into the chimney just above the fireplace. The opening in the top of this must be circular and of a size to receive the stovepipe. Dampers or other means of control are easy to arrange.

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvas gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81

Cards of Thanks.

I wish to publicly express my deepest gratitude and appreciation to those who so kindly rendered assistance and sympathy during my recent bereavement, especially to those who furnished the beautiful flowers.

Adv. 101 William Ferguson.

Every Woodman should see the motion pictures at the Majestic, Wednesday evening, March 17.—Adv. 101

Some Slang Words.

A remarkable fact is that many slang words have a classical origin. For example, the word "bull" is a vulgarism for a fight, is traceable to the Greek word "bambala" which means a combat.

"Uncle," the affectionate term for a pawnbroker, is derived from the Latin "uncus," a took on which the article pledged was hung.

To go before "the book" is a distinct reference to the old Roman custom of adorning the platform from which justice dispensed with the benches of ships, which platform came to be called the rostrum, that being the Latin for a beak or prow.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Strawberry flavor, 25c per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 101f.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

How Vinegar Works Like a Cleaning Genie For You.

For cleaning dirt and smoke from walls and woodwork, especially yellow pine, vinegar works like magic. Put about a pint in a basin, wet a flannel cloth in this and wipe the article that needs cleaning. When the cloth becomes soiled wash it out in clear water before putting it in the vinegar again. For removing fly specks from wood, picture frames, windows, etc., vinegar can't be equaled. Vinegar will remove shoe blacking spilled on clothes and is excellent for rough or chapped hands. Immerse hands in vinegar and allow to dry out. Old palm troubles can be softened with boiling vinegar and when washed with strong soap suds will be like new.

1051.

Last week two-thirds grown Collie dog. Answers to the name of Feathers. Finder kindly notify Myrtle Young & Son, Phone 275.

Additional Locals

Earl Preston of Petoskey, spent Sunday in the city with friends.

Ford P. Robbins of Boyne Falls, was in the city the first of the week.

Miss Carrie Geiken is home from Chicago for a visit with her parents.

R. A. Emrey, wife, and little son, Winfield, spent Sunday in East Jordan.

Mrs. H. A. Carr is home from East Jordan and Detroit, where she has been for some weeks.

Capt. F. C. Partridge of the Charlevoix Coast Guard station, returned Friday from a three weeks visit at White Hall and Mackinac.

Oscar VanDusen of Norwood township is confined to his home on account of a badly dislocated ankle received the other day in an accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edwards spent Thursday and Friday of last week at the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Robinson of Boyne City.

About fifteen rosters accompanied the C. H. S. basketball team to Boyne City Saturday, to attend the Boyne City-Charlevoix H. S. basketball game.

Miss Anna Kenning is home from Chicago, where she has been for some time, and will soon commence preparations for the opening of her millinery store.

W. E. Hampton left Wednesday afternoon for Plainwell, where he will act as one of the judges in the big Pythian League contest to be held there Thursday.

A. L. Hart & Son received a carload of Ford cars this week for the season's business. Last season they disposed of two large shipments, and expect this season to at least equal their last year's record.

A. J. Usher left Wednesday afternoon for Grand Rapids, where he will attend the three-day meeting of the Michigan Press and Printers Federation, to be held there Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. E. D. Hines was pleasantly surprised Tuesday afternoon by a number of her lady friends. A thimble party was the attraction, after which a fine luncheon was served.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday p. m. at half past two in the parlors of the Congregational church. There will be music and several short addresses on the subject, "How may Our Union be a Vital Force in Our Community." After this will be election of officers for the coming year. All members are requested to be present.

George D. Swinton of this city was elected as a member of the National Geographical Society, whose headquarters are at Washington, D. C., in a week. Mr. Swinton has always been greatly interested in this line of work and greatly appreciates the honor bestowed upon him in being elected as a member.

E. V. Madison and Charles Graves planted 5000 fingerling brook trout in the head waters of McGeagh and Stover creeks Tuesday. The young "speckled beauties" were sent to Mr. Madison from the state hatchery at Northville. It is expected that several shipment of small mouth black bass, pike and pickerel will be received at a later date and will be planted in different lakes in the vicinity of Charlevoix.

It has been reported to us that a "hiking club" has been organized, including several of our well known young people. The first "hike" was made to Boyne City, Sunday. The trip over was made in four hours and the return in four and one-half hours. However, we have been informed that one of the members has found hiking too strenuous, and will make the trip later on by the auto route.

Sal-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

It is Seldom Necessary to Close Schools for Any Length of Time.

Scarcely a year passes that most school districts are not visited by some form of contagious disease. The health officer has power to close the schools if he deems it necessary. The school board also may close school in order to prevent the spread of contagious disease. This is as it should be. However, it often happens that the closing of school is not the best practice. To close school and permit the children to run the streets is not preventive of contagion; it is rather a certain means of spreading it. Except in case of general epidemic it is advisable to merely exclude from school the children affected, have the school building thoroughly disinfected and continue school work as usual. The closing of the schools of a whole city for weeks when it is not imperative means a loss which should be avoided.

There Is No Question

But that indigestion and the distressful feeling which always goes with it can be promptly relieved by taking a
Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet
before and after each meal. 25c a box.
The Ivy Drug Store.

THE DRAGGING CLUTCH.

Thorough Cleaning the Remedy For This Annoyance.

When the clutch drops or grabs it should be cleaned carefully with kerosene and allowed to drain thoroughly. The principal cause of grabbing and dragging, which is the scum of oil, will be removed, says Auto Dealer Next fill with a heavy mineral oil, to which should be added just sufficient kerosene to make it hold when engaged. Too much kerosene will make it "grab" and drag, while too little will allow it to slip.

The theory is that kerosene reduces the "body" of the lubricating oil in proportion to the quantity used. When released there should be sufficient lubricant between the plates to prevent a metal to metal contact, which would cause dragging, while the clutch spring should be sufficiently strong to squeeze out the lubricant and permit a metal to metal contact when the clutch is let in. It may be necessary to adjust or renew your clutch spring, should the clutch not hold when you have added sufficient kerosene to prevent dragging.

Prevents Washboard Slipping.

The modern stationary washboard is a box shaped, with one side set at an outward angle or slope. The washboard when used in these tubs will slide up and down against the sloping part of the tub while the clothes are rubbed against it. This annoying trouble can be avoided by tacking on the top edge of the board strips of rubber cut from a discarded bicycle tire, placing the rubber side out. The friction of the rubber prevents any motion of the board.

Cleaning the Cylinders.

The piston should be placed at the extreme top of the cylinder when using oxygen to remove carbon, as the intense heat tends to roughen the cylinder walls. The flame should not be directed to strike the threads of the spark plug hole, and the water system should be full of water.

Test the Dry Batteries.

Dry batteries should be tested immediately after a run and not before it. It gives a better margin of safety to do the testing when the batteries are run down, as they will be soon starting out again. An ammeter should be used, and all batteries run down should be replaced.

Substitute Washers.

If in need of washers and none of the proper size is at hand a splendid substitute can be made by wrapping several turns of soft wire on the bolt before putting on the nut. This will work equally well for large bolts as for small ones.

Harness at the coat of the material in them. Just a few set—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

ORIGIN OF A PHRASE.

Greeley Was Not the First to Say, "Go West, Young Man."

Who said, "Go west, young man?" The phrase has often been credited to Horace Greeley, but he was not the first to use it and once denied that he said it. It was written by John B. L. Soule, a brilliant young man who edited the Terre Haute Express in 1813. Richard W. Thompson of Terre Haute advised him to go west and grow up with the country, adding, "Why, John, you could write an article that would be attributed to Horace Greeley if you tried."

Soule modestly doubted it, but Thompson insisted, and Soule promised to try. The result was an article in the Express on the opportunities offered to young men by the west, which began by saying that Horace Greeley could never have given better advice than that contained in the words "Go west, young man." It was a supposititious quotation from Greeley, but the article was copied, and pretty soon the supposititious phrase was attributed to Greeley himself.

After it had received wide circulation the New York Tribune came out with a reprint of the Express article, accompanied by a footnote by Mr. Greeley saying that he was not the author of the expression, but he fully endorsed it and joined in saying, "Go west, young man; go west."—Indianapolis News

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 81

His Business Ability.

For the Adirondacks lives a man too lazy to work, but evidently of great business ability. One winter when he was sitting around smoking his family came so near starvation that some of his neighbors, who could ill afford to help him, took up a collection and bought for the suffering family a barrel of flour, a barrel of pork and a load of wood. They were not considerate enough to cut the wood, but the business man knew how to manage. He hired some of the neighbors who had not contributed to his donation to cut the wood and paid them with half the pork and half the flour.—Lipton's

PATRIOTISM.

True patriotism, while it should be ready to resist evil, to denounce oppression and expose wrong, should be even more tireless in applauding the good, extolling justice and praising all efforts for things that exalt our country and its institutions.—John W. Leonard.

SPECIAL SATURDAY, MARCH 13th

6c Touville Challie for Comfortables 4½c yd

Mason's Dep'tment Store

"THE STORE OF QUALITY" AND GOOD SERVICE

When in want of anything that will make lovely meals, and good first-class goods, and can not come to the store, call Nos. 12 or 69 and we will bring it to your house. When you are down town step into the store whether you buy or not, and the same courteous treatment will be given to you. Do you know that

We sell the finest Loaf of Bread
in the city and at 10c

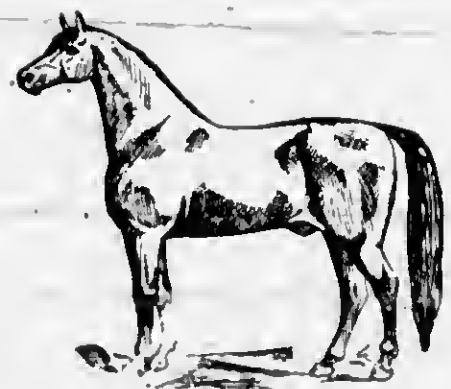

and Strictly Fresh Eggs at 20c

In our Meat Department we have anything and everything and at Reasonable Prices. We give the S.
& H. Green Stamps.

Quality, Service and Honest Prices our Motto

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69
Quality Service Honest Prices
WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

HORSE SALE AT O'LEARY'S BARN SATURDAY, MAR. 20

Commencing at 10:00 o'clock

Grange Column

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange met at the home of Brother and Sister, Jack Bughee, Friday evening, March 5th. Grange was called to order by the Worthy Lecturer. After the business session, the program as announced was carried out. Attendance 18. Visitors were present from Ironton and Marion grange. The next meeting will be held at the home of Brother and Sister, O. D. Hammond, Friday evening, March 19. A seven o'clock supper will be served, after which the regular grange meeting will be held. All come prepared with quotations from Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Court of Ben Hur.

Charlevoix the Beautiful, Court No. 135, met at the I. O. O. F. hall Friday evening, March 5. All the officers were present except the captain. Thirteen new members were initiated. Deputy Ingalls of Petoskey was present. The following program was rendered: Song, "Kentucky Days"—Chorus. Recitation—Harold Porter. Song, "Farmer Girl"—Dora Arnold, Ruth McNeven and Eunice Prevost. Dialogue, "The Aching Tooth." Song, "A Perfect Day"—Chorus. Instrumental—Eunice Prevost. Recitation—Mrs. McNeven. Dialogue, "A Slight Misunderstanding." Reading—Mrs. Ranger. Dialogue, "The Father of Our Country." Song "Tipperary"—Chorus. Meeting closed with a fine potluck supper. About fifty were present. Next meeting March 18 at I. O. O. F. hall.

What the M. W. of A. are doing for humanity will be illustrated by motion pictures at the Majestic, Wednesday evening, March 17.—Adv. 101

Subscribe for the Courier.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 11

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

FARM HOME A TOTAL LOSS

Mrs. Clara Dodd and Family Suffer
Heavy Loss by Fire.

Fire Caused by Lighted Lamp Falling Upon Floor—
Mrs. Beattie Badly Burned.

Fire which originated under unfortunate circumstances totally destroyed the farm home of Mrs. Clara Dodd last Saturday night.

Mrs. Dodd and son, Earl, who had been to Charlevoix, had returned to their home and had driven into the yard and were gathering their purchases into their arms to take them into the house. Their arrival was heard by Mrs. Rice, who lives at the Dodds' home, and, picking up a large lamp, she started across the front room for the kitchen, intending to meet them at the outer door with the light.

It was while crossing the room with the lighted lamp in her hand that the cause of the fire occurred. Leslie, the little four-year-old son of Mrs. Beattie, was in the room with Mrs. Rice and while accompanying her to the kitchen ran into the lamp she was carrying, knocking it from her hand to the floor, where it broke, scattering its contents in every direction. Mrs. Rice attempted to extinguish the fire by heating it with a broom, but only succeeded in scattering the oil over a larger portion of the floor.

Mrs. Dodd and Earl, hearing the noise, entered the house and attempted to put the fire out, but were unable to do so.

The little boy, as soon as the fire started, ran upstairs where Mrs. Arthur Beattie was confined to her bed on account of sickness. As soon as Earl saw that he could not put out the fire he called to his sister, Mrs. Beattie, who, with her little baby and Leslie, was upstairs, to run to the south window, where he would rescue them. By this time the room below was a mass of flames and the fire had started up the stairs. Mr. Dodd obtained a ladder and carried the little ones to safety as they were handed out the window by Mrs. Beattie. Upon his return to rescue her he found her overcome by the intense heat and carried her to safety in an unconscious condition. Although the fire was some distance from the window, the intense heat badly burned her about the face, neck, and hands.

It was but a few minutes before the entire structure was a seething furnace. A few articles of furniture were saved from the first floor, but everything upstairs was burned, including all the clothing of Mrs. Dodd, Mrs. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beattie and the two children. Included among these were many valuable heirlooms belonging to the family.

The house is a total loss, including the dairy room, which was built alongside. The loss is estimated at $1,000 on the clothing and personal property and $1,500 on the house, dairy building and contents. No insurance was carried.

COST STATE $207,932.76

Above Value Placed Upon Stock Killed in Foot and Mouth Disease Campaign.

According to the biennial report of the state live stock sanitary commission filed with Governor Ferris, it has been necessary as a result of the epidemic of foot and mouth disease to kill 2,592 cattle, 4,094 pigs and 892 sheep, valued at $207,932.76.

It is shown by the report that 8,000 head of cattle have received the tuberculin test during the past two years. In Kent county it has been necessary to kill 143 head of cattle afflicted with tuberculosis. The appraised value was $3,700, of which the state paid $1,850. In Ingham but 19 cattle were killed. Their appraised value was $1,700, of which the state paid $850.

Cement Machinery for Sale.

Having taken over a complete outfit, under mortgage foreclosure, I will sell at private sale:

Two Twentieth Century Mixers, one small Mixer for sidewalk work, Cement Block Machine and complete outfit with various forms and pellets. One new "Novo Gas Engine," Three Lumber Wagons, various small tools, etc., shovels, etc. See

W. J. Rachow,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Auto supplies and service station.
Goodyear, Firestone and Delance tires
—Benjamin Brown, Adv. 111f

ELIMINATE WASTE

Time and Money Should Not be Wasted in Conduct of School Business.

The public schools of any community represent a large investment of public money. Those responsible for their conduct should aim to eliminate all waste. Nothing serves better to systematize public business than a simple, accurate statement of accounts. Many districts with school systems spending tens of thousands of dollars annually have no means of knowing what the different departments of the system cost. Would the school officer run his own business that way?

Will you have room enough for your pupils next year? Must you build? Now is the time to determine. Do not wait until next summer and then begin to prepare. Summer preparations never get finished until Christmas. In the meantime the children lose by improper accommodations. Prepare now.

Often time is lost because hooks and other supplies are not on hand when school begins in September. Find out early what supplies you will need. If you buy in any quantity submit your orders for competitive bids. Place your order early. In other words, do business for the public as you would for yourself.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Meet at Home of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns
Friday Evening.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet Friday evening, March 19th, with Mr. and Mrs. John Burns. The following is the program:

Music
Instrumental solo—Mr. Beers.
Paper, Scotch Immigration—Rev. Quinton Walker.
Social Intermission
Music
Vocal solo—Dr. R. B. Armstrong.
Reading, "The South Wind Off Croagh Patrick"—Mrs. Peter Vandermade.

WILL ORGANIZE IN COUNTY

Boys' and Girls' Agricultural Clubs To Be Formed.

Clubs Fostered by Department of Agriculture and Michigan Agricultural College.

Last year there was something like 3000 boys and girls enrolled in the various agricultural clubs in Michigan. These clubs are fostered by the Department of Agriculture at Washington, co-operating with the Michigan Agricultural College. The projects taken up by the young people include gardening, corn growing, potato growing, poultry raising and fruit culture, besides canning and garment making, intended more especially for the girls. The girls, however, are encouraged to take up the other projects as well.

A brief campaign is now being mapped out to carry on this work in Charlevoix county. Early in April meetings will be held in a number of different centers for the purpose of presenting to the young people the advantages of joining the movement and learning how to grow crops and raise stock for themselves. In this way they are not only helping to improve the agricultural conditions, but they are making a better citizenship possible.

Boys and girls who engage in club enterprises agree to follow the instructions sent out by the department and to keep a careful record of all their operations during the season, the expenditures, sales, and so forth; then, in the fall, write a history of what they have done. A fair is usually held, where samples of their work are put on exhibition and prizes awarded for the best. Prize giving, although encouraged, is not emphasized so much as the idea that the young people should make money out of their projects. More important than prizes to encourage the boys and girls to carry on the work is the sympathetic interest of the older people, and it is hoped they will do everything they can to show their interest. Where club work thrives an added impetus is given to farming and better farming methods.

Special:

Grape Fruit 3c. dozen
Oranges 17c. dozen
Mrs. B. W. Miller.

HIGH SCHOOL MOST UNPROGRESSIVE OF ALL GRADES IN SCHOOL

An Isolated Institution With Little if any Co-operation on the Part of the Parent Says Mrs. W. S. Hefferan in Excellent Paper Read at Recent Mothers' Meeting.

As announced in last week's issue, the Courier is very grateful for the opportunity to publish in full the excellent paper entitled "The Parent and the High School," read at a recent meeting at the high school. Mrs. Hefferan reveals many truths concerning the attitude of parents in relation to the public school that will cause many to ask themselves if they have done their duty to their children and the school. Following is the paper as read:

Someone has said: "God could not be everywhere and so He made mothers," but there is one period where the mother fails to give an account of her stewardship, and that is when the boy or girl enters the high school.

The mother is immensely interested in the child of kindergarten age and thinks it well worth while to visit him often in the kindergarten. She frequently visits the school throughout his grammar school course, but when he enters the secondary school she seems to feel he is thoroughly equipped to look after himself, and so the high school is to-day the most isolated institution in the educational system. Parents rarely visit their children in the high school, and the youth, accustomed to this indifference, urges his parent to remain away.

Yet we know certainly that this period—the period of adolescence, covering the years from fourteen to nineteen approximately—marks a second birth of the child. This period is called by educators the "critical period" and the period of storm and stress, because of the physical, nervous and spiritual changes which now take place. French statistics show this to be the criminal age, the age of suicide and also the age of conversion, showing that a wonderful moral, mental and spiritual change is taking place. These are profound facts which all parents, teachers and pastors should know and appreciate.

The lad who left your door for school one September a little fellow in short trousers goes out the next September possibly a man in stature, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches. And this physical change is accompanied by a mental and moral change. For now there is a transition from the stage of imitation and obedience to that of independence and self-direction. This period is more critical and determinative than that of any other period, because it offers the school and home their supreme opportunity for character building. The high school, of all grades of school education, should take the most active and effective part in the formation of character. Character is now in a plastic state and never again will the parent and teacher have the opportunity of moulding it as they wish. Youth, the high school of age, offers two golden opportunities for character formation—the sense of personal honor and the growing realization of social relations. Upon these two educators may build broad and high.

The youth now comes into possession of all the powers that belong to the species and thus becomes a factor to be reckoned with. There is greater independence and yet greater consciousness of a social dependence. He now becomes self-conscious, introspective, sensitive and secretive, a remorseless critic of himself and others. With a quickened conscience comes an absolute thirst for truth. There are new emotions, new attitudes of will, new problems of duty.

All this becomes more striking when we remember that out of the high school comes practically all our leaders of every kind—moral, social, religious, political and intellectual. Through a high school boy the opportunity may be given to determine the conduct and destiny of thousands of others.

And yet, in the face of all these important truths, the high school has remained an isolated institution with little if any co-operation on the part of the parents. The result has been to leave the high school the most unprogressive of all the grades. There has been no demand that the teachers be professionally trained, the community being satisfied with academic efficiency only. Then, again, parents and teachers have failed to take into consideration the growing social needs of youth, and have supplied little if any simple natural normal outlet for social activity. The result has been that there has grown up in our high schools those pernicious institutions, the snorities and fraternities, an attempt on the part of youth to supply his own social needs.

Now sensible parents know there is no place for snorities and fraternities in the democratic public school—first, because of the establishment of caste, and second, because most of them are undirected by either parent or teacher. The supplying of some sort of simple normal social life in the form of dancing parties, literary or musical societies, debating and dramatic clubs should be the immediate work of a parents' association or a school-improvement society. Every high school should have its active parents' association, which should co-operate in every way possible to fit the high school to meet the needs of the adolescent in the particular stage of his development. This association should emphasize to the parent what peculiar duties belong to the home, what to the school and what are mutual duties to be shared by home and school.

"Modern life is hard and increasingly so on youth," says Dr. Stanley Hall. "The home, the church and the school fail to understand its nature, its needs, and, most of all, its perils."

One does not need to discuss the nature of these perils with an intelligent body of parents and teachers, but the greatest danger to our civic life to-day is the indifference and apathy on the part of parents to the nature and needs of the adolescent (physical and moral) and to the perils and temptations that beset them.

Dr. Hall says further: "Youth now demands a greater knowledge of mind and body to protect him against temptation and to help him in the choice of a profession." If parents have not the intelligence or the courage to give this necessary information then the information in personal and social hygiene should be given by the family physician or through classes in the school.

This is the age of sentiment and the youth shows his interests in the other sex by the loud necktie and the louder "sox," by the high collar and the polished hair and a toilet which usually takes all his money and a quantity of his time.

We do not know whether to be alarmed at or afraid of this strange fellow who has the physique and independence of a man while still showing the judgment of a child.

So we do away with many forms of amusement and terms of endearment we used when he was a child. The 14-months old baby is deluged with toys, but the 14-year old lad has little at home to keep him there. The 14-months old baby is squeezed until he is breathless and pulpy, but the 14-year old lad, hungering for love and affection, is held at arm's length.

"It is all a wonderful new birth," says Dr. Hall, "and those who believe that nothing is so worthy of reverence and service as the body and soul of youth, and that the highest test of any individual or any institution is how much they contribute to the best possible development of youth, may well examine themselves and the civilization in which they live to see how far they answer this supreme test."

So let us come to the high school often, not to criticize, not to interfere with the administration, but to discuss matters of vital importance. The high school may well ask of the parents:

"Are these young people sufficiently nourished? Have they had sufficient sleep? Are their social activities simple, normal and natural? Do these social activities take too much of the young people's time out of school?"

The parent may ask of the high school: "Is the high school half wedded to the university, to credits, text books and examinations, while character building and the development of personality is lost sight of?"

After all, it is not a "model" that we teachers and parents need, but an "ideal" and ideal in common, which is the highest and best possible development of the child. In all the world's work there is no greater work than this and we must do it together wisely and sympathetically.

Purchasers of Ford cars buy quick services for securing repair parts when breakages occur, which are light in new cars. Repair parts can be secured any time at the agency of A. L. Hart & Son. The busy man will see this advantage when he owns a Ford car. See their adv. in this issue.

Sal-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 112f

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Regular Meeting at Church Parlor Thursday Evening, March 18.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Congregational church will hold the regular meeting Thursday evening, March 18, in the church parlor. The men of the church are especially invited.

Program
Red Man and His White Neighbor—Miss Rodger.
What the White Man Owes the Indian—Mrs. Coulter.
The Making of the Indian Home—Mrs. Correll.
Indian Womanhood—Mrs. Bridge.
Teddy's Home Mission—Mrs. Vandermade.
Social hour.

Three Auction Sales.

Dates have been arranged for three auction sales to be held within the next two weeks. Two of these are advertised in this issue of the Courier, and the other will appear next week. They are as follows:

Jerome Cole will sell all his stock and farm implements at his farm, one mile southeast of Barnard, on Wednesday, March 24th, commencing at 1 o'clock.

Nibbelink & Klooster will hold an auction sale of horses in Charlevoix on Thursday, March 25th. They claim to have anything in the line of horses that may be demanded.

Earl Dodd will hold a big sale of stock at his farm south of the city on Monday, April 5th. Thirty head of milch cows will be placed on sale and several fine horses. Watch for the advertisement next week.

Petter-Saunby.

Married, Wednesday evening, March 10, by Rev. C. E. Taggart, Miss Genevieve Saunby of Charlevoix and Henry L. Petter of Barnard. Miss Nina Preston, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Richard Potter, a friend of the groom, as best man. The happy couple have occupied their comfortable home near Barnard.

W. C. T. U. ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

At Annual Meeting in Congregational Church Friday.

Many Exceptionally Fine Numbers on Program—
Committees Make Reports.

The attendance at the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union on Friday afternoon of last week was very gratifying. A number of the members were too busy in the dining room looking after the supper that was being prepared for the evening to attend the meeting. The president, Miss Agnes Rodger, presided.

After the opening exercises and reading of minutes, etc., the program was taken up and was in charge of Mrs. Parmelee. Mrs. Correll sang. Mrs. Taggart, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Wilkinson each had something to say as to how the union might become a force in the community. Mrs. Campbell read the latest regarding the proposed amendment for prohibition in this state, which, if carried, means Michigan dry in 1917. Mrs. Correll sang, by request, "Jim and Me," which was much enjoyed.

Miss Rodger, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Parmelee each had readings and after some volunteered remarks and singing the election of officers was taken up and disposed of as follows: Mrs. Alcox was elected president by a big majority; Mrs. Lewis was re-elected corresponding secretary; Mrs. Wilkinson, recording secretary, and Mrs. J. Cooper, treasurer. All have served for a number of years.

A rising vote of thanks was given Miss Rodger for her faithful service as president during the past year. The reports from the flower mission and press superintendents were accepted and are to be filed. The reports of the recording secretary and treasurer were received and ordered to be put on record. Some of these reports may appear in the Courier later.

The supper following was certainly a success, so far at least as the menu went. Remarks were passed as to how so good a supper could be served for the price asked. Guess everybody was satisfied that they got their money's worth.

Buy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown. Adv. 86f

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN WOODS

Wallace E. Daniels Dies Next Day from Epilepsy.

Had Gone to Gather Fuel When Stricken—Family Institutes Search.

The death of Wallace E. Daniels, an old resident of this city, took place at 7 o'clock Saturday morning, the direct cause being epilepsy.

On the morning previous Mr. Daniels had gone into the woods near the Ilme plant for the purpose of gathering fuel. He left the house quite early in the morning and, failing to return at the usual time, the members of his family became alarmed and instituted a search for him. He was found about 2 o'clock in the afternoon by Frank Zeitler, lying on the ground, unconscious and almost frozen. He was taken to his home and cared for, but died the following morning.

Mr. Daniels had been suffering from acute indigestion for the past four years and was in very poor health. Judging from his condition when found, he had evidently been stricken with an epileptic fit and was unable to help himself or call for help. Before death took him he partially regained consciousness, but not enough to realize what had happened to him.

Wallace Edwin Daniels was 64 years of age at the time of his death. He had lived in Charlevoix for about 34 years. In earlier years he was a sailor and during later years was a painter. He is survived by a wife, two sons and one daughter.

Funeral services were held from the house Monday at 10:30 a. m. Interment at Brookside cemetery.

WENT THROUGH THE ICE

Robert Withers Loses a Valuable Team on Pine Lake Saturday.

A valuable team of horses belonging to Robt. Withers broke through the ice on Pine Lake off the coal sheds Saturday morning and were drowned before they could be gotten out.

The team was being driven by Clarence Withers, his son, and were on the way to the Charlevoix Lumber Company's holding in Eveline township, across the arm, for a load of wood. The team went through the ice and were followed by the front bobs, which greatly hindered getting them out. The horses were valued at $400. A short time before another team driven by Mont Withers broke through the ice a short distance from where the drowning occurred.

BEST GAME THIS SEASON

Fast Traverse City Independents to Play
Friday Night.

Considered to be Fastest Team in Northern Michigan—Other Games.

The big attraction on the basketball docket for this week will be the invasion of the Traverse City independent team Friday night at the roller rink. Traverse City has already established herself among the basketball annals of the state by holding several Detroit independent teams to close scores and is considered by critics among the best aggregations that the state puts out. Thus far during the present season none of the Northern Michigan teams have been able to make an impression on the Traverse City quintet. The locals are putting in every minute in preparation for this big final battle of the winter sport season and expect one of the stiffest of games. The Traverse City team will be weakened by the absence of Irlie, who left recently for spring training with the Chicago White Sox. Durgan, a former Charlevoix man, is among the ranks of the visitors.

In a fast yet sluggish game last Thursday night Charlevoix took Boyne City into camp to the tune of 32-10. Boyne City put up an unexpected class of basketball and was able to hold the locals to a reasonable count. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the game.

Every Good Housewife

should have this booklet which tells why

Derryvale Pure Irish Linens

are superior at less cost than that of un-guaranteed kinds.

A written guarantee, signed by the makers, is given with every piece of Derryvale. We, by being sole representatives for it here, stand direct sponsor to you for its purity, economy and durability.

Don't buy linens until you have at least read the story of Derryvale. Send for it, or drop in and let us show it to you, together with many beautiful original designs.

J. L. Crane

Correspondence

HAYES.

Henry Ostrum is no better.

Fred Erfourth stayed over to his mother's Saturday night.

Platt Webster and Lee Sneathen finished hauling logs last week.

Leslie Howe is hauling a few logs to Horton Bay to cut for lumber.

Mrs. George Tindall was helping take care of her father last week.

George and Lela Howe went over to see Mrs. Ostrum last Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Jones Lewis and Mrs. C. Pant and daughters visited the school Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris and the children went to Horton Bay Saturday last.

Lela Howe was a caller at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Ferris last Monday afternoon.

Fred Sneathen read in the daily paper last Saturday that his mother was dead and buried.

Fred Sneathen's family have been ill with tonsillitis and colds. Old-fashioned lagrippe, they think.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stroud and two children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Platt Webster.

Mrs. Nelson Lewis returned to Petoskey Saturday after spending the week at the home of George Howe.

Mr. Roenfeldt and daughter and son, Louis, and Fred Erfourth spent Wednesday evening at the home of George Howe.

Mrs. Ida Rush and daughter, Addie, Mrs. Jones Lewis and Mrs. C. Pant and daughters spent last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Platt Webster.

MARION.

R. Gregory is moving into his new home this week.

M. C. Woodgate has built a new veranda on his home.

Wm. Meggison, Sr., is reported to be in a very critical condition.

FEEL LIKE GIVING UP

Many Charlevoix People on the Verge of Collapse

A bad back makes you miserable all the time—Lame every morning; sore all day. It hurts to stoop—it hurts to straighten.

What with headache, dizzy spells, urinary weakness,

No wonder people are discouraged Who do not know the kidneys may be the cause of it all.

Give the weakened kidneys needful help.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.

None endorsed like Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. John Hull, 102 West Lincoln avenue, Charlevoix, says: "About a year ago I had a severe attack of lumbago. I suffered greatly and tried many remedies, but got no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Ivy Drug Store. A few months ago I was again having trouble from weak kidneys and backache. I took Doan's kidney pills and they acted promptly in bringing me relief."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hull had. Foster-McMillan Company, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WARNING

You have less than ninety days in which to purchase fruit trees, berry plants, roses and other nursery stock for spring planting. Order at once before the best varieties are sold out. Be sure that what you plant is hardy, healthy and true to name. The safest way is to buy direct from an old established nursery. We have been growing trees and plants at Monroe since 1866, sixty-six years. Lowest Prices. Largest Stock. Highest Quality.

The Michigan Nursery Company
Winkworth & Son
Agents Wanted. Monroe, Michigan

Assistant, W. Sanderson; cashier, George McMullin; waiters—Ross Alexander, Oral Lewis, Elwyn Johnson, William Scott.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CLARION

Lynn Card of Petoskey visited at the home of Fern Peas on Sunday.

The ladies' aid held a ten-cent supper at the home of Mrs. Hough Thursday evening.

Mrs. Virginia Earl was taken to the Petoskey hospital Sunday for an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Winters and daughter, Mrs. Hazel Eempe, of Petoskey, are visiting at Frank Hime's.

Capt. A. J. Olden, who has been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. M. Olden, returned to Leetsville Sunday.

About twenty-five people—members of the families of Silas Young, Clinton Young, Orval Young, Charles Geyer, D. H. Geyer and M. Collins—met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Young Sunday and served a potluck dinner in honor of Mr. Young's birthday.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness, work clothing, trunks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 71f

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

The class made fudge for domestic science work last Friday afternoon.

The children in the training room have begun the study of birds and spring flowers.

The training room children have finished the study of Europe in the subject of geography.

Miss Cleo Thorne spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in East Jordan, returning to school Monday afternoon.

Miss Himes took the class to a ten-cent tea Thursday afternoon given by the suffrage club at the home of Mrs. Harry Nicholls.

The normal class is having work in language, including story telling, nature study, description and picture study, under the direction of Miss Whiting.

The class visited the telegraph office to determine the difference in time between Washington and Charlevoix in connection with the study of time and longitude.

We save you $8.00 on each pair of team harness. Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.

A. M.—"What Shall I Do?"

P. M.—"Where Shall We Spend Eternity?"

Thursday evening—Prayer meeting and Bible study. "The Doctrine of Sin's Penalty" and "Difficult Passages Made Plain as Day." I. John 5: 16-18.

B. Y. P. U.—Topic: "Favorite Books of the Bible and Why."

Lender—Russel Schweitzer.

You are welcome—"Come with us and we will do you good."

Catholic Church

Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.

High Mass at 10:00 a. m.

Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.

Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.

Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

SURPRISES MANY

IN CHARLEVOIX

The QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler's-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis, is surprising Charlevoix people. Many have found that this simple remedy drains so much foul matter from the system that a severe attack of constipation, with its stomach and gas on the stomach, almost IMMEDIATELY. Adler's-ka is the most thorough bowel cleanser ever sold. B. A. Herman druggist.

Congregational Church

Public worship at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m.

Young people's meeting 6:00 p. m.

Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Services at Iron-ton:—

Bible school, 1:30 p. m.

Preaching, 2:30 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church

A. M.—"Uncover Your Light."

P. M.—"Christ the Healer."

Church of God

Services at camp ground every Sunday.

Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.

Preaching at 11 a. m.

Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science

Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.

Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject, "Matter."

Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m.; also 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday.

Very Engaging.

Amie Anna—Your wife is a perfect dear. William; she has such engaging ways. Mr. Stubbs. Right you are, amie; she has engaged fully two dozen different cooks in the last six months to my certain knowledge. —Florida Times-Union.

Retreating in Disorder.

"Who was that tough looking chap I saw you with today, Hicks?"

"Be careful, Parker. That was my twin brother."

"By love, old chap, forgive me! I really ought to have known."—Kansas City Times.

Another Silk.

A book published in Japan 1,000 years ago notes that at that time good silk was already produced in twenty-five provinces of that country.

Do Not Grip

We have a pleasant laxative that will do just what you want it to do.

Rexall Orderlies

We sell thousands of them and we have never seen a better remedy for the bowels. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

MICHIGAN CROP REPORT

Estimated Conditions from Correspondents Over Entire State.

In answer to the question "Has wheat during February suffered injury from any cause?" 172 correspondents in the state answer "yes" and 260 "no;" in the southern counties 80 answer "yes" and 116 "no;" in the central counties 46 answer "yes" and 17 "no;" in the northern counties 45 answer "yes" and 71 "no," and in the upper peninsula 1 answers "yes" and 26 "no."

Snow protected wheat in the state 15 days; in the southern counties 11; in the central counties 14; in the northern counties 19, and in the upper peninsula 28 days.

The average depth of snow February 15th in the state was 3.59 inches; in the southern counties 1.23; in the central counties 2.38; in the northern counties 5.79, and in the upper peninsula 12.00 inches. On the 28th the average depth of snow in the state was 2.11; in the southern counties 0.33, in the central counties 1.23; in the northern counties 2.55, and in the upper peninsula 12.75 inches.

The total number of bushels of wheat marketed by farmers in February at 71 flouring mills is 112,765 and at 85 elevators and to grain dealers 174,535, or a total of 287,300 bushels. Of this amount 202,120 bushels were marketed in the southern four tiers of counties; 72,085 in the central counties and 13,075 in the northern counties and upper peninsula. The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in the seven months August-February is 8,500,000.

Forty-eight mills, elevators and grain dealers report no wheat purchased in February.

The average condition of live stock in the state is reported as follows, comparison being made with stock in good, healthy and thrifty condition: Horses, sheep and swine, 96; cattle, 95.

What Is the Best Remedy For Constipation?

This is a question asked us many times each day. The answer is

Rexall Orderlies

We guarantee them to be satisfactory to you. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have stacked with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (600 pages—eleven telling that not such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1897.

Of vast interest and importance is its promise of better things in store for the world when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents in stamps with this coupon to cover post and tax to The Temple, No. 24 W. 43rd St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

SAFETY FIRST

YOUR pocket is not a very good depository for your money. It does not pay interest and it allows your money to be constantly subject to loss by theft or accident.

We will not only protect your money against loss but will pay you 4 per cent interest, so that the money you save will be constantly increasing.

With the Opening of the Springtime, open an account with this bank.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier

Archle Livingston, Ass't. Cashier

H. S. Barsha, Vice President

The Earliest Oranges of the Season

Where are they grown? Why do they ripen earlier than in other sections. Why are they so luscious? These and other questions are answered in a booklet which we have issued describing Glenn County, California.

Glenn County is in the heart of the great, rich Sacramento Valley. A few years ago oranges were grown commercially in only the southern part of the State. Later it was discovered that citrus fruits ripened perfectly in even the northern part of the interior valley. Since then Glenn County has come forward with some magnificent early fruit. There are countless opportunities for not only citrus fruit culture, but for all sorts of deciduous fruits, live stock, grain, truck farming, etc., in Glenn County.

We will send this beautiful book describing Glenn County free to you if you will send us your name and address and a two-cent stamp to help pay the postage. Better still, send ten cents in stamps and we will send the Glenn County book, a map of California and a sample copy of Sunset Magazine, the great Pacific Coast national magazine.

SUNSET MAGAZINE SERVICE BUREAU, San Francisco, California

In writing be sure to mention this paper and Glenn County book.

Majestic Theatre

Wednesday Evening, March 24

WORLD FILM CORPORATION

Presents

"Across the Pacific"

A Chas. E. Blancy Feature in Five Acts

A story that spans the Ocean from America to Philippines

Admission, 10c and 15c

Mary Pickford

In the Special Feature

"The Eagle's Mate"

Produced by the Famous Players Company

Thursday Evening, March 25th

C. H. S. Junior Class Benefit

Admission - 25c

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

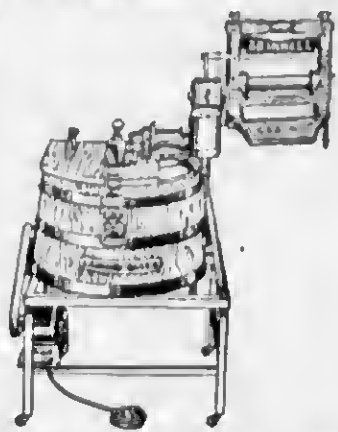

NOTHING PAYS BETTER

DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

Do You Dread Wash Day?

LET US INSTALL AN
Electric Washer and Wringer
Will not cost you a cent if the machine fails to wash and wring perfectly without hand rubbing and wringing. We guarantee our machine for five years. See our line

$45.00 and up
You take no risk in buying one of our machines

F. S. Bettes
214 Bridge Street

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND
Largest Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in their gold and silver boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take so often. Buy of your Druggist or send for a box of CHICHESTER'S DIAMOND BRAND PILLS, for 25c. Sold by Druggists Everywhere

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213, Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.
ISLE SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 108 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO KATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1855

D. R. J. A. AULB

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building

Over Levinson's Store

Phone 129 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

of Charlevoix County

Twenty years Experience

Maps and Plats on Short Notice

VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

R. B. ARMSTRONG

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the

EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT

Office in new Priest Building

Telephone No. 255 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention

Office in Bank Block

Telephone No. 5 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $20,000,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Kees, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the race out of his mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fall in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself.

Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora tells Nabok Shan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A maker of diamonds tells Hassam Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassam Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond maker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mice.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are fleeing because a great skeleton head appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a well-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's parents. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by Bolton. Storm opportunistly appears and saves her from Bolton.

Hassam Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns to her hand. An old house is mined by Hassam Ali and the old men. Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up.

John McWinter, endeavoring to trap and kill George Smith, is killed himself, and Smith is charged with murder. Hassam Ali conspires to have John Storm meet the same fate as McWinter, and he and Storm are overcome by powerful fumes. Zudora saves them, proves that McWinter's own dog trapped and killed him and saves Smith from a band of lynchers.

CHAPTER VII.

The Phantom of the Future.

A GREAT crowd was assembled before the bulletin boards in Times square. It was a remarkably serious looking crowd too. There were much dubious shaking of heads and shrugging of shoulders. It was not a baseball crowd, not an aggregation of sports awaiting the results of the track race tracks.

"What do you know about that?" "Give me a hand that floats up top of the water?"

"Take it from me, some one got fresh with the torpedo tube. We're not at war with any one."

"But what's this ray business? I never heard of anything like that before."

"Gentlemen, there is a madman somewhere in New York city."

people were on strike, and it was deduced that some personal enemy had destroyed the collier. A collier had been anchored in the vicinity of the submarine, and it seemed quite possible that the inventor had thrown his ray toward the collier and the submarine had had the misfortune to pass in between.

Immediately the government announced that it had received a communication from the inventor stating that he deplored the fatal accident to the submarine. It was postmarked Jersey City. The secret agents went over that city with a fine comb. Nothing was found. The leaders of the Starr strike were persistently shadowed, but nothing came of this endeavor. It was even ascertained that the strikers were as deeply mystified as any one.

John Storm was the attorney for the Starr company. On the day after the sinking of the collier he received a note, typewritten and postmarked Boston, that the collier had been sunk accidentally. Immediately he went down to the Starr offices and laid the note before the directors.

"Gentlemen, there is a madman somewhere in New York city. This postmark merely proves to me that the man went to Boston for the express purpose of sending the note from there. I honestly believe that it has nothing to do with the strike."

"I wish the Lord we knew, Storm," said the vice president. "If this man can burn steel under water he has in his hands the terrible power of being able to demolish the whole city if the whim strikes him! They tell me that Washington has gone crazy over the affair. It would give a million for the secret. If only to take it out of the hands of an irresponsible person."

"Shall I send this note to the secret service people to compare it with the other?" asked Storm.

"Not a bad idea."

Twenty-four hours later Storm received a call from the secret service people. The two notes had been written upon the same machine. It was a cul-de-sac. Every one seemed to blunder into a blind alley. Several times Storm thought of Zudora, but he resisted the impulse. He did not care to

United States government. It might have been purely accidental; it might have been done with sinister purpose. The navy department was, in the parlance of the day, ap in the air.

Subsequent investigation showed that the port aide, near the torpedo tube—unfortunately loaded for target practice—had been melted, absolutely melted, after the manner of melted metal exposed to some terrific heat. And all this with the plates protected by the water—an agency that had been capable of sending a heat ray through water! This news not only aroused the United States, but set warring Europe by the ears. Secret agents from Germany and Russia came to New York, with millions to their credit. But neither they nor the home secret service could find out anything. You cannot track the going or coming of the wind. You cannot follow an ocean ripple.

In an interview the secretary of war declared that the government had not been approached by any inventor of a heat ray. All it could do was to wait and see if the magician had struck accidentally and experimentally or with deadly intent.

For three days the newspapers ran scare heads, but nothing further developed. The foreign agents wasted their gold and the home agents their time.

Then came the blowing up of one of the J. B. Starr colliers or, rather, the sinking. The plates showed the same terrible agency which had destroyed the submarine. But this time there seemed to be a slight clew. The Starr collier had taken advantage of the confusion. After this nothing more was heard of the heat ray. And by and by the public forgot, as it always does, and turned once more to the ever increasing war bulletins.

"Ucle, what do you think of this, new ray talk?" asked Zudora one evening, after reading some editorial comment upon the half forgotten subject, which had not, however, been forgotten in the least by her. "Could there be such a thing?"

"My dear child, in these days nothing is impossible. They fly in the air; they swim under water; they speak from ship to ship without any visible means. A ray to penetrate steel under water is not only possible, but probable. I'll wager that a hundred men across the world are trying to accomplish this."

"And evidently one man has accomplished it."

"Evidently," agreed Hassam Ali. "But why should he blow up ships in our own harbor? Why should he demand death without just cause?"

"Ah, these men of true science! What is the death of a man or two compared to the achievement? I dare say that this man could not resist the impulse to try his infernal ray upon the living. All scientists are egotists. Why don't you dig into it? There's international fame for any one who solves this."

"What? Pit my forces against the whole of the secret service?"

"Yes, but you have facilities that no every human being has. And then you've something that not even I have."

"And what is that?"

"Luck."

"Then you think I am lucky last night of skillful?"

"Both, my child, is an extraordinary degree. No one knows that better than I," with a smile which she did not see nor would have understood if she had. Hassam Ali rose. His fingers were itching to fondle his gold.

Zudora remained in the mystic room and reread a letter she had received from Storm that day. The poor boy had lost his only photograph of her and desired a new one. Well, he should have it and just as soon as she could have it taken. She sat down before the crystal globe. So her uncle thought she was not only skillful, but lucky? Was he regretting his bargain?

She stared into the globe, and presently a strange fantasy appeared in its clear depths. She saw herself standing upon the crest of a hill, in silhouette against the setting sun, garbed in Presently the Cracking of Electricity Wee Heard.

Zudora remained in the mystic room and reread a letter she had received from Storm that day. The poor boy had lost his only photograph of her and desired a new one. Well, he should have it and just as soon as she could have it taken. She sat down before the crystal globe. So her uncle thought she was not only skillful, but lucky? Was he regretting his bargain?

She stared into the globe, and presently a strange fantasy appeared in its clear depths. She saw herself standing upon the crest of a hill, in silhouette against the setting sun, garbed in Presently the Cracking of Electricity Wee Heard.

Zudora remained in the mystic room and reread a letter she had received from Storm that day. The poor boy had lost his only photograph of her and desired a new one. Well, he should have it and just as soon as she could have it taken. She sat down before the crystal globe. So her uncle thought she was not only skillful, but lucky? Was he regretting his bargain?

She stared into the globe, and presently a strange fantasy appeared in its clear depths. She saw herself standing upon the crest of a hill, in silhouette against the setting sun, garbed in Presently the Cracking of Electricity Wee Heard.

Zudora remained in the mystic room and reread a letter she had received from Storm that day. The poor boy had lost his only photograph of her and desired a new one. Well, he should have it and just as soon as she could have it taken. She sat down before the crystal globe. So her uncle thought she was not only skillful, but lucky? Was he regretting his bargain?

She stared into the globe, and presently a strange fantasy appeared in its clear depths. She saw herself standing upon the crest of a hill, in silhouette against the setting sun, garbed in

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the

'The Great Majestic'

THE GREAT MAJESTIC.

THE GREAT MAJESTIC.

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this wonderful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

Grit Your Teeth

AND SAY "I WILL"

IT takes Determination to make a start in the saving habit; it takes determination to keep it up, but the habit grows and becomes easier as ultimate success and competence become more and more apparent.

DETERMINE TO BE SOMEBODY

Start today to set aside your thrift fund. We welcome small or large accounts.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Butters A. F. Bridge

Co-Partners

Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2

111 Antrim Street

(Continued on page 6.)

WHAT THE PEOPLE THINK OF THE Round Oak Range

ONE TESTIMONIAL—More to Follow

Charlevoix, Mich., March 1st, 1915.

S. M. See & Sons,
City.

Gentlemen:—

In response to your inquiry as to how I like the Round Oak Range bought of you, I wish to say it is perfect in every respect and that I could not ask for a better one. The manufacturers seem to have looked into all the little details which the woman who uses it could think of. The cooking top is so arranged that it heats all over alike in such a very short time. The large oven does its work beautifully and the large con- tract reservoir makes it possible to have plenty of hot water, and one of the great features is its economical use of fuel. The dampers work so perfectly that the fire is under complete control all the time.

Yours truly,
MRS. JOS. CLARKE.

If the Round Oak Pleases this Lady, it will please You—
TRY ONE

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Housefurnishers

You Can Enjoy Life
Eat what you want and not be troubled with indigestion if you will take a
Rexall Dyspepsia
Tablet
before and after each meal. Sold only by us—25c a box.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Additional Locals

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Price are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. R. C. Kellogg of Petoskey.

H. A. Reese, wife and daughter of Flint are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Glassford.

James McGeagh returned Friday from a three weeks' trip through Tennessee, Georgia and other southern states.

Darwin F. Meech was appointed as city assessor by Mayor Nicholls at Monday evening's session of the common council.

There will be a dance at the Maple Grove grange hall, Friday evening, March 26. An invitation is extended to all to attend.

The council entered into a contract with D. C. Nettleton Monday evening for the purchase of all recorded plats of property in the city.

Charles Novak was granted permission by the common council Monday evening to build a brick front to his property on Bridge street now occupied by the McCann Bakery.

Mrs. A. Powers received a telegram Wednesday morning stating that her mother was seriously ill at Goshen, Indiana. Mr. and Mrs. Powers left on the afternoon train for that city.

S. M. See & Sons, Charlevoix's well known house furnishers, are calling especial attention to the merits of the Round Oak range in their advertisement which appears on another page.

The old school bell on the Central building passed its days of usefulness last week, by cracking when performing its daily duties in notifying the boys and girls that the hour had arrived for the school duties of the day. The sound of the bell, which has been used for many years, will be greatly missed by hundreds of people who have heard it, especially those who have been called to school by its ringing in the days gone by. The fire bell is being used until a new bell can be purchased.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few sets—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

For automobile tires, Goodyear, De- fiance and Firestone tires see Benjamin Brown. Adv. 11tf

All-Aboard

Chestnut Specials

He who smiles and laughs away
The little trials of life to-day
Shall live to smile and laugh away
A greater trial another day.

Some weddings are a miracle, some are calamities and some are merely a habit people acquire. A marriage license can teach a man more biology in six months than he could learn at college in six years. Most people marry for money; some marry to gain social prominence, and once in a while we hear of an old-fashioned couple marrying simply because they love each other. Judging from the way they get along, some couples seem to have married for the sole reason that the man wanted an excuse for not going to war in case his country needed him.

We hear of a shrewd clergyman now and then and this is the latest heard of: A minister in a country town discovered that his salary was not large enough for the support of an increasing family and, having had some experience in carpentry, he began doing odd jobs for his parishioners. His business grew rapidly and soon he hung a sign bearing the word "carpenter" in front of the parsonage. But in the early spring he bethought himself of the coming season of weddings and added another word to his sign. It now reads "carpenter and joiner."

Two capricious young ladies planned to have some fun when a certain young man called to spend the evening. They thought it would be great sport to imitate everything he did. When the young man entered the parlor he blew his nose, which each of the girls quickly imitated. Thinking it a peculiar incident, the young man proceeded to stroke his hair. Both girls followed. Then he straightened his collar. They did the same and a few dimples and smiles began to appear in spite of them. Now it was the young man's turn. He was positive of his ground and calmly stooped down and turned up his trousers.

We have a few harnesses at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy. Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

HENRY SHRAPNEL.

Inventor of the Deadly War Missile and His Reward.

Shrapnel was originally the name of a British general who, about a hundred years ago, was begging the board of ordnance of his native land for some substantial recognition in respect of the new and deadly missile he had placed absolutely at their service and was being told that the institution in question "had no funds at its disposal for the reward of merit."

Henry Shrapnel's invention was probably first employed at Surinam in 1804 and was then "favorably reported on," but eleven years later Sir George Wood, who commanded the artillery at Waterloo, declared that shrapnel had won that famous battle. Without it, Wood asserted, no effort of the British could have recovered the farmhouse of La Haye Sainte.

In 1814 the government granted Shrapnel a pension of £1200 a year for life, but this was interpreted by his physicians to cover all the inventions Shrapnel had given to the army, including an ingenious gun mounting whereby the recoil was utilized to bring one gun into action at the same time as another was put under cover. Shrapnel was thus placed at a disadvantage, though he had the satisfaction of drawing his pension to a ripe old age. He died in 1842, aged eighty-one.—Argonaut.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Chocolate flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 11tf.

THE MALTESE DERBY.

Its Curious Race Course With Go as You Please Rules.

Horse racing is a favorite sport the world over, but it is doubtful whether any nation can boast of such a curious race course or claim more remarkable ideas of the sport than the Maltese.

Once a year the road skirting Silema harbor is reserved as a race course, and the people turn out in thousands. There is no regulation of the course. The crowd simply cheers out of the way as the horses come along.

The jockeys ride without saddles or saddles, and each carries a whip in either hand—one for his own mount, the other to keep back any horse which may try to overtake him. We saw one of the spectators deliberately trip a horse up by putting his leg out, at grave risk to himself.

These things, however incredible as they seem to sportsmen in this country, are taken as quite a matter of course, and consequently hardly a year goes by without a fatality of some kind. All things considered, it is not likely that the "go as you please" rules of this Maltese derby are likely to commend themselves to other turf authorities.—Wide World Magazine.

Ironing Boards as long as they last for $1.50 each—Chas. Zeitler, at Benj. Brown's Harness Store. Adv. 11tf Quicksilver.

The ore from which quicksilver is obtained is a brilliant red rock known as cinnabar. When of high purity it is actually vermilion in color. Cinnabar is the original source of the pigment known commonly as vermilion. It is a compound of sulphur and quicksilver, and in order to separate the latter from the sulphur the rock is roasted. Passing off in the form of a gas, the mercury is afterward condensed and the result is a fine stream like a continuous perch of molten silver. Like gold and silver, mercury is occasionally found in a native or pure state. Sometimes the miner's pick penetrates a rock that contains a deposit of more of the elusive and beautiful fluid. Miners suffer much from the poisonous effects of the quicksilver fumes. Extreme headliss is the best safeguard for workers in this dangerous occupation.

If You Are Nervous and are losing weight, we recommend that you take
Rexall Olive Oil
Emulsion
for a short time. A prescription which we gladly endorse.
The Ivy Drug Store.

DOVE
Combinations

See the newest styles in
DOVE

Under-muslins
"You will Love the Dove"

We have the very latest ideas
in all under-muslin garments

DOVE
Night Gowns

GO TO -- Levinson's --Get the Habit

EASTER OPENING OF MILLINERY

—AT—

Mrs. H. A. Carr's Millinery Store

Friday and Saturday

MARCH 19-20

Ladies are Cordially Invited

Mason's Dep'tment Store

There are many women who in the past have wanted to try a front laced Corset, but they were so pleased with their back laced Justrites, that they would not experiment. We now have Front Laced and Back Laced

G-D Justrite
CORSETS

and can properly fit you in either a Front Laced or a Back Laced Justrite. All Justrite corsets are sold with the distinct understanding that they will give good serviceable wear and hold their shape.

G-D Justrites are RUSTLESS and guaranteed to give satisfactory Wear

MEN'S 50c Shirts

Mason's Dep'tment Store

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year, $1.50
One copy, six months, .75
One copy, three months, .40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Obituary poetry, regular rates. Card of thanks, 25 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

Fruit growers of this vicinity are getting together for the purpose of securing a sure and constant market for their orchard and field products and, according to present indications, they will prove successful in their efforts.

The time has come when the growers must unite and stand together in order to solve their marketing problems or else continue to lose out in the annual race to sell their crops to advantage. Nobody will be injured by such a combination and everybody in the region will be helped if the idea is worked out according to the present plans.

The presence of such an organization in such a community gives it a prestige both at home and abroad and proves to the world that the people have outgrown the period of suspicion and lack of faith in each other. Co-operation in every line of endeavor in these times spells success. Going it alone means occasional success, but more often disappointment and failure. It is now directly up to the grower to do something for himself as well as for his fellows and it is taken for granted that there are men enough in the community who are big enough and possessed with business acumen and judgment to put the plan across. Success comes through the combining of forces and working towards a common goal, and with the quantity of fruit that is now being grown in the region it stands to reason that by getting together and standing together for a term of years the growers can put their business upon a basis that will be both permanent and profitable.

There are countless other ways in which such an organization can be of use to the region, because it is planned upon a basis that will permit of boosting the region in many directions. The growers now have it within their power to set the fruit industry of the region on the right track and to keep it there through their own efforts, and for their own good it is hoped that they will all get into the harness and pull for the interests of themselves and for the entire region, for by helping themselves they will at the same time help everybody who lives and does business in the territory that the organization covers.—Traverse City Record-Eagle.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf

Cut He Did.
Her Mother—I saw him kiss you! I am terribly shocked. I did not for a moment imagine he would dare take such a liberty. Himself—Nor did I. ma. In fact, I bet him a pair of gloves he dare't!

Best values in canvas gloves 10c pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81f

"THE STORE OF QUALITY" AND GOOD SERVICE

When in want of anything that will make lovely meals, and good first-class goods, and can not come to the store, call Nos. 12 or 69 and we will bring it to your house. When you are down town step into the store whether you buy or not, and the same courteous treatment will be given to you. Do you know that

We sell the finest Loaf of Bread
in the city and at 10c
and Strictly Fresh Eggs at 20c
SPECIAL

Large juicy California Naval Oranges 25c
Per Dozen

In our Meat Department we have anything and everything and at Reasonable Prices. We give the S. & H. Green Stamps.

Quality, Service and Honest Prices our Motto

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

Quality Service Honest Prices
WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

Two Carloads of American Woven WIRE FENCE

just received. If you need FENCING this spring—get our Prices and special terms—they will interest you.

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

George Willis was quite ill last week with a cold.

Don't miss the K. of P. minstrel show Thursday night.

Charles Ulrich was in Traverse City Thursday and Friday on business.

The Charlevoix coastguard station opened Sunday night at 12 o'clock.

John S. Baker made a business trip to Traverse City and Grand Rapids Friday.

Nels Lyngklip returned last week from Wisconsin, where he has been for some time.

Mrs. H. C. Plum was called to Elkhart, Indiana, on account of her sister's illness.

Henry Ager has been assisting in the construction work of Robert Gregory's new house.

Attend the K. of P. minstrel show at the opera house Thursday night. Curtain at 8:15 sharp.

Miss Amy Moore of East Jordan was a guest of the Misses Ednn and Charlotte Hull last week.

A carload of new Snxon cars, electric equipped, were received this week by Benjamin Brown, the local agent.

Mrs. R. M. Burr of Central Lake visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. G. W. Crouter, a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rachow returned Tuesday from Detroit, where they have been visiting friends for several weeks.

Mrs. Dennis Spayd left last Thursday for Mt. Pleasant and Saginaw on a four weeks visit among friends and relatives.

Miss Katharine Howard has been engaged by Mrs. H. A. Carr as trimmer in her millinery store for the coming season.

Mrs. Harold Bedford left Thursday for Grand Rapids for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bedford at the Hotel Charlevoix.

Contracts have been let for the erection of a fine summer hotel at Bay View. Several new homes are also being erected there.

Mrs. Wm. Shapton left last Thursday for Sturgis, where she will visit among relatives. This is her first visit to this city in over 33 years.

Bedford's Shoe Store is offering some extremely attractive bargains in shoes for the next ten days. Read the large advertisement on another page.

Byron J. Quick, treasurer of Boyne City, was in the city Monday and Tuesday making a settlement with County Treasurer Weaver for the taxes of that city.

Dr. R. B. Armstrong returned Monday evening from Chicago, where he has been taking special work in surgery. He reports a very pleasant as well as instructive trip.

Oscar Newman and wife left Wednesday of last week for Maxwell, Kansas, where they will visit for a couple of weeks before going to California, where they expect to locate.

With an average of 93.51 Charlevoix high school won the weekly spelling contest against East Jordan and Boyne City. East Jordan and Boyne City rated at 94.35 and 98.19 respectively.

M. W. Bennett and family of Glen Haven arrived in the city last week, where Mr. Bennett will resume his position.

Subscribe for the Courier.

A Convalescent requires a food tonic that will rapidly build up wasted tissue
Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion contains vitamin phosphorus is a most reliable prescription which we always recommend for that purpose.
The Ivy Drug Store.

CORSET SPECIAL

To close out some models we will sell
$2.00, $1.50 and $1.00 Corsets for 75c

SATURDAY ONLY --- MARCH 20TH

Mason's Dep'tment Store

Economy Hints

A penny saved is
a penny earned.—
Benjamin Franklin.

A TABLESPOONFUL of turmeric boiled with white clothes will greatly aid in the whitening process. A teaspoonful of borax put in the hot water in which clothes are rinsed will also whiten them surprisingly. Pound the borax so that it will dissolve easily. This is especially good to remove the yellow which time gives to white garments that have been laid aside for two or three years.

When colored muslin has become faded and it is desired to bleach it white, chloride of lime put in the boiling water. In the proportion of one tablespoonful of lime to one quart of water will effect the result.

Bleached handkerchiefs can be made as white as new, if placed in a vessel and covered with ammonia and peroxide of hydrogen mixed with twice the bulk of water. Let the handkerchiefs soak and then wash them in the usual manner. Often the gloves in that shade disolor handkerchiefs, and this process is one of the best for cleaning them.

To shrink cotton material place it neatly folded in a tub of water and allow it to remain until thoroughly damp. Then hang it straight up the line by placing the central fold on the line. Pin it in many places so that the material will not sag.

White goods may first be put in cold water, brought to a boil, then hung out the line. Let gingham and other colored materials soak in lukewarm water to which a little salt has been added until all the folds are thoroughly wet through, then take out, unfold without wringing and dry quickly. Do not iron.

Colored gingham and other cottons should be soaked in cold salt water before washing and then washed in dissolved soap and warm water. If soap is rubbed on the color is likely to fade. Wash quickly and rinse in cold water. The colors may be revived if a table spoonful of vinegar is added to the rinsing water for red and pink. A lump of dissolved ammonia will brighten blue, and a lump of alum will revive blue. Starch in thin boiled starch and dry in the shade. When washing glass pans avoid strong soap, hot water, too much rubbing, hot starch, and do not dry in the hot sunshine. Do not wash in hard water.

Pinks are liable to fade on a very yellow; blues and greens fade a clear white. Yellow washes nicely, browns look very clear, and mixed white and blue looks fresh and bright, even when slightly faded. Most lavenders and tans wash well. Flowered materials, gingham and muslin, will not fade if washed in this way: Make a gallon of flour starch, straining it as usual, pour half of it into two pails of soft water and wash until clean. Put the rest of the starch in the rinsing water. Dry in the shade and iron on the wrong side.

Cooked starch is much improved by the addition of sperm or salt, or both, or a little dissolved gum arabic. To make a stiffening for black wash materials, boil two quarts of wheat bran in six quarts of water for half an hour. Let it get cold, then strain. You will need neither soap nor starch if this is used. If too thick add cold water. This preparation will both cleanse and stiffen. When starching black lawn or organdy it is well to add a little black dye to the starch.

When the family washing is large, much time, labor and fuel can be saved if the following method is used: Take a clean laundry or kitchen table, shake out the bath towels and spread them evenly on the table, then do the same with hand and roller towels, then pillowcases. Fold the sheets, placing over all. Then cover with an ironing sheet. Bring the table close to the stove, so as not to lose time getting hot irons. Then commence and iron all underwear, stockings, tablecloths, napkins and handkerchiefs, all except starched clothes. Remove the ironing sheet and all the flat work underneath, then iron as if sent to the laundry. When laundering any article made of ponce or iron without first sprinkling it and you will find that it will look far newer and silkier than when dampened and ironed in the usual manner.

Improved Opportunity.
The Empress Eugenie had long untreated Napoleon III, to confer upon Rosa Bonheur the cross of the Legion of Honor. He had refused because he did not wish to found a precedent for bestowing it upon a woman. Being called across the border into Spain, Napoleon made Eugenie regent in his absence, and she, with woman wit, took advantage of her authority to confer the honor upon the great artist. Napoleon laughed on hearing his wife's confession, but the act stood.

Extreme Popularity.
"You seem to stand well with your wife's relatives."
"I'll tell you something that will surprise you."
"All right."
"There's hardly one of them I couldn't strangle for a man with reason and a conscience." —Burroughs in Acacia 23

Moving Picture Tricks.

Some of the most thrilling scenes in the moving picture dramas are taken with the aid of small models, which are considerably less than life size. It is much cheaper, of course, to burn up a toy building or to sink a miniature ship than to destroy an original to make a moving picture holiday. The models used for this work are carried out with great attention to detail, and the pictures are taken with the camera very close to the ground in get the proper perspective. The moving picture audiences, even when paying the closest attention, are completely deceived.—Boston Herald.

The Stronger Material.

A crockery dealer was just closing up his store for the day when one of his customers, a grocer, came in in a great hurry.

"Here," said he, "I picked this jar full of butter and the jar split from top to bottom. Perhaps you can explain the phenomenon."
"Oh, yes; I can," was the ready reply. "The butter was stronger than the jar."—Atlanta Constitution.

Side Stepped.

"I can give you a cold bite," said the woman.

"Why not warm it up?" asked the man.

"There isn't any wood sawed!"

"So? Well, give it to me cold."—New York Sun.

Accommodating Him.

YOUTH—Oh, I don't want to take that character. I'll make a fool of myself sure. Malden—Well, you said you wanted an easy part.—Exchange.

Ruinous.

Crawford—I hear it was a bad failure. Crabshaw—Very. Even the receivers didn't make anything out of it. —Puck.

We are slow to believe anything that, if believed, would hurt our feelings.—Owl.

Ironing Boards as long as they last for $1.50 each—Chas. Zeitler, at Benj. Brown's Harness Store. Adv.117

How to Arrange Your Household Linen Attractively.
Every true housewife takes real pleasure in the stacks of household linen piled in the linen closet and arranged neatly in the linen drawers. And, of course, the more commodious and convenient these drawers and shelves are the better pleased is the housewife.

Sometimes the linen shelves are covered with linen covers, scalloped at the edge and embroidered in some simple design. This linen edging hangs over the edge of the shelf. Linen drawers and shelves, too, can be finished in no more satisfactory way than with two coats of white enamel. This finish can be kept spotlessly clean without much trouble. Very shallow drawers are most convenient for table linen. Some of the new buffets are made with a series of very shallow drawers, each designed to hold one tablecloth with its attendant napkins.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Chocolate flavor, 25c per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv. 117f.

The word "virago," which dictionaries now define as meaning "a bold, impudent, turbulent woman, a termagant," originally signified, both by derivation and in use, just a manly woman. In the sense of a heroine or amazon. When Plautus spoke of a servant maid as a "virago" he merely meant that she was a strapping young woman, and the Romans applied the word with no intention of irreverent rudeness to Diana and Minerva. The Vulgate even has "virago" simply for woman, as the name given by Adam to his helpmate. In Latin the word never became twisted into the unkindly sense that has come about in English.

Bicycles, $14.75 to $35.00. Bicycle repairing and supplies—Benj. Brown. Adv.117f

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent,
Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

LOST Child's bracelet at the T. O. O. F. 1011 Monday evening. Finder please leave at this office. 111

FOR SALE—Span grey Percheron mares, 3 and 4 years old, both in good condition. Frank Brown, at Hooker's barn. 1111-1d

ANY person wishing to employ a competent stenographer who will be in a position to accept employment April 1, please call 113, 1012d.

FOR SALE—Light horse, buggy, harness and light sleighs. If taken all once $1200. See Joe Olson at Charlevoix Rock Product company's plant. 1012d

WANTED—To cut over land wanted to exchange for a fine lot two-story cream residence and a store building in Arlington, Fairfax county, Va. Address—C. E. Cunningham, Contact 1111, Iowa. 1111-1d

FOR SALE—61 acres, all improved, 3 miles south of Charlevoix; good soil, buildings, small orchard. Terms right. Mrs. J. N. Folger, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan. 101

WANTED—FORKENT for summer season—Convenient cottage, well located, with 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, 2 porches, 2 1/2 carports, sleeping porch, and good kitchen accommodations. Communicate with Mrs. L. Phares, 375 Duane St., New York, N. Y. 1012

J. L. Crane SPECIAL SALE

New Spring Embroideries for Underskirts and Long Cloth for Underskirts

NEXT SATURDAY, MARCH 20th
ONE DAY ONLY

Extra Fine Sheer Embroideries
6 to 10 inches wide

15c grade at 9 1-2c yard
4 yards to a Customer

36 inch Bleached Nainsooks
5 Yards to a Customer

15c grade at 9 1-2c yard

ONE DAY ONLY NEXT SATURDAY MARCH 20

Subscribe For The Courier

Another Break in Flour Prices:

This will possibly be the last break before the new crop. If you are not supplied for a couple months, GET IT NOW.

Your home flours are the cheapest and BEST. Iron Duke can not be beaten by any flour on the market. Get one of the new sanitary sacks of DUKE and try it.

For Sale by All Dealers

If your dealer is out call up either mill. The one nearest to you.

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

For Job Printing---Try us

More and more every day Ford cars grow in general demand. Their great usefulness is part of the daily life of all the people, though giving universal service with universal economy—less than two cents a mile to operate and maintain.

So simple in design that anyone can drive it—no bewildering mechanism—the Ford owner looks after his car himself. Then there's the "Ford After Service for Ford Owners," assuring the daily use of the car.

Buyers of Ford cars will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Touring Car $490; Runabout $440; Town Car $690; Coupelet $750; Sedan $975, completely equipped, f. o. b. Detroit. On display and sale at

A. L. Hart & Son, Ag't.

(Continued from page 3.)

now? white. Presently she was joined by another Zudora, dressed in black. Then the two shapes came slowly down the hill in separate paths, and at the end of each path stood a somber Hassam All. The white Zudora, when she reached Hassam All, threw her arms around his neck and kissed him. The black Zudora repelled the seer, her face expressing doubt and suspicion. The forms faded and disappeared. Zudora rose, troubled in mind. She doubted her uncle. There was no use in denying the fact. She doubted and feared him. She had given her word and her very loyalty to that word sealed her lips. She must go on until the end. Twenty exploits, and her life in her hand each time! So be it. And she sensed that John had his suspicions also. Indeed, he had once been outspoken enough.

She left the mystic room and passed on into the living room, where Hassam All, having satisfied the craving to play with his gold, sat smoking his pipe and dreaming. She did not disturb him for a time.

The remarkable control this man had over his features was one of his great assets. His expression at this moment was of absolute contentment, and yet in his mind's eye he saw the mine, this girl's father struggling for breath and life. He saw the will which made her one of the greatest belles in America. He saw his own sister ends accomplished. And all the while Zudora believed that some happy recollections had served to give that face its benign appearance.

"Uncle!"

He lowered his pipe as if he had not been conscious of her presence.

"What is it?"

"Do you know of any unusual photographer? I mean a genius of his kind, something out of the way."

"Hum! Let me see. There used to be a chap in Third street who had some new tricks. I believe that these were too expensive for the general public. Besides, he was one of those cranks who slave for an idea and to whom money is nothing. I've got the name somewhere. When I come across it I'll let you know."

He gave the name to her the next morning and immediately left the house. He had an idea. He was always having ideas. About half after 9 he arrived downtown, stopped before a building, went into the corridor and searched the wall directory. He found Fal Green, the eccentric photographer, on the twelfth floor. He was about to seek the elevator when another name caught his attention.

"He!" he murmured. "And I had forgotten all about the man! Well, the world moves fast. I believe I can make something out of this little journey."

"Behold!" he said enthusiastically.

He did not stop at the photographer's. He went up to the next floor and knocked at a certain door. A tall, gaunt individual opened the door.

"Hassam All!"

"I, my friend. And so I find you at last!"

"You have been looking for me?"

"And not alone, my friend."

"Hush! Not so loud! In God's name, not so loud!"

"So we haven't given up that great idea, eh? It is four years since I saw you last. And you've got it?"

"Yes, yes. I've got it! I have done what no other man in the world has done. A revolution in the world of science," proudly, forgetting his recent terror at the sight of this man, Hassam All. "To me falls the honor of bringing a world peace. There will be no more war after this."

"But the collars and the submarine, my friend, especially the submarine," gravely.

The inventor suddenly hid his face in his hands.

"God knows it was accidental! I meant no harm, only I had to test it; I had to!"

"A marvelous invention!" mused Hassam All, glancing around the room and noting the array of retorts, the queer generating machine, the glass side and top to the room. "We shall become rich."

"We?"

"Even so, my friend. Rich beyond all dreams—that is, if you obey my will."

"Ah, I know you, Hassam All! It is some devil's work you want me to do."

"Devil's or angel's work, you will do it or pay the penalty the law requires for the killing of twenty odd men in mere caprice. Take your choice." The voice was not suave now, but cold and deadly.

"What is it you wish me to do?"

Hassam All whispered his directions.

"Death?" said the inventor, horrified.

"Death. What is one more?"

"But that was experiment; this is murder."

"What you have done is to law one and the same thing. Oh, I have you, my friend; I have you. You will do my will and in a very short time too."

"I will do it under compulsion! Upon your head be the result."

"This laboratory is directly above Green's."

"Yes."

"We will cut a small hole through the ceiling," suggested Hassam All.

"Quite unnecessary. I can adjust this ray to say distance up to five miles. I can pass it through wood and iron and burn what I wish on the other side. It is all a matter of mathematics. I made a miscalculation—or the submarine never have been touched."

"Show me how the infernal thing works. I don't mean the chemical analysis of it. I mean just the simple mechanism."

The inventor, true to his class and kind, instantly forgot his personal danger. His whole soul was bent upon one service to humanity—a world with out war. And he was positive that he alone possessed the thing that would make war so horrible, so annihilating that humanity would no longer dare to make war. Presently the crackling of electricity was heard, and the strange odor which always follows the path of lightning filled the room. Far out in the bay was a series of empty barges being returned from the deep sea dump. The inventor turned his ray upon that, after carefully measuring the distance, something after the manner of a civil engineer. There was a remarkable range finder on the top of the machine, but this the inventor used only when objects were below the horizon.

The two men watched the rear barge. Presently it listed; then it began to sag, and a cloud of smoke burst from the hatch.

"Good heavens!" grasped Hassam All. "Did you strike that barge under water?"

"Oh, no. I am powerless against wood under water, but all metals are like so much paper."

"What are you going to do with it?"

Hassam All was seized by the colossal power of the machine.

"When the time comes I am going to present it to the United States government."

"Man, there are millions and millions in it!"

"I am a patriot," said the inventor simply.

It was about this time that Zudora arrived at the photographer's studio on the floor below. At the sound of the interior bell the photographer came out of his dark room. To Zudora he did not look like any photographer she had ever seen. His big head was covered with a shock of rusty colored hair; he needed a shave; his necktie was awry; his coat was speckled with tobacco ash, and chemical stains invited attention. But his forehead was all right and his eyes kindly, if keen.

"Ah, you are Miss Zudora. Your uncle telephoned to me that you would be here. I don't take the average run of photographers." His voice was energetic. There was a Tenthon's burr to it, for all that his name was Green. But Zudora did not notice this at the time.

"You see," he went on, "in some things I'm going to revolutionize photography. Now, if you'll sit down for a moment until I finish the plate, I'll show you the secret."

He returned to the dark room, but he did not bother with any plates. Instead, he placed his ear against a telephone-like object and listened. Hassam All was not alone, evidently, in the secret of the man in the room above. A scowl crossed the face of Green, and he muttered an oath in German. When he came back to Zudora he was smiling.

"Now, then, you want full length or head?"

"Just the head. I want something unusual."

"You've come to the right man, then."

He took a piece of wood from his flat desk. The wood was highly polished. From a shelf he took down a beaker and poured some of the liquid upon the piece of wood. Then he took some liquid from another bottle and spread it over the wood, at almost the same time holding the square in front of Zudora's face. Next he threw on some dark liquid.

"Behold!" he said enthusiastically.

"Why," she cried, astounded, "I never saw anything like that!"

"Few have," he declared. "Now come tomorrow at 3 and I'll have six for you on wood, steel, copper, iron, cloth and celluloid. When I can make

THE DISMEMBERMENT OF THE PERE MARQUETTE

Dismemberment May Be Either Complete or Partial—Either Kind is a Public Calamity.

It will be COMPLETE if the underlying bonds foreclose—PARTIAL, if the junior bondholders foreclose with conditions as they now are. This is our judgment. No one can tell positively what is going to happen. But we know what we fear is going to happen and we know whereof we speak.

The Underlying Bonds

The underlying bonds do not cover the system as a whole but are mortgages on the constituent parts, such as the Chicago & West Michigan; the Detroit, Grand Rapids & Western and the Flint & Pere Marquette, having been issued before the consolidation. The interest has not been paid on these bonds for over a year because the revenues of the system are less than the expenses. The bondholders are now demanding their interest on their security and will foreclose if the present conditions continue. The disintegration of the system will follow, with a consequent severe loss to the state in transportation facilities.

Bear these Facts in Mind

The Pere Marquette system has 17,000 cars available for freight business. The demand for these cars is not equal all over the system each day in the year, but varies day by day on different sections of the road. As the demand comes from one part of the system, and then from another, these cars are marshaled like an army, to meet conditions, and the onrush of traffic. For instance, during the fruit season there is an extraordinary demand in western Michigan and the system mobilizes its transportation equipment in that section; then comes the demand from the "Web" territory for cars to market potatoes, beans, etc., and then it shifts to the "Thumb" district to move hay, sugar beets, etc. If the system is divided, the cars must be divided, and car shortage will result. This phase alone of dismemberment is most important to the business and agricultural industries of the state.

Reduce Car Loaning Facilities

As a system the Pere Marquette can secure cars from other large connecting lines at its three important terminals—Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo. This valuable reserve facility will be reduced to not more than one terminal for each road in case the system is divided. For instance, the Chicago & West Michigan will have to depend entirely on its Chicago terminal connection; the Detroit, Grand Rapids & Western will be limited to its Detroit terminal, and the Flint & Pere Marquette will be confined to its Toledo terminal. It stands to reason, does it not, that one small road can not secure as good reciprocal car loaning arrangements at one terminal as the big system can at three terminals. This means congestion in terminals added to car shortages on the lines.

Set Back Transportation Fifteen Years

Transportation facilities will be set back fifteen years to the point where they were when the consolidation was effected, if the system is torn apart. It was good railroading to tie together these three roads, situated as they are, into one system whereby their combined equipment and resources are available for any part of the state served by the Pere Marquette.

Slower Service East

Shipments east from the branches are delivered at Buffalo 24 hours quicker than would be possible if the system is disrupted. For example business from the St. Louis section of the state now goes to Saginaw and connects with our through "expedited" freight; business from the Greenville and Howard City sections goes to Grand Ledge and at that point is put into a through train to the frontier. Handled by independent lines this business would have either to go to a connection down the Chicago division or to a connection at Detroit. The business of the old Flint & Pere Marquette, which now goes east by the direct Frontier route, would have to be largely turned over to connections at Toledo. Either movement would mean delay. From many branches where cars go into through freights the moment they reach main lines, the business would necessitate at least three handlings through terminals with all the delays incident thereto. The "Thumb" territory now has fast service into and out of Chicago. That business would have to be handled through two terminals—one in Saginaw where the D. G. R. & W. has this cheap I'll put the average customer into the dust bin."

And Zudora believed him.

Meantime the secret service was burrowing and finding nothing. The Starr company was still at loggerheads with its men, and Starr was striving with might and main to adjust the differences. Two more collars had gone to the bottom mysteriously.

"Now or I will shoot!" Hassam All had taken the precaution to disguise himself. The elevator boy would never swear that such and such a man had asked directions, and the law would never be able to find such a man. "Hurry!"

Just before this, however, Zudora, being alone for a moment, thought she would try an experiment herself. She picked up one of the levers to learn if the sensitizing liquid contained ether. When the bottle slipped from her hand and crashed to the floor. Almost instantly she saw a strange face form upon the liquid. She looked up quickly, in time to see two heads suddenly withdraw and heard a rattle of wood as the aperture's covering fell into place.

"What could that mean?" She stepped back to the wall. She waited breathlessly, but nothing happened. Her first thought was that some one was trying to steal the photographer's secret, and she became determined to frustrate this base plan.

When Hassam All looked again in order to direct the ray of the inventor Zudora was gone! She had evidently seen something. He felt an urgent need of getting away at once.

Oddly enough, she passed him in the upper hall as he was making for the nothing but untold millions to the distance. But unfortunately for his schemes he had reckoned without Fal Green's photography.

Hassam All, despite the inventor's protests, had cut an aperture through the floor, so that he could see what was going on in the room below. At a favorable moment he thrust a revolver toward the inventor.

"Now!" he whispered.

"Now or I will shoot!" Hassam All had taken the precaution to disguise himself. The elevator boy would never swear that such and such a man had asked directions, and the law would never be able to find such a man. "Hurry!"

Just before this, however, Zudora, being alone for a moment, thought she would try an experiment herself. She picked up one of the levers to learn if the sensitizing liquid contained ether. When the bottle slipped from her hand and crashed to the floor. Almost instantly she saw a strange face form upon the liquid. She looked up quickly, in time to see two heads suddenly withdraw and heard a rattle of wood as the aperture's covering fell into place.

"What could that mean?" She stepped back to the wall. She waited breathlessly, but nothing happened. Her first thought was that some one was trying to steal the photographer's secret, and she became determined to frustrate this base plan.

When Hassam All looked again in order to direct the ray of the inventor Zudora was gone! She had evidently seen something. He felt an urgent need of getting away at once.

Oddly enough, she passed him in the upper hall as he was making for the

nothing but untold millions to the distance. But unfortunately for his schemes he had reckoned without Fal Green's photography.

Hassam All, despite the inventor's protests, had cut an aperture through the floor, so that he could see what was going on in the room below. At a favorable moment he thrust a revolver toward the inventor.

"Now!" he whispered.

"Now or I will shoot!" Hassam All had taken the precaution to disguise himself. The elevator boy would never swear that such and such a man had asked directions, and the law would never be able to find such a man. "Hurry!"

Just before this, however, Zudora, being alone for a moment, thought she would try an experiment herself. She picked up one of the levers to learn if the sensitizing liquid contained ether. When the bottle slipped from her hand and crashed to the floor. Almost instantly she saw a strange face form upon the liquid. She looked up quickly, in time to see two heads suddenly withdraw and heard a rattle of wood as the aperture's covering fell into place.

"What could that mean?" She stepped back to the wall. She waited breathlessly, but nothing happened. Her first thought was that some one was trying to steal the photographer's secret, and she became determined to frustrate this base plan.

When Hassam All looked again in order to direct the ray of the inventor Zudora was gone! She had evidently seen something. He felt an urgent need of getting away at once.

Oddly enough, she passed him in the upper hall as he was making for the

nothing but untold millions to the distance. But unfortunately for his schemes he had reckoned without Fal Green's photography.

Hassam All, despite the inventor's protests, had cut an aperture through the floor, so that he could see what was going on in the room below. At a favorable moment he thrust a revolver toward the inventor.

"Now!" he whispered.

"Now or I will shoot!" Hassam All had taken the precaution to disguise himself. The elevator boy would never swear that such and such a man had asked directions, and the law would never be able to find such a man. "Hurry!"

Just before this, however, Zudora, being alone for a moment, thought she would try an experiment herself. She picked up one of the levers to learn if the sensitizing liquid contained ether. When the bottle slipped from her hand and crashed to the floor. Almost instantly she saw a strange face form upon the liquid. She looked up quickly, in time to see two heads suddenly withdraw and heard a rattle of wood as the aperture's covering fell into place.

"What could that mean?" She stepped back to the wall. She waited breathlessly, but nothing happened. Her first thought was that some one was trying to steal the photographer's secret, and she became determined to frustrate this base plan.

When Hassam All looked again in order to direct the ray of the inventor Zudora was gone! She had evidently seen something. He felt an urgent need of getting away at once.

Oddly enough, she passed him in the upper hall as he was making for the only contract terminals with the Michigan Central and then into Grand Rapids where it would be delivered to the C. & W. M. Today such business goes from the "Thumb" into Grand Rapids under one movement into a Chicago train. Today there is through Chicago service for the Ludington and Manistee sections, with only one change in engines.

System Handling would be abolished—Bad Blow to Coal Trade

The Saginaw valley has built up an extensive commercial and domestic fuel trade in the "Web" territory. The mines are all located on the old F. & P. M. in Bay and Saginaw counties. The system provides for distributing this coal in western Michigan under traffic conditions which have been largely responsible for getting the business. Dismemberment would mean added expense of delivery; less efficient service and doubtless loss to the valley of a large portion of this trade because of added expense and delay. The Indiana and Illinois coal fields had this region of Michigan practically to themselves before the organization of the system opened the way for the Saginaw coal to compete.

Serious Loss in Terminal Facilities

Dividing the system means that the Detroit, Grand Rapids & Western would be without locomotive shops and would have no yards in Grand Rapids, which would be a blow to that city and its contiguous territory. The Michigan Central has not at this time proper terminal facilities in Saginaw for the D. G. R. & W., and the road would have no other terminal in that city. The business of the old F. & P. M. which now goes Grand Rapids way would all go either via Toledo or via cross-lake as it does from points on the Ann Arbor.

Some Serious Business Disadvantages

Many rates on low grades commodities are made on a strictly mileage basis for one road haul; and, when such commodities move for two road hauls, through rates are made by adding the two rates together. To illustrate, take sugar beets from Hemlock to Bay City. The present rate is 50 cents one road Pere Marquette haul. This would be a two road haul for the D. G. R. & W. and F. & P. M., with a 40 cent rate, Hemlock to Saginaw and a 40 cent rate, Saginaw to Bay City, or a rate of 80 cents. The same principle would apply in making rates on logs and bolts, and numerous other commodities such as brick, sand, gravel, crushed stone, fuel-wood, and in certain instances on ice. You shippers should take into account the points along the Pere Marquette with which you trade, examine the map to find out in how many instances the division of the system would affect your rates and facilities, and then you can appreciate the importance to the State of keeping the system intact.

Another factor of no small importance is the transit privilege enjoyed at Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Big Rapids, Reed City, Ludington, Flint and Lansing. The more mileage there is embraced in the system the more valuable these transit privileges become.

It's Good Business to Preserve the System Intact

The Pere Marquette Railroad is a great big Michigan institution in which every citizen has a direct interest because, reaching as it does such a large and important territory of the state, its prosperity and the prosperity of the state are too closely interwoven for one to be adversely affected without the other suffering serious consequences. With the state so vitally interested in the welfare of the road by virtue of the benefits accruing to the people from good service, there should be no question as to its right to expect fair treatment from the state. The road is being operated with its expenses exceeding its revenues. It is a public servant working at less than a living wage. Your grocer says his stock has cost more, therefore he must raise his price to you, and you accept the raise without expecting him to present you with a statement of the exact cost, and without questioning his truthfulness. Figures of revenue and outlay are prepared by railroad officials under a federal law which imposes a jail sentence as well as a fine, if they are false. In view of the fact that Michigan men are operating the Pere Marquette as receivers and are presenting the case to you, don't you think their statements are worthy of credence? You can help them preserve the system to Michigan.

The Federal Court will pass on any reorganization plan which may be worked out. The Michigan Railroad Commission will have absolute control of the amount of capitalization under such a plan. There is no danger whatever of stock or bond manipulation.

Write Senator J. Lee Morford and Representative H. I. McMillan of this County, now at Lansing, at once to vote for the bill for higher rates for passenger service. The raise asked is reasonable and absolutely necessary as a means of helping to keep the system intact. The letter will prove a good investment. Do it now. It is imperative to secure action at this session.

PAUL H. KING,
DUDLEY E. WATERS,
Receivers.

elevator. So intent was she upon her own quest that she gave the man but a passing glance.

Inventors are careless generally in all things save that upon which their thoughts are set. It never occurred to the inventor of the destructive ray to lock the door after the flight of the man who professed to be his friend, but who in reality was the worst enemy he had. So Zudora had no difficulty in getting down.

As in certain chambers, she did not see so stealthily as a cat.

The inventive photographer had not been inactive all this time. He sensed danger when he saw that weird photograph on the floor. He determined his actions at once. If he could not have the secret of that magical ray for the fatherland no one should have it.

Starr was greatly excited when Zudora disclosed her discovery. Together they went to the local secret service office.

They found the poor inventor, who in his soul wanted only the welfare of humanity. They found him a broken reed. Some one had destroyed the very heart of the machine it had taken two fortunes and twenty years of labor to conceive. They could do what they wished with him.

That night, unknown to Zudora, Hassam All had a visitor, a visitor who was cold and murderous in his wrath.

"You have despoiled me of my labors!"

"Indeed?" said Hassam All.

"You have robbed the fatherland of an invention that would have made us the greatest power in the world!"

"And perhaps that is the very reason why I despoiled you," said Hassam All coldly. "You came to me and going down to the sea. But what signified all these retorts, wires, keys and squares of black rubber? No man with all these strange things about him would contemplate the robbing of another man's secret. She heard the man mutter a few words. Her heart misgave her! Quietly as she had entered she stole forth. What should she do? How should she act in face of this tremendous discovery? She must see Starr and act on her method.

The inventive photographer had not been inactive all this time. He sensed danger when he saw that weird photograph on the floor. He determined his actions at once. If he could not have the secret of that magical ray for the fatherland no one should have it.

Starr was greatly excited when Zudora disclosed her discovery. Together they went to the local secret service office.

They found the poor inventor, who in his soul wanted only the welfare of humanity. They found him a broken reed. Some one had destroyed the very heart of the machine it had taken two fortunes and twenty years of labor to conceive. They could do what they wished with him.

That night, unknown to Zudora, Hassam All had a visitor, a visitor who was cold and murderous in his wrath.

"You have despoiled me of my labors!"

"Indeed?" said Hassam All.

"You have robbed the fatherland of an invention that would have made us the greatest power in the world!"

"And perhaps that is the very reason why I despoiled you," said Hassam All coldly. "You came to me and going down to the sea. But what signified all these retorts, wires, keys and squares of black rubber? No man with all these strange things about him would contemplate the robbing of another man's secret. She heard the man mutter a few words. Her heart misgave her! Quietly as she had entered she stole forth. What should she do? How should she act in face of this tremendous discovery? She must see Starr and act on her method.

The inventive photographer had not been inactive all this time. He sensed danger when he saw that weird photograph on the floor. He determined his actions at once. If he could not have the secret of that magical ray for the fatherland no one should have it.

Starr was greatly excited when Zudora disclosed her discovery. Together they went to the local secret service office.

They found the poor inventor, who in his soul wanted only the welfare of humanity. They found him a broken reed. Some one had destroyed the very heart of the machine it had taken two fortunes and twenty years of labor to conceive. They could do what they wished with him.

That night, unknown to Zudora, Hassam All had a visitor, a visitor who was cold and murderous in his wrath.

"You have despoiled me of my labors!"

"Indeed?" said Hassam All.

"You have robbed the fatherland of an invention that would have made us the greatest power in the world!"

"And perhaps that is the very reason why I despoiled you," said Hassam All coldly. "You came to me and

(Continued on page 7)

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union)

LIQUOR AND HEALTH.

Important evidence with regard to liquor and the public health was brought before the committee on the regulation of the liquor traffic to the District of Columbia by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university. Professor Fisher showed—

That the lowering of the death rate in London has been exactly parallel to the lowered consumption of liquor in that city.

That the lessening of liquor consumption in Sweden has been followed by a remarkable lowering of its already low death rate.

That alcohol, even in moderate quantity, actually lessens efficiency, mental and physical.

That alcohol greatly increases the susceptibility to disease.

That alcohol is an important cause of insanity.

That alcohol lessens the average length of life, as shown by the reports of insurance companies and friendly societies.

That alcohol increases poverty. These are the findings of cold science, not the testimony of anti-alcohol enthusiasts.

DRINK STATISTICS.

Figures showing an increase since 1904 of three gallons per capita in the nation's consumption of alcoholic drinks need a footnote.

While the average consumption for 1913 was 22.68, the average in 1907 and again in 1911 was 22.79. This gives the prohibitionists a fair argument for the success of their labors in at least preventing an increase.

What is more, the actual consumers of alcohol are estimated to be about 25.5 per cent of the total population, with an average of 89 gallons each. Of this 25.5 per cent it would be interesting to know what proportion do the heavy drinkers.

If hard drinkers drink more but grow fewer, while the number of those who drink little or nothing keeps fairly steady, totals and averages need not cause much worry to temperance workers.—New York World.

A SOBER NAVY.

"No drinking in the navy" is an order everywhere respected, says Miss Ellen Stone, formerly of European Turkey, whose capture and ransom at great cost some years ago is still vividly remembered. "The naval officer is a splendid type of manhood," she continues. "To him an order is an order. Americans now need never fear to see on shore a jackie or marine from an American battleship in an intoxicated condition, which brings disgrace to the country whose uniform he wears. With shame and sorrow I have seen men from the battalions of other nations, in the streets of Saloniki, jeered at by Turks, Jews and others of that ancient city. Wonder of wonders that the ocean should go dry!"

EVEN THE PUGILISTS.

Joe Shugrue, the popular Jersey City pugilist, is a total abstainer. The sporting editor of the Chicago Tribune says of him: "To be banqueting and lauded by high city officials has not fallen to the lot of any New York boxer, but Joe holds this distinction. . . . Shugrue is not only a teetotaler but frowns upon the use of liquor by the young men who are proud of his acquaintance."

BETTERMENT OF HUMANITY.

"Every movement for the betterment of humanity," says Mr. John Cunneen, the labor leader, "has been fought by people who said it would throw somebody out of work. It was so when oil came to displace candles, gas to supplant candles, and electricity in place of gas. For every man out of work by voting the saloons out, the saloons, if they stay, will put ten out of work."

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.

Eight miners in a West Virginia coal mine, and all of them drinkers, worked under the same conditions during the wet month of June and the dry month of August, conditions being the same both months except as to the drink. In June, when they could drink, and did, they earned $214.77; in August, with the drink banned and impossible, their earnings were $149.96.

CAUSE OF DESERTION.

In the eastern provinces of Germany the government has prohibited the sale of all alcoholic liquors. This action has been taken owing to the findings of the court-martial that in almost every instance desertion of the soldiers has been due to drink.

LIQUOR MEN PAY FINE.

How the liquor men are reforming: At Peterson, N. J., the liquor dealers have paid the fines of 30 Sunday law violators during the past few months.

ALCOHOL IN FRUITS.

"Alcohol is not in fruits or grains any more than poisonous poisons are in meat."

SELLER CAN'T CONTROL.

After you sell a man liquor his moderate or immoderate use of it is beyond your control.

Write for the Courier.

"ZUDORA"

(Continued from page 6)

threaten when by allying a hand I could send you to prison for so many years that it would be the ruin of your life."

"I know that. But this I say to you: Some day you'll slip, and then beware of me!"

"Ahmed," called Hassan Ali, "show this gentleman to the door!"

And Fai Green, so called, passed forth into the night. A week later his body was found in the East river. By whose hand?

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

He Obeyed.

Murat Halstead, the great journalist of war times, went to General William T. Sherman's headquarters once for the "latest news from the front." Halstead was armed with many blue introductory letters, but decided to rely mainly on one given him by Thomas Ewing, Sherman's brother-in-law. He found the general and presented Ewing's letter. The general opened it somewhat impatiently, read a few lines, folded it and said:

"Ah, you come from Ewing, and you desire to have 'all the latest news,' the 'next probable move' of our army, eh? Well, there's a train leaving this town for Chelmsford at 2 o'clock. Here, take this ticket and step over there and get your dinner and then get on that train."

"Well, but, General Sherman!" began the newspaper man. But Sherman waved him off.

"Go over and get a good dinner. We have plenty and always strive to treat our friends well. But be sure you don't miss that 2 o'clock train!" And Halstead obeyed.

The Witch's Worst.

"You defy me, do you?" blazed the witch. The victim trembled.

"I'll be worse for you. I will cause fortune to rain a perfect shower of gold upon you, and then!"

"Then what?" gasped the victim.

"And then the income tax collector!"

With a shriek of agony, the victim turned and fled—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

AN ALCOHOLIC ENIGMA.

Fewer Persons Seem to Drink, Yet More Liquor Is Consumed.

It is the testimony of the Internal revenue receipts of our own government that, notwithstanding the noteworthy extension of the dry areas by reason of state wide prohibitions and local option laws, consumption of all alcoholic liquor has greatly increased.

In addition to the dry areas established by political action (we use the term in its broad sense) there has been wide promotion of personal abstinence because of rules against drinking established by large employers of labor, who realize the wisdom of guarding the safety of employees and the public against accident, as well as promoting general efficiency.

We know that in addition to these powerful influences there has grown up a social opposition to intemperate habits that has a wholesome effect against overindulgence in intoxicating liquors and in favor of total abstinence. In any circle of acquaintances the persistent drinkers—the men who "make a business of it"—do not appear to be numerous.

The question naturally arises in our sequence, Where does all the liquor go, and who uses it? Increase of population in the wet areas does not account for all of it.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

An Earl's Duel With a Butler.

About the middle of the last century the Lord Rosebery of that time was in Paris, and in paying a call one day he was received so rudely by the butler that he complained to his friend of the servant's conduct. But the butler had been a noncommissioned officer in the French army, and as such he challenged Lord Rosebery to a duel. The earl accepted, and two shots were exchanged without result. But Lord Rosebery was angered at his own conduct and afraid his antagonist might lay aside his military rank and resume his duties as a servant, thus exposing an earl to the reproach of having fought with a butler. So he settled an annuity of £250 on the man on condition that he did not return to domestic service. The condition was faithfully observed on both sides.

Notes About Birds.

A peculiar characteristic about birds is that the young of those that build nests in trees are blind when hatched, are naked, unable to walk and are fed by the parent bird. Among the wading birds the young can walk, swim and pick up food immediately upon leaving the egg. With birds, as with higher animals, the females seem to fancy bright colors and music; hence Mother Nature usually ornaments the head, neck and tails of the males that they may find mates more readily. The male birds usually excel in music also.—Exchange.

A Pleasant Way to Help.

"Mamma," lisped the cherub, while a smile of scrupulous sweetness illuminated his baby face, "do you know that sometimes I help Catherine's mamma?"

"That's nice," prompted the proud parent. "And what do you do to help her, dear?"

"Oh," replied the cherub, "when Catherine's naughty I punish her!"

YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Troublesome Teeth.

The Young One: Do your teeth ever give you trouble? The Old One—Oh yes, I mislay 'em sometimes.

LESSONS FROM

SAUL'S FAILURES

1 Samuel 13:1-14—March 21.

Obedience Without Its Spirit Caused Saul's Difficulties—The Kingdom, Taken From Saul's Family, Given to David, "A Man After God's Own Heart"—Saul Profited Partially by His Mistakes and Was Blessed Accordingly—Lessons For Everybody.

"Let us put on the armor of light."—Rom. 13:12.

THE army which accomplished the victory of our last study was disbanded; and subsequently King Saul had a standing army of three thousand men. One thousand of these were under command of his son Jonathan. The remainder constituted a royal guard, immediately under Saul's direction. Apparently the land of Israel was completely dominated by the Philistines, who here and there had garrisons.

The Israelites were poorly armed; for the Philistines would not permit them to have weapons of war, lest they should rebel. Similarly, the British prevent munitions of war from going to India.

Disobedience of King Saul.

When therefore Jonathan wiped out a garrison of Philistines, it meant war. The Hebrews trembled at what might be the results, just as the people of India would tremble at what the British might do in a similar case. The Philistines increased their army of occupation; and the Israelites—unarmed, except with agricultural implements, etc.—were terrorized. Saul's army of three thousand dwindled to six hundred; yet word reached him from the prophet Samuel to wait seven days for Samuel's arrival, apparently with the intention that the people should thoroughly feel their impotence and cry unto the Lord. King Saul waited seven days, and then, seeing how his army was dwindling and that Samuel had not returned, on the seventh day offered sacrifices without authority.

Just as he had finished the sacrifices, the prophet appeared, reproved him sharply, and told him that because of his failure to obey fully, his family should not be continued as the Lord's representatives in Israel. The king apologized, and explained that he thought it necessary to do something and did the only thing he could think of. Very few kings or generals of today would do any nearer the Lord's will than did King Saul. Very few would have apologized to the prophet.

If King Saul had been given further opportunities, he might gradually have learned implicit obedience to God; and yet our next lesson shows that he again failed along the same lines. It requires many experiences to teach some of us complete reliance on the Lord and full obedience to His every requirement. Perhaps the Lord wished to teach that any king sitting upon the typical throne of the Lord must be implicitly obedient, not merely to the letter of the Divine command, but to its spirit; for Israel's kings to a considerable extent foreshadowed the Messianic Kingdom. Those who will be Messiah's joint-heirs must not only be outwardly obedient, but inwardly obedient to the spirit of God's Law.

Only Priests Might Sacrifice.

King Saul's sacrifice of burnt offerings to the Lord was condemned as a sin, because God had made a specific law to the effect that only priests might sacrifice. The priestly tribe typically represented the Church—fully consecrated to God and accepted by Him. These the Apostle styles the antitypes, not only of Israel's kings, but also of Israel's priests. St. Peter says of the Church in general, and not of the clergy in particular, "Ye are a Royal Priesthood."—1 Peter 2:9.

All God's consecrated people are prospective kings and sacrificing priests. Unless these saintly Christians sacrifice their present lives, they will not get the great reward of joint-heirship with Christ, the Chief Priest of their profession. As we read, "If we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him"; and again, "I beseech you, brethren, to offer your bodies a living sacrifice."—Romans 12:1, 2.

The Bible recognizes no division of God's people into clergy and laity. This was a snare of the Adversary, introduced gradually in the third and fourth centuries. The Bible teaching is that all spirit-begotten children of God are members of the untypical Royal Priesthood, all brethren, all authorized to preach God's Word.

Craving a Second Chance.

Daily the Christian has repeated chances of repentance of sin and of making a fresh start, through the merit of Christ. King Saul had no such experience; he had only the arrangement common to all Jews—the typical Atonement Day, atoning for the nation's sins for a whole year. Being himself partly a type, King Saul was necessarily dealt with along lines of strict justice, and the kingdom declared forfeited by his family because of his offering a sacrifice not authorized.

Our lesson proceeds to tell the story of how Jonathan and his armor-bearer, blessed of the Lord, were victorious over their enemies.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

AUCTION SALE

The undersigned, will sell at Public Auction at his farm one mile south-east of Barnard Church, on what is known as the Richard Gregory Farm, on

Wednesday, March 24th

Commencing at one o'clock sharp the following described property to-wit:

Gray Mare, coming 9 yrs. old, wt 1150
Black Mare, coming 12 yrs, wt about 1200
Black Gelding, coming 4 yrs, wt 1100
Yearling Mare Colt
Cow, 5 yrs old, due May 1
Cow, 3 yrs old, due time of sale
Cow, 3 yrs old, due May 1
Cow, 2 yrs old, due June 1
2 yearling heifers
3 yearling steers
Lumber wagon
Double wagon box
Hay rack
Top buggy
Mowing machine
2-horse cultivator, new last year

Syracuse plow
Spike-tooth drag
Weeder
3 one-horse cultivators
Potato Digger
Pair bob sleighs
Hay fork, ropes and pulleys
Dis Harrow with trucks
Set Dump boards
Cutter
About 25 chickens
Heavy work harness
Single driving harness
Quantity of seed corn
Log chains and pair logging tongs
Forks and other articles too numerous to mention

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 or under cash; all sums over $10.00 eight months time on good approved bankable paper payable at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank with interest at 7 per cent. Five per cent off for cash, on all sums over $10.00. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

JEROME COLE, Proprietor

F. A. BUTLER, Clerk

W. J. RACHOW, Note Clerk

Auction Sale

O F

HORSES

We will ship into Charlevoix a carload of good Michigan Work Horses (no western stuff) all sizes and weights, which will be sold at auction and private sale

THURSDAY, MARCH 25

These horses are right out of work and cannot help but please you. Wait for me and if you want any special kind of horse or pair, write to me at once and I will try to bring it for you.

No Misrepresentations Last Year and we will treat you right this time

BUY OF THE MAN YOU KNOW

NIBBELINK & KLOOSTER

Grange Column

Ironton Grange.

The regular meeting of Ironton Grange, No. 707, was held at their rooms March 9th with Brother Grant Hammond, master, in the chair. Officers absent: Steward, L. A. Steward. A motion was made and carried that the grange have a potluck supper at its next meeting, March 23.

Lecture hour consisted of songs, recitations and readings. The program for the next meeting will be as follows:

Discussion, "What Benefit Can We Derive from the Trade Contract System?"—Led by Frank Hammond and Ole Lyngklip.

Resolved, "There was More Fun in Living Fifty Years Ago Than To-day"—Mrs. Mary Hammond. Contra—Mrs. Alfred Williams.

"Where Shall We Get the Best Seed Corn?"—John Nasson and Jerry Saunders.

Talk by Emil Nasson on testing seed corn.

There will also be other interesting things, so all come prepared to have a good time.

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvass gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

Marion Center Grange.

Marion Center Grange met on March 12th in regular session with an attendance of 38 members and 10 visitors. One candidate was instructed in the third and fourth degrees. It was decided to have a warm sugar social on the evening of March 31st. One application for membership was received.

The lecture hour was taken up with recitations, readings, dialogues and songs. Grange closed in form, after which all partook of a bountiful supply of ice cream, cake and coffee. Visitors always welcome.

Goodyear, Firestone and Defiance tires for autos at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 111f

I want to sell you the best time of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

Peninsula Grange, No. 706.

Regular meeting March 11th, with Worthy Master Heller in the chair. Nearly all the officers were present, also fifteen members—a light attendance owing to the bad roads. Twenty visits reported made by members since last Pomona. Lecture hour was duly observed. The young folks were given permission to put on a program for an entertainment in the near future. Next meeting March 25th at 2 p. m. Visitors welcome.

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 811

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

Prospects Look Good.

Jas. H. Johnson of Grand Haven was in the city last week, looking over the prospects regarding the building of a salting station during the coming spring. Mr. Johnson states that everything is looking good and that the farmers are becoming more interested in the acreage proposition every day. A number of acres have already been contracted and many more will be taken within the next few weeks. While here he made arrangements with the city authorities for the leasing of land near the old sugar plant for a site for the station.

Yes—Many People
have told us the same story—diarrhea after eating, gases, heartburn. A Rexall Dyspepsia
Tablet
before and after each meal will relieve
you. Sold only by us—25c.
The Ivy Drug Store.

A Musical Treat.

On Monday evening next Mrs. Rose Curtis Reid of Adrian will give a concert at the Methodist church. Mrs. Reid comes under the auspices of the Methodist Sunday school and will appear at both Sunday morning and evening services in special sacred solos.

The concert tickets are placed at ten cents, so as to give everyone a chance to hear this beautiful concert soprano soloist. On sale at Better's electric shop.

Adv. 111f

DISPOSAL OF CITY SEWAGE

A Problem of Great Consequence For Municipal Health.

BASED ON CIVIC SCIENCE.

A Comprehensive and Official Drainage System Should Be the First Work of the City Planner, and Due Allowance Must Be Made For Increasing Facilities With Increased Population.

Of the indispensable elements in the planning of a city sewers are among the most important, says Frank Koester, author of "Modern City Planning and Maintenance." He emphasizes in establishing the theory of city planning, give them an equal value with streets and traffic.

A comprehensive and efficient sewage drainage system must therefore be the first work of the city planner, and due allowance and provision must be made for increasing such facilities as the city grows in population. It is, indeed, scarcely possible for any one who has not lived through a serious strike of garbage removal employees to understand what the immediate removal of waste material means to a city and scarcely possible for one who has to overestimate its importance.

The character and size of the sewage system adopted depends on the location of the city and the natural conditions and methods to be adopted in disposal of the sewage.

The proper disposal of the sewage is one of great consequence, since epidemics are frequently caused by improper disposal, especially in the case of discharge into rivers or lowlands.

SEWAGE PLANT AT PHILADELPHIA.

It is impossible to lay down any hard and fast rules as to which system of sewage disposal is the best, since a system suitable for one city will not answer the requirements of another. The commerce and industries of a city, the nature of its streets and traffic and other factors make the problem one which requires the most careful consideration and one in the solution of which only the most experienced engineers, acquainted with the progress of the science of waste disposal in the most progressive countries, should be retained.

Sewage disposal is in reality a new science, and great advancement has been made in the last few decades, principally abroad, so that every advantage should be taken of modern developments in the planning of a city's sewer system.

Cities which are located on a large and swift flowing river may without risk discharge their sewage directly into the stream if proper precautions are taken.

The self purifying power of water is usually underestimated, especially that of rivers. The presence in river water of a certain amount of oxygen, necessary for saturation, will effect the mineralization and gasification of considerable quantities of putrescible substances, by means of biological processes which rapidly develop when such substances are present. These operations precipitate a sludge on the bottom of the river which is as harmless as silt, while the gases are emitted at the surface. If too large a quantity of sewage, however, is emptied into a river, the odor emitted will make the river banks uninhabitable, while the sludge will accumulate and clog the channel of the river and the process of the self purification of the water will not be completed before it reaches a lower city and causes contamination at that point.

Depending on the nature of the city's streets and the nature of the sewage to be removed, a single or a double sewage system may be adopted. In the latter form one sewer is for rain water and the other for strong sewage. The rain water sewer is for carrying off rain water from the buildings and streets, while the other is for toilets, factory waste, etc.

City Organizations Combine.
The Chamber of Commerce of Oakland, Cal., has amalgamated with the Commercial club of that city. The new organization is to be known as the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club Consolidated.

Read "Zadora."

THEATRICAL

Across the Pacific

Unsuccessful in the east, Mr. Escott decides to settle in Montana with his wife and little daughter Elsie. They camp for the night and little Elsie wanders off picking flowers. A band of Indians attack the party and kill Escott and his wife. Shortly after little Elsie returns and finds her parents slain.

Lieut. Joe Lanier discovers the child weeping over the bodies of her parents and brings her to his mother. Later, Lanier gives up his command and turns miner. Elsie grows up a charming girl and Joe falls deeply in love with her. Elsie meets Bob Stanton, a handsome stranger from the city, and they become attracted to each other. Joe warns Elsie against Stanton, but she resents this, and Joe, thinking his love hopeless, enlists in the war against Spain. Stanton persuades Elsie to elope with him, but the discovery of a former love affair of his shows her her mistake! She awakens to the fact that she loves Lanier and follows him to the Orient. Willie Live, a war correspondent, helps her in many ways. She is disguised as a volunteer and joins the company of which Joe is captain. Stanton, who belongs to the same regiment, plots against Joe. Elsie is sent by General Lawton to carry a message to Lanier. She explains why she followed him and they are happily united.

At the Majestic Theatre Wednesday, March 24.

Buried at Norwood.

Mrs. Hattie B. VanDusen, who moved to Petoskey from Norwood about a year ago, died at the home of her niece in that city on Tuesday evening of last week, after being ill for some time. She was sixty-two years old. Brief services were held from the house the following day under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and the body taken from there to Norwood Thursday morning for interment.

COME LET'S PLAY QUILTS

You toss your money and we'll toss you the finest doughnuts you ever tasted. They're ringers every time. If you have not given our bread a chance to speak for itself you have missed a rare opportunity of making your daily meals a delight. Everything in the first class bakery will be found here. We can supply you with staple groceries as well. Come in and look our lines over.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

ARE YOU IN A MOOD TO SAVE MONEY ON YOUR FOOTWEAR?

If you are, and we believe there is no season of the year when the citizens of Charlevoix and vicinity try to make a dollar go as far as they do at the present time, we are going to give you the opportunity to do so. You all know the quality of shoes this store has always carried. There are none better to be found anywhere. And furthermore, our guarantee stands back of every shoe we sell. At the present time we find ourselves overstocked and in need of CASH. We must unload a greater portion of our stock and to do so, will slaughter the prices of shoes. In many cases, we will offer shoes for less than half their regular selling price. The sale will start

THURSDAY, MARCH 18 AND WILL LAST FOR TEN DAYS

Every pair of shoes or oxfords in the store are included in this sale. There will be none reserved. The price on such shoes as the Walk-Over and the Red Cross Brands have been cut along with the rest.—Stock up for the summer, as these prices will last but ten days.—Note the way we have cut the prices:

Bargain Table No. 1

Dozens of pairs of Shoes for men, women and children, some odd sizes, others that we have taken from our regular stock. Their former price was from $1.75 to $3.50. Your choice during the Slaughter sale for

$1.00

Bargain Table No. 2

A large number of Shoes taken from our shelves, of new lasts and good material, also a large number of odd sizes from shoes of all prices. Exceptional bargains will be found here. Your price during sale

$1.48

Bargain Table No. 3

Many pairs of Shoes to be found on this table formerly sold as high as from $4.00 to $5.00. Others are odd sizes that have been left on our hands. We have bunched them together and you take your choice for

$1.95

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN ABLE TO DO BETTER IN TOWN THAN THIS

$5.00 Shoes and Oxfords	-	$3.95
4.50 Shoes and Oxfords	-	3.48
4.00 Shoes and Oxfords	-	2.95
3.50 Shoes and Oxfords	-	2.79
3.00 Shoes and Oxfords	-	2.29

These are the shoes we have always handled—those from which you have made selections ever since you have been a customer of our store.

Men's and Boys' Work Shoes and Children's Shoes

You all know the value of this line. We have sold them for years—you have worn them—now you have a chance to buy at greatly reduced prices.

Men's Work Shoes	$1.95
Boys' Shoes and Oxfords	$1.48
Children's Shoes	48c to $1.48

Our only reason for holding this sale is that we are overstocked—new Spring Goods are arriving daily—and WE NEED THE MONEY. You will reap the benefit. It means a great money-saving to you. Do not ask for credit during this sale, as everything will be sold for cash, also, at the prices we are selling, we will not be able to give stamps during the sale. Come early and make your selection before the line is broken.

H. BEDFORD, The Shoe Man

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 12

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

THE BARD OF AVON CLUB

Pleasantly Entertained at Regular Meeting Monday Afternoon

Guests of the Executive Committee at the Home of Mrs. J. S. Baker.

The Lewis cottage, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Baker, was the scene Monday afternoon of a pleasant entertainment given by the executive committee of the Shakespeare Study Club, as a surprise to the other members, which will always be remembered as one of the most pleasant of the numerous happy occasions for which this little club is noted.

In the absence of the president (Mrs. Armstrong) at the appointed hour the vice president (Mrs. Priest) called the meeting to order. The Secretary (Mrs. Baker) called the roll to which the members responded with quotations from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," a review of this play having been assigned as the lesson, with Mrs. Armstrong as leader.

After the regular routine of business the vice president announced that it was time to begin the lesson, when from the far end of the living room appeared one Sir John Falstaff. The voice revealed the tardy president, realistic in make up even to the odor of "Sack," who efficiently portrayed this character.

Mrs. Priest and Mrs. Baker later appeared upon the scene in the characters of Mistress Ford and Mistress Page respectively and ably approved "that wive may be merry and honest, too."

Parts of several scenes including the one where Sir John is carried out in a basket were enacted by these three ladies. The players were greeted with hearty applause.

Miss Dorothy Armstrong graciously rendered several selections on the piano including the tune "Green Sleeves," which, being a popular air at the time this play was written, is twice mentioned in it.

At five thirty the ladies were invited to gather around the dining room table where a delicious luncheon was served. Irish flags served as favors. Mrs. Fitz R. Williams of Elk Rapids, was guest of honor and pronounced the affair a great success.

The members all agreed that it had been an afternoon when "Their minds were framed to mirth and merriment, which bars a thousand harms and lengthens life."

SCHOOL ART EXHIBIT

Over Three Hundred Samples of Students' Work on Exhibition.

The school should be the center of the community. Everybody should be interested in its work and development.

The large number of patrons that visited the Art Exhibit, proved that Charlevoix patrons are very much interested in the development of the schools of the "Best Little Town Anywhere."

The exhibit was simply a culmination of the work of the year to date. Every child is in love with his art work, and under the excellent supervision of Mrs. Coulter, work of first-rate order has been produced.

Three hundred samples, of the work were exhibited and some are worth special mention. The original song illustrations of the first grade attracted much attention from the visitors, as did also the free hand cutting. The autumn leaves of the sixth grade were works of art, but they were put in the background by the Easter drawings of the same room. To see these alone is worth the effort to visit the exhibition. Two of the Easter cards received special attention, one by Hildegard Wilkinson and another by Martin Halverson. These young people have artistic ability of high order.

Space does not permit us to go into detailed description of each grade, but all the work showed that drawing and art is being well handled in the Charlevoix school by Mrs. Coulter.

The exhibition will remain intact for some time and the teachers would be pleased to have you inspect it for yourself.

Shoes at $1, $1.48, $1.95.

What more do you want? You will never have a chance to buy as cheap again. Better come in and make your selection Bedford's. Adv.121

Best values in canvas gloves the pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv.81

HIGHLY HONORED

Hugo Hampton, Senior Law Student at U. of M., Doing Excellent Work.

Hugo Hampton, who is a senior "law" at the University of Michigan, has just been elected to the "Order of the Gown," a legal scholarship society, membership in which is based solely upon the standing of the senior in his studies. W. E. Hampton received notice of this signal honor conferred on his son in a letter from Henry M. Bates, dean of the law department, in the course of which Mr. Bates said: "Membership in this honor society is based solely on scholarship and not more than ten per cent. of any senior class can be elected to the order. It therefore means a very high grade of work, and I beg to offer my congratulations on this achievement of your son."

Our Charlevoix boys have a habit of making good when they go away to college, but Hugo Hampton has particularly distinguished himself. So far, he has made every honor society and been awarded every honor that is based on scholarship. There is only one more such to be awarded and that comes at graduation time. From his past record it looks as if he would land that one, as well, and thus close his college career with a "clean slate."

A Correction.

In our story last week of the Dodd fire we were in error in regard to names. Where the name Arthur Beattie was given it should have been Orville Beattie. We make this explanation of the error, which was wholly unintentional on the part of the writer, who is intimately acquainted with both parties above mentioned.

HAVE ORGANIZED TEACHERS CLUB

First Meeting Held in High School Last Wednesday.

One of its Chief Objects is the Study of Educational Problems.

Not dead ones. The Charlevoix teachers are very much alive and believe that teaching is a worth while profession. To be efficient one must not only do the required work from day to day, but must understand some of the great problems of the educational world. This gives purpose to their work and, understanding the aims of their respective subjects, they are able to pursue them with greater enthusiasm.

To this end the teachers of Charlevoix have organized a teachers club that has for its object the study of educational problems.

The first meeting was held in the high school music room Wednesday, March 17th. After a most pleasing duet had been rendered by Miss B. Allen and Mr. Pierce, Supt. H. A. Craig gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the subject "School and Society." Mrs. A. Coulter sang in her usual style a song entitled "Thro' All Eternity."

It was the opinion of many that the ladies who furnished the delicious refreshments had missed their calling. For fear of criticism we will not mention their names, but they may be obtained by any interested if they will apply to the proper authority.

The next meeting will be held some time in April.

HERO OF TWENTY-SEVEN ELKS

Has Been Placed in State Game Reserve in Roscommon County.

Twenty-nine splendid specimens of western elk were guests of the local G. R. & I. yard force for a short time last week and were sent by special train to Michaelson on the Lake City branch, from which point they will be taken to the state game reserve in the northwestern part of Roscommon county. The elk were brought to Northern Michigan from the Yellowstone National Park and, except a few, are but two years old. Unusual care was taken by the railroad employees to provide for the comfort and safety of the valuable animals. —Cadillac News.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Chocolate flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv.121f.

For automobile tires, Goodyear, DuPont and Firestone tires see Benjamin Brown. Adv.111f.

PREDICTS A BUMPER CROP

M. A. C. Professor Says 1915 Will Be Big Fruit Year.

Predicts That This Spring Will Be a Long, Moderately Cold One.

The fruit crop situation will be a bumper one from present indications, asserted Chas. P. Halligan, professor of horticulture at the Michigan Agricultural College upon the fruit conditions for the present year.

"So long as the weather does not become too warm and the evenings remain cool," said Mr. Halligan, "we can look for no harm to fruit, but if it should get warm early the prospects might be that the buds would partly open and with the first chill of spring would be killed, which would damage the chances for a generous crop."

"Peaches growing on land with a southeast slope are more susceptible to warm climate changes than orchards on a northeast or northwest slope, for the reason that the tendency, so far as the climate is concerned, is to be cooler during warm spells and therefore much more favorable toward the keeping back of the buds until the proper time arrives for them to come out."

"The harder fruits are not susceptible to these delicate climatic changes as are the more resistable types. Apples, for instance, can be grown on any land that will grow potatoes, say fruit experts, and slope requirements are not as stringent in this respect as those of peaches, for instance. The latter require a high, light, well aerated, ventilated, drained field. They can be grown on a clay type of soil providing the seedlings are grafted on to plum stocks."

"It would be interesting to know," said one fruit man recently, "what the actual weather conditions over any particular season was going to be in advance. Greater preparations in many ways would be made if this could be divulged. Old timers say, however, that the best evidence of the prevailing winds and atmospheric conditions can be determined by watching the shift of the prevailing winds at the time the sun crosses the equator. As the sun crossed the equator Sunday and inasmuch as the wind had been in the north for several days these weather philosophers say that the spring will be a long, moderately cold one, insuring good fruit conditions."

HENRY OSTRUM DEAD

Pioneer Resident and Ex-Soldier Passes Away at Advanced Age.

Henry Ostrum, for a number of years a resident of Hayes township, died at his home Monday evening after an illness covering some time.

Mr. Ostrum was 70 years of age at the time of his death. He enlisted at the beginning of the war and served four years. He was the father of six children, all of whom are living.

Funeral services were held from the Burgess schoolhouse Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. L. C. Vineyard officiating. Burial at Brookside cemetery.

BAY SHORE RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Ruth Beemer Passes Away After an Illness of Long Duration.

Mrs. Ruth E. Beemer, wife of Joseph Beemer, a well-known Bay Shore resident, died at her home there Saturday night about 8 o'clock after being ill since early in July of last year. She was sixty-four years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Beemer located at Bay Shore about ten years ago and he has been employed by the Northern Line Company. The funeral was held Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock from the Bay Shore church.

House Badly Scorched.

Monday night about 9 o'clock fire was discovered in an unused room at the home of Jesse Feulless on the McSaula road just off Michigan avenue, which, before being extinguished, almost destroyed the entire structure. Practically everything on the second floor was burned, and considerable damage on the first floor by water and moving out the furniture. The house and contents were covered by insurance.

Dishes at wholesale prices. Look at window display. B. W. Miller. 121

SEVEN GAMES TO THE GOOD

Charlevoix Independents Have Not Lost a Game This Season.

Took Fast Traverse City Team into Camp Friday Night by Score of 35 to 32.

Before a record crowd and with everybody playing stellar ball, Charlevoix placed herself at the top of the heap in the race for the independent championship of Northern Michigan by defeating Traverse City 35-32 at the rink Friday night last. Traverse City was weakened by the absence of Brief, although this fact is not responsible for Charlevoix's victory. Traverse City was overconfident from the opening toss, which they were unable to overcome, although they manifestly forgot it before the game was well under way.

Charlevoix, a little unsteady at the beginning, allowed the visitors to ring three baskets before even letting anyone know they were in the affair. This slight lead put the "pep" into the locals to such an extent that Traverse City was tied and passed in the next five minutes. Until the close of the half the score zigzagged back and forth with a score of 18-17 at the end in favor of Charlevoix.

Traverse in the second period lost what steam they had gathered together for the fray and the locals were able to gain a satisfactory lead. The visitors made a spurt in the last five minutes of play, but the margin was too great to overcome against the Charlevoix crew and the game closed with the local men still undefeated.

The local team displayed the best class of basketball yet played this winter. Everyone played hard and fast. Durgan, a former Charlevoix man, was one of the visitors. Miller and Smith at guard and forward starred for Traverse.

Charlevoix high school closed their basketball season Saturday night, when a defeat was handed to them by Boyne City in the second battle of the month. The final count was 24-17. The visitors took the lead from the start and maintained a winning margin till the finish. In the last five minutes of play the locals made an effort to overcome their poor playing of the first half, but the chance was gone.

In a return game with Boyne City independents Tuesday night the local independents grasped a second victory from the north arm contingent. The locals were hampered somewhat by the close quarters and an interesting ride of twenty miles previous to the contest. Outside of falling out of the rig (owing to the condition of the road) nothing serious occurred on the trip. Boyne was glad to see the men in their city and were counting on a victory. But it was not to be.

An effort is being made by the management of the local independent team to bring the Grand Rapids central high team here during vacation. The central men will make a northern trip then playing high school teams, but it is hoped that arrangements can be made whereby the local fans will have another opportunity of seeing a southern team in action on the local court before spring opens up.

SLIPPED ON ICE

Mrs. H. L. Iddings Receives Compound Fracture of Left Wrist.

While on an errand to her home on Park avenue last Friday morning Mrs. H. L. Iddings slipped on the icy steps and in falling received a compound fracture of her left wrist.

During the night it had snowed, covering up the ice near the porch caused by water dripping from the roof. Upon going to the house Mrs. Iddings failed to notice the slippery condition of the walk, upon which she slipped and fell. Dr. Wilkinson reduced the fracture.

Plant Opened Monday.

The immense rock crushing plant of the Petoskey Stone Crusher Company, near Petoskey, opened Monday for the season of 1915. The output of the plant at the start will be about 20 cars per day, which is expected to be gradually increased as the market opens and the demand for crushed stone becomes greater. The plant gives employment to a number of men.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Chocolate flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv.121f.

THREE AUCTION SALES

One to be the Largest Sale of Stock Ever Held in the County.

Of exceptional interest to the readers of the Courier this week is the announcement of the three auction sales published on another page.

The sale advertised by Earl Dodd, at his farm three miles south of Charlevoix, has the largest list of stock of any sale held in the county for many years. Listed are 42 head of cattle and eight horses. Among the cattle are cows who have exceptional records as milkers. Most of the younger stock are of the Holstein variety, three-fourths or better. The date of Mr. Dodd's sale is Monday, March 29th. Remember the date and if you are in the market for a good dairy cow this will be your chance to buy one. The sale commences at 1 o'clock sharp.

The second sale is that of A. M. Chase at his farm five miles south of the city. The date is set for Friday, March 26th, commencing at 1 o'clock. E. B. Ward will cry the sale.

The horse sale of Nibbelink & Klooster, advertised for Thursday, March 25, has been postponed till Saturday, March 27th, on account of an accident on the railroad which delayed the shipment of the horses. The sale will take place at Hooker's livery barn and they promise to have some exceptional good horses on exhibition. Keep this date in mind and attend the sale; also inform your neighbors of the change of date.

The Sunshine society of the Baptist church will serve an Easter dinner in the church parlors Friday, April 2nd, from 5 o'clock until all are served. All are cordially invited. Tickets will be 25c. Adv.121f

MINSTREL SHOW WAS SUCCESS

Each Person in Cast Was Up to Standard—Good Clean Jokes.

Musical Numbers Were Well Rendered and Popular Songs Made a Hit.

The Pythian minstrel last Thursday night was a success in every way. The cast was well balanced and each one handled their parts in fine shape. Several new faces appeared in the amateur world with the production.

The song numbers, which were plentiful, were well rendered by the singers and the chorus work was excellent. Good music and good jokes always are entertaining and the program of Thursday night was well worth the time taken in working it up.

A good crowd was in attendance and the general comment is that the show was well staged. The scene was pleasantly set with the Pythian colors in prominence. The specialty numbers were exceptionally good and were new features in Charlevoix's amateur history.

It is hoped that the Knights of Pythias lodge will again favor the public with plays of as high a standard as the one produced last week.

BROKE HIS LEG

Motorcycle Skidding on Ice Results in Serious Injury to Homer Davis.

The first accident of the 1915 season in the motorcycle line occurred Saturday evening about 5:30, when Homer Davis was riding his machine on Dixon avenue near the Inn.

He had been enjoying the first good motoring of the season and took a spin down Dixon avenue, where he struck a place covered with ice and snow. He had gone but a short way on this when the machine skidded, throwing him and breaking both bones of his right leg a few inches above the ankle.

He was taken to the office of Dr. R. B. Armstrong, where the fracture was reduced, and then taken to his home. The break is a bad one and will lay him up for a goodly portion of the summer.

We have a few harnesses at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv.71f

Auto supplies and service station. Goodyear, Firestone and DeSoto tires—Benjamin Brown. Adv.111f

Ironing Boards as long as they last for $1.50 each—Chas. Zeitler, at Benj. Brown's Harness Store. Adv.111f

HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC PROGRAM

First One of Year Given in Assembly Room Last Friday.

Large and Enthusiastic Audience Present—Program An Excellent One.

Before a large and enthusiastic audience composed of students and patrons, the Charlevoix High School gave its first public program of the year in the High School assembly Friday afternoon last.

Early in the year the high school was divided into four groups for the purpose of literary work. Each group is under the management of the students composing the group, and supervised by a member of the High School faculty. Some excellent results have been obtained. Students who thought it impossible to speak have found it not so hard a task as they had made themselves believe.

The public program was the result of this group work. Miss Ruth Hammet gave a very interesting paper on the Camp Fire girls. The style, the simple, was well suited to the subject. The delivery was forceful and held the attention of the audience.

The selections from Dunbar by Miss Bernice Bush were exceptionally well given, and received hearty applause.

Miss Jennie Carey surprised the students by her ability to render a very difficult selection entitled "The Heathen Chinese."

The debate: "Resolved, that cities of over 5000 should own and control their public utilities," was one of the big numbers of the program. The affirmative was upheld by Weed, Katherine Harsha, Widdfield. The negative by Arnold, Taggart, Mason. The debate was spirited on both sides, showing that the debaters had both ability and good preparation. The decision of the judges—Miss Himes, Mr. Maybee, Mr. Kano—was two for the negative and one for the affirmative.

Mr. Jones's cornet solo showed him to be a musician of promise.

The orchestra furnished music during the intermission and rendered some good selections, which were very much appreciated.

It was the opinion of those who heard the program that it was the best ever given in the Charlevoix high school. However that it may be, the young people who took part are certainly to be commended upon the way in which they did their parts.

MUSIC MAKERS COMING

Will Fill Date Missed on Lecture Course, Tuesday Evening, April 6.

Music Makers! Music Makers! Music Makers! Music Makers! Yes, that is the truth, the Music Makers will appear on the Charlevoix Lecture Course on April 6, 1915.

After much correspondence we have at last secured this number as the last one on the Course this year. We are sure the people will be pleased with the quartet, as they are one of the best on the lecture platform today.

Reserved seats on sale at the Central Drug Store, Saturday, April 3.

Its Membership Increasing.

A most remarkable manifestation of the presence and power of God was witnessed last Sunday evening in the service at the Baptist church. At the close of an impressive sermon by the pastor on the theme "Where Will You Spend Eternity?" twenty-five persons responded to the invitation to answer the question aright by professing conversion and many others showed evidence of deep conviction.

Buys Ice Making Machine.

A Boyne City marketman has bought an ice-making machine. One would suppose that with Pine Lake right at their doors and Jack Frost right on his job for sixteen months a season that in these parts there would be small call for artificially-made ice.—East Jordan Enterprise. It certainly cannot be that business in Boyne City has been so rushing the winter just over that this market owner could not find time to make the amount of ice necessary for his use.

The Talk of the Town.

The big shoe sale at Bedford's. Closes Saturday night. Better buy while the sale is on. Adv.121f

Goodyear, Firestone and DeSoto tires for autos at Benj. Brown's. Adv.111f

Correspondence

CLARION

Geo. Irwin of Mancelona was in town Tuesday.

C. J. Mizer of Mancelona was at Walloon Wednesday.

Doctor Reycraft of Petoskey was in town several times last week.

Peter Isaac and children of Mayfield are visiting at R. H. Webster's.

Rev. J. W. Stanton and wife were guests Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Bacon of Resort.

Mrs. Vern Stoops of Mackinaw visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hufford, Saturday.

Mrs. Emma McConnell of Resort visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Holly, Saturday.

Mrs. J. E. Niles and Mrs. W. W. Niles of Petoskey visited relatives at Walloon Saturday.

The ladies' aid will hold an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. Stoops Thursday. Potluck dinner will be served.

The young people's class of the Sunday school held their regular meeting at the home of Clarence Wimer Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. F. McKercher of Petoskey were in town Saturday. They report that their cottage at Walloon has been robbed of a number of valuable articles.

LOCAL DRUGGIST

MAKES MANY FRIENDS

B. A. Herman reports he is making many friends through the QUICK benefit which Charlevoix people receive from the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ka. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and it is the most thorough bowel cleanser known, acting on BOTH the lower and upper bowel. JUST ONE DOSE of Adler-ka relieves constipation and gas on the stomach almost IMMEDIATELY.

HAYES

Spring is here. Henry Ostrum died about noon Monday.

Hazel Shearer has been home for a week now.

Alick Banks of Petoskey visited his mother Sunday.

W. Armstrong went to Petoskey last Wednesday.

Gilbert Ferris and George Howe went to Boyne City Friday.

Mr. Jerichow visited Mrs. Agnes Banks one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sneath visited at Henry Ostrum's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fox spent Sunday at the home of Orsen Cook.

Do not forget Maple Grove Grange has another dance Friday night.

Snow is going away fast and roads are not so bad as they might be.

Mr. and Mrs. Pay Kane called on Mr. and Mrs. Gus Jerichow Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Scott spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Orsen Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris called on Mr. and Mrs. Pant last Thursday evening.

Glenn Kane and Carl Shearer visited Geo. Shearer at Petoskey hospital Monday.

Getting up wood for the summer seems to be the work of everyone at present.

Geo. Shearer was taken to Petoskey hospital last week for an operation for appendicitis.

Gus, Charlie and Herman Jerichow and Charlie Radle spent Saturday evening at the home of Robert Kane.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamlin were called to Horton Bay Friday by the death of Mrs. Hamlin's mother, Mrs. Ketosky.

Several neighbors and friends went to the home of Mrs. Frank Kane last Wednesday to remind her it was the 17th of March, her birthday. A bounteous dinner was spread for the jolly crowd.

FOR SALE
THOROUGHBRED JERSEY BULL CALVES
COULTER BROS., ROUTE 2
Phone 77 Charlevoix

UNCEASING MISERY

Some Charlevoix Kidney Sufferers Get Little Rest or Comfort.

There is little sleep, little rest, little peace for many a sufferer from kidney trouble. Life is one continual round of pain. You can't rest at night when there's kidney backache. You suffer twinges and "stabs" of pain, annoying urinary disorders, lameness and nervousness. You can't be comfortable at work with darting pains and blinding dizzy spells. Neglect these ailments and serious troubles may follow. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills at the first sign of disorder. Thousands have testified to their merit. Charlevoix readers will find convincing proof in the following testimony:

V. D. Keaton, 310 Rush street, Petoskey, Michigan, says: "I and others of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills for backaches and pains in the kidneys and have had good results. My kidneys were not acting right and obliged me to get up frequently at night. I was also annoyed by backache and pains in my loins. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved me in every way."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Keaton had. Foster-Milburn Company, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

IRONTON.

Will Tumath, who has been working at Hermanville, returned home Friday.

The Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Rifenburg, Thursday of this week.

Miss Mabel Dunlop left last Friday for her school in the eastern part of the county.

Harriet Ressler, has been absent from school several days on account of a bad cold.

The ladies of the east side had a potluck dinner at the home of Mrs. A. Bird, Tuesday.

In correction of last week's item, Geo. Jardine went to Petoskey instead of Port Huron for treatment for rheumatism.

The Reading circle and Y. M. C. A. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh King last week. About twenty-five were present.

A number of ladies spent last Thursday at Mrs. G. MacDonald's sewing carpet rags. Fourteen and one-half pounds were sewed.

Mrs. Munson, who has been visiting in Jackson, Detroit and other Southern points for the past two months, returned home last week.

A potluck supper was served Friday night, by the Mountain Sunday School. There were to have been three courses, but only a few received the first course. Ask them how they liked it?

There will be a Maple sugar social at the Gleaner hall Friday evening, March 26. Maple sugar, biscuits, cake and coffee 15 cents. Short program. Come, meet your friends and have a good time.

Jack Jardine was completely surprised last Monday evening, by about twenty-two young people, in honor of his fifteenth birthday. The evening was spent playing games, after which lunch was served.

Friday afternoon, March 12th, Mrs. Decker invited the teachers and the fourth grade to a surprise on Orpha, the occasion being her eleventh birthday. A pleasant time was spent playing games, after which refreshments were served.

We save you $8.00 on each pair of team harness—Benj. Brown. Adv. 7tf

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Gladys Waterman)
Bessie Allen, Ruby Hooker and Marie Lammiman were absent from school last week.

Friday afternoon the class was invited up to the assembly room to hear the literary society program given by members of the high school.

The class went after pussy willows last week. They went out to the beet sugar factory and on the return trip they had their pictures taken.

Mr. Babcock presented the class with a beautiful flower known as the Bird of Paradise last week. A short history of the plant was included.

Wednesday afternoon the class gave an impromptu program in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Some of the members gave readings; other told stories and sang songs.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness, work clothes, trunks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 7tf

POSTPONED

AUCTION SALE OF HORSES

On account of a railroad wreck and not being able to get here, the carload of horses advertised to be sold in Charlevoix by us on Thursday, March 25, has been postponed to

Saturday, March 27

This shipment will consist of all good Michigan Work Horses (no Western Stuff) all sizes and weights, and every horse a good one. We sold horses here last year—there were no misrepresentations—nor will there be this year. We want satisfied customers and will treat you right. The sale will take place at

Hooker's Livery Barn

Call at the barn during the day and the horses offered for sale will be shown you. They are right out of work and cannot help but please you. Is you want a single horse or team, it will pay you to wait for this sale.

BUY OF THE MAN YOU KNOW

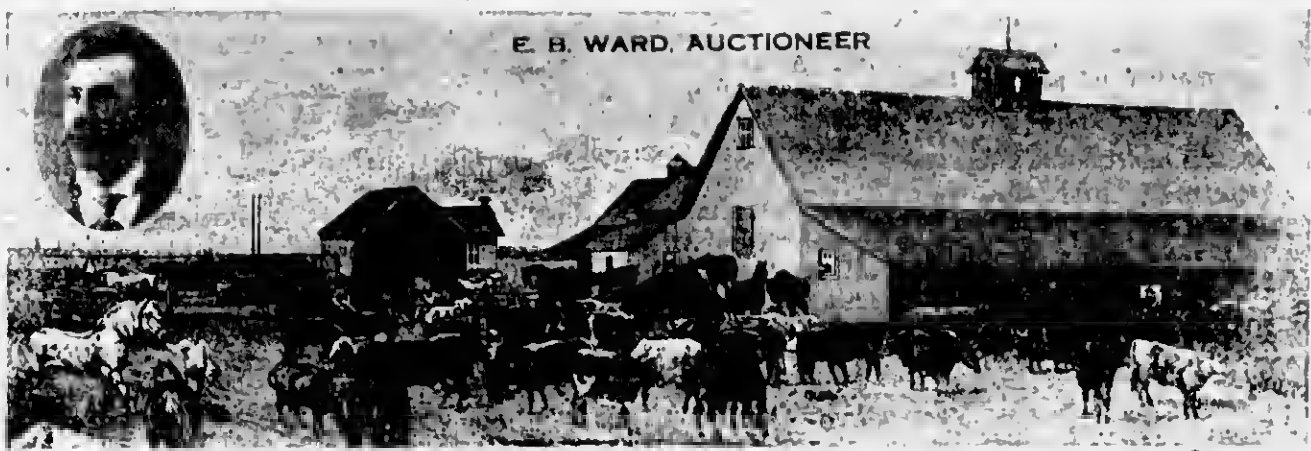

Nibbelink & Klooster

AUCTION SALE

The undersigned, will sell at Public Auction at his farm five miles south of Charlevoix, on what is known as the Sam Chase Farm, on

FRIDAY, MARCH 26th

Commencing at one o'clock sharp the following described property to-wit:

Brown horse, 10 yrs. old wt 1350
Cow, 5 yrs old, fresh in April
2-year-old Holstein Heifer, fresh in April 20 Ewes, with lamb by side
Empire Grain Drill
Milwaukee Mower
Gale Plow
Springtooth Harrow

Two Horse Wagon
Set Bob Sleighs
Two tons of Hay
Quantity of Oats
Quantity of Beans
Set of double Harness
Small tools and other articles too numerous to mention

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 or under cash; all sums over $10.00 eight months time on good, approved endorsed bankable paper, bearing 7 per cent interest, payable at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank. Five per cent off for cash on all sums over $5.00. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

A. M. CHASE, Proprietor

W. J. RACHOW, Note Clerk E. B. WARD, Auctioneer.

SAFETY FIRST

YOUR pocket is not a very good depository for your money. It does not pay interest and it allows your money to be constantly subject to loss by theft or accident.

We will not only protect your money against loss but will pay you 4 per cent interest, so that the money you save will be constantly increasing.

With the Opening of the Springtime, open an account with this bank.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier

Archie Livingston, Ass't. Cashier

H. S. Harsha, Vice President

PLANT BEANS

We are now ready to make CONTRACTS for 1915 Crop at MARKET OR CONTRACT PRICE

NOTHING PAYS BETTER

DELIVERIES UP TO MARCH 1st, 1916

PHONE OR WRITE

CHATTERTON & SON

The Earliest Oranges of the Season

Where are they grown? Why do they ripen earlier than in other sections. Why are they so luscious? These and other questions are answered in a booklet which we have issued describing Glenn County, California. Glenn County is in the heart of the great, rich Sacramento Valley. A few years ago oranges were grown commercially in only the southern part of the State. Later it was discovered that citrus fruits ripened perfectly in even the northern part of the interior valley. Since then Glenn County has come forward with some magnificent early fruit. There are countless opportunities for not only citrus fruit culture, but for all sorts of delicious fruits, live stock, grain, truck farming, etc., in Glenn County.

We will send this beautiful book describing Glenn County free to you if you will send us your name and address and a two-cent stamp to help pay the postage. Better still, send ten cents in stamps and we will send the Glenn County book, a map of California and a sample copy of Sunset Magazine, the great Pacific Coast national magazine.

SUNSET MAGAZINE SERVICE BUREAU, San Francisco, California

In writing by state to mention this paper and tell us County book

Consult US

Call F. S. Bettles when anything ELECTRICAL goes wrong in your store, building or home—we will remedy the trouble QUICKLY and in the very Best manner and at the least possible cost. Don't forget, also that we will be only too glad to submit our estimate on your new wiring and similar work. We use the Best Materials and ALL is done in the Best Manner.

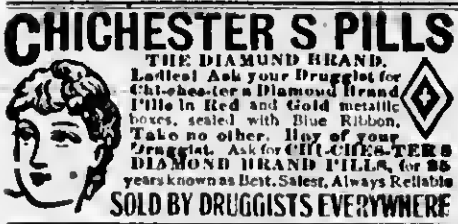

F. S. Bettles

214 Bridge Street

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213, Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. S. SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 118 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MULO EATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1875

D. R. J. A. AULD

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building

Over Levinson's Store

Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

of Charlevoix County

Twenty years Experience

Maps and Platons Short Notice

VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

R. B. ARMSTRONG

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention given to diseases of the EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 235 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. C. A. MONTAGUE

Physician and Surgeon

Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention

Office in Bank Bldg

Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $200,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, catches the eye of a millionaire. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself.

Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shon's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora foils Nabok Shon, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A maker of diamonds tells Hassam Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassam Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond maker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mice.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are fleeing because a giant skeleton hand appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's parents. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by him. Storm opportunely appears and saves her from Bolton.

Hassam Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns in her hand. An old house is mined by Hassam Ali and the old men. Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up. John McWinter, endeavoring to trap and kill George Smith, is killed himself, and Smith is charged with murder. Hassam Ali conspires to have John Storm meet the same fate as McWinter, and he and Storm are overcome by powerful fumes. Zudora saves them, proves that McWinter's own dog trapped and killed him and saves Smith from a band of lynchers.

An inventor blows up a submarine with a powerful hand ray which he sends through water. Hassam Ali sends Zudora to a photographer directly beneath the inventor's laboratory and orders the inventor to kill her. Zudora gets a warning, and her life is saved. The hand ray machine is destroyed, and the photographer, after a quarrel with Hassam Ali, is found dead in the river.

CHAPTER VIII.

FOR a long time Zudora paced her room. She was troubled. That afternoon Storm had pleaded with her so strongly to leave her uncle, marry him and go far away that she had been drawn almost irresistibly toward her lover. From time to time she paused before some object, moved it abstractedly and resumed her pacing. The youth in her wanted to fly away and he happy.

The thought of her vast fortune often terrified her. The moment the world found out that she was an rich heiress she would be beset with all sorts of devices by fortune hunters. Every grade of beggar would be at her doorstep. More than that, she had made some strange enemies during her short career as a detective, and if these individuals knew of her wealth they would leave no stone unturned to trap her and hold her for some enormous ransom. A little money, enough to take care of her and supply her simple needs—that was all she craved.

But twenty millions! In dollars she could hardly count that sum during her allotted years!

Sometimes she found herself on the verge of asking her uncle, Hassam Ali, to take the bulk of it and let her be free to do as she thought fit. But always she stepped back from the threshold of this act. Great dreams of doing good in the world held her. She dreamed of helping humanity with these millions, to buy farms and convert them into communities for the thrifty but unfortunate people, to build great hospitals, children's playgrounds. She determined that these dreams should become realities just as soon as she had accomplished the twenty tasks imposed upon her by her uncle.

Zudora Heard the Humble of Her Lover's Automobile

She longed with all her heart to go to John Storm, but her word to her uncle was like a barrier of stone.

But tonight life had suddenly developed a new angle. She was in love; she was young; she had a right to be happy. And she was fighting a battle between loyalty to her word and the urgings of her heart. Besides, it was quite possible that the very next case might be the last. Several times so far she had escaped death by a hair. That in itself did not deter her, for she was as courageous as a lion. But she did not care to court death when the greatest happiness in the world was within arm's reach.

She stopped suddenly before a window and pressed her hot forehead against the cool pane. Over the grandly hung that almost lurid haze—the million lamps thrown against the sky. Suddenly all hesitance left her; her resolution was formed. She walked quickly to her writing desk and sat down to write. She would accept John Storm's plea. She would go to him the very next day. Let her uncle become furious. Was not her lover more to her than this strange man who was all that remained of kith or kin, who followed strange cults, performed extraordinary feats at one time and the veriest humbugs at another?

She would run away on the morrow and marry John Storm. And to prove "Sleep!" she heard vaguely. "Sleep!"

vide against any weakening in this resolve she would write him at once to this effect.

Downstairs the bell rang. Aunt shuffled in the door. A very beautiful woman entered.

"I should like to see your master, Hassam Ali," she said quietly.

"Have you an appointment?" asked the servant, bowing. "One sees him at night—only by appointment."

"I believe he will see me," she replied, with a singular smile. "Ah, announce Mme. Du Roy."

"Yes, madame." The servant returned directly. "Follow me, madame. The master will receive you."

"I thought so!" Hassam Ali stood by his crystal as he entered. At a sign the servant took himself off.

"I was not expecting you, madame," said Hassam Ali, but he smiled as he spoke.

"Mr. Chang could not come. Of course, you know that you can trust our organization."

"Yes, but did Chang confide in you?" An almost imperceptible frown flitted across Hassam Ali's face. He knew the Concasian woman; he was wary in trusting them with vital secrets. A Chinaman, on the other hand, was like sand; he absorbed but never gave back a secret. Still, in the present case, he was bound to trust this woman.

A quarter of an hour passed, when she took her leave, leaving Hassam Ali quite satisfied. He was reasonably sure that Zudora would be taken off his hands this time and in a manner which would totally baffle all the detectives in Manhattan. But there was a hurt in it. It was going to cost money. His beautiful gold would be some hundreds lower, for Wu Chang never accepted anything but gold for his services. You cannot mark gold as you can paper money. Wu Chang was the wisest criminal in New York.

Among the curious ones which he had this month he had been known to the Chinese. One hour he had now and then that comes down to the const, and those who know China believe all that comes down to the coast. It is only the casual tourist who is skeptical. There was a certain monk who thought he had discovered gun powder; there was a man who thought he had discovered glazing for pottery; there was a German physician who honestly believed that he had discovered hypnotism. All fallacies of opinion. The Chinese had invented these things, or discovered them, long before the Christian era.

Wu Chang had taught Hassam Ali all he knew about hypnotism, and hypnotism vitally concerns Zudora in this episode of her adventures. A bit of greediness—which is inherent in all orientals—on the part of Wu Chang proved his ultimate undoing.

Wu Chang spoke English with remarkable fluency. Only in his den did he lapse into the gutturals of his native tongue. Men applied to his arts as men applied to Hassam Ali.

There lived in New York at this day a wealthy old bachelor who had adopted a son. The old man was absolutely alone in the world, and this kind of man has a horror of dying and having strangers divide his money. As this son grew up he evinced a stupidity that annoyed his father greatly. Tutors by the score gave up the boy as a hopeless job, and if Mills had not possessed a certain amount of vanity

Zudora would have vanished from the face of the earth. Curious, isn't it, how these things dovetail? The loss of an envelope in Singapore may be the cause of the ultimate death of a man in Chicago.

Mills had had dreams of this boy becoming a great orator, eventually a statesman, just as an ordinary father would have dreamed over the career of a real son. Mills had one day bragged about the boy's prowess in this direction and foolishly entered the boy in an oratorical contest. Then he started out to hunt for some one to coach the boy and finally came to the door of a Chinaman! Yes, for a price Wu Chang would make an orator of the boy for one night. This was all Mills desired to ease his vanity. The price was rather stiff, but he agreed.

Wu Chang brought the boy under the spell of hypnotism and put a brilliant speech on the boy's tongue. All that was necessary now was the presence of Wu Chang at the contest. Unfortunately for Chang, this night was close to a far more lucrative and dangerous mission. You cannot throw two stones with two hands.

Zudora had written Storm, and everything was prepared for her flight. From a crack in the door Hassam Ali's eyes watched her curiously as she packed her belongings. Just enough of clothes to see her at her journey's end. Storm was to meet her with an auto. She was to leave her room by way of a secret rope.

The Hindu servant returned to his master to report that the man-servant was getting ready to run away. And Hassam Ali set his scenes immediately. Wu Chang was ushered in half an hour later, and he very quietly changed costumes with the Hindu.

"Remember," warned Hassam Ali, "if she sees you or notices anything wrong she will escape."

"Trust me," smiled the Chinaman. It was growing dark by now. A street light spurted several times and then flared brilliantly. Zudora heard the rumble of her lover's automobile and pulled up the window without making a sound. She gave the white light agreed upon, and Storm and his chauffeur managed to get the rope up to her. She fastened it securely to the foot of the bed.

Not far a moment did she feel any regret. She had for her uncle a certain fondness, but, due to his general cluelessness, it had never developed into real love. The only thing she really did regret leaving behind was the currier pigeon. It was too late now.

Why, she thought, how strangely the room began to appear! Was it fog outside? What was this strange and unaccountable desire to laugh, to fling her things about? Seized with a sudden and terrible knowledge, she tried to turn. It was impossible to stir!

"Sleep!" she heard vaguely. "Sleep!" Zudora's eyes closed irresistibly. Wu Chang stepped in front of her and touched her forehead. The man's own forehead was covered with sweat, for this had been a tremendous exertion of will power. Had the girl been able to turn he would have failed signally.

"Be a child," he whispered. "Be a child. Now you are young and happy, without a care in the world. You are young?"

"Oh, yes, I am a child!" Zudora began to laugh.

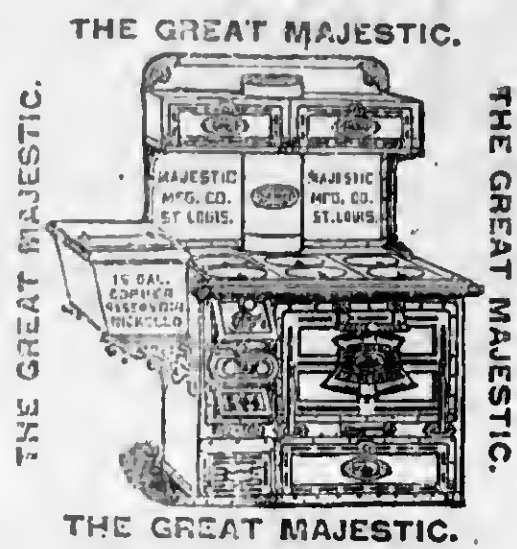

Wu Chang picked up the photograph of her lover and held it before her. There was no recognition in her eyes. He had won. Zudora sat down.

Below Storm whistled frantically and wondered what had thus delayed his sweetheart. Chang heard these shrill calls.

"Go to the window, child," he said. Zudora got up and walked to the window. She looked down, faintly upon

(Continued on page 5.)

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the 'The Great Majestic'

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this wonderful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its the range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

Grit Your Teeth

AND SAY "I WILL"

IT takes Determination to make a start in the saving habit; it takes determination to keep it up, but the habit grows and becomes easier as ultimate success and competence become more and more apparent.

DETERMINE TO BE SOMEBODY

Start today to set aside your thrift fund. We welcome small or large accounts.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Butters A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2

111 Antrim Street

WHAT THE PEOPLE THINK OF THE Round Oak Range

ONE TESTIMONIAL—More to Follow

S. M. See & Sons,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Gentlemen:—

In answer to your inquiry as to how I like the Round Oak Stove, would say that although it went through the fire which recently destroyed my home, I am still using it. The stove is badly cracked, the base entirely gone, and it is beyond repair. Regardless of this, the oven bakes the best of any stove I ever used even in this dilapidated condition. It heats as good as ever, and I am using it every day. I hope to replace it in a short time with a new stove, and I will certainly buy another Round Oak—as I do not believe I could get one that would be more satisfactory.

Very truly yours,
MRS. GEORGE DEVRIS.

If the Round Oak Pleases this Lady, it will please You—
TRY ONE

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Housefurnishers

THEATRICAL

Rockwell Sunny South Company.

The amusement loving public will be glad to hear that the J. C. Rockwell Sunny South Company, the show that leaves you laughing when they say "good night," will be the attraction at the Charlevoix Theatre Saturday night, March 27th.

It is about two years since this company was seen here and at that time those who attended pronounced it the best and most pleasing of the kind that ever made this town.

This season it is absolutely new and right up to the second in every respect. It is characteristic throughout, being a mixture of fun, melody and dancing, consisting of all the features peculiar to the negro in Dixie Land, presented by negroes of the cultured and educated class, free from vulgarity, without any objectionable features, at the same time sparkling with wit and good humor.

Comedy is all that it aimed at and nothing else is reached, bar some very clever singing, dancing and entertaining specialties which will make the audience sit up and take notice. There are 20 jolly, catchy and brilliant musical numbers, and the olio is replete with many of the highest class vaudeville stunts ever presented outside the larger cities. From first to last there is not an objectionable word spoken nor the slightest approach to vulgarity in action or view. A good sprinkling of new songs has been included in the performance and with the atmosphere being of the sort where the audience leaves the theatre whistling the latest song hits—you can rest assured that you will be sent home feeling satisfied you have received full value for your money.

The organization is accompanied by a solo concert band and a superb orchestra. The "Kootown" parade takes place at noon. The prices of admission have been placed at 25, 35 and 50 cents. Seats are now selling at Central Drug Store.

Ironing Boards as long as they last for $1.50 each—Chas. Zeitler, at Benj. Brown's Harness Store. Adv. 11t

"Beating Back."

"Beating Back," the story of Al Jennings, once a bandit and now a gubernatorial candidate, as seen in "Tham" house films is a tremendous appeal for an equal opportunity for every man. It shows how even the most hardened criminal, if given the opportunity, can be softened by society's touch and he received again.

The story of Al Jennings' life, as detailed by himself in the Saturday Evening Post, was declared to be the most remarkable human document of the present day. In presenting the story on the screen none of the pathos or tragedy of this reformed outlaw's life has been lost. Each thrill that comes into the heart of a hunted man is felt by the audience as they see Jennings, forced by unusual circumstances into a life of crime, chased by the sheriff and his posse. This most interesting story will be shown at the Majestic Monday evening, March 29th. It will probably be the only opportunity you will ever have to see these pictures in Charlevoix.

Sal-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 7tf

STATE'S TRAVELING EXPENSES

Nearly One Hundred Thousand Dollars Spent Last Year.

It cost the State of Michigan $96,649.91 in traveling expenses on the steam railroads of the state for the past year, according to a report made to the senate by Auditor General Fuller, the information being asked by resolution introduced by Senator Woodworth. The additional expense to the state providing the legislature give the railroads an increase of one-half cent per mile would mean $20,222.49, according to the auditor general. This increase is far less than was expected, as it was figured that the amount the state paid the railroad companies each year was far greater than the $96,649.

Oliva Oil—EAST JORDAN
One of the best known and most reliable tissue builders.
Rexall Oil
is both a flesh builder and a tissue builder.
Pleasant to take. Easy to digest.
The Ivy Drug Store.

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have bequeathed and made fertile, and centuries have speckled with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (60 pages) telling that just six conditions would exist only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1891.
Of a more recent and importance is its promise of better things in store for us, with, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send five cents and stamps with this coupon to receive and see to The Temple, No. 24 W. 3rd St. New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

See the newest styles in
DOVE

Under-muslins

"You will Love the Dove"

We have the very latest ideas
in all under-muslin garments

DOVE
Combinations

DOVE
Night Gowns

GO TO Levinson's —Get the Habit

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors
A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager

Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year.....$1.50
One copy, six months..... 75
One copy, three months..... 40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Obituary poetry, regular rates. Card of thanks, 25 cents.

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

Value in Achievement.

What a boy or girl becomes when they grow into manhood and womanhood is largely determined by the thing upon which their interest is centered while they are still boys and girls. That is simply another way of wording that old saw about the way a twig is bent is the tree inclined. One of the great complaints among our farmers to-day is that their boys and girls are leaving the farms, when they grow up, to go to the towns and cities. One of the prime reasons for this lamentable condition of affairs is that their interest is not centered in the things of the farm while they are still young and in the formative period of their lives.

One of the most beneficial movements of the age and generation is that movement among the states, backed by the National Department of Agriculture, known as the boys' and girls' club work. There are some 8,000 of these boys' and girls' clubs scattered throughout the various states. To these clubs there belong about a quarter of a million boys and girls. The purpose of these clubs is to conduct contests among their members, contests which shall run throughout the entire year. The contests consist in seeing which boy or girl can make the most money during the year in some particular line of farming or home work. This is good business of the highest order. It is making future business farmers and future business farm home makers. It is building up successful men and women for the future; men and women who will make so great and so successful the agriculture of the next generation that in future years the agricultural achievements of this generation will be looked back upon as crude and inefficient. Let the good work go on and inside the next twenty-five years we will hear no more of that warning cry "Keep the boys and girls on the farm."

Hurry at the cost of the material in them. Just a few set—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 7tf Reminders.

Mrs.—He said I reminded him of a Greek goddess. Mr. Hub: Mrs.—What do I remind you of? Mr.—Of every darned thing I ever look at, every man to do—Cleveland Leader.

Favorites.

Stella—I take my husband along to help choose a hat. Bella—I take a hat along to help choose a husband.—New York Sun.

Many go for food and come home with themselves.—Corvantes.

Growing Children
frequently need a food tonic and tissue
builder for their good health.
Rexall Olive Oil
Emulsion
containing 15% phosphorus
is the prescription for this.
The Ivy Drug Store.

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

One Sunday evening the old colored pastor of a church in the south stepped before his flock and, as was his habit, began: "Well, breddern a n d sistern, what am de text to be dis evening?" There was a pause and then a voice in a rear pew was heard saying: "Speak on pills." "What's dat?" asked the pastor. "Speak on pills" was repeated. For a moment the old servant of the Lord seemed disconcerted. Recovering himself, he began: "Pills, pills. Well, breddern and sistern, dere am pills an' pills. Dere am quinine pills an' headache pills an' physic pills, an' dere am de kind ob pills our brudder in de rear pew takes when he has been out all night; but de kind ob pill dat I am goin' to speak about dis evening am de Gospel."

Some Sunday school boys have exceedingly active brains. "Was Daniel really such a wise man, teacher?" asked Willie, thoughtfully. "Yes, almost as wise as Solomon." "Well, teacher, I bet Solomon would have done better than Daniel did, anyway," continued Willie. "Why, what do you mean, Willie?" "I'll betcher Solomon would have had sense enough to charge admission when he went into the lions' den."

The new patient had been put to bed by the nurse. Upon waking he inquired: "Phwat did ye say the doctor's name was?" "Doctor Kilpatrick" was the reply. "Thot settles it" replied the sick man. "That doctor will not git a chance to operate on me." "Why not?" asked the nurse. "He is a good doctor." "Maybe so, but not for me. You see my name is Patrick."

Every Town Has Them.

We wish to express our thanks to a young lady who assisted us while attending a picture show the other night. Being seated directly behind us, she read all the announcements as they were thrown on the screen and we were much impressed. She being tender-hearted, and seeing that we were near sighted, conferred that favor upon us. She is our idea of what a young lady of sixteen years ought to be. She is not one of your shy little things who is afraid to speak out loud. It was a vast help to us, because we did not have to look at the screen at all, could talk to our companion and look over the audience and "hear" the pictures at the same time. A gentleman in front of us hooted quite a bit because he kept turning around and finally he got up and left the theatre. We noticed that it bothered the young lady who was befriending us, too, but we assured her that he had no reference to her. In order to fully thank the young lady, and that there may be no misunderstanding, we will tell her name. She is Miss Chewgum Openface, oldest daughter of Mrs. Gadabout Openface. She is to be commended. East Jordan Herald.

You've hit the nail right on the head Bro. Lisk, but East Jordan is not the only town that is infested with them.

Keeps Reminding Him.
"I've quit borrowing money from my wife."
"Why?"
"I prefer to borrow it from any of my acquaintances. The missus never lets me forget it!" Detroit Free Press

Take a
Rexall Orderlie
Tonight
It will act as a laxative in the morning
The Ivy Drug Store.

NAVAL WIRELESS.

It is Almost Impossible to "Jam" a Well Organized Service.

Many suppose that it is possible for an enemy to disrupt and suspend all wireless communication at will by producing very powerful waves of irregular length—in other words, by interference or "jamming." According to Commander F. G. Loring of the British navy, such tactics are seldom successful. It is very hard, if not impossible, to "jam" a well organized wireless service, for there are many ways, both technical and methodical, to defeat such an intention. If the enemy attempts interference he must put his own wireless communication completely out of action for the time being, with no certain prospect of seriously inconveniencing the communication of his opponent.

Commander Loring also believes that the risk of having the signals of the fleet intercepted by an enemy is very slight. "Co-operation between operators, with full knowledge of each other's methods, is extremely important when handling difficult code messages and the more skilled the organization the more difficult it is for a strange operator to take down with the necessary accuracy the groups of a code message. He cannot ask for the repetition of doubtful groups, and he has no intimate and daily familiarity with the methods of the sender to assist him in his task." "And, after all, giving the enemy every advantage, giving him a perfect record of the signals, the key of the code to his hand and equal facility of skill and language to translate it for use—a most improbable combination, it must be admitted—he has still failed to prevent the all important information from reaching its destination."—Exchange.

CAVALRY HORSES.

The Loads They Have to Carry in the Armies of Europe.

The British cavalry is armed with the short Lee-Enfield rifle, the magazine of which holds ten rounds; the sword, which is carried by all ranks except signallers, and the revolver, carried by warrant officers, staff sergeants, sergeants, trumpeters and drivers. Each trooper carries 100 rounds of ammunition in a bandolier over the left shoulder. Lancer regiments carry the lance. Each cavalryman, like the infantryman, carries an emergency and the "iron" ration and a ration for his horse. Then there is the kit. Atoketh or the British troop horse carries about twenty stone (280 pounds).

The regular Russian cavalry are armed with sword, rifle and bayonet, and each man carries 40 pounds of ammunition. There are the two days' oats and hay ration, a cloak and an iron trenching tool. The cavalryman's kit, two days' rations, spare horse shoes, horse blanket, canvas bucket and a mess tin go to form the complete equipment and weigh altogether about 110 pounds. The Cossack pony carries about seventeen stone. The average weight carried by the Indian trooper horse when ready for war is about nineteen stone. The Austrian troopers carry a weight of between twenty-one and twenty-two stone, and the average in the French and German armies is about the same. Manchester Guardian.

Must Keep the Curtains Up.

"In London it is strictly against the law for the driver of any public conveyance to allow the curtains of his vehicle to be pulled down," said a man who has visited the English metropolis. "By day or night the windows of cabs, taxicabs, carriages, or what not, whether drawn by horses or propelled by electric power, must be so open to public inspection as to allow a plain view of those occupying the interior. A closed rig wouldn't get a block before a London lady would hit its driver and hurl him to a magistrate's office, where he would get no mercy. The law is based on the theory that closed cabs are held themselves easily to the commission of robbery or murder and that the passengers are not to be made for a moment."

Right There.
"What sad has the club on hand now?" "I believe it's pathology."—Washington American.

IRON DUKE FLOUR

Cost no more than other Flours

It is made for those people who care enough about Bread to notice the difference in different kinds

Your Money Back if Not Satisfied.

For Sale By All Dealers

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

Mason's Dep'tment Store

A cordial Invitation is extended to you to visit Mason's
Department Store

Bargains for MAR. 25-26-27

12 Clothes Pins	1c
3 boxes Ohio Matches	10c
3 large boxes Toothpicks	5c
6 pounds Bulk Starch	25c
25 pounds Sal Soda	38c
7 bars Santa Claus Soap	25c
7 bars Lennox Soap	25c
A 35c Special Washboard	25c
3 bottles 10c Ammonia	25c
3 bottles 10c Bluing	25c
12 Oranges	22c
12 large Oranges	29c
Very large juicy Grape Fruit	5c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

Yes, We Recommend H. & M. Flat Interior Wall Finish

It is a durable, sanitary and washable flat finish. It can always be kept looking fresh, clean and of true color value by washing, as it is not affected by the application of soap and water. H. & M. Wall Finish will cover 500 to 700 square feet to the gallon, one coat, depending on surface over which it is applied.

White and 12 Beautiful Shades

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Miss Merle Felts is visiting friends in Potoskey.

Born, Monday, March 22, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Ainslie Mayne, a baby girl.

Miss Lillian Emrey spent the week end visiting with friends in Potoskey.

Kenneth Jacobs spent Sunday in Potoskey at the home of his sister, Mrs. Glenn Ellis.

John Lund, baker at McCann's, is making a week's visit among friends in Grand Rapids.

Mrs. George Myers of Traverse City arrived in the city last Wednesday for a ten days visit among relatives.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid Society will serve their annual Easter supper Tuesday, March 30th, from 5 to 7 p. m.

J. Robbins of Jackson was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Levinson a few days the first of the week.

Floyd S. Bettes has purchased the Ford car owned by Earl Young. Mr. Young will soon be driving a new car.

Miss Elizabeth Levinson returned on Friday from her winter's visit, among friends and relatives in southern Michigan.

Mrs. A. Goldman and son of Toledo, Ohio, are visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles Danto, and other relatives.

FISH

We know you will buy where you can get the most and best for your money.

We Catch Our Own FISH

therefore you save the middle man's profits. Located three doors east of X L Creamery, Belvedere Ave.

All Standing Orders Delivered

H. L. BRADY & SON
Belvedere Avenue

SATURDAY SPECIAL

10c LAWN at, per yard 5c
SEE WINDOW DISPLAY

Call and see our new Dresses, Waists and Children's Rompers

Mason's Dep'tment Store

from N. W. Smith, the local agent. Mr. Ingalls is the first dairyman in the county to install a machine of this nature, and the results of its work will be watched by many interested along this line.

The barge Stevenson is being recaulked and otherwise repaired preparatory to its season's work. A number of men are being employed, which is an illustration of the amount of work that would be furnished to Charlevoix laborers if ample facilities were provided for the laying up of boats at this port during the winter.

Harley Ochs, who was seriously burned about the eyes with carbolic acid a short time ago, is reported to be well on the road to recovery and will soon be able to resume his position at the Central Drug Store. When the bandages were removed from his eyes it was found that his sight had not been injured, although the escape was a close one.

Your Last Chance.

Saturday will be your last chance to buy shoes at less than half price at Bedford's big shoe sale. Adv. 121

PRODUCTION OF SALT.

Various Methods by Which the Mineral is Obtained in the United States.

The marketed production of salt in the United States, including Hawaii and Porto Rico, in 1913 reached the record breaking total of 34,299,298 barrels of 280 pounds each, or 4,815,382 short tons. The value of the product was $10,133,139. These figures are the greatest yet recorded by the United States geological survey for the salt industry in the United States, and they represent an increase of 3 per cent in quantity produced and of nearly 8 per cent in value compared with 1912.

Salt occurs in two distinct ways—as rock salt in beds or associated with bedded or sedimentary rocks and in solution, as in sea water or in brines or bitterns. A very large part of the salt production is derived by converting the natural rock salt into brine, which is then pumped to the surface and evaporated.

The two main methods of obtaining salt are the mining of rock salt and the evaporation of salt bearing solutions. Rock salt is produced chiefly by deep shaft mining in the eastern, central and southern parts of the United States. Active mines are located in Livingston county, N. Y.; near Detroit, Mich.; in Ellsworth and Rice counties, Kau., and in Iberia parish, southern Louisiana. A small production comes from surface deposits in the dry climate of Utah and California. In 1913 the marketed production of rock salt in the United States was 1,022,221 short tons, valued at $1,968,547.

The processes employed at the present time in the manufacture of salt by evaporation are solar evaporation, direct heat evaporation, steam evaporation and vacuum pan evaporation. Salt is made by one or more of these processes in the great majority of the salt producing states. California is unique among these states in that the great bulk of the salt produced in that state comes from sea water, being obtained by solar evaporation on San Francisco bay, near Long Beach and near San Diego.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

To Change Umbrella Handles.
Sometimes a person would like to change an expensive umbrella handle to another material and fasten it on solid. This can be done by cleaning out the hole left in the handle from the old rod and filling the hole with powdered sulphur. Place the handle in a solid upright position and after heating the umbrella rod red hot push the rod down into the hole containing the sulphur. The hot rod fuses the sulphur, and when cool it will hold the rod solid. This method may be applied to fastening rods into stone, iron or wood. —Popular Mechanics.

Broad Streets.
Berlin boasts that Unter den Linden is the broadest actual street to be found in any great city. It is 215 feet wide. Other noble thoroughfares are the Ringstrasse, in Vienna, 188 feet; the Karls Grand boulevards, 122 feet; and the Andrássystrasse in Budapest, 155 feet wide.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

Spinning the Motor.
When starting an engine a better mixture may be obtained by not opening the throttle too wide. Two or three turns with the spark off and a slight turn with spark on will give the best start. Spinning the motor should never be done with the spark on. The object of "spinning" is to fill the combustion chambers with an explosive mixture, and this can be done with safety only when the spark is off. After the chambers are filled a single pull upward will ignite all the results of the spinning and eliminate danger from back kicking.

A Hint For Motorists.
When a car or other motor vehicle is used the tube which comes to with the motor is apt to become disarranged by the vibration. To avoid this trouble slide a sleeve on the end of the tube and a clip connection with the reservoir.

Substitute For Compass Point.
When the tilt point of a compass is lost a photograph needle makes a good substitute.

WILL INCLUDE ALL CLASSES

U. S. Department of Labor Extends System of Employment.

Applications Now Received for Skilled and Unskilled Labor—Venture Very Successful.

The U. S. Department of Labor has recently extended its system of employment offices so that now there are branch offices in every important city in the United States. These offices have been located centrally in the territory which has been assigned to them in order that help may be directed quickly to any applicants. The first office to be opened by the government was in New York city. This office has been in operation for a number of years and has proved quite successful. During the early part of the year offices were opened in zones and sub-zones, Chicago being in charge of a zone with Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, known as sub-zone offices. The State of Michigan has been divided into districts and assigned to these three stations, the upper peninsula being assigned to the office at Sault Ste. Marie and the lower peninsula to Detroit, with the exception of a few counties in the southwestern part of the state which are more easily reached from Chicago.

At the time these offices were opened the efforts of the department were directed solely toward supplying farmers with help. Applications for help came in from farmers in all sections of the country and the help was promptly supplied. Because of the success with which this office has met the department has now ordered that the service be extended so as to include all classes of help, both skilled and unskilled. All offices are now prepared to receive applications from employers for all classes of workmen. The proper blanks for use in making applications for help may be obtained from any postmaster in the United States or from the distribution branch. Farmers and other employers needing help should communicate with the nearest office, addressing: Distribution Branch, U. S. Immigration Service, at Detroit, Michigan; Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, or Chicago, Illinois, stating their requirements in full. An applicant for work suiting these requirements is then selected and directed to the position offered.

The government extends its services free to all residents of the United States, no fee being charged to either employer or employee. However, no help will be supplied where trouble exists between employer and employee, as in the case of strikes, etc., or where such help would in any way interfere with proper labor conditions. Where the employer states his willingness to supply transportation every precaution possible is taken to insure the applicant's safe arrival at destination.

Bicycles, $14.75 to $35.00. Bicycle repairing and supplies—Benj. Brown. Adv. 117

The Pig In Water.
Of pigs it is commonly reported that so greedily fashioned are they that if they attempt to swim they cut their throats with their fore feet, but this is only an old wife's fable. Whether wild or tame, they are all good swimmers, though, owing to the shortness of their legs, they just touch their throats with their fore feet and beat the water very high. Many of the islands of the south-eastern seas are now inhabited by wild pigs, which are the descendants of those which have swum ashore from wrecked vessels. —Pearson's Weekly.

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

FOR SALE, cheap for cash or on time—a good work horse, weight 1200—Charles Pierce, Route 2. 121

FOR SALE—Four good cows. All fresh—Address: Peter Nilsson, Ironton, or East Jordan, Route 1. 122-1

FOR SALE—Light horse, buggy, harness and light sleighs. If taken at once $200. See Joe Olson at Charlevoix Rock Product company's plant. 103-2

FOR SALE OR RENT—Barber shop, lunch and outfit for doing good business. Reason for selling, other business—Thos. W. Coppage, Bay Shore, Michigan. 121-1

FOR SALE—40 acres, all improved, 3 1/2 miles south of Charlevoix; good soil, buildings, small orchard. Terms right. Mrs. L. S. Fairbairn, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan. 91

FOR RENT—Elegantly furnished 2 room house, lovely location, water in house, plenty of shade trees and tennis court, trees, beautiful grounds, also garden. For further particulars address Mrs. J. N. Cross, Grand Lake, Mich. 124

FOR RENT—For summer, farm-hedge, 100 ft. square, house of intermediate size, three miles south of Ellsworth on good road, daily mail and telephone, best of spring water, 150 rooms, rock, 60 full bath, address James A. Wilson, R. F. D. No. 1, Ellsworth, Me. 121

J. L. Crane

SPECIAL EARLY SALE

of imported

JAPANESE RUGS

These have just arrived from Japan and will be offered at a special price for early purchase.

IVANHOE

BEAUMONT

CYDONIA

DOLORES

ERICA

ANCROFT

AND DIANA

Japanese Rugs

SIZES
30 x 60
3 x 6
4 x 7
6 x 9
6 x 12
8 x 10

PRICES:

$1.50 to $6.50

Splendid Rugs for Home and Cottage Furnishing.

Spring Millinery Opening

Friday and Saturday

March 26 and 27

With great pleasure we present this season's correct millinery styles. Your inspection is cordially invited.

Miss A. H. Kenning

109 Bridge Street

Open Evenings

More and more every day Ford cars grow in general demand. Their great usefulness is part of the daily life of all the people, though giving universal service with universal economy—less than two cents a mile to operate and maintain.

So simple in design that anyone can drive it—no bewildering mechanism—the Ford owner looks after his car himself. Then there's the "Ford After Service for Ford Owners," assuring the daily use of the car.

Buyers of Ford cars will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Touring Car $490; Runabout $440; Town Car $690; Coupelet $750; Sedan $975, completely equipped, f. o. b. Detroit. On display and sale at her lover and never made any sign that she saw him. If it had been light or he might have noted the stillness of her look, the unattractive pallor.

A. L. Hart & Son, Ag't.

(Continued from page 3.)

"What in heaven's name has happened?" murmured the distracted lover. At any moment Hassam Ali might appear upon the scene. Still he waited. Chang left the room.

"It is done," he said to Hassam Ali. "It is something I've never been able to accomplish. She is very strong mentally."

"But at that moment she was thinking of love," said the oriental. "Now we have no time to waste upon discussing the science of the thing. That young man may at any time become suspicious and break in. Let us not wait. You shall for the present become Wu Chang, and I shall remain the servant of Hassam Ali. You have makeup. Come! Hurry!"

In a very short time the two returned to Zudora. They put her hat and coat on and led her from the room.

"Storm Sabili has gone around to the rear!" cried the real servant.

"Good!" said his double. To Hassam Ali he said: "You and the girl leave now by the front door. I'll handle your man."

"Do nothing violent," said Hassam Ali, who, though he greatly desired the death of Storm, did not care to have the affair take place on the premises. There was, as had been stated before, no love lost between him and the police.

He followed Chang's advice without more ado and was snugly inside a taxi with Zudora when Chang opened the door to Storm. He made no attempt to close the door again, but Storm was too quick. He rushed in fearlessly, as Chang closed in, flung him aside before the Chinaman could put the trick in his leg to throw Storm. The lover rushed headlong up the stairs to Zudora's room, saw the rope attached to the bed, the suit case, but no Zudora. Hassam Ali had tricked him. Down the stairs he rushed, wild with anger.

Chang swatted him, but for a second time he was not quick enough. The lover dashed from the house, to be informed by his excited chauffeur that a Chinaman and Zudora had entered a taxi which had stood opposite and had been driven away.

"Which way?"

"Straight ahead?"

"Come on then! And drive like the devil! Did you get the license number?"

"Too dark to see, but there was a crack in the tail lamp."

It was a wild goose chase, for they never came within sight of a red lamp with a crack in it. But there was one thing that John Storm knew. If night in the way of him befell his sweetheart he would kill Hassam Ali with his bare hands.

"Suppose we go down to Chinatown and make a try?" suggested the chauffeur.

A good idea!

By dint of inquiry they learned that a Chinaman and a woman had been seen entering Wu Chang's tea shop. Storm waited for over an hour, and as no one came out he concluded that this was a case for professional detectives, and he straightway sought their aid. Together they went over the records of Chinatown, but Wu Chang was not a long man. There had never been any opium smoking. He was one of the few Chinamen down in that crime infested hole who stood clean upon the police records. Still, they were willing to make a thorough investigation.

Hassam Ali, still disguised as Chang, entered the supposed tea merchant's house and found Mine. Du Roy awaiting him. The woman at first thought him to be Chang himself until he explained.

"Can you bring her out of the trance?" she asked.

"That's the easiest part of it. But there's no need. She must remain in this condition until long after you are out at sea. I don't care if she never comes out of it."

"You're a strange kind of uncle," mused the woman, wondering what was behind this unnatural attitude of the man.

"That's my business," said Hassam Ali gruffly. "Now, find me a room for the girl. I am not going to trust to luck."

"There is a walled room. The method of getting in and out of it is secret."

"I rather believe you can trust me with the secret," said Hassam Ali grimly.

"Follow me, then."

Zudora had to be led. She was physically capable as ever, but her mind was temporarily blank. Once in the walled room, she sat down placidly, after the manner of persons hypnotized, and stared at her hands. It was all Hassam Ali could do to resist the desire to bring her out of the trance and tell her what was going to happen, but his bump of caution was abnormal. She might escape somewhere along the route, and that would wind up the affairs of a certain mystic who for a commission advised old ladies when and how to invest their fortunes, a commission which, by the way, usually consisted of at least half of the sums invested.

The real Wu Chang in the mean while left the house of Hassam Ali at what might be called the psychological moment. Ten minutes later the house was under the espionage of a plain clothes man, Mr. Chang, affable tea merchant, was driven to one of the uptown hotels he sometimes frequented. He wanted an alibi. Besides, this hotel was quite near the hall where the adopted son of Mills was to make his brilliant speech that same night. It was a delightful thing to make money with right and left hand. But, as has already been said, you cannot throw two stones with two hands and hit any given target.

Chang went to the hall, took a seat where he could focus the eye of the boy and waited patiently for his debut. It must have been exceedingly dull business for a mind so keen as

She Felt the Smart and Sting of Flame Upon Her Wrist.

Wu Chang's to be forced to listen to the oratorical splittings of green young intellects. But a Chinaman will tarry until the reader comes if there is gold at the end.

When the boy finally came forward, blinking and frightened, old Mills for a moment thought Wu Chang had betrayed him. But all at once the boy seemed to straighten up, and presently he began to speak. The voice was unpleasant and monotonous. No hypnotism in the world could change that. There were some surprised people in that hall, you may be sure, especially among the judges. From the audience there came occasionally a ripple of applause. The sweat began to form upon Wu Chang's forehead. Two such exploits in one day were terribly enervating. When the affair was over the stiffened figure of the Chinaman relaxed. He found some difficulty, too, in opening his thin, tapering hands, which had been tightly clenched under the concentration of his will.

"Are you satisfied?" he whispered rather weakly to Mills, who sat next to him.

"I am, and I will keep to the letter of my bargain."

"And never brag again about your son's oratorical powers. I doubt if I could hold him again."

Mills flushed, but for all that he was mighty glad to be high and dry on shore. He would send the boy on a long tour. People would forget.

Chang entered Mills' automobile, and a plain clothes man recognized his face and immediately warned Storm and the other officers to watch Chang's house. Chang ordinarily would have kept away from his home, but he was weak and tired and wanted—nay, needed—the solace of his poppy pipe.

Arriving home he at once conferred with Hassam Ali and was glad to learn that Zudora had been confined to the walled room. At dawn Mine Du Roy would convey her to the ship that was to sail for Cherbourg. From there they would drop down to Marseilles and sail for Hongkong. Zudora's trainer would never be heard of again.

"I think that before I smoke I will see the young lady," said Chang smiling.

Hassam Ali smiled too. In his mind's eye he was counting up the enormous pyramids of gold coin. He would build himself a palace close to Paris, and no prince in Hindustan would rival him in luxury. Yet luxury would require the spending of these pyramids, and straightway his enthusiasm grew cold and died.

"I hear automobiles," he said suddenly with apprehension.

Chang placed a hand to his ear.

"And they are stopping in front! I will take care of the girl and see that you play the part of Wu Chang well. This is a critical moment. It may be the police. Speak softly and know as often as they ask questions. You must keep in this light will fool them."

"So, you remain and let me go to Zudora?"

"Fool! I am master here. Do as I say!"

With that Wu Chang turned toward the alcove behind which was Zudora's prison. Hassam Ali swallowed with difficulty. He was courageous only when he was sure of results. Mine Du Roy had already vanished. He was alone. He roused his will and subdued his shaking knees. A bold front for a few moments, and the difficulties would be surmounted.

The bell began to ring violently, and immediately after there followed a furious hammering. Storm, furious with anger and fear.

"That won't do any good, Mr. Storm," advised one of the detectives. "There'll be better hammering than that presently—that is, if Chang has had a hand in this abduction."

"But they may be hurting her!"

"That'll make the hammering all the better," grimly. "Ha, some one at the door! Old Chang himself, I should say."

The door opened, and what looked like the bland face of a cultivated Chinaman peered out at them from the half opened door.

"Gentlemen, what is this?"

"It means, Mr. Chang, that we will have to search your house. Orders."

"And for what?"

"This gentleman here," and the detective indicated Storm, "claims that you abducted a young lady this evening and that she is here."

A low chuckle followed this statement. "This evening I was at the Delhi hall. I have just returned. Abduction? The young man is mad, enter, please, and search."

Hassam Ali was doing very well considering the state of his knees.

Storm and the detectives crowded past him and awarred about the house. There was a good deal of unnecessary racket. As Storm was passing the alcove he stopped short, convinced that he had heard a cry. He listened intently, but heard no further sound. Half an hour later the detectives trooped back to their taxis, their previous convictions that Wu Chang was a good Chinaman stronger than ever.

"She is in that house," said Storm stubbornly. "and I'll get her out none if necessary."

The detectives shrugged commiseratingly and took solace in cigars.

Storm had heard a cry. This is what had taken place behind the alcove. Chang, curious to learn what Zudora would do, brought her back to her senses and, reasonably secure in his haven from outside interference, passed his hands before her face. Over his shoulder peered his assistant, his beady eyes blinking at the beauty of the prisoner.

Slowly Zudora returned to the world. The faces looking down at her were sufficient. She gave a cry. And this cry Storm heard. Instantly Chang and his assistant seized her and bound and gagged her. Then the oriental tried to throw her back into the trance, but he failed, for Zudora was not taken unaware this time. She was bewildered and could not dream what had happened since that moment she had started for the rope which hung from her boarder window. The two wills fought for a minute, and then Wu Chang stepped back, sighing. He had wasted too much power that night.

A Fine Bit of Warfare Ensued.

The girl's mind was now free, however well her body was bound.

So he left her for the night. At dawn she would be on the high seas. The sooner the better, so far as he was concerned. When that fiercer drew out of her slip Hassam Ali would place in his hands 1,000 shining disks of gold. But the answer to a telephone call at dawn dismayed Wu Chang. The liner would not sail until 4 in the afternoon. Ships do not always sail on scheduled time.

As for Storm, he did not take his clothes off at all, and he was something of a wreck when he ate a meager breakfast. He had heard Zudora call for help as plainly as if he had seen her. He thought and thought and finally, recalling certain curious features in Wu Chang's house, fell upon what he believed to be the true solution. A secret room behind that alcove, from whence the voice had come! He seized the telephone and routed out half a dozen grumbling detectives. Storm was a coming power; a turn of the wheel might lift him to the position of district attorney, and the detectives wanted to be on the right side of him in that event.

There was a lot of bluff in his declaration that he had been mysteriously apprised of the fact that there was a hidden room in Wu Chang's house, and that Zudora was there. The detectives were still skeptical.

To return to Zudora, She was still

Auction Sale

The undersigned, having suffered loss of home through fire, and having no insurance, in order to rebuild and secure funds with which to pay considerable accumulated indebtedness, will sell at Public Auction, at his farm three miles south of Charlevoix, on the cross road between the County Road and the Ironton Road, on what is known as the Blooming Valley Farm, on

Monday, March 29

Commencing at one o'clock sharp, the following described property:

8 Head of Horses

42 Head of Cattle

Registered Holstein Friesen Bull, 2½ years old

Large grade Holstein cow, 7 years old, fresh now, extra good

High grade Holstein cow, 6 years old, fresh January 1

Grade Holstein cow, 5 years old, fresh in May

Grade Holstein cow, 4 years old, fresh latter part of May

Grade Holstein cow, 4 years old, fresh latter part of April

Grade Holstein cow, 3 years old, fresh about April first

Grade Holstein cow, 2 years old, fresh about June first

Grade Holstein cow, 9 years old, fresh latter part of May

Black ¾ Holstein bull, coming 2 years

Black and white ¾ths Holstein bull, 1½ years old

12 Holstein Heifers and Steers, from 2 weeks to 2 years old. ¾ths blood Holstein and better

Red cow, 9 years old, good milker

Red cow, 5 years old, fresh January 1

Grade cow, 4 yrs old, fresh January 1

3 cows, from 3 to 6 years old, all fresh before June 1

2 cows, 9 and 10 years old, extra good, fresh soon

7 head young cattle, mostly heifers, from 8 months to 2 years old

2 four year old cows, part Jersey

2 yearling heifers One pig

Team of grey horses, 4 and 5 years old weight 2500

Black mare, 10 yrs old, wgt 1100, bred to Iron Duke

Bay colt, 2 yrs and 8 mos old, sired by Iron Duke

Good grey work horse, wgt 1300

Black horse, wgt 1600, 10 yrs old

Pair black geldings, good work horses wgt 2300

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 and under cash. On all sums over $10.00 eight months time on good approved, endorsed bankable paper, bearing 7 per cent interest, payable at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank. Five per cent off for cash on all sums over $10.00. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

W. E. DODD, Prop.

Elmer Ingalls, Record Clerk

W. J. Rachow, Note Clerk

us Chang had left her—bound, gagged, helpless. There was only one bit of consolation—her mind was her own. Through a small, high window—outwardly giving the appearance of belonging to the next house—the sun poured in brightly and warmly. She gazed about eagerly, endeavoring vainly to find something sharp upon which she could saw her bonds. The room had been and evidently still was a kind of seclusion for Wu Chang when he desired to pursue his modes of culture. There was a table, upon which stood a reader's magnifying glass attached to a frame. Quickly Zudora inspected the rays of the sun as the inspiration came to her. She was quite oblivious to the sudden sounds coming faintly through the wall. If she could but reach that table! Fortunately she was not bound to the chair. She rose slowly and took short little jumps, balancing herself nicely. If she stumbled and fell goodly liberty.

It took three minutes to reach the table. With her elbow she lifted the glass so that the sun fell full upon it. Instantly the book beneath emitted a bit of smoke. Zudora turned about so that this burning ray became focused upon the hempen cords. She felt the smart and sting of flame upon her wrists. But that was nothing. The cord was burning, and she could feel it. She strained suddenly at her wrists, and was free.

First show.

She listened. A pounding began to take place against the wall outside. Her lover had found her!

Storm and the detectives had entered unceremoniously this time, and a fine bit of warfare ensued. Chang lost his temper and in doing so lost his liberty.

When the battle was over and Chang was in irons they got into Zudora's prison. And they found a trap under a mat, and below they found the source of Wu Chang's fortune—thousands of cases of opium—and still farther below a big room half filled with the devotees of the drug.

Later Hassam Ali sat in his mystic room and heard from her own lips Zudora's remarkable adventure.

"My child, you had better give up the struggle. In some manner Chang has heard of your fortune and kidnapped you for ransom. Wait until you are twenty-one. You will still be young enough to marry Storm."

"I have concluded to go to the end. I am determined to solve these twenty riddles before—well, because I begin to find these adventures the most fascinating thing in the world."

"Very well, my child, but remember that I have warned you."

No sooner was she gone from the room than he set to plan some new deviltry. But for two weeks he trembled. Chang might speak. But Chang never spoke. His bit of work for Hassam Ali was of small consequence.

conjured with other crimes perpetrated within that fortnight. Wu Chang was not born to die in a cell. A little black pellet in his mandarin's ring opened the way out.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvass gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81

First English Newspaper.

The first newspaper printed in the English language, with its old English type and its quaint account of events in foreign countries, was a pamphlet issued in 1621. Its title, "Corrant or News from Italia, Germanie, France, and other places," is as curious as its contents. For many years it had been supposed that no copy of the Corrant was in existence, but there is in London a copy of this interesting document which is carefully preserved—London Mail.

Our Advice Is:

When you feel out of sorts from constipation, let us say that if

Reall Orderlies

do not relieve you, see a physician, because no other home remedy will. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

DESIRE OF WHISKY VICTIM.

Somewhere in a village of western New York on election morning the recognized village toper went to the polls. He asked for a temperance ballot, and a liquor seller got him one, supposing a joke was at hand. Folding it as best he could with trembling hands, the bleary-eyed, bloated-faced, ragged, unkempt man went to the ballot box and registered his wish. Then they began to scoff and sneer at the drunkard who had cast a temperance vote. "A pretty temperance voter you are," said one. "Why, if there was a bottle of whisky yonder there at the top of that liberty pole, and if you could have the whisky by climbing the pole at the risk of your life, you know you'd climb." And then the drunkard straightened himself up as best he might and answered them. "Know it!" he said, with trembling, painful emphasis. "Know it! Oh, yes, I know it. And I know another thing, gentlemen—if the whisky wasn't there I wouldn't climb."

TRIED AND CONVICTED.

It is one of the most cheering signs of the times that the cause of temperance is steadily gaining champions in the United States congress. This from Representative Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania:

"The American saloon has already been tried and convicted in one-half the territory of the United States, and in the remaining territory where it still waves the Stars and Stripes it will soon be seeing the stars and wearing the stripes. Facing the facts and knowing the meaning of the struggle, the liquor interests are forming a battle line of gigantic strength. We accept its mighty challenge, for we know that with this giant wrong overthrown many others which have marred and scarred humanity for generations will go crashing down in one great heap of wreck and rubbish. And cradling that, we do not ask how many the enemies are, we only ask where the enemies are."

ND FINANCIAL PANIC.

The American Machinist recently published a chart showing the number of workers (wage-earners, proprietors and executives) engaged in twelve of the manufacturing industries of this country. The following are the figures:

Foundry and machine shop products	1,174,417
Iron and steel	754,893
Printing and publishing	358,466
Cotton goods	357,711
Men's clothing	271,437
Iron and steel	250,762
Boots and shoes	215,923
Tobacco products	197,437
Women's clothing	197,401
Meat products	168,716
Malt liquors	66,725
Distilled liquors	8,328

If all the breweries and distilleries were to close their plants tomorrow there would be no panic in the business world, only a little readjustment.

HER LITTLE LECTURE.

A young man, in company with several other gentlemen, called upon a young lady. Her father was present to assist in entertaining the guests, and offered wine, but the young lady asked, "Did you call upon me or upon papa?"

Gallantry, if nothing else, compelled them to answer, "We called on you." "Then you will please not drink wine," she said. "I have lemonade for my visitors." The wine glasses were set down, with their contents untasted. After leaving the house one of the party exclaimed, "That was the most effective temperance lecture I ever heard."

POLICEMEN AGAINST SALOONS.

"How many of you would like to see all the saloons closed?" asked Catch-My-Pal Patterson of 200 policemen who had gathered at the mounted police headquarters in Chicago to hear him speak. All but about twenty-five men stood up.

Capt. Charles Healey, who introduced Mr. Patterson, took occasion to say that no man who drank could remain on the mounted police force.

CHEERING NEWS FROM TEXAS.

The farmers of Texas are organizing to "oppose the liquor traffic and to assist in all proper ways in driving liquor out of the state." Since farmers are a potent factor in the making of "dry" states, this is a cheering sign of the times for the Lone Star State.

COLDRADD BANKS GAIN.

During the six weeks immediately following the adoption of state-wide prohibition the state banks of Colorado made a gain in resources of $1,675,629.83. The real estate dealers say that saloonkeepers and bartenders are buying ranches and truck farms.

BREWERS' VIEW.

"There are even companies and individual employers who threaten to discharge employees for drinking alcohol at any time." They do not care if that is social and economic slavery. Their main object is to protect their pocketbooks. —The Brewers' Journal.

TEMPERANCE REFORM ADVANCE. "A movement of victorious yesterday and confident tomorrow." Thus the Union Signal summarizes the advance of the temperance reform.

WARNING

You have less than ninety days in which to purchase fruit trees, berry plants, roses and other nursery stock for spring planting. Order at once before the best varieties are sold out. Be sure that what you plant is hardy, healthy and true to name. The safest way is to buy direct from an established nursery. We have been growing trees and plants at Monroe since 1880, sixty-six years. Lowest prices. Largest stock. Highest quality.

The Michigan Nursery Company
Winkworth & Son
Agents Wanted. Monroe, Michigan
4110

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.

A. M.—"Anxiety for Souls."
P. M.—"The Second Coming of Christ."

Thursday evening—Prayer meeting and Bible study at 7 p. m. "The Doctrine of Salvation." "Difficult Passages Made Plain as Day." I. John 5: 16-18.

B. Y. P. U.—Topic: "Enlarged Missionary Ideals."
Lender—Veda Sanford.

Catholic Church

Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.
High Mass at 10:00 a. m.
Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.
Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.
Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church

Public worship at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m.
Young people's meeting 6:00 p. m.
Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
Services at Ironton:—
Bible school, 1:30 p. m.
Preaching, 2:30 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church

A. M.—"The Ethics of Politics."
P. M.—"Drawing the Lines."

Church of God

Services at camp ground every Sunday.
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science

Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.
Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject, "Reality."
Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m.; also 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 50c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Board of Education.

March 16, 1915.
Regular meeting of the board was called to order by President Kane.
Trustees present Kane, Nordrum, and Hiller.
Absent—Hampton and Glassford.
The treasurer's report shows a balance on hand of $3,434.30.
The following bills were presented and read:

GENERAL FUND
John Cook, treasurer, lights	$ 15 25
H. A. Herriman, lab. supplies	80
Michigan State Tel. Co., lab.	3 47
A. E. Nelson, janitor supplies	2 30
J. L. Cline, nurse	2 25
Eugene Fitchell, nurse	75
A. M. Doherty, janitor	22 50
Cent'l Bldg. janitor	17 50
George Pappas, janitor	20 00
Nice, A. D., janitor	7 50
Jessie Shoup, stenographer	1 50
Jesse Smith, freight, drayage	3 25
H. A. Craig, misc., trap drums and milk	8 00
H. A. Craig, misc.	1 50

LIBRARY FUND
A. M. Doherty, month	$ 5 00
Annie Bliss, salary	10 00
Charlevoix Coal and Wood Co., fuel	77 00
Len Powers, misc., signboard	3 00
A. C. McClurg & Co., reference	3 94
A. Elmquist & Co., supplies	1 10
Guyford Brothers, supplies	6 25
H. W. Wilson Co., reference	5

TEACHERS' FUND
Oht Nordrum teachers' pay roll 78 98
$166 77

Moved and supported that the bills as read be allowed and the secretary be instructed to draw orders on the various funds for the amount of each respective bill. Motion carried.

These minutes were read and approved and on motion the board adjourned.
E. J. Hiller,
Secretary.

People Say To Us

"I cannot eat this or that food, it does not agree with me." Our advice to all of them is to take a

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet
before and after each meal. 25c a box.

The Ivy Drug Store.

GOD'S MERCIES TO DISOBEDIENT ISRAEL

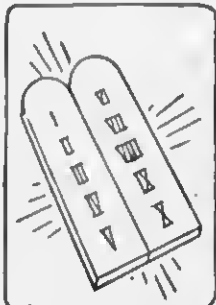

Quarterly Review—Read Nihemiah 9:26-31—March 24.

Period of the Judges—Divinely Appointed Leaders—Their Duties and Responsibilities—Only One Lawgiver and One Law—Two Pictures of Israel's National Life Under the Judges—Manifestations of Divine Love and Care—Lessons for Us.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."—Proverbs 11:3.

ISRAEL'S history from the division of Canaan amongst the tribes until the anointing of Saul, a period of 450 years (Acts 13:19-21), is called the Period of the Judges—Joshua being the first Judge and Samuel the last. These Judges were raised to their position providentially. But as they had neither power nor authority, collected no revenue and could not entail the office upon others. It follows that whatever influence they possessed was personal; and to give it weight implied a proper acknowledgment of them as Divinely appointed, or "raised up."

This arrangement led the people continually to look to God for their leaders rather than to engage in politics, in which personal ambition would control. Similarly Spiritual Israelites are not to wire-pull and decide for themselves who shall be their spiritual leaders, but are to look to the Lord to raise up from time to time such leaders as He may please.

The Tables of the Law.

The acceptance of these as God's appointees does not necessarily mean their selection by ballot, but may be indicated merely by heeding their teachings in harmony with God's Word. Divinely appointed leadership will always be marked by spiritual victories and closer heart-relationship with God; for the Lord's Spirit leads not to bondage, ignorance or strife, but to love, joy, peace of heart, liberty of conscience.

Israel needed no legislature; for it had one Lawgiver—the Lord—and the Law given at Mt. Sinai was perpetually to guide the nation. The priests and the Levites were the Divinely appointed helpers of the people—to instruct them in the Law, to represent them in the typical sacrifices, etc. In each tribe the Elders, according to their capacity, had charge of the civil affairs of the tribe. Soldiers they had none; for the Divine Law was to separate them from other nations, and if they were faithful the Lord was to be their Protector.

Two Pictures of National Life.
If the Book of Judges be read as a complete history of Israel during those four and one-half centuries, it would give a discouraging picture and would give an unfair view—that they were continually suffering punishment for sin and idolatry. The record passes by the happy period of Israel's prosperity, and especially points out their defections from God, their punishments therefor, and their deliverances through the Judges whom God raised up for them. That this was a favorable time for Israel is implied in the Lord's promise to restore the Judges.

The Israelites had been instructed by the Lord to exterminate the Canaanites. "This they had failed to do; and later on the false religions of those condemned by God alienated the hearts of many of the Israelites from full loyalty to the Lord, seducing them into a lascivious idolatry. Thus they repeatedly brought upon themselves the Lord's disfavor."

Applying this to Spiritual Israel, we are not to expect that the Lord's displeasure with His people would delay until they had gone completely into idolatry to self, wealth, fame, etc. Rather, the Lord's chastisements are sent to correct while still there is in our hearts something of obedience and love toward Him—before the world, the flesh and the adversary capture us completely.

These records of Divine chastisements, of Israel's subsequent repentance and of the Lord's deliverance are proofs of the Divine Love for that consecrated people. So far as we have in formation, the Divine Power was not thus exercised upon other nations for their reproof, correction, etc. They were left as aliens from God and His covenant and promises.

Israel's Wrong Course.

Israel's government differed from all other earthly governments. God was their King; and in His providences, according to His Covenant with them, He supervised their affairs. But in Samuel's day, the Elders, perceiving that his sons were unruly and forgetting that God was their King and the Judge merely His representative, petitioned the Prophet that he anoint them a king.

It is hard for us to sympathize with such prayers for their own degradation. The Prophet Samuel seems to have shuddered at the notion from this standpoint. He was promptly sent to the Lord in prayer, and was led for him to the Lord's anointed, the young man whom the Lord should raise up from the flock.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—sixth installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.25

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TO WNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Majestic Theatre

Mary Pickford

In the Special Feature

"The Eagle's Mate"

Produced by the Famous Players Company

Thursday Evening, March 25th

C. H. S. Junior Class Benefit

Admission - 25c

'Beating Back' Al. Jennings' Story

Monday Evening, March 29th

Admission 25c

"Chimes" Charles Dickens Story

Wednesday Evening, March 31

Majestic Theatre

HERCULES HAD NOTHING ON US

If the loaves of bread that we make at each baking were rolled into one loaf it would be many feet high. We would have a struggle to handle it. Our bread is the best brains make. It is pure and tasty and wholesome and health building. We are selling a lot of it. Are you buying it?

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith

Phone 44

Grange Column

Charlevoix Grange No. 1526.

Charlevoix Grange met at the home of Brother and Sister O. D. Hammond. An old fashioned supper of Johnnie cake, fried side pork, boiled potatoes and many other good things were served, after which Grange was called to order by W. M. Dutton, and the regular business attended to. The next meeting will be held at the home of Brother and Sister, A. J. Usher, Friday evening, April 2nd. Warm sugar and warm biscuits will be served. Visitors were present from Ironton and Marion.

Lecturer's hour.

Miscellaneous quotations.

Song by the Grange.

Brother Dutton gave a very interesting talk on his trip to Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Brother Usher also gave a talk and comparison of the farming in Gratiot county and Charlevoix county.

Instrumental solo—Sister Martha Dutton.

Instrumental music—Doris Hammond. Sister Usher handled the topic: "Resolved that there is more fun living today, than there was fifty years ago."

Owing to Brother Henry Black's absence, it will be answered at our next meeting. Attendance 18. All returned to their homes, hoping they would be invited again to meet at the home of Brother and Sister Hammond.

See Our Bargain Tables.

Shoes at prices that are ridiculously low. We are overstocked and must sell. —Bedford's. 121

Cards of Thanks.

We wish to express our most sincere thanks to those who have so kindly rendered assistance to us since the loss of our home by fire, especially to those who made gifts, both of wearing apparel and financially.

Mrs. Clara Hoidt.
Mr. and Mrs. Orville Beattie.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy. Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Buy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown. Adv. 81f

Additional Locals

Spring school vacation next week.

Mrs. Oscar Smith left Thursday for Grand Rapids, where she will visit at the home of her son.

Mr. and Mrs. James Tree of Detroit, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Tree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCall.

Mrs. Henry Jacobs visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Glenn Ellis of Petoskey, the latter part of the week.

John and Lawrence McCann left Tuesday evening for Whitehall, called there by the serious illness of their mother.

Miss Blanche Johnson returned Saturday from Cadillac, where she had spent a week visiting relatives and friends.

Ford P. Robbins of Boyne Falls, was in the city the first of the week looking up prospective purchasers of the Studebaker auto, of which he is the county representative.

Mrs. C. R. Bellinger and Mrs. LeVina Newberry were called to Saginaw Monday, by a telegram announcing the serious illness of their sister, Mrs. George A. Newberry.

Mrs. George Gladys entertained the telephone girls Monday evening. Music and refreshments were the features of the evening. Each guest reports the time of their lives.

Mrs. Orville Beattie of Marion township is staying with Mrs. Arthur Beattie of this city until she recovers from the severe burns she received last week when her home was destroyed by fire.

Jacob Henderson, who lived on the Boyne Falls state road over near Deer Lake, was out cutting wood with his son the fore part of the week, when, feeling unwell, he walked to his house and just as he reached there fell and expired from heart failure. Deceased was 72 years old and came here several years ago from Indiana. He leaves his wife, two sons and a daughter. —Enterprise.

Remember

With a Ford car you get service. A car on the road is worth many in the garage. Repair parts always on hand at A. L. Hart & Son's. Adv. 121f

STATE TAX ASSESSORS

Have Arrived to Commence the Re-Assessment of Emmet County.

Without doubt Emmet county will be re-assessed this spring, as Garry Sanders, an examiner for the state tax commission, and the men who had charge of the work of re-assessing Cheboygan county have arrived in that city to begin work.

For a time Mr. Sanders will be busy copying the rolls of the various townships and the city of Petoskey and getting his field books in readiness for active operation. He will have several other men here to aid him when the actual work of re-assessing commences.

Mr. Sanders gained the reputation—at least in this part of the state—of being one of the fairest examiners in the department through his work in Cheboygan county, and men who are familiar with the work of the department consider Emmet county lucky to have Mr. Sanders sent here. Taxpayers can feel assured that the county will be carefully gone over and that each piece of property will be assessed without fear or favor. —Petoskey Evening News.

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 81f

Ben Hur.

Charlevoix the Beautiful, Court No. 135, met March 15th at the I. O. O. F. hall. All officers were present. Four new members were initiated. After the business was over a fine program was rendered. A potluck supper followed. The next meeting will be April 2nd. All members are requested to be present.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81f Vote on Amendment.

A proposed amendment to the constitution will be submitted to the electors at the election to be held Monday, April 5th, as follows: "An added section (15a) of Article VIII, the effect of which if adopted is to extend the right to drainage districts to issue bonds for drainage purposes."

Many People In This Town

never really enjoyed a meal until we advised them to take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal. Sold only by us—25c a box.

The Ivy Drug Store.

LEGAL NOTICES

Appointment of Administrator.

State of Michigan, the Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said County, on the 23rd day of March, A. D. 1915.

Present: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate. In the Matter of the Estate of Joseph Lewis, deceased. Iva Lewis having filed in said court her petition praying that the administration of said estate be granted to petitioner or to some other suitable person.

It is Ordered, That the 19th day of April A. D. 1915, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition. It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, once each week for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix Courier a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

A true copy. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate. 124

1915 FORD ARRIVES

Carload Now on Display at Home of A. L. Hart & Son.

With the arrival of the first shipment of 1915 Ford cars at A. L. Hart & Son's, Charlevoix had its first glimpse of what has long since become known as the Ford mystery car. For weeks automobile folks have known something new was on the way from the famous Detroit factory.

There is little change in the chassis, but the first ride in the new car convinces the Ford owner that there is a difference. The engine is quieter, the transmission is far less noisy and there is an indefinable feeling of stability.

Inquiry develops the fact that there has been one change in the mechanical construction. The 1915 axle housing is heavier and so constructed as to offer greater ease of access. This heavier axle is responsible, no doubt, for the difference in the "feel" of the new car when in action. Beginning with the head lights and ending with the tail lights the appearance of the popular little Ford is entirely changed. The old gas head lights have given way to graceful torpedo electric, and to care for the big fifteen-candle power in these lights the magneto on the car has been given a big increase in efficiency and output. The head lights focus automatically from the outside and the lamps may be changed without disturbing the reflector.

The hood of the new Ford differs from the old in material and design. Gills are put in on either side of the hood to help cool the engine. The hood in addition is made of aluminum in the new car.

The flat and somewhat unsightly dash that marked the Fords of other years has disappeared in the 1915 model. In its place a curved and extremely graceful cowl slopes up from the bonnet to the body and is surmounted by a new design windshield of the clear vision type.

The Ford this year furnishes a guaranteed speedometer as regular equipment and between this instrument and the steel coil box on the dash is a simple plunger switch for operating side lights. The side lights are tubular and have improved oil lamps. They are equipped with bullseye lenses which match the general design of the car.

The design of the throttle and spare lever quadrants have been changed and improved. The new body is slightly wider. There is no change in the body design, the upholstery or the top, but there has been a marked strengthening of the fender, and especially the fender and running board supporting members. Another feature which adds to its appearance is the new curved fenders over the rear wheels.

There is no change in the remarkable Ford motor unless some details that end toward added silence. The chassis, steering gear and all the essentials are the same, but underneath the sameness is a difference that would indicate the big Detroit factory had cut down its output and was giving more time to the production of each car. In connection it must be borne that the philanthropic wage system inaugurated by Henry Ford has attracted the best mechanics of the country to the big Detroit plant and its branches, and this coupled with the well known quality of material put into the little car may have accomplished the result so apparent in this model. See advertisement in this issue.

EASTER OPENING

Friday and Saturday
March 26 and 27

Showing the newest styles and shapes in Spring Millinery direct from Detroit and Grand Rapids

HUNDERMAN'S MILLINERY SHOP

Successors to Jennie Richards

110 Bridge Street

Charlevoix, Michigan

"THE STORE OF QUALITY"

AND GOOD SERVICE

When in want of anything that will make lovely meals, and good first-class goods, and can not come to the store, call Nos. 12 or 69 and we will bring it to your house. When you are down town step into the store whether you buy or not, and the same courteous treatment will be given to you. Do you know that

We sell the finest Loaf of Bread
in the city and at 10c

and Strictly Fresh Eggs at 20c

SPECIAL

Large juicy California Naval Oranges
Per Dozen 25c

In our Meat Department we have anything and everything and at Reasonable Prices. We give the S.
& H. Green Stamps.

Quality, Service and Honest Prices our Motto

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

Quality Service Honest Prices

WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

The Talk of The Town OUR SHOE SALE

Has your neighbor told you about the wonderful bargain he got in shoes last week? If he hasn't he will the first time he sees you. We are selling shoes at less than a third of what they cost us. Many ask why we do this, and our answer is "To Get Rid of Surplus Stock and WE NEED THE MONEY. The sale will last until Saturday night, March 27. Shoes resume their former prices after this date. Better come in now and save more than half on your purchases.

Bargain Table No. 1

Dozens of pairs of Shoes for men, women and children, some odd sizes, others that we have taken from our regular stock. Their former price was from $1.75 to $3.50. Your choice during the Slaughter sale for

$1.00

Bargain Table No. 2

A large number of Shoes taken from our shelves, of new lasts and good material, also a large number of odd sizes from shoes of all prices. Exceptional bargains will be found here. Your price during sale

$1.48

Bargain Table No. 3

Many pairs of Shoes to be found on this table formerly sold as high as from $4.00 to $5.00. Others are odd sizes that have been left on our hands. We have bunched them together and you take your choice for

$1.95

One man bought three pair—said he got them for less than one pair usually cost him. It will be the same with you if you buy during the sale. Remember it closes Saturday night—hurry this week.

H. BEDFORD, The Shoe Man

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 13

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

RESULTS OF THE CAUCUSES

Various Townships Choose Men to Hold Important Offices Coming Year.

Charlevoix Township to Have Two Tickets in Field—Vote Against Highway Proposition.

Friday was caucus day in practically all the townships in the vicinity of Charlevoix. The usual crowd was present in most instances, and the men nominated were the unanimous choice of all present. Following are the reports as far as received:

Marion Township

Supervisor—Elmer Ingalls.
Clerk—William Withers.
Treasurer—James Cook.
Highway Com.—Albert Elliot.
Overseer Highways—District No. 1, Jay Adams; District No. 2, George Dougherty.
Justice, full term—Ben Nowland.
Justice, vacancy—William Burns.
Member Board of Review—Fred D. Mason.

Constables—Peter Block, Charles Vosburg, Fred Falteng, Geo. Winkler.

Eveline Township

At the caucus in Eveline it was decided to again vote on the highway proposition, this time to vote down that which was voted for and carried last spring. The system of dividing the township into sections has proved so unsatisfactory that an effort will be made at the election on Monday next to go back to the old system. Otherwise the caucus was about the same as held each spring. Following is the ticket named:

Supervisor—M. A. MacDonald.
Clerk—J. W. Flanders.
Treasurer—F. H. Wangeman.
Highway Com.—Geo. W. Jarman.
Overseer Highways—Peter Anderson.
Justice—Isaac Flora.
Member Board of Review—James H. Niclosy.

Constables—F. J. Hammond, Charles Skye, Charles Coblenz.

Charlevoix Township

This big little township will have two tickets in the field this spring. Ticket No. 1 will be headed by Wm. H. Cook as supervisor, and Ticket No. 2 by Geo. Durance, who has acted as supervisor during the past year. A spirited contest between the two men for this most important office is looked for. Following are the two tickets as nominated:

TICKET NO. 1

Supervisor—William H. Cook.
Clerk—Neil McAulay.
Treasurer—James B. Wilkinson.
Justice, full term—A. M. Ross.
Justice, vacancy—Morris Steinborough.
Highway Com.—Samson Godbold.
Overseer Highways—Wesley Howard.
Member Board of Review—James B. Wilkinson.

Pound Masters—Samson Godbold and Wesley Howard.

Constables—George Cook, George Sands, George Linn, D. H. Alexander.

TICKET NO. 2

Supervisor—George Durance.
Member Board of Review—John Martin.

Norwood Township

But one ticket, the Republican, will be voted on this spring, which was named as follows:

Supervisor—William H. Mayne.
Clerk—F. E. Richardson.
Treasurer—Joseph Sprick.
Highway Com.—Plenny Gennett.
Overseer Highways—T. J. Gilbert.
Member Board of Review—William Wiles.

Justice, full term—James Heeres.
Justice, vacancy—Orton VanDusen.
Constables—Henry Wagner, William Mitchell, Thos. Cummings, Peter VanOrman.

Hayes Township

About the only excitement other than that which occurs regularly at meetings of this kind was in the nomination of candidates for the office of Overseer of Highways. John Strigley received the most votes, but was found to be ineligible on account of not being a taxpayer. Ben Ostrum, having received the next largest number of votes, was named as the choice of the convention. The ticket is as follows:

Supervisor—Frank C. Burnett.
Clerk—Eugene H. Burgess.
Treasurer—Oscar S. Tillotson.
Highway Com.—Albert O'Brien.
Overseer Highways—Ben Ostrum.
Justice, full term—Claus Roenfeldt.
Member Board of Review, full term—Oscar Tillotson.

Constables—Samuel Shantz, Robert Minier, Joe Jackson, Will Long, Jr.

SUMMER SCHEDULE

Northern Michigan Transportation Company Route Steamers for Season of 1915.

The summer schedule of sailings of the steamers Manitou, Illinois, Missouri and Minnesota of the Northern Michigan Transportation Company has just been made public through the company's various agents and brings the news that the newly purchased steamer Minnesota will be placed on the Northern Michigan route. This magnificent steamer will be operated on the Chicago-Buffalo route and will visit Charlevoix each Friday.

The boat will leave Chicago Thursdays at 11 o'clock a. m. and will reach Buffalo at 10 o'clock Sunday nights and, returning, reach Chicago, Thursday mornings at 5 a. m.

The Missouri will be operated on the Chicago-Soo route and will also call at the beautiful resort at Kagawong in Georgian Bay and will stop here on both the north and south bound runs. She will also make a short week end run from Chicago to Glen Arbor and return, calling at the various resorts.

The Illinois will operate on the south lake routes and the Manitou will be on the Chicago-Mackinac Island trip as usual. The spring schedule for the early freight trips has not yet been figured out.

DR. J. A. AULD BUYS HOTEL

Assumed Active Management of Hotel Charlevoix Thursday Morning.

Has the Best Wishes of Host of Friends in New Venture—Hotel Well Known in State.

The Hotel Charlevoix has again changed hands. This time Dr. J. A. Auld becomes its owner and will take possession on April 1. The news of the deal was quite a surprise to the residents of the city, although it has been known for some time that the property was on the market. The deal, which involved considerable real estate, was handled by J. Milo Eaton, who also was instrumental in selling the property to Mr. Beaubien at the time he bought in July, 1911.

Originally, we have been told, the hotel was called the Bridge Street House. It was known under this name until purchased by Dr. L. B. Bartlett, when it was changed to the Bartlett House. It continued to be known as such until sold by Dr. Bartlett to J. S. Baker, when the name was again changed to Baker's Inn. When the hotel was disposed of by Mr. Baker to Sam Beaubien, this name continued until last spring, when it was again changed to the Hotel Charlevoix. Whether Dr. Auld will see fit to change its name is not known, but nevertheless, it is one of the best known hotels in the state.

During this period time changes have taken place in the building itself that leave but few traces of its former shape. During the time it has been under Mr. Beaubien's management, the dining room has been changed from the rear of the building to the front, lobby changed, and many fine new rooms added. Today it is well equipped and modern throughout.

Dr. J. A. Auld needs no introduction to the people of Charlevoix. He has been a resident of the city for the past 23 years, and it would be a difficult task to find a man who has a larger circle of intimate friends and whose record as a citizen is better than that of our genial "Doc."

Dr. Auld and his capable wife assumed the management of the hotel Thursday morning, and are ready to welcome those who make this popular hostelry their home while visiting the city, as well as their host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Beaubien will move to the house on the north side vacated by Dr. Auld and family, and will later make their home on the farm on the south side.

Auction Sale.

On page 2 of this issue will be found the auction sale of Charles Vosburg, at his farm on the State Road south of town, on Friday, April 2, commencing at one o'clock. A number of horses and cattle will be offered for sale. E. B. Ward, auctioneer; F. A. Butler, clerk.

Notice.

Dr. A. F. McGreevy, Veterinary Physician and Surgeon, will open his office in Charlevoix on April 12.

HOTEL ELSTON BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE EARLY TUESDAY MORNING

Dining Room, Kitchen and Laundry Almost a Total Loss, While Entire Three Floors of Main Part of Building is Badly Damaged—Inmates Aroused From Slumber by Intelligent Dog.

One of the most disastrous fires that has ever happened in this city occurred Tuesday morning, when the Hotel Elston was nearly destroyed.

The fire started in the basement, either from an overheated fireplace or from the pipe running from the heating plant to the chimney. About 3 o'clock Mrs. C. E. Noble was awakened by the barking of "Shep," a Collie dog owned by Robert Bonthron, who was in the sleeping room occupied by herself and daughter, Edna.

The dog was a pet of everyone about the hotel and on the night previous had entered her room as she was about to retire for the night. An attempt was made to get him to leave the room, but, rather than to force him out, he was allowed to remain there during the night. It was due to the almost human intelligence of the animal that the lives of all in the hotel were saved. When the smoke became thick in the room he began to bark and repeatedly jumped upon the bed until he awoke Mrs. Noble, who gave the alarm of the fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonthron, who occupied a room across the hall, were the first to awake after the alarm had been given. Mr. Bonthron rushed to the second floor and succeeded in arousing everyone. Many were bewildered and half suffocated by the smoke, but all succeeded in reaching the outer air before being overcome.

When first discovered the fire was under the dining room and in the side walls running to the second floor. In a few minutes the interior of the dining room was a mass of flames, which quickly spread to the kitchen and laundry. The fire department responded and within a few minutes four streams of water were being thrown on the burning structure. Owing to the fire being mostly within the walls of the building, it was very difficult to check it. As soon as it was overcome in one place it broke out in another, until the entire dining room, kitchen and laundry were on fire.

The building is a large, roomy one, constructed entirely of wood, and, with the wind blowing, the flames steadily worked their way through the entire west end of the building and into the second and third floors of the main part of the building. The roof of the kitchen and dining room fell in shortly before 7 o'clock. Every effort was then made to keep the fire from spreading to the east and north wings. Lines of hose were carried into the building on the second and third floors and this part of the structure literally flooded with water. Holes were cut through the flooring of the lobby in several places and the fire which had made its way underneath was put out.

Shortly after eight o'clock the flames were gotten under control. The entire west end of the hotel is a total loss and the first, second and third floors of the main part of the building badly gutted. The north and east wings were not injured with the exception of from smoke.

The sleeping rooms of the servants—which were over the dining room and kitchen—were burned, together with all the furnishings. Practically all succeeded in getting out their personal belongings, many escaping from the windows upon the roof of the annex, where they jumped to the ground.

The Hotel Elston was one of the best-equipped hotels in Northern Michigan. The furniture was almost new and the kitchen and laundry equipment was modern and costly. Fire destroyed all the machinery and laundry equipment and hundreds of dollars invested in dishes, linen, etc., are ruined. In the lobby the furniture and piano were taken out, but on the second and third floors everything is drenched by water and ruined by smoke and flames.

An estimate of the damage would be hard to make because of the smoke having reached practically every room in the house, and in many places the water reached the ground floor rooms. The hotel was valued at $45,000 and insured for $30,000. Whether it will be rebuilt is not known at present.

Keep yourself protected at all times by a liberal fire insurance policy. All insurance on this fire was carried by Myrtle Young & Son, who will give you the same protection. Adv. 131t

A DELIGHTFUL OCCASION

Friends Help Miss Hattie Bennett Celebrate Her Birthday Anniversary.

Wednesday afternoon, March 24th, at the home of Mrs. Alton Wood, Mrs. Hattie Bennett was a surprised by a number of her close friends, who—remembering that Miss Hattie would enter upon another year of her life that day—desired to show her their esteem and leave with her congratulations upon the past and hopes for the future. The surprise was complete.

After a splendid visit and exchanges of reminiscences and other pleasantries, the table was laid for sixteen and all sat down to enjoy a splendid feast which delighted the eye and was a gratification in every way. The guests made several offerings of love to Miss Bennett and, after visiting for a while, each departed with a sense of having enjoyed one of the most successful receptions of the season.

NEWTON BALCH DEAD

Ex-Soldier and Pioneer Resident Passed Away on Thursday Last.

Newton Balch was born in Vermont July 14th, 1849, and died at his home on Mason street March 25th, 1915. He was united in marriage to Miss Lavina Nowland August 10th, 1873. To this union five sons were given: Albert, Frank, Newton, Archie and Earl. All reside in this city.

Mr. Balch heard his country's call and served three years and six months in the Civil War. He leaves to mourn his departure his wife and five sons, besides a host of friends.

The funeral was conducted from the home Saturday, Rev. Quinton Walker of the Methodist church officiating. Mr. Balch was a brave soldier, a loving husband and indulgent father and a good man.

Auto supplies and service station. Goodyear, Firestone and DeSoto tires. Give us a trial—Provost & Hull. Adv. 111f

HEAD OFFICERS NAMED

Northern Michigan Transportation Company Selects Masters and Chief Engineers.

Assignments of masters and chief engineers of the Northern Michigan Transportation Company's fleet for the coming season were announced recently. In nearly all cases the officers of last year are retained. The appointments follow:

Manitou ("flagship")—Wm. Finucan, Charlevoix, captain; Thomas Collins, Manatee, chief engineer.

Minnesota—George Johnson, Traverse City, captain; R. F. Coanell, Milwaukee, chief engineer.

Illinois—John Stoffelbeam, Ludington, captain; Eugene Backie, Manatee, chief engineer.

Missouri—Wm. A. Bright, Chicago, captain; Joseph Simskey, Cheboygan, chief engineer.

Racine—John Chambers, Milwaukee, captain; Frank Ellis, Milwaukee, chief engineer.

Kansas—John Thorp, Milwaukee, captain; Edward Dousette, Milwaukee, chief engineer.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Caramel flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 131f.

MANY IN FAVOR OF HOSPITAL

Proposition to Be Decided at Election on Monday Next.

Old Argument of "High Taxes" Being Used by Opposition Regardless of Benefit to City.

The question as to whether Charlevoix will or will not build a hospital will be decided by the votes of its citizens at the spring election on Monday next.

The question is being discussed pro and con throughout the city. Many are in favor of it, while others are opposed to it. It has brought up the same old argument against a raise in taxes. Some claim taxes are too high now, and would undoubtedly make the same argument if taxes were down to the lowest possible notch. We are of the opinion that the same argument would be used if the city would have the opportunity to appropriate a certain amount of money to induce a factory to locate here, regardless of the fact that it would employ a large number of men and make better times for every one.

If Charlevoix is ever fortunate enough to land a manufacturing establishment, a hospital, or anything else, it will cost every tax payer a certain amount of money, and if a proposition of this nature should come to-morrow, you would hear the same old cry, "high taxes," regardless of the fact that the expenditure would be repaid tenfold. It requires an expenditure of money to make money—this has always been a fact and continue as long as the world exists.

Sooner or later Charlevoix will have a hospital. Our resort business (and this is all we have at present) demands it. Wouldn't it be more along business lines to take care of what we have, and furthermore, depend entirely on?

The Courier believes in taking every precaution to keep all we have at the present time, and therefore is in favor of the hospital proposition.

According to an opinion filed at the office of the city clerk by the city attorney, any woman coming under the following qualifications will be eligible to vote on the hospital question:

"Any woman twenty-one years old and a resident and citizen of one of the wards of the city, and the owner of property assessed for taxes, or who owns property jointly with her husband or other person, or who owns property on contract, assessed for taxes is entitled to vote on the hospital proposition; However every such woman must be registered on Saturday, April 3rd, 1915 in the ward in which she lives before she can vote the following Monday, April 5th, 1915."

Plant Beans.

We are ready to make contracts for 1915 crop at market or contract price. Nothing pays better. Deliveries can be made up to March 1, 1916. Phone or write. Chatterton & Son. Adv. 131f.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Caramel flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 131f.

For automobile tires, Goodyear, DeSoto and Firestone tires see Benjamin Brown. Adv. 111f

HAS RECORD FOR ATHLETICS

Charlevoix Has Contributed Her Share in Athletic World.

Small, "Ironides" Campbell and Many Others Have Placed City on Map to Stay.

That Charlevoix has contributed her quota to the hamper of athletic luminaries during the last decade is conclusively shown by the photographs that have been on display in Priest's studio during the past few days. Not only do we find that the city has produced athletes who have caused Charlevoix to be recognized in the county and northern part of the state, but the records of the different men who have entered higher schools of learning in the state have caused more prominent schools to look to the northern country as a producer of exceptional athletes.

For many years in Charlevoix county the local school has held high honors among the schools contending for recognition. On the gridiron, on the diamond, on the cinder path and on the basketball court Charlevoix has been represented by teams, collectively and individually, who rank first in this part of the state, and if only a chance could have been given on different occasions to meet other formidable foes our standing among teams further up in the annals of state athletics would be considerably different at the present time.

The first team that caused teams and managers in the southern part of the state to recognize us was in the football squad in the fall of 1905. Among the players who did honor to Charlevoix, many still walk the streets of the city attending to business affairs. This team was considered the best in Northern Michigan and was sent to Grand Rapids to couple up with central high school of that city. The result is only too well known, yet it did the one thing everybody wanted, and that was to have Charlevoix recognized on the football field.

There are many familiar faces among the boys—men now—who fought for Charlevoix. Among these many are today recognized as some of the best the state institution have put out. Small of M. A. C. is considered to-day by authorities of that institution as the best quarterback and captain who has ever donned the moleskins to fight for the farmers. He came from Charlevoix high school and was a world beater, as the saying goes, when he was in school here. In football, baseball, basketball and track alike he was always to be depended upon to do his part of the work. While at M. A. C. he was placed on the All-Western team picked by expert athletic authorities in the country. He played for four years at the Agricultural College and left his alma mater to take charge of athletics at University of Tennessee. At present he is located in New Orleans.

Another Charlevoix man who has made good to the last ditch is "Old Ironides" Campbell, a late graduate of the same institution as Small. If anyone has ever seen Campbell in action, or felt the effects of his action, he can readily see why he was considered one of the best tackles M. A. C. ever sent out and why he was recognized by higher authorities than found in this state. At present Campbell is located at Milwaukee high school, having charge of athletics and also instructing.

If time and space allowed one could go on mentioning the records of others who have gained prominence in an athletic way, both in the county and out. The names of Rollie Lewis, the present prosecuting attorney of the county; Shepard, Smith, Durance, Powers and Scroggie are well known in the records and—being more recent members of the Charlevoix athletic family—we will not dwell on the parts they played.

This winter Charlevoix entered a new sport, basketball. Previous teams have made fair records, but none so meritorious as the one that closed with the defeat of Traverse City last week. The team is composed of old men at the game who have received experience in high school and college. In another issue a more careful review of the present season will be given.

Wanted—Fifty tons good clover or mixed hay, baled or unbled. Cash paid. For sale—Four pure bred registered bull calves and one yearling bull. Prices reasonable.—C. Beers, Orchard Bay Farm, two miles northeast of Charlevoix. Phone 136, 2c. Adv. 131t

Best values in canvas gloves 10c pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81t

DECIDE YOURSELF

The Opportunity is Here, Backed by Charlevoix Testimony.

Don't take our word for it. Don't depend on a stranger's statement. Read this Charlevoix endorsement. Read the statements of Charlevoix citizens. And decide for yourself. Here is one case of it: Mrs. W. L. Cowan, 210 Antrim street, Charlevoix, says: "I don't hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for I have had good results from them. I had severe backache and pains in my kidneys and was also annoyed by the kidney secretions. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Ivy Drug Store, and they brought me great relief." Mrs. Cowan is only one of many Charlevoix people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches, if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Cowan had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50 cents all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. "When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name."

Correspondence

CLARION

Will Wagar of Macklin, Sask., was in town Monday.
Peter Isaac returned to his home in Mayfield Friday.
Doctor John Reyercraft was in town Saturday evening.
Jay Standish and son, Floyd, were in Boyne Falls Wednesday.
Joe Eckstrom of Boyne Falls was in town on business Monday.
Clinton Young moved his family onto the Grueller farm Friday.
Dr. R. D. Engle of Petoskey was in town a short time Tuesday.
Charlie Church of Alma is visiting his aunts, Mrs. Kate Older and Miss Ida Huff.
Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox of Harbor Springs spent Thursday at Rev. J. W. Stanton's.
S. S. Class No. 3 held their regular meeting at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Stanton, Friday evening.
Mrs. Henry McConnell of Resort was called here Sunday by the severe illness of her mother, Mrs. O. V. Holly.
Mrs. D. A. Belding came up from Grand Rapids Tuesday for a few days visit with relatives at Walloon Lake.
Mrs. J. E. Niles of Petoskey was in town Monday, called by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Mary Herrington.
Mr. and Mrs. Franklin came up from Indianapolis Tuesday to spend a few days at their summer cottage at Walloon Lake.
Mrs. Caroline Rench, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johnson, returned to her home at Petoskey Wednesday.
At a Republican caucus held Thursday the following men were nominated for township offices: Supervisor, C. H. Miller; clerk, Ray Brown; treasurer, Edwin Tillapaugh; commissioner, Anton Holmberg.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness, work clothing, trunks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 71f

HAYES

Earl Sneathen is on the sick list. Lagrippe seems to be making the rounds.
Jim Humphrey is visiting at Frank Kane's.
Platt Webster and Mr. Finney went to Petoskey Friday.
Floyd Bartholomew finished plastering his house Friday night.
Mrs. Roenfeldt returned home from Indiana Thursday evening.
Mrs. Jones Lewis still has her cold and is no better at this writing.
Dulcie Howe came home Friday evening to spend her Easter vacation.
Ralph Durand of Boyne City is visiting his grandparents a few days.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sneathen came home Saturday evening from Grand Rapids.
H. F. Finney and two daughters of East Jordan visited three days last week with his sister-in-law, Mrs. P. Webster.
Fred Erfourth moved over to his

CHARLEVOIX DRUGGIST

IAS VALUABLE AGENCY

B. A. Herman has the Charlevoix agency for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler's-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This simple remedy has powerful action and drains such surprising amounts of bile matter from the body that it is not only a relief to your stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost immediately. The quick action of Adler's-ka is astonishing.

mother's last Saturday and he will drive back and forth till his school is out.

We save you $8.00 on each pair of team harness—Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

EAST MARION

Clinton Blanchard is moving to Phelps.
There is nothing "just as good" as sunshine.
Fred Decker is moving from Phelps to Charlevoix.
Henry McClanaghan has purchased a fine driving horse.
Hazel Gilmartin is spending Easter vacation at Bay Shore.
August Cellner is moving onto the R. W. Paddock farm.
Lida and Dorothy Black were guests of Marion Smith last Sunday.
Remember the election dinner at the grange hall Monday, April 5th.
William Haskell is ill with pneumonia and under the care of Dr. Lewis.
Miss Helen Bixby spent Sunday at the home of Miss Clara Nowland.
Della Guild has been spending a few days visiting friends in Ellsworth.
Nina Williams, who has been spending her vacation with her parents, returned to college at Petoskey last week.
Fifty friends gathered at the fine farm home of Percy Wooley last Thursday night to help him celebrate his 25th birthday. The evening was spent in dancing and music. A potluck supper was served, after which the happy crowd went home wishing Mr. Wooley many future birthdays and promising that they would again help him celebrate the occasion.

Bicycles, $14.75 to $35.00. Bicycle repairing and supplies—Benj. Brown. Adv. 11tf

BAY SHORE

Conrad Voelker purchased a horse at Charlevoix Thursday.
Mrs. J. Karcher, who has been very sick the past week, is reported better.
Albert Bathka recently purchased a span of horses preparatory to starting farming this spring.
The Easter exercises of the Presbyterian Sunday school will be held at the church Sunday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Long, who have been sick with the grippe for a few days, are much improved.
Mr. and Mrs. Liscum of Detroit have been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. Summerville, for several days.
Mrs. Geo. Long is expected to return to her home at Longview Farm soon, having spent the winter at Petoskey with her daughter.
The Red and Blue contest is greatly increasing the attendance at Sunday school. The descriptions of the journey given by the captains are very interesting.
The remains of Miss Bertha Marquardt arrived here Sunday from Arizona, where she went several months ago to regain her health. The funeral was held from the home Tuesday at ten o'clock.

Subscribe for the Courier.

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL

(Marie Lamiman)

Lawrence Ditlefsen called at the normal room Friday morning.
Fred Gregory was absent Thursday morning on account of illness.
Miss Clara Thorsen substituted in the fourth grade Monday during Miss Todd's absence.
A beautiful white crocus and a white hyacinth are now interesting features of the normal room.
Rose Groenink, Lillian Akins, Gladys Waterman and Ethel Sanford are having work in practice teaching.
Miss Marie Lamiman substituted in the fifth grade during the absence of Miss Allen Friday afternoon.
A large Cecropia moth was presented to the normal room by some of the high school students Friday afternoon.
A newspaper and magazine rack has been presented to the normal, which adds greatly to the appearance of the room.
The class is using bulletins issued by the state superintendent of public instruction on the history of the Gettysburg Address for their work in reading.
Miss Whiting surprised the class on Thursday morning with a plate of delicious candy. The class returned the compliment by serving ice cream and wafers.

Cheating Himself.

"You say that millionaire's time is worth a dollar a minute," inquired the man with the diamond.
"Yes, you wouldn't think it from his manner and appearance."
"No, his time may be worth a dollar a minute. But when it comes to his diamonds, he is worth a fortune for his money." Walter Lee Star.

Read "Zimora."

A Food and Nerve Tonic is frequently required by old age. We always recommend Reverell Olive Oil Emulsion
The Ivy Drug Store.

LIVE STOCK HUSBANDRY

FATTENING STEERS.

Method of Feeding That Produced a Bunch of Topnotchers.
Recently O. P. Williams of Clinton county, Mo., fed and sold a carload of steers which brought him $11 a hundred on the Kansas City market, that being the highest price ever paid on that market up to that time, says the Orange Judd Farmer. Following is an account by Mr. Williams of the method by which these steers were fed:
"I don't believe an honest report on the way these eleven dollar steers were fed would be of benefit to a beginner. I handled the cattle cheaper than any lot of finished steers I have ever fed. I bought them Oct. 1, 1913, turned them on to oat stubble, volunteer oats

The Shorthorn breed of beef cattle is distinguished by its symmetrical proportions and by its great bulk on a comparatively small frame, the oval being light and the limbs small and fine. On touching the beef points the skin is found to be soft and mellow as if lying on a soft cushion. In animals thin in condition a kind of inner skin is felt, which is the "quality" or "handling" indicative of those great fattening propensities for which the breed is so famous.

and crab grass for thirty days. Then I turned them on blue grass pasture for forty-five days. This cost $1.50 a head per month. Next I fed them a very poor quality of shock corn and oat straw until about March 10 and then about all the ear corn they would eat, with oat straw for roughage, until May 5.

"The first week in May I turned the cattle on clover and timothy meadow without feed. They grazed until July 25, and then I commenced to feed shelled corn and oats, two parts of corn to one of oats.
"After two weeks on full feed of shelled corn and last three weeks on snapped new corn, I sold them Sept. 24, having fed them grain just sixty days to finish them out. They gained 450 pounds apiece."

HORSES IN WINTER.

Common Hoof Ailments That May Be Avoided With a Little Care.

It is a fact that a very great proportion of the lameness, disease and ailments which occur among horses is brought about by avoidable causes and could readily be prevented if a more general knowledge were displayed in regard to their origin. Writes a correspondent of the American Cultivator:
"To commence with the horse's foot, we have, for instance, corns, and probably quite three-fourths of the cases in which this complaint occurs would never be heard of if horses were always resoled at sufficiently frequent intervals, for corns are principally brought about through the shoe becoming imbedded in the heels owing to the shoes being left on too long.
Cracked heels, which so often occur in the winter, are in most instances the result purely of neglect and principally from one of the following causes: Owing to the hollow of the heel not being properly cleaned when the horse is groomed, keeping horses standing on dirty and wet bedding, washing the legs and in the case of animals specially susceptible to suffer from cracked heels failing to dry the heels well on the horse coming in from work with muddy and wet legs.
Mud fever, another winter complaint, could also in most cases be avoided if the baneful practice of washing the legs were refrained from and if where there is an inherent tendency to mud fever care were taken to see that the animal's belly, thighs and

THE EUROPEAN WAR IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the lands that patriot hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have sneaked with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (60 pages—cloth) telling that just such conditions would arise only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1897.
Of vast interest and importance, it is a promise of better things in store for humanity, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents (plus postage) for a copy to the publisher, The Temple, No. 28 W. 42nd St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

legs are well rubbed down with wisps of straw and thoroughly dried when it returns to the stable in a muddy condition and the legs imbedged.
Thrush, or foul in the foot, is mainly induced by standing on dirty litter and omission to clean out the sole of the hoof.

Balancing the Hog Ration.

Corn is the great staple feed of this country. It is because this is a great corn producing country that it is also a great hog growing country. There is no better way of marketing corn than through hogs as pork. Those who live in a corn section must therefore seek to feed all the corn in the ration that can be fed to advantage. There is no question about the value of corn when balanced with a proper protein supply for growing pigs. And the greatest of all balancers of the corn is grass, chief of the varieties being clover and alfalfa. No better combination can be found.

RURAL GOOD ROADS.

Tilling of the soil is the largest single industry in the United States, and when it is considered that the people employed in agriculture constitute more than one-third of all the people in this country engaged in any business, it will be readily understood of what prime importance is the furthering of good roads that will open our rural districts.

Accessibility is the criterion on which the value of city property is based. Farm value depends entirely on adequate means of transporting products from the farms to the markets. Then, too, with the farming population forming such a large proportion of the entire American people, the prosperity of the farmer is always reflected directly in the prosperity of the cities. If the country is to be prosperous as a whole the farmers must be prosperous.—John L. Willys, Vice President Lincoln Highway Association.

Importance of Good Roads Movement.
Of the 2,000,000 miles of public roads in the United States only about 200,000 miles have been given a hard surface. This shows the importance of the good roads movement.

"I Don't Feel Good"
That is what a lot of people tell us. Usually their bowels only need cleansing.
Reverell Orderlies
will do the trick and make you feel fine. We know this positively. Take one tonight. Sold only by us, 10 cents.
The Ivy Drug Store.

SAFETY FIRST

YOUR pocket is not a very good depository for your money. It does not pay interest and it allows your money to be constantly subject to loss by theft or accident.

We will not only protect your money against loss but will pay you 4 per cent interest, so that the money you save will be constantly increasing.

With the Opening of the Springtime, open an account with this bank.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Nachow, Cashier

Archle Livingston, Asst. Cashier

H. S. Harsha, Vice President

The Earliest Oranges of the Season

Where are they grown? Why do they ripen earlier than in other sections. Why are they so luscious?

These and other questions are answered in a booklet which we have issued describing Glenn County, California.

Glenn County is in the heart of the great, rich Sacramento Valley. A few years ago oranges were grown commercially in only the southern part of the State. Later it was discovered that citrus fruits ripened perfectly in even the northern part of the interior valley. Since then Glenn County has come forward with some magnificent early fruit. There are countless opportunities for not only citrus fruit culture, but for all sorts of deciduous fruits, live stock, grain, truck farming, etc., in Glenn County.

We will send this beautiful book describing Glenn County free to you if you will send us your name and address and a two-cent stamp to help pay the postage. Better still, send ten cents in stamps and we will send the Glenn County book, a map of California and a sample copy of Sunset Magazine, the great Pacific Coast national magazine.

SUNSET MAGAZINE SERVICE BUREAU, San Francisco, California

In writing be sure to mention this paper and Glenn County book.

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

AUCTION SALE

The undersigned will sell at Public Auction at his farm known as the Vosburg Farm, on the State Road, on

FRIDAY, APRIL 2nd

Commencing at one o'clock sharp the following described property to-wit:

E. B. WARD, AUCTIONEER

Gray Gelding, 12 yrs old, wt 1100
Grey Percheron, 3 yrs old
Iron Duke colt, 2 yrs old
Iron Duke colt, 1 yr old
Jersey Cow, fresh March 1
Jersey Cow, fresh April 1
Grade cow, fresh January 1
Grade cow, fresh April 1
Grade cow, fresh in the fall
30 Chickens
Steel roller
Mower machine
Sulkey Hay rake
16-tooth harrow

2 Cultivators
Road Cart
Single top buggy.
Saddle
Cream Separator
Fanning Mill
Klondike Cutter
Cycle Grinder
Hay fork, rope and blocks
Iron Kettle
2 Beet Forks
Pruning Shears
Small tools and other articles too numerous to mention.

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 or under cash; all sums over $10.00 eight months time on good, approved endorsed bankable paper, bearing 7 per cent interest, payable at the Charlevoix County Bank. Five per cent off for cash on all sums over $10.00. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

CHARLES VOSBURG, Prop.

F. A. BUTLER, Clerk

E. B. WARD, Auctioneer

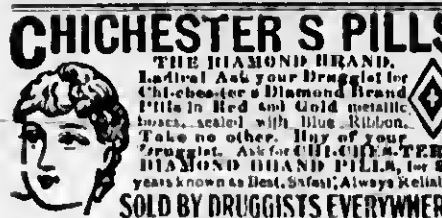

Consult US
Call F. S. Bettos when anything ELECTRICAL goes wrong in your store, building or home—we will remedy the trouble QUICKLY and in the very Best manner and at the least possible cost. Don't forget, also that we will be only to glad to submit our estimate on your new wiring and similar work. We use the Best Materials and ALL in done in the Best Manner.

F. S. Bettos
214 Bridge Street

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

CHICHESTER'S PILLS
THE DIAMOND BRAND
SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

L. S. SHANAHAN
Attorney at Law
Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building

J. M. LORANTON
Law, Real Estate and Investments
Telephone No. 108 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. J. A. AULD
Dentist
Office in VanPelt Building
Over Levenson's Store
Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience
Map and Plat on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

R. D. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 25 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $200,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has been himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself.

Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora foils Nabok Shan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A maker of diamonds tells Hassam Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassam Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond maker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mice.

The police help employed on Storm's father's farm are fleeing because a great skeleton hand appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's parents. Zudora finds Bolton operating a magic lantern and is attracted by him. Storm opportunistically appears and saves her from Bolton.

Hassam Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns in her hand. An old house is mined by Hassam Ali and the old men. Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up.

John McWint, endeavoring to trap and kill George Smith, is killed himself, and Smith is charged with murder. Hassam Ali conspires to have John Storm meet the same fate as McWint, and he and Storm are overcome by powerful fumes Zudora saves them, proves that McWint's own dog trapped and killed him and saves Smith from a band of lynchers.

An inventor blows up a submarine with a powerful heat ray which he sends through water. Hassam Ali sends Zudora to a photographer directly beneath the inventor's laboratory and orders the inventor to kill her. Zudora gets a warning, and her life is saved. The heat ray ignites the laboratory, and the photographer, after a quarrel with Hassam Ali, is found dead in the river.

Who prevents Zudora's elopement with John Storm by hypnotizing her, and has and Hassam Ali attempt to smuggle her out of the country. This plot is frustrated by Storm.

CHAPTER IX.

The Missing Hair.

THERE was something strange about this man Hassam Ali. There were times when he seemed young, times when he seemed old, careworn, broken. Zudora thought nothing of these subtle changes, however. Her mind was occupied with other affairs. But Hassam Ali's servant knew what it signified, and he boarded his savings against that day when he would have no master. For a long time he knew that it was not Hassam Ali who went forth from the mystic room, but Hassam Ali's double, and a very dangerous double, and Hassam Ali knew it.

The man was fond of money, though he was not quite the miser Hassam was. That often, while in the mystic room, going through the machinery he disliked and despised, he could hear the real Hassam counting his gold.

Zudora Was an Extremely Attractive Young Woman.

get hold of it. He lived in the house directly back of the mystic house, and there was a secret tunnel between the two houses.

In the beginning he had followed out Hassam Ali's orders without any particular notice of the result, but after the night of the "tuning," he had awoke to the fact that Zudora was an extremely attractive young woman. Thus his interest in doing away with John Storm began to have something more than a negligible interest. But Zudora! That was another matter after he began to recognize that his heart beat faster whenever she came into his presence. It was fortunate that Hassam Ali was by nature cold and undemonstrative in the matter of bestowing affection. He had longed to touch her, but, knowing his part, dared not.

Hassam Ali's long black hair was, as Zudora very well knew, nothing but a wig. Except that Bald's skin was a little fresher, he and Hassam Ali might easily have posed as twins. There was no occasion for Zudora, then, to look upon this substitute for her uncle with suspicion. She began to suspect seriously his attitude, but not his personality. So Bald banked the fires in his eyes and endeavored to think of her as little as possible. But thoughts are masters, and they lead us whither they will.

One day he entered the secret chamber at the foot of the shaft to confer with the real Hassam Ali, who lay upon a cot.

"How do you feel today?"

"Badly," said Zudora's uncle. "You have failed three times."

"I have done no better, no worse, than you, if that is what you mean," said Bald without much humility. "I have told you that Zudora bears a charmed life. Luck is always with her, and John Storm stands at present in the light of this luck."

"You are a fool, Bald!" snarled the sick man. "You are falling in love with Zudora. I may be ill, but I am not blind. She is not for you. Don't waste your valuable time with any thought like that. I tell you she must die. I hate her!"

"You have promised that if you should die what you have would be come mine," said Bald. "You have promised to make me your heir, I have seen that will, but wills can be torn up and rewritten."

Hassam Ali rubbed his hands together. "So they can," he said, "so they can. I don't quite like the time you use today. Do you think I am more blind? Are you looking speculatively at my shoes? Jim, if you make the least misstep I'll break you as easily as I could a church warden pipe. Aimed knows and my attorney knows. If I disappear mysteriously and don't return—"

Hassam Ali drew his finger around his throat suggestively.

"But if I rid you of this girl what are you going to do with all that gold—millions? You're a miser, and we both know it."

"Perhaps I want the gold to play with," grinned Hassam Ali. "I had no playthings when I was a child; I was too poor. Go along, I've talked enough," peevishly.

"There is another little secret," said Bald.

"Oh, there is? And what might it be?"

"Diamonds."

Hassam Ali sat up stiffly. "What the devil do you mean?"

"Zudora's father once had a partner who went to Brazil. This partner found diamonds of a high order. She has a half interest in this mine with out knowing such a thing exists."

Hassam Ali lay back. "I have warned you. Now go and send Ahmed with my tea."

Bald returned to the mystic room, his mind awash with a thousand schemes. He played his little comedy with Zudora, saw some patients, and turned out the evening paper. Upon the front page he read a bit of news that interested him. The Van Wick child had left the Van Wick millions, had been kidnapped despite all the precautionary measures to prevent such a catastrophe.

"So they've done it!" he mused aloud, unthinkingly.

"Done what?" asked Zudora.

"Kidnaped the Van Wick child. There may be a little work for us, my child—a little work for us. I think that I'll go downtown and make a few investigations before they come to us."

For one thing, he wanted to get away from Zudora. All these thoughts of her were crowding dangerously near action. A misstep at this time would bring his house of cards tumbling about his head. He proceeded to a house situated in a semidivine district and rang for admittance. The servant admitted him without question. This house was the residence of a woman who called herself Mme. Du Val. The fall of her late confederate, Wu Chang, the hypnotic opium smuggler, had not implicated her. She had made her escape before the police had followed their way into the Chang house.

She came into the drawing room in and Bald, sans wig and makeup, in fact, himself. He was in the middle thirties, and certain kinds of women would call him fascinating.

"Jim?"

"Yes. So you've accomplished the feat in spite of the private detectives?"

"What do you mean?" innocently.

"Come, come, Nora; between you and me there should be no secrets. I mean the Van Wick child. You've got him."

"So we have. And it will take a hundred thousand to get him back. I'm getting a little tired of this career. I want enough to live in simple comfort in France. Do you know, Jim, that you are a fine looking man?"

Bald shrugged.

"And that if you'll listen to me this girl Zudora shall vanish so completely that she'll be as hard to find as a puff of smoke? And when that is done by by to Hassam Ali, whom I've always hated. He's as cold blooded as a fish. Millions, boy, for both of us! Travel and luxury!"

She sat down beside the man. She was undeniably handsome, but Bald had seen tigers equally as handsome. And even as he gazed upon her the dreamy face of Zudora seemed to flit past.

"But there is one man we must get rid of absolutely before we make any attempt upon the girl," he said.

"Storm? You will never get him except through Zudora. With the girl as a lure you can bring Storm into any kind of a spider web."

Bald felt himself pulled in two ways. To even hint to this woman that he desired to shield Zudora for purposes of his own would be the signing of Zudora's death warrant. And yet he needed Mme. Du Val, for she had control of an organization whose ramifications reached across the continent. He wanted John Storm out of the way, and Mme. Du Val was the one ultimately to accomplish this.

"Well, what is your plan in regard to Zudora?" he asked curiously.

"I could very easily send Zudora on the same train with the Van Wick child."

"Ah, yes. That is easy enough to say. But how to get her to the train?"

"She does not know me. At least I don't think she saw me at Chicago. I will give a ball. Oh, you need not smile. I live two lives, if you will. In my own home I am a woman of comfortable income, who indulges in mystics as a pastime. Many noted people come to my house. And I've an idea of one way of bringing Zudora. I will send her an invitation. You will urge her to come, but not insistently. She will then receive an anonymous note saying that if she wishes to know what has become of the Van Wick boy, she will find the information at my house. Oh, nothing will point to me. I know my business."

"My niece will see what she can do," said Hassam Ali.

"I'll have to admit that," said Bald listening. When he had these chats with Mme. Du Val he was not always sure that there was not a third person somewhere near. But he never committed himself, never confessed that he was not Hassam Ali. In certain degrees he admired this handsome woman, but there was always a bit of fear of her. "Your idea isn't a bad one."

"I'll give the ball on a chance, any day. It is up to you, Jim, if you wish to make use of the idea."

Alone, the woman smiled. It was not a pleasant smile. There was no man in the world who could fool her. Bald was falling in love with Zudora, and was to the little fool for crossing her path, even if unconsciously. She wanted Jim Bald for her own, and she was determined to clear the path of all obstacles in his direct line. Zudora off the scene, she was quite confident that her own powers of attraction would not fall upon her from ground.

The Van Wick family was distracted. The precautions that had been

(Continued on page 6.)

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the 'The Great Majestic'

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this wonderful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

THE FARMER'S FINANCIAL ADVISOR

We say frankly to the farmers of this community, "We want your accounts." Not simply because they will swell our deposits, but because the Charlevoix County Bank is an institution where the farmer and his financial problems are really understood, and where intelligent co-operation is offered him.

Let us become your banker and friend, and together we will establish a financial understanding between us that will result to your lasting profit.

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK
John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Butters A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

Spring House Cleaning

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Going to Paper, Paint or Kalsomine? Which-ever it may be, we can furnish the material.

For a Flat Wall Paint VELUMINA is the finest paint made. It covers more surface, doing a good job, than any other Flat Wall Paint on the market. Try it, and if used according to directions, and is not satisfactory, it costs you nothing. Isn't that FAIR?

HYGIENIC KALSOMINE is so well known that it needs no praise from us. It has sung its own praise among our customers for the past four or five years.

Our stock of WALL PAPER is very complete and to those who intend to paper their walls, we offer the best at the Lowest Price.

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Housefurnishers

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year, $1.50
One copy, six months, .75
One copy, three months, .40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Obituary poetry, regular rates. Card of thanks, 25 cents.

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

EVERY Republican vote cast in Michigan at the state election this spring will count for many times more than its ordinary value. Political forces and business interests will be taking note of election statistics this year as they have not before since the months preceding the important election of 1896. It is believed to be true that the comparatively few state elections to be held during the spring and fall of 1915 will be more indicative of the results to be expected next year at the great presidential election of 1916 than has been true of any preliminary contests within the past two decades. The Michigan Republican, therefore, who fails to vote his state ticket at the coming election not only loses participation in the election of every important state officer but he disregards as well an opportunity to make his influence count very largely in the summing up of expectations and probabilities for next year.

The man who edits the average country newspaper cannot well avoid treading on somebody's toes continually; must expect to be censured often for unintentional failures; must expect hard work and little thanks; must expect to be called a coward because he does not "pitch into" everything that somebody thinks is wrong, and a fool if he speaks out too plainly on public evils. He must expect to grind other people's axes—and turn the grindstone himself. Still we think it is one of the noblest professions on earth; the one in which the earnest man can do the most good to his fellow man, and in which an honorable man can wield much power for good.

AFTER this proof of its efficiency as a prophet the groundhog ought to be able to live comfortably for several years on its reputation.

GENERAL dislike for America doesn't prevent the other nations from coming around at feeding time.

RUSSIA takes its stand on the water wagon with a simple demand for less vodka and more ocean.

Now is the time to make arrangements for that June wedding. Do your spring courting early.

MINISTERS may come and ministers may go, but the choir feud goes on forever.

OLD FASHIONED HINTS.

How to Aid the Housewife's Struggle For Cleanliness.

It would seem as if about half of woman's whole duty in life, if she follows the profession of housewife, consists of various kinds of cleaning—fighting and struggling day after day against just plain dirt. Yet when you consider how largely our civilization depends on the elimination of dirt this doesn't seem such a tiresome duty, after all.

The lady's bath, washing clothes, cleaning rooms, "doing dishes," dusting—all these things that take up so large a share of the housewife's time are simply phases of the general crusade against dirt.

Here are some old fashioned hints to aid the process of cleaning:

To clean grease spots from clothing or carpet an old and good rule calls for four parts of alcohol to one part of ammonia and half as much ether as ammonia. Apply the mixture to the spot and then rub with clear water and a cloth.

To take grease spots from rugs or carpets, if you are at once, a thorough coating of kerosene rubbed into the spot is often effective. Another method is to lay a blotting paper over the spot and then press over it with a hot flatiron, repeating this process several times. Care should be taken not to press over an oil or varnished floor.

To clean blankets the old fashioned method was to use a "pomander" or any smooth piece of wood that could be used to pound the soap and water into the blankets, as rubbing on a board is not good for blankets. Dissolve soap in boiling water to make a good lather and add a tablespoonful of ammonia. Pour scalding hot over the blankets and then with the "pomander" work thoroughly into the blankets. Elase in hot water. Put the blankets through the wringer and then pull into shape. This operation requires two persons, one holding one end and pulling against another person holding the other end of the blanket.

To clean the inside of jars and bottles fill them with hot water and then stir in a tablespoonful of baking soda shake well and rinse.

To clean in tinware, use a paste of cold water and starch. After the tinware has been thoroughly washed and freed from dirt spread this paste freshly made on all spots and expose to the sun for several hours; then rub off the starch. A second application of this paste should be tried if the first is not entirely satisfactory.

Sal Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown, Adv. 71f

Layers.

Knicker—What is society? Bocker—The upper dog, the middle-man and the lower hound. New York Sun.

People Ask Us
What is the best laxative? Years of experience in selling all kinds leads us to always recommend
Rexall Orderlies
as the safest, surest and most satisfactory. Sold only by us, 10 cents.
The Ivy Drug Store.

All-Aboard
Chestnut
Specials

At a political meeting a very enthusiastic German made a speech beginning like this: "My dear fellow citizens and fellow Chermans. I don't want to say noddings about nobody, but look at den Irish in de Tenth Vnd. Vot haf dey got? Paved street! And vot haf we got? Mut! Mut! Now, my fellow citizens and fellow Chermans, vot I wish to say is dis: Let us put our heads togedder und make a block pavement."

Down in New Orleans a fool discovered himself. A letter was received at the postoffice in that city directed to the biggest fool in town. The postmaster was absent and on his return one of the young clerks informed him of the receipt of the letter. "And what became of it?" inquired the postmaster. "Why," replied the clerk, "I didn't know who the biggest fool in New Orleans was and I opened it myself." "And what did you find in it?" asked the postmaster. "Find?" replied the clerk. "Why nothing but the words 'Thou art the man.'"

A young lady went into the Ivy Drug Store recently and asked if it were possible to disguise the taste of castor oil. "It's horrid stuff to take, you know. Ugh!" said the young lady with a shudder. "Why, certainly," said John Ackert, and just then, as another young lady was taking some soda water, Mr. Ackert asked her if she wouldn't have some, too. After drinking it the young lady lingered a moment and finally said: "Now tell me, Mr. Ackert, how you would disguise castor oil." "Why, miss, I just gave you some—" "My gracious me," exclaimed the young lady, "why I wanted it for my sister!"

The editor was busy when he was asked: "How are the markets?" The man was referred to the office devil, who looked wise and said: "Young men unsteady; girls lively and in demand; papas firm but declining; mammas unsettled, waiting for higher bids; coffee considerably mixed; fresh fish active and slippery; eggs quiet but expected to open soon; whiskey still going down; onions strong; yeast rising; breadstuffs heavy; boots and shoes, those on the market are sold and are constantly going up and down; hats and caps not so high as last year, except foolscap, which is stationary; tobacco very low and has a downward tendency; silver close, but not close enough to get hold of."

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Owing to spring vacation the meeting for this week was postponed until next Monday evening, when the meeting will be held in the parlors of the M. E. Church. An invitation is extended to the fathers to be present and an enjoyable time is anticipated.

Subscribe for the Courier.

The Public Pulse

An Open Forum for Courier Readers

This column is open to all for the discussion of various topics. If there are public improvements which in your estimation should be made, this column is open to you to voice your ideas. If you desire to comment on the action of the city, county or state government, or have any suggestions to make regarding it, it is your opportunity to do so through this column. No article exceeding 300 words in length, unless of unusual importance, can be accepted for the Public Pulse. The Courier can give no attention to communications not accompanied by the name of the author as a guarantee of good faith, though this need not be printed. Editor.

To the Editor:

As to the question of voting on a tax for a $7,500 hospital to be voted on at the April election of the people of Charlevoix, I think someone ought to enlighten us more on the question before we load us up with a building that we cannot maintain. In the first place, the building in itself is the least and there ought to have been a $10,000 endowment before the people should vote on the question of a hospital.

As to our summer people for their convenience and as a draw card I think the taxpayers are overburdened with those kinds of advertisements now. I fully agree that we ought to have a hospital, but not at the expense of the taxpayers.

Yours respectfully,

G. C. Geiken.

Delicate Children
usually only need a food tonic to make them strong and healthy
Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion
is not only the best food tonic but is pleasant to take. Sold only by us.
The Ivy Drug Store.

LADIES' COATS AND SUITS

Sunshine Garments

$7.50

-TO-

$20.00

Full Assortment now on Display

GO TO -- Levinson's -- Get the Habit

Easter Showing

OF

Walk-Over - Red Cross Shoes

For both Ladies and Gents and Children

All the latest Lasts on exhibition. Quality considered, they are the LOWEST PRICED SHOES on the market today.

Come in and See Them

Bedford's Shoe Store

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Easter Cash Sale

APRIL 1-2-3

Large Grape Fruit	5c	12 lbs. Onions	15c
12 Oranges 216's	15c	2 lbs. Peanut Butter	25c
12 Oranges 176's	22c	A large jar Peanut Butter	25c
12 Oranges 100's	29c	A large jar Olives	25c
12 Bananas	25c	25 lbs Producer Flour	95c
Lettuce, per lb.	18c	1 pound Creamery Butter	32c
		Picnic Ham, per pound	11c

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

"FISH"

We know you will buy where you can get the most and best for your money.

We Catch Our Own FISH

therefore you save the middle man's profits. Located three doors east of X L Creamery, Belvedere Ave.

All Standing Orders Delivered

H. L. BRADY & SON
Belvedere Avenue

Stands Like a Stone Wall

Turns Cattle, Horses, Hogs—Is Practically Indestructible

AMERICAN FENCE

Buy your new fence for years to come. Get the big, heavy wires, the hinge joint, the good galvanizing, the exactly proportioned quality of steel that is not too hard nor too soft.

We can show you this fence in our stock and explain its merits and superiority, not only in the roll but in the field. Come and see and get our prices.

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

School opens Tuesday, April 6th.

A. L. Fitch made a business trip to Traverse City Tuesday.

Miss Mary Kirchner of Saginaw, is a guest at the home of H. C. Cooper.

Mrs. L. S. See is reported to be seriously ill at her home on Dixon avenue.

Grant Squires went to Grand Rapids Saturday, returning Monday afternoon.

Miss Janie Mitchell is home from Detroit to spend her spring vacation.

Born, Monday, March 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Boss of Marion township, a baby boy.

Miss Gladys Hathaway has returned from Traverse City, where she has been visiting relatives.

Mrs. P. R. Bogart and daughter of Kingsley are in the city visiting at the home of her sons.

Miss Edna Ward is home for spring vacation from Alma, where she has been attending school.

The stork left a fine baby girl at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Bowen of Ironton Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter returned from Traverse City Friday, where she has been visiting friends and relatives.

Miss Gladys Clow of Williamsburg, arrived in the city Monday for a visit at the home of her uncle, J. R. Cooper.

Glenn Dolberg returned Friday from Minneapolis, Minnesota, where he has been employed since the first of the year.

Alonzo Hanshaw, R. F. D. carrier on No. 3, has been unable to make his daily trip for the past week on account of sickness.

Lee Barnum of Albion, arrived in the city Monday, and will spend the coming week as a guest at the home of Sam Alexander of Ironton.

Mrs. M. W. LaPeer and granddaughter, Florence, returned Monday after spending last week in Boyne City, Harbor Springs and Petoskey.

Cornelius Geiken is home from Ferris' Institute at Big Rapids, to spend his vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Geiken.

Miss Mildred Shockley, who is teaching school at Roscommon, is spending her spring vacation at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ada M. Shockley.

The Charlevoix Lumber Company expect to start on their season's cut of logs about April 12th if ice conditions are such as to allow them to do so.

H. A. Craig, superintendent of schools, left Friday night for his home at the Soo, where he will spend a part of his vacation at the home of his mother.

Miss Clare Fineman, teacher in the Detroit public schools, is spending her spring vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fineman.

Miss Christine Peterson, a former teacher of Charlevoix schools, now of Grand Rapids, is spending the spring vacation visiting among friends in the city.

Mary, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oliver, died Sunday morning. The funeral was conducted from the home Tuesday by the Rev. Quinton Walker.

Miss Anna McHugh has returned from her two weeks vacation spent in the southern part of the state and is now attending to her regular duties at the postoffice.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Benton arrived home Friday from their extended visit through points in Pennsylvania and Ohio. They report a very pleasant time on their trip.

The junior class of the Charlevoix high school will hold a baked goods sale at Mason's department store Saturday, April 10th. The young people deserve a liberal patronage.

W. E. Ewing left Friday evening for Chicago, where he was called on business. From there he will go to his home in Alma to visit at the home of his parents during school vacation.

Mrs. William Scroggie, Jr., gave a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Mildred Johnson at her home on Dixon avenue Tuesday evening. The young people report a very pleasant evening.

W. C. Bellinger is greatly improving the interior of his store by putting in a new floor and making numerous changes in the shelving. The interior is also being repainted and otherwise improved.

Mesdames D. S. Payton and J. H. Graff of East Jordan were in the city Thursday on a day's visit. They were accompanied home by D. S. Payton, who remained in East Jordan over Sunday.

E. W. Coulter returned Saturday from southern Michigan, where he has been working in the interest of the D. M. Ferry Seed company. Mr. Coulter is now writing bean and pea contracts in the vicinity of Charlevoix.

M. J. McCarthy will handle the parcel delivery during the coming season conducted a part of last season by H. B. Jacobs. Mr. McCarthy's son will run the car and take care of the business. See their announcement in another part of this issue.

Mail carriers on the Beaver Island route have discontinued their work for this season and the people of the islands will be without mail until the ice in St. James harbor is broken up to allow a tug to get through to the docks. The steamer Beaver will start the season's run as soon as ice condition will permit.

The custom of the wing empty bottles in the streets is a dangerous practice and is a menace to all auto and motorcycle drivers. Horses are liable to step on them and cut themselves badly. There is a law against scattering broken glass in the street. Hardly a day goes past when one does not see where bottles have been broken and the pieces of glass left on the walks or in the streets. It is a dangerous business and should be stopped at once.

NEW WHITE GOODS

- 40 inch Embroidered Voile, per yard at - 50c
- 40 inch Crepe, fancy weave, per yard at - 50c
- 40 inch Rice Cloth, per yard at - 25c
- 40 inch Batiste, per yard at - 25c

SATURDAY SPECIAL

15c Curtain Scrims at 9 1-2c per yard

Mason's Dep'tment Store

TESTING AND TREATING SEED

Save Money By Using This Precautionary Measure Before Planting.

Seed Potatoes Should Be Treated With Solution of Formalin and Water for Scab.

Of the spring crops which should be tested for germination or treated for disease, corn, beans, oats, potatoes and clover seed are the most important. The germination tests should be made now, in order that other seed may be secured in case the tests show that the seed on hand is inferior in vitality. Treatment for disease is generally made just prior to planting.

Any one of the several methods of testing corn may be used. The idea of the test is to discover those ears which are dead or have poor germinating power. Although this involves a little trouble, the cost in money is generally nothing and if such a test reveals only one dead ear it is easy to figure that the saving would repay many times over the work of testing. For example, one ear with 600 kernels will furnish seed for 200 hundred hills of corn. These will make three big shocks, which will yield six baskets of ears worth, say, 30 cents a basket, or $1.80, and there is the value of the stover besides.

Clover seed can be easily tested by counting out 100 seeds and germinating them on a wet blotter between two dinner plates. The number of seeds which sprout is the per cent. of germination and this indicates the value of the seed as well as the amount necessary to sow to get a desired stand. The standard for good clover seed is 90 per cent. or better. If a person desires to test his oats and beans the same plan may be used.

Where loose smut of oats is bad the loss often exceeds one-third of the normal yield. The formalin treatment, however, will almost entirely prevent this loss. This treatment is simple and consists of wetting the oats with a mixture of one pound of formalin and forty gallons of water, using one gallon of the mixture for each four bushels of the oats. After stirring the pile till every grain is moistened the oats are covered with blankets for two hours. They are then spread out, dried and sown. Care should be taken not to reinfest the seed after treatment. The sacks used and the drill may also be treated with the solution to kill any smut spores which may be present.

Seed potatoes are treated with the same solution of formalin and water for potato scab. In the case of potatoes, however, the seed is put in sacks and immersed in the solution for two hours before cutting. The same care should be exercised to prevent reinfestation from sacks, crates and planters. As scab grows best in a sweet soil, potatoes should not be planted on land which has recently been limed unless the field is known to be free from scab and the seed has been carefully treated. Liming does not harm the potatoes, but simply encourages scab growth.

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 81

FEDERAL AID AND GOOD ROADS

Excerpt From Recent Annual Report of Secretary of Agriculture.

On the subject of good roads the 1914 report of Secretary Houston says in part:

"The problem of good roads, so far as the federal government is concerned, is how to inject its assistance into the situation primarily so as to secure efficient expenditure. The people of the nation are intensely interested in this problem, and pressure will continue for action by the federal government. The matter is of sufficient importance to justify again an attempt to indicate the wise course of action in case the federal government is further to expand its activities and lend direct support. If direct federal aid is to be expended it should be done only under such conditions as will guarantee a dollar's results for every dollar of expenditure, and, as has been said, the emphasis should be placed on the community road, on the necessity of improvement in a economical manner of the dirt roads of the country, particularly through the cheaper forms of construction, such as sand, clay, gravel and earth. Legislation should provide for co-operation between the federal government and the states and that the state, through an expert highway commission, should be the lowest limit with which the federal machinery should deal. If the federal government recognizes any other limit than the state highway commission it will complicate the situation in those states where satisfactory developments have taken place, and it will retard movements in the right direction in other communities."

Poor Highways.

Poor highways lessen the profit of labor, increase the cost of living, burden the enterprise of the people, dull the morality of our citizenship and hold down the educational advancement of the country.

J. L. CRANE

New Spring Merchandise worth your attention at prices worth your consideration

Embroideries

5 to 6 inches wide on fine Swiss materials—extra fine embroidery 10c per yard

Iron Clad Hose—13c Pair

Boys' and Misses' 25c Iron Clad fast black ribbed hose, sizes 9 and 10 per pair. 13c

2 pair for 25c

Satin Petticoats—65c Each

Elite adjustable band, ruffled bottom Black Satin Petticoats. All sizes 65c

Ladies' Silk Waists—$1.00

Japanese Silk Waists with embroidered front, H. S. Cuffs and Collar. All sizes. $1.00

Oriental Lace—8c Yard

3 inch Oriental Net Lace in latest Spring Patterns. Would be reasonable at 15c yard, 10 patterns, per yard 8c

Saturday, April 3rd for One Day Only

Spool Cotton 3 1-2 cents Spool Sizes, 50 and 70 White Sizes, 40, 50, 70, 90, Black 3 Spools to a Customer

TESTING CONCRETE.

Experiments to Show the Action of Sea Water and Frost.

One of the largest construction companies in this country is making experiments to determine what is the action of sea water and frost upon concrete. According to Science Correspondent, the company made twenty-four concrete columns, each sixteen feet long and sixteen inches square, reinforced with iron bars near their corners, and in January, 1909, immersed them in the water at the Boston navy yard.

At high tide the water almost entirely covers them, but at low tide they are completely exposed. Thus in cold weather the columns are alternately thawed and frozen as the tide rises and falls. The columns are made with various qualities of concrete—mixed dry, plastic and very wet—and also with different qualities of cement. Experts are studying the effects of the addition of waterproofing materials. Clay and other substances are added from time to time, and the effect is observed.

Many years must elapse before it will be possible to tell with certainty what kind of concrete is most permanent. When last examined many of the columns were badly cracked. The columns that contain the largest proportion of cement, mixed wet, have so far shown the least wear. Of two columns made with one part of cement to one of sand and two of stone the one mixed dry was badly eroded over its entire length, whereas the other, which was mixed very wet, was only slightly pitted.

The experiment, it is expected, will throw much light upon a problem that has long perplexed construction engineers.

Goodyear, Firestone and Deane tires for autos at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 111f

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

WANTED—Straw and Hay—Argo Milling Co. 131

FOR SALE—cheap for cash or on time—A good work horse, weight 1200 Charles Pierce, Route 2. 131

FOR SALE—Four good cows. All fresh—Address, Peter Nissin, Ironton, or East Jordan, Route 1. 132-131

FOR SALE—Two second hand. Price $12. Or will accept buy in exchange. Tel. phone 57 St. Albert Edwards, 102 May street. 131

FOR SALE—Four horse power Erickson upright gasoline engine in perfect working order. Phone 107 St. Mrs. Lillian Black. 131

FOR SALE—64 acres, all improved, 3 1/2 miles south of Charlevoix; good soil, buildings, small orchard. Terms right. Mrs. L. N. Polk, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan. 131

FOR SALE—Holstein bull calf, Guernsey bull calf, both extra fine. Also sale of young oxen. Also 40 acres good farm land, located on water—Henry Hamilton, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan. 132-131

FOR RENT—Recently finished 2 room house, lovely location. Water in house, plenty of shade trees and bearing fruit trees, beautiful grounds, also garden. For further particulars address Mrs. C. St. Onge, Central Lake, Mich. 131

FOR RENT—For summer, furnished cottage on shore of Lake Michigan, on a beautiful spot, about 10 miles from Charlevoix, with running brook. For further particulars address Mrs. A. W. Brown, R. F. D. No. 1, Charlevoix, Mich. 131

Cost no more than other Flours

It is made for those people who care enough about Bread to notice the difference in different kinds

Your Money Back if Not Satisfied.

For Sale By All Dealers

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

More and more every day Ford cars grow in general demand. Their great usefulness is part of the daily life of all the people, though giving universal service with universal economy—less than two cents a mile to operate and maintain.

So simple in design that anyone can drive it—no bewildering mechanism—the Ford owner looks after his car himself. Then there's the "Ford After Service" for Ford Owners," assuring the daily use of the car.

Buyers of Ford cars will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Touring Car $490; Runabout $440; Town Car $690; Coupelet $750; Sedan $975, completely equipped, f. o. b. Detroit. On display and sale by

A. L. Hart & Son

Hull-Holecheck.

Married, at the Methodist parsonage Wednesday, March 24, by Rev. Quinton Walker, Fred Hull and Miss Nina Holecheck.

Mr. and Mrs. Hull are well known in Charlevoix. They will make their home on the Hull farm. Their many friends wish for them a long and happy life.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few set—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

WARNING

You have less than thirty days in which to purchase fruit trees, berry plants, roses and other nursery stock for spring planting. Order at once before the best varieties are sold out. Be sure that what you plant is hardy, healthy and true to name. The safest way is to buy direct from an old established nursery. We have been growing trees and plants at Monroe since 1890, sixty-six years. Lowest prices. Largest stock. Highest quality. The Michigan Nursery Company, Winkworth & Son, Monroe, Michigan. Agents Wanted.

(Continued from page 3.)

thousands, the boy had been stolen

Zudora Was Puzzled.

The father knew that to recover the boy he would have to dig deep into his purse. That he was willing enough to do, but what he wanted to be sure of was that the payment should be flint. He did not wish to be hounded and pursued by that terror of uncertainty, of suspense. He was willing to pay in pride and money, but he wanted security and peace in return.

The police were scouring the city, but they found not the slightest clue to the whereabouts of the boy or of the character of the abductors. After a week of misery some friend suggested that the services of one Hassam All, the mystic detective, or the services of his niece should be secured. The father was reluctant, for he held all these mystics as contemptible mountebanks who thrived upon the credulity of fools. But the metropolitan police had failed, and he was not a man to leave any stone unturned to recover his boy, the apple of his eye.

Zudora Was Warmly Welcomed by Mrs. Du Val.

So he and Mrs. Van Wick decided to pay Hassam All a visit. They summoned the car, and started out for Hassam All's house. Zudora impressed them both for more than the mystic himself.

"Do you think you can help us?"

"My niece will see what she can do," said Hassam All, or rather Hassam All's double.

"But a young woman?" said Van Wick doubtfully.

Hassam All laughed. "She may look fragile, but wire looks fragile." "But these men are desperate characters."

"And will be the last people in the world to suspect a fragile young woman of being over their trail."

"Don't worry over the fact that I am a woman," said Zudora, smiling. "I can take care of myself. I have been able to do so thus far. If it is possible to find the boy I'll do it."

"And remember," said the father, "there is no depth to my pocketbook so far as that boy is concerned. But God help those bastards if they are cruel to him! Well, we'll trust the case to you, Miss All."

"Keene," said Zudora, "Zudora Keene."

"Good luck, and God bless you, Zudora Keene," said the mother.

"Poor thing!" said Zudora, when the parents had gone. "The most despicable being in the world is a kidnaper. It is a vile game, and these men should suffer the exact fate of murderers. Think of the little boy, suddenly bereft of mother love, surrounded by strange, menacing faces! It is horrible!"

The pseudo uncle looked at her with strange eyes. He admitted that kidnapping was a low crime as far as taking children away from their parents and holding them for ransom, with threats of mutilation or death. He did not add, however, that between kidnapping and abduction there was a wide difference in significance. The truth is, Baird was venturing of this game he was playing. He wanted to be himself, to play a game of his own. He was young, and he wanted the liberty that went with youth. There was no doubt in his mind that Keene, the real Hassam All, was dying. He might live for several months, but eventually he had his ticket for the long journey. Baird determined to play the game out to the end; for Hassam All had promised him a handsome lot of money for his loyalty. He had seen the will, but not without a certain doubt. Willa could be destroyed quite as easily as they could be made.

When Zudora received the invitation to Mrs. Du Val's ball she was puzzled. She had among her acquaintances no woman of that name. (The she found her name in the blue book and decided to attend out of mere curiosity. She called upon Storm and asked his advice and was surprised to learn that he had been invited also.

"I think we'd better ignore it," he advised.

"But I have so little amusement!" she pleaded. "And it will be a lurk for both of us."

"All right, sweetheart, we'll go. Indeed, I'd like to find out why we both were invited."

Zudora went about the house next day humming. So long as John was going she was bound to have a good time at the Du Val ball. It would be as she had said, a lark. Then came the mysterious note warning her to keep away from the Du Val house, and this note was signed, "From one who knows where the Van Wick boy is." Nothing, Zudora determined could keep her away now. Even in this short time it was evident that the kidnappers had heard that her services had been engaged, and it looked as if they feared she would pick up some information in the Du Val ball. Or this note she said nothing to either Storm or her uncle.

On the night of the ball she was rather surprised to learn that Hassam All was also going.

"I was, indeed. I wrote and asked for an invitation," said Baird blandly. "Is Storm going to call here for you?"

"He is."

"In spite of my protests?"

"He will not be neglecting your hospitality. He will merely wait until I come down. And it would be a very gracious act on your part, Uacra Frank, to go with us."

"And have a battle in the cab?" ironically.

"Suff yourself, then. The sooner you understand that I am determined to marry Storm, in spite of all your objections, the sooner peace will come to this house."

Baird had good control over himself. It was very difficult to resist the charm of this high spirited girl. He silently cursed the real Hassam All for outliving a cold aloofness toward this girl. Well, in a little while he would be free of this damnable wig and the painted lines on his face and the stoop in his shoulders.

Neither Zudora nor Storm saw any one they knew well, but the music was good, and they enjoyed the dancing. Zudora was warmly welcomed by Mrs. Du Val. They saw Hassam All at the beginning of the festivities, but after the first dance he vanished and with good reason. He had dodged into a dressing room and removed his Hassam All makeup, determined to meet Zudora under his own colors. He had played a hard but clever game, controlling both his facial muscles and the tone of his voice. He was reasonably positive that Zudora would not have the least idea what or who he was. He immediately sought Mrs. Du Val.

"I want an introduction to Zudora," he said.

"An introduction to Zudora? How heavens, I forgot of course. She will not recognize you. So you want an introduction? You shall have it. And now listen carefully. The man is back of the wall leading to the conservatory. The wall has a secret door. At 10 o'clock promptly you must meet her over there. At the same time I will occupy John Storm, keep him busy. When he finally misses Zudora he will not be able to point in any way to me."

"I get the point. But if she begins to ask questions, due to that mysterious note of yours about the boy Van Wick?"

Mrs. Du Val smiled. "Leave all the details to me, my friend. Tomorrow your Zudora will be just where you want her." Under her breath she added: "Perhaps!"

"Very well; introduce me." And under his breath he added: "You tiger cat! You mean some trickery that I shan't be in on. But if you have one bit of her hand?" Still, his lips were smiling all the while.

The introduction took place. That instinctive warning of his did not stir Zudora. This rather agreeable young man in no wise created any suspicion in her mind. And when she accepted an invitation to dance she was pleased to find a dainty dancer. Storm, however, did not take to this new man. As a matter of fact he did not take to any young man where Zudora was concerned. So he fretted and fumed during the dance and regretted that he had been persuaded to come. Mrs. Du Val talked, but he never could recall what she talked about.

Finally Baird brought Zudora back, bowed and made off elsewhere, rather satisfied that he had made some impression upon his willow niece.

"Come," said Madame to both Zudora and Storm, "let us go to the conservatory. I have some remarkable orchids."

She led the way, and it occurred to her that this moment would be as good as any. She rather wanted Baird out of the way while disposing of Zudora. In the conservatory there was a wall seat. The entrance to the conservatory was at the other end of the conservatory.

"Let us sit here for a moment," said the hostess. "Mr. Storm will get us some ice, and then we'll take a look at the orchids."

The two women sat down and Storm hurried off toward the supper room. Mrs. Du Val turned back and absentmindedly tapped the wall with her fan.

"Wait just a moment," she said, rising. "I will get you an orchid before Mr. Storm returns."

Zudora watched her complacently. She sensed no danger whatever. For haps her mind was too busy with this problem of the Van Wick boy. Some one in this house knew; some one had warned her to keep away. She wondered if she dared tell Mrs. Du Val, who seemed to be an agreeable creature. She heard a slight sound and turned.

"Tomorrow your Zudora will be just where you want her."

lifted up and carried through a secret passageway. Then she smelled the stink of chloroform, and after that darkness. When she came to she was in a small room. She was still blindfolded, but her ears were alive, and she could hear the plaintive sobbing of a child.

Meanwhile Storm returned with the key to find the bench deserted. He sat down the dishes grumblingly and went out to the bathroom. He saw Mrs. Du Val and this stranger Baird talking pleasantly.

"Madame, where is Miss Keene?"

"Why, didn't she run after you to tell you to bring coffee instead of tea? I left her just as she departed for the refreshment room. Doubtless you will find her there."

Storm rushed away, not at all pleased with events. There was no Zudora in the supper room; there was no Zudora anywhere to be found. Then his suspicions were fully aroused. He knew now. Hassam All was back of all this.

He approached Mrs. Du Val. "Where is Miss Keene's niece, Hassam All?"

"Hassam All?" she repeated.

"Oh, he left shortly after the first dance," said Baird. "He seemed ill. He turned to Mrs. Du Val. 'What made you invite that contemptible old faker?'"

Storm found that his dislike for Baird was not so strong as at the beginning

To the Arms of John Storm.

Any one who could Hassam All could tempt him at least some attribute to common wit himself.

"I will inquire if the young lady has been to the dressing room," said Mrs. Du Val moving off.

But Zudora's room and secret were still on the beat in the dressing room. That was enough for Storm. He left the house immediately and drove to police headquarters.

"Upon his departure from the Du Val house Baird resumed his Hassam All disguise and returned home. Zudora was his. He concluded to make his patrol a visit. The real Hassam All was evidently sinking. His strange eyes the guest of death already lay upon the painted features; the mind none was vigorous.

"Keene, you are on your deathbed."

"Am I indeed?" ironically. A bit of coughing followed, and Hassam All writhed upon his cot.

The Hassam All standing over him frowned.

"Where is the will?" he asked.

"Do you wish to murder me?"

"In God's name, no! But you are dying, and I've done all your work on promises of the future. You know that you are dying."

"Where is Zudora?"

"She is in the hands of Mrs. Du Val."

"You will be a pauper, my man, if you tell this time. She must die, die!"

"No, she shall not die. You are not a human being; you are a dead! Zudora shall not die for the simple fact that I have grown to love her!"

"Given to love her?" Keene fell back, looking as if he were really dead this time.

Baird left the chamber, angry with himself for having given the old scoundrel a glimpse of his heart. But he was dying, there was no doubt of it at all.

Zudora, together with the Van Wick boy, were taken away from the basement where they had been confined, and from the whispers floating about Zudora understood that they were to be conveyed to a ship of some sort. She understood (or thought she did) now; she had been lured to the Du Val place for the purpose of abduction. The scoundrels who had kidnapped the Van Wick child feared her. Whether Mrs. Du Val had any place in the affair she was not ready to determine, but it was rather odd that a good woman should live in a house with secret rooms and exits.

It was through a simple countryman's alarm that Zudora and the child were brought back to the world again. The old man had read about the abduction, and the sight of a pathetic little boy being carried aboard a canoe on a sailing was enough to set his suspicions into lively action. He telephoned the police, who in turn warned the metropolitan force. And that is how Storm and the detectives arrived in time to prevent the catastrophe.

The kidnappers put up a strenuous battle, and nearly all of them were captured. Baird alone escaped. But strange to relate, Baird had taken sides with the police, to a reality it signified that the turn in the road had taken place. Baird wanted to be good, wanted to go back to the world again with clean hands and good the woman he had grown to love. It thus fits very well to turn this woman over to the arms of John Storm, but he did so.

That night Hassam All died in his little cell, and with him died his doubt, for never again would Baird don that black shaggy wig which he hated.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvas gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

WATERPROOF ROBES.

Protective Coverings For Motorists and Horseback Riders.

A waterproof robe or rug for the protection of the man or woman who is forced to drive an automobile through a driving rainstorm has been invented by an Englishman. The outside is a flexible waterproof cloth.

RAINPROOF ROBES FOR MOTORISTS.

which is continued up as a lining at the bottom for a foot or more. A soft warm cloth is used for lining the rest, and the robe is equipped with hooks and straps at the upper edge so that it keeps its place even when the driver is waiting about, the lining at the lower edge permitting easy climbing. It becomes rolled from the mud.

A similar idea is carried out in the waterproof hip robe for horseback riders, attached to an overcoat, which is also illustrated here.

Ordinary Ventilation.

Authorities compute that each adult person in a room requires at least thirty cubic feet of fresh air per minute to maintain a fair standard of purity; hence the air changes required per hour primarily depend upon the number of workmen in the shop, together with its cubical contents.

If the rooms are large and the workmen few the necessary air changes per hour are lessened so that this figure depends for its determination upon local conditions. Mr. J. Myers Holbrook allows "one change of air per hour for the average type of city building," increasing this allowance for corridors and first floors. Other engineers designate variously from a fraction of one change to as high as three changes per hour for different sets of conditions.

Engineering Magazine.

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

THIS CAN BE DONE FOR "GOOD TIMES"

MICHIGAN VOTERS CAN ASSIST PRESIDENT'S APPEAL.

AT ELECTION IN SPRING

An Old-Time Republican Majority in Michigan This Year Will Give Assurance of an Early Return to All the Better Accompaniments of Republican Management.

Through recent months and weeks continued appeals have been made to the editors of newspapers and in business men in all sections to do what they could in the way of creating confidence and of insisting upon the return of our country to business and commercial hopefulness and to industrial activity.

Most of these appeals have come from Washington. From time to time the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Labor have sent out special communications advising and urging that we were just on the eve of a return to good times and that very soon all the whistles would be blowing and all the bells a-ringing, sounding forth the glad anthem of national prosperity.

All of which has been very well so far as it could go.

But national prosperity has evidently not been subject to appeals from Washington. In any event, the whistles and the bells have not yet sounded in any remarkable celebration of the return of good times.

But it is certainly true that so far as individual and organized action can effect such a result it is the duty of all of our people to strive for the restoration of confidence, the revival of hopefulness and the return of good times.

And here in Michigan there will soon be an opportunity for united action in behalf of the return of prosperity and for an expression that will be statewide and splendidly representative.

If the people of this state and of our entire country could at this time be assured of the return of the Republican party to power next year the appeals from Washington for confidence and hopefulness would soon be met with cheering response.

Business conditions of today are very greatly influenced with reference to the expectations of tomorrow and of next month and next year.

Property values are governed by prospects and probabilities as to future changes and prospective growth.

If it can be made certain that at the earliest opportunity the government of our country will return to Republican policies and Republican management, a change for the better will be in the outlook of millions of our citizens, and in thousands of stores and shops and on countless farms and by firesides in every section of every state in the Union. There will be expressions of gladness where doubt has prevailed, and there will be hopefulness and better expectation where there has been waiting and the lagging movements of distrust.

It is the direction one is going and their certain destination quite as much as the distance and the date of their arrival that gives enjoyment to the journey.

Republican victory in Michigan at the coming April election will be the beginning of a very desirable end. It will be reassuring to Republicans in every other state; it will be the best answer that could possibly be made to the pathetic appeals for "better times" that are coming from Washington.

No matter to what party you have heretofore been allied with, on the first Monday of the coming month assist in sending a message from Michigan that can only be interpreted as an intention on the part of the people of this country to return to a period of confidence and contentment, to assured Republican progress and prosperity.

WHY THERE IS THE "THE STATE OF MIND"

TO WHICH PRESIDENT WILSON RECENTLY REFERRED.

NATION IS HOMESICK

A Large Majority of the American People Are Longing to Return to National Policies That Have Always Been Successful—Treasury, De-ficiency and Emergency Taxes Are Strange Experiences.

President Wilson recently declared to a group of business men whom he had summoned to the White House to advise with touching some phase of the present depressed industrial situation that he was greatly puzzled by the continued stagnation in the realm of business movements and that in his opinion the existing unfortunate condition of affairs was in great part psychological, that it was due to a state of mind rather than to any actual causes that could be remedied or removed.

And even from the viewpoint of orthodox republicans it will be admitted that there is a great deal of truth in President Wilson's statement.

If President Wilson has ever been homesick; if he has ever been so far away from familiar scenes and friendly faces as to wish himself back again with the old home conditions; if he has ever worried through the days and nights awake because of unhappiness over his strange surroundings and through his longing to be again with those he better knew, —if the President has ever undergone this experience he can realize something of the far-reaching effect of a "state of mind," and he can sympathize with a very large majority of the people of the United States over their present homesickness.

President Wilson knows it to be true, of course, that he was not the choice of a majority of the voters of this country for the office he now holds.

He knows it to be true that only through an unfortunate division of a great body of voters, who were actually united in sympathy and in purpose on the more important policies of national management and national legislation, was it made possible for him to become the nation's chief executive.

It is therefore true that almost every political action taken by President Wilson has been in opposition to the sympathies and the wishes of a large majority of the people of this country.

They respect him as a well equipped scholar and as a high minded gentleman, and they recognize the deference and the loyalty due him as the honored occupant of our country's first official position.

But most of the people of the United States believe that Mr. Wilson's political theories are not capable of successful demonstration. They know that all efforts in the past to apply the policies and principles of President Wilson's party to the business and governmental affairs of our nation have resulted in failure and disasters.

The great body of the American people are homesick as far as the important affairs of our government are concerned.

Perhaps it is true that those now in control are honest and earnest, and it will not be questioned that they are hoping for success. But their ways are different; their methods are peculiar and the policies they are insisting upon are not those which through years gone by have been accompanied by national prosperity and national happiness.

They want to go back to the better American ways and the happier American days.

They are disturbed through days and nights by national treasury deficiencies and emergency forms of taxation. They are distressed by idle factories and silent mills; by hearing the appeals of the needy for employment and by observing the increasingly long bread lines.

They remember, the great body of the American people do, that at other times in the history of our country there have been treasury deficiencies and emergency taxes and idle working men and long lines of the hungry and the distressed.

And they recall that these were times when President Wilson's party was experimenting on a nation, as he has been doing, with its peculiar policies and its political theories. And in the other days as in the present days these experiments created the nation-wide "state of mind" to which he recently referred, the condition of national homesickness.

Is it to be wondered at that the people of the United States are anxious to vote again?

That they are eager to return with their country as a whole to the soundness they better know; to policies more familiar and more fortunate and more in harmony with the genius and the spirit of American life?

President Wilson is insisting upon subjecting the people of the United States to the results of political policies they have always opposed and have found to be undesirable.

They are away from home, and most of them are very anxious to have our country retrace the steps of its last unfortunate political pilgrimage and to begin again along a pathway not so troubled with discontent and with lack of confidence and with all the ills and worries that accompany individual and national travel in wrong directions.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.
For Justices of the Supreme Court—	Aaron V. McAlvay, Flavius L. Brooke.
For Regents of the University—	Julius E. Beal, Frank H. Leiland.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction—	Fred L. Keeler.
For Members State Board of Agriculture—	William A. Wallace, L. Roy Waterbury.
For Member State Board of Education—	Fred A. Jeffers.

A Word to the Wives.

Through the recent appointment of Dr. J. Vaughan as member of the Detroit Board of Health, that health board is now composed entirely of Democrats.

Governor Ferris was urged to reappoint an experienced and valuable member of the board, but the fact that the latter was a Republican evidently prevented sufficient consideration for his years of experience and past efficiency.

It will be recalled that when Governor Ferris was being urged to retain State Bank Commissioner E. H. Doyle in the office he had served so well, that the only reason the governor gave for not retaining Mr. Doyle was that the latter was a Republican, and he desired to give the office to a Democrat.

It may be well for Michigan Republicans to keep Governor Ferris's practice and philosophy in mind when they go to the polls next time. It is quite evident that the theory of non-partisanship gains no helpful advocates through the election of Democrats with Republican votes.

At one of the New York restaurants a willowy, cadaverous young person was doing the latest steps. The room was crowded, and most of the patrons stood in order to get a better view. One old gentleman, a Kentuckian, remained in his chair, playing his with his glass, though the other members of his party were on their feet with interest. Finally one of them, a young girl, caught the old gentleman's sleeve and pulled it impatiently.

"Oh, come on, major!" she said. "Be modern!" —New York Post.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

SALOON THE PAUPER-MAKER.

One out of every ten people a pauper! This statement is made concerning Cook county, Illinois, of which county the city of Chicago constitutes the chief part, and is given in the annual report of the president of the board of county commissioners. During last year the number helped was 250,000, the chief cause of need in 9,000 of these cases being reported as unemployment. The close connection between the 7,000 saloons of Chicago and the burden of pauperism is easily seen. Any business man accustomed to employ labor could make a tolerably accurate conjecture that fully two-thirds of the men who cannot in ordinary times secure employment are unreliable and undesirable as workmen because of their indulgence in liquor.

And the men and women who each year dig deep into their pockets for the taxes necessary to care for these 250,000 paupers and other dependent citizens, are in a majority of cases the same men and women who license the institution that produces them!

MENACE TO THE BOY.

(From the speech of Congressman Garrett of Texas, in behalf of the Hobson resolution.)

"I am not afraid of the blind tiger for my boy or myself, but of the tiger that can see—the tiger that stands on every prominent corner with bright lights that blink at me. Young men do not begin the drink habit in the blind tigers. They learn to drink at mahogany tables in the high class beer gardens and restaurants, where they serve nice little drinks with fruit sticking around them. When you took our slaves away from us we suffered, but we thank you for it today. We thought we had a right to decide that question for ourselves, but you said we could not. Now when we want to destroy the saloon career, you will yell 'states rights' at us."

JUNIORS DRY UP THE TOWN.

In Georgetown, O., a few weeks before election, young men of from fifteen to twenty years of age organized a Junior Business Men's club and announced themselves as a "bunch of winners." They made a thorough canvass of the town and solicited every voter, saying to the drinking classes, "You wanted saloons in your day; you've had them; we boys don't want them in our midst; won't you help give us what we want?" The result was that Georgetown went "dry" three to one. This campaign has attracted much attention in the state and the "vets" feel they have nothing to hope from the new generation about to step into the electorate.

LIFE-CONSERVER.

An exhaustive investigation into 2,000,000 lives insured during the last 24 years was recently completed by the life insurance companies. Arthur Hunter, a New York actuary, reporting some of these findings to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in New York city, said they showed that "the loss of 500,000 men in the present war could be made good in less than ten years through complete abstinence from alcoholic beverages by the inhabitants of Russia."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

The following figures are given by a writer in economics: In 365 days there are (24 hours to the day) 8,760 hours. The church is open on an average of 600 hours a year, the schools about 1,300 hours, the average factory about 2,400 hours, and the average business concern about 2,800 hours, while the saloon and other like resorts are open about 4,725 hours.

SAME OLD PROBLEM.

The problem that faces us today is the problem all ages have wrestled with, and the pen of history has yet to record its perfect solution, that of causing the individual to accept in his life the ideas and the ideals that mark the trail of an advanced civilization.—Mrs. Amy C. Deech, National W. C. T. U. organizer.

GOOD JOB FOR BOYS.

At an Epworth league meeting recently a group of boys, each with a spade on his shoulder, marched to the platform. Another boy met them and asked: "Where are you going, boys?" In unison and with emphasis they replied: "Going to bury the liquor traffic!" and then marched from the stage.

CONFIDENCE IN PHYSICIANS.

Said E. L. Stewart, M. D., in a recent article in Kansas City Star: "The liquor traffic could meet no surer end today than to leave its fate in the hands of the physicians of the United States."

DRINKER NOT WANTED.

"The last man hired, the first fired—the man who drinks."

KILLS AND PRESERVES.

Alcohol kills the living and preserves the dead.

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.

A. M.—Easter program.
P. M.—Sermon, "The Argument of the Empty Tomb."

Tuesday evening, seven o'clock—Bible Study. "The Doctrine of Salvation."
Thursday evening—Prayer meeting.
"Difficult passages made plain as day".
[I. Peter 2: 20-22.

B. Y. P. U.—Consecration meeting.
Topic: "Conquering Discouragement."
Leader—Jennie Carey.

Calvary Church

Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.
High Mass at 10:00 a. m.
Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.
Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.
Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church

Public worship at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m.
Young people's meeting 6:00 p. m.
Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
Services at Ironton:—
Bible school, 1:30 p. m.
Preaching, 2:30 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church

A. M.—"The Meaning of Easter."
P. M.—Easter cantata.

Church of God

Services at camp ground every Sunday.
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science

Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.
Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject, Unreality.
Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m.; also 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE, Toledo, O.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

GOOD ROADS AND PROPERTY.

Cases Showing Relation Between Improved Roads and Land Values.

The following cases showing the relation between improved roads and adjacent land values are cited by the specialists of the office of public roads in a bulletin of the United States department of agriculture:

Manatee county, Fla., built sixty-four miles of macadam and shell road from 1911 to 1912 land on the road increased in value $20 per acre, and land a mile away from the road showed an increase of $10 per acre.

Spottsylvania county, Va., improved forty-one miles of road, and land which formerly sold on an average of $21.74 changed hands within three years at an average of $41.74 per acre.

In Dinwiddie county, Va., where 125 miles of road were built, land between five and ten miles from Petersburg advanced on an average from $15.25 to $30 an acre in about fifteen instances, while land ten miles from town increased on an average in sixteen cases $16.32 an acre.

In Franklin county, N. Y., where 124 miles of road were built, eight pieces of land selected at random showed an increase of 27.8 per cent after the improved roads were built, while in Lee county, Va., which built eighty-four miles of road, land similarly advanced 25 per cent.

The construction of the bond built highways in several of the counties mentioned has been of decided benefit to school attendance. In Spottsylvania county one consolidated school replaces three one-room schools, and another consolidated school is planned. In Dinwiddie county school attendance increased 17 1/2 per cent in one year on the improved roads, and several school wagons carrying twenty-four pupils each have been put in service. In Lee county school attendance along the improved roads shows an average of 71 per cent against 62 per cent along other roads. In Wise county, Va., several successful school consolidations have been effected since 1900. The Pole Bridge school in this county, on the road from Coburn to Wise, replaces four one-room schools.

Mean Comment.

Elia—Her face speaks for itself.
Stella—Yes, and it is pretty plain talk.
—Chicago News.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

Rexall
Dyspepsia Tablets
Will Relieve Your Indigestion
The Ivy Drug Store.

SAUL REJECTED

BY THE LORD

1 Samuel 15:10-23—April 4.
Disobedience to the Heavenly King Cost Saul His Throne—His First Severe Test—His Second Test—Was the Condemnation of the Amalekites Just? Saul's Wrong Attitude of Heart. Beauty and Strength of the Prophet Samuel's Character.

"Behold, to obey is better than to sacrifice."—1 Samuel 15:22.

SEVERAL years after King Saul's coronation his first great test, noted in our lesson of two weeks ago, came to him. At that time a war was instituted against the Philistines, who dominated Israel. Saul waited for the prophet Samuel to come to offer sacrifice previous to giving battle. Samuel was providentially detained; and the king, after waiting for a time, offered the sacrifices himself and proceeded to the battle, the result being the defeat of his forces. This incident may be said to have been the beginning of Saul's rejection by the Lord.

Slaughter of the Amalekites.

Although the Lord, through the prophet Samuel, announced King Saul's rejection, the prediction was evidently not fulfilled for several years afterward. Quite possibly the king was properly exercised by his rejection and became more attentive to the Divine will; and David, who was probably motivated about this time, was not yet sufficiently developed to be the Lord's representative in Saul's stead.

King Saul's next severe trial was in connection with the Amalekites, a fierce nomadic people who had on several occasions done injury to Israel. In sending the message to the king, the Lord gave special instructions that the Amalekites should be utterly destroyed. He also specified that the destruction was on account of Amalek's opposition to Israel in the way when the Israelites came out of Egypt, several centuries before.

Was Their Condemnation Just? This narrative is seized upon by skeptics to prove that if God should thus command the wholesale slaughter of human creatures and dumb animals, He must be lacking in justice, pity, sympathy and love. There is but one answer to this matter, and it should be satisfactory to all who understand it. It is this:

The slaughter of the Amalekites did not mean, as usually inferred, that they went forth to eternal torture. To them, death had the same meaning that it had to their cattle—a termination of whatever was desirable in the present life. Slaughtered by the sword, the Amalekites suffered far less than if they had died of hunger or disease. All went down to the great prison-house of death—Sheol, Hades, the tomb.

God had already arranged a great redemption, not only for the Amalekites, but for all mankind. That redemption, secured by the great sacrifice of Christ centuries after their death, will by and by secure to them release from their imprisonment—an awakening from the death sleep. They will be amongst those mentioned by our Lord, saying: "All that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of God and shall come forth." They will come forth under much more favorable conditions, to learn of Divine grace in Christ and to be amongst the families of the earth to be blessed by the Seed of Abraham—Spiritual Israel.

King Saul's Willful Disobedience. In this trial King Saul's error was his failure to carry out the Lord's commands explicitly. He slew all the Amalekites except the king, whom he kept alive, possibly thinking to exhibit him in a triumphal display. As for the flocks and herds, he consented with his people to spare all that were good and desirable. At this juncture the prophet Samuel arrived, and the colloquy of our lesson ensued.

The prophet's indignation and the Lord's positive statement clearly indicate that King Saul had not misunderstood his instructions, but had deliberately violated them. Consequently his words to the prophet must have been to a great extent hypocritical. The prophet stopped the king in his explanation, and told him in the Lord's words of the night preceding—in Jewish reckoning "this night," because their day begins in the evening.

King Saul sought to defend his course and to lay the responsibility upon the hosts of Israel. The prophet's answer is the path of today's study, and contains its Golden Text. He clearly pointed out what the king should have known and what all should recognize—that a sacrifice is far less pleasing to the Lord than is obedience to His Word.

So with God's people today. It is not so much of ill-gotten wealth that we may sacrifice to the Lord. It is not so much of the treasures acquired, directly or indirectly, by wrong doing that we may offer as readily. Our sacrifice must be from the heart. First of all must be a true love which gives its will to God. "Whoever comes unto me, and will do my will, he shall have life, and shall see my Father, who has sent me, and I will raise him up at the last day."—John 6:38.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—ninth installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25
$3.25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20
$2.70

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25
1 May Manton Pattern $2.60

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35
$2.85

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
$3.50

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50
$4.00

All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

We are showing all the Latest Creations

In Spring Styles of MILLINERY

Call and see us

HUNDERMAN'S MILLINERY SHOP

Successors to Jennie Richards

110 Bridge Street

Charlevoix, Michigan

Grange Column

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange will meet Saturday evening, April 3d, at the home of Brother and Sister A. J. Usher, instead of Friday evening, April 2nd, as announced last week.

Buy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

Marion Center Grange.

Marion Center Grange met Friday evening, March 26, with an attendance of 22 members and one visitor. After the usual order of business, the lecturer's hour was taken up with songs, readings, recitations, and amusing stories, after which grange closed in due form, to meet again in two weeks. Visitors are always welcome.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Ironton Grange.

The regular meeting of Ironton Grange, No. 707, was held in their rooms March 24th with Worthy Master Grant Hammond in the chair. Lewis Hammond was instructed in the secret work of the first and second degrees.

Lecture hour consisted of: Song by grange; discussion, "What Benefit Can We Derive from the Trade Contract System?" led by Frank Hammond; "Resolved, There Was More Fun Living Fifty Years Ago Than To-Day," Mrs. Mary Hammond and Julia Williams; "Where Shall We Get the Best Seed Corn?" led by Jerry Saunders. A very interesting talk was given on testing seed corn by Emil Nasson. The program for next meeting will be: "How to Grow a Large Crop of Corn," led by Matt. Sanders and Ben Nowland; paper, "Joys of House Cleaning," roses by the women, thorns by the men. Roses—Sylvia Lewis, Lillian Saunders and Mrs. Kemp; Thorns—Master, William Meggison and Maurice Nowland. Thirty-three members present. Receipts of the evening, $20.33; disbursements, $7.04. Grange closed in fourth degree.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

Harmony Grange, No. 1451.

Harmony Grange held a postponed meeting Tuesday evening, March 23rd, at the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse with a good attendance and much interest shown.

One candidate was received into full membership and two reported ready for the first and second degrees at the next meeting, to be held Saturday evening, April 3rd.

The trade committee gave notice of

Phone

104

—FOR—

PARCELS DELIVERY

Parcels delivered to any part of the city. Quick service—deliveries guaranteed to be done accurately and on time. We want your business.

M. J. McCarthy

PHONE 104

ASKS SUPPORT OF CITIZENS

Pere Marquette is Making a Fight for Its Future.

People of Charlevoix Urged to Use Their Influence to Have Increase of Rates Granted.

According to statements made by A. Patriarche, formerly general traffic manager of the Pere Marquette and still a large stockholder in the company, the railroad is "in the soup" unless relieved financially and in a short time it will be impossible for it to continue doing business.

Mr. Patriarche met a number of Charlevoix business men at the depot last Thursday afternoon and in a half hour's talk explained the position the Pere Marquette was in, also showing the loss sustained during the past two years in operating expenses, and explained what, in his estimation, should be done to relieve the situation.

He asked the business men and residents of Charlevoix to write personal letters to our state senator and representative, asking them to use their influence in granting the half cent raise of mileage. He showed figures which proved to the satisfaction of all present that the road had run behind between three and four million dollars in the past two years.

The Pere Marquette system has 1,830 miles of track in the State of Michigan. This includes main lines, also the numerous spur lines. Some of this mileage pays operating expenses, especially that in the southern part of the state. The short spur lines do not pay running expenses, and have not for some time.

He paid special emphasis to the fact that the Pere Marquette wanted to give good service on all its lines and, in fact, were at the present time, but could not continue to do so under the present mileage price. Good service has been the aim of the system and if this cannot be given complaint will come from all sources.

He said that the interests of the road were identical to those of the territory through which it runs and the success of both depended upon the support of the other. The railroad has always donated liberally toward development bureaus and boomed resort regions. Now that the system is in need of the support of all in its fight for an increased mileage rate, he believes that the people should render what assistance they can by using their influence at Lansing to have it granted.

We have a few harness at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Additional Locals

Benjamin Brown is unloading a car of Ford automobiles, which will be placed on exhibition at his garage.

The new mechanical barber sign in front of S. M. Rose's barber shop on Bridge street is attracting considerable attention.

The basketball game last Friday between Charlevoix and Huron Springs resulted in the defeat of Huron Springs by a score of 27 to 17.

The funeral of the six-months-old child of William Arnold, Jr., was held from the home of Charles Arnold Wednesday forenoon. Interment at Brookside.

How to Utilize Old Hot Water Bags in the Home.

Don't throw away your old hot water bags. They make excellent linings for tourist buses, sponge bays, etc. Cover the rubber with remnants of cotton or colored flannel from the piece box. Sew the pieces of the rubber cut 2 1/2 to 3 inches and sewed with white thread. Use good protectors for sore fingers and to be worn when putting fruit and vegetables. Still another use for the old hot water bag is to cut round mats from the sides to place under house plants. These mats are just the thing to protect polished surfaces from the moisture of the plants.

Not in His Line.

"They tell me," said the new reporter, who was doing an interview, "that you have succeeded in forging your way to the front."

"Sir," said the self-made man coldly, "you have been misinformed. I'm so forger."

Accident, All Right.

Officer—Did you get those horses in an accident?—Said they—Yes; I didn't think the other fellow would fight.—New York Globe.

If You are troubled with heartburn, gases and a distressed feeling after eating take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet before and after each meal and you will obtain prompt relief. Sold only by us, 25c The Ivy Drug Store.

FEATS OF DIVERS.

Remarkable Endurance of the Pearl Fishers of Torres.

The greatest depth recorded of work done by a diver in a suit is 182 feet. This depth was reached by the Spanish diver, Angel Erostarbe, who recovered $45,000 in silver ingots from the wreck of the steamship Skyro off Cape Pinis terre. The sponge divers of the Mediterranean work at a maximum of 150 feet and the Australian pearlers at 120 feet.

The greatest depths reached by divers without apparatus are used by the pearl fishers of Torres, mostly Malaya, down with the aid of a stone and a loop in the rope attached which they clutch with their toes, these organs being far more prehensile than in races normally shod. They seldom venture to descend below fifty feet, a depth at which they can remain for two minutes. The stone enables them to remain at the bottom while they are sweeping the pearl oysters into a basket attached to the stone. When the diver feels that he must come up to breathe he releases his toes from the basket in the rope and at once floats to the surface.

Young and healthy Malayan divers work long oyster beds below six fathoms make four descents an hour during four hours in the morning and the same during four hours in the afternoon following a four hour rest. A civilized man at a depth of forty-two feet finds such a dive intolerable after a single minute.—New York Sun.

The Gorgons.

The Gorgons were creatures of Greek mythology, mentioned by Homer and Euripides as being of peculiarly abhorrent aspect. Their hair was composed of serpents, their bodies covered with scales and girdled with reptiles with heads erect, vibrating their tongues threateningly, while the hands of the Gorgons, adorned with sharp talons, were of brass. The gaze of the monsters was deadly, all upon whom they fixed their eyes being turned to stone. One of the three terrible sisters was conquered and beheaded by Perseus, and as he took flight in the air en route for Ethiopia, holding the severed head in his hands, the drops of blood which fell from it became serpents, which ever after infested the sands of Libya.

"Not Like Us."

Mrs. Anderson's husband is Scotch. Mrs. Anderson is an American woman, and she has in her employ as black a cook as ever descended from Ham. One day the cook said to her mistress: "Yo' husband he ain't no 'Merican, is he?"

"Oh, no, Phoebe, he is a Scotchman," replied Mrs. Anderson.

"Well," said the cook, "I could see he wasn't like us, missus."—New York Post.

Doubt.

At a luncheon at the Philadelphia country club a notoriously poor golfer said to a noted woman champion: "I am improving. I did the difficult fourth hole yesterday in three." The champion smiled.

"Three what—hours?" she said.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY" AND GOOD SERVICE

This being Easter Week and knowing that everybody wants the very best that money can buy, and while the cost of living is so high, we take the opportunity in showing you that we want all to live and be happy.

Specials for Saturday

Strictly fresh-laid Eggs, per dozen - 15c
The finest Loaf of Bread - 10c
Extra large fancy Oranges, per dozen 25c
Extra large fancy Grape Fruit, - 4 for 25c

We will have Fresh Lettuce, Radishes, Rhubarb, Celery
Choice Apples, Bananas

In Our Meat Department

Fancy Picnic Hams, 11c per pound
Choice Skinned Hams whole or half, 15c per pound
Choice Bacon, strip or half, 16c per pound
Choice Young Mutton Fancy Veal

Home dressed fancy Chickens, Choice cuts of Fancy Beef
in fact anything that you may want in the line of meats.

ORDER EARLY AND AVOID THE RUSH

Quality, Service and Honest Prices our Motto

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

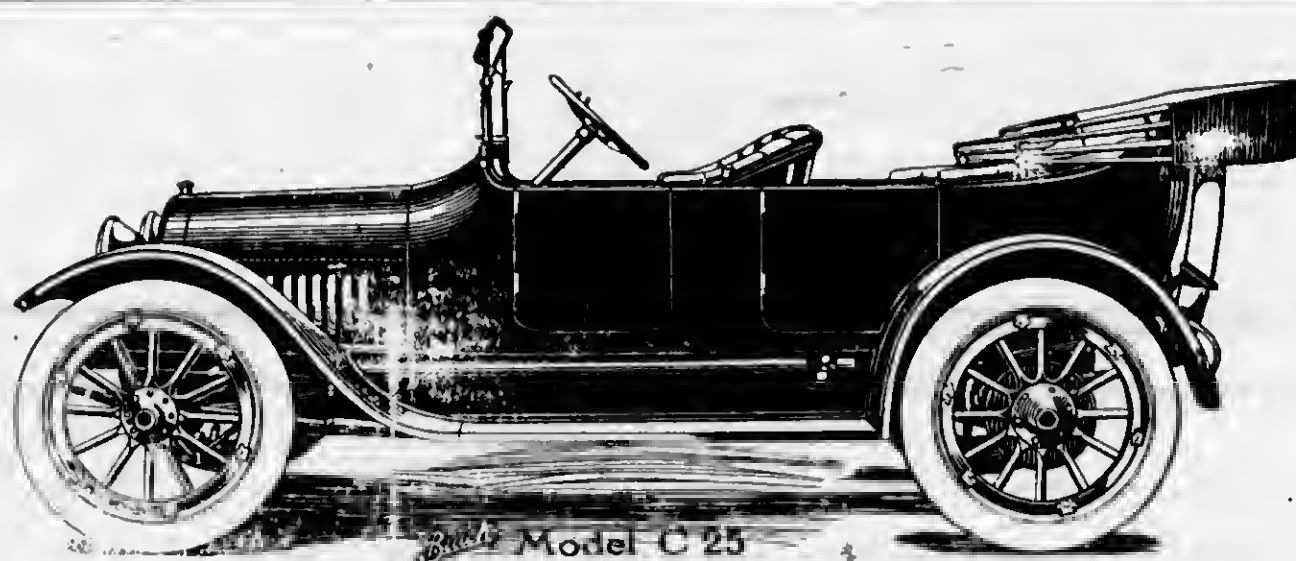

Quality Service Honest Prices
WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

HERCULES HAD NOTHING ON US

If the loaves of bread that we make at each baking were rolled into one loaf it would be many feet high. We would have a struggle to handle it. Our bread is the best brains make. It is pure and tasty and wholesome and health building. We are selling a lot of it. Are you buying it?

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith Phone 44

BUICK AUTOS

Supreme in Speed, Power and Dependability

There is no better car than the BUICK. When better cars are built—Buick will build them. Speed, power and dependability go hand in hand; you cannot have one without the other. These attributes and fuel economy are the important requisites of all motor cars. Over 170,000 Buick cars are proving every day on the road and in the automobile contests of the world that

Buick Power---Buick Endurance---and Buick Economy are the Acme of Motor Achievement

In addition to the splendid Buick qualities of the past, the 1915 models embody---New Beauty of Design---More Room---Comfort and Riding Qualities---New Driving Conveniences and More Power.

THREE MODELS---ROADSTERS AND TOURING CARS

$900.00 to $1650.00

If you are in the market for a New Car this Season, write or phone

George A. Crouter

COUNTY DISTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 14

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

LOCAL OPTION WINS IN STATE

Fourteen Out of Sixteen Counties Voting
Now In Dry Column.

Hospital Proposition Lost—G. C. Geiken Defeats
R. S. Shapton For Alderman In Third Ward.

Not in a long time has a public issue been so decisively decided as that regarding the proposition to build a hospital in the city of Charlevoix. Public sentiment was against it from the very start by reason that the voters were not given an opportunity to have the matter explained to them in detail. General opposition was based upon the grounds that no limit to expense was mentioned, nor the yearly cost of upkeep. The vote stood 218 Yes, and 314 No, losing out by 196 votes.

The city ticket was elected to a man, by the usual majorities. In the second ward the contest between Charles J. Zeitler, republican, and Fred A. Thomas, socialist, for the office of supervisor, was close, Mr. Zeitler winning by the close margin of two votes.

The real scrap took place in the third for the office of alderman. Richard S. Shapton was defeated by Geik C. Geiken, by a vote of 78 to 101, Geiken's name being placed on the ballot by slips. The vote cast was smaller than at the primary, and in some wards showed a wonderful increase of strength in the Socialist party.

The regular candidates in several of the surrounding townships also had their troubles. Slips were used in Hayes for three offices, but the regular ticket was elected. In Norwood township Plenny Gennett was defeated for the office of highway commissioner by Joseph Hollicheck by the slip route. Slips were also used in other townships, although the results are not as yet known.

There was practically no opposition on the state ticket, and O. D. Hammond for road commissioner and May L. Stewart for school commissioner received the entire republican vote.

The local option contest far overshadowed every other issue in sixteen counties throughout the state. Michigan dry forces won out in fourteen out of the sixteen, by majorities ranging less than a hundred to over a thousand. The counties voting are as follows:

Dry Majority
Berrien..... 497
Kalamazoo..... 867
Iron..... 546
Oakland..... 73
Calhoun..... 535
Tuscola..... 1210
Mason..... 186
Lapeer..... 175
Emmett..... 102
Alger..... dry majority not known

Wet Majority
Chippewa..... 37
Grand Traverse..... 331

Vote In Dry Counties

Dry Majority
Easton..... 1592
Genesee..... 554
Lenawee..... 1863
Sanilac..... 927
Below is given the city vote in detail:

First Ward.

Mayor—
Wilbur..... 82
Higman..... 8
Clerk—
Vandermade..... 80
Richardson..... 9
Treasurer—
Cook..... 82
Sanford..... 7
Justice of the Peace—
Cooper..... 80
Ashdon..... 9
Supervisor—
Meech..... 82
Alderman—
See..... 81
Constable—
Graves..... 80
Hospital Proposition—
Yes..... 73
No..... 314

Second Ward.

Mayor—
Wilbur..... 171
Higman..... 43
Clerk—
Vandermade..... 170
Richardson..... 40
Treasurer—
Cook..... 172
Sanford..... 39
Justice of the Peace—
Cooper..... 162
Ashdon..... 46
Supervisor—
Zeitler..... 108
Thomas..... 106

Alderman—
Cartier..... 134
Stafford..... 69
Constable—
Cowan..... 156
Nowland..... 9
Hospital proposition—
Yes..... 106
No..... 125

Third Ward.

Mayor—
Wilbur..... 163
Higman..... 27
Clerk—
Vandermade..... 166
Richardson..... 20
Treasurer—
Cook..... 169
Sanford..... 18
Justice of the Peace—
Cooper..... 169
Ashdon..... 20
Supervisor—
Berdan..... 168
Geiken (slips)..... 2
Alderman—
Shapton..... 78
Geiken (slips)..... 101
Constable—
Taylor..... 163
Hospital proposition—
Yes..... 73
No..... 116

Contest Closed

Last Sunday

Attendance at Methodist Sunday School
Greatly Increased.

Winners In Contest to be Banquetted by Losers on Evening of April 16.

After a twelve weeks contest, which closed Easter Sunday, the Methodist Sunday school has made rapid strides forward. The average attendance at the beginning of the contest was 260 and at the close better than 300, the largest attendance being 356. It shows what a little effort on the part of the members can do. They were the means of getting people to Sunday school who had not been in attendance for a number of years and only needed a brotherly hand to get them back.

One new feature was the married people's class organized, which it is hoped will become a big factor in the school. The pins given out by each side could be seen on our city streets real often and the wearers were proud of them.

The "Bound to Win" team, with Jas. Leenhouts as their leader, were the successful crew who landed at the top of the ladder. At no time during the contest were they assured of the highest honor. The "Leaders," led by Geo. Bloek, did admirable work and come in for a large share of credit. The margin between the contestants at the close was 86 points. The winners will be banquetted at the expense of the losers Friday evening, April 16, in the M.E. church basement. The "Bound to Win" bunch, having saved their appetites for the last twelve weeks, are looking forward to this event with longing eyes.

AGAIN CANCEL DATE

Music Makers Fail to Fill Date on the Citizens' Lecture Course.

Greatly to his regret, Superintendent Craig was compelled the second time to announce last Saturday that the "Music Makers," who were to appear here on Tuesday night on the entertainment course, would be unable to fill the date.

This belated notice, after the fact had been announced that they were to be here, was deeply disappointing to the management of the entertainment course, which has provided the people of Charlevoix with a number of real treats throughout the past season.

On Tuesday evening W. R. Bennett, lecturer, appeared in the place of the Music Makers, and on Thursday night the Maurer Sisters Orchestra will appear, thus giving two first-class entertainments instead of one. Both of these entertainments are said to be of high grade, and were booked to in a way lessen the disappointment of our citizens in not being able to see the Music Makers.

Second hand Ford touring car for sale, electric lighted, in good condition. Price $250.00. See it at Benj. Brown's Ford agency. Adv. 11tf

Sunday Special—ice Cream, Strawberry flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 11tf

TAX COMMISSION STATE PROPERTY MUST BE ASSESSED AT CASH VALUE

Will Not Make Re-assessments Nor Hold Reviews Where This is Done—25 Counties Have Been Re-assessed Completely by Commission—Want Co-operation of Supervisors and Assessors.

Below is printed a circular letter sent out by the Michigan State Tax Commission, to the assessing officers throughout the state. Many interesting points concerning the working of the tax commission are brought out, which will be of great interest to all taxpayers. The commission explains plainly the duties of all supervisors and assessing officers and states rather plainly that all property must be assessed at cash value by them, or it will be so assessed by the commission. It answers many questions which have arisen and explains what the tax commission is making an effort to do. The letter is published in full:

Lansing, March 29, 1915.

Dear Sir:—

Many letters of inquiry have come to the office of the Board of State Tax Commissioners during the past few days, all evidently inspired by the knowledge that field men of the commission are now in a number of counties engaged in the preliminary work necessary to a reassessment. These letters call attention to the fact that many supervisors in 1914, on request from the Tax Commission, assessed their districts at what they believed to be true cash value and their assessments were reviewed by the local boards of review on the same basis, regardless of the raise in dollars and cents and at the risk of losing the goodwill of their constituents. The letters further call attention to the published statements of the Tax Commission that "it will not make reassessments nor hold reviews in townships where the supervisors and boards of review place assessments at cash value, but will leave the work of making and reviewing assessments in those townships entirely in the hands of the local officials as long as 'cash value' and 'equality of burden' are not departed from." They also ask if such districts are to be reassessed or reviewed along with those where no attention was paid to the requests of the Tax Commission.

In answering these inquiries the Board of State Tax Commissioners wishes, first of all, to acknowledge its appreciation of the work of those supervisors and boards of review who made cash value assessments and to express the hope that, regardless of politics, they will not be refused re-election because of having done their duty as prescribed by law. We believe it to be for the best interests of their constituents, as well as of the entire state, that they be continued in office until cash value assessments shall prevail throughout all Michigan. That day we believe is near. Twenty-five counties have been reassessed completely by the commission; twenty-one other counties, excepting a few townships which will be reassessed by the commission this spring, have been brought up to approximate cash value by their own assessing officers, and sixty townships in other counties have also been so assessed. The local assessing officers of Michigan added more than $320,000,000 to the rolls in 1914, together with the increase directly made by the commission, brought the average assessment of the state up to 83.2 per cent. of full cash value. As for 1915, the reassessment of the counties of Monroe, Sanilac, Wayne and Muskegon is already well under way and work preliminary to assessing townships not up to cash value is going on in a number of other counties. Should the response of the supervisors this year to the appeal of the Tax Commission to assess their districts at cash value equal last year, as it promises to do, the year 1915 will see cash value assessments prevail throughout the state.

Answering the direct question as to the intentions of the Tax Commission with reference to townships assessed at approximate cash value in 1914, we declare that the original promise of the Tax Commission will be kept and that we will not reassess nor review any such township or district unless the assessment for 1915 shall, on examination, be found to have been reduced below cash value.

The Tax Commission has made a compilation by districts of the assessment, real and personal, of the entire state. It has also compiled by districts the approximate cash value of the taxable property of the state as determined for the state equalization of 1914. By comparing the assessed valuation and the approximate cash value, it has determined which assessing districts are in its judgment now properly assessed and which ones should be reviewed and brought up to true cash value. In determining the list of districts not to be reassessed many have been included where there is a difference between the assessment and the commission's valuation arising from an honest difference in judgment which can be adjusted on the assessment roll for 1915 without a reassessment. We have also tentatively included in the list townships in which the difference is considerable, but which it is promised will be properly assessed by the assessors themselves in 1915 without further action on our part.

It must be recognized and understood, however, that a district may have been properly assessed in 1914, but will not be found so assessed in 1915. A new supervisor may be elected who will have different ideas of values, or who may deliberately attempt to reduce assessments, or the local board of review may disagree with the supervisor and by its work reduce the assessment below cash value. All this must and will be guarded against, and the Board of State Tax Commissioners will, after the completion of the assessment and review in 1915, compare the new assessment with both the 1914 assessment and its estimate of true cash value, and should the new assessment apparently show a departure from true cash value, further examinations will be made and all districts found to have fallen away from true cash value will be reassessed along with the townships not now up to cash value.

Representatives of the Tax Commission are now at work in many counties preparing field books of the townships farthest from cash value. On completion of the same they will at once—without waiting for the new assessment—proceed to make examinations and appraisals preparatory to reviewing the 1915 assessment. It is necessary to do this in order to reach, this year, all townships not properly assessed. The Tax Commission, however, still believes that the local assessor is the best man to make the assessment and has not changed its announced policy of giving every possible opportunity to the various assessing districts to have their assessments made and reviewed by local officials. It will, therefore—regardless of previous assessments, where it finds the 1915 assessment to have been made at approximate cash value—hold no review, even though its figures have been completed on the entire township, but will accept the supervisors' figures.

In making its determination as to the character of an assessment, the commission will always bear in mind that honest differences of judgment as to property valuations exist between persons equally well informed. Also they will not overlook the fact that the local assessing officer, if competent and experienced, should have a better knowledge of local conditions than the representative of the Tax Commission. Therefore—when it is a question of judgment and the difference is not so great as to be ground for questioning the accuracy of the assessing officer—preference will be given to his figures. Especially will the commission be thus influenced when supervisor, board of review and taxpayers unite to bring about a cash value assessment.

We have also had several letters from assessing officers declaring that men were campaigning for the office of supervisor or assessor on the announced platform of reducing present assessments regardless of cash value. We call attention to the absolute necessity we will be under, out of justice to the districts where assessments have been placed at cash value by their own assessors and to the counties that have been reassessed by the Tax Commission, to prevent such action by reassessing such districts and placing them where the local officials cannot reduce the assessment for a period of three years without our written consent. Not to do so would rapidly undo the commission's work, destroy the confidence of the people in its declarations, restore the old system of competition in low assessments and compel the state to be to the expense of reassessing every district instead of having it done by local officials.

In concluding we again promise that the State Tax Commission, with this year, the same as last, extend to every assessing officer all possible assistance in making a proper assessment, even to the extent of examining and valuing public utilities and large industrial and mercantile establishments regarding the proper value of which he may be in doubt.

Very respectfully yours,
Orlando F. Barnes,
George B. Horton,
Thomas D. Kearney,
Board of State Tax Commissioners.

ONE-DEER BILL PASSED

Proposition Presented by Hunters Loses Out by a Small Margin.

The senate passed the one-deer bill last Wednesday. This measure cuts down the deer allowance to one deer per hunter and makes the season on birds and rabbits coincide with that prescribed by the recent federal laws on migratory birds, cutting nearly all of the open season to a considerable degree.

The bill came up Wednesday on final passage and all sorts of amendments were offered by its opponents. Senator Walters tried to make the deer allowance two deer, one of which must have horns at least three inches in length, but failed to pass by a vote of 13 to 15. It was again reconsidered, only to be beaten again by a vote of 11 to 18. This was the change in the deer law recommended by the hunters of this vicinity and many other sections of the state, and had it been passed, would have in a greater measure given the deer the protection that is necessary.

THREE BOATS THIS SEASON

Northern Michigan Transportation Co.
Makes Public Summer Schedule.

Manitou Leaves Chicago on First Trip June 25th—Gives Good Freight Service from Chicago.

The Northern Michigan Transportation Company made public last week its summer schedule for the 1915 season.

From May 15 to June 22, inclusive, a tri-weekly service will be in operation from Chicago to Lake Michigan and east shore ports. Steamers will leave Chicago every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 7 p. m. for Ludington, Manitowish, Frankfort, Charlevoix, Petoskey and Harbor Springs. Tuesday and Saturday sailings will be through to Saint Ignace, Mackinac Island and Cheboygan. Thursday's sailings will include Glen Haven and Traverse Bay ports.

The summer season proper will open June 23, continuing to about September 15. The steamers of the northern fleet have been assigned the following runs: Manitou—Chicago to Charlevoix, Harbor Springs and Mackinac Island. Illinois—Chicago to Ludington, Manitowish, Onekama and Frankfort. Missouri—Chicago to Frankfort, Glen Haven, Glen Harbor, on Saturday runs; to Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Saint Ignace and Mackinac Island, Sault Ste. Marie and Kagawong (Georgian Bay) on Monday runs. Minnesota—Chicago to Milwaukee, Thursday runs only; Friday to Charlevoix (arriving at 10:30 a. m.), Harbor Springs, Mackinac Island and Buffalo. The west and south trips will be practically a reversal of the ports of call on the out voyage.

The Manitou's first sailing will be out of Chicago June 25; her last trip from Mackinac Island September 12. Between those dates she will leave Chicago at 11:30 Monday morning, 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and 6:30 Friday night of each week.

The Missouri's first sailing will be out of Chicago to the Georgian Bay port, Kagawong, June 28, and her last will be out of Kagawong August 26. The Minnesota's first sailing will be out of Chicago July 1, and her last trip from Buffalo August 29.

The above schedule will give Charlevoix three boats a week from Chicago, one exclusive passenger and two that will carry freight. The Minnesota will carry freight north on her Friday trips, but will not make this port on her return. The Missouri will carry freight, as in the past, and make this port on both up and down trips.

Just before going to press we received a telephone message from the local office that a boat would be started from Chicago about April 15, covering all northern ports.

Notice.

Dr. A. F. McGreevy, Veterinary Physician and Surgeon, will open his office in Charlevoix on April 12. 13c2f

FRIENDS HELP HIM CELEBRATE

Charles Peaslee Eighty-five Years Old on 31st of March.

As a Soldier He Represented the Far East During the Civil War—Still Does His Own Work.

On March 31st a United States flag was seen to be waving from a tall pole in front of the residence of Charles Peaslee on Petoskey avenue and a party consisting of the dinner and others—being desirous of ascertaining the occasion of the display, together with other inducements—prompted them to enter the house. They found the interior tastefully decorated with hunting in patriotic colors and it proved to be in honor of the 85th birthday of Mr. Peaslee and that some twenty-five guests had assembled to celebrate the event. He also became aware that a dinner would soon be forthcoming.

Among those assembled were the Rev. Messrs. Taggart, Walker and Vineyard. These gentlemen proved themselves to be in a degree human, as was particularly evinced at the dinner table and the heartiness with which they joined in the general feeling of goodwill and comradery that followed.

If the sinner ever gets as far as Saint Peter at the gate, and that official should demand by what mental aberration he had appeared there, he would very truthfully answer that for several minutes and fourteen seconds on this occasion he had a most profound solicitude as to his future well being (this before the dinner) and after the dinner he was so filled with satisfaction, thankfulness and other commodities that he would have an abiding faith that Saint Peter would pass him through on general principles.

There was music in variety—vocal, instrumental, individual and collective—joined in by saint and sinner and vociferously endorsed, especially by Trixie, the dog.

One song most beautifully rendered impressed the lesson that we cannot plant pumpkin seeds and reasonably expect to raise a crop of corn. The moral, as the sinner translated it, was that we cannot raise the Old Nick here and enjoy a salubrious climate in the great hereafter. There was another song that conveyed the sad intelligence that an old gentleman by the name of Grimes had died dead with his coat all buttoned down before. This received persistent encore, especially by the dog.

Mr. Peaslee is a veteran of the Civil War and in that strife—which called out men from the Atlantic to the Pacific—he represented the far east, enlisting in the 16th Maine, assigned to the 6th Army Corps, Army of the Potomac, and was under General Grant and at the final collapse of the Confederacy and surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

Mr. Peaslee read without the aid of glasses a historical account of the last movements of Grant's pursuing army, leading up to the final surrender. He still does his own work—caring for his horse, gardening and other work about the premises—and is remarkably well preserved for his age.

He advances no theories as to the remarkable retention of his faculties, but it may be stated incidentally that he has never used tobacco in any form, and the taste of liquor is unknown to him except in a medicinal form.

On dispersing, each and all wished the host and hostess yet many anniversaries of the occasion, with peace and plenty until the final muster out.

The Sinner and others.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Meet Friday Evening at Home of Doctor and Mrs.
A. M. Wilkinson.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will meet Friday evening, April 9, with Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Wilkinson, Michigan avenue. The following is the program: Instrumental solo—Miss Dorothy Armstrong.

Paper, "Russian and Polish Immigration"—Mrs. R. B. Armstrong. Social intermission. Vocal solo—Nay Smith. Stereopticon evening—Subject, "The Immigration Crusade."

Notice.

Monday evening, April 12th, in the M. E. church parlors at 7:30 p. m., the 8th grade and junior Y. M. C. A. groups will give a banquet to the fathers. Every father is cordially and urgently invited to attend.

QUESTION CLEARED UP

Charlevoix Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Charlevoix's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Charlevoix been cured?" The world of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens whom we know and respect and whose evidence we can so easily prove.

Bert Beaudoin, 328 Bridge street, Charlevoix, says: "I was bothered off and on for several months by my kidneys. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and I suffered from severe backaches and pains in my loins. I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, obtained at the Ivy Drug Store, and they brought fine results. I am now free from the aches and pains and my kidneys are normal."

Price 50 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Beaudoin had. Foster-Milburn Company, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Correspondence

HAYES.

True friends we have found—the Grangers.

Dulcie Howe spent Friday and Saturday in Charlevoix.

Louis Roenfeldt left last week Tuesday for Minnesota.

Fred Erfourth and his mother visited at Horton Bay Sunday.

Mrs. Webster's baby was quite sick with cold and fever last week.

Gilbert Ferris and Mr. Roenfeldt went to Boyne City last Saturday.

Fred Erfourth took supper at Mr. and Mrs. Jones Lewis's last Friday.

Violet Lewis and Hazel Shearer called Sunday evening at Mrs. J. Lewis'.

Mrs. E. E. Stroud and Mrs. J. Lewis called at Mrs. C. Pant's Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. C. Punt and daughter, who were sick all last week, are some better at this writing.

Married last week Thursday at South Bend, Indiana, Harold Murray and Miss Addie Howe.

Mrs. Ferris and Dulcie and Lela Howe called at the Maple Grove school last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ava Smith of Charlevoix spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris.

We see that Earl Sneathen is able to be out again. Mr. Sneathen was confined to the house last week by illness.

D. Sneathen returned last week and is going to live in the George Howe cottage across from Harker Kirby's farm.

Fred Erfourth has sold his pony and bought a larger horse. We understand he intends to go farming as soon as his school is out.

Charlie Medsker played at the dance at Frank Bird's Friday evening. The crowd danced until 12:30, when supper was served. Several sets were danced after supper.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the passage of air. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is removed, and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by Catarrh that cannot be cured by HILL'S Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists Everywhere. Take HILL'S Catarrh Pills for constipation.

CLARION

Miss Mae Dorris returned Thursday from Big Bay.

Mrs. Rachel Webster of Boyne City visited friends here last week.

Mrs. W. H. Hough visited friends in Kalkaska for a few days last week.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor was called to Cairo Thursday by the death of her mother, Mrs. Milne.

Mr. Whiteford and Miss Teresa Phillips spent Sunday with their parents at East Jordan.

Mrs. Roy Williams of Resort visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Holly, Sunday.

Mrs. Peter Isane and children are visiting Mrs. Isane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Webster.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Stoops of Mackinac City returned home Sunday after a short visit with their parents.

Mrs. J. W. Latimer, aged 81 years, died Sunday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Dornis, after a long illness.

Benjamin Brown will sell you harness work clothing, trucks, suitcases, gloves and mittens and guarantee satisfaction. Adv. 717

IRONTON.

Mrs. Crandall and family of Charlevoix visited at the Lewin home last week.

Miss Hilda Hyers of Charlevoix spent the Easter vacation visiting friends in Ironton.

Dorothy Lucille is the name of the baby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Bowen.

Lee Bargum, who spent the past week at the home of Sam Alexander, returned to Lansing Monday.

Laura and Cecil Berry have been absent from school the past two weeks on account of sickness.

Mrs. W. Bird and daughter, Mable, are visiting relatives and friends in Jackson and other southern points.

The fifth grade and teachers were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Forrest Brown March 30th in honor of his birthday.

Mrs. Will Webb entertained Newell's class at a 5 o'clock tea, Monday, April 5th, in honor of his birthday. Newell was greatly surprised upon arriving home to find his class assembled there.

About thirty-five attended the Y. M. C. A. and the reading circle last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Planders. Mr. Barnum gave a very helpful talk on the "Benefits of Organization and Co-operation."

A large crowd attended the spelling match and ice cream social at the grange hall Friday afternoon. The majority spelled very well. Mrs. W. Sanderson, Mrs. Westfall and Pansy Hammond were left standing, but eventually Mrs. Sanderson won out.

We save you $8.00 on each pair of team harness—Benj. Brown. Adv. 717

ATWOOD

We hail thee, O spring.

Mrs. Bentley is home from Detroit. H. S. Peebles and John Westgate have purchased pinnos from Ethan Jolliffe.

The L. A. S. will serve on Thursday evening of this week at the hall—a supper.

Ethan Jolliffe, Albert Harwood, Jim Heeres, John Parsons, Jr. have each ordered silos.

The following constitute the officers for Banks township:

Supervisor—H. S. Peebles.

Clerk—H. Timmer.

Treasurer—C. Behrs.

Commissioner of Highways—W. P. Smith.

Overseer—H. Reamsma.

Justice—Ethan Jolliffe.

Read "Zudora."

EAST MARION

Mrs. Matt Saunders and son spent Friday at Lakeside Park.

Elfie See of Charlevoix spent the week with Lillian and Beatrice Guild.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nowland spent Wednesday and Thursday in Petoskey.

Mrs. Wooley arrived home Saturday from Canada, where she spent the winter.

Clara Nowland is spending the week with Helen Bixby, as Mrs. Bixby was called to Toledo, Ohio, by the death of her father, Captain Lynn.

Best values in canvas gloves 10c pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Lillian Atkins)

Cora Driggett was absent Tuesday on account of illness.

Mrs. Wm. T. Driggett called at the normal room Tuesday.

Ward Genett was absent Monday morning on account of illness.

Illness prevented the attendance of Fred Gregory at school last week.

Rose Greenink spent Saturday and Sunday at her home near Ellsworth.

Mildred Drescher of the class of 1910 visited the normal room Tuesday and gave a short talk on her trip to Europe in Ellsworth.

Chloe Finucan of the class of 1910 visited in our room Tuesday and told us some of the advantages and pleasures of teaching in a large city.

Miss Finucan teaches the "B" division of the first grade in Detroit.

Thursday the normal students cleaned and redecorated the normal room. Dinner was served by them at noon, after which each one responded with appropriate toasts. The day was much enjoyed because of its novelty.

LOCAL DRUGGIST SAYS:

"TAKE ONLY ONE DOSE"

We want to tell those in Charlevoix suffering from stomach or bowel trouble that we are agents for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adol's-Bak, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This is the most thorough bowel cleanser known and IUCY OXY-HOXB relieves our stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. You will be surprised at the quick action of Adol's-Bak. Buy it from the nearest

Watch Your Children

Often children do not let parents know they are constipated. They fear something dreadful. They will like Adol's-Bak—a mild laxative that tastes like sugar. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Miss Anne L. Glidden of Dekalb, Ill., is one of many women who are successful in farm management. She owns and manages thirty acres a mile from town and is making a record of which her friends speak with pride.

Miss Glidden is a city girl, educated and refined, belonging to one of the most prominent families in northern Illinois. She inherited from her uncle, Joseph F. Glidden, enough capital to enable her to buy thirty acres of land of $200 an acre and equip this little farm with live stock and machinery. She did not start the enterprise in a haphazard way, but went about it systematically after careful study. It seemed best to her to diversify her products, so that she would not be dependent on a single crop.

She keeps a large part of the farm in alfalfa and has a record of making $92.50 per acre from this legume in one season, there being three cuttings of the plant. Few people in northern Illinois have reached these figures with alfalfa. Five tons to the acre in three cuttings is considered above the average, and it is not best to cut the plant more frequently than this. At $18 this makes a return of $90 per acre. All who know anything about farm earnings will understand that this is fair ten to thirty acres will be made sufficient to occupy the time and talents of highly trained and progressive men and women. Both in fact and theory farms are becoming smaller, and experts now hold that a fair living income for a family may be gained from one of these small tracts. Ten acres, if wisely managed, will return an annual profit above operating expenses of $1,500 to $2,500. Larger places give returns in proportion when the owner has ability and suitable equipment. There are plenty of truck and fruit farms in the United States which can show a yearly revenue of more than $500 an acre. This only has come about in recent years since the present high level of produce was reached, and therefore many old-fashioned farmers who devote themselves to dairies or one or two grain crops are still unaware of what may be accomplished by modern methods.

NEIGHBORHOOD CHARITY.

The cry for food for war-ridden Europe has awakened our people to renewed appreciation of their duties to needy neighbors both in the next townships and in the countries beyond the seas.

The busy and restless of American farmers are the least influenced by the ravages of the present war, and the large harvest recently reaped brings an obligation to share with those who are without food. Shipments of foodstuffs have sailed from American ports, and a systematic distribution of aid in Europe has been splendidly organized. But there are in every American community a few families that have felt the pinch of financial depression and are obliged to deny themselves even common necessities.

Too much attention cannot be called to our need of caring for those near to us, however urgent may be the demands of those at a distance. We have seen families subsisting on two scanty meals a day in communities where hundreds of barrels of potatoes were lying in the sheds awaiting a rise in price—Country Gentlemen.

GRADING SEED CORN.

May Be Graded Better Before Ears Are Shelled Than Afterward.

Seed corn may be graded better before the ears are shelled than afterward. The United States department of agriculture specialists in corn investigations consider it difficult to grade shelled corn satisfactorily.

If the seed ears vary greatly as to size of kernel they should be separated into two or three grades according to size of kernel. These grades should be shelled separately, tested in the corn planter and numbered to correspond with the number on the planter plates that are found to drop them most uniformly. These arrangements can be completed before the rush of spring work begins.

The first operation in properly shelling seed corn is the removal of the small kernels from the tips of the ears and the round, thick kernels from the butts. The farmer is less productive than the other kernels of the ear. The round butt kernels are as productive as the other kernels of the ear, but do not plant uniformly in a planter.

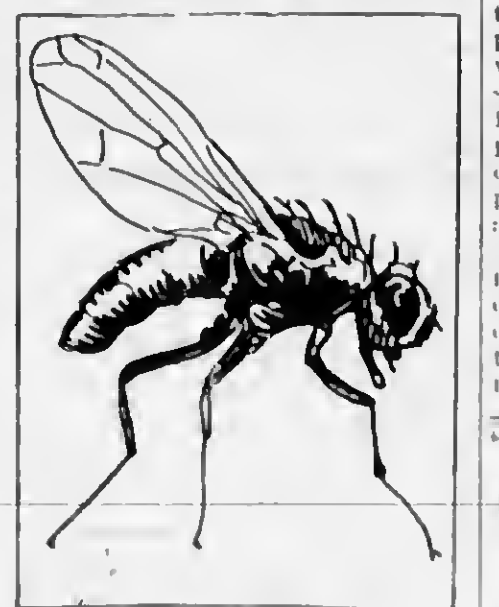

Shelling seed corn carefully by hand is profitable. The greater the acreage planted the greater the profit. Into a shallow pan or box each ear should be shelled separately, rejecting any worm eaten or blemished kernels. If the supply from the one ear appears good and contains no poor kernels it is poured into the general supply and another ear shelled in the same way.

The Cabbage Maggot.

The cabbage maggot is the principal handicap in the production of early cabbage and cauliflower. The insect is present in most communities where early cabbage is grown and occasionally causes extensive damage to this crop.

Of the insecticides that are employed to destroy maggots about the roots of the plants carbolic acid emulsion has generally been regarded as the most efficient. Tests with the emulsion at recommended strengths have demonstrated that it will prevent the hatching of the eggs and is fatal to the younger stages of the larvae. It may, however, cause injury to young seedlings and is not a safe remedy for the treatment of plants recently set in the field.

The value of tar pads, or hexagonal tar paper collars, for the purpose of

THE CABBAGE MAGGOT prevents the growth of the cabbage.

SAFETY FIRST

YOUR pocket is not a very good depository for your money. It does not pay interest and it allows your money to be constantly subject to loss by theft or accident.

We will not only protect your money against loss but will pay you 4 per cent interest, so that the money you save will be constantly increasing.

With the Opening of the Springtime, open an account with this bank.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier

Archie Livingston, Asst. Cashier

H. S. Harsha, Vice President

Bread Like Mother Used to Make---

that's the kind we make every day. Light, sweet, baked to a nice crisp brown—it fairly melts in your mouth. It's the kind the kiddies like. Good, wholesome bread is the only food to give them to lunch upon. If you are not a user of our bread, try a loaf. It's the kind that tastes like more." Phone in your orders—we will do the rest.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith Phone 44

PATENTS

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or renewed, and model, sketches or photos and designs for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Bank references.

PATENTS BUILD FORTUNES for men, their free book will show what to invent and save you money. Write today.

D. SWIFT & CO.

PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND. THE GREAT DIARRHOEA CURE. Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold Metallic Tubes, sealed with Blue Ribbons. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist. ASKEW'S DIARRHOEA PILLS are the same as Chichester's. Beware of cheap imitations.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

THE most primitive way of making paper blankets was to take together several layers of newspapers between brown paper, says the London Queen. These sheets, made exactly the size of the bed, were sometimes included between a double layer of calico patchwork, slightly tucked here and there and bound with colored braid. They were considered warm, but not healthy, from keeping in all perspiration. "No one then thought of perforating with a file the homemade bedspreads. To obviate this defect another method, more complicated, but more porous, was introduced. It consisted of cutting up brown paper into strips about three-quarters of an inch wide, to be plaited into Eton or other straw devices and then sewed together after the style of straw hats and bonnets. As a help to this paper ready cut out by machine. For the same purpose newspapers were also employed, being cut up and plaited into three folds.

To make paper pillows it is larger and to avoid as much as possible any disagreeable rustling noise and produce the desired softness and elasticity, hence some attention has to be paid to the selection of the paper used.

LEGAL NOTICES

Appointment of Administrator.

State of Michigan, the Probate Court for the County of Charlevoix.

At a session of said Court, held at the Probate Office in the City of Charlevoix in said County, on the 23rd day of March A. D. 1915.

Present: Hon. Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate. In the Matter of the Estate of Joseph Lewis, deceased. Eva Lewis having filed in said court her petition, praying that the administration of said estate be granted to petitioner or to some other suitable person.

It is Ordered, That the 14th day of April A. D. 1915 at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at said probate office, be and is hereby appointed for hearing said petition.

It is Further Ordered, That public notice thereof be given by publication of a copy of this order, once each week for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing, in the Charlevoix Courier a newspaper printed and circulated in said county.

Servetus A. Correll, Judge of Probate. A true copy.

Newspaper scraps are entirely discarded for the purpose by a few workers, who also insist on having the bits of note-paper torn and cut into tiny morsels, the size of three-penny bits, while others give preference to strips half an inch wide, curled as ostrich feathers by drawing a penknife sharply down them. One pound of these strips is sufficient for an ordinary sized pillow, which should not be too full, to secure softness. The case can be made of an old chair back or any material ready at hand. Newspapers are too soft for the roll process, which consists of cutting old letters and may elastic paper into strips rolled in first in halves lengthwise as tightly as possible and then turned over and beginning again at the opposite side, to roll up till the rolls meet to produce a sort of spring. Sometimes also the scraps of paper are intermingled with soft bits of materials thus: Tear in two pieces scraps of tissue or whitey brown paper, mix with silk or cotton ravelines and odds and ends of Berlin wool.

If You Are Losing Weight and your nerves are in bad condition, we recommend containing Hypophosphites a food and nerve tonic prescription.

Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion

The Ivy Drug Store.

Plant Beans.

We are ready to make contracts for 1915 crop at market or contract price. Nothing pays better. Deliveries can be made up to March 1, 1916. Phone or write. Chatterton & Son.

Adv. 1317.

Call Us At Once

Secure the use of the BEST Suction Cleaner Made. Get your orders in early as our Hissell Cleaner will be busy. Satisfaction Guaranteed. A good time now to have your Electric Equipment, repaired and changes made.

F. S. Botes
214 Bridge Street

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

A. L. FITCH

Attorney at Law

Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

ISLE SHANAHAN

Attorney at Law

Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS

Attorney at Law

Office in New Priest Building

Telephone No. 105 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON

Law, Real Estate and Investments

Collections Established 1875

D. K. J. A. AULD

Dentist

Office in VanPelt Building Over Levinson's Store
CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON

Complete Abstracts

of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience
Maps and Plats on Short Notice
VANPOLT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

R. B. ARMSTRONG

Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 253 Charlevoix, Mich.

D. R. C. A. MONTAGUE

Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention
1106 in Bank Block
Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $200,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of sixteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassan Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassan Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassan Ali. "If you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassan Ali himself.

Zudora and Hassan Ali visit Nabok Shan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora tells Nabok Shan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A marker of diamonds tells Hassan Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassan Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond marker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mules.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are feeling because a great skeleton hand appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's parents. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by him. Storm opportunely appears and saves her from Bolton.

Hassan Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns in her hand. An old house is mined. Hassan Ali and the old men, Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up.

John McWinter, endeavoring to trap and kill George Smith, is killed himself, and Smith is charged with murder. Hassan Ali conspires to have John Storm meet the same fate as McWinter, and he and Storm are overcome by powerful fumes. Zudora saves them, proves that McWinter's own dog trapped and killed him and saves Smith from a band of lynchers.

An inventor blows up a submarine with a powerful heat ray which he sends through water. Hassan Ali sends Zudora to a photographer directly beneath the inventor's laboratory and orders the inventor to kill her. Zudora gets a warning, and her life is saved. The heat ray machine is destroyed, and the photographer, after a quarrel with Hassan Ali, is found dead in the river.

Wu Ching prevents Zudora's elopement with John Storm by hypnotizing her, and he and Hassan Ali attempt to smuggle her out of the country. This plot is frustrated by Storm.

Baird, Hassan Ali's double, falls in love with Zudora. Baird and Miss Du Val kidnap Zudora and the Van Wick child. Storm rescues them, and Hassan Ali dies.

With Hassan Ali dead Zudora is released of her pledge to solve twenty cases. She confronts, however, the greatest mystery of all, which is the mystery of her own life, and the ambition to secure the vast fortune of $200,000 left to her. Her remarkable adventures will be portrayed by Harold McGrath in the succeeding chapters. This photo serial is being shown in the leading moving picture theaters by the Thanhouser Film Corporation. Among the participating are Marguerite Snow, Mary Elizabeth Forbes, James Cruze, in the new role of reporter-hero, Sidney Bracey and Frank Farrington.

CHAPTER X.

Gentlemen Crooks and the Lady. HASSAN ALI, or, to give him his real name, Frank Keene, died suddenly. Baird, his double, appreciating that the end was at hand, left the house by a secret exit, taking with him only such things as belonged to him. When the Hindu servant notified Zudora that her uncle was dead she could not believe it, and one look at the dead man was enough to convince her that there was something extremely mysterious in the change. The Hassan Ali she had seen a few days past, had not looked ill, but this corpse was mute evidence of a long and desperate illness. But she never solved this puzzle; she was never given the time to. That night the house caught fire, and very few things were saved.

One day shortly after the fire she dragged the battered old trunk out into the center of the room and proceeded to explore its contents. The first things she came across were her mother's old rince costumes, and she sat dreaming about them for some time. A knock upon the door aroused her.

"Come in."

Storm entered with a bouquet. "Oh, how pretty! Wait until I put them into a vase. There! Flowers always make a room look cozier."

"And what's going on here?" asked John, pointing to the trunk.

"Why, John, that trunk is about the only thing I rescued from the house. Do you know, I'm happier in this room than I have been in years. Uncle Frank was always cold and repellent; he just wouldn't let me love him."

"Good riddance of bad rubbish!"

"Why, John Storm?"

"I don't care. I'm positive of the fact that he attempted to make you with both of us half a dozen times. And I'm equally again positive that he was hand in glove with some of the most dangerous criminals in the country. Well, as you say, he's dead. But as for me, I feel a deal easier in walking about these days. And yet that man was your uncle, flesh and blood. Have you gone through the trunk yet?"

"Good riddance of bad rubbish."

"No."

"Well, then, let's take an inventory."

The two of them knelt down together and dug out the ancient circus trap-plugs. Far down in a corner they came upon a little box, and Zudora opened it curiously.

"A diamond!" exclaimed Storm. "And a mighty good one, too, if I don't miss my guess. Look, there is a part of a letter under it! Let's see what it says."

The contents—or the half contents—of that burned sheet of paper affected them strangely. It had originally been a letter to Zudora's mother from her father, and brokenly it stated that he had struck it rich in Brazil. He, or his partner, had stumbled upon an exceedingly rich deposit of diamonds and some day they would have plenty. To Zudora it was evident that this had been written a few days before her father's death, after he had made the strike in gold.

"And Hassan Ali kept this a secret from you?"

"Never mind now; it is no longer a secret," replied Zudora. She put the little box aside and once more gave her attention to the interior of the trunk. She next resurrected a locked tin. This contained the likeness of her parents. "My father and mother," she said, her eyes filling.

"You poor little chicken!" He put his arms around her. "We'd better see what can be done about this diamond mine. I'm sure there must be a lot of gems somewhere. But you don't need a diamond mine so far as I'm concerned, sweetheart; you're precious enough gem for any man."

"Thank you, John."

Almost at this same moment a great liner plowed its way westward across the Atlantic. And on board this liner was a handful of diamonds which rightfully belonged to Zudora Keene.

There was a passenger who went by the name of Itrace. He was a smug, suave individual, but was far deeper, far more cunning, than he appeared outwardly. He was in his stateroom. The door was locked. The bed was pulled from the wall. The man himself was between the bed and the ship's side, sawing a hole in the wall scotling. From time to time he paused to listen for sounds in the adjacent staterooms, but he was quite satisfied that the occupants were all on deck in their chairs. When the job was completed he lifted on the square piece of board and hid it aside. Then he drew a bamboo cane toward him. He swiftly unscrewed the top and dropped something into the palm of his hand. Minute flashes of red and blue light darted up into his eyes. These flashes came from diamonds of the purest white. He chuckled inwardly. Next he poured the gems into a little chamois bag and thrust the bag into the hole in the wall. With extraordinary deftness he replaced the square of wainscotting, and only the closest scrutiny would have told any one what had taken place.

After that Mr. Bruce went up to the smoke-room and indulged in a stiff whisky and soda. Then he called for dinner and in that period of time more than made his expenses for the trip. Mr. Bruce enjoyed his dinner, enjoyed his wine, the coffee and portage. The secret agents could hear what they pleased, and they could search him and all his belongings, and he would submit with the utmost complacency. Only fools were caught these days by the agents of the United States customs. He had made some twenty voyages, and what had they ever found upon him that was contraband? Nothing, absolutely nothing. Tomorrow they would dock, and that night he would be able to confide another success to his confederates. It all depended upon nerve and foresight. But there was one man with whom he had yet to reckon.

His name was Thomas Hunt, and one of his specialties was putting his stout hand upon the shoulders of malefactors and asking them politely which they preferred, steel cuffs or docility? The day before Bruce landed Hunt received a cable in which he was informed that their old enemy was going to attempt to run the blockade again, with diamonds as usual. And one of the remarkable phases of these exploits of Bruce's was the fact that he invariably sold gems in Holland as a starter, but brought the bulk of them into the United States.

The officials knew that he had confederates, some above him in power and some below. Chief among those of the first order were Mire, Du Val and Captain Radcliffe, a man without a country. Radcliffe was patently in love with Mme. Du Val, but she could not put from her thoughts the man Baird. The fact that he had gone over to the other side in an attempt to rehabilitate himself did not lessen the woman's admiration. As the pseudo Hassan Ali had had some power over him, but as a reporter on one of the big newspapers he had passed beyond the reach of her arm.

Somewhere she had seen a painting by the late Alina-Tadema, and she had under the inspiration fixed up what she called a Greek salon. She really possessed excellent taste. In the center there was a fountain surrounded by plaques. The water tinkled merrily at all times, but sometimes the stream suddenly fell aslant, which indicated that some one was behind the secret panel.

On the night before the arrival of Bruce with his ill-gotten gems Madame was in the salon, playing idly with an Angora kitten. It is a fact that these tiger women always have kittens about. Suddenly she noted the slant of the jet of water. She summoned an attendant and nodded meaningfully toward the wall. The footman went over swiftly, touched a knob, and the secret panel went up, revealing a small elevator. Out of this stepped Captain Radcliffe, something of a dandy in appearance, but at heart a shady rogue. He crossed the room swiftly, making no effort to conceal his sentiments. But she adroitly evaded him.

He Thrust the Bag Into the Hole in the Wall.

"Take care, captain. No sentiment, if you please. Some day possibly, but for the present we have business."

"I wonder if that some-day will ever come?" The captain shrugged.

(Continued on page 6.)

Ask Charlevoix residents about the merits of the 'The Great Majestic'

Do not take our word for it—ask those who are using the stove every day. They will tell you the truth regarding the merits of this wonderful stove. Below are the names of some of the users—ask them about it:

Archie Butters
Mrs. Geo. W. Crouter
Coulter Brothers
W. F. Graham
Fred Coon
Peter Vandermade

When you are fully satisfied come to the store and we will explain other matter regarding the stove. Its the range to buy as every person who have used one will testify.

F. S. Blanchard Est.
Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

THE FARMER'S FINANCIAL ADVISOR

We say frankly to the farmers of this community, "We want your accounts." Not simply because they will swell our deposits, but because the Charlevoix County Bank is an institution where the farmer and his financial problems are really understood, and where intelligent co-operation is offered him.

Let us become your banker and friend, and together we will establish a financial understanding between us that will result to your lasting profit.

The Old Reliable
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK
John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Butters A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters
S. & K. Tire Filler
Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage
Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 160f2 111 Antrim Street

Spring House Cleaning

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Going to Paper, Paint or Kalsomine? Which-ever it may be, we can furnish the material.

For a Flat Wall Paint VELUMINA is the finest paint made. It covers more surface, doing a good job, than any other Flat Wall Paint on the market. Try it, and if used according to directions, and is not satisfactory, it costs you nothing. Isn't that FAIR?

HYGIENIC KALSOMINE is so well known that it needs no praise from us. It has sung its own praise among our customers for the past four or five years.

Our stock of WALL PAPER is very complete and to those who intend to paper their walls, we offer the best at the Lowest Price.

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Housefurnishers

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager.
Courier Building VanFelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION
One copy, one year.....$1.50
One copy, six months.....75
One copy, three months.....40

Advertising Rates.
For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Obituary notices, regular rates. Card of thanks, 25 cents.

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

DEEMING it necessary to conserve the game of the state, the senate has amended the laws so that each hunter in Michigan will only be entitled to one deer in the future, instead of two as has been the limit in the past. We are of the opinion that the buck law would have been more satisfactory to the real hunter and would in a greater measure do what it was intended for than the one deer law. The result of the law just passed will be to place a premium on lawlessness by reason that a hunter will kill the first deer that shows up, whether it be large or small. If it should be a fawn, he will continue to make an effort to kill a larger one, and when leaving camp will be forced to leave the smaller deer in the woods. We hope the law, if again changed, will be along lines suggested by the hunters, rather than to emanate from the brains of those who have never been in the woods out of hearing from a settler's dinner bell.

It does not require any extended investigation to convince anyone that the potato is guiltless of any attempt to increase the high cost of living this year. Unless there is an eleventh hour rally in the price, the potato will end the season with the reputation of being a real benefactor of the consumer.

Poor citizenship is demonstrated when a person allows the glitter of a dollar to

FISH-

We know you will buy where you can get the most and best for your money.

We Catch Our Own FISH

therefore you save the middle man's profits. Located three doors east of X L Creamery, Belvedere Ave.

All Standing Orders Delivered

H. L. BRADY & SON
Belvedere Avenue

GRIPPE GERM IS ON THE JOB

Few Residents of Our City Have Escaped It This Winter.

Doctors Say to Avoid It One Must Keep Stomach in Good Condition and Avoid Taking Cold.

Have you had the gripe? No? Well, cheer up; you may get it yet. Few Charlevoixians have escaped this winter and the nimble gripe germ is still very much on the job.

During the past two weeks there have probably been more assorted pains and aches in Charlevoix than for any period for many moons. Furthermore, although temperatures have not been frigid, good hot furnace fires have never been more in demand.

It has been the rule, and not the exception, to call on a business friend and find him huddled over the radiator and shivering with a severe chill, while the average person would find his office uncomfortably warm.

The cases of gripe during the epidemic which has been raging here lately have been unusually severe, say the doctors. It has been no unusual occurrence for gripe victims' temperature to shoot up to 104 for a day and when the fever subsides to leave the patient in a considerably weakened condition for several days.

Cities throughout the middle west have been having especially severe epidemics of gripe this winter, although every winter and early spring sees thousands of victims of this extremely unpleasant, although not particularly dangerous, malady. The gripe germ is no respecter of persons or classes. It strikes those who can afford to lie in bed and groan and those who cannot.

The best way to dodge the germ, the doctors point out, is to keep the stomach in the best of condition and, above all, to take every precaution against catching cold.

And after you have taken the above precautions you had better dig out a four-leaf clover from between the leaves of the family Bible, shine up the horseshoe on the old barn door and—pray.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

CUNNINGHAM-DENNIS

Well Known Young People of Marion Township United in Marriage.

At the fine farm residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cunningham, in Marion township, occurred the wedding of their daughter, Miss Winnie M., to Mr. George A. Dennis, on Wednesday, March 31.

The bride was attended by Miss Lela Nowland, while Mr. Clyde Dennis acted as best man. The home was tastefully decorated, and as the bridal party took their places under the floral bower, Rev. Quinton Walker read the ring service of the Methodist Episcopal church.

A bountiful supper was served to the assembled guests. The many presents spoke of the esteem and love of a host of friends. The bride is a graduate of the county normal and is generally admired by all. The groom is a hustling young farmer well liked by a large circle of friends.

The young couple are now at home to their friends at the Cunningham farm.

We have a few harness at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

DEATH ENDS SUFFERINGS

James McClanathan Died Last Saturday at Home of His Daughter, Mrs. Byers.

The death of James McClanathan, an aged resident of this city, occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. P. Byers, on Thursday, April 1st, after many months of patient suffering, at the advanced age of 85 years.

Mr. McClanathan was born in Ireland June 28th, 1829. He came to this country in 1848 and settled in Toronto, Canada, later moving to Michigan. He was united in marriage while living in Canada to Miss Ann Cunningham. To this union eleven children were given. The seven who survive are: Mrs. S. J. Myers of Charlevoix, Isabel Gerrie of Canada, Henry McClanathan of Ironton, Susan Winkler of Ironton, Ann Vanquard of Marion, Elizabeth Byers of Charlevoix, and Sophronia Gray of Petoskey.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Byers, Saturday, April 3rd, the Rev. Quinton Walker officiating.

Gravestone and Delancey trees for autos at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 111f so dazzle his eyes that it is impossible to see the right side of an important issue. Temporary gain is but a drop in the bucket when compared with the wealth that follows the triumph of some worthy cause.

If mother does the cooking satisfactorily for the next few days, she may get a red carnation on Mothers' Day.

The umbrella was first used in 1786, by a man named Hanway. It is not known who stole it from him.

The weather was very warm and Pat decided to shave on the back porch. Mrs. Casey, across the way, observed this. "Pat," she called, "shave an' On see ye air shavin' outside." "Begorra," he responded, "and did ye think Oi was fur-lined?"

One of the physicians at a nearby summer health-resort was looking over his books one day comparing his list of patients. "I had a great many more patients last year than I have this," he remarked to his wife. "I wonder where they have all gone to?" "Well, never mind, dear," she replied; "you know all we can do is to hope for the best."

The other night we heard a father speak thusly: "William, your mother tells me that you must have a dose of castor oil before retiring to-night. It is your bedtime now. Take your medicine and go to bed at once." "But, papa, I don't want to take no castor oil!" "You must take it and immediately!" "Aw, papa, I don't want!" "William, if you don't take that medicine I'll put you right to bed this minute without giving you a drop of it!" William was so scared that he took it. That's the way to enforce discipline.

On a westbound train scheduled for a long trip—a very large, muscular man fell asleep and annoyed all the passengers by snoring tremendously. Reading, conversation or quiet rest was an impossibility. Finally a drummer, carrying half a lemon in his hand, tiptoed over to a small boy who sat behind the snorer. "Son," said the drummer impressively, "I am a doctor, and if that man doesn't stop snoring he will die of apoplexy. Watch your chance and as soon as his mouth opens a little wider lean over and squeeze this lemon into it!" This sudden surprise nearly choked the big man to death before he got the strangles out of his throat, but it effectually cured the snores that trip.

Sunday Special—Ice Cream, Strawberry flavor, 25c. per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store.—Adv. 141f.

Jones-Haise.

Married, at the M. E. parsonage, by Rev. Quinton Walker, Clarence Haise and Miss Alice Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Haise have a host of friends in the city and at Norwood who wish them success and happiness. The happy couple will be at home to their many friends on Petoskey avenue after April 10th.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends who helped us so kindly during the illness and death of our father and grandfather; also for the many beautiful flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Byers and family.

Adv. 111f

Men's Suits

We are showing some exceptional values in Men's Suits for Spring and Summer.

Men's All Wool Suits, Plain $10 $12 $15
Black and Blue Serge

Men's All Wool Suits, checked or fancy weave $10 $12 $15

Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits
$18 to $25

If you have not worn one of these suits, we urge you to try now---you will never regret it.

GO TO Levinson's —Get the Habit

W. C. T. U. PROGRAM

Meeting to be held at Home of Mrs. G. C. Geiken
Next Friday.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet with Mrs. G. C. Geiken Friday, April 9th, at 2:30 p. m. The meeting will be opened with a Bible reading led by Rev. Lloyd C. Vineyard. Every member is urged to be present, if possible, at the opening. Bring your Bibles.

Response to roll call—Temperance clippings.

Business session.

Topic for consideration—"Our Organization."

W. C. T. U. Catechism—Mrs. Lewis.

Paper—"The Work of the W. C. T. U. Through its Departments."

Instrumental duet—Alice Schweitzer and Lillian McNeil.

Benediction.

The programs for the year will be ready for distribution.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few sets—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Subscribe for the Courier.

We are showing all the Latest Creations

In Spring Styles of

MILLINERY

Call and see us

HUNDERMAN'S MILLINERY SHOP

Successors to Jennie Richards

110 Bridge Street

Charlevoix, Michigan

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Special Cash Sale

APRIL 8-9-10

Large Grape Fruit	5c	12 lbs. Onions	15c
12 Oranges 216's	15c	2 lbs. Peanut Butter	25c
12 Oranges 176's	22c	A large jar Peanut Butter	25c
12 Oranges 100's	29c	A large jar Olives	25c
12 Bananas	25c	25 lbs Producer Flour	95c
Lettuce, per lb.	18c	1 pound Creamery Butter	32c
		Picnic Ham, per pound	11c

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Saved $290 on this barn
by covering the roof with

Certain-teed

Ready Roofing

Quality Certified—Durability Guaranteed
Made in Shingles as well as Rolls and so can you—if you will only investigate. All you will require to lay it is a hammer—everything else comes with the roll.

You do not have to worry about the quality—Certain-teed Ready Roofing is guaranteed for fifteen years, weather-proof—thousands of rolls in use today giving absolute satisfaction.

Try it on your house, your barn or other farm buildings. Come in and talk it over. We will quote you some surprisingly low prices—at least investigate—satisfy yourself as to whether or not you can save money in the future by covering your buildings with Certain-teed Rubber Roofing.

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

Sheriff Novak was in East Jordan Tuesday on official business.

Mrs. Oluf Nordrum and daughter, Annette, were in Petoskey Monday.

School began Tuesday morning for the last semester of the school year.

Wm. F. Bashaw of East Jordan was in the city on business on Friday last.

Capt. Charles Roe of Harbor Springs was in the city the first of the week on business.

Harley Ochs left for Roscommon Monday, where he will spend a few days visiting friends.

Patsy Flanagan left Tuesday morning for Chicago, where he expects to spend some time.

A. R. Maybee, teacher in the schools, spent the week end in Harbor Springs visiting friends.

Mrs. Kathaleen McCann of Big Rapids is visiting at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Edward Eagleton.

Miss Madeline Mullen visited at the home of Mrs. Ira Adams in Bellaire a couple of days last week.

Geo. A. Crouter and wife and T. G. Finucan and wife were in Petoskey Thursday on a pleasure trip.

Master Vincent Madison spent the Easter vacation in Bellaire at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Ira Adams.

Cecil Burns returned to his school work at Benzonia, Monday, after spending the Easter vacation at home.

The Misses Marion Parsons, Pauline Markham and Edna Ward returned to their school work at Alma Monday.

Miss Beulah Thompson of Harbor Springs was a guest at the home of Miss Pauline Markham last Thursday.

Miss Audrey Correll returned Monday from Petoskey, where she spent the Easter school vacation among friends.

Clare Finucan and Janie Mitchell left Monday morning for Detroit, where they are teachers in the public schools.

Mrs. James Sanford left for Detroit Wednesday morning. She will also visit her daughters at Monroe before returning.

Miss Mildred Shockey returned to Roscommon Monday to resume her duties in the public school at that place.

Miss Una Martindale of Harbor Springs visited last week in the city at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. C. Denton.

Superintendent H. A. Craig returned Saturday from the Soo and other points in the state, where he spent the Easter school vacation.

Mrs. Lou H. Comfort left last week for Milwaukee, where she will join Mr. Comfort, who is a division superintendent in the lighthouse service.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown was buried Monday from the home of Mrs. J. H. Conner, Rev. Quinton Walker officiated.

Mrs. T. Geo. Finucan gave a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Mildred Johnson Monday afternoon. Many useful and valuable gifts were presented to Miss Mildred.

E. W. Bennett, who has been making his home at the soldiers' home in Grand Rapids for the past six months, returned to the city Friday and will remain here indefinitely.

E. S. Stacka was in the city a few days the first of the week. It will be remembered that Mr. Stacka is on the road for the Armour Company and is meeting with wonderful success.

The Charlevoix Ice Cream Company is now open for the coming season. Mr. Lamphear has his new building carefully arranged to afford quick service to all and is ready to receive your orders.

Mrs. Gertrude Blackwood has traded her 48-acre farm, located about two miles south of the city, to Mrs. Mary Wyers for city property. The deal was made by the Gregory & Benton Real Estate Exchange.

A farewell party was given William McCartney prior to his return to his home at Flint by a number of his little friends last Friday afternoon. Games and other amusements were played and the little folks enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

Mrs. Frank Metcalf and little daughter left Wednesday for Flint, where they will visit at the home of her brother, Hugh C. McCartney. They were accompanied by William McCartney, who has been spending the winter at the home of his grandmother.

F. H. Alfred, general manager; H. O. Halstead, superintendent of transportation; A. L. Grandy, chief engineer, and E. E. Kane, division superintendent of the Pere Marquette Railroad, were in the city on Thursday last looking over the railroad's holdings in this vicinity.

A broad, beaming smile is always the sign of much happiness and, though that happiness is not always known, it is in this case. Saturday morning Dr. W. R. Barney came down town with one of them and passed the cigars. His friends were a bit mystified until "Doc" confided to them that "it was a boy."

Mr. and Mrs. Barney are receiving many congratulations.

A Michigan man explains to electric light users what a kilowatt is and how to compute one: "First, multiply the current by the resistance of the propeller of the electric light plant; divide this by the meter on the wall and add whatever you can't multiply. The answer will come in dollars and cents. Just divide these by the price you pay per kilowatt and multiply again to find out what a kilowatt is. You know just how many kilowatts you have had, just what they cost you apiece, but you don't know what they are, what they look like, who made them, or what shape they are."

For automobile tires, Goodyear, De-lance and Firestone tires see Benjamin Brown.

Adv. 111f

THE CITY SURVEY.

Quite rapidly the commercial organizations throughout the country are coming to a realization of the need of more accurate study and knowledge of the conditions in their own cities. The time of the holder of the shearer in commercial bodies is drawing to a close. The day for wild, blarney, irresponsible publicity is passing. The dawn of the new day finds men in every city thinking of something more stable, more constructive than mere advertising of generalities.

Today the commercial executive is studying his city and putting thoughtful moments toward learning the conditions which exist, the promised results being a change in those conditions which are not directly helping the city.

"Survey" has become a very commonly used term in this day.

A survey is nothing else than a careful study of the conditions surrounding a phase of a city's life or activity, coupled with the area concerning that life, or activity if they may be gathered and brought to bear on the condition, or the condition may be brought to bear on the figures.

Town Development Magazine.

BEAUTIFYING A STREET.

Michigan Avenue of Chicago to Be Widened and Extended.

World famous thoroughfares—like the Champs Elysees, Paris; Unter den Linden, Berlin; Ringstrasse, Vienna; Piccadilly, London, and Fifth Avenue, New York city—do as much perhaps to lure travelers from the innermost parts of the world to their respective cities as any other single object of interest to them, writes Walter D. Moody, managing director, Chicago plan commission, in the American City.

Perhaps the most spectacular and most needed street improvement ever undertaken in a large city is the Chicago Michigan Avenue extension, approved by the people at the Nov. 21 election and which will cost $8,000,000.

It is likely that Chicago today in its fascinating mile section of Michigan Avenue skirting the lake front and crossing the heart of the city possesses the most splendid business thoroughfare in the world. This is not only true because of the magnificent front of the palatial buildings, but also on account of the fine perspective afforded by the great open space just opposite in Grant park.

The widening and extension of Michigan Avenue is to be on the two level plan, the river to be crossed by a double deck bascule bridge. This mammoth bridge, the first of its kind to be constructed anywhere, will have a span of 210 feet and a width of ninety feet. Light traffic will take the upper deck and heavy traffic the lower.

The two level extension of Michigan Avenue is proposed solely for the purpose of separating the north and south from the east and west traffic. North and south approaches to the upper level will be on so slight a grade as to make the elevation almost imperceptible.

The significance of the Michigan Avenue improvements in the plan of Chicago is best seen in the fact that it forms the eastern boundary of the "quadrangle" in the plan. This "quadrangle" is bounded on the north by Chicago Avenue, on the west by Canal street and on the south by Twelfth street. These four streets are destined to bear the heaviest traffic of any four streets in Chicago. The development of the "quadrangle" will complete the foundation of the street circulatory system in the plan of Chicago. No improvement is needed in Chicago Avenue. That thoroughfare is now too feet wide.

New System of Garbage Collecting.

The city of Syracuse, N. Y., has instituted a novel type of automobile garbage collection by which it has rid itself of the nuisance of open wagons scattering garbage through the streets and giving off an unpleasant odor, says the American City.

Two motor trucks are used for the new service, and each is of three tons capacity and carries 108 cans of 100 pounds capacity. As the cans are not always full the average load is about three and a half tons. Each truck employs a force of six men. Two are stationed at all times on the leading running boards. Their work is to place in position on the car the cans which are brought from the yards by the four collectors.

When loaded the trucks go to the rear of the plant outside the city, where the truck driver and two assistants empty the truck. These assistants stay at the plant. Part of their duty is to wash the cans and have them ready for the next day's service. In the meantime clean cans, which have been used on the truck, which returns to the city for the next load. The trucks are neat and attractive in appearance, and if the system, which is in the experimental stage, proves satisfactory a great number of trucks will be purchased to extend the service over the entire city.

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 81f

The Beneficiary.

Take Dr. Pillers enjoy a large price.

The best to work so hard he has time to enjoy himself but Mrs. Pillers enjoys it. —Birmingham Age Herald.

ANOTHER PIONEER CALLED

William Meggison Had Lived in Marion Township for a Number of Years.

The death of William Meggison, a well known and highly respected farmer of Marion township, occurred at the home of Thomas Cummings, Saturday, April 3rd. Mr. Meggison had been in poor health for some time. He was 82 years of age at the time of his death.

Wm. Meggison was born in Lincolnshire, England, in January, 1833. He came to Toronto, Canada, at the age of 18 years. While there he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Jane Simpson in 1854 and two years later they moved to Muskegon, Ontario. During their residence here eight children were born to them, five boys and three girls. In 1887 he moved with his family to Michigan and settled in Marion township. During the year 1891 death took from him his beloved wife, and two years later he was married to Mrs. Maria Cummings. To this union one child, a girl, was given.

Mr. Meggison enjoyed a large circle of acquaintanceship and stood high in the estimation of all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, nine children and eighteen grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from the Barnard church, Rev. A. G. Pontius officiating. Interment in the Barnard cemetery.

Building 12x15 for sale. Dirt cheap if taken at once—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 141f

Common Council Notes.

Extension to water mains were ordered Tuesday evening by the council as follows: New extension to run from Bridge street west on Huribut avenue to Grant street; north on Grant street to Upright avenue; east from Grant street to State street on Lincoln street. The new extension will cover territory heretofore entirely without water or fire protection.

Three appraisers are to be appointed to make an estimate on the amount of damage by fire to the Hotel Elston. At present both the city ordinance and the state law are such that if a building is damaged to the extent of 50 per cent. It cannot be rebuilt if located in the prescribed fire limits. In the Elston case, if damaged to this extent it will not be granted permission to rebuild of wood material. The mayor will appoint one appraiser, Mrs. Noble one, and the third to be the choice of both members already named.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Character Impersonation Concert.

A funny concert for funny folks will be given in the Baptist church Friday evening, April 16th. General admission, 25c; children ten years and under, 10c. A cafeteria tea will be served in the church parlors from 5:30 to 7:15. Plenty to eat for little money. Come to the church for your supper and remain for the funny concert. "Whole Heap of Fun—Shore Nuf."

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

To the Public.

The farm firm heretofore known as Meech & Armstrong has been dissolved, Dr. R. B. Armstrong purchasing all interests held by Mr. D. F. Meech. Persons owing bills to the above firm, or having accounts against them, are requested to present them to Dr. R. B. Armstrong on or before May 1st.

Adv. 1412

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

WANTED—Straw and Hay. Argo Milling Co. 141f

WANTED—to Rent or buy, small house on north side. Phone 135. 141f

FOR SALE, cheap for cash or on time—A good work horse, weight 1200—Charles Peice, Route 2. 141f

WANTED—Man to take charge of dairy herd and do farm work. Wm. Wilbers. Phone 95-3. 1412-141f

THE party who took the automobile at the M. E. church last Sunday night, please return it to the personage—Wm. Wallace. 141f

FOR SALE 61 acres, all improved, 35 miles south of Charlevoix, good soil, buildings, small orchard. Terms cash. Mrs. J. M. Tulchier, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan. 141f

FOR SALE, 100-acre half unit, Gateway road end, both extra fine. Also 200-acre young orchard. Also 50 acres good farm land. Inquire or write—Henry Houdin, Route 3, Charlevoix, Michigan. 1412-141f

FOR RENT, elegantly furnished 12-room house, lovely location, water in house, plenty of shade trees and bearing fruit trees, beautiful grounds, also garden. For further particulars address Mrs. G. N. Cross, Central Lake, Mich. 141f

FOR RENT, 1 or 2 summer, furnished cottages in Grove on banks of Lake Michigan. Lake three miles south of Ellsworth, on good road, all modern and telephone, hot and cold water, also running brook. For full particulars address James A. Wilson, P. O. Box 1, Ellsworth, Me. 141f

J. L. Crane
Special!

One Day Sale

SATURDAY, APRIL 10th

First Quality Overall Aprons-- 50c Grade. All Sizes

29c

Only one to each Customer

Subscribe For The Courier

WE HAVE THESE SEEDS

Spring Wheat

Spring Rye

Barley

Spelts

Oats

Argo Milling Co.

Manufacturers

For Job Printing---Try us

More and more every day Ford cars grow in general demand. Their great usefulness is part of the daily life of all the people, though giving universal service with universal economy—less than two cents a mile to operate and maintain.

So simple in design that anyone can drive it—no bewildering mechanism—the Ford owner looks after his car himself. Then there's the "Ford After Service for Ford Owners," assuring the daily use of the car.

Buyers of Ford cars will share in profits if we sell at retail $300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Touring Car $490; Runabout $440; Town Car $690; Coupelet $750; Sedan $975, completely equipped, f. o. b. Detroit. On display and sale by

A. L. Hart & Son

$1 Waists 59c

SATURDAY ONLY

Children's Coats at $2

Age 3 to 12 years

Mason's Dep'tment Store

(Continued from page 3.)

"Well, I can make a stab at it, any how. But it looks on the face of it like that old needle in the haystack stuff. We have some agents down there. They might be able to help us out."

"It will be very good of you," said Zudora.

She and Storm rose and as they did so a young man entered unannounced. Zudora recognized him instantly as the young man she had met at Mme. Du Val's. As for Storm, he bowed slightly. Careless greetings passed between them, and Baird and Hunt were left alone.

"Well," said the detective grimly, "how are you behaving yourself?"

"Straight," said Baird soberly. "It was mighty due of you to help me when I needed help. The life of a reporter is fascinating. But just now I need a story. Got one?"

"Maybe. Did you ever hear of a man named Bruce?"

"Yes," Baird stared at the rug. Yes, he had known Bruce in the days when he was Hassan Ali.

"Well," began Hunt, "I think the rogue is going to beat the customs again. I'll wager that up to date he has smuggled in something over a million in gems. They'll land at the pier in about two hours. Suppose we like right away?"

"Nothing would suit me any better. I want to make good in this business, Hunt. The old chap may stick a knife in me one of these days, but I'll go out honest."

"That's the way to talk! Come on, then."

At the pier an ensue like this Hunt generally denied the regulation uniform and the regular inspectors did not interfere with his work. So when Bruce came down the gangplank the detective greeted him.

"I'll take care of you, Mr. Bruce. You will not have to bother with the usual formalities."

"Anything is agreeable so long as I get out of this hazy reasonable time. Here's my luggage coming down. All suit cases and one steamer trunk."

"We may have to search you personally, Mr. Bruce."

"Same old idea, huh? Go as far as you like. You boys will get tired some day hunting for diamonds in my grips."

"We often die on the job, Mr. Bruce, but we never get tired."

The only diamond found on Mr. Bruce was set in his fob. Hunt shrugged.

"Give it up?" said Bruce, grinning.

"For today, Mr. Bruce. Good day."

Bruce started for the exit, looking about for a last time. Hunt, having his hand toward the spot where Baird lay in wait. The latter understood this gesture to indicate that he was assigned to follow the man. Bruce found his taxi, but Baird's was only half a block behind when the race began.

Mme. Du Val and Captain Radcliffe returned to the former's house immediately after lunch and they both appeared rather excited over something. It seems that the two had met Storm and Zudora at the restaurant and had asked them to sit at their table, with no purpose in mind save that of friendship. During the luncheon Madame Zudora's throat and inspected it. The two faces she saw inside the locket made her heart jump, but the mildly curious expression on her face did not change.

She and the captain came into the salon hurriedly. They went directly to a table upon which the cat was sleeping. The feline dreams were rudely shattered, however, for the mistress pushed the animal to the floor. Madame pressed certain bits of hilly and a secret drawer was revealed. From this drawer she took two old dagger-pointed types.

"The same!" whispered the captain.

"The very same! Oh, we are in luck, captain, to find this out in time. That mine is this girl Zudora's, and we'll have to watch our cards."

"Put her out of the way?"

"There's been a little too much of that. We'll try all other methods first. But what luck!"

"Telephone!" he said. "Shall I answer it?"

"Better let me." She returned to him after a moment. "Bruce; he's slipped through as usual."

"Clever chap!"

"And the gems are still on board the boat?"

In the meantime Baird had no great difficulty in hanging to the heels of Bruce's cab. He had an idea that the cab would seek a deserted spot, possibly near the water front, where there is a good deal of abandoned property. While his eye followed the cab in front his mind was elsewhere. A year ago he had been a crook, not a diamond hunter, to be sure, but infernally clever. And here he was, striving honestly to live decently, all because he had fallen in love with the girl that should have been his victim. Aids of kinks in this old world, lots of startling twists and whirls. But of what use to love her? She loved another, and a clean, decent man too. He wondered if the day would come when he could tell her the truth, that for months he had played at being her uncle and had boldly attempted to do away with her.

What a contemptible scoundrel he had been and what a singular lack of perception he had had of this fact until love awoke him! Come, now; he must not fall to dreaming. His business was to watch yonder cab. Bruce's cab began to leave a trail through the warehouse district and eventually came to a stop before a diamond factory.

Baird dismissed his cab and waited to see what the smuggler did. He, too, dismissed the cab, glanced swiftly over his shoulder and entered the factory door, evidently by means of a key. Baird waited a reasonable length of time, then made for the factory. He knew that Bruce and the door to the factory, but he never tried to enter it.

"It's high time we were left for that luncheon."

piece. He was a very shrewd man. I was sorry to hear of his death."

"Hunt, you make a study of diamonds, don't you?" asked Storm.

"Legally, legally."

"I want you to find a diamond mine in Brazil belonging to the father of Miss Keene here. He's been dead for a good many years."

Hunt whistled. "That's a big order. Any paper?"

"Nothing that would give a hint to the location of the mine."

neighborhood her suspicions became aroused. She called to the chauffeur, but his answer was a fresh burst of speed. He whirled up in front of the junk hut, gave three blasts of the horn and jumped down from the car.

The two men who were guarding Baird rushed out at this signal.

"The captain!" one of them cried.

"Silence, you fool!" warned the pseudo-chauffeur. "Here, help a hand with this bundle of petticoats, and if she gets away from you I'll cut your throats! Live!"

Zudora, while she could not understand the reason of this abduction, perfectly comprehended that it would be useless to struggle against three men. She allowed them to take her inside the hut. The chauffeur jumped back to his seat and whirled away at top speed.

Hunt and Storm were quite willing that he should go. It meant one less wasn't it all disturbed to find it locked. In a ruined old building like this there were many rickety windows.

He had no difficulty in getting inside. It was not intended that he should have any real difficulty in gaining entrance. Bruce, knowing the tricks of detectives, had been quite certain that he would be followed from the boat ashore. He had merely led Baird into a trap. Bruce had gone in by one entrance and out the other. The cab met him two blocks away, and he was driven to another part of the town—in fact, to a semi-occupied apartment house where there was a tunnel which led to the secret elevator in the house of Mme. Du Val on the next street.

He received a royal welcome from Mme. Du Val and Captain Radcliffe. He had brought to port something like $20,000 worth of purest Brazilians.

"Oh, I was followed," he boasted, "and I led the follower by his nose to the old trap, and by this time he is doubtless out of the running. But this man Hunt is getting on my nerves. He knows, but he can't prove anything. Now, what's your news?"

They told him briefly.

"You have found the real heir?" he cried.

"Yes. And we have just arrived at the conclusion of a conference. This girl Zudora must be put away until we've milked that mine of its last drop. Her father's partner—old crook that he is—must be pushed off the board completely. There's a million in that pocket yet, believe me. I think by quick action we can get what we want within six months. We'll keep Zudora under cover for that period of time. As we understand it, she's engaged to a lawyer named Storm. We can fake up an accident to Storm and draw the girl into the net."

"Action's the word. And there's no better place to hide her until the coast is clear than in the old junk hut. That's where the boys will be taking Hunt's understudy by this time."

"But the diamonds!" interjected Mme. Du Val.

"My dear lady, I return to Liverpool on the same boat I arrived on. You will come and see me off. And when you bid me a tearful farewell the precious pebbles will be inside your muff. In fact, I return in the same cabin, and the gems are still in that same cabin. It's a new stunt and ought to hold off the inspectors for at least a dozen voyages."

"You've got a head on you, Bruce."

Baird was able to find his way inside the deserted factory. A trap to the cellar caught his eye. He risked it and went down and stepped plump into the arms of a hulk of a man who had been awaiting his arrival. Baird was no weakling, but it seemed to him that he had run into a bunch of live wire cables. Only a chance blow saved him. It saved him only temporarily. Another dock walloper came to his companion's aid. Baird was no superman, and a blow on the side of the head laid him out.

The two rogues bound and gagged their victim and blindfolded him too.

Baird was half conscious of being carried out of the building and dumped into a wagon. A moment later a lot of evil smelling junk was thrown in upon him. Then they went rumbling over the rough cobble pavement. It seemed to Baird that the journey must have lasted fully an hour. Then the wagon stopped, the junk was hauled away, and he was dragged into a hat the middle room of which was used as a prison.

Into This Middle Room Baird Was Carried and Bound to a Post.

Into this middle room Baird was carried and bound to a post.

When Zudora learned that her lover was injured she set out posthaste. And, as luck would have it, Storm and Hunt arrived just after she had left in the taxicab Storm was supposed to have sent her.

"Keep your hair on," said the detective. "We can keep track of that cab. Don't you worry. I'm glad I came along with you. I'll bet a dollar that this something to do with those diamonds. There's nothing like adding two and two to get four. Now we're off."

Meander and meander grew the streets.

"That's one fault of the crooked mind," was the detective's comment. "They always seek low places to hide their victims in. Not one detective in a thousand would think of hunting a missing person in a good neighborhood like this." I think we'd better finish this on foot. Come along, Mr. Lawyer, and don't get in a sweat."

As for Zudora, her evil star shone and she was seeking as her own. When she discovered the significance of the neighborhood her suspicions became aroused. She called to the chauffeur, but his answer was a fresh burst of speed. He whirled up in front of the junk hut, gave three blasts of the horn and jumped down from the car.

The two men who were guarding Baird rushed out at this signal.

"The captain!" one of them cried.

"Silence, you fool!" warned the pseudo-chauffeur. "Here, help a hand with this bundle of petticoats, and if she gets away from you I'll cut your throats! Live!"

Zudora, while she could not understand the reason of this abduction, perfectly comprehended that it would be useless to struggle against three men. She allowed them to take her inside the hut. The chauffeur jumped back to his seat and whirled away at top speed.

Hunt and Storm were quite willing that he should go. It meant one less

Then Hunt Succeeded In Drawing His Automatics.

to handle. It was hard for Storm to wait for Hunt's signal. When it did come he was first at the door of the hut. But the door was a stout one, and it took sundry smashing blows of both men's shoulders to make the lock give. There was a rattling good fight for a moment. Then Hunt succeeded in drawing his automatics.

"Hands up!"

The two thugs saw business in his cold blue eye and raised their hands.

"You poor girl!" cried Storm.

"Never mind me," she said. "There's some one in the next room calling for help."

And there they found Baird.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

I sell you the heaviest and largest canvas gloves 10c a pair, three pair for 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

FLOWERS AS A FOOD.

The Mahua Tree of India Produces Blossoms of Extreme Sweetness.

The mahua, malwa, mowba, mown or mowra tree of India is a large deciduous tree throughout the forests of Dekkan, Karmatik, west coast, and central India, and Gujarat, stretching north as far as Oudh and Kunmum and eastward across to Orissa. Though found in a purely wild state in many parts of India, the value of the flowers and fruit has caused it to be brought under more or less cultivation. The economic value of the tree lies in its edible flowers and oil yielding seeds, although the gum or gutta that flows from incisions or abrasions on the stems shows an average of 48.9 per cent gutta, 38.8 per cent resin and 12.3 per cent ash. The bark also is used as a dye, while all the properties of the tree are used to some extent medicinally.

The mahua puts forth its leaves from February to April. Cream colored flowers appear in great clusters of thirty to fifty near the ends of the branches from March to April. About the end of March the flowers begin to arrive at maturity, and every morning about sunrise the succulent corolla tubes fall in great showers to the ground, which has been cleared of grass and underbrush and prepared for the harvest. This continues to the end of April, but usually the fall from a single tree is complete in seven to ten days. The flowers are then spread out and left to dry in the sun. In a few days they shrink in size, change in color to a reddish brown, and their peculiar sweet odor becomes more apparent.

These flowers are eaten extensively while fresh, but, generally speaking, they are dried thoroughly and cooked with rice and other grains. Sometimes they are completely dried and reduced to a powder and in this condition are cooked in round cakes and mixed with a variety of foodstuffs. Mahua is extremely sweet, and the nibility is extremely digest. It must be acquired. Few Europeans are able to eat more than one flower on a single occasion without having disagreeable after effects. Sugar and molasses of a good quality are also made of mahua. It is estimated that in the central provinces alone 1,000,000 of the native people use mahua as a regular article of food. —Consular Report.

Rexall Orderlies

Sick headache, biliousness, pins and needles, indigestion, etc., are cured by Rexall Orderlies. Get a box of Rexall Orderlies. They act gently and effectively. Sold only by us at 10 cents.

The Ivy Drug Store.

The Foolish Fable of the Resident Regent

From the Detroit Saturday Night.

Man lives not by bread alone, but by maxims, mottoes, magic, slogans, names, phrases and hunk. Under the spell of "a cross of gold" an American soothsayer long since raised himself to within reaching distance of the presidency, and still helps to guide the destinies of a nation through the Chautauqua platform and his evangelistic search for government jobs for "worthy democrats." With the loud call of "the square deal" another American gathered around himself an army of militant reformers, who in two years have forgotten the gospel of revolution and lapsed into a comfortable condition of devolution. Many an American with unprofitable time on his hands, or abundant money in his pocket, or an alleged mission in his heart has cast a mighty shadow in the streets of his community by a spectacular, if unintelligible, championship of "the people." Michigan has had her share of these popular apparitions. None of them has been more amusing, or more meaningless, than the tradition of "the resident regent."

The resident regent in this state of 3,000,000 people is selected from the republican portion of the 15,000 non-collegiate inhabitants of Ann Arbor, on the theory that no man who is capable of being president of the University of Michigan is capable of performing his functions without a guardian beside him day by day. The argument that this kind of a regent is necessary for the welfare of the university is rather an apology for political exigency or tradition than a sane defense of a sound principle evolved from the needs of the university itself. It is highly complimentary to the boarding house keepers of Ann Arbor to have it thought by the people of Michigan that residence there is a prime qualification for the regency; but it is of no more service to the university than if the same fable were held true of Ypsilanti, or Detroit, or Raisinville or Mio. We have simply got used to the idea of having a resident regent, just as we get used to the idea of wearing a carbuncle, if we have it long enough, and for no better reason.

Thinks Beal an Incubus

Gardner S. Williams opened fire on the resident tradition while seconding the regency nomination of Samuel T. Douglas of Detroit in the recent state convention of the democrats at Lansing:

The dictum that the interests of the university require the continuance of a local regent, one residing in Ann Arbor, has been widely advertised by our republican friends throughout the state; but speaking from the personal knowledge gained by a residence of ten years in Ann Arbor, seven years of which were passed as a member of the university faculty, with five years' experience as a student, and thirty years of intimate association and observation of university affairs, I am here to assert—and I hope my voice may be strong enough to reach beyond the walls of this room—that never was a greater falsehood foisted upon an intelligent public.

Enlarging upon the effect of the resident regent tradition on the president and deans of the university, Mr. Williams also said:

Hardly one of these men is able to administer the affairs of his office without the baneful influence of the local regent, and few members of the instructing staff, however competent, can receive promotion unless willing to kow-tow to the local regent. . . . No private corporation, having selected a competent manager for its affairs, would locate a member of its board of directors with a desk at his elbow.

Mr. Williams, therefore, pleaded with his party to aid "in delivering our Alma Mater from the incubus, which, in the event of republican success, must rest upon it for the next eight years."

The present local regent is Hon. Junius E. Beal. He is finishing his first term of eight years and is standing for re-election. We have heard many things said about Juney, but never before to our knowledge has he been called an incubus. The dictionary says an incubus is a mental burden, or a nightmare, or a male demon. Lacking further specifications from Mr. Williams, we are left to discover his meaning for ourselves. We may reasonably infer, however, that he regards Mr. Beal rather as a liability to the university than an asset. We have been trying to find out why.

Juney and His Friends

Cruising about the campus at Ann Arbor we could not unearth any evidence to show that the strong men of the university paid much attention to Juney. People of all sorts spoke of him with kindness and gentleness. Folks thereabouts seem to think he is a nice man with his heart in the university and his head in his hat. As a member of the executive committee of the board of regents, he is in constant touch with the president, ready to contribute his advice on all things great and small. Nothing, in fact, is too small to enlist his interest. In business life he would probably be styled "assistant to the president" with this difference, that in business life the president would act on his own initiative in minor executive matters without having to worry about his assistant's opinion.

There are one or two notable instances in which Juney seems to have thought it wise to attend as noiselessly as possible the judgment of responsible faculty leaders who ought to know much better than he knows what is good for the university, or who ought to be presumed to know as long as they are retained in responsible positions. And there are other instances not so notable. For, as we have already intimated, Juney's activities are not confined to high things but to all things that concern the university; and there are those on the staff of the University of Michigan, as there are on the staffs of all universities, who delight to coddle power and curry favor.

But take it by and large the prevalent criticism of Regent Beal is that he likes to be good to his faculty friends. On the other hand, if Mr. Beal had not been gifted with an extraordinary capacity for being good to his friends he would never have been regent at all. To wit:

Mr. Beal was first made regent by the predilection of Hon. Fred M. Warner. That was in the spring of 1907. The Farmington statesman was then serving his second term as governor, and was beginning to build up the political organization that eventually squeezed him into the governorship for the third time. Col. Henry S. Dean of Ann Arbor was finishing his twelfth year on the board of regents. The Washtenaw county convention endorsed him for renomination against Beal, and on motion of Beal the endorsement was made unanimous.

When Col. Dean and the Washtenaw delegation got to the state convention at Grand Rapids they were informed that "they," meaning Governor Warner and his aides, would not stand for Dean, and insisted on nominating Beal.

Beal just hadn't the heart to hurt his friend's feelings by refusing. He was nominated and elected, and with him Regent Leland of Detroit, who successfully ousted Regent Harbour. Col. Dean thinks that the Warner organization went after his scalp because he steadfastly refused to permit the deposit of any of the university's funds in a Detroit bank in which Governor Warner was interested. Whatever his motive, Warner produced two brand new regents that spring, twins of one parent, which perhaps accounts in part for Regent Leland's altruistic anxiety for the success of Beal in the republican spring convention of 1915. At any rate, it accounts for the rise of Beal to the regency through an overwhelming desire to be good to his political friends, and pleasantly explains his desire to be good to his university friends.

The manner of Mr. Beal's original elevation also suggests the futility of electing regents when a governor with a good organization decides to make his own selections. Nomination on the republican ticket in Michigan being usually equivalent to election, it would seem to be quite as wise politically and quite as good for the university to permit the governor to appoint the regents direct. With an occasional democratic governor we would of course get an occasional democratic regent. As in the case of William A. Comstock of Alpena the university would benefit by it. Even a republican governor would not always be averse to appointing a democratic regent and so giving the democrats of Michigan some voice in the management of the state university. In any event the university would be as likely to get as good regents as it gets now, political squabbling would be reduced to a minimum, and the state ballot would be wholesomely abbreviated.

Public opinion begins to revolt against political maneuvering in university affairs. Republicans as well as democrats are rapidly growing tired of it. Survey, for instance, this list of men who have endorsed the candidacy of Samuel T. Douglas, "believing that the control of the University of Michigan should be, as far as possible, removed from the influence of politics and partisanship":

J. Q. A. Sessions	Geo. E. Lawson
Jeremiah Dwyer	Walter S. Russell
John N. Bagley	E. S. Barbour
Frank W. Blair	Chas. Melish
Harry J. Fox	D. M. Ferry, Jr.
Charles Moore	Wadsworth Warren
Henry M. Campbell	Geo. H. Barbour
Levi Barbour	F. C. McNeil
Westmore Hunt	Frank G. Ryan
C. G. Jennings	Geo. S. Hosmer
John C. Donnelly	W. P. Holliday
Wm. J. Gray	Jas. Coslett Smith
Bryant Walker	John R. Russell
A. W. Russell	E. C. Westmore
Henry Russell	W. A. Livingston
J. W. Beaumont	H. E. Spaulding
John M. Donaldson	Julius W. Haze
T. T. Cowles	Jas. T. Whithead
Geo. T. Moody	Allen F. Edwards
Jas. T. Keen	Andrew H. Green, Jr.
S. T. Crapo	Geo. D. Mason

Bethune Duffield

The republicans (that roster, and many others who are signing every day, have discarded the fable of "the resident regent." They have refused to place party regularity and party formalism, staunch republicans though they be, above the interests of the university. "We applaud them for it. With all due respect to Mr. Beal he is not a necessity to the university because he lives in Ann Arbor and is a republican; nor is any other man. If intelligence instead of party custom and party weight is to decide this issue in the spring election Mr. Beal must be re-elected on some other ground. If intelligence is not to decide it one Junius, or Jejunius, is as good as another.

Fine Supposition.

"There comes the conl," thought the frepide, "I suppose I ought to be grateful."

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

EVEN THE UNDOERTAKER.

A certain temperance lecturer at one point in his address is in the habit of taking out his gold watch and saying, "I will give this watch to anyone present who will arise and tell me one class of people in the world that has ever been benefited by the saloon."

He made that offer all over this country, and no one ever took it up, until one gentleman stood and said: "I think I can tell you one class."

"What's that?"

"The undertaker."

My friend was about to unchain his watch and hand it over, when an old man arose and said: "Hold on! Before you give away that watch allow me to say that I have been the undertaker in this community for 35 years, and I have buried a great many of that kind of people; but whenever I am called upon to lay away an old soak or any member of his family I always know it's a charity job; that I shall never get the money. I should be much better off today if I had never had to bury one such case."

TROUBLE FOR J. BARLEYCORN.

There is a doughty fellow, prime favorite and boon companion of our ancestors, who is "getting in bad" with the present generation all over the world. His name is John Barleycorn.

Peace and war, foreign climates and lands at home, all alike spell trouble for John. In the United States he dodges around the corner at the mention of votes for women, and has been evicted from several states where women do not vote. In Russia, he is exiled on the plea of military necessity. In Germany he finds himself out of favor with the Kaiser; in France he is jailed on suspicion of lack of patriotism; in England he is tolerated chiefly that he may be taxed, and is dubbed a lowdown, even then. —Chicago Journal.

COST TO THE GOVERNMENT.

Writing on the question of revenue, sometimes a disconcerting one to temperance advocates, Daniel A. Poling, superintendent of the citizenship department of the Christian Endeavor society, aptly points out that the fact that the voting out of the saloon has never been responsible for the raising of taxes anywhere suggests the real answer to this question. "When the American government," says Mr. Poling, "once measures the almshouses, reformatories, asylums for the insane and penitentiaries for the criminals, and the indirect cost in impaired efficiency, broken character and sterile homes, it will strike forever from the lips of its people this cup of economical and financial woe."

CRIME PRODUCER.

Liquor is the greatest of all crime producers. Out of 1,150 prisoners in the prison at one time, 963 were either drinking or were drunk at the time of the crime, or the deed was planned in a saloon. Two hundred and twelve out of 226 cases of murder were due to liquor. —Rev. Orville L. Kiplinger, Chaplain of the Indiana State Prison.

"DRY" TOWNS SCORE HIGH.

Out of fifty-three high school teams at Stanford, Cal., that competed for athletic honors, the six that scored highest came from "dry" towns. At the interscholastic field meet, at Berkeley, same state, sixty-seven high schools were represented, and their three leading teams were also from "dry" towns.

LABORING MEN PROSPER.

"Do more laboring men own their homes now than under the saloon regime?" This was one of sixteen questions sent to fifty cities and towns of Tennessee some time ago. The replies showed an increase of 48 per cent in the number owning their own homes since prohibition went into effect.

A PATRIOTIC DISTILLER.

No, he is not an American, hyphenated or otherwise; he is Prince Obolenski of Russia, and he thus declares himself: "Serious as the matter may be for us if drunkenness can be eradicated we distillers are in duty bound to welcome the reform and make every sacrifice for it."

MAKING PROGRESS.

In 1896, with a population of 6,000, New York had 32,257 saloons. In 1914, with a population of 10,000,000, the state had but 23,173 saloons, an increase in population of 4,000,000 in 18 years and a decrease of 8,784 saloons for the same period.

FUNCTIONS OF BRAIN.

The last formed and highest function of the human brain, called consciousness of right and wrong, is the first to become palsied from the toxic action of alcoholic spirits. This palsy is a feebleness to recognize the ethical relation of life and surroundings. —Dr. T. D. Crothers.

TIME WASTED.

There is no use wasting time on any young man who drinks liquor, no matter how exceptional his talent. —Andrew Carnegie.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

will relieve your indigestion. Many people in this town have used them and we have yet to hear of a case where they have failed. We know the formula. Sold only by us—25c a box. The Ivy Drug Store.

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.
A. M.—"Back to the Old Paths."
P. M.—"Water Baptism."
B. Y. P. U.—Topic: "Getting Ready for the Next Life."
Leader—Miss DeWitt.
Tuesday evening, seven o'clock—Bible Study. "The New Birth."
Thursday evening—Prayer meeting. "Difficult passages made plain as day." Rev. 22: 18-19.

Catholic Church
Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.
High Mass at 10:00 a. m.
Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.
Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.
Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church
Public worship at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m.
Young people's meeting 6:00 p. m.
Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.
Services at Ironton:—
Bible school, 1:30 p. m.
Preaching, 2:30 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church
A. M.—"The Contest."
P. M.—"The Last Miracle."

Church of God
Services at camp ground every Sunday.
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science
Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.

Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject, "Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?"
Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m.; also 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday.

Bicycles, $14.75 to $35.00. Bicycle repairing and supplies—Benj. Brown. Adv. 111f

HOW INGENUOUSLY TO UTILIZE WASTE THINGS AND PLACES.

A young woman once took a table cover of Chinese silk of a becoming blue, cut a hole in the center large enough to slip her head through, added a gold cord at the waist and wore the garment to a tea. The round part cut from the cover was twisted about her head as a turban. This is a little too ingenious for general application.

Two young artists utilized a 10 by 10 roof top opening from their studio back door in a very clever manner. A few laths made a lattice along the entire end to protect them from the too intimate view of their back door neighbors. A little dabbling of paint gave to it a fine weather beaten look. Vines took lovingly to the lattice. A small transplanted bush added its fresh, vigorous green. Daisies brought from the fields grew thickly in their new home.

A small east of Sardis on a pedestal looks down into a pan of water, around which are placed stones and pots of marigolds. Against the red brick wall at one side wooden boxes piled high with cushions serve for seats. Against this wall also a discarded panel forms a wall fountain, and at the base of this a basin molded of plaster is filled with ferns and vines. A Greek motto is painted on the wall. A narrow scullery extends from the lattice to the studio door, and from this a little Pompeian lamp of Venetian wrought iron hangs in a corner.

The top of a lily tree spends its branches over one end of this charming little roof garden, which serves as a summer dining room for these city dwellers, who have made one barren, ugly spot a garden of delight.

It cost almost nothing but a discerning eye, a little time and the ingenious use of materials at hand.

There are many ugly unusual spots in both city and country that would respond as readily to the capable man or woman's discernment and care.

Get in on the new Clubbing Offers. Read adv. on page 7.

There Is No Question but that indigestion and the distressing feeling which always accompanies it can be promptly relieved by taking a

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets
at a cost of 25c a box. The Ivy Drug Store.

DAVID ANOINTED KING

1 Samuel 16: 1-13—April 11.
A Man After God's Own Heart—Another Phase of Samuel's Character. Samuel Sent to Bethlehem—Anointing the Successors of Present Institutions—David a Type of the Church. Divine Method of Selection of Elect.

"Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart."—1 Sam. 16: 7.

KING SAUL'S rejection by the Lord meant not only his ultimate removal from the throne, but that his sons should not succeed him in it, and that the Lord would select another man for the office. The Divine choice was David, to whom the Prophet Samuel had indirectly referred, saying, "The Lord hath sought Him a man after His own heart."—1 Samuel 13: 14.

At the time of today's Study, David was about twenty years old. His great-grandmother was the gentle Ruth, who had gleaned grain in probably the very field with which David was familiar. His great-grandfather was Boaz, a page of whose history is recorded in the Book of Ruth.

Like Boaz, David's father, Jesse, was doubtless one of the Elders of Bethlehem, respected and honored as a noble man, of his mother we know little, except that David twice mentioned her as a handmaid of God. The Prophet Samuel mourned for King Saul, apparently disappointed that he should be rejected. Quite probably forebodings of a civil war perturbed the Prophet's mind. He knew that Saul would not quietly lay down the scepter which he had taken up so modestly in obedience to the Divine arrangement. Samuel should have had greater trust in God's Wisdom and Power, but his trouble was more, or less like that which assails the Lord's people even today.

When sent to anoint David, the Prophet did not hesitate to perform the Lord's bidding, but he intimated that he clearly understood that King Saul would kill him as a traitor if he should anoint a successor to the kingdom. The Lord assured him that the matter would not be made known at once, and directed him to go to Bethlehem and make a sacrifice there, and to improve the opportunity of finding and anointing the one who in due time would become king.

God's Choice of King.
Our Study begins at the point when the Prophet arrived at Bethlehem. Thinking that his presence shrouded some sin on their part or on that of their fellow-citizens, the Elders inquired whether he came peaceably or not, whether his presence meant a blessing or the infliction of a penalty. Their fears were allayed when they heard that his mission was to offer a sacrifice to the Lord.

Some time before this, the Ark of the Covenant had been captured by the Philistines. The Tabernacle services, thus discontinued, had not yet been re-established; consequently this sacrificing was performed by the Lord's especially appointed servant. The command for the people of Bethlehem to sanctify themselves if they would participate in the blessings of the sacrifice signified that they should bathe, put on clean clothes and draw nigh to the Lord with all their hearts. Thus typically they represented that justification and sanctification which the Church of the Gospel Age has enjoyed.

The Prophet seems to have taken supervision of Jesse's family to the intent that he might without public display find and anoint the man whom the Lord had chosen. Jesse introduced his sons to the Prophet in the order of their birth—his eldest first. Eliab was of fine appearance, and the Prophet assumed that he was the Lord's choice. But the Lord was looking on the heart, and had already selected David, although being under age, his father had not thought it worth while to call him to the feast. As one after another of Jesse's sons appeared, the Prophet found not him whom the Lord's Spirit indicated as the one to be anointed. Then he inquired, "Are all thy children here?" Jesse suddenly remembered that his youngest boy was in the field and sent for him.

The Antitypical Lord's Anointed.
Our Golden Text appeals to all Christians, in connection with the High Calling of the Gospel Age. As the Lord's messengers we, too, are seeking for those to be anointed with the oil of gladness, the Holy Spirit, that they may be kings and priests in the Messianic Kingdom. Like the Prophet Samuel, we might feel afraid to anoint the successors of present institutions, did we not realize that the scattering of the Lord's Elect, now in progress, is a secret work, which no one can understand except those who have it.

The name David signifies Beloved; and as it applied especially to our Lord, of whom Jehovah said, "This is My Beloved Son," so also it applies to all the members of His Body, each of whom must be beloved, also he cannot be acceptable as a member. Of such the Head says, "The Father loveth, of such you": and again, "Love one another, as I have loved you."—John 17: 23.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

David Anointed King. Lord, of whom Jehovah said, "This is My Beloved Son," so also it applies to all the members of His Body, each of whom must be beloved, also he cannot be acceptable as a member. Of such the Head says, "The Father loveth, of such you": and again, "Love one another, as I have loved you."—John 17: 23.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—tenth installment this week—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU

Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer 1.00
Home Life .25

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Up-to-Date Farming .50
Poultry Pointers .50
The Gentlewoman .20

All 1 yr for $1.65

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Today's Magazine .50
Woman's World .35
Home Life .25
1 May Manton Pattern $2.60

All 1 yr for $1.75

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Michigan Farmer .50
Poultry Pointers .50
Woman's World .35

All 1 yr for $1.80

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00

All 1 yr for $3.00

Charlevoix Courier $1.50
Grand Rapids Press 2.00
Michigan Farmer .50

All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 per cent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

Majestic Theatre

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 22

CONCERT

By The High School Orchestra

All Home Talent

Keep the Date in Mind and Purchase Your Tickets Early

... Encourage the School Boys ...

Grange Column

Charlevoix Grange.

Charlevoix Grange, No. 1526, met at the home of Bro. and Sister A. J. Usher Saturday evening, April 3rd.

Meeting was called to order by W. M. Dutton and opened in form.

Lecture hour:

Roll call—Each member told the best method of eliminating the fly.

Reading—Sister Martha Dutton.

Recitation—Flora Dutton.

Recitation—Clare Usher.

Guessing contest on the nicknames of our past presidents—Sister Jennie Black received the first prize and Brother Nat. Burns the consolation.

After the completion of the lecturer's program a feast of warm syrup, wafers, biscuits, pickles, fried cakes and coffee were served. Attendance fourteen.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Sister Himebauch Friday evening, April 16th.

At roll call each member will be requested to tell the birds they found the most useful and why.

Sal-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

$2,700 APPROPRIATION

Charlevoix Harbor Draws Smallest Amount of Any Lake Shore Harbor.

In the final appropriation of the $30,000,000 fund for the maintenance of rivers and harbors of the nation the rivers and harbors of the great lakes received $3,085,375. Alpena harbor— for which $2,000 was recommended by the engineers—received $5,000.

Charlevoix harbor, for which the engineers recommended $6,000, received but $2,700.

We supposed—from the alleged promises made during the campaign last fall by the ardent supporters of our new congressman—that Charlevoix would at least be allowed all that was recommended by the engineers. Why this harbor should be cut $2,300 and Alpena harbor raised $3,000 is more than we can understand. And we are told that our new congressman was at Washington learning the ropes and looking after the interests of his district. He was evidently looking after the interests of his home town and forgot that Charlevoix was on the map.

Auto supplies and service station, Goodyear, Firestone and Delance tires—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 111f

Phone

104

—FOR—

PARCELS DELIVERY

Parcels delivered to any part of the city. Quick service—deliveries guaranteed to be done accurately and on time. We want your business.

M. J. McCarthy

PHONE 104

When People Ask Us what is good for nerves and lost weight, we always recommend

Reckall Olive Oil Emulsion
containing Hypophosphite
a food tonic and tissue builder.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Additional Locals

Nick Shores left the first of the week for the Two Heart river region, north of Newberry, on a trapping expedition.

Mrs. Oscar J. Smith, who has been visiting at the home of her son in Grand Rapids, returned Tuesday afternoon.

J. W. Jones of Detroit, a former resident of Charlevoix, is in the city a few days looking after his real estate holdings.

The Str. Beaver made her first trip to St. James Tuesday. She had a number of passengers and a heavy load of freight.

Charles Lamphear has purchased a Ford car, which he will use for a delivery wagon in connection with his ice cream business.

James Simpson returned Tuesday from Rock Island, Illinois, where he has been visiting at the home of his brother since last December.

John Withers and wife, who moved to Kalamazoo last fall, arrived in the city Tuesday, called here by the death of Mrs. Withers' father, T. D. Smith.

Jack Johnson, heavy weight champion of the world, was knocked out in the 26th round at Havana, Cuba, Monday, by Jess Willard, the new white hope.

John Robinson, a member of the Pere Marquette construction crew, was in the city the first of the week looking after the improvements being made on the railroad bridge.

The High School Orchestra will give a concert at the Majestic Theatre on the evening of Thursday, April 22. They promise a treat. See that you buy a ticket when the selling campaign starts.

Miss Carrie Jeffery, who has been visiting for some weeks among friends and relatives at Gaylord, arrived in the city Wednesday and will join her parents at their new home on south State street.

The Royal Neighbors had a surprise party on Mrs. Tom Nowland, on Antrim street, Friday afternoon. All enjoyed a pot-luck supper at six o'clock. Before leaving the ladies presented her with a beautiful table cloth.

The twenty-third, or last episode of the "Million Dollar Mystery" will be shown at the Majestic Theatre on April 20. People who have closely followed the great picture drama will welcome the news that the last episode is about to be shown.

Within the next day or so, William Finucan, Jr., will leave this city for Cheboygan, where he will assume the management of the branch house of the Booth Fisheries at that place. The promotion is a deserved one, and Mr. Finucan's numerous Charlevoix friends extend their congratulations on his advancement.

The north and south approach to the bridge will be nicely light up hereafter, which illustrates that usually it takes a long time to make absolutely necessary improvements. At Tuesday evening's meeting of the common council, four 5-cluster lamp post were ordered, two to be placed at each end of the bridge. The posts are very pretty design and will make a wonderful improvement to the street.

SAILED LAKES FOR MANY YEARS

"Tim" Smith Was One of the Best Known Sailors in This Section.

Death Again Claims 'One of County's Pioneer Residents—Funeral Under Masonic Auspices

The long and useful life of Timothy Dwight Smith passed out Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock at his home near the shore of Round Lake on Belvedere avenue, after a gradual failing in strength covering a period of over a year. Mr. Smith was 82 years of age and practically all his life had been passed in this vicinity.

He was born in the town of Chiles, State of New York, February 4th, 1833. He came to Michigan with his parents at the age of two years. Upon reaching the age of about seventeen he moved to Beaver Island and engaged in the fishing industry. He continued in this vocation for a number of years and was one of the best known men throughout this section engaged in the industry.

In January, 1856, he was united in marriage to Miss Ella Mary Johnson at what in the earlier days was known as Middle Village. It was during this period of time that King Strang held forth on Beaver Island, and Mr. Smith was well acquainted with Strang and many residents of the Mormon colony. In 1856, after the reign of the Mormon king had ended, Mr. Smith moved to Saint James, where he continued in the fishing industry until in 1870, when he moved to Charlevoix.

Upon coming to this place he settled on what is now known as the Blackwood farm, south of the city. He resided here about seven years, when he moved into town. After leaving the island and settling in Charlevoix he engaged in the tug business and for many years piloted the Martin through the waters at this harbor. "Tim" Smith, as he was more familiarly known, was one of the best known sailors of northern waters. He was thoroughly acquainted with every mile of the lakes as far south as Manitou Island, north to Cheboygan, and the entire lower part of the upper peninsula shore. Elements were given little consideration when "Tim" made up his mind to put out for some port. It was due in a great measure to his fearlessness, in connection with good seamanship, that a no serious accident happened to him.

During his early days on the waters of this section there were but few settlements. Charlevoix consisted of a few loghouses, and the roads were nothing but Indian trails. Where now are cities, cement roads, stately mansions, automobiles and electric lights were then the frequent Indian camps, the blazed trails through unbroken forests, the oar cast, the tallow candle, the log dwelling.

Of late years Mr. Smith had spent the most of his time ashore, working on boats in his shipyard. He was a man of good habits, strictly honest, of a kindly disposition, and few men had so large a circle of acquaintances in this vicinity.

He is survived by his aged wife and four children, Oscar J. Smith of Charlevoix, Ellie Stevens of Chicago, Stella Withers of Kalamazoo, and Minnie Wilson of Boyne City, all of whom were present at the funeral but Mrs. Stevens, who is spending the winter in Florida.

Funeral services were held from the house Wednesday afternoon at 2:00, Rev. L. C. Vineyard officiating.

After the conclusion of the services, the remains were turned over to the Masonic order, of which he had been a member for some forty years. Ritualistic services were held at Brookside cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest.

Buy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown. Adv. 81f

GLASSES FITTED

CONSULT

J. LEAHY
Optometrist

Expert on Eye Strain

Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, and all other symptoms of Eye Strain cured.

Crossed Eyes Straightened Without an Operation.

Fitting Children's Eyes a Specialty. Difficult Cases Solicited.

Glasses Guaranteed to Fit.

Hotel Charlevoix—1 Day Only

Thursday, April 22, '15

SEWING ROOM HINT.

How to Use Tissue Paper in Making Up Thin Material.

Don't throw away the tissue paper that has come in the parcel box from the shops. It is an excellent aid to the dressmaker. Indeed, the idea is so good that, once converted to the use of tissue paper, you will never depart from the easy, practical way.

When you cut out the chiffon blouse you will encounter no difficulty if you first place the paper flat down and bustle the shir material on it before cutting the pattern. In this way a smooth edge will result and a finished effect will reward you for the small amount of time spent. Sew up all the seams, and when the stitches are complete tear away the paper.

The transparent sleeve now so much to vogue should be made over tissue paper. Baste the chiffon, set or lace on the paper, place over the pattern and sew up along the seams. Remove the paper after all sewing has been done.

Any fabric that is difficult to cut can be placed over tissue paper pinned along the line and cut without any difficulty.

Have you ever thought of making a dress trimming of paper before cutting expensive furniture or lace? Paper can be placed around in place, turned, folded and adjusted. The general effect will be seen, and changes can be made before it is too late. This method is followed in all dressmaking establishments with great success. There is no reason why it should not be introduced into the little home sewing room. Install a paper department. It will help.

Naming the Baby.

Stagleton—Have you decided what you are going to call the baby, old man?

Wedmore—Yes; I'm going to call him whatever my wife names him.—Boston Transcript.

PRaise AND CENSURE.

Do not rely upon praise in pushing your life work, and do not permit censure to discourage you if you know you are right.

Praise is of no use as a main-spring. Power lies outside of it, and entirely independent of it, in all truly valuable lives. Tennyson, the poet, was also the practical man when he remarked, "I think it is wisest in a man to do his work in the world as quietly and as well as he can without heeding praise or dispraise."

Special Baptismal Service.

In next Sunday evening's service at the Baptist church the pastor will give a thorough discussion of "Water Baptism" as taught by the Bible and exemplified by Jesus. At the close of this service some twenty persons will be baptized into the fellowship of the church. You are cordially invited to attend.

"THE STORE OF QUALITY" AND GOOD SERVICE

Our Competitors Wonder How We Do It

But it matters little to us as long as we satisfy the Public. It is but another proof that you get more value for your money at this store than any place in the city. Watch our advertisement every week—we have many bargains in store for you.

Specials for Saturday

Strictly fresh-laid Eggs, per dozen - 15c
The finest Loaf of Bread - 10c
Extra large fancy Oranges, per dozen 25c
Extra large fancy Grape Fruit, - 4 for 25c

We will have Fresh Lettuce, Radishes, Rhubarb, Celery
Choice Apples, Bananas

In Our Meat Department.

Fancy Picnic Hams, 11c per pound
Choice Skinned Hams whole or half, 15c per pound
Choice Bacon, strip or half, 16c per pound
Choice Young Mutton Fancy Veal

Home dressed fancy Chickens, Choice cuts of Fancy Beef
in fact anything that you may want in the line of meats.

ORDER EARLY AND AVOID THE RUSH

Watch our Windows for Display and Prices

Quality, Service and Honest Prices our Motto

We Want Live Chickens

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

Quality Service Honest Prices
WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

BUICK AUTOS

Supreme in Speed, Power and Dependability

There is no better car than the BUICK. When better cars are built—Buick will build them. Speed, power and dependability go hand in hand; you cannot have one without the other. These attributes and fuel economy are the important requisites of all motor cars. Over 170,000 Buick cars are proving every day on the road and in the automobile contests of the world that

Buick Power—Buick Endurance—and Buick Economy are the Acme of Motor Achievement

In addition to the splendid Buick qualities of the past, the 1915 models embody—New Beauty of Design—More Room—Comfort and Riding Qualities—New Driving Conveniences and More Power.

THREE MODELS—ROADSTERS AND TOURING CARS
$900.00 to $1650.00

If you are in the market for a New Car this Season, write or phone

George A. Crouter

COUNTY DISTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33. NUMBER 15

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

BUSINESS MEN WERE BANQUETED

Parlors of Congregational Church Were Filled Wednesday Evening.

First Steps Taken Toward Ushering in Brotherhood Movement Into City—75 Present.

Fully 75 men of the city gathered in the parlors of the Congregational church last Wednesday evening and assisted in ushering in the brotherhood movement as one of the activities of the city. Practically every line of business activity in the city and vicinity was represented and it was an enthusiastic and interesting group that did justice to the sumptuous banquet that had been prepared by the ladies of the church for this occasion.

The last call for supper was sounded at 7:30, and for over an hour Charlevoix's business houses and offices and business duties were ruthlessly cast aside. Following the banquet, Rev. C. E. Taggart, acting as toastmaster for the occasion, introduced the Hon. John Nicholls, Captain H. Berdan and W. H. Miller, who greeted the men as fellow citizens and co-laborers with remarks on the meaning of the gathering and its perpetuation. As the principal speaker of the evening the committee had secured Rev. Demas Cochlin, pastor of the First Congregational church of Traverse City, who spoke to the brotherhood on "The Church and Society" and also brought greetings and congratulations from his own city organization.

Rev. Mr. Cochlin is not a minister who might be called limited in his make-up. On the contrary, he is a man of many activities, the following of which have brought him into closer contact with men of the world than others of his profession. He is a fisherman, a hunter, a traveler, a pastor—all of which assisted mightily in "getting in" with those who listened to him.

In the course of his remarks Rev. Mr. Cochlin stated that religion was the sort of work men enjoyed if they were once acquainted with it and made to see its wonderful help. They are beginning to realize that it is a man's business, as well as woman's, and are showing their convictions by their very recent and enthusiastic fostering of the brotherhood movement and the other activities in the church, he said.

It was a very significant fact that the Rev. Mr. Cochlin's remarks came very close to the mark after looking over those present and realizing that the majority of the business and professional men of the community had been interested enough to attend. Such an organization is highly desirable one, not only for the benefit of the city but also it will be the beginning of a more friendly and brotherly feeling between every man in the city who is reached by its influence.

It is the admirable purpose of those who were influential in the meeting last week to perpetuate an organization in the city merely to bring the men together occasionally to discuss topics of local, state and national interest and also at times to listen to men of the outside world who have had experience by actual contact with big movements.

Another Auction Sale.

Henry Klooster will have an auction sale at the Atwood store on Wednesday, April 21, commencing at 10 o'clock sharp. Nine or ten head of horses, a number of cattle and hogs, new farm machinery, consisting of disc harrows, smoothing harrows, cultivators, land rollers, spray pump, plows, etc., will be sold to the highest bidder. The usual terms will be given. E. B. Ward will cry the sale. Adv.151f

Locates on Antrim Street.

Dr. A. F. McGreevy, D. V. M., who has recently graduated from a three year course at the Grand Rapids Veterinary College and who was announced would locate in this city, arrived last Friday and will locate at 104 Antrim street, where he has opened an office and is ready for business. Doctor McGreevy is a very agreeable young man to meet and will undoubtedly do well in this location. His announcement appears on another page.

To the Public.

The farm firm heretofore known as Meech & Armstrong has been dissolved, Dr. R. B. Armstrong purchasing all interests held by Mr. D. F. Meech. Persons owing bills to the above firm, or having accounts against them, are requested to present them to Dr. R. B. Armstrong on or before May 1st. Adv.142f

CLEAN-UP DAY

Monday, May 3rd, to be Observed Throughout the Entire State.

Let it be more than a Clean-Up Day. Let us make it a "clean-out" day—a day when we not only clean up our streets and alleys and premises, but clean out our garrets and cellars, where combustible matter has been allowed to accumulate. We spend thousands of dollars to maintain fire departments to extinguish fires and millions of dollars for insurance. Why not spend a little time and money to prevent fires? Oily rags, always the accompaniment of the painting season, produce fires. Attics, mostly unventilated, become in summer months intensely hot, and if cobwebs and dust, together with rubbish, are allowed to remain they furnish a fruitful source of spontaneous combustion. In carrying out these clean-up ideas do not leave the burning of rubbish to children.

If the taxpayers and residents of the state could be familiar with the records of the State Fire Marshal Bureau, and note that numerous lives are lost and thousands of dollars' worth of property are annually destroyed by fires started from rubbish heaps and unsanitary conditions, they would welcome the designation of clean-up day even if they had no thought of the boon to humanity through the amelioration of conditions that sap the health of the manhood, the womanhood and the childhood of the state, not to speak of the foundations of our future citizenship.

The mayors of cities, the presidents of villages and the township officers throughout Michigan are urged to bring the attention of the people of their respective communities by proclamation of the importance of the observance of MONDAY, MAY THIRD, in line with the thoughts suggested in this appeal. Action by the thousands of women's clubs in Michigan, looking to an endorsement of this idea, will be a helpful influence to make this appeal and the efforts of local and municipal authorities effective.

MEETING WAS WELL ATTENDED

Weather Conditions Did Not Stop Members from Being Present.

W. C. T. U. Had Fine Program—Conditions During Strike in Montana Outlined—Other Notes.

The meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at the home of Mrs. Geiken on the south terrace was well attended, considering the April showers.

The meeting opened with the singing of the "Invocation," which is to be a feature of the meetings hereafter. Rev. L. C. Vineyard of the Baptist church gave an instructive Bible reading, many bringing Bibles and reading the verses called for on the subject of prayer.

Mrs. Inez Krulik was elected assistant treasurer for the year. A few minutes were given to the study of the W. C. T. U. catechism, which was followed by an excellent paper on "Our Organization" by Miss Annie Metcalf. Instrumental music by the pupils of Miss Josephine Madill followed. As an encore "The Music Box" was rendered by one of the girls.

Mrs. Mosher, a visitor, gave a very interesting talk on conditions as they existed at Butte, Montana, during the strike. Mrs. Mosher spent some time in Montana. Among other things she said that Montana is the only state that has gained equal suffrage on the first ballot.

Laundry Opens April 19.

W. I. Darling announces that the Troy Laundry will open April 19 for a continuous run throughout the season, probably continuing to do business until extreme cold weather sets in late in the fall. The same prices as last fall will be charged for rough dry and flat work until the busy resort season opens. The citizens of Charlevoix are urged to patronize this home industry.

Missionary Society.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Congregational church will meet on Friday, April 16th, at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. H. Wildfield, 102 East Upright street. Topic: "The Red Man and Our Social Order." Roll call—Quotation from favorite author.

Goodyear, Firestone and DuPont tires for autos at Benj. Brown's. Adv.111f

EXAMINE YOUR APPLE TREES

And See if There is Any Evidence of the Tent Caterpillar.

Thorough Spraying While Blossoms are "in the Pink" Will Destroy Them.

The following instructions relative to the treatment of the tent caterpillar have been issued by Prof. L. R. Taft of Michigan Agricultural College:

Although it seldom does much harm in well-cared-for orchards, the tent caterpillar frequently strips the leaves from trees in orchards that are neglected and in some parts of the state becomes a very noticeable feature in the landscape during the month of June, since its gray, webby nests may literally cover the apple trees and also the wild cherry trees which are so numerous in the western and northern parts of the state.

The eggs are laid in oval masses upon the smaller twigs during the late summer and fall and the worms hatch as the new growth is starting in the spring. The larvae (caterpillars) collect in a crotch up on the branches and soon begin the spinning of a silken web, which is enlarged as the worms increase in size until it may extend along the branches for two feet; and when the number of "nests" on a tree is sufficiently large they may envelop all of the branches. The caterpillars begin feeding on the leaves and when there are several nests on a tree the foliage may be completely stripped.

Especially upon young trees it is a simple matter to remove and destroy the egg clusters, which will result in reducing the injury, but—although much can be done toward exterminating this insect by adding arsenate of lead to the lime-sulphur when spraying for the San Jose scale in the early spring—the principal reliance should be upon the applications made just before and after the blossoming of the trees. By the use of 14 to 14 gallons of commercial lime-sulphur solution and three pounds of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of water there will be no difficulty in destroying every caterpillar upon the trees. They will be very small and easily killed at the time the blossoms are "in the pink." They will be clustered in the forks of the trees and many of them will be blown to the ground and killed if a high pressure is used. If any of them escape they will be destroyed when the trees are sprayed after the blossoms have fallen and the fruit has set. If these suggestions are followed it will be possible to control the apple tree tent caterpillar without any extra expense for labor or material.

When spraying has been neglected and nothing has been done to control the insects it will often be worth while to destroy them even after the nests have become quite large and the worms are half grown. When upon small trees or upon the upper branches of large trees the nests with the worms inside can be quickly serped from the branches with a gloved hand and either crushed under foot or thrown into a pail containing a pint of kerosene and two gallons of water. The use of torches for destroying the worms and their nests often results in burning the branches and doing more harm than would be caused by the insects. A swab dipped in kerosene emulsion and fastened to the end of a pole may be used in removing the nests from the higher parts of a tree.

While this insect has been very troublesome for several years, the number of parasites is rapidly increasing and they will undoubtedly be able to keep the tent caterpillars in subjection after one or two years.

Wants Some Job.

"The following written application for work was received by a local merchant one day last week. For originality, it is the best we have seen for many a day:

"Say you got some kind working? I looking job. I do it everything. All kind of job. I like cleanest out side of houses or carpets cleanest, or split some wood. I like doing something work. I guess that's all I say."

Missed Her Courier.

Mrs. George McNally writes from Everett, Washington, to send another copy of the Courier at once, as the one sent her every week has been lost in the mails. She states that Everett is a long way from Charlevoix and the arrival of the paper is anxiously looked for each week.

LIVE STOCK AGENT NEXT

New Law Passes Legislature and is Signed by Governor.

Provides for Doing Away With Infected Herds and Kills the Germs.

House bill No. 125 has passed the house and senate with the proviso that it takes immediate effect, and has been signed by the governor. It provides for the appointment by the boards of supervisors of a live stock sanitary agent for each county, who shall be a resident of the county, the state live stock sanitary commission furnishing to the board a list of names to make selection from.

Said county agent shall hold office until his successor is appointed and shall be vested with all power to carry out the provisions of the act under the direction of the state sanitary live stock commission.

He shall receive such compensation as the board of supervisors shall determine, but in no case shall it be less than $3 per day and actual expenses. Counties having a county agricultural agent need not make this appointment, the agricultural agent taking these duties. The live stock sanitary agent provided for in the bill must each year make a report in duplicate, filing one copy with the board of supervisors and one with the state live stock sanitary commission, giving in detail all matters connected with his work for the preceding year.

From and after the taking effect of this act it shall not be lawful to use any hog cholera serum in the state except that made by the state experiment station, agricultural college or some serum manufacturing plant licensed by the United States bureau of animal industry, and the use of hog cholera virus is prohibited in this state except when used by a state veterinarian or a regular qualified veterinarian authorized by the state live stock sanitary commission or state veterinarian. All expenses connected with the administration or purchase of such serum or virus shall be borne by the owner of such infected hogs.

In case of an outbreak of hog cholera and it is deemed best by the state sanitary live stock commission or the county agent to remove any infected or exposed herds from any portion of such county, such herds may be loaded in a tight-bottom rack and conveyed to the nearest railroad station and shipped to some abattoir where federal, state or municipal inspection is maintained, there to be disposed of as deemed best for the public good, and all sums realized therefrom, less the expense, shall revert to the owner of the herd, but freight charges shall be borne by the state.

In case it is not deemed necessary to permit the shipment of such infected hogs they will still remain under the control and supervision of the state sanitary live stock commission or the county agent.

Owners of premises from which such infected hogs have been shipped or otherwise disposed of must clean all yards, pens or other enclosures in which such hogs have been kept and place the same in proper condition for disinfection by the proper authorities, the expense of the disinfection to be borne by the state.

The state sanitary live stock commission will recommend to the board of supervisors at the next meeting three veterinarians in this county from which to select a county agent.

A Shower of Roses.

The friends of Dr. A. M. Wilkinson in the Methodist church expressed their appreciation of his services last Sunday. Forty representatives of the different departments of the church presented him with an American Beauty Rose. One for each year he has lived. The pastor told of the growth of the Sunday school under the Doctor's superintendency. Mildred Eckinger sang "Give Your Flowers to the Living." The entire Sunday school with hearty applause joined in wishing this frank, fearless and forceful man forty more birthdays.

Notice to Dog Owners.

Dogs are destroying flower beds and much of the shrubbery on the Belvedere resort. Owners who value their dogs must keep them off the grounds. Orders have been given to shoot any dog found on the Belvedere resort—unless accompanied by its master.

W. H. Miller, Warden.

BOYS WERE BANQUETED

Members of Basketball Team Entertained at Home of Mrs. Nellie Cram.

As a real end to the independent basketball season in this city, the entire squad was tendered a banquet at the home of Mrs. Nellie Cram last Friday at six o'clock. To say it was a banquet would be putting it in mild terms, for, in reality, it was a banquet every course which numbered four. Charlevoix's basketball artists, however, were equal to the occasion and after the noise and smoke had rolled away (speaking in basketball terms) nothing was left but the fallen foe.

A very unique and original place-card was found at each plate and given to the boys as a remembrance of the season and the occasion, in the shape of a miniature basket and backboard on a standard containing a miniature basketball. Those present were: John Kirby, Leo Powers, W. A. Vogt, Joe Powers, A. R. Maybee, Leland Cram, Wm. A. Ewing and Ned Durance. The boys left at a late hour with the slogan "We'll come back another time."

Pioneer of North Bay.

Gottfried Brower, one of the oldest and best known farm residents of North Bay, died Friday night of last week at the home of his son, aged 78 years. He had lived in Bay township for over 30 years.

WHEAT HAS BEEN INJURED

By Various Causes During Winter is Reported Throughout State.

More Injury in Lower Peninsula Than in Upper—General Crop Conditions.

The condition of wheat on April 1st in the state and southern counties was 86; in the central and northern counties 88, and in the upper peninsula 94. The condition one year ago was 91 in the state; 92 in the southern and central counties; 90 in the northern counties, and 94 in the upper peninsula.

The average depth of snow on March 15th in the state was 1.02 inches; in the southern counties 0.07; in the central counties 0.14 of an inch; in the northern counties 1.10, and in the upper peninsula 8.97 inches.

On March 29th the average depth of snow in the state was 0.58; in the southern counties 0.06; in the central counties 0.09; in the northern counties 0.66 of an inch, and in the upper peninsula 4.88 inches.

The number of days protection to wheat by snow in the state was 5; in the southern counties 2; in the central counties 3; in the northern counties 7, and in the upper peninsula 25.

In answer to the question "Has wheat during March suffered injury from any cause?" 205 correspondents in the southern counties answered "yes" and 41 "no;" in the central counties 86 answered "yes" and 16 "no;" in the northern counties 79 answered "yes" and 37 "no;" and in the upper peninsula 5 answered "yes" and 21 "no."

The total number of bushels of wheat marketed by farmers in March at 69 flouring mills is 107,850 and at 88 elevators and grain dealers 120,015, or a total of 227,865 bushels. Of this amount 166,586 bushels were marketed in the southern four tiers of counties, 48,440 in the central counties and 12,839 in the northern counties and upper peninsula.

The estimated total number of bushels of wheat marketed in the eight months August-March is 9,250,000. 64 mills, elevators and grain dealers report no wheat marketed in March.

Rye—The average condition of rye in the state and southern counties is 90; in the central and northern counties 89, and in the upper peninsula 98. One year ago the condition in the state was 93; in the southern and central counties 94; in the northern counties 92, and in the upper peninsula 96.

Meadows—The average condition of meadows in the state is 88; in the southern counties 86; in the central counties 87; in the northern counties 91, and in the upper peninsula 98. The condition in the state one year ago was 89; in the southern counties 85; in the central counties 91; in the northern counties 92, and in the upper peninsula 95.

Live Stock—The average condition of horses and sheep in the state is 96; cattle and swine 95.

Fruit—Correspondents throughout the state are generally of the opinion that present fruit prospects are considerably above the average.

MEET AT EAST JORDAN APR. 23

Second Annual Y. M. C. A. Older Boys' Conference Next Week.

Theme to Be "Can and Will"—Delegates from Fourteen Communities Will Attend.

On April twenty-third boys will gather in East Jordan from all parts of the county as delegates to the Second Annual Older Boys' Conference, which is conducted under the auspices of the Charlevoix County Y. M. C. A. committees.

Last spring when the conference was held in Charlevoix their were delegates present from seven different communities. Registrations received to date indicate that their will be delegates from at least fourteen different localities, and also that the enrollment will exceed that of the first conference, thus indicating a healthy growth in this department of association work. All sessions of the conference excepting the banquet on Friday night will be held in the Presbyterian church and the "movies" which will take place at the East Jordan theater.

The conference will open at four o'clock on Friday with Charles Mascho, president of the first annual conference, presiding. Matters of organization will occupy the attention of the delegates at this session and G. D. Westerman, representative of the State Y. M. C. A. committee in the upper peninsula, will speak on the subject, "Why We're Here."

At six-thirty in the evening will occur the conference banquet to which the men of the county are invited. Music for the evening will be furnished by the East Jordan orchestra. A. E. Cross acting as toast master, will introduce Charles Danto, Russell Mater, R. O. Bisbee and Gerrit Masselink of Ferris Institute, as the speakers for the evening.

Following the usual custom, the Saturday forenoon session will be taken up with the presentation of papers by the delegates and the discussion will be led by Mr. Westerman. The Saturday afternoon session opens with the movies and following this the delegates will assemble at the Presbyterian church for the closing hours of the conference. E. C. Miller of South Bend, Indiana, will be the principal speaker at the closing session.

PRICES ABOUT THE SAME

Cost of Necessities Seventy-four Years Ago Were Not Low.

A lady in this city last week unearthed among the letters of her mother a bill dated January 3, 1841, or more than seventy-four years ago, which shows that the present day prices of certain commodities are not much higher than those that prevailed in 1841. Butter is the only item in which there is any great difference in price, it having then sold for 20 cents a pound, as compared to 35 to 40 cents now.

Following are some of the items named in the old bill: Five pounds butter, $1; four dozen eggs, $1; five pounds flour, 20 cents; five pounds sugar, 60 cents; nutmegs, 8 cents; cloves, 6 cents; one pound raisins, 12 cents; four pounds currants, 67 cents; one pound citron, 50 cents; two lemons, 6 cents.

Winners in Contest.

The Sub-District Contest of Oratory and Declamation was held at Kalkaska last Friday night. Oscar Bennett of East Jordan was awarded first prize, his topic being a declamation on "Regulus to the Carthaginians." Miss Nina Woodruff of Harbor Springs was the winner of the first prize in an oration on "Child Labor." Miss Helen Wilson, a daughter of former Superintendent of Schools Wilson, was a close second. Supt. Craig acted as one of the judges on delivery.

Auction Sale.

On page 2 will be found the advertisement of Frank McWain, who will hold an auction sale at his farm, one-half mile south of Maple Grove Grange Hall, on what is known as the John Brown farm, Thursday, April 22, commencing at one o'clock. E. B. Ward, auctioneer; F. A. Butler, clerk.

When spring housecleaning you will find furniture that needs to be upholstered or repaired. Let O. W. Smith do the work for you. Adv.151f

Call Us At Once

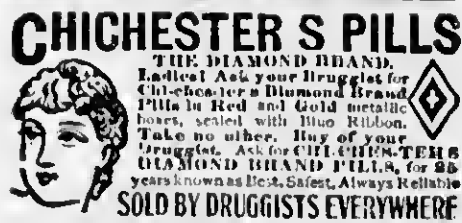

Secure the use of the BEST Suction Cleaner Made. Get your orders in early as our Bissell Cleaner will be busy. Satisfaction Guaranteed. A good time now to have your Electric Equipment, repaired and changes made. Yours for service

F. S. Bettles
214 Bridge Street

PATENTS

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or not for, sent model, sketches or photos and description for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Book references.
PATENTS BUILD FORTUNES for you. Our free booklet tells how, what to invent and how to market. Write today.
D. SWIFT & CO.
PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

DR. A. F. MCGREEVY
VETERINARY PHYSICIAN
AND SURGEON
Graduate of Grand Rapids Veterinary College. Office at 104 Antrim Street.
Phone 121 Charlevoix, Michigan

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block Charlevoix, Mich.

ISLE SHANAHAN
Attorney at Law
Bank Block Charlevoix, Mich.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 108 Charlevoix, Mich.

J. MILO EATON
Law, Real Estate and Investments
Collections Established 1875

DR. J. A. AULI
Dentist
Office in VanPelt Building
Over Levinson's Store
Phone 139 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. KETTERTON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience
Napsand Plans on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE Charlevoix, Mich.

R. B. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 253 Charlevoix, Mich.

DR. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 6 Charlevoix, Mich.

Describing "Har."
"Homely, is she?"
"My dear girl, she's so homely that amateur photographers flatter her."

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. Zudora and the fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $200,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene Zudora's mother's brother. Zudora, giving promise of great beauty, reaches the age of eighteen. The uncle, who has set himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassan Ali, decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassan Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassan Ali, "if you take such a stand I'll compromise. Solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fall in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora, using the knowledge gained from years of association with her uncle, unravels a baffling mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder.

Zudora and Hassan Ali visit Nabok Shan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora foils Nabok Shan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A mark of diamonds tells Hassan Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassan Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond making gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mice.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are feeling because a great skeleton hand appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's interests. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by him. Storm opportunely appears and saves her from Bolton.

Hassan Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns in her hand. An old house is named by Hassan Ali and the old men. Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up.

John McWint, endeavoring to trip and kill George Smith, is killed himself, and Smith is charged with murder. Hassan Ali conspires to have John Storm meet the same fate as McWint, and he and Storm are overcome by powerful fumes. Zudora saves them, proves that McWint's own dog trapped and killed him and saves Smith from a band of lynchmen.

An inventor blows up a submarine with a powerful heat ray which he sends through water. Hassan Ali sends Zudora to a photographer directly beneath the inventor's laboratory and orders the inventor to kill her. Zudora gets a warning, and her life is saved. The heat ray machine is destroyed, and the photographer, after a quarrel with Hassan Ali, is found dead in the river.

Wu Chang prevents Zudora's elopement with John Storm by hypnotizing her, and he and Hassan Ali attempt to smuggle her out of the country. This plot is frustrated by Storm.

Baird, Hassan Ali's double, falls in love with Zudora. Baird and Mme. Du Val kidnap Zudora and the Van Wick child. Storm rescues them, and Hassan Ali dies.

With Hassan Ali dead Zudora is released of her pledge to solve twenty cases. She confronts, however, the greatest mystery of all, which is the mystery of her own life, and the ambition to secure the vast fortune of $200,000 left to her. Her remarkable adventures will be portrayed by Harold McGrath in the succeeding chapters. This photo serial is being shown in the leading movie picture theaters of the Thimblehouse Film Corporation. Among those participating are Marguerite Snow, Mary Elizabeth Forbes, James Cruz, In the new role of reporter-hero, Sidney Bracey and Frank Farrington.

On looking through her uncle's papers Zudora finds that her father left her an interest in a diamond mine, and Storm and Baird both lend assistance in trying to regain for her possession of this estate which is being appropriated by rogues.

CHAPTER XI.

A Message From the Heart.
STORM was deeply concerned over the diamond affair. Some one had cheated and was still cheating Zudora. He was also puzzled why Hassan Ali's papers contained no will of his.

He made a journey to all the banks but at none of them did he find that the uncle had had an account or a lock box.

There was no doubt in his mind that the villainous servant Amed had made off with what money Hassan Ali had around the house.

But there was this diamond mine. Who was manipulating it and pocketing the profits? He was in a blind alley.

To find out where this diamond mine was would be like hunting the proverbial needle in the haystack. He was working all the wires he could but to date he had not discovered any thing.

"Zudora," said Storm, "I've got something to cheer you up a bit."
"News?"
"No. That's an article as elusive as a New Jersey mosquito." He took from his pocket a small box and opened it.
"Oh, how pretty!" she exclaimed. "It's an engagement bracelet."
"I wish it was a wedding ring. Why not?" impulsively. "You are all alone now. You haven't any bargain to fail at. Why can't you marry me right away, Zudora? I'm not rich, but I have a little—enough for our needs. I'll buy some pretty little things for you around Long Island, and we'll live in a couple of little story houses."

"No, John. There seems to be an evil star of some sort hanging over me. Look what I've gone through!"

"But you've gone through it, and if you had what you call an evil star I don't think you would be here. Let's get married."

"No, I don't want to hurt you, John, but I feel oppressed. I feel as if some danger were hovering near me. I've lost some of that confidence I had when Uncle Frank was alive. And, dear, I don't want to drag you into it."

"That's nonsense. When a man loves a woman as I love you, why shouldn't he share trouble and happiness alike? I never liked your uncle, Zudora. And I still hold to this day that he was your evil star, if you had one."

"John!"

"I know—you shouldn't speak ill of the dead. I never could get the idea out of my head that he was in some way connected with your narrow escapes. What he had in mind I don't know, nor can I figure out what he had in view. You won't marry me, then?"

"Not while I feel as I do, John."

"I suppose I'll have to grin and bear it," he said with an assumption of Mme. Du Val Sat in the Salon Playing the Harp.

cheerfulness. "Now this burnt scrap of paper comes back, like the cat. Lots of letters weren't touched, but this one particular piece had to be damaged by fire. A mine of diamonds, but in heaven's name, where?"

"Perhaps I'd better put the whole thing out of my thoughts. It does look impossible. But never doubt that I love you, John."

"I don't doubt it. What I doubt is the wisdom of your trying to go this thing alone."

"It is written," lightly. "After all I'm something of an orientalist. What will be will be. Now talk to me about how you first came to love me. There are some things a woman never tells of, and that's one of them."

That was an easy matter for John. And Captain Radcliffe was making love, too, but not so successfully that he could hear any wedding bells in fancy.

Mme. Du Val sat in the salon playing the harp. She had a cynical humor. She believed that she might better play the harp here on earth than risk the chance of not playing one in the hereafter.

The captain crept up behind her softly and sprinkled a handful of rose leaves over her handsome head. She simply shrugged and went on with her playing.

Some cats like to be fondled. Mme. Du Val belonged to that category which did not.

"You've spoiled a rose," he said, trying to take her hands from the strings.

"You bother me! I am not only playing; I am thinking. And there's a good deal to think about since we saw that booklet. I'm wondering how to get rid of that girl. She isn't Hassan Ali's niece for nothing. She is shrewd, and so far as she is concerned we must walk carefully when we come into contact with her. Now, captain, I am not in the mood for love scenes. If you please."

"You drive me crazy sometimes!"

"I return the compliment. There goes the bell."

"Hang the bell!" he growled. He was not pleased to see the visitors, two men of his own class, but business was business.

He eyed Mme. Du Val covertly. She did not appear to exhibit any particular regret at the interruption.

As a matter of fact, the sight of her visitor relieved her.

Radcliffe was a persistent wooer, and rebuffs seemed to have no other effect than to redouble his ardor.

She ordered the footman to take away the harp and bring the cards and cord tables.

"While we wait," she said, "we might as well while away the time pleasantly."

The fountain tickled as usual. From time to time Mme. Du Val sent a glance toward it.

All at once the jet of water flew at a tangent. Radcliffe rose and touched the knob, lifting the panel which disclosed the secret elevator.

Three burly visaged men stepped into the room, blinking after their long harrow through the dark tunnels.

One of them was dressed in the flashy manner so dear to our native product—the gun man.

His name was Gyp, and though he was not aware of it, he was on the short road to a certain uneven chair.

There was something in his eyes that reminded you of the hyena. But a trained hyena has a marketable quality.

"Ike," said Radcliffe, "when you enter this house take off your hat. The next time I'll shut it down over your lamps."

"All right, cap. Th' light blinds me when I comes in here, an' I forget. Well, we're ready."

Mme. Du Val shrugged and crossed over to the gem vault. She displayed these tools, but in crime one has to take what tools one can.

And there was always the possibility of these low brutes speaking incautiously during some drinking bout.

She brought the little box of gems back. Then Radcliffe drew the sign on a piece of paper—a heart with a dagger running through it.

This was a kind of key that would open a certain door. The initials of each were then written within the heart, which was surrendered to Gyp.

This sort of business was after his own heart. He did not like directness except when he struck, after the fashion of his prototype, the rattlesnake.

About that same hour, half after 8, Detective Hunt was going carefully over a package of partly burnt letters, those rescued from Hassan Ali's house before the fire got beyond control.

He was studying each bit of paper with scrupulous care. The door opened. He looked up impatiently.

"Oh, Storm! Come in! Interesting work here, but I haven't found anything worth a wooden toothpick."

"I want you to look at this, Hunt," said Storm, producing the burnt piece he had shown Zudora that afternoon.

"Hunt! Where did you find it?"

"In the cellar of the burnt house."

"Uhuh." He searched it thoroughly under his magnifying glass. "Haven't come across any water to it. Come! Dig into these and see what you can find."

By and by he came upon a half burnt letter that made him sit up with a jerk. Then he laughed shortly. "Mme. Du."

Radcliffe Was a Persistent Wooer.

John, did Hassan Ali know a woman by the name of Mme. Du?

"Mme. Du? Not that I'm aware of, but he knew a Mme. Du Val."

"Ah, I see!" Then the detective stacked those letters he had gone through and picked up his pipe. "Never did realize that Hassan Ali. Those scraps of paper prove to me that makes me the most credulous person in the world."

(Continued on page 6.)

This Man Wants a Majestic Range

Is through with buying of Chicago Mail Order Houses. His experience has been the same as many others who have been stung in the same manner. Read what he says about the Majestic.

Charlevoix, Mich., March 20, 1915.

Majestic Stove Co.
St. Louis, Missouri

Dear Sir:

Send me the price list of the Majestic Ranges and the name of the firm who handles them in Charlevoix county.

I moved to Charlevoix the first of March and bought a cast range from Montgomery Ward.

But the range is not very satisfactory so I will have to dispose of it to someone, and would like to get a Majestic.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
AXEL TULANE.

Charlevoix, R. F. D. No. 3.

This man, along with hundreds of others has come to the conclusion that mail order ranges are no good, and pledges his faith in the Majestic. He knew the Majestic, and for this reason, wants to buy another. This is the sentiment expressed by 99 out of a hundred Majestic users. It is the stove that gives universal satisfaction, and the one you should buy when replacing the old, worn out range you are now using. Call at our store and see them.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

THE FARMER'S FINANCIAL ADVISOR

We say frankly to the farmers of this community, "We want your accounts." Not simply because they will swell our deposits, but because the Charlevoix County Bank is an institution where the farmer and his financial problems are really understood, and where intelligent co-operation is offered him.

Let us become your banker and friend, and together we will establish a financial understanding between us that will result to your lasting profit.

The Old Reliable

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Huttars A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

AUTOMOBILE AND

General Repair Shop

At the CHARLEVOIX GARAGE, 111 Antrim street. We will be prepared to do

REPAIRING OF ALL KINDS

both to Automobiles and General Repair Work.

We will also handle the

Mesnard Self-starters

S. & K. Tire Filler

Automobile Accessories

Machinery will be installed which will enable us to do any repair work in a most satisfactory manner.

Cars Stored, Overhauled and Repainted
Seven Passenger Car For Hire

Charlevoix Garage

Mesnard & Jacobs

Phone 100f2

111 Antrim Street

Spring House Cleaning

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Going to Paper, Paint or Kalsomine? Which-ever it may be, we can furnish the material.

For a Flat Wall Paint VELUMINA is the finest paint made. It covers more surface, doing a good job, than any other Flat Wall Paint on the market. Try it, and if used according to directions, and is not satisfactory, it costs you nothing. Isn't that FAIR?

HYGIENIC KALSOMINE is so well known that it needs no praise from us. It has sung its own praise among our customers for the past four or five years.

Our stock of WALL PAPER is very complete and to those who intend to paper their walls, we offer the best at the Lowest Price.

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Housefurnishers

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year..... $1.50
One copy, six months..... .75
One copy, three months..... .40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule.
Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates.
Obituary notices, regular rates.
Card of thanks, 2 cents

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

SPRING is here and the city is strewn with ash heaps, rubbish, uncleaned out-houses and other eyesores and menaces to the public health. The city is amply provided with ordinances to compel property owners to clean up and it is hoped for the good of the city that it will not be necessary for the authorities to enforce these laws. The majority of people are willing to co-operate with the authorities in making the city a clean and fit place in which to live and enjoy a summer free from contaminating influences, but there are a few whose citizenship is at such low ebb that they cannot appreciate the necessity of doing anything in the way of improving the sanitary condition of their premises. The best advertising that is possible for a city is a clean appearance and healthful conditions. Charlevoix has always had a reputation of being a clean, healthful summer resort and it is to the interest of every citizen that this reputation be maintained each year. Monday, May 3rd, has been set aside throughout the state as Clean-up Day. Do not wait until this date, but begin to put your premises in a sanitary condition at once.

The fact that a man walks into a garage and asks the price of costly machines does not necessarily prove that the grocer can collect a bill of $12.98 from him for supplies.

"FISH"

We know you will buy where you can get the most and best for your money.

We Catch Our Own FISH

therefore you save the middle-man's profits. Located three doors east of X L Creamery, Belvedere Ave.

All Standing Orders Delivered

H. L. BRADY & SON
Belvedere Avenue

SITE FOR CITY'S GAS SUPPLY

Plants Should Be Located on a Water Front.

INCREASED USE AS FUEL.

Demand Today is For Gas Having as High a Caloric or Heating Value as Possible as Well as a High Illuminating Value—Change Because of Increased Use For Cooking and in Arts.

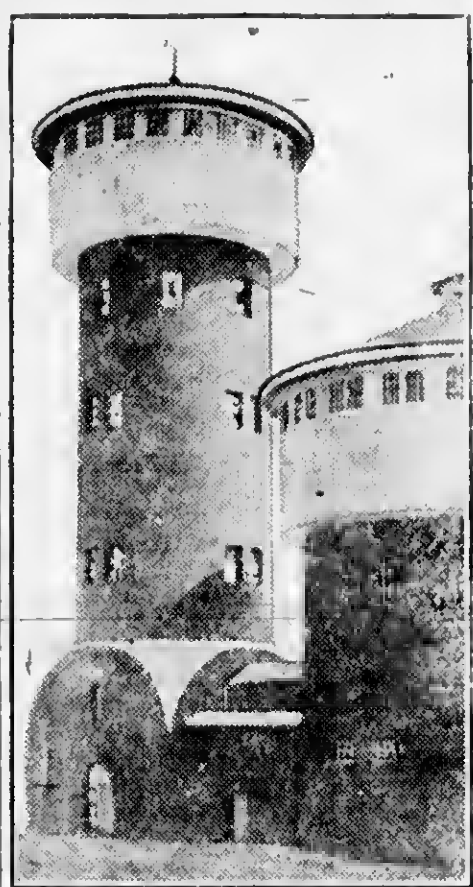

[By Frank Koester, consulting civil engineer.]

Gas, one of the oldest of modern street lighting systems, although long pressed by the advance of electricity, has reached a point beyond which it is not likely to be driven. This is principally due to the fact that great inventions have been made, producing a marked improvement in the brilliancy of gas lighting, and to the development of the use of gas for heating.

As in the case of steam power plants, gas plants should be located on a water front.

Owing to the great size of the holders, gas plants have never been made acceptable in an architectural sense, and they should therefore be located in the outskirts of the city or in factory districts where their ugliness will not be so noticeable. If this is not feasible they should be painted a silver or white color instead of the usual red to render them less conspicuous.

The demand today is for a gas having as high a caloric or heating value as possible as well as a high illuminating value, where a few years ago the demand was principally for illuminating power. This change has been brought about by the increased use of gas for cooking and in the arts. Coal gas should have a heating value of not less than 550 British thermal units per cubic foot, while water gas is usually higher. In many towns a combination of coal gas and water gas is used. For instance, in New York, where this plan is adopted, recent tests showed an average of 7502 British thermal units and an average illuminating power of 288 candlepower.

MUNICIPAL GAS WORKS, FRANKFORT-ON-THAMES.

Water gas is produced by the decomposition of steam in contact with incandescent carbon. The process consists in alternate "blows" with air to heat the fuel and "runs" with steam which is decomposed by the incandescent fuel, continuing to form water gas until the temperature becomes too low, necessitating another period of heating.

In the carburized water gas process the fuel in the generator is burned by the air blast only to a sufficient degree of heat to form principally carbon monoxide. Another process much in vogue in Europe produces about twice as much water gas for the same amount of fuel. In this process the volume of air during the blows is so proportioned to the bed of fuel and the apparatus is so designed that instead of carbon monoxide carbon dioxide is formed, developing three times the heat from the fuel that is developed when it is burned only to carbon monoxide. In this process coke is therefore converted into water gas with a minimum of economy, transferring to the gas about 70 per cent of the heating value of the fuel.

It is the practice abroad to use seamless welded steel tubing for the distributing mains instead of cast iron pipe. The steel pipes have for gas mains the advantages similar to the use of steel pipes for water mains, already pointed out. They are lighter in weight, easier to handle, have fewer joints, are not subject to breakage and when laid are free from leakage, besides lasting longer.

What has been said about the general arrangement of water mains and by-passing is equally applicable to gas mains in order to prevent leakage and incase of a fire. When gas pipes enter buildings they should be accessible cut-off valves so that in case of fire the fire department can cut off the gas for that particular building.

Buy Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown, Adv. 711

Men's Suits

We are showing some exceptional values in Men's Suits for Spring and Summer.

Men's All Wool Suits, Plain $10 $12 $15
Black and Blue Serge

Men's All Wool Suits, $10 $12 $15 checked or fancy weave

Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits
$18 to $25

If you have not worn one of these suits, we urge you to try now---you will never regret it.

GO TO -- Levinson's --Get the Habit

Mr. Farmer

Are You Ready For Your Spring Work?

Did a Spring ever come when you did not need a new Plow, Drag, Disc Harrow, Cultivator or other Farm Tool? New Farm Implements are needed every spring and I want to call your attention to the line I carry.

McCormick and Ohio Rake Co's. Disc and Spring-tooth Harrows and Pivot Axle Riding Cultivators

Parker, Syracuse, Bryan and LeRoy Plows, Empire Grain Drills and other Farm Tools.

I also have the agency for the Kraus Cultivator, considered to be one of the best on the market. If there is anything you want, and I do not happen to have it in stock, I will get it for you. You cannot get better prices than I will give you. When you come to town, call and see me and we will talk about your needs.

Farm Implements Charles J. Zeitler With Benj. Brown

MASON'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Cash Bargains for APRIL 15-16-17

25 lbs Producer Flour . 95c
98 lbs. Producer Flour $3.75
Bbl Producer Flour - $7.50
Producer Flour is made from the best quality Spring Wheat, in the best up-to-date mill in the United States.
90 to 95 lbs. Bulk Flour $1.75 sk
LAST LOW PRICE ON ORANGES
Oranges, 126's, dozen - 29c
Oranges, 200's, dozen - 19c
Large Grape Fruit . 6c
Bananas, dozen . 25c
Onions (growing some) from 15c per bushel to 50c per bushel according to quality
12 lbs. good Onions . 15c

Picnic Hams, per pound . 11c
Bacon, per pound . 16c
2 lbs. Peanut Butter . 25c
A large jar Olives . 25c
1 dozen Clothes Pins . 1c
2 large boxes Toothpicks . 5c
3 boxes 5c Ohio Matches . 10c
JUNG'S OUTING SHOES
No. 9240 Little Gents - $1.50
No. 5112 Youths - $1.65
No. 4112 Boys - $1.75
No. 3113 Men's - $2.00

All-Aboard Chestnut Specials

A well known senator relates an argument which occurred between two friends of his, a physician and a lawyer, over the relative merits of their respective professions. "I don't say all lawyers are crooks," said the doctor, "but you'll have to admit that your profession doesn't make angels of men." "No," responded the lawyer, suppressing a smile; "you doctors certainly have the best of us there."

An East Jordan man received this telegram from Chicago, signed "Kitchen-ener": "The Germans have taken pill-sener and are now surrounding delicatessen, where the worst is expected. The Belgian hares have had a falling out with the Welsh rabbits, and the Swiss cheese is shot full of holes. This will make the Irish stew and the English mustard hot. If the Russian czar sees the French pastry it may start a Swiss movement watch. The Spanish onions are strong for a mix-up and if the home preserves are called out and spread over German noodles they may ketchup with navy beans, thereby causing an uprising of Brussels sprouts."

A woman's curiosity beat her out of a new spring hat. A young wife saw her husband carefully fold a piece of paper and put it in the farthest corner of a drawer in the library table, and the fact that he seemed ill at ease aroused her curiosity greatly. "What's that, dear?" she asked. "Oh, nothing," he replied, trying hard not to smile. Still she wondered what it was and reasoned with herself that, as he had said it was nothing of importance, she would look at it, and she did at the first opportunity. This is what she found scribbled on the sheet of paper: "I'll bet you a new spring hat your curiosity will not permit you to leave this alone." How could she claim the hat without giving herself away?

Pure Maple Syrup, $1.40 per gallon - B. W. Miller, Adv. 1511

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement, also the various orders and friends who sent such beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Tim Smith.
Mr. and Mrs. John Withers.
Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Wilson.
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith.

Harness at the cost of the material in them. Just a few set Benjamin Brown, Adv. 711

New American POULTRY AND RABBIT FENCE

This Fence, as now made, is without doubt the best on the market, adequate for all requirements in fencing against poultry, large and small.

Stay wires 6 inches apart. Spacing from 1 1/4 inches at the bottom to 5 inches at the top.

We stock this fence in 10 rod rolls, 48 and 58 inches in height. At the price we sell this heavy fence, you cannot afford to buy the light, flimsy wire netting.

CHARLEVOIX HARDWARE CO.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Additional Locals on Page 8.

J. W. Colden of Clarion was a business visitor in the city last Thursday.

Mrs. Jas. Sanford returned Wednesday from a ten day visit to Detroit and Monroe.

Mrs. Robert Withers, who has been seriously ill with the grippe, is able to be out again.

Mrs. Frank Geiken of Pellston is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geik C. Geiken.

John Adams and Karl Korth have returned from the west, where they spent the winter.

Captain George Jepson of the steamer Hum was in the city a few days last week on business.

Wood Brothers are busily engaged in fitting out their new headquarters in the See block, prior to opening.

J. R. Meade returned the latter part of the week from Alma, where he spent the winter at the Masonic home.

Miss Kathryn LaPeer of Petoskey spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. LaPeer.

W. J. Gallagher of Saint James has been in the city the past four days on business and greeting old friends.

Mrs. E. R. VanLeuvan and little son, Benton, returned Saturday from Otsego, where they spent the winter with relatives.

City Treasurer Cook has moved from his winter quarters in the Denton house on Clinton street to his home on Mason street.

The store fronts of Floyd S. Bettes, electrical supplies, and S. M. Rose, barber shop, are being given a new coat of paint, which, when finished, will add greatly to the appearance of the buildings.

William Finucan, Jr., left Tuesday morning for Cheboygon, where he will take charge of the business of the Booth Fisheries.

Mrs. R. A. Emrey and little son, Winfield, leave Monday for Ann Arbor, where Winfield will receive treatment at the hospital.

Benjamin Brown has taken the sub-agency for the Overland automobile. This makes three auto agencies, besides motorcycles and bicycles.

There has been quite a flurry in potatoes the past week, due to bad roads. Buyers are taking all immediate delivery stuff, but are shy of future stuff.

Superintendent H. A. Craig was in Kalkaska Friday night, where he acted as one of the judges of delivery in the Sub-District Contest in Oratory and Declamation.

The first boat of the season for Northern Michigan points will leave Chicago April 15th, making all points along the line. It is expected the steamer Illinois will make the trip.

W. L. Darling and wife, who have been spending the winter at Central Lake, have returned and are busy getting the Troy Laundry open and ready for the season's run.

Work was started Monday on replacing the old front of the stores occupied by the McCann bakery and Kenning's millinery store with a modern one, which will be built out to the street line. The property is owned by Charles Novak.

The three days of windy, cold weather ended Tuesday morning. Regardless of the fact that during the day the sun shines warm and bright, a thin coat of ice is usually found on Round Lake and at times a short distance out on Lake Michigan.

Mrs. Ray Ashdon returned Saturday from Hillyard, Washington, where she was called some time ago by the illness and death of her mother. She was accompanied home by her sister, Mrs. Henry Summers, who will visit at their home for some time.

May 1st comes on Saturday this year, but despite the fact that Saturday is usually a very busy day, commercially speaking, a number of our business and professional men are planning on making their annual trip to the many trout streams of Northern Michigan.

The following students from Charlevoix attending the University of Michigan arrived home the latter part of the week to spend their ten days vacation: Paul Harsha, Dean Scroggie, William Mitchell, Loren Hart, Robert Bridge, Lynn Thomas, Hugo Hampton, Percy Crane, Harry Alcock and Miss Marion Saunders.

The attention of the readers of the Courier is called to the number of money-saving bargains offered in the advertisements of C. Danto & Son, A. E. Mason, L. E. Crandell, Charles J. Zeidler, J. L. Crane, C. L. Gonser, M. A. Levinson & Co. and others. The Argo Milling Co.'s ad, reminds you of the fact that Iron Duke flour is the kind to use. The F. S. Blanchard Estate tells of the merits of the Majestic range. Read every ad.—it means a great deal to the careful buyer.

L. E. Crandell will give an extra pound of sugar with every 25 cents worth bought. See adv. on page 8.—Adv. 151l

No More Premiums Given.

The undersigned merchants of Charlevoix will discontinue the giving of premiums, trading stamps or gifts of any kind whatsoever on and after May 15, 1915:

C. Danto & Son Benjamin Brown
M. A. Levinson & Co. S. M. See & Sons
J. L. Crane Martin Block
H. Bedford Mrs. B. W. Miller
A. E. Mason.

Stamps, books, coupons or premiums will be redeemed on or before June 15, 1915.

You can have your silverware replated in pure silver and hand burnished at the Electro Plating Works, 103 Clinton street.—Adv. 151l.

Concert Postponed.

The funny concert at the Baptist church is postponed to Wednesday evening, April 21st. Tickets—25 cents for adults; 10 cents for children ten years and under. If you expect to attend, you had better buy early. You can't afford to miss it. Time, 7:30 p. m. A cafeteria tea will be served in the church parlors from 5:30 to starting of concert. Your supper will cost in proportion to what you eat. You are invited to come out for the supper and concert and let all have a good evening together.

Sunday Special—Lamphear's Ice Cream, Pineapple flavor, 25 cents per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv. 151f.

Must File Cost of Election.

Every candidate at the recent election—whether state, county, township or municipal—must file with the county clerk within twenty days after said election a detailed account of the money received and disbursed in the campaign. This law also applies to every treasurer of a political committee, and no person not a candidate can spend any money for campaign purposes except through a committee or a treasurer. A fine of not over $1,000 or not exceeding two years in jail can be imposed for violations of this law.

New samples for upholstering furniture at O. W. Smith's. All kinds of repair work done. Adv. 151l Smokeless Breakfast Bacon.

Try cooking your breakfast bacon on a plate in the oven. This does away with all smoke and burnt grease smell in the kitchen, and the bacon is uniformly crisp. It may be cooked two layers deep if you will turn it once while cooking. One layer needs no turning. The fat from this is white and can be used for all baking. With half the amount of butter it is good even for cakes.—Washington Herald.

Highly Flattered.

"Your glasses," she said, "have made a great difference in your appearance." "Do you think so?" he asked. "Yes. You look so intelligent with them on."—Chicago Herald.

Ruling Passion.

Lawyer's Wife (2 a m.) John, there's a beautiful downstairs. Lawyer—Ask him if he's got $20 with him. I won't bother with him for less.—Chicago News.

Got Full Description.

Dyer (Hilchew) was one of the best men that ever lived. Dyer—How do you know? Dyer—I married his widow.—Town Topics

MUNICIPAL ALTRUISM.

Of the benefit to a city or town of competently directed commercial organization, effort there can be no question. Commercial organization has proved its efficiency, its value and its positive necessity for every town and city in the United States.

Now, however, the time has come when the more rural districts of the country are realizing that a wide co-operation is necessary in order that the farmer, the merchant and the manufacturer may be drawn into a closer bond of union for their mutual advantage.

When the time comes that we can see the small country town working unselfishly for the success of its neighboring community we shall indeed have reached an ideal state of organized effort.

Not the unselfishness of the small town entirely unrewarded, for the additional prosperity of its neighbor is bound to filter back through innumerable channels to the town that has sacrificed an immediate advantage to the spirit of helpfulness.—Town Development Magazine.

I want to sell you the best line of Overalls and Jackets. Benj. Brown. Adv. 81l

Luna and the Tides.

There is little room for doubt about the theory that the tides are due to the moon's action upon the surface of the water. Of course there are other influences—the sun, for instance, exercising no mean force upon the tides—but the chief influence is attributable to the moon. To be sure, there is hardly any theory that is not objected to by somebody, but the theory that tidal action is due mainly to the pull of Luna may be accepted "without a reasonable doubt."—New York American.

Do not throw money away, but see my harness before you buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

Are you a subscriber for the Courier? If not, why not?

COURIER BARGAIN COLUMN

Wants, For Sale, To Rent, Lost and Found, etc.

Advertisements under this head 1 cent per word, first insertion—half rates for each week thereafter. No adv. less than 15c per insertion.

WANTED—Straw and Hay Argo Milling Co. 131f

WANTED—to Rent or buy, small house on north side. Phone 170. 141f

FOR SALE—Small pigs five weeks old—W. J. Meggison, near Ironton. 151f—pd

FOR SALE, cheap for cash or on time—A good work horse, weight 1200—Charles Pierce, Route 2. 121f

WANTED—Man to take charge of dairy herd and do farm work. Wm. Withers, Phone 973r. 142pd

FOR SALE—A good wagon and double box. Good set heavy brass-mounted harness. Albert Lindsay, Route 2. 151f—pd

FOR SALE—64 acres, all improved, 3 1/2 miles south of Charlevoix; good soil, buildings, small orchard. Terms right. Mrs. L. N. Pulcifer, Route 2, Charlevoix, Michigan. 81f

J. L. Crane

SPECIAL VALUES IN MEN'S SHIRTS

Spring 1915 Patterns

Perfect fitting "Red Top" Men's. Shirts. A brand of Shirts which have gained a name for fit and quality in 25 years of success. Made of 100 count Madras shirtings in modest stripe patterns. Cuffs Attached.

Compare with any $1.50 Shirt in the market to give you an idea of the real value

Our Price 95c
ALL SIZES

More and more every day Ford cars grow in general demand. Their great usefulness is part of the daily life of all the people; though giving universal service with universal economy—less than two cents a mile to operate and maintain.

So simple in design that anyone can drive it—no bewildering mechanism—the Ford owner looks after his car himself. Then there's the "Ford After Service for Ford Owners," assuring the daily use of the car.

Buyers of Ford cars will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.

Touring Car $490; Runabout $440; Town Car $690; Coupelet $750; Sedan $975, completely equipped, f. o. b. Detroit. On display and sale by

A. L. Hart & Son

Now
they're perfect!
The Trade Mark that identifies the world's best hosiery

Special-Saturday, April 17-Special

To introduce the new Spring and Summer Styles of Black Cat Hose we will sell

$1.00 Hose for	89c
50c Hose for	39c
35c Hose for	29c
25c Hose for	19c
15c Hose for	12 1/2c
10c Hose for	8c

Mason's Dep'tment Store

Just Use Your Head and

IRON DUKE FLOUR

What This Woman Can Do You Can Do

Argo Milling Co.
Manufacturers

(Continued from page 3.)

"What do you mean by that?"

"Well, he seemed to know some of the biggest in the country, and they always went to him when in doubt. Evidently thought he could look into the future and tell them whether they'd go to jail or not. Crooks are peculiar people, believe me, boy. Now let's go out and get a bite somewhere. I've been cramped up in this cubicle since 8 this afternoon."

"Nothing about the diamonds?"

"Not an eyelash. But there's a vague mention of a couple of tons of gold."

"What?"

"Gold. But whose it is or where it is, nix. Shop's closed for the night. But there's one thing. There's some fancy diamond smuggling going on and some fancy diamond cutting besides. And your Uncle Dudley's going to nab 'em one of these days."

And that fancy diamond cutter him self was wondering how long this soft snip was going to last.

To take a known diamond and make it an unknown one was the main trick of his present occupation.

It was good money and little danger so far as he was concerned.

His room was in a garret in a partially deserted tenement. He was rarely disturbed by any one but the janitor, who was old and nearsighted and did not care what his tenant's business was so long as the rent was paid in advance.

All about was the expert cutter's machinery and paraphernalia. The door had a heavy bar and chain lock.

Hidden in the wall was a small safe. Here he kept his gems and "chips," for a diamond cutter knows the value of "chips."

The cutter himself was rather a drowsy looking old chap. He wore a greasy old broadcloth dressing gown and eyeglasses which resembled the chauffeur's goggles.

He finished polishing a stone, locked it up and left the room. In the hall outside this den was a dumb waiter. From this he took a can of oil and returned.

He filled the lamp and lit it, then sat down and smoked his pipe in the attitude of waiting for some one.

At 9 three men arrived at the door of the tenement. They stood idly in the doorway for a minute, then ducked inside.

But Jim Baird, who had been following them steadily for an hour or more, was quite confident that somewhere in yonder tenement was the wonderful croak diamond cutter he had so often heard about during his masquerade as Hassam All.

What a chance there had been for real honest money in that old inventor of diamonds whose shop had been back of the cheese makers! But he had to go and die.

Baird did not thrill pleasantly at the sight of the gun man called Gyp. He had already in his capacity as reporter run up against that murderous scoundrel, and Gyp had sworn he'd "get him."

He looked about, wishing to give the rogues plenty of time. What he wanted was a good look at the diamond cutter's shop.

He had no chance in the three crooks who had shown him the way here. Two of them had bent him up but more than a fortnight gone, so he was perfectly willing to keep out of their way.

The crooks climbed the three flights of rickety, creaking stairs until they came to the lapidary's door.

The gun man used the knocker. With his machine hammering the cutter could not hear the sound of ordinary knuckles.

Gyp rapped three times and then shoved aside the knocker, revealing a small hole.

He pressed through a slip of paper—the same Mue, Du Val had given him—and waited.

Presently the door opened—after a slithering of steel bars and clinking of chains.

"Got some candy for yuh, ol' gamout," said Gyp cheerfully. "You know who sent 'em. Seven shir' limes, umzda power. Take a tooth of a currit off each. Them's th' orders."

"An' I keeps th' chips."

"Sure! Gimme a receipt. They love me, but they don't trust me, an' I ain't wantin' to make th' tide any higher in East river when she rolls in 'morrow."

"Then there's some one you're afraid of?"

"Sorest thing, ho?"

"Hand 'em over. An' say, start 'er up. I never seen a diamond nicker down."

"Jus' to please the ladies," cried the lapidary, going to his machine.

It took a long time for his friends to come down, thought Baird. Finally he determined to risk meeting them.

He entered the building and tiptoed up the stairs. The hum of machinery caught his ear, and he knew that he need not go any farther.

He tried the doorknob, but only half heartedly. Such a door would never be unlocked.

Then he heard voices. All were there yet. If he could but find a rope!

He peeked into the dumb waiter and found an uncoiled coil of manila hemp on the top of it. Just what he wanted.

Next he hunted around for the scuttle ladder and crept up on to the roof. He tied the rope to a chimney and gently lowered himself down to the lapidary's window.

Nothing doing there. Blinds were closed. He could see four men, but could not distinguish any features.

And what he wanted most of all was one good look at the man who paroled fortunes from diamonds, as it were. He wanted this knowledge keenly.

Ah, he was turning! The light was striking in his face. Baird drew himself up quickly, regained the hall and stole down the street.

Before the Window Appeared the Ghostly Form of a Woman.

have Mr. Storm come over in the morning, and we'll let him think that I have been badly frightened. He'll go hunting around; he'll tell Detective Hunt, and maybe I'll find out who did it and why they did it."

Storm, however, appeared rather skeptical about the ghost proposition.

"Some one's been hoaxing you."

"For what purpose?"

"That remains to be found out. Suppose we run down to Hunt's office and see what he has to say. He's a sensible chap."

Zudora readily agreed to this. Storm called up the detective, who replied that he would await their coming.

When Zudora told him about the room he did not laugh, as she expected he would. He began peeling the onion. After a while he spoke.

"Do you want my honest opinion?"

"Surely."

"Well, some one wants to get you to run away. And what some one would this be?"

Zudora thought for a moment. "Some one who knows about the diamonds," with sudden excitement.

"Right-o! At least that's my opinion. We're getting warm. Africa is farther away than New York. The secret may be right here in this little old burg itself. Play up to it. Some one will be watching you, and your game will be to let them believe they've got you scared. Confidence in crooks always breeds eagerness."

"That is my opinion," said Zudora.

"You ought to know. Why don't you set yourself to the job yourself?" asked the detective curiously.

"The truth is, Mr. Hunt, I've really lost my grip since my uncle died. I seem to be oppressed all the time. I jump when I hear unexpected noises; I find I'm always looking over my shoulder."

"For what?"

"If I knew that I could face it with out the least difficulty. It's the unknown that rips on the nerves. I, who until recently never knew what nerves were."

"Well, whatever game your enemies are playing you know your cards and see what they've got. They've surely got the use of trump; make no doubt of that. Our game is to draw that out on a worthless card. And now you'll have to excuse me. Got to go down to the Red Line pier. More diamonds are due. They'll pull the wool over my eyes for awhile, but sooner or later I'll get a little hole to peek through."

Zudora's enemies did hold the ace, but they did not intend to waste it as Detective Hunt hoped they would. Self preservation forbade them to let go of it until the last trick.

"Said Mue, Du Val that afternoon: 'She looked frightened, and she was frightened, but it will take a series of frights to make her feel like running away.'"

"Well," advised Captain Rudolphe, "plant a series of frights. Keep her guessing. What's the matter with shipping her a 'heart' once a week with headlines to leave town or suffer the consequences? Send it by mail. Leave it under her door. Waylay dry goods bundles and slip one in there. If you keep at a thing like that it always wears them down in the end. She may be first as best as you say she is, but let's see her nerves. Her nerves had a whacking lot of gold in that house. Do you think that Hindu servant got away with it?"

"I rather believe so. If Zudora had that gold she would not be living so modestly. A woman who is used to runabouts and Paris gowns isn't going to give them up unless she has to."

"She looked frightened, and she was frightened."

So Zudora began to receive the mysterious heart. She found it in her laundry, stuck in her dressing mirror, on the door in the hall, in boxes of fruits and candy, and always with the warning: "Beware! Save your life! Leave the country!" And it did wear down her nerves.

But in the meantime Hunt ran down two of his quarries, Ike and Bill. One has to work up in hand the chief crooks.

You never, or rarely, begin with them. You lop off this tentacle and that, and each operation weakens them. The final presentation of the mysterious heart made Zudora nearly break down. It seemed to her that her enemy must have had some deadly enemies and that she had inherited their vengeance.

But they did not succeed in their endeavor to frighten her to the extent of driving her away. The "heart" failed in its purpose, but the evil star still called clearly across the heavens.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A WELL AND A POET.

And an Unanswerable Argument in a Suit at Law.

Among the many anecdotes told of Joseph Viktor von Scheffel, the German poet and novelist, the following from Tagliche Rundschau is one of the most amusing:

In a place where Scheffel once lived there was a lack of good drinking water. One day a well driver in the neighborhood proposed that the poet allow him to drive a deep well for him. Scheffel accepted his offer, but only on the condition that after the water had been drawn, it be found drinkable. The well driver completed his work, but all that the pump would deliver was a thick yellow liquid, so the poet refused to pay for the work.

Finally the matter was brought before the court, and the poet and well driver stood side by side before the judge to present their respective cases. Both argued their sides so well that the magistrate was plainly puzzled to know which was actually right in the matter.

At length, weary of the affair, Scheffel said: "Well, I'll give it and pay for the well and the court expenses, too, but on one condition. My opponent shall, before our eyes, take a drink of the water from the well in question." The poet then drew from his hip pocket a flask of dirty yellow water and, after extracting the cork, passed it over to the well driver. One glance was enough. He thrust the bottle aside with a disgusted look and strode out of the courtroom with an angry growl.

Farm and Garden

BLIGHT AMONG POTATOES.

New Disease Can Be Prevented During the Present Year.

A recurrence of late blight and dry rot among potatoes can be prevented next season. Clean seed is the great essential. Seed treatment is not effective for this particular disease.

The late blight dry rot exists to a considerable extent among storage potatoes, says E. C. Stakman, assistant plant pathologist at the Minnesota experiment station, St. Paul. If such lots are used for seed next season the disease may again be very destructive.

SEED POTATOES.

especially if weather conditions favor its spread. It is therefore of vital importance that healthy seed be used.

The Minnesota experiment station pathologists have been misquoted with reference to methods of securing such healthy seed. The sowing of seed potatoes is necessary in controlling some diseases, but treatment with formaldehyde or corrosive sublimate will not prevent late blight.

Seed potatoes should be secured from fields which have not had any of the disease during the past year. If healthy tubers are planted and the vines thoroughly sprayed with Bordeaux mixture the disease can be controlled.

Seed Potato Importations.

The cultivation of potatoes, which were originally introduced into Germany from the United States, has been brought to such a wonderful stage of development that two distinct classes of potatoes are raised, the one rich in carbohydrates, but poor in nitrogenous matter for the fermentation industry, and the other rich in nitrogenous matter for eating purposes.

Curiously enough, seed potatoes are now imported into the United States from Germany because our farmers allowed this vegetable to degenerate to such a degree that it has substantially lost all value for seedling. The science of fertilizing achieved the amazing result that Germany's soil, although cultivated for almost 2,000 years, is today more productive than the virgin soil of the United States and Canada.

Deserted farms like those of the New England states and the state of New York are unknown in the empire. Chemistry is not only educating the farmer in selective fertilizing, but producing the requisite artificial fertilizers.—Popular Science Monthly.

Kansas Silo Census.

Kansas has 7,137 silos. This is something like fifty-one silos to every county in the state, but there are twenty-one counties having less than a dozen and several having no silos whatever within their boundaries. Five of the rich Kansas counties have more than 200 silos and are reporting constant increases. The silo is changing the sky line of the Sunflower State and it is changing other things as well. For one thing the straw, pit, brick, concrete and other forms of silos are

Phone
104
—FOR—
PARCELS DELIVERY

Parcels delivered to any part of the city. Quick service—deliveries guaranteed to be done accurately and on time. We want your business.

M.J. McCarthy
PHONE 104

Your Horses' Feet

Should be shod properly and this shop is the place where you can get it done. An expert Blacksmith at the forge and all kinds of tools and stock ready at hand. No wait between acts—something doing all the time. Bring your lame, interfering, forging, kicking, horses to me. All kinds of woodwork and machinery repaired—you will always find us on the job.

EUGENE FAIRCHILD

GLASSES FITTED
CONSULT
J. LEAHY
Optometrist
Expert on Eye Strain

Headache, Dizziness, Nervousness, and all other symptoms of Eye Strain cured.

Crossed Eyes Straightened Without an Operation.

Fitting Children's Eyes a Specialty.

Difficult Cases Solicited.

Glasses Guaranteed to Fit.

Hotel Charlevoix—1 Day Only
Thursday, April 22, '15

aiming to make Kansas one of the really prosperous states of the Union. It might help for the agricultural authorities in other states to make a census similar to the one just completed by Kansas. Comparisons are sometimes stimulating.—Farm Progress.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Chop every old, useless and dying tree out of the orchard, keeping a man or woman of the number of trees thus removed and putting in an early order for others.

Wood ashes are good fertilizer for grapes. They will supply the necessary potash for them, and if the same amount of poultry droppings is added to the ashes the undesirable, rank growth that too much ashes sometimes cause will be kept down.

Currants need little protection except from deep snows, which sometimes break down the branches when setting in the spring.

Watch the mulched strawberries. The muck may be too heavy, and if warm, muggy weather prevails there is danger of injury.

There is no one who ought to have a better garden than the farmer who has all the land necessary with teams and usually help to care for it.

Cold frames, hotbeds, greenhouses and mushroom caves are all used for forcing rhubarb, but, lacking these, one may utilize an ordinary root cellar.

Best values in canvas gloves 10c pair, three pairs 25c. Benj. Brown. Adv. 811

Do Not Grip
We have a pleasant laxative that will do just what you want it to do.
Rexall Orderlies
We sell thousands of them and we have never seen a better remedy for the bowels. Sold only by us, 10 cents.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Jim Baird Has Been Following Them Steadily For an Hour.

down and smoked his pipe in the attitude of waiting for some one.

At 9 three men arrived at the door of the tenement. They stood idly in the doorway for a minute, then ducked inside.

But Jim Baird, who had been following them steadily for an hour or more, was quite confident that somewhere in yonder tenement was the wonderful croak diamond cutter he had so often heard about during his masquerade as Hassam All.

What a chance there had been for real honest money in that old inventor of diamonds whose shop had been back of the cheese makers! But he had to go and die.

Baird did not thrill pleasantly at the sight of the gun man called Gyp. He had already in his capacity as reporter run up against that murderous scoundrel, and Gyp had sworn he'd "get him."

He looked about, wishing to give the rogues plenty of time. What he wanted was a good look at the diamond cutter's shop.

He had no chance in the three crooks who had shown him the way here. Two of them had bent him up but more than a fortnight gone, so

He Hunted Around For the Scuttle Ladder and Crept Up on to the Roof.

letters addressed to him when he was too ill to attend to them?"

"Yes."

"What was the nature of his acquaintance with Mue, Du Val?"

"Rather formal, so far as I know."

"Nothing between them?"

"There may have been. You see, Hunt, it was only toward the last that I really did any Hassam All stunts. And I wish to heaven you'd forget that part of my past. I'm trying hard enough."

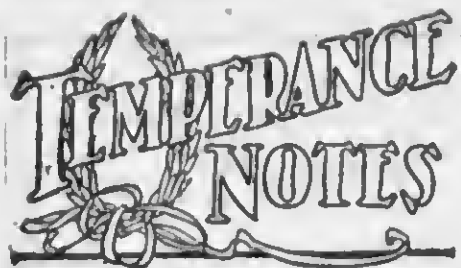

Hunt put his hand on the young man's shoulder. "Cheer up. I shan't mention it again."

"Thanks. Now I've a bit of good news for you. I've seen the man who does that mysterious cutting. I know where his shop is, and I have seen him at work."

"Time! Wait a minute." Hunt took down a fat volume and turned the pages rapidly. "There, did he look any thing like this?"

"Time for time." Hunt thought so. He's been lying low. If you know where he lives you might

Yes—Many People
have told us the same story—distress after eating, gases, heartburn. A Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet
before and after each meal will relieve you. Sold only by us—25c.
The Ivy Drug Store.

(Conducted by the National Women's Christian Temperance Union.)

"WHO DRINKS MUST GO."

This is the title of an article in a recent number of the "Technical World," a magazine devoted to mechanics. We quote a few paragraphs:

"Drinking will now spell prompt dismissal for you if you are an employee of the Hershey Chocolate company, International Harvester company, Sherwin-Williams company, Bluefield Car works, United States Steel corporation, Western Electric company, Pullman company, Edison company, Western union, Interborough company, Standard Oil company, or any one of a thousand other American firms of the first rank. Sears, Roebuck & Company forbid employees entering a saloon at any hour of the day within a mile of their plant in any direction."

"Last spring a local option election was held in the 'dry town' of Three Rivers, Mich. The big industry of the town is the Bluefield Car works. The management of these works issued a circular letter to the many thousand workmen advising them that if they signed wet petitions they would be that act be placing themselves in opposition to the interests of the company."

"Yes, and only a few months ago the great steel works at Homestead, Pa., employing 12,000 men, decreed that not only would drinking be prohibited during working hours, but that even the slightest intemperance while off duty would be cause for immediate discharge."

"This magazine could be crammed to the covers with similar instances of the strong front industry has assumed against alcohol during the last two years. The sentiment of the executives of industry is pretty well summed up in the pointed statement of Andrew Carnegie: 'There is no use wasting time on any young man who drinks liquor, no matter how exceptional his talents.'"

"C. L. Close, manager of the famous Bureau of Safety of the United States Steel corporation, a man who knows the social side of industry as few men do, declares his opinion that in ten years, through the combined effort of American industries the manufacture and sale of liquor will be at an end in the United States."

What does it all mean? The writer of the article goes on to explain that manufacturers have discovered the leak in their business. Scientific experiment and the practical working of total abstinence among their employees have shown them that it is caused by alcohol.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION.

The wonderful transformation of the Russian people as the direct result of the stopping of the sale of alcoholic liquors in the czar's domains has been watched by the white gibbons of the United States with intense interest and deep thankfulness. The following letter, giving expression to these feelings, was sent to the czar by the president of the National Women's Christian Temperance union:

"To His Majesty, the Czar of Russia. Sir: It is my high privilege on behalf of four hundred thousand members of the National Women's Christian Temperance union of the United States, to extend to your majesty an expression of their profound gratitude for the far-seeing action of your majesty in abolishing the liquor traffic in Russia."

"This act of your majesty is exerting a mighty influence for good in the United States of America and will prove an incalculable blessing to the whole world."

"With great respect,
"ANNA A. GORDON,
"President."

ONLY HOPE OF LIQUOR MEN.

"Advertising is now the only hope of the liquor business," said Mr. James Behrmann, editor of the Detroit Times, in a public address. "The wets themselves do not have any expectation of life running beyond ten years."

The Times threw out liquor ads, he said, because it did not wish to be a selling and distributing agency of breweries and distilleries, or a solicitor for them in territory that has outlawed their business.

IN GEORGIA.

At the end of the very first year of no liquor in Georgia, which was a year of financial panic, of low-priced cotton, withdrawal of thousands of dollars of saloon property, the books of the state treasurer showed an increase of $4,000,000 worth of taxable property, mostly in the rural districts.

INCREASE MINER'S EFFICIENCY.
The manager of a copper mine at Koenigsberg, Germany, was convinced that his output would increase if his men quit drinking. He induced 1,000 of them to take the pledge. He was delighted to find, after two years, that their productive efficiency had increased nearly $25,000 annually.

TAXES IN KANSAS.

The average tax rate in the 378 incorporated towns of Kansas, including city, county and state, is only $9.27 per thousand assessed valuation.

Subscribes for the Courier.

You Can Enjoy Life
Eat what you want and not be troubled with indigestion if you will take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet
before and after each meal. Sold only by us—25c a box.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Sunday in the Churches

Baptist Church.
A. M.—"My Mother's Bible."
P. M.—"Charlevoix's Devil, Sixteen Hens and Seventeen Tails."
Tuesday evening, seven o'clock—Bible Study. "The New Birth."
Thursday evening—Prayer meeting.
"Difficult passages made plain as day."
Rev. 22:18-19.
B. Y. P. U.—Topic: "One Day in Seven for Highest Things."
Leader—Agnes Carey.

Catholic Church.
Low Mass at 8:00 a. m.
High Mass at 10:00 a. m.
Devotional service at 7:30 p. m.
Monday morning, Mass at 7:00 a. m.
Other services during the week as announced Sunday previous.

Congregational Church.
Public worship at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.
Morning—"The Value and the Peril of Religious Forms."
Evening—"On Being Remembered."
Bible school, 12 o'clock.
Junior Endeavor at 3 p. m.
Y. P. S. C. E. at 6:30. Leader—Thelma Grady.
Mid-week meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Services at Ironton:
Bible school at 2 o'clock, standard time. Preaching at 3 p. m.

Methodist Episcopal Church.
A. M.—"Hope."
P. M.—"The Man and His Message."

Church of God.
Services at camp ground every Sunday.
Sunday school at 10:00 a. m.
Preaching at 11 a. m.
Preaching at 7:30 p. m.

Christian Science.
Christian Science Society, Van Pelt hall.
Services Sunday, 10:45 a. m. Subject, "Atonement."
Wednesday service, 7:45 p. m.
Reading room open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5 p. m.; also 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday.

Bicycles, $14.75 to $35.00. Bicycle repairing and supplies—Benj. Brown. Adv. 111f

How to Use the Seven Hints Given Below.
When it is necessary to boil a cracked egg add a little vinegar to the water. This will prevent the white from boiling out.

If you have difficulty in cleaning the inside of a glass from metal candlesticks try setting the candlesticks in a hot oven for a few minutes. This will melt the grease.

If you wet a spoon before using it to serve jelly you will find the jelly will not stick to it, and the serving is more easily accomplished.

To clean fly specks from varnished wood wipe with a soft cloth dipped in equal parts of kerosene and water.

To pick up little pieces of broken glass wet a woman cloth, lay it on the floor where the fragments are and pat it. The little particles will adhere to the damp cloth.

The skin of new potatoes is more easily removed by rubbing with a stiff little brush than by scraping with a knife.

If curtain rods or poles are rubbed with hard soap before being put on the curtains will slip on them easily.

If You Are Nervous and are losing weight, we recommend that you take Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion
containing Hypophosphites
for a short time. A prescription which we gladly endorse.
The Ivy Drug Store.

Keeps Your Stove Shining Bright
Gives a brilliant glossy shine that lasts a full year or more off—that makes it shine like new for four times as long as any other.
Black Silk Stove Polish
It is in a class by itself. It's more than a polish—it's a preservative. It keeps the stove from rusting, and it keeps the paint from peeling. It's the only one that does both.
There's a "Black Silk" Stove Polish in every grocery.

"JEHOVAH IS MY SHEPHERD"

Psalm 23.—April 13.
The Heavenly Shepherd's Interest in His Flock—His Sheep Shall Not Lack—He Gives Them Rest—He Feeds Them—He Refreshes Them With the Water of Life—He Restoreth My Soul—He Leadeth Me.

"Jehovah is my Shepherd."—Psalm 23.
ONLY God's people, in covenant relationship with Him, can properly appreciate this Psalm and apply its gracious sentiments to themselves. The Psalmist David could do this, because he belonged to the favored nation taken into covenant relationship with God at Mount Sinai. Of those Jews who did their best to keep the Law, David evidently was one; for the Lord declared him "a man after His own heart."

When David made failures, he confessed them, repented, received his punishment and rejoiced in restoration to Divine favor, striving thereafter the more to maintain his fellowship with God. Jesus and His Church, however, are more particularly the sheep of Jehovah's flock than were the Jews; for the relationship of the Jews was through Moses, while that of the Church is through Christ and the superior Covenant centered in Him. Whoever would be the Lord's sheep must make this Covenant of Sacrifice (Psalm 50:5). Only through Christ can we enter the higher sheepfold. Once having entered, we thereafter have God's Message, saying, "All things are yours; for ye are Christ's, and Christ is God's."

All Wants Abundantly Supplied.
The Lord's sheep are New Creatures, spirit beings, temporarily dwelling in the flesh, but waiting for their change, to be completed in the First Resurrection. The Lord's blessings to Natural Israel were earthly; His blessings to Spiritual Israel are spiritual favors. "No good thing will He withhold" from these—yes, even chastisements and sorrowful experiences necessary for spiritual development.

As the Lord's sheep we shall be provided with green pastures and cool, refreshing water. Moreover, we shall have the peace of God, as implied in the suggestion that the sheep lie down in the green pastures. But also! Some sheep wander off, gentile, into the desert, attempting to feed themselves on the indigestible things of this life, on which no spiritual nature can thrive.

Yet even such straying sheep the Shepherd will not leave, but goes after them. With His rod He beats off the wolves; and with His staff He carefully assists the entangled sheep out from amongst the tangles of this life, the deceitfulness of riches and the besetments of sin and Satan. Many of the Lord's flock thus can say, "He restoreth my soul"—brings me back to appreciate how much better His provision than anything I could provide.

The Valley of Death's Shadow.
Only Adam was ever on the mountain-top of life. He lost his footing there, and gradually descended into this great Valley of the Shadow of Death. Here all his children were born. We are dying daily, surrounded by dying conditions. But the New Day is about to dawn. Then the whole world will begin to emerge from this Valley of Death's Shadow. For a thousand years they will be rising to the heights of human perfection from which Adam fell, and to which the right to return is secured by Jesus' death.

The Lord's people have an especially prepared table, where they may partake even in the presence of their enemies. How true it is that even when misunderstood, misrepresented, defamed and opposed, God's consecrated people are still privileged to feast on the Divine promises, assurances of favor, etc.

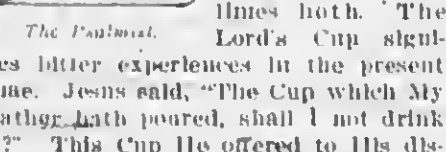

Another evidence that this Psalm belongs especially to the Church is the statement, "Thou anointest my head with oil." The holy anointing oil used on Israel's priests and kings typified the Holy Spirit, which came upon the Church representatively in Jesus and has come down over all the members of Christ's Body.—Psalm 133:2.

"My cup runneth over." In Scripture the word cup represents a draft, sometimes sweet, sometimes bitter, sometimes both. The Lord's Cup signifies bitter experiences in the present time. Jesus said, "The Cup which My Father hath poured, shall I not drink?" This Cup He offered to His disciples; and in becoming such, we propose to share it with Him, symbolically represented in the Communion Cup.

It is sweet to participate in the sufferings of Christ, in any sacrifices or services for Him and His Cause. But He promises that the Cup of new wine in the Kingdom shall more than compensate for any bitterness of the present time. Our Cup is full, but we would not wish it one drop less.

How precious the thought that God's goodness and mercy fall well who are truly His in Christ! At our Lord's Second Coming, with His glorious change these shall enter the Kingdom House on the spirit plane, the everlasting portion of God's eternal Kingdom.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

The Psalmist, David, said: "The Cup which My Father hath poured, shall I not drink?" This Cup He offered to His disciples; and in becoming such, we propose to share it with Him, symbolically represented in the Communion Cup.

It is sweet to participate in the sufferings of Christ, in any sacrifices or services for Him and His Cause. But He promises that the Cup of new wine in the Kingdom shall more than compensate for any bitterness of the present time. Our Cup is full, but we would not wish it one drop less.

How precious the thought that God's goodness and mercy fall well who are truly His in Christ! At our Lord's Second Coming, with His glorious change these shall enter the Kingdom House on the spirit plane, the everlasting portion of God's eternal Kingdom.

Keep in touch with what is going on. Read the Courier; that's the best way.

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Read "ZUDORA"—eleventh installment thisweek—Pictures of Zudor will be shown at the Majestic Friday evenings.

Famous Photoplay Serial by Harold McGrath

SPECIAL CLUBBING OFFERS FOR YOU
Good for Short Time

WE SAVE YOU MONEY

on all your reading matter, if you will give us a chance. We have cut rates on practically every paper or magazine published in the United States. Read the offers below:

GRAB THESE NOW—TODAY

Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Kimball's Dairy Farmer	1.00
Home Life	.25
	$3.25	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Up-to-Date Farming	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
The Gentlewoman	.20
	$2.70	All 1 yr for $1.65
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Today's Magazine	.50
Woman's World	.35
Home Life	.25
1 May Manton Pattern	$2.60	All 1 yr for $1.75
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Michigan Farmer	.50
Poultry Pointers	.50
Woman's World	.35
	$2.85	All 1 yr for $1.80
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
	$3.50	All 1 yr for $3.00
Charlevoix Courier	$1.50
Grand Rapids Press	2.00
Michigan Farmer	.50
	$4.00	All 1 yr for $3.25

These are the greatest newspaper bargains ever offered by any newspaper in Northern Michigan. It has always been our aim to save Courier readers all we could on their reading matter. The above rates are but a sample of what is in store for you later on. We also give cut rates on all magazines, daily papers, trade magazine. The saving usually runs about 15 per cent, but in some instances it will amount to more. Keep in mind at all times that we can and will save you money on all your newspaper or magazine subscriptions.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS

Let us supply you with your tax receipts, note heads, letter heads, envelopes, receipts, etc. Patronize your home printer. We will meet the price quoted by any outside printing house, and guarantee you the very best of work. Let us have your orders.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO THIS OFFICE

The Charlevoix Courier

Guaranteed Circulation of 90 percent on all Charlevoix R.F.D. routes

SPECIAL FOR ONE WEEK

We are going to offer every customer a special inducement during the next week as follows:

For every dollar paid on account, or for every dollar in Cash Purchases, we will give ONE POUND OF SUGAR Extra, with every 25c worth bought. If you should want to buy a Dollar's worth, you get four pounds extra.

Special for Saturday Only

Picnic Hams, special Price for one day only, per pound 10¹/₂c

EVERY DAY PRICES

3 cans Peas - 25c 3 cans Corn - 25c
3 dozen Pickles, sweet, sour or dill - 25c
Lemons, dozen 20c Oranges, 176 size, doz. 20c

We handle McCann's Bread. Goods delivered to any part of the city

L. E. CRANDALL

Phone 261

401 Antrim Street

Grange Column

Pomona Grange.

Charlevoix Pomona Grange will meet with Maple Grove Grange on Thursday, April 29. At this time of year farm work will not hinder members from attending and a good representation from all granges is looked for.

Auto supplies and service station. Goodyear, Firestone and DeSance tires—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 111f

Ironton Grange.

The regular meeting of Ironton Grange, No. 707, was held April 6th with twenty-six members and one visitor present. Lecture hour was open, as there were about 50 visitors in all who were not grangers. A good supper was served, after which Mr. Ball and Mr. Dibble formed a boys and girls club. A splendid talk was given by both gentlemen. A few of the young people had a pleasant time dancing. Come to Ironton and have a good time.

Overalls and Jackets at Benj. Brown's. Adv. 81f

Maple Grove Grange.

Maple Grove Grange, No. 1255, met in regular session Tuesday night, April 6, with Worthy Master E. E. Stroud in the chair. After the regular order of opening one candidate was initiated in the first and second degrees. Lecture hour consisted of readings and story telling. Members present, 24. Grange closed in form to meet again April 29. Visitors always welcome.

Pomona Grange will meet with Maple Grove Grange Thursday, April 29.

We have a few harness at the old price and if you need a harness for your team now is the time to buy—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 71f

South Arm Grange, No. 815.

South Arm Grange met in regular session Saturday, April 10. On account of the absence of the worthy master, grange was called to order by the lecturer. One application for membership was received. The lecturer's hour was carried out by recitations, readings, stories and songs.

After the meeting a lunch was served consisting of peanuts, candy and other refreshments. The Sisters' Circle are going to have a box social at the hall, Saturday, April 17, at which time they will sell a quilt.

All members are urged to be present at the next meeting as there will be initiatory work.

For automobile tires, Goodyear, DeSance and Firestone tires see Benjamin Brown. Adv. 111f

Robinson-Janovsky.

At the pleasant country home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Robinson, Wednesday, April 7, Edward A. Robinson and Miss Mary Janovsky were united in marriage by the Rev. Quinton Walker of the Methodist church.

Mr. Robinson is a graduate of our high school and well known in the city. Miss Janovsky is a tailoress from Chicago.

The bride was gown in white silk and carried white roses. The groom wore the usual black. The happy couple will reside on Pa Robinson's farm.

Sunday Special—Lamphear's Ice Cream, Pineapple flavor, 25 cents per quart at Yettaw's Confectionery Store. Adv. 151f

Additional Locals

Will Marshall, wife and little daughter, who have been in Lansing during the past winter, returned home Tuesday.

G. B. Marsac, who is in the employ of the Pere Marquette railroad at Benton Harbor, was in the city the latter part of the week.

The delivery cars of S. Orlowski & Son and Babcock & Son collided in front of the court house Tuesday afternoon. Both were Fords and little damage was done.

The Missionary Club will meet with Mrs. P. D. Campbell, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Subject: "The Beautiful." Roll call, "Our Pet Economy."

O. E. Wilbur and wife, who have been visiting at the homes of their son and daughter in Chicago, are expected to return either on Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the O. E. S. will be held Wednesday evening, April 21. After the work of the evening, the ladies will meet in joint session with members of the Masonic order to formulate plans for the Masonic fair to be held in August. A good attendance is desired.

Following a call issued Monday by Coach Vogt, 25 men appeared on South Side Athletic Field ready for the grind for positions on Charlevoix high baseball team. The squad displayed some likely material and we only refrain from mentioning a few of the youngsters because of the earliness of the time. The schedule is being arranged and will be published in an early issue.

The delivery clerk in the local post office has much to annoy him. There is a drummer who wants any letters that may come to him during the next ten days forwarded him at New York; the man who wants to know if a letter now will go east on the 2:20 train; the boss mailed a letter without a stamp and wants it back; six men forgot their box keys and want the mail handed out to them; the woman who knows there must be a letter for her and asks the clerk to "look again;" the man who gets angry and wants the smart clerk to "come out on the sidewalk just two minutes."

The finest of Electro gold plating. Watch cases and jewelry re-plated in 14, 18 or pure 24 karat gold and warranted at the Electro Plating Works, 103 Clinton street. Adv. 151f.

MANY WERE TURNED AWAY

Baptist church filled to overflowing last Sunday evening.

Shortly after the ringing of the first bell last Sunday evening the main auditorium and gallery of the church were filled to their seating capacity and by time for opening service the entire room was packed and many persons sought in vain to gain admittance at all. After a very strong discourse on "Water Baptism as taught by the Bible and exemplified by Jesus the Christ," by the pastor, a very touching and beautiful baptismal service was held in which ten persons were baptized into the fellowship of the church.

The pastor and candidates were dressed in white and each candidate was handed a white carnation by the pastor as they entered the baptistry. Another baptismal service will be held next Sunday evening.

WHAT CITY PLANNING IS.

Makes For Future Comfort and Prosperity of Whole Community.
(By George Alnlee, mayor of Richmond Va.)

City planning is merely the science of designing cities. It is good sense and forethought applied to the building of cities. It is the most practical kind of practical business sense applied by people who have love enough for their city to want it to be lovely, faith enough in it to believe in its future and pride enough in it to want to hand it down to their children in better condition than that in which they received it from their fathers.

The best method of getting this important forward step is by the spread of sound ideas for the formation of an enlightened public opinion, which will seek and act upon the advice of those who by special training, education and experience are competent to advise and not be content with the fleeting notions of the average man in the street upon subjects on which, in the nature of things, his opinion can be of no value. It is helped along by the voluntary co-operation of those citizens who have enough civic pride to want to see their city improved and its growth wisely controlled and enough sense to know the difference between a wood-chopper and a cabinetmaker.

The average man in any community thinks at first blush that city planning is merely an aesthetic hobby, not worthy of the consideration of the serious, practical minded person he holds himself to be. He happens to know that a plan for a house or a plan for a boat, a plan for a machine and, if he is a ditch digger, a plan for a ditch are perfectly natural and proper things, but the idea of a plan for a city he regards as something akin to a joke. The obvious reason for this is that while he knows that all these other things and many more are done from plans, because he has seen them, he does not know that cities may be and many are built from plans prepared by those who are trained in the business of city planning, and, not knowing it, he thinks there is nothing to it. In his folly he can see the sense of planning for a detail, but not that of planning for the whole job.

This average man, however, is always a taxpayer and pays out of his own pocket for the lack of a city plan. The purpose of city planning is to make a city convenient, economical, beautiful, beautiful and pleasant. Its scope does not cover the administration of civic affairs, such as the organization and management of city departments. It deals with construction, not with maintenance and operation. It determines the layout of a city, the provision and location of proper parks, streets, playgrounds, buildings, monuments, water supply and other public things with a rational relativity not only to each other, but to the community they are designed to serve. It leaves nothing to haphazard. It prevents mistakes and shows how to do things right which if wrongly done either cannot be changed at all or can be changed only at great expense.

Sewage Disposal in Sheffield.

Like other large industrial towns, Sheffield, England, has had a difficult problem to solve in regard to sewage disposal. In 1886, when the city had a population of 301,720, the sewage was drained into the nearest waterways. In that same year, however, the first of the sewage disposal schemes was planned and carried out. The method of treatment at that time was the common one of precipitation in tanks by lime treatment. This proved unsatisfactory, however, and after careful study the system of treating the sewage in settlement tanks, followed by single contact bed treatment, was adopted and was found to be the most simple and economical method. The corporation still has in progress the enormous scheme which it began in 1912 and which consists of sixty contact beds, each half an acre in area; sixteen storm beds of the same size, settling tanks and the alteration of sewers, at a cost of $1,251,865, which will be capable of dealing with a maximum flow of 64,500,000 gallons a day. It is said that when completed these works will not be excelled by any in Great Britain for economy in construction and efficiency in design.

THE HOG RAISERS OF THE FUTURE

(Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.)

At the Louisiana state fair were 185 fine hogs raised by members of the boys' pig clubs. In this exhibit was a pen of four hogs which attracted wide attention and caused a great deal of comment. All of these hogs were the same age. Three of them were half breed Berkshires and were litter mates. Two of the litter mates had been raised by a Louisiana farmer in the old manner of letting the hogs take care of themselves and make their living in the woods and fields. The other one had been purchased by a pig club boy and raised with the pure bred Berkshire.

The two large hogs were fed and raised in the same manner and received the same treatment from weaning time. When shown at the fair the pure bred Berkshire weighed 360 pounds, the half breed raised in the same pen weighed 255 pounds, while the two litter mates raised by the farmer weighed 115 pounds each. From a market standpoint the two small hogs were not worth over $3.50 each, while the half pig raised by the boy was worth about $15 and the pure bred hog about $21. From a breeder's standpoint the pure bred hog was worth $50.

This illustrates forcibly two great principles in the live stock industry

The large hog in the picture is the half breed Berkshire raised by a member of the Boys' Pig club of Louisiana. The small pig is a litter mate of the large pig and was raised by a Louisiana farmer by the old time method of letting the hogs find their own living.

which should be known to all interested—namely, good pure bred animals will grow faster and make more economical gains than scrubs or grades, and good feeding and attention are far more profitable than the careless methods so frequently practiced.

This is but one of the lessons which are learned by the thousands of boys who are joining the pig clubs that are being organized by the United States department of agriculture in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges. Every corn club boy is urged to join the pig clubs and learn how he may market his corn more profitably than by selling it.

The pig club work is now being conducted by the department of agriculture in seven states, and it is being taken up in other states as rapidly as funds will permit. All boys wishing to become members should write to the extension department of the state agricultural college or to the department of agriculture for further information.

Indigestion of Horses.

First of all be sure that the teeth of this horse are not worn sharp along the edges. If upon examination sharp points are found they should be removed by floating. A grain ration of three parts of corn, one part oats and one part wheat bran by weight or corn and oats in equal parts together with a pound of linseed meal a day should be fed. Limit the hay to a pound per hundred pounds live weight daily. Give on the grain three times a day a tablespoonful of the following powder: Salt, one pound; soda, one-half pound; powdered nux vomica, two ounces; iron sulphate, two ounces, and gentian, two ounces.—National Stockman.

Government Hog Tonic Formula.
One part charcoal, one part sulphur, two parts salt, two parts sodium bicarbonate, two parts sodium hyposulphite, one part sodium sulphite, one part antimony sulphide. These should be ground together and thoroughly mixed. The tonic is proportioned in feeding at the rate of one large tablespoonful to every 200 pounds of weight and should be fed once a day only.

LIVE STOCK BRIEFS.

Roots are nearly indispensable for the profitable feeding of sheep in winter. Keep all drafts off your horses. A draft is pneumonia's friend. Roots are an economical and healthful food for the hogs. They should have variety. In driving a pair of horses see that the yoke is buckled firmly to the end of the pole. The flockmaster or owner must be ever vigilant. He should know his flock so well that the very slightest indisposition will be detected at once. Never give any hay or frozen food to hogs. It will cause indigestion. Indigestion opens the way for all sorts of ailments.

Hints For Auto Drivers.

Side curtains and the most commonly used tools should be carried where they may be reached without disturbing the passengers. Never crank your engine over until you have made absolutely sure the gear lever is in the neutral position. Never take it for granted that the other driver will certainly do the right thing. Sound your horn when approaching every side road, lane or footpath.

A Wall Paper Cleaner.

To one quart of flour add about two ounces of 90 per cent ammonia and enough lukewarm water to make a dough. Wipe the paper with this preparation while turning and kneading it as in making dough. This will take up the dirt, and a clean side is always presented to the paper.

Preventing Mildew on Canvas.

To prevent mildew on canvas soak it in bluestone water, or if the mildew is already present coat the parts well with ordinary soap and rub on powdered chalk or whiting.

Preparing For Forest Fires.

In preparation for the coming fire season in California, 110 miles of fire line have been built in the Sierra national forest.

Sal-Vet is guaranteed and sold by Benj. Brown. Adv. 71f

"THE STORE OF QUALITY" AND GOOD SERVICE

If you want everything that is nice for your table in the list of Groceries, Butter, Eggs, Vegetables, Fruit, Poultry or any thing that is in season, call us up or come to our store. We would prefer to have you come in and see us.

Special for Saturday

Fancy Picnic Hams, per pound 10 1-2c
Choice Skinned Hams, 1-2 or whole, a lb 15c
Choice Bacon by strip or half, per pound 16c
Rib Boiling Beef or Ribs of Beef, a pound 10c
Beef Roast Shoulder, per pound 11c
Beef Boiling Shoulder per pound, 11c
Beef Steak Shoulder, per pound 12 1-2c

Watch our Windows for Display and Prices
We Want Live Chickens and Veal

Quality, Service and Honest Prices our Motto

C. DANTO & SON

Phone 12 212 Bridge Street Phone 69

WE GIVE GREEN STAMPS

HOSIERY AT COST PRICES

We are going to close out our present stock of Eiffel, Avalon and Service Hosiery at Cost Prices, preparatory to taking the exclusive agency of the famous "Foot-Res" brand of hosiery. The hosiery we are placing on sale is the same kind you have been buying for the past year. You know how well they have worn, and now you will have the opportunity of buying them at COST PRICES. See our window display.

Sale Starts Saturday, April 17

17c Hosiery	13c	13c Hosiery	10c
Sale Price		Sale Price
15c Hosiery	11c	10c Hosiery	8c
Sale Price		Sale Price

Seal-Pack Hosiery, former price 25c per pair, during sale, 2 pair for 18c

6 pair "Dime Sox" Hosiery, six months guarantee during sale for 52c

Better Buy Early While Your Size is in Stock. They Won't Last Long.

Gonser's Variety Store

104 Bridge Street

Majestic Theatre

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 22

CONCERT

By The High School Orchestra

All Home Talent

Keep the Date in Mind and Purchase Your Tickets Early

... Encourage the School Boys ...

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The Leading Newspaper in the Best Little City Anywhere

VOL. 33, NUMBER 16

CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1915

PRICE $1.50 PER YEAR

STR. BEAVER BURNS AT DOCK

Practically a Total Loss From Fire of Unknown Origin.

Had Just Been Inspected, and Was About to Start Season's Run—$4,000 Insurance.

Fire from an unknown origin almost totally destroyed the Steamer Beaver about midnight Tuesday night.

The boat had made her usual run to Beaver Island Monday, and upon her return, the fire under her boilers had been drawn and the boat made ready for inspection Tuesday by government officials. During the day the inspection was made, and all was ready for firing up early Wednesday morning for the island run.

About 11:45 Chief of Police Charles Jefferies, while making his rounds of the streets, noticed a light and smoke coming from the boat. He immediately turned in an alarm of fire, and on his return, found the boat a mass of flames from the bow to stern. Within a short time the fire department had the flames under control, but not before the entire upper works, pilot house and cabin were burned, and considerable damage done to the Wilbur warehouse.

An examination of the boat Wednesday morning showed that she is damaged to the extent of at least seventy-five per cent. Everything above the decks was destroyed, and considerable damage done below the decks. She was insured for $4,000 and owned and operated by Capt. P. D. Campbell. It is not known as yet if she will be rebuilt.

Thus with the sale of the City of Boyne and the destruction of the Beaver by fire, Charlevoix will be without a passenger boat of any description, unless the Beaver is rebuilt or others purchased to replace them.

Keep your property well protected by insurance, whether it be a steamboat, house, store, or other buildings. Better see Myrtle Young & Son at once, and be sure that your carrying plenty of insurance. Adv. 15tf.

FREE AIR AT BROWN'S

Local Auto Headquarters Installs a Utility Air Compressor for Public Use.

The average automobile driver needs a certain amount of air—for automobile tires, of course—prospective auto purchasers are also usually treated with a more or less amount of it—taking this into consideration, Benj. Brown, agent for the Overland and Saxon automobiles and the Ford cars, has installed a Utility Air Compressor.

To the average person, this means little, but to the auto driver, it means doing away with several minutes of back-aching work pumping up flat tires with a hand pump. Now all you have to do is to drive up to Brown's store, attach a hose, and in a minute your auto tire has all the air it needs.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Meeting Home of Mrs. H. L. Hiddings Next Friday Evening.

The Charlevoix Historical Society will hold its annual business meeting with Mrs. H. L. Hiddings on Friday evening, April 23. The following is the program:

MUSIC.
Vocal Solo—Rev. C. E. Taggart.
Current Events—Miss Anna Lombard.
Social Intermission.
Scene from Shakespeare—The Shakespeare Study Club.

Auction Sale.

Tuesday, April 27, an auction sale will be held at the farm of Emerich Olack, three miles south of Charlevoix, on the Ironton Road, commencing at 1 o'clock. E. B. Ward will cry the sale. Read the adv. on page 2. It may contain some article you want.

Johnson-Lamphear Nuptials

The marriage of Miss Mildred Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnson, to Charles H. Lamphear, occurred at one o'clock today (Wednesday), at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of only immediate relatives of the contracting parties. A reception was held from two to four both are popular young people of Charlevoix and are extended congratulations. The wedding in detail will be announced next week.

CITY OF BOYNE SOLD

Well Known Steamer Purchased by George Roe of Harbor Springs.

A deal was consummated last week in this city whereby the steamer City of Boyne was sold to Geo. Roe of Harbor Springs for $10,000. The steamer will be transferred to Little Traverse Bay and will ply between Petoskey, Harbor Springs and other points in the bay.

The passing of the Boyne from Pine Lake leaves transportation between this city and Boyne City uncertain, although it has been announced that already steps have been taken to replace the Boyne with as good a boat. The City of Boyne has been plying on Pine Lake for many seasons and her removal is like tearing part of the landscape away. The Boyne was owned by Captains Weaver, Campbell and Wilbur.

FISH HATCHERY CLOSES

Over Fifty Million Fish Have Been Planted This Spring.

The local fish hatchery closed for the season last Monday after a most successful season. The last batch of fish were sent out of the hatchery the first of the week.

According to a statement given out at the hatchery over 40,000,000 fish have been planted in this vicinity this spring. The Beaver carried 1,000,000 to Saint James last Saturday and several other large deposits have been made in Lake Michigan both of whitefish and trout. Both McGeehan's Creek and the one running just south of the cemetery have been well stocked this season with brook trout.

LEADERS WERE SNOWED UNDER

Attendance Contest at M. E. Church Closes With Banquet.

Over Four Hundred Were Present—School Now Has an Enrollment of 376.

The eight weeks' contest in the Methodist Sunday School in an effort to increase the attendance was closed last week with the "Bound to Wins," the winners over the "Leaders." Friday at six o'clock the big banquet, which was the coveted goal of the contestants, was served in the church parlors when over 400 gathered around the festive board.

Immediately following the banquet, everybody shoved back their chairs and listened to some rattling good toast on the banquet and contest. A. Bruce Ball acted as toastmaster and introduced Miss Himes, who talked on the subject, "The Present," Dr. A. M. Wilkinson, "The Future," and Rev. Quinton Walker, "The Results." George Block, Jas. Leenhouts and Earl Shapton also were called upon as members of the committee in charge of the contest. Music was furnished by the High School Orchestra, Miss Maude Shapton and Nay Smith.

The contest, which only recently closed, was one of the best planned and altogether most unique that has ever been carried on in the city. The school was equally divided. The contest was called an automobile race, and for each visitor the committee gave the one bringing the stranger to Sunday School five miles. For each new scholar who stated his intention of remaining as a member of the school, and who was a regular attendant for five Sundays, the side was given 25 miles. When the summary was completed, the "Bound to Wins" had reached beyond the 3,000 mark.

At present the Methodist school has an enrollment of 376.

Mayor's Proclamation.

I, Oscar E. Wilbur, Mayor of the City of Charlevoix, do hereby set aside Monday, May 3d, 1915, as clean-up and fire prevention day, in accordance with the Governor's Proclamation. And I urgently request every resident to observe the day.

On Tuesday, May 4, 1915, the City of Charlevoix will collect and cart away all rubbish and refuse, except ashes and tree limbs, that has been collected in convenient piles in all streets and alleys within the city, free of charge. Kindly "clean up" and pile your rubbish in the street convenient for the city to cart away.

OSCAR E. WILBUR, Mayor.

Ask Ethel Jolliff about pianos—1611

GET YOUR 1915 AUTO LICENSES

Many Auto Drivers of City Have Not Complied With Law.

Chief of Police Has Orders to Enforce Regulations—Warnings Have Been Given.

As a gentle reminder to the delinquents it is high time to see about the auto license for 1915. Here it is almost summer and still we have to gaze at that rusty old plate of 1914.

There is more than one reason for procuring your license. Not because the law states emphatically this should be done, but suppose you casually run into a friend or enemy. It doesn't make any difference if you own a Ford or a real car, what the judge says when he finds you still are clinging to that 1914 license. A little negligence, you say, but that won't let you out of the law zone. Be on the safe side. Also the law doesn't mention anything about turning the number up side down as far as we can interpretate as some in the city are doing for speeding purposes perhaps.

Chief of Police Jefferies is on the job every minute and several who have been exercising their cars during the beautiful days of the past week have been told to put their automobiles in the garage and keep them there until 1915 licenses have been obtained.

Get your 1915 licenses or there is trouble ahead.

NAVIGATION OPENS

Steamer Illinois First Big Boat of Season to Enter This Port.

At 10 o'clock last Friday night traffic on Lake Michigan was formally opened, when the Str. Illinois of the Northern Michigan Transportation Company slid down the cut and tied up at Wilbur's dock. The boat was in charge of Capt. Stuttlebeam of Ludington, who reported the trip from Chicago was made without a mishap. The boat lay in for about an hour and then started on the return trip. The Northern Michigan Transportation Company will this coming season inaugurate a more satisfactory plan in regard to boat service between Chicago and the northern resorts. Charlevoix will have a boat direct from the Windy City every other day, which will facilitate both passenger and freight service considerably.

Pine Lake is still in the throes of the Ice King and bids fair to remain so for at least the rest of the month.

Special for Saturday.

Picnic Hams, per lb. 10c and everything else in our meat line at prices that are right. Hams have never been sold at this low price in Charlevoix. Milton Block's Meat Market, with Mrs. B. W. Miller—Adv. 1611.

Shingle Now Replaces the Old Dope Process

Small Boy Finds Even Smaller Consolation Now in Skipping School—'Spring Fever' Gone.

"Sani'll, what in th' nation smatter with you? I do opine you're comin' down with a spell o' sickness."

"Naw, I ain't, mother. I'm a' right. Honest I am."

"Don't tell me. I ain't raised five of you not to know. It's spring fever, an' I'm going to git some sarsaparilla and some blood herbs this very day."

Remember It!

Do you remember some such conversation as that when you were a boy—or a girl—along about this time of the year? Sure you do, or, as perhaps you say it now, "Shuah-ly."

It was this time of the year that the drug stores began filling the space in their windows between the big red and green bottles (you always did wonder what was in those bottles) with a barrel of bark and licorice root and packages of leaves and brilliant red and blue and yellow banners advising everyone to buy Jones's Herb Tea.

All on Bottle

There was Somelody's Sarsaparilla and Hawkins' Hood Root and a picture of a young man in a terrible condition, sneezing his head off, and another pic-

WILL CONTEST FOR TROPHY CUPS

Northern Michigan Pythian League Contest at Petoskey April 27.

Local Teams, Now Holders of Trophy Cups, Will Make Great Effort to Retain Them.

The annual season of the Northern Michigan Pythian League is to be held in Petoskey, Tuesday, April 27. The league is composed of Knights of Pythias lodges in this city, Petoskey, Central Lake, Bellaire, Traverse City, Manistee, Boyne City, East Jordan, Cadillac, Pellston, Cheboygan and Kalkaska, and fully five hundred members of the order are expected to be present at the meeting.

The business session by the grand lodge officers will be held in the forenoon, and at this time the various items of business will be transacted.

The work in the first degree on a class of candidates will be given in the afternoon at the Temple theatre. The silver trophy of the league is to be the prize for the best team work in the degree, and teams from Charlevoix, Petoskey, Manistee and Traverse City will compete. Charlevoix won the cup last year at the meeting at Manistee, and will make a great effort to retain it. Prizes for individual work will also be given.

The banquet will be held at the Hotel Perry at 6:45 in the evening. Following the banquet the work of the third degree will be given at the theatre. Teams from Charlevoix, Manistee, East Jordan, Traverse City and Petoskey will compete for the honors and the silver cup now held by Pine Lake lodge, No. 122, of this city.

For the past month the local teams have been rehearsing and preparing themselves for the contest, and it is the hope of every Knight of Pythias in our home lodge that the local team will again be winners in the contest.

DIED AT PONTIAC

Samuel J. Lobdell, Former Resident of Charlevoix, Buried Tuesday.

A telegram received Sunday announced the death of Samuel J. Lobdell, for many years a resident of Charlevoix, at the County Hospital in Pontiac, early that morning.

During the earlier day of Charlevoix, Mr. Lobdell was engaged in the meat business in this city, and later ran a cigar store. Later he moved to Pontiac and engaged in the cigar business, returning again, later on to Charlevoix. About twelve years ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never recovered. He was a charter member of Pine Lake Lodge, No. 122, Knights of Pythias.

The remains were taken to his old home at Holly, Mich., for interment.

THIS MAN IS A KICKER

Hollers About Work of Others—Never Known to Do Anything Himself.

Not long ago a man came into this office and stopped his paper because he said it was always printing a lot of things about the same people, and he was sick of it. Now when something goes wrong with the country the government appoints a commission to investigate and find out what is the matter, and the first thing the commission investigates is the man who made the holler to see if the holler was a reasonable holler. So we appointed a commission consisting of ourselves to investigate this man. We just followed the man's career ever since we knew him. The first thing that happened to that man was that he was born, but he had nothing to do with it. However, he was mentioned, although his parents were entitled to the credit. When he was in his early twenties he got married. We mentioned that, including the name of the bride, the preacher, etc.; in fact we mentioned everything but the preacher's fee, which was not worth mentioning. We never mentioned the fact that he ever won any premiums at the county fair, because he never exhibited anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of committees, because he never attended anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of donors, because he never donated as much as a doughnut. We certainly have been treating this man shamefully, but we will agree to run a nice obituary when the time comes.

Auto supplies a n d service station. Goodyear, Firestone and Defiance tires—Benjamin Brown. Adv. 11tf

SEASON OPENS NEXT SATURDAY

Opening Baseball Game for Charlevoix High School.

Boys in Training for Northern Michigan Interscholastic Meet—Sport Notes.

What Charlevoix high school will do on Northern Michigan diamonds this spring can be more easily told after next Saturday, when the locals will open the season. The squad is young and green, but with a real good caliber of so-called baseball "pep" there is no reason for thinking of anything but a winning team.

Sec will be on the job as the leading man on the pitching staff. He has had a couple of years training and should develop into a good mound artist. Parsons will undoubtedly handle the big mit. The other positions are still unsettled and will be until after the game Saturday.

If track athletics blossom as nicely as they are budding, the Charlevoix high will be a runner-up in track affairs in Northern Michigan this season. From eighteen to twenty have been out regularly getting their muscles into shape for the different events and under the direction of Coach Maybee are hoping to establish some recognition. The Northern Michigan interscholastic meet will be held at Petoskey this year, while the local county meet is to be pulled off at Boyne City. There is a possibility of scheduling a dual meet with Harbor Springs previous to these two regular meets. Final arrangements for the county meet are under way and will be announced later.

The ladies of the Baptist church will hold a rummage sale commencing Thursday, April 22nd, till Saturday, inclusive, in the Geiken building, just south of Charlevoix Hotel. Adv. 1611

Special Service.

Sunday evening Rev. Quintin Walker will preach on the Essentials and Non-Essentials of Christian Forms and Beliefs. His text will be "One Faith, One Lord, One Baptism." Come and hear the facts in the light of the Twentieth Century investigation and belief. At the close of the service there will be a public installation of the Epworth League officers.

Notice.

Dr. J. A. Auld has removed his dental rooms to the Hotel Charlevoix, where he is prepared to take care of those in need of his services. Adv. 1611

Ty Cobb Base Ball and Tennis Goods at Benjamin Brown's. Adv. 16tf

STUDENTS USING TOOTH BRUSHES

Proper Care of Teeth Being Taught in Public Schools.

Advertising Stunt Works Wonders Among School Children—Should Be Encouraged.

It is announced with authority that to-day more students in the public schools of Charlevoix are using tooth brushes than ever before. The reason for the occurrence of this alight but very important piece of work every day is that Superintendent Craig some weeks ago commenced a crusade against poor teeth. Results are beginning to show themselves to such an extent that the school authorities consider the effort has not been made in vain.

Early in the year Superintendent Craig received some advertising material from one of the largest tooth paste companies in the country to be used in the schools to instruct along the line of caring for the teeth, but ostensibly to get before teeth cleaners a new brand of paste. The advertising consisted of several charts illustrating the different stages in the development of the different sets of teeth, the effects on the body of poor and unkept teeth and the most efficient way to save them. The paste was fine, but the company, not being a brush-manufacturing concern, failed to send along a couple of hundred implements of this sort. Thinking the time had arrived when the school authorities should take a stand on encouraging clean teeth, the board, through a local store, secured a good brush at a reasonable price to sell at cost to the students. The results were surprising and after another week another order was made.

In the different grades throughout the schools the charts were explained to the children during the opening exercises, one chart being studied in each room and then passed on to the next. There was special emphasis laid on the explanation of the charts and illustrations in the high school. During the week that the charts hung in the high room it is estimated every student read them, some in earnest, others with a jest, but one of the peculiar things about the plan was this latter group were the first ready to make a purchase and start in on a house cleaning.

The school authorities ask no recompense in any way. All they ask—and they have a right to demand it—is for the co-operation of the parents. Clean mouths keep the organisms of the body in working order, keep the brain alert and ready for action and adds much to personal appearance. A boy or girl with unkempt teeth is known to be unequal to the tasks that the boy or girl who uses a tooth brush can easily conquer. So, if you want to raise that mark or leave some chum in the background, scrub all the harder to-morrow morning and every morning.

Many examples could be given which go to prove the above statements and can be found in our own schools, it is said. Their personal appearance has been redeemed and the interest in studies and scholarship increased, all simply through the application of a tooth brush and a few minutes of time. It developed through an advertising scheme and was intended to increase the stock in the coffers, but it is doing our boys and girls a deal more good than the company.

FIRST PUBLIC CONCERT.

High School Orchestra to Furnish Program at Majestic Thursday Night.

The high school orchestra will give their first public concert in connection with the Majestic Theatre Thursday evening. The organization has been together most of the present year and have reached an efficiency of interpretation that is equalled by few. On several different occasions the boys have appeared during the winter months and have made a decided hit. Besides the orchestra numbers, Manager Miles of the theatre has secured some excellent feature films. There will also be several vocal solos and quartette selections on the program Thursday night.

The organization is self-supporting, and for this reason should receive a hearty patronage from the public which it has served on so many occasions. Tickets can be secured from members of the orchestra, or call at the high school.

For automobile tires, Goodyear, Defiance and Firestone tires see Benjamin Brown. Adv. 11tf

HEARD IN CHARLEVOIX

New Bad Backs Have Been Made Strong—Kidney Pills Corrected.

All over Charlevoix you hear it. Doan's Kidney Pills are keeping up the good work. Charlevoix people are telling about it—telling of bad backs made sound again. You can believe the testimony of your own townspeople. They tell it for the benefit of you who are suffering. If your back aches, if you feel lame, sore and miserable, if the kidneys act too frequently or passages are painful, scanty and off color, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has helped so many of your friends and neighbors. Follow this Charlevoix citizen's advice and give Doan's a chance to do the same for you.

Mrs. John Cook, 307 Mason St., Charlevoix, says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine medicine. I have used them at different times for kidney complaint and they have always given me relief. I have procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Ivy Drug Store and I don't hesitate to recommend them."

Price 50 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cook had. Foster-Milburn Company, Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Correspondence

HAYES.

Lela Howe went to Boyne City last Friday.

The gripe patients are about all recovered.

Dulcie Howe spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

W. Armstrong has moved on his own farm near Burgess.

Miss Ivy Lewis returned to Charlevoix last Saturday.

Mrs. Dyer is the name of the tenant on the Hammet farm.

Geo. Cook of Charlevoix spent Sunday with his brother, Orson Cook.

Next week Thursday is Pomona Grange at Maple Grove Grange Hall.

Frank and Earl Sneathen each took a load of potatoes to Charlevoix Monday.

Mr. Ward and family are now living on the Hammet place at Maple Grove.

A good time was had at E. E. Stroud's last Friday evening at the house party.

Jones Lewis took another veal to Danto & Son's last Friday. Also some chickens.

Mrs. Pant, son and daughter took dinner at Wesley Howard's last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sneathen went to Charlevoix in their auto last Saturday.

Floyd Bartholomew, E. E. Stroud and Platt Webster took potatoes to Horton Bay last Wednesday.

H. B. Chew, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Chew, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kirkpatrick of Boyne City spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Platt Webster.

Misses Florence and Esther Lewis of Petoskey called at the home of their uncle and aunt last Sunday. They expect to spend this week with their sister, Violet.

A birthday surprise was given Mrs. Jones Lewis last Wednesday by her friends. It was another one of the good times of which we have had so many this winter.

The best Axle Grease for wagons and Buggies is 4-Brothers. For sale by Benjamin Brown. Adv. 161f.

IRONTON

Mrs. G. MacDonald received quite serious bruises from a fall down the cellar stairs last week.

Neil Kemp is working for Daniel Bush of Hines.

John Nasson purchased a Ford touring car last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price spent the week-end visiting in Charlevoix.

A channel has been cut across the lake but as yet the scow is not running.

A baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ward Saturday last.

John Seiler, who spent the winter in Chicago, returned to his farm for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Datus Dean arrived home from Pennsylvania, Monday, April 19th.

The Y. M. C. A. and Reading circle met with Mr. and Mrs. Will Welch, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Decker, of Marion, moved to Ironton last week.

CHARLEVOIX FOLKS

ASTONISH DRUGGIST

We sell many good medicines, but you are told the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Aleria-ka, is the best we ever sold. Charlevoix folks astonish us daily by telling how QUICKLY Aleria-ka relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation. Many report that A SINGLETREE TONIC relieves these troubles almost IMMEDIATELY. We are glad we are Charlevoix agents for Aleria-ka. 44 A. Heron, or agent.

Mr. Decker will work for Mrs. Adams, taking the place vacated by J. Mitchell. Mr. and Mrs. J. Byers of Central Lake, visited at the home of Louis Brown Saturday and Sunday.

Buy the Ty Cobb line of Base Ball and Tennis Goods of Benjamin Brown. Adv. 161f.

EAST MARION

Wm. Shaw has purchased a car.

Beatrice Guild has been quite sick the past week.

Ida Nowland spent Friday and Saturday at Lakeside Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Saunderson and children spent Sunday at Lakeside Farm.

Mrs. Ben Nowland and daughter, Edith, spent Monday and Tuesday in Petoskey.

Max Stickney arrived Wednesday from Canada with a fine span of horses for Mr. Wooley.

Agnes Cellner has been spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. August Cellner on the Paddock farm.

Leslie Nowland and Mrs. Rose Denison spent the week with their grandmother, Mrs. Cunningham.

Maurice Nowland, Helen Bixby and Clara Nowland spent Wednesday evening with the Misses Guild.

Free—all the air you want for your auto tires. Benjamin Brown. Adv. 161f.

ATWOOD

Such beautiful weather.

New baby boy at Chas. Warners.

Every person is on the "git" now.

The new Atwood Creamery Co. are driving for a new well.

Mrs. Henry Klooster of Holland, Mich., has been visiting her son, Ed, for a few days. She returned home on Tuesday.

John Macey, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. M. C. Genett, on Friday last. Funeral was held on Monday.

Rev. Quinton Walker of Charlevoix, officiating.

School Notes

COUNTY NORMAL.

(Bessie I. Allen.)

We have a very beautiful daffodil adorning our room now.

Ward Genett was absent from school Friday on account of illness.

Ruby Hooker returned to school on Tuesday afternoon, after an absence of a few days on account of illness.

One day last week the class made an excursion to Nicholls' saw mill, and were very much interested in the work carried on there.

The class, with the aid of the training room children, constructed a new hotbed, and have onions, radishes and lettuce planted in it.

Dean Scroggie and Paul Harsha were Normal visitors last Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Scroggie gave us an interesting discussion on the work and athletics at the U. of M. Mr. Harsha gave an equally interesting talk on the college buildings of Ann Arbor.

The Lighthouse Keeper's Wife

She Was Easily Won, but She Turned Out Well

By F. A. MITCHEL

George Tuttle was a lighthouse keeper on the Atlantic coast. The tower was built on a tongue of land, and a few hundred yards back from it a railroad crossed the little peninsula, with a bridge on either side. George could see from the top of the tower in either direction traffic coming and going.

At first the young man he was twenty-five years old—was much pleased with his position. He was fond of reading and had plenty of time for the purpose. The lighthouse library consisted of a thousand volumes, and he was not at all bored. But gradually loneliness came down upon him, and after awhile he discovered that he could stand his isolation no longer. He must give up his position or have a companion.

One day when the wind was on shore and the surface of the ocean was like a lake a girl in a boat pulled around the point so near that George, who was sitting on the rocks, spoke to her.

"You're a very pretty girl," he said. She stopped rowing to hear some more of the same kind of talk.

"I hope you're not offended," George continued. "I'm the lighthouse keeper."

"You're the first person I've spoken to in a week or more. It's awful lonely keeping a lighthouse."

"It must be," said the girl, dipping her oars.

"In the water," she said, "it's not so lonely."

Take a
Reall Orderlie
Tonight
It will act as a laxative in the morning
The Ivy Drug Store.

think I should be highly any more. She had begun to pad away, but at this let the oars rest hilly on the water. "Where do you belong?" pursued George.

"I'm the daughter of the chief of the life saving station."

"Oh! Do you think your father would give you to me?"

"I don't know. You might ask him."

"I can't leave the lighthouse."

"Not in the daytime?"

"Suppose some official should come when I was absent?"

The girl thought awhile, then said that she wouldn't mind staying there while he went to see her father. She didn't think he would object to her marrying, since he had a large family to feed. Then George said he thought he might as well go now as any time. The girl pulled in to the rocks. George helped her out, got into the boat and pulled away. He found her father quite willing to give her away, and after an absence of a couple of hours George came back with the news.

"An inspector has been here," said the girl.

"An inspector? What did you say to him?"

"I said I was going to marry the lighthouse keeper, and he had gone to see my father about it."

"Oh, you did! What did he say to that?"

"He said it was all right."

Then the two sat down on the rocks to get acquainted.

"You see," said George, "when a father is coupled up in a lighthouse he can't get a wife the best way he can."

"What's your name?"

"Madge. What's yours?"

"George. You'll be Mrs. Tuttle."

"Did father ask you for references?"

"No. He said I must be all right or I wouldn't be given the care of a lighthouse."

"Taken that's so."

"When will you marry me?"

"Most any time."

"Can't you bring the parson and the folks up here for the ceremony?"

"Maybe."

"Tomorrow?"

"Oh, that's too soon."

"Well, let me know when you're coming. Never mind that either. I'll be here. I can't go away."

A few days later when the wind was again off shore George saw a boat coming full of old and young persons. It was pulled up at the foot of the lighthouse, and they all got out, then filed out a truck. Madge was among them, dressed in her best. She and George stood on the rocks and a parson made her Mrs. Tuttle. Then a hamper was taken from the boat and a bridal feast, and the party refreshed themselves.

What's that?

The lighthouse keeper and his wife were eating supper. It had been raining for three days, and there was a howling wind.

"A landslide,"

The pair listened, but could hear nothing further except the gusts of wind and the waves beating against the tower.

"If that's a landslide it's probably over the railroad at the cut beyond the light. I've often wondered that it did not give way even in dry weather."

"The train," said Madge, "that come down about 9 o'clock will strike it. It's this side the cut the engineer won't see it."

"That would wreck a trainload of people."

George dare not leave the lighthouse and Madge concluded that she must go to the scene of the trouble and do what might be necessary in the case.

She put on her wraps while George lighted a lantern and handed it to her as she went out, picking up a box of matches at the same time and thrusting them into her hand.

Madge made her way to the railroad track, then, turning eastward, soon struck the bridge across the light.

It was really nothing better than trestle work, though very short, being no more than 100 feet in length. To cross it on a dark night in a howling wind requiring nerve.

"Lost the wind should blow her off the bridge she got down on her hands and knees and crawled over to the other end."

George from the tower could see the dim light of the lantern moving slowly and knew by its quicker motion when it had passed the bridge.

Then suddenly the light went out. At the same time he saw the strongest light of a locomotive some eight miles away.

Madge had fallen into a cattle guard and her lantern had gone out with her. She was only slightly injured and climbed out. She was near the higher end of the cut and pushed on until she stood on earth and stone.

THE EUROPEAN WAR

IN BIBLE PROPHECY.

Undreamed of passions have burst forth, devouring the lands that patient hands have beautified and made fertile, and centuries have stocked with art treasures. To the entire world the war has come as a complete surprise because they have not read our book (60 pages—cloth) telling that just such conditions would exist, only to be followed by the still greater devastation of anarchy. The first edition came from the press in 1897.

Of water interest and importance is the promise of better things in store for the earth, when the wrath of nations has run its course. Send thirty-four cents in stamps with this coupon to cover freight to The Temple, No. 24 W. 42d St., New York City, and receive a copy promptly.

that covered the track. The obstacle was not wide, but quite enough to wreck a train! She ran on a little farther till she could see through the cut. Then she set about to relight her lantern.

Opening the box George had given her, she found within it only three matches. She lighted one, but before she could put it to the wick of the lamp the wind blew it out. She lighted another with the same result. Then she was horror-stricken on feeling in the box to find that but one match was left.

A trainload of people dependent on one match! At the same moment Madge heard the whistle of the coming train.

It did not take her long to realize that the lives of these persons depended not on the match, but on her coolness and ingenuity in transmitting its flame to her lantern. Kneeling on a pile, she tore cotton strips from her finest underclothing. Then she covered the lantern with the skirt of her dress, putting the end of the strips to the wick. Then, risking the flame coming out, she lighted the match and tucked it to one of the strips. The strip caught the flame, but the wind, which could not be entirely excluded, blew on the match. Other strips caught, and the lantern was lighted.

George Tuttle, watching the place where his wife should be, saw the flashes of the first two matches that had been lighted. Then suddenly to see a broader light. The front of his wife's dress had caught fire. Madge grabbed it in her two hands, and it appeared to be quenched. George leaned a sigh of relief, when he saw a light swinging to and fro. Then there was the sound of putting on brakes on the coming headlight stopped a few rods from the lantern.

It required an hour to remove the obstruction on the track, at the end of which time Madge was carried on the train to the point where the track passed near her home. There she was put off and in a few minutes was caught in the arms of her husband.

As soon as she was released she laid on him a handkerchief which she held by the four corners, full of money collected from the passengers whose lives she had saved.

The next day an officer of the railroad called at the lighthouse to see the woman who had saved many lives and many thousands of dollars for the company. He had a check with him for $10,000 into which he inserted her name. Nor was this all. The railroad company took her husband into its service and promoted him as fast as he learned his duties.

George Tuttle when he hears of long courtships and elaborate preparations for marriage sneers at them. "Do you suppose," he says, "I could have got a better wife by all that fuss? And, as for the divorces, there are more of them in proportion among the rich."

Make Your Future Bright

You can make your future bright by saving a part of your earnings. Do not depend upon luck to provide for old age. Begin at once to establish a growing Savings Account. It is not so much the amount that you start with that counts, as the regularity with which you make additional deposits.

We invite Savings Accounts in any amount. 4 per cent interest paid on Certificates of Deposit and Savings Book Accounts.

The Charlevoix State Savings Bank

Charlevoix, Michigan

Resources $250,000.00

J. L. Crane, President W. J. Rachow, Cashier

Archie Livingston, Ass't. Cashier

H. S. Harsha, Vice President

Bread Like Mother Used to Make---

FRIENDS, we want you to try our bread. You'll say with us that it is certainly good. We bake everything the same way. Our bread, cakes, pies, etc., are superior. Pure baked goods, especially bread makes the children healthy and happy. Phone in your orders—we will do the rest. If you are not a user of our bread, try a loaf.

PROVOST & LLOYD

Successor to Peter Smith Phone 44

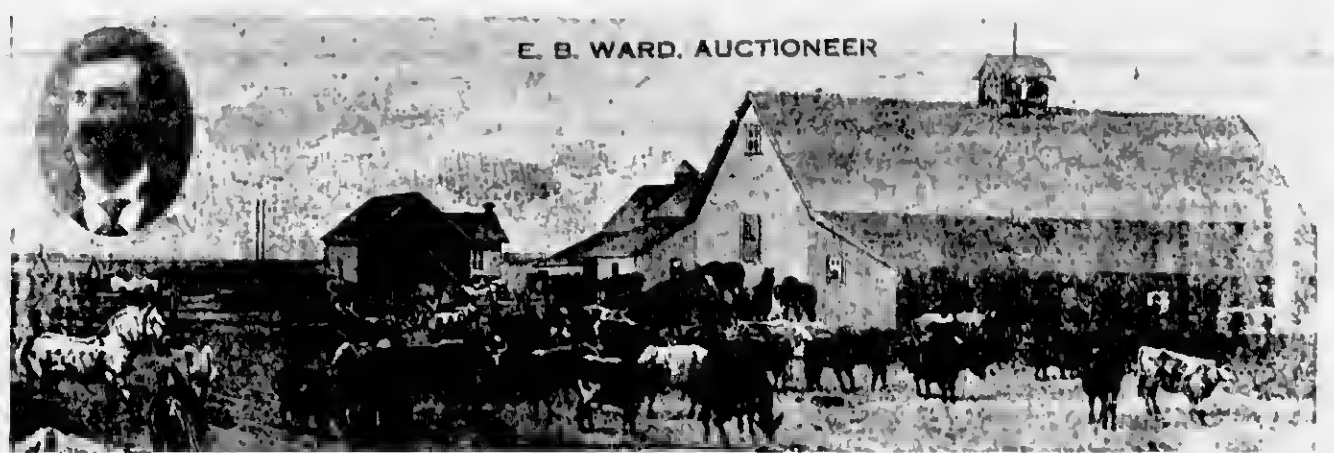

WE ARE PRINTERS OF
FIRST-CLASS PRINTING SUPPLIES

AUCTION SALE

Having sold my farm, the undersigned will sell at Public Auction, three miles south of Charlevoix, on the Ironton road, on

TUESDAY, APRIL 27

Commencing at one o'clock sharp the following described property to-wit:

E. B. WARD, AUCTIONEER

Bay mare, wt 1100, 7 yrs old
Black mare, 900, 11 yrs old
Cow, 5 yrs old, fresh in May
Cow, part Jersey, 2 yrs old, fresh 7 weeks ago
Yearling heifer
Set double work harness, nearly new Single harness
Wagon box and gravel box
Set heavy sleighs and rack
McCormick moving machine
Cycle grinder
Spring-tooth Cultivator
Spike-tooth drag
Stone boat and float
Cutting box
Grind stone
Corn planter
40 lbs clover seed
Load good oat and wheat straw
Load good cow hay
Good range, used 4 months
Good heating stove, used 4 months

Three log chains
Garden rake
Two corn cutters
Two cross-cut saws
Two axes
Good fish spear
25 bushels oats
300 lbs ground corn and oats
25 bushels seed potatoes
8 bushels early seed potatoes
10 bushels ear corn
2 bushels extra good seed corn
Load buckwheat straw
Small load lumber and 2 x 4s
4 dozen fruit cans
5 gallon barrel churn
7 milk crocks and 6 butter crocks
About 8 cord block wood
About half barrel salt
About 100 lbs chicken feed
Fork, hoes, rakes, shovels, and other small tools

TERMS OF SALE

All sums of $10.00 or under cash; all sums over $10.00 seven months time on good, approved unendorsed bankable paper, bearing 7 per cent interest, payable at Charlevoix State Savings Bank. Five per cent off for cash on all sums over $10.00. No goods to be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

EMERICH OLACK, Prop.

W. J. RACHOW, Clerk

E. B. WARD, Auctioneer

Call Us At Once

Secure the use of the BEST Suction Cleaner Made. Get your orders in early as your Bisell Cleaner will be busy. Satisfaction Guaranteed. A good time now to have your Electric Equipment, repaired and changes made.

Yours for service
F. S. Bettles
214 Bridge Street

PATENTS

Trade marks and copyrights obtained or secured. Sent mail, sketches or photos and description for FREE SEARCH and report on patentability. Bank references.

PATENTS BUILT FORTUNES
for you. Free booklet tells how, what to invent and save you money. Write today.

D. SWIFT & CO.
PATENT LAWYERS,
303 Seventh St., Washington, D. C.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THE DIAMOND BRAND.
Ladies! Ask your Druggist for Chichester's Diamond Brand Pills in Red and Gold Metallic Boxes, sealed with Blue Ribbons. Take no other. Buy of your Druggist, or by Mail, 25 CENTS PER BOX. SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Business Cards

ROBERT G. MADILL
GENERAL CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER
Estimates Furnished
Phone 213. Office in County Bank Building.
Res. Phone 333 CHARLEVOIX

DR. A. F. MCGREEVEY
VETERINARY PHYSICIAN
AND SURGEON
Graduate of Grand Rapids Veterinary College. Office at 104 Antrim Street.
Phone 12 CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

A. L. FITCH
Attorney at Law
Postoffice Block CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

LISLE SHANAHAN
Attorney at Law
Bank Block CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

R. L. LEWIS
Attorney at Law
Office in New Priest Building
Telephone No. 108 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

J. MILO RATON
Law, Real Estate and Investments
Collections Established 1875

DR. J. A. AULO
Dentist
Office in VanPelt Building
Over Levison's Store
Phone 125 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

D. C. NETTLETON
Complete Abstracts
of Charlevoix County
Twenty years Experience.
Maps and Plats on Short Notice
VANPELT PLACE CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

R. H. ARMSTRONG
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention given to diseases of the EYE, EAR, NOSE and THROAT
Office in new Priest Building
Telephone No. 25 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

DR. C. A. MONTAGUE
Physician and Surgeon
Special attention to diseases of women and children. All calls given prompt attention.
Office in Bank Block
Telephone No. 108 CHARLEVOIX, MICH.

Describing Her.
"Homely, is she?"
"My dear girl, she's so homely that amateur photographers flatter her."

ZUDORA

A Great Mystic Story by Harold McGrath

Copyright, 1914, by Harold McGrath

SYNOPSIS.

Zudora is left an orphan at an early age. Her father is killed in a gold mine. The fortune from the mine, which grows to be worth $200,000, are left in the guardianship of Frank Keene, Zudora's mother's brother, who has seduced himself up as a Hindu mystic and is known as Hassam Ali. He decides that Zudora must die before she can have a chance to come into possession of her money, so that it may be left to him, the next of kin. Hassam Ali sees an obstacle to his scheme in the person of John Storm, a young lawyer, for whom Zudora has taken a fancy, and he commands the girl to put the man out of her mind. Zudora insists that if she cannot marry Storm she will marry no one.

"Well, well," says Hassam Ali, "solve my next twenty cases and you can marry him; fail in a single case and you must renounce him."

Zudora unravels a mystery and wins her first case—a case in which John Storm is saved from being convicted of a murder instigated by Hassam Ali himself. Upon Zudora and Hassam Ali visit Nabok Shan's house, where sleep overcomes every one whenever Nabok attempts to marry a princess. Storm, seeking Zudora, is made a prisoner. Zudora, following Nabok Shan, restores the princess to her original lover and saves Storm from death.

A maker of diamonds tells Hassam Ali his secret. Storm informs Zudora that his life is being attempted frequently. Storm suspects Hassam Ali. Storm is arrested for stealing the diamond maker's gems, but Zudora discovers the real thieves—a pair of mice.

The negro help employed on Storm's father's farm are fleeing because a great skeleton hand appears at night upon a hill near by. Storm is baffled in his investigation, but Zudora learns that her uncle has employed Jimmy Bolton, a half-witted man, thus to annoy Storm's parents. Zudora finds Bolton operating a big magic lantern and is attacked by him. Storm appears and saves her.

Hassam Ali asks Zudora to find a gem lost by two mysterious old men. Zudora gets a photograph of the gem and it burns in her hand. An old house is mined by Hassam Ali and the old men. Storm and Zudora are lured there and narrowly escape destruction when the house blows up. John McWinter, endeavoring to trap and kill George Smith, is killed himself, and Smith is charged with murder. Hassam Ali conspires to have John Storm meet the same fate as McWinter, and he and Storm are overcome by powerful fumes. Zudora saves them, proves that McWinter's own dog trapped and killed him and saves Smith from a band of lynchers.

An inventor blows up a submarine with a powerful heat ray which he sends through water. Hassam Ali sends Zudora to a photographer directly beneath the inventor's laboratory and orders the inventor to kill her. Zudora gets a warning, and her life is saved. The heat ray machine is destroyed, and the photographer, after a quarrel with Hassam Ali, is found dead in the river.

Wu Chang prevents Zudora's elopement with John Storm by hypnotizing her, and he and Hassam Ali attempt to smuggle her out of the country. This plot is frustrated by Storm.

Baird, Hassam Ali's double, falls in love with Zudora. Baird and Mme. Du Val kidnap Zudora and the Van Wick child. Storm rescues them, and Hassam Ali dies.

With Hassam Ali dead Zudora is released of her pledge to solve twenty cases. She confronts, however, the greatest mystery of all, which is the mystery of her own life, and the ambition to secure the vast fortune of $200,000 left to her. This great photo-serial is being shown in the leading moving picture theaters by the Thanhouser Film Corporation. Among those participating are Marguerite Snow, Mary Elizabeth Forbes, James Cruze, in the new role of reporter-horn, Sidney Bracey and Frank Farrington.

On looking through her uncle's papers Zudora finds that her father left her an interest in a diamond mine, and Storm and Baird both lend assistance in trying to regain for her possession of this estate which is being appropriated by rogues under the leadership of Mme. Du Val. They plan to frighten Zudora so that she will run away.

CHAPTER XII.

Bag of Diamonds.
TROUBLES never come singly, is a saying as old as the hills. One morning came the bolt from the blue. The gold mine, with its millions, was no more. A terrible landslide had whiped it out of existence, at the least buried it under thousands of feet of rock and rubble. On top of this figuratively the trustees had absconded with the reserve, and Zudora was at the beginning of things again. There was, then, nothing but this diamond mine, of which she knew nothing except that it existed and that some one else was profiting by its output.

Detective Hunt had agencies throughout the world on the lookout for a mine registered under the name of

"I was afraid I might lose you."

Trainor, but as yet nothing had turned up. Hunt was in his office one day busy with clippings about diamond news when a name struck his eye: "A rich strike at the Zudora in South Africa. Owners are highly enthusiastic." Hunt snatched up his hat and hurried off to John Storm's office. Here was something tangible.

"That's Trainor's mine, I'll wager my hat," said the detective jubilantly. "Ever see such luck? If I hadn't been idling, looking over the news of the day on diamonds just to see what might be tried in the amagging line we might have gone on until the end of time before we'd have landed within a thousand miles of the place. Your sweetheart will be rich one of these days, Storm. Did you know that every penny of the western gold mine has gone to the Orient with absconding trustees?"

"What are you talking about?" demanded John. "Why, the Zudora gold mine, rated among the richest in the world, kept hidden from Zudora by her uncle for years."

Storm was dumfounded. "And she never told me the slightest word about it?"

"For fear old Hassam Ali would stick a knife into your back, my boy."

"I understand now! That devil was giving Zudora these cases to lure her to her death. Good heavens! And that girl kept her secret! But who controls this diamond mine? It is illegally done. How are we to get at it?"

"Cable the superintendent that you are the attorney for the rightful owner of the mine and demand a full inventory of the property and its output."

"A bully idea! And now I'll take this whopping good news to the girl herself. She's all the time talking about the evil star, but this looks as if it were on the wane. Luck! I should rather say it was luck!"

Zudora was overjoyed when she learned that the mine itself had been discovered. Gently Storm chided her in regard to the gold.

"I did not tell you because I did not want you involved, John. And, more than that, I was afraid I might lose you."

"Lose me?"

"Yes. I was afraid that so much money would frighten you away."

Storm laughed. "The only way you can frighten me is to tell me that you don't love me."

"Well, then, I shall never be able to frighten you," she smiled back at him.

"And now," said Storm, "I'm off to send that cable before those crooks can get the benefit of the find. Oh, we'll come out on top. You wait."

"I'm going to John. I'm going to wait until there are no more clouds anywhere. Then I'll marry you."

"That's a bargain!"

"A real bargain. Goodbye, and may your cable bring good luck to us all."

There appeared a story in one of the Sunday newspapers about the Zudora mine. The mine had been paying, but not largely. The description of the mine was well done. One saw the Kallars in breech cloths digging in the bluish clay, the white men on guard to make sure that none of the natives hid a stone. Suddenly one blazing hot afternoon one of the Kallars came running over to the nearest watcher. He exhibited a stone of several carats, a real find. The watcher placed it in a bag suspended from his neck and gave the signal to quit work for the day. The Kallars dropped their tools and fled away under escort of the watchers. They followed a little sketch of how a endowed Kallars was caught with a gem hidden in his ear. The African was promptly arrested and marched off to jail.

Mme. Du Val Simply Tolerated Him.

Henry Howard, the superintendent, was seated at his desk when the head watcher came in with the find. It weighed three carats and was of the purest white. A stone of this quality meant more. Howard immediately cabled the supposed owners. The next day the strike traveled up and down the region.

Bruce, the smuggler himself, received the cable, and he hastened away to acquaint Mme. Du Val with what had happened. Mme. Du Val and several others were in the Grecian saloon when he arrived through the secret passage. He was greeted enthusiastically. Mme. Du Val looked extremely beautiful to him at that moment. There were times when he wished his friend Radcliffe in the nether regions. The woman puzzled him. She was rich. Her home was one of the most beautiful in or about New York, yet she played a crooked game. She was evidently one of those women who played the game for the sport of it, for the blind hazard, the excitement. The morals of her engagements never bothered her. He had watched Radcliffe for some time and gathered no little satisfaction from the fact that Mme. Du Val tolerated him because he was a shrewd schemer, brave and bold.

"Well, what's to be done?" inquired Radcliffe.

"Send for Howard to bring the diamonds here. We will have to see that man personally. That story in the newspapers is the devil to pay. The girl is sure to see. If not she, Storm. It's going to be a big game now, instead of a little one," Bruce declared.

"All the more excitement in pulling the wool over the eyes of the law. This man Howard may be an honest man," said Madame.

"In that case, good night to Mr. Howard, and we'll put a man in his place who will not bother us with questions so long as he gets his rake-off," said Radcliffe.

When Harry Howard received the cable directing him to bring the month's find to New York he frowned. There was another cable at hand, and this one astonished him greatly upon its arrival. For years he had been sending the small but valuable output to those he believed the rightful owner, and here was a contestant, and this contestant seemed to be a legitimate one. It was a misstep that disturbed him greatly.

Baird Neatly Fished the Valise From Under the Table.

There had always been something mysterious about the present owners. He had never seen any one of them, only their accredited agent, who invariably presented a lettered heart when he came to claim the diamonds. And now they wanted him in New York. Was there any sinister purpose behind this command? Henry Howard was an honest man, and before many weeks he was going to pay for his home.

He sent two embelgrams, one to the present company and one to John Storm. The first read, "Will come to New York." The second read, "Arrive New York 10th. Will give accounting of Zudora mine." Then he booked his passage and sailed from Cape Town to Liverpool.

Storm was elated over his cable. He informed Zudora, and they visited Detective Hunt. And while they and Hunt were talking over the affair Baird came in, looking rather dejected and carrying a cane. At first he had had some difficulty in looking Storm or Zudora in the eyes, remembering how at the instigation of the real Hassam Ali he had attempted the young lawyer's life. But those days he was able to look with serenity into the eyes of all mankind.

"Hello, Baird," cried Hunt. "You're just the man I want for a stunt."

"I'm always ready for that."

Zudora looked at him gratefully. Somehow his eyes always puzzled her. It always seemed that somewhere she had known these eyes intimately. The four of them bled the photo together and

This Man Wants a Majestic Range

Is through with buying of Chicago Mail Order Houses. His experience has been the same as many others who have been stung in the same manner. Read what he says about the Majestic.

Charlevoix, Mich., March 20, 1915.

Majestic Stove Co.
St. Louis, Missouri

Dear Sir:

Send me the price list of the Majestic Ranges and the name of the firm who handles them in Charlevoix county.

I moved to Charlevoix the first of March and bought a cast range from Montgomery Ward.

But the range is not very satisfactory so I will have to dispose of it to someone, and would like to get a Majestic.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
AXEL TULANE.

Charlevoix, R. F. D. No. 3.

This man, along with hundreds of others has come to the conclusion that mail order ranges are no good, and pledges his faith in the Majestic. He knew the Majestic, and for this reason, wants to buy another. This is the sentiment expressed by 99 out of a hundred Majestic users. It is the stove that gives universal satisfaction, and the one you should buy when replacing the old, worn out range you are now using. Call at our store and see them.

F. S. Blanchard Est.

Forrest Bartholomew, Administrator.

For Job Printing---Try us

Charlevoix Wage Earners

You don't want to always be wage earners, do you?

No, you want to employ wage earners. That means you will need capital. How will you get it?

Not by a streak of luck or a stroke of fortune, but by your own well considered effort. Join the

"WEEKLY SAVERS"

Let the saving habit have a chance to grow. Save your business capital a little at a time. Deserve success and it will come to you.

You can deposit $1.00, $2.00, upward.

The Old Reliable.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BANK

John Nicholls Harry Nicholls A. Buttars A. F. Bridge
Co-Partners
Home For Savings

Subscribe For The Courier

Jack London, famous author of "The Sea Wolf" to be shown at the Majestic Theatre, Monday evening, April 26

(Continued on page 6.)

Spring House Cleaning

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Going to Paper, Paint or Kalsomine? Which-ever it may be, we can furnish the material.

For a Flat Wall Paint VELUMINA is the finest paint made. It covers more surface, doing a good job, than any other Flat Wall Paint on the market. Try it, and if used according to directions, and is not satisfactory, it costs you nothing. Isn't that FAIR?

HYGIENIC KALSOMINE is so well known that it needs no praise from us. It has sung its own praise among our customers for the past four or five years.

Our stock of WALL PAPER is very complete and to those who intend to paper their walls, we offer the best at the Lowest Price.

S. M. SEE & SONS

The Reliable Housefurnishers

The Charlevoix Courier

Issued Every Wednesday at
CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

DuBOIS & USHER, Proprietors

A. J. USHER, Editor and Business Manager
Courier Building VanPelt Place

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One copy, one year.....$1.50
One copy, six months......75
One copy, three months......40

Advertising Rates.

For advertising rates apply for schedule. Notices of church or lodge socials and entertainments, where admission is charged, regular advertising rates. Ordinary poetry, regular rates. Card of thanks, 25 cents.

Entered at Charlevoix Postoffice as second class matter.

The day of reckoning has come. The legislative history of two years of Democratic rule was completed March 4th. Those two years have been marked by one of the most active periods of law making this country has ever seen. With a house ready and able to execute his decrees down to the last word, and with a working majority in the senate, President Wilson took the oath of office March 4, 1913. With prophetic eagerness he summoned congress in extra session a month later. With the exception of six weeks of respite last fall, the party machinery has been in operation ever since, grinding out experimental laws that affect every phase of our social and commercial life.

What does a study of that record show?

It discloses the fact that during that time the Democratic congress has enacted and the Democratic president has signed more crude, imperfect and nugatory laws than ever were written during the same length of time by any American congress. It furnishes an indictment of haste and lack of legislative intelligence that is bound to be humiliating to the party responsible.

That there has been a tremendous quantity of legislation cannot be denied. More than four hundred public laws have been placed upon the statute books by the Democrats since they came into power. They are designated "public" because they appropriate money for general purposes or affect general law. In addition to these, hundreds of private bills have been passed.

Those who have closely observed the methods of legislation used by the Democratic majority are not surprised at the faulty results. The present administration has been admittedly notable, even notorious, for its steam roller short cuts in enacting laws. Every important bill passed has been put through with small consideration beyond that of party expedience. As soon as the president proposed a law then the caucus approved it, the majority rushed it through committees and back to the president for his signature, all with as little debate as possible and under ironclad special rules that permitted no chance for intelligent consideration or amendment.

It is conceivable that a few bills might be put through a legislative body in this way and emerge in perfect form. But to use such methods indiscriminately, as the Democratic congress has done, is practically to insure the enactment of laws which future congresses must either repeal or spend many weeks to amend. This is the task which Democratic haste and lustful use of a powerful majority has created for future congresses.

Specific hexan files of blundering will not be enumerated in this article. It is enough at present to make the general statement that the Democratic party has "sown a wind of legislation and is reaping a whirlwind of mistakes." Future articles will appear that will show in detail the various instances of blundering, careless drafting of bills that finally went on the statute books without correction.

JAPAN does not hesitate to remind the nations with whom she is politically allied that the emperor has some plans of his own for the future.

SOMEBODY must have been making a great deal of money by selling habit-forming drugs before the new federal law went into effect.

EVEN nt that the Mexican revolution has not yet lasted as long as did the revolution in which the late George Washington figured.

AND summer is coming along just in time to furnish some more of those stories about the largest fish getting away.

ONE has small respect for those fad-bound people who would rather have a cold than be out of the fashion.

NOTHING worries a liar like having to tell the truth and stick to it.

All-Aboard
Chestnut
Specials

A dear old gentleman in Petoskey went to the station the other day to see his daughter off on a journey. Securing her a seat, he passed out of the car and went around to the car window to say a last parting word. While he was leaving the car his daughter crossed, the aisle to speak to a friend and at the same time a prim old maid took the seat and moved up to the window. Unaware of the change, the old gentleman hurriedly put his head up to the window and said: "One more kiss, pet." In an instant the point of a cotton umbrella was thrust from the window, followed by the wrathful injunction: "Seat, you gray-headed wretch!"

Papa Jones was becoming impatient at the lateness of the hour when he remarked: "I can't see why that young fellow who is calling on Minnie hasn't sense enough to go home. Here it is close to midnight." The dear little brother of the girl just then came in and heard his father's remark and ventured some light on the subject by saying: "He can't go, father; sister's sitting on him!" Of course; how could he go?

An old Scotch gentleman had to dismiss his gardener for dishonesty, yet, for the sake of the man's wife and family, he gave him a character, framing it this way: "I hereby certify that A. B. has been my gardener for more than two years and that during that time he got more out of my garden than any other man I ever employed."

A well-preserved old maid while being helped into an automobile in Boyne City the other day remarked to the driver: "I hope you will not run away with me." The driver blushed a little as he hastened to reply: "Oh, no, mum. I'm married."

Sunday Special: Lamphier's Ice Cream, Strawberry flavor, 25 cents per quart at Yellaw's Confectionery Store. Adv. 1617

Lanway-Murray.

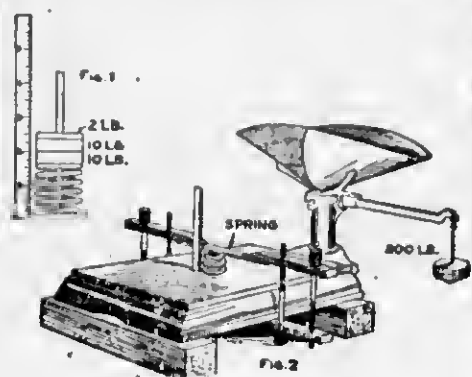

Married, at the Methodist parsonage, by the Rev. Quentin Walker, Monday, April 19th, Mr. Ernest P. Lanway and Miss Della Murray, both of East Jordan. Mr. Lanway is a prosperous young farmer. Miss Murray is a good housekeeper, with a host of friends. They will live in East Jordan.

SPRING-TESTING DEVICE.

Accurate Method of Determining Capacity of Helical Springs.

Two very simple yet accurate methods of testing helical springs are illustrated which should be of great value to a garage owner or automobile repair man where the accurate testing of a valve spring, for instance, is of vital importance. The testing of a spring consists of measuring the pressure it exerts when compressed to a certain length. For instance, a helical spring of six inches free length exerts a pressure of 100 pounds when it is compressed to a three inch length.

The method shown in Fig. 1 is only applicable to light springs of from fifteen to thirty pounds capacity. It consists essentially of a circular flat plate to which is riveted a vertical rod. The spring to be tested is placed on the plate and weights are applied, as shown. Let it be assumed that the spring is to register twenty-two pounds when compressed to one and five-eighths inch. If the spring is correctly made of the right size wire and wound to the correct pitch the length will be one and five-eighths inch when twenty-two pounds is placed on it.

METHOD OF TESTING SPRINGS.

Where it is necessary to measure springs of eighty pounds capacity and upward the foregoing method cannot be used, as it is impossible to apply enough weights for the test. For example, a spring having a free length of four inches should register 200 pounds when compressed to two inches in length. Place it on the platform of an ordinary scales and lay a strip of steel of sufficient size across its top, as shown. Arrange two carpenter's clamps to hold the spring to the scale platform, as shown, but in drawing the clamp jaws together do not compress the spring in the least. A weight representing 200 pounds is now placed on the beam end, and the clamps are drawn in until the scales register the 200 pounds. The spring is measured, and if the length is two inches it is perfect.

New Fireproofing Material.
A new heat resisting and thermal insulating material, mentioned in the Electrical World, can be used for fireproofing buildings and preventing heat conduction through walls. When subjected to a flame having a temperature of 1,700 degrees F. this material has been shown to char only slightly where the flame was applied and to be unaffected elsewhere. After a temperature of 1,743 degrees F. had been applied to one face of a block twelve inches square and 2.5 inches thick for forty minutes it was found that the temperature on the opposite face had increased only 23 degrees. Alternate boiling, freezing and thawing do not seem to cause warping, cracking or other defects. The product is declared to cost not much more than hard wood and is furnished in rough or smooth surfaced slabs which can take varnish or stain or can be grained to imitate wood.

To Find the Missing Cylinder.
The first thing to do in every instance of mistaking is to find out which cylinder is at fault, and there are several ways of doing this. The simplest method is to open the compression taps one at a time and accelerate the engine, when spurts of flame will be emitted from each one except that of the defective cylinder. If there are no taps take off three of the plug wires and find out by these means which cylinder will not drive the motor. If this is not convenient take a screwdriver and connect the terminal of each plug in turn to the cylinder, and it will be noticed that the "shorting" of one of the plugs has no effect upon the running of the engine. There you have the culprit.

An Ornament to Paris.
The Place de la Concorde in Paris is one of the most beautiful places of its kind in the world. It was not until 1753 that the grounds were first adorned by the erection of an equestrian statue of Louis XV. and Gabriel, the architect, constructed the balustrades and pavilions that are seen today. The present design, however, was made by Hittorf in 1834. In 1792 the statue of the king was removed by the populace, and the square by some known as the Place de la Revolution. During the bloody period the guillotine was placed here, and Louis XVI. was executed on Jan. 21, 1793, and in the following October the unfortunate Marie Antoinette shared a like fate.

Gas and the Linelight.
Gas was first used for lighting New York streets in 1825, and at this time Dr. Edmund Bevan of the Linelight.

Get in on the new Clubbing Office. Read adv. on page 7.

You'll Love "DOVE" Under-muslins

For their beauty of style, their beauty of material, their dainty trimmings, their fit—you will love the "DOVE". And their value for the money, their durability, the way they retain their freshness—these MUST please you. Ask for

DOVE UNDER-MUSLINS

Buy your muslin underwear now by name—instead of by guess. If you will look for the "Dove" label you can be sure of unchanging quality—as with other KNOWN brands of merchandise. Don't merely say, "I want under-muslins," say, "I want 'DOVE' Under-muslins." And

See the newest styles in

DOVE

Under-muslins

"You will Love the Dove"

We have the very latest ideas in all under-muslin garments

LOOK FOR THE DOVE

It is on the neat little label of "Dove" Night Gowns, Under-skirts, Combinations, Corset Covers, Drawers, Chemises, Princess Slips, "Tripelopes," etc. All styles.

GO TO — Levinson's — Get the Habit

Mr. Farmer

Are You Ready For Your Spring Work?

Did a Spring ever come when you did not need a new Plow, Drag, Disc Harrow, Cultivator or other Farm Tools? New Farm Implements are needed every spring and I want to call your attention to the line I carry.

McCormick and Ohio Rake Co's. Disc and Spring-tooth Harrows and Pivot Axle Riding Cultivators

Parker, Syracuse, Bryan and LeRoy Plows, Empire Grain Drills and other Farm Tools.

I also have the agency for the Kraus Cultivator, considered to be one of the best on the market. If there is anything you want, and I do not happen to have it in stock, I will get it for you. You cannot get better prices than I will give you. When you come to town, call and see me and we will talk about your needs.

Farm Implements Charles J. Zeitler With Benj. Brown

Mason's Departm't Store

CASH BARGAINS FOR

APRIL 22, 23, 24

25 lbs Producer Flour	95c	25 lbs American Eagle Flour	95c
98 lbs. Producer Flour	$3.75	49 lbs American Eagle Flour	$1.90
Bbl Producer Flour	$7.50	25 lbs Argo Flour	95c
Producer Flour is made from the best quality Spring Wheat, in the best up-to-date mill in the United States.		25 lbs Sun Kist Flour	95c
90 to 95 lbs. Bulk Flour	$1.75 sk	14 lbs pail Peanut Butter	$1.45
Pienie Hams, per pound	11c	60 lbs Lard Compound	$5.85
Bacon, per pound	16c	60 lbs Vegetable Compound	$5.85
2 lbs. Peanut Butter	25c	60 lbs Lard	$7.20
A large jar Olives	25c	Two 15c pkgs Wheatling (Same as Cream of Wheat)	25c
1 dozen Clothes Pins	1c	20c pkg Light House Codfish	15c
2 large boxes Toothpicks	5c	15c pkg Imperial Fish	10c
3 boxes 5c Ohio Matches	10c	Very large Grape Fruit	.6c
JUNG'S OUTING SHOES		7 bars Oakleaf Soap	25c
No. 9240 Little Gents	$1.50	7 bars Lennox Soap	25c
No. 5112 Youths	$1.65	7 bars St. Claus Soap	25c
No. 4112 Boys	$1.75	7 bars Swift's Pride Soap	25c
No. 3113 Men's	$2.00	6 bars Snowberry Soap	25c
		6 bars Pumo Soap	25c
		4 bars Queen Roscs	25c
		4 bars Pure Olive Soap	25c
		8 pkgs 5c Juicy Fruit Tobacco	25c
		25c pkg Cockage Tobacco	19c
		3 plugs Clipper Tobacco	25c

Postmaster at Traverse City.

